SHIPYARD MAN WANTED

Arrested for Big Burglaries in Lynn

Boston papers report the arrest Saturday afternoon in Park Square, Boston, by Inspectors Shields, Conway and Hart of Eric Lundbald of 23 Branch street, West Quincy, whom they allege is a second-story and porch climbing burglar, and who has been terrorizing the exclusive residential section of Lynn during the past few months.

Jewelry to the value of $3000 stolen from residents at Lynn was recovered by the police shortly after Lundbald's arrest, and when confronted with the evidence Lundbald is said to have made a confession.

In his arrest, the police believe they have apprehended a remarkable burglar. He was released from the State prison last July after serving three years for a similar offence committed in Worcester, where he secured jewelry to the value of $4000. When questioned by the police, Lundbald is alleged to have told the police they would be wasting their time if they tried to ascertain if he had robbed any residence in Boston for he claimed that he had only done two jobs, both of which were in Lynn.

In his confession he said that when discharged from State prison he made up his mind to lead a good life and suport his wife and one child. He moved to Quincy and secured employment at the Fore River shipyard as a ship carpenter. Work was a little quiet and being of an inquisitive turn of mind he had used his spare time in looking about the plant. The officers at the shipyard he says, became suspicious of him, and he was watched and later discharged, because he was believed to be a spy of some foreign government. Unable to obtain employment, he became discouraged and rather than see his wife and child suffer he re-entered his old profession as a house breaker.

His arrest was due to the fact that although being watched by the Boston Inspectors as a suspicious person; it was not until the inspectors saw a hook attached to a rope ladder some twenty feet long, which he carried in a bundle under his arm that he was arrested. The hook protruded as he passed through Park Square and attracted the attention of the inspectors who apprehended him and took him to headquarters.

When searched jewelry to the value of $2000 was found on his person, consisting of diamond brooches, ladies watch pins, sapphires and other valuable pieces, which it is alleged was stolen from the home of A. M. Creighton at Lynn, Oct. 29. Also a diamond taken from a Masonic charm at the home of James Grover at Lynn, Oct. 8.

Lundbald also told the officers that he had sold a number of pieces of jewelry which they later recovered.

SUCCESSFUL FAIR CLOSED

The three days fair of Lodge Skandia, Vasa Orden, in Electa and Protection halls closed Saturday evening with an attendance that taxed the capacity of the upper floor of the Johnson building. Those present included Boston, Cambridge, Malden, Braintree and Weymouth people.

Approximately 100 articles, the gifts of members and others interested in the welfare of the society were distributed through popularity contests. The rivalry in some of the races was close.

The large stock of articles placed on the tables to be sold was very much depleted in the closing hours, and the few left were sold at auction. A short musical program was given by members and dancing was enjoyed in Protection hall. Refreshments were served in the committee room.

QUINCY CHURCHES ARE PROSPERING

Wollaston Congregationalists to Build a $30,000 Addition of Terra Cotta

Four Other Churches Making Additions—Two New Ones

There is an unusual activity in addition to Quincy churches just at the present time, and up to date six different churches have already begun additions or are about to at an early date.

These include the new Catholic church nearing completion at Quincy Point.

The new parish house being erected by the Unitarian church at Wollaston.

The parish house being erected by St. Chrysostoms church at Wollaston.

The Sunday school room and hall being added to the Swedish Lutheran church on Granite street.

The four room addition being built to the Finnish church on Buckley street.

Only a few weeks ago the new church at Squantum was dedicated.

A large parish house to be erected by the Wollaston Congregational church, application for a permit for which has been made today.

This addition will be of stone and terra cotta and will be located on Lincoln avenue and Winthrop avenue, Wollaston, the situation being between the present church and the present parsonage. While it will have an entrance from the main church the main entrance will be from Winthrop avenue.

The addition is about 80 by 50 feet and the estimated cost is something like $30,000. On the first floor is a large recreation room, 24 by 28, and a smaller recreation room about 19 feet square. There will also be a well appointed kitchen with a long

Proctor Repudiated

Voters of Quincy:—

A certain circular and advertisement is being sent out by my fellow townsman, Charles R. Proctor, candidate for the Senate, in which he makes a number of irresponsible and unsupported statements attacking Senator Langelier purporting to have been written and signed by me.

This is absolutely false as I gave him no authority to use my name to such a document. Although intending to vote for Mr. Proctor I now repudiate him and will vote for Senator Langelier's re-election. I am asking my fellow citizens in Randolph to repudiate Mr. Proctor's methods by doing the same.

As a proof that this is not an "eleventh hour" advertisement, and that this advertisement is voluntarily inserted by me in justice to Senator Langelier, the facts can be verified by telephone. My number is Randolph 167 M.

The Young People's Religious Union of the First church held a very successful Hallowe'en party on Saturday evening in the Sunday School room of the chapel. The company were greeted by an icy handshake from a large ghost and were visited during the evening by two feminine khosts. Everybody bobbed for apples and played other merry Hallowe'en games. Later in the evening refreshments of doughnuts, cheese and cider were served. The committee to whom credit for the arrangements is due, were; Frederick Atwood, Miss Ruth Bass, Willard Crocker, Miss Dorothy Hall and Carl Pfaffman.

CARELESS LAW-MAKING.

The State and National legislatures, Senator Root told the American Bar Association the past week, passed 62,014 laws during the past five years. Mr. Root made a plea for more careful work drafting laws, and for less of what he called "sloppy legislation."

The writer had occasion some time ago to consult the statute book of one of the states, which required 1800 pages to record its new laws for the year 1913. The statute book of the same state for the year 1889 included only 340 pages. So grows the crop of laws. While many foolish acts are passed, still new interests have forced new enactments. The Legislatures of 1880 didn't have to spend any time regulating the speed of automobiles, nor charges of telephone companies.

A few years ago, a certain United States senator was overheard talking with great vehemence. "When the people rise in their might and demand a law of this kind" he remarked, concerning the agitation for a certain statute, "it is useless to oppose them"

"But what will such a law amount to?" inquired a by-stander.

"Nothing whatever" replied the senator. "The people will then turn their attention to something else, and forget all about it."

Many laws are so carelessly drawn that there is a law-suit in every sentence, due to indefiniteness. The man who wrote them could not get a job as a newspaper reporter, until he had learned to write with more precision. If the people who draft laws could realize it, any kind of writing seems far more lucid if the sentences are made short. Lawyers' minds may not work that way. But the average business man becomes hopelessly tangled by long succession of phrases, commas, semi-colons, and conditional clauses. Every law ought to be so clearly written that any intelligent man could understand it, without having to fee a lawyer to interpret it.

THE CHURCH SUPPERS.

The return of autumn brings with it the church supper, as one of the leading institutions of village life. On the financial side, no one ever figured out a real profit on this enenterprise. A dozen women put in several days' work collecting and cooking food. The supplies are all given out of home stock. The supper would cost 75 cents to a dollar at the average hotel where equally good food is given. The common price charged is 25 cents.

At the same time, you might not be able to raise the same amount of money in any other way. The women throw in their time free, and give 50 cents to $1.00 worth each of flour, sugar, eggs and butter. Perhaps neither they nor their husbands would give 25 cents in cash.

Financially wasteful, yet the church supper meets a real demand. If you undertook to support church work by advertising a lecture on the poetry of Robert Browning or Rudyard Kipling, you would not get attendance enough to pay the janitor's fee. But people stand in line for church suppers. They hang around for an hour, hungry and weary, for the leavings of second table.

The number who flee the church premises the moment the supper is eaten, suggest that social good fellowship is not the primary motive in drawing the crowd. Probably it is the reputation of first class home cooking that does it. Women are tired of eating the things from their own kitchens. They want to get out and see what the other cooks are doing.

In preparing for church suppers the cooks are on their mettle, feeling that their reputations are at stake. To have your pie spoken disrespectfully of is like making an error in front of a crowded baseball grand stand. The supper assembles the finest culinary art of the town and puts it on the bargain counter at bankrupt prices. No wonder it is popular.

BOMBARDMENT OF OTTOMAN STRONGHOLDS

Will Soon Be Begun by British and French Ships

DEMAND FOR APOLOGY DISREGARDED BY TURKS

Latter Still Menacing Russian Ports and Merchant Vessels In Black Sea —Great Britain Prepared For Invasion of Egypt—Said to Have Support of Mohammedan Leaders—Future Course of Italy and Bulgaria Uncertain—Germans In Belgium No Nearer Their Goal Than They Were a Week Ago—Admit They Are Hampered by Flooding of Canals

London, Nov. 2.—Aroused to anger by Turkey's impetuous rush into the war without warning and without provocation, both Great Britain and France have assembled their Mediterranean fleets in the east ready to smash the Ottoman forts in the Dardanelles.

Bombardment of the forts is expected to begin at any hour. The warships of allied nations are on the spot, and the commanders are simply awaiting final orders from their respective governments.

Turkey has contemptuously disregarded the ultimatums sent to her by Britain, France and Russia, demanding an apology for the naval attack in the Black sea and the dismantling of the German cruisers Goeben and Breslau, now in Black sea waters. Failure to reply to these brings about a virtual state of war between Turkey and the triple entente.

That such a state of war actually exists is shown by the fact that the ambassadors of Great Britain and Russia left Constantinople yesterday, and the French ambassador is to depart today. At the same time the Turkish ambassador to Russia was handed his passports at Petrograd.

Turkey on the Aggressive

Turkey, far from showing any tendency to rescind her warlike acts, continues to act upon the aggressive. Her vessels are still menacing Russian ports and merchant vessels in the Black sea, and Turkish troops which have been assembling on the Egyptian frontier for some time are reported to have crossed the border.

Great Britain is not unprepared for the invasion of Egypt, as the complete domination of Turkey by Germany has long been understood, and it was realized that one of the porte's first moves would be toward Egypt and the Suez canal.

When the regular British forces were withdrawn from Egypt to be hurled against the German invaders in northern France they were at once replaced by troops from home much greater in numbers than the original army. These new troops, in a parade through Cairo only last week, showed up as a splendidly trained and well disciplined army and created a most favorable impression.

It is realized, however, that the chief problem to be faced by both England and Russia is the influence of the Turkish propaganda upon the Moslem subjects.

Indian Viceroy's Views

From Simla comes the news that the viceroy of India issued an official communication in which he deplores "the endeavor of a chauvinistic element to drive Turkey into war with Great Britain for the benefit of Germany and Austria." Of course the effects of this announcement in the outlying districts will not be known for several days.

Already, however, responsible leaders of the Mohammedan communities are holding meetings in support of Great Britain, and many of the mosques are organizing prayers for the success of the British arms. The mullahs, it is officially reported, are preaching homilies urging Turkey to either maintain neutrality or declare on the side of the allies.

So far as Russia is concerned in this matter, official dispatches from Petrograd state that all the Mohammedan troops in the Caucasus are energetically denouncing Turkey's aggression against Russia and pledging their loyalty to the czar's government.

Will Not Worry Allies

Upon this phase of the question dispatches from Rome say that military critics in the Italian capital consider that the Turkish army will be unable to worry the allies. They declare that the Turks will be lost in the passes of the Caucassian mountains, and as for Egypt, the holy war preached in 1911 and 1913 failed of results. A similar agitation on behalf of Germany has no more chance today.

Turkey's firebrand has not yet set the Balkans aflame. Although Italy has Tripoli and her other Mediterranean possessions to protect she has as yet taken no action that would indicate a deviation from her present neutrality.

The resignation of the Italian cabinet, which was announced Saturday night, is explained from Rome on the ground that Premier Salandra and other ministers refused the demand of the minister of the treasury, Signor Rubini, that the parliament be asked to vote $50,000,000 for military expenditures. Premier Salandra will probably be asked at once to form a new cabinet, and upon its complexion will largely depend Italy's future course in the war.

Doubt Concerning Bulgaria

Bulgaria's attitude is also uncertain. She owes her existence to Russia and is under many obligations to England. In addition she is desirous of securing Thrace as far east as the Enos-Midia line, which she was awarded by the London conference after the first Balkan war, but which Turkey seized when Bulgaria was attacked by Greece and Servia. She would, therefore, naturally side with the allies, but she has strong objections to fighting side by side with Greece and Servia.

If Bulgaria should decide to join the Germans and Austrians, it seems almost certain that Roumania will declare for the allies, and Greece, even before this occurs, may decide to take her revenge upon Turkey.

German Advance Blocked

The Germans in southwestern Belgium are no nearer their goal—the English channel ports—than they were a week ago. In fact, if anything, they have been driven back appreciably at some points. The official report from Berlin makes the admission that the flooding of the Yser and Ypres canals has seriously hampered the army and defeated the proposed advance into northwestern France.

It has been give-and-take all along the great battle line from the sea to the Meuse, with a series of advances and retreats that have favored neither side to any appreciable extent. Two little villages, Hollebecke and Messines, near the Belgian frontier, were captured Sunday by the Germans in desperate sortie from the valley of the Lys, whereupon an all-day battle followed. Toward evening the allied troops had driven off the Germans and recaptured the two villages.

German casualties to date are given as 420,000 by a Berlin dispatch, which says that this number includes 62,000 in the last week. The French say that 7683 Germans were made prisoners during the week of Oct. 14-20.

BRITISH CRUISER SUNK

Hermes Sent to Bottom Within Sight of England's Shores

Another British cruiser, the Hermes, has been sunk by a German submarine, not in the North sea this time, but in the straits of Dover, within sight of the shores of England.

The Hermes was useful chiefly for patrol purposes, and her loss has no effect on England's line of battle. Unlike the Cressy, Aboukir, Hogue and Hawke; the sinking of the Hermes was not attended by a wholesale loss of life, for nearly all of her officers and men were saved.

The Hermes is the tenth British warship to be lost since the outbreak of the war. Her total complement was 450 officers and men.

ASKS AMERICAN AID

King of Belgium Makes an Appeal For His Starving People

Albert, King of the Belgians, made a personal appeal to the American people to save the Belgian people from absolute starvation. He wrote this appeal while serving under fire with his heroic men in the trenches near Nieuwport, where they saved Dunkirk from the Germans. This is the message:

"I am informed that American officials and citizens in Belgium and England are working to save my people from the horrors of the famine which now threaten them. It is a great comfort to me in this hour of sorrow and misfortune to feel that a great hearted, disinterested people is directing its efforts to relieving the distress of the unoffending civilian population of my country.

"Despite all that can be done the suffering in the coming winter will be terrible, but the burden we must bear will be lightened if my people can be spared the pangs of hunger, with its frightful consequences of disease and violence.

"I confidently hope that the appeal of the American commission will meet with a generous response. The whole hearted friendship of America shown my people at this time always will be a precious memory."

SEVENTY LIVES LOST

Many Persons Are Rescued From Wrecked Hospital Ship

A motor lifeboat rescued the fifty persons still remaining on board the wreck of the hospital shop Rohilla, which went on the rocks in the North sea.

The sea was still heavy, but when the lifeboat got alongside the wreck oil was poured on the waves and subdued them sufficiently to enable the transfer of the exhausted men.

In all seventy persons were lost in the wreck. Those saved from the ship total 146.

MILLIONS FOR THE HUNGRY

Rockefeller Foundation to Supply Wants of Non-Combatants

The Rockefeller foundation has determined to employ its immense resources for the relief of non-combatants in the countries afflicted by the war and stands ready to give "millions of dollars, if necessary," for the purpose. This was announced by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., president of the foundation.

In pursuance of this philanthropy the foundation will send a commission to Europe in a few days to report first hand as to how, when and where aid can be rendered most effectively. At a cost of $275,000 it already has chartered a ship and loaded it with 4000 tons of provisions for the relief of the starving Belgians.

"This action is taken," Rockefeller says, "as a natural step in fulfilling the chartered purposes of the foundation, namely, 'to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world.'"

CAUSE IS RIGHTEOUS

Bryce Says England Has Support of the United States

At the unveiling of a monument at Aberdeen to the late King Edward, Viscount Bryce, former British ambassador to the United States, declared that the present moment was the most solemn one since the sway of Napoleon.

The thing that inspired confidence, the speaker declared, was the conviction that Great Britain's cause was righteous and that she had the support of the self-governing dominions and the moral support of many neutrals, "especially the kindred people of America."

Bryce declared the charge that King Edward had sought to isolate Germany was baseless.

CONTROVERSY LIKELY

England Places Ban on Articles Always Admitted by Belligerents

Departing from the fundamental conception of what constitutes absolute contraband, as laid down in international precedents, the British government has issued a revised list of articles asserted to be in violation of neutrality to transport over the seas.

As a result it is said that further controversies and complications are likely to arise between the United States and Great Britain over this much mooted question. In compiling the list Great Britain is said to have taken a most radical departure from the rules as generally followed by belligerent powers.

So sweeping is the list of twenty-six articles declared by Great Britain to be absolute contraband that serious injury to legitimate American commerce seems certain to result if the list is accepted. For this reason it is thought at Washington that the United States will soon enter protest against many of the articles placed on the list.

WILLIAMS RETURNS HOME

Ex-Minister Modestly Admits That Albania Worships Him

New York, Nov. 2.—George F. Williams of Boston, former United States minister to Greece and Montenegro, whose criticism of the European powers for their conduct in Albania led to a request for his resignation, arrived in New York from Rotterdam.

Williams said he was not forced to resign, but admitted that the statement attributed to him was undiplomatic and he, therefore, tendered his resignation. He is now on his way to Washington officially to sever his connection with the diplomatic service.

"As to my personal position," said Williams, "Albania worships me and the people would have made me their prophet. I am quite satisfied with the stand I took."

EQUAL SUFFRAGE VOTE OF 1895

Just at this time when the question of equal suffrage if being agitated it will be of interest to know how the vote of Quincy was when that question was voted upon some years ago. It was at the State election in November, 1895, that the question "Is it expedient that municipal suffrage be granted to women?" was voted upon.

At that time but two wards of the city were divided into precincts, but the vote was 2 to 1 against granting suffrage to women. This is how the vote stood.

Among Our Churches

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

There were twelve children in the beginners class that meets during the time of Sunday morning worship at Bethany church.

In the whole school there were present 49 teachers and 468 scholars, there being many classes where every member and teacher were present.

At the teachers meeting held after the session of the school, everyone was asked to attend the District Sunday school convention at Union church, Weymouth and Braintree, where a very attractive program will be carried out Tuesday, Nov. 3, beginning at 2.30 P. M., with supper at 6 o'clock. The address of the evening will be by Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott.

Reports of committee showed plans for Christmas to be well advanced.

There was a meeting of the Bethany C. E. executive committee in the church parlor at 4.00 o'clock. Matters of importance were considered. The report of the treasurer for last year showed a considerable surplus in the treasury. The members of the society were assigned to committees and the budget for next year was considered. Following the executive committee meeting was the monthly consecration meeting at 6 o'clock. The meeting was led by Miss Williamina Laing, the new chairman of the prayer meeting committee. "The work verse," found in Eccl. 9:10, was the topic for consideration. Russell L. Williams, retiring Junior C. E. president, was admitted to the society as an active member. Brief and inspiring reports of the Fitchburg C. E. convention were given by the president, Chester Sabean, and by Wesley Beckford and Thomas Sandison. A large number responded to the roll call. The helpful things said, the large number present, the inspiring singing, and the devotional spirit, made the November consecration meeting a memorable one.

HALL PLACE M. E.

Rev. P. S. Neldon of the Hall Place M. E. church preached at the Sunday morning service on the text "Thou art weighed in the balance, and art found wanting"—Dan. 5-27. Mr. Neldon gave as the standard by which we could measure ourselves the Ten Commandments—Exodus 20: 3-18; the Golden Rule, Matt. 7:12, and the two greatest commandments,—"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind,"—"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself"—Matth. 22: 37-39.

The session of the Sunday school held at the close of the morning service with a good attendance. The Epworth League devotional service was led by D. H. McNeill.

At the evening service the pastor preached on the text taken from Acts 17:23—"Because he hath appointed a day, in the which he will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he hath ordained; whereof he hath given assurance unto all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead."

"Win-My-Chum" week will be observed throughout the church all this week. This evening the pastor will preach; Tuesday evening, Rev. Mr. Boro of New Hampshire. Wednesday evening will be known as "Brotherhood night" and Rev. Mr. Sayre of Houghs Neck will preach. Thursday evening, Rev. G. M. Bailey of Wollaston will have charge of the service, and Friday, Saturday and Sunday the Gospel Team of Boston University will conduct the services.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

At the morning service the pastor, Dr. Sneath, prefaced the communion service with a brief address upon the topic, "One privilege of the Saints in light," it being All Saints day. The privilege to which he alluded was that of seeing God in His glory and comprehending His ways. Like Moses we stand in the cleft of the rock and get merely the vanishing form of God, but those who have entered into Heaven, have the full vision and fully understand. "Like Charles Kingsley we are ready to say, "I look forward to it with an intense and reverent curiosity." Still let us stand in our cleft today and get all the vision we can, as He is willing to reveal Himself.

A. J. Shartle of the United Society of Christian Endeavor addressed the Intermediate Society on Sunday afternoon concerning the work of the organization.

At 7 P. M. Dr. Sneath gave an illustrated lecture upon Buddhism as seen in India, Tibet, China and Japan.

The Ladies Auxiliary will meet on Wednesday at 2.30 with Mrs. Lincoln, 109 Lincoln avenue. Mrs. E. S. Tenney will have charge of the meeting.

On Thursday evening, at the midweek service, Dr. Sneath will speak upon the topic, "Zeal for God's house."

November.

State election tomorrow.

W. H. Doble secured a verdict on Friday in the Norfolk Superior court in the suit brought by Robert T. Guston to recover for personal injuries.

Ladies, before buying their winter apparel, will be greatly helped by consulting the "Fashion Notes" in the King's Daughters edition of the Quincy Daily Ledger to be published the eleventh of November.

The Sunday papers gave the Kings Daughters edition of the Daily Ledger considerable publicity, and illustrated the story with half tones of the editors and managers.

The Central station auto chemical responded on a still alarm at 1.45 this noon for a grass fire near the corner of Hancock and Bridge streets.

Arthur S. Townsend, master of the Adams and Cranch schools was elected as president of the Norfolk County Teachers association at its annual meeting Friday.

T. L. Ormond, master machinst's mate U. S. N., who has been stationed at the Fore River shipyard detailed to the "mother" ship Fulton, died suddenly Saturday night on board the Fulton which is having her official trials off Provincetown.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Bids were opened by Commissioner Brown this morning for building Huckins avenue from East Squantum street to Bellevue avenue at Squantum. This is one of the streets which the City Council accepted earlier in the year. Three bids were received and were taken under advisement. They were as follows:

Thomas Whelan & Co.	$2,513
W. Shea & Son	3,102
W. F. Loud & Son	3,223

Commissioner Brown advertises today for bids for building a stone culvert over the brook on Winthrop street, Houghs Neck. Bids for this same job were opened some days ago, but all were rejected as they were above the amount which the city could expend. Since then some changes have been made in the plans and new bids are now asekd.

Mayor Whiton is to speak before the Makaria Fraternity at the Bethany church this evening. Mayor Whiton will attend the meeting of the council and will speak after the Council adjourns, as it is expected that the meeting will be a short one.

HALLOWE'EN AT ADAMS HOUSE

An enjoyable Hallowe'en party was held Saturday evening by Adams chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, at the birthplace of President John Adams on Franklin street. Colored paper, and Hallowe'en favors decorated the interior of the rooms, and when the lights were dimmed it was thought that possibly spirits of long ago might appear, but none did.

Gentlemen were invited to be present at the party, but owing to many other engagements, coming on a Saturday night, but one lone man appeared. He however had a good time, and was pressed into service as a school master for an old-fashioned spelling bee which was one of the events of the evening. The spellers were quickly eliminated one by one as they missed, until the lines got down to two, Mrs. Charles H. Penniman and Mrs. Ellen Bush. It was nip and tuck between these two, and both seemed fair to remain in the contest for an indefinite period the bee was called off The prize therefore was divided.

Numerous Hallowe'en games were played and during the evening big doughnuts were served which were washed down with sweet cider. The evening proved to be a most enjoyable one to all.

QUINCY SQUANTUM

The Hallowe'en party given by the Ladies Aid of the First church at Squantum Saturday night will go record as the most enjoyable affair. It was 8 o'clock when the witches and their guests began to arrive and were ushered into the hall made attractive by the decorations of autumn leaves, paper pumpkins, and black cats strolling around the walls. At the entrance an imitation witch extended greetings. From the four corners of the hall to the center yellow and black streamers with black cats dangling from them completed an attractive setting for the many witches in black and yellow costumes. Mrs. William Spargo who was chairman of the entertainment committee announced and explained the various games. Finding the end of a piece of twine that had been strung around the hall many times and hunting for peanuts were some of the games that furnished lots of fun. Mrs. Devine secured the most peanuts and was given a souvenir and Miss Elizabeth Young won second. Mr. Devine read a German parody of "Barabara Freitchie" which proved his ability as entertainer.

At 10 o'clock C. E. Carlson started to auction off the the gayly decorated lunch baskets which were furnished by the ladies. The men bidding for the box they thought held the most had to share it with the owner whose name was concealed in the inside. Hot coffee was served by the ladies of the committee. Just as the party was breaking up a witch entered from out of the night and told fortunes, this not being on the schedule, guessing who the person was and where she came from caused much excitement. It proved to Mrs. John Nelson. The success of the evening was due to the committee which consisted of the following the ladies; Mrs. William Spargo, Mrs. Matthew McGrain, Mrs. C. E. Carlson, Mrs. Thomas Currie, Mrs. John Holmes, Mrs. Herman Berghaus, Mrs. John Marden, Mrs. L. B. Titus, Mrs. Hackenson, Mrs. James Hagen, Mrs. Peter Olson.

The members of the M. N. C. club, composed of young ladies of Dorchester, entertained students of Boston College, Harvard and Boston University, at a Hallowe'en party at Lee's Inn, Squantum, on Saturday evening The decorations of the season prevailed and the program of the evening included games, ghosts marches, dances, and vocal and instrumental selections by those present.

Among the invited guests were Miss Anna Zunnik, Miss Edith King, Louis Billings, Louis Morse, Harold Grady, Maurice Bronin, Warren Bearse. Others present were Ralph Kaye, Charles Bell, Harold Humphrey, David Reynolds, Roger Tyler, John Gough Don Riddle, Carl Boul, John Hillarm, Allen Spiller, Arthur Sprague William Horner.

The committee under whose direction the party was held was headed by Miss Marion Johns. She was assisted by Pearl Bates, Charlotte Morse Mildred Bates, Eva Morse, Marion Anthony, Lillian Anthony, Ruth Wasserman, Catherine Hiller, Edith Wilcox, Dorothy Drew, Vivian Drew.

FOOTBALL AT MILTON.

The High School football team lost another game Saturday when they played the Dorchester High team at the Dunbar avenue grounds. The score was 19 to 6 in favor of the Dorchester team. The Milton team played well in the first half when Sprague made a touchdown, and the half ended in favor of them. But in the second half the home team was wiped off their feet and the Dorchester team made three touchdowns. Sprague, Reiser and Robertson did some excellent work for the home boys.

Milton Academy football team defeated the St. George's Academy team of Newport, R. I., Saturday afternoon on the home gridiron by the score of 28 to 9. Felton was the star of the game.

BUSY TIMES FOR FIREMEN

But No Serious Fires Are Reported

Pranks of Hallowe'en celebraters Saturday night, and the dry and warm day Sunday, served as the main elements which kept the firemen on the jump Saturday night and all day Sunday, answering bell and still alarms.

The first bell alarm Saturday night came from Box 45 at 9.18. This was for a fire in the old blacksmith shop of the O. T. Rigers Granite Co. on Willard street. The firemen found that the building had been saturated with kerosene oil and was burning briskly. It was quickly extinguished.

At 9.48 an alarm was sounded from Box 432 for a fire in the old blacksmith shop at Badger Bros. on Willard street. The West Quincy apparatus had responded to this fire on a still alarm, and were at work when some one ran to the box and pulled the alarm. Evidently they worked the hook up and down for the alarm came in somewhat mixed up. This building was also found to be saturated with kerosone.

At 10.25 an alarm was sounded from Box 47 which proved to be a false alarm.

Anticipating false alarms Saturday night Chief Billings had given orders for the steamer to remain in quarters and not respond unless called by a second alarm or by telephone. The two fires Saturday night were undoubtedly the work of Hallowe'en celebraters.

On Sunday there were also several fires and alarms. The first alarm came from Box 173 at 1.54 in the afternoon. This was for a fire on the roof of a porch over the back door of a house at 44 Sumner street occupied by Andrew Hyiar and used as a Syrian boarding house. One of the boarders had evidently thrown a lighted cigarette out of the window which alighting on the roof of the porch had set it on fire.

At 5 o'clock the Wollaston and Central station apparatus responded on a still alarm for a fire in the woods near the standpipe on Third Hill, Wollaston.

Hardly had Chief Billings and the Central station auto chemical arrived when an alarm was sounded at 5.03 from Box 174. Leaving the Wollaston apparatus to take care of the grass fire on Third Hill, the Chief and Central station auto responded to the box alarm. This was for a lively blaze in the woods between Winter street and Quincy avenue. The fire had made good headway and the blazing trees made a spectacular sight. A large number of firemen were kept at work beating out the fire.

About this same time the West Quincy apparatus were at work extinguishing a woods fire in the rear of the Granite Railway office off Grove street, having been called on a still alarm.

At 6.50 an alarm was sounded from Box 48 for this same fire.

MAYORALTY CANDIDATES

Will be Busy at Different Rallies Tonight

Candidates seeking the nomination and office of Mayor will be on the stump again in various parts of city tonight. In addition to this they have it is understood been invited by Col. Henry L. Kincaide, candidate for congressman, to take part in the automobile parade in his interest tonight.

The places at which the various candidates will speak are as follows:

A reception will be given James E. Wall, candidate for Mayor at St. Mary's hall, West Quincy. Music will be by the celebrated Sullivan sisters, assisted by William E. McDavitt, baritone soloist. Peter T. Fallon will preside.

Henry F. Tilden, Republican candidate for Mayor, will be the guest of the Houghs Neck Associates at Houghs Neck.

Chester I. Campbell, Republican and Progressive candidate for Mayor, will hold a rally at Quincy Point, G. B. Bates progressive and democratic candidate for Mayor, will speak tonight at the Manet club at South Quincy and later at the Progressive club at Atlantic. Tuesday night he speaks at A. O. H. hall, South Quincy.

FIREWORKS FOR KINCAIDE

Italians to Have Display This Evening

The 27 registered voters affiliated with Lodge Roma, Figli d'Italia, attended a dinner party at the home of Orlando Pace, treasurer of the organization, on Sunday afternoon, and the support of those present was pledged to Col. Henry L. Kincaide, candidate for congress from the 14th district.

Speeches were made by President Arnaldo DiNicola, Treasurer Orlando Pace and Corresponding Secretary Matteo DiNicola.

The members, aside from pledging their support to the local candidate, contributed to a serenade fund and this evening a fireworks display will be given in Kincaide square in honor of the future congressman.

President Arnaldo DiNicola and the officers of Lodge Roma, Figli d'Italia, were installed in the Johnson building on Sunday morning. All of the 41 members were present and several applications were received.

Beniamino Corleto, Nicola Crispo, Giovanni De Luca and Francesco N. Cicconi, the latter one of the leading orators of the state, were present. All are officers of the Grand lodge and delivered speeches on the purposes of the organization and benefits of their adopted land to the members.

Several other speeches were made by the new officers, and business of importance to the lodge was discussed. Another meeting is scheduled for the near future.

CANDIDATES FOR THE HOUSE

Both of Quincy Representative Districts Uncertain

One of the warmest representative contests ever waged in the Sixth Norfolk district closes at four o'clock on State election day. Representative Edward J. Sandberg the Republican candidate is opposed by Councilman Daniel F. Corcoran, the Democratic candidate, and H. O. Cassidy, the Progressive candidate. The two latter have conducted an energetic campaign and in the past four days have personally seen nearly every voter in the district.

The outcome of the contest will be a keen disappointment to the friends of the losers, and a source of real pleasure to the winner and his friends. There have been no personal attacks made by the candidates and good feeling prevails between them, but all three are working overtime in the closing hours.

The friends of Representative Michael T. Sullivan candidate for re-election on the Democratic ticket and Councilman Charles E. Ericson, Republican candidate for that office, are rallying in the final mile of the marathon which will land the winner on Beacon hill.

Representative Sullivan has conducted an arduous campaign, reviewing his uphill fight in the legislature for the substitution of his bill calling for the depression of tracks as reported at length in the Daily Ledger at that time and speaking of his opposition to referring the bill for a new bridge over the Neponset river to the next house.

Councilman Ericson says he has been of service to the people of the city as a member of the City Council, and points out that is why he was given the Republican nomination. He goes before the voters on that record.

The indications are that Senator Langelier of Quincy will be re-elected by an overwhelming majority.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

Bicknell Young, C. S. B., a member of the board of Lectureship of the Mother church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, was the speaker on Sunday at the lecture on Christian Science. He received the close attention of the large audience, and said in part:

It is an encouraging fact that however greatly our views may differ upon this or that subject, there is always in our natures and common to them all, one chord which responds to Christian Science, and that is the universal desire to prolong existence or, better still, to attain satisfaction and be sure of its continuity. Even the creatures beneath our feet want to live, and strive to do so, so that this instinct has come to be expressed in the axiom, "Self-preservation is the first law of nature."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE EXPLAINS

Nobody has been asked to believe in Christian Science, and nobody ever will be asked to believe in it, for Christian Science does not advocate a proselyting process, but explains divine Principle. I should no more think of urging a person to believe in Christian Science than I should think of asking him to believe in the multiplication table. Neither one nor the other is in the realm of belief. We are not giving Christian Science lectures for the purpose of asking people to believe in it; we are giving Christian Science lectures because we want to help mankind, and we want to help mankind because we want to help ourselves, and have realized that the best way to help ourselves is to help others.

No human being can be selfish and ever put off mortality. For one to attain immortality, which is the natural heritage that God has provided for all, we shall have to be unselfish. Jesus did not voice a mere religious admonition but a scientific necessity when he gave the rule, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." He also said, "Deny thyself and follow me."

Christians generally, but not very joyfully, recognize the necessity of self-denial, Christian Science explains it and makes it not only possible but glad. It is generally supposed to mean loss, whereas it means achievement. It means recognition and manifestation of the dominion which God gives to man. In self-denial one is not thinking of himself. If he were there would be no self-denial. He is finding the truth of being, and in that, peace and power and perfect poise. Jesus expressed the acme of self-denial in the words, "I and my Father are one."

Self-abnegation enables one to do good and it is therefore a joyful occupation. It establishes liberty, which is the freedom to do good, since there is nothing but slavery in doing evil. God alone is infinite. Evil is not only finite but destructive. "The glorious liberty of the children of God" is to be found in this individual power to do good. This kind of power, which is the only real kind is not limited in its results. It overcomes disease as well as sins, and yet God, who is this power, has seemed so distant and unnatural to us that when one is first told that Christian Science heals disease through the power of God, he is apt to doubt it, and perhaps even discredit the healing until it is proved to him, and then when the proof of the healing is offered, he is apt to believe that it is brought about in some other way.

GOD AND POWER ONE

It takes a great deal of instruction to convince the average human being that the word "God" does not mean something remote or inaccessible. Now we can think certain ideas which reveal God. We have seen that here. These ideas reveal power because God and power are one. They are God with us, and therefore power with us. We can think of our bodies, and as a matter of fact we think of them a great deal too much. Nevertheless, so long as that is our tendency, it ought not to be difficult for us to recognize that the true thought of what God is may affect our bodies, since some kind of thought is doing something to our bodies all the time. We walk because of mind; and talk and think, and wink our eyes, because of mind, and do everything else we are doing because of mind, and we do absolutely nothing because of matter, for matter cannot think nor talk nor walk by itself when thought is absent.

Because the human body seems to have sensation it is supposed that there is some kind of an intelligence inside of it giving it sensation, consequently material systems investigating only material phenomena and drawing conclusions only from such observations have located mind in the body, and religious systems have followed in the same line and located soul and spirit in the body; yet no kind of investigation has ever revealed any intelligence or spirit or soul in any human body. Really the words, Soul, Intelligence, Spirit, cannot be pluralized. They refer to infinity. They serve to express to us the fuller meaning of the word "God," and when we grasp their service in this respect we see that an infinite Intelligence is enough intelligence for everybody, and that an infinite Soul or Spirit is enough for everybody, and that it could not possibly be in anybody, and that the best a human being can do is to acquire the knowledge which as his intelligence begins to reflect the divine intelligence, and at the same time reflects the real Soul or Spirit which is God.

In Science and Health Mrs. Eddy says: "Truth, independent of doctrines and time-honored systems, knocks at the portal of humanity." If Truth, which is thus ever knocking, be given admittance, it begins the awakening process by removing superstition. It frees us from the belief that material theories and things could do more for us than God could do. It shows why it is that divine Power is made available as demonstrable Science, heating sickness in the process of redemption. It takes off the limitations of human belief and the tendency to outline the infinite blessings of the infinite Mind. It shows us that we cannot see either God or His creation in such a limited way as the material senses require, and that Solomon, in praying for wisdom rather than for special things, did the very thing which afterwards was shown forth in all prosperity and success. Jesus gave the final rule when he said: "But rather seek ye the kingdom of God; and all these things shall be added unto you."

QUINCY'S VOTE FOR GOVERNOR

"As goes the city so goes the state and nation" is truer today of Quincy than of Hull. It has been verified in every State election since 1889, except 1911, and in every Presidential election since 1875.

During these years the State of Massachusetts has gone Republican sixteen years and Democratic eight years, and so did Quincy. The Nation has gone Republican at six elections and Democratic at two elections, and so did Quincy.

Therefore the Quincy returns November 3 will tell who is elected that day as Governor of Massachusetts. The vote in recent years has been:

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church held a very successful Hallowe'en party Friday evening, Oct. 30, in the vestry of the church. The vestry was very prettily decorated with black and orange crepe paper, jack-o'lanterns, corn stalks and ghosts. The lights were dimmed so that it looked very spooky. All sorts of Hallowe'en games were played. There was also a candy sale to raise money towards the C. E. pledge to the church. Refreshments were served by Miss Belva Hamilton, Miss Frances Mooer, Miss Emma Landstrom, George Jones and Leon Field.

There was a very large number present at the Hallowe'en party given by the East Congregational church Sunday school, Friday evening, Oct. 30, in the church vestry. The newly organized Kemp class, for boys, had full charge of the entertainment and they certainly made a good "job" of it. The boys were dressed as farmers, and went through several antics. Following the entertainment ice cream and cake were served. The commitee in charge included: Mrs. Jesse B. Baxter, Mrs. S. S. Gilbert, Mrs. Olaf Olsen, Miss Ada Enderlie and Mr. Maclary.

About 30 girls attended the Hallowe'en party given Friday evening, Oct. 30, by the Girls' Friendly Society of the Church of Our Saviour (Episcopal,) in the vestry of the church. Games and songs were enjoyed after which refreshments were served.

Miss Esther Johnson of Pleasant street entertained about 25 of her friends FFrFiday evening, Oct. 31, at a Hallowe'en party. She proved to be a very successful hostess and all present had a most enjoyable time.

About 35 friends of Miss Marion Hathaway were entertained at her home on Eaton street, Saturday evening. The house was charmingly decorated with Hallowe'en decorations. The Misses Marion Hastings and Dorothy Holmes were the ghosts and Miss Edith Stocker the witch. Piano selections were given by Frances Bates. Such games as bobbing for apples, biting doughnuts, pinning the stem on a pumkin, etc., were enjoyed. Refreshments were served and the party broke up at a very late hour, all delighted with the lovely time Marion had given them.

At the First Baptist church, Sunday morning, the pastor Rev. J. Hamilton Woodsum, preached on: "The Unity of the faith." A choir consisting of Miss Alice Beattie, Miss Olive Bishop, Miss Annie Johnstone, Miss Marion Johnson, J. H. Leatherbee and James Lewis gave several selections. Immediately following the morning service the Lord's Supper was observed. The Sunday school and Woodsum class met at 12 M. The subject of the C. E. meeting was "The work verse," led by Gordon Lewis. In the evening the pastor preached on "Moral policies that prove failures."

At the morning service at the East Congregational church, Sunday, Rev. Greely of California preached. He was pastor of the church 25 years ago and several of the older members of the church were very pleased to see him. There was a very large number present at the Sunday school. This organization of the church is certainly growing and shows much improvement over former years.

The Belcher Circle and Burnsville teams of the East section of the town met in their annual football combat Friday, Oct. 30, at Cunningham Park. The Belcher Circle team played the football and won by the score of 33 to 13. Captain Parsons of the winners was the big star of the game.

A rather serious fire broke out Sunday morning at the home of Daniel MacDonald on Brook road. The fire was caused by sparks from the chimney blowing onto the roof. It was first detected by little Rodman who notified his father. When the apparatus arrived the fire had gained considerable headway. Mr. MacDonald succeeded in saving most of the furniture, but the house was badly gutted and drenched with water.

The death of Michael J. Barry of Adams street for 45 years a resident of East Milton, occurred Friday evening, Oct. 30, at his late home. Mr. Barry had been sick for the last two months. He was born in Ireland in 1848. When a young man he came to this country and settled in East Milton. He was one of the first members of the old hand tub fire department and remained a call man up to his death. By trade Mr. Barry was a carpenter and was one of the best builderd in this district. He was a heavy real estate owner in Milton. Mr. Bary is survived by two sons and two daughters. The funeral was held this morning from the St. Gregory's church. High mass of requiem was observed. The interment took place at the Milton cemetery.

THE CHURCHES

The Ladies Benevolent Society will pack two barrels of clothing on Friday, to be sent to missionary pastors in the far west.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

Mrs. L. J. Child, the well known contralto of Boston was the soloist at the Sunday morning service, at the Wollaston Unitarian church. The service, scripture reading, poem, hymns and sermon were all appropriate to All Saints day.

Rev. Mr. Horst took for his text the words of Paul—"To all that be in Rome, beloved of God, called to be saints"—Romans 1:7. After calling attention to the meaning of saint in the New Testament as meaning set apart, consecrated, the preacher said "The divine voice that called the Romans and Ephesians to be saints in their day and place, calls us to be saints in our day. The saints today are alive in men who recognize the eternal primacy of the spiritual forces of life over the physical; who have the sense of duty and who uphold the moral law. What men, yea what nations need to learn is obedience to the moral law. And because of this lack of obedience to the moral law we find everywhere an utter disregard for authority; we find hoodlums terrorizing peace-loving citizens, we find a great nation invading neutral territory in utter, wanton disregard of solemn obligations.

We expect, and have a right to expect a mans word to be as good as his bond; and we have a right to expect a nation to keep its pledges not to invade neutral territory. After making a compact that country has no right to put aside a treaty as a "scrap of paper," whenever it suits its selfish interests. "Unless our boasted civilization is the thinnest veneering of barbarism; only the ethics of the rifle and the conscience of the canon; unless mankind, after uncounted centuries, has made no real advance in political morality beyond that of the cave dweller," we have a right to expect nations to obey the moral law, and to remember that might does not make right.

If a nation like Germany does not live up to its promise and considers a treaty as a mere scrap of paper, then what reason have we to think that any treaty in the future will not be considered as a scrap of paper, to be torn up whenever it suits her convenience. I am proud of my German parentage and I appreciate all that Germany has contributed toward the progress of the world, but I could not love Germany, did I not love honor more. Those that are called to be saints,' those that have pledged allegiance to the Prince of Peace, must uphold the moral law,"

Another all-day sewing meeting for the Belgian women and children will be held in the vestry Tuesday beginning at 10 o'clock. All women in Wollaston are cordially invited to help in this work. Bring a box luncheon. Coffee will be served.

The daily services at King's Chapel at 12 o'clock began today and continue until Easter. All the services this week and on each Wednesday thereafter will be devoted to the cause of peace. There is music for ten minutes and a twenty minute service including a short address, except Saturdays when the whole half hour is given to music. The speakers this week are Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham, Mr. Edwin D. Mead, President Francis E. Clark, D. D., Rev. James L. Barton, D. D., Prof. Jay William Hudson, Ph. D.

The observance of Tuckerman day occurs Thursday, Nov. 5, at 3 P. M. in Channing hall, 25 Beacon street, Boston

The dedication of the new edifice of the Second Church in Boston, corner Beacon and Audubon circle, takes place Sunday afternoon, Nov. 8, at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. L. J. Child, the well known contralto of Boston, is the soloist at our services this month.

The Ladies' Aid Alliance meet in the vestry Wednesday, Nov. 4, at 2.30 P. M. Mrs. H. C. Needham of Brookline, the superintendent of the Sunday school will speak on "Some new methods in Sunday school work" After the meeting tea will be served.

A Cranford party, to which all are invited to come, if possible, in old fashioned dress of the Cranford period, will be given in the vestry, Thursday, Nov. 5 at 8 o'clock.

The biennial church fair will be held Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 18-19.

The entertainment committee of the church has arranged for a social party, Friday evening.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

Sunday morning, the pastor Rev. Joseph Walther spoke to a large audience at the Baptist church from the 11th chapter of Isaiah, taking for his subject "Isaiah's description of Christ." The sermon was one of help and inspiration, and some of the truths brought forth show, how absolutely true Christ was to the prophecy of Isaiah.

Jesus Christ was a shoot out of the stock of Jesse, and a branch out of his roots that was to bear fruit. The description of Jesus Christ in the New Testament tallies with the prophecy of the Old Testament. He was a son of the human race, or Jewish race, and the government was on his shoulders. The spirit of Jehovah was to rest upon him so as to provide wisdom and understanding, counsel and might. Jesus had that fear that inspired him and he delighted to do the will of Jehovah. He was to be a great miracle worker. With righteousness was he to judge the poor, and with equity the meek of the earth. He was to raise an ensign for all nations and was to gather the outcasts of Israel from the four corners of the earth. We should believe on him, love and honor him, bear fruit for him. Uplift his banner, the banner of the cross.

The chorus choir rendered very sweetly, "Rock of Ages." There were several who received the hand of fellowship. The ordinance of the Lord's supper, followed the morning service, after which the Sunday school met for Bible study, over 300 being present, new members were added tothe school.

The Junior Endeavor meeting was in charge of Mrs. Joseph Walther, subject: "Making Father and Mother happy," Prov. 10:1-5.

Y. P. S. C. E. consecration meeting was in charge of Miss Eleanor E. Dunn, subject "The Work verse"—Eccles. 9-10.

The pastor took for the subject of the evening "Christ's comfort for troubled hearts." The chorus choir sang.

Tuesday afternoon and evening at 2.30 and 8.00, the Norfolk East District Sunday school association will meet with the Union Congregational church of Weymouth and Braintree.

Wednesday beginning at 10.00 A. M., an all day sewing meeting will be held in the chapel. Clothing for men, women and children solicited, and should be sent to the chapel early Wednesday morning.

Wednesday afternoon at 3.00 the regular monthly business meeting of the Social and Benevolent Society will be held in the chapel. A large attendance is desired. New members solicited.

Thursday evening at 7.45 the regular meeting for praise, prayer and testimony will be held in the chapel. Subject—"What we believe about prayer." Our people are urged to attend and help make this meeting a power for good.

The prayer meeting of a week ago was very uplifting. The spirit of brotherly love filled the meeting. "Our church covenant" was the subject taken.

PARK AND DOWNS.

The Sunday morning service was the "Communion service." This sacred ceremony was most beautiful and impressive. Eleven persons united with this church. The pastor Rev. Wm. B. Ayers, gave a most helpful and inspiring talk as he extended the right hand of fellowship.

In the evening the seventh lecture of "Great religious lessons from the war," to an audience that tested the capacity of the edifice. The speaker reviewed the history and development of Italy from a group of small and separate states half a century ago to the united Italy of today. He traced the development of the spirit of nationalism and the entrance of Italy into the council of nations as a world power. He gave also interesting anecdotes from the record of Italian diplomacy, using all this simply to illustrate a great text of the Bible; "He gave Himself for us."

The minister gave a strong lesson on "selfish development." Selfishness among individuals he scored as being the worst sin, for it is the basis of all other sin. Without selfishness, crime and vice and war would not be possible. Christ was the incarnation of unselfishness. He revealed the outgiving God. And the world will become Christianized only as it learns the lesson of self effacement.

A very fine musical program was rendered by the organist and vested choir, including a beautiful duet by Mrs. William T. Hazard and Arthur F. Capen.

ATLANTIC METHODIST.

At the Atlantic Methodist church, Sunday morning the pastor took for his text, Rev. 6:17—"The great day of his wrath is come and who shall be able to stand?" His theme was "Does God exercise wrath?" The speaker said, that only two sources of information is given us regarding God's wrath. One is the Bible, the other is the world's history. What does the Bible say? Open it and read—"Flee from the wrath to come," "Depart ye cursed into everlasting punishment, prepared for the devil and his angels." Read of the prayer of the final impenitent calling on the rocks and the mountains to fall on them and to hide them from the wrath of the Lamb. Read in Jude of wrath being reserved unto the day of wrath, shall we give credit to this portion of God's word?

The second source of information comes to us from the world's history. On the pages we read of special days of God's wrath that visited the wickedness of men, viz. The deluge, The destruction of the cities of the plain; the fate of Kora, Dathan and Abiram and the 250 princes of Israel; the destruction of Babylon; the fall of Jerusalem that took place 35 years after the crucifixion of Christ.

These were but special days of his wrath. But the text gives warning of a great day of wrath, referring to the judgment day and propounds the question, "Who will be able to stand?" Here the speaker portrayed the classes of people who will be filled with fear and dread, and in a triumphant way spoke of the righteous who having abode in Him here will not be ashamed at His coming. The sermon closed with an appeal to the audience to acquaint themselves with the Lord and to be at peace with him. Congratulations were extended to the twenty or more persons who during the four weeks revival took a stand for Christ.

Rev. Dr. Bronson closed the meetings with an inspiring sermon in the evening.

SPIRITUALIST SERVICE.

Mrs. Bonnie of Dorchester was the speaker Sunday evening and gave an excellent talk on the truth of Spiritualism and gave many good messages. Mrs. Bonnie is a native of Quincy and met many of her friends here. She is coming soon again.

Mrs. S. V. Odiorne was the message bearer and many received helpful messages from their friends on the other side of life. Tuesday evening, Nov. 3, Dr. Hubert LeRoy Clough will assist Mrs. S. V. Odiorne at No. 8 Mechanic street meeting at 8 P. M. All welcome.

IS POPULAR IN BROCKTON

It is among the possibilities that Col. Henry L. Kincaide, the candidate for Congress, will be the leading candidate for that office in the city of Brockton tomorrow. The strength that he has developed in the Shoe city has surprised even his most ardent supporters, especially when the Mayor of that city is the regular Republican nominee.

It was a stroke of diplomacy on the part of the Kincaide supporters when they planned at a few hours notice an auto parade to Brockton on Saturday evening. About 7 o'clock 25 or more autos assembled in Kincaide square, and each was supplied with banners and placards. Some of these read as follows: "Vote for Kincaide for Congress, for better business and living conditions;" "Efficiency first —Kincaide;" "Success with Kincaide in Congress;" "Boom Business—Kincaide of Course;" It is a long way to Tipperary But, Not with Kincaide "Kincaide a sure winner;" "Kincaide is going to Congress;" etc., etc. All optomistic.

The autos took a short tour of City Square and then sped to Brockton via Weymouth Landing and South Weymouth. There was not much demonstration until Brockton was reached, but then auto horns tin horns, cheers, red fire, etc., enlivened for an hour the Main street of Brockton, which was crowded with Saturday night shoppers.

HELPFUL WORDS

FROM A QUINCY CITIZEN

Is your back lame and painful?
Does it ache especially after exertion?
Is there a soreness in the kidney region?
These symptoms suggest weak kidneys.
If so there is danger in delay.
Weak kidney get fast weaker.
Give your trouble prompt attention.
Doan's Kidney Pils are for weak kidneys,
Your neighbors use and recommend them.
Read this Quincy testimony.

G. E. Mitchell, prop. restaurant, 26 and 27 Temple street, Quincy, says: "A severe cold, settled in my kidneys and disordered them. I didn't seem able to overcome the trouble until I used one box of Doan's Kidney Pills. I improved at once and since then haven't needed a kidney medicine. I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are a reliable remedy for the back and kidneys."

QUINCY WEST

Saturday evening the Epworth League of the Hall Place M. E. church entertained the Epworth Leagues of Wollaston and Neponset at a Hallowe'en social in the vestry of the church. The room was prettily decorated with cornstalks, lanterns, witches and cats, and with the shaded lights had a weird look. Rev. P. S. Neldon of West Quincy offered prayer. Entertainment was furnished by the three leagues. Miss Clara Goss of Neponset and Miss M. J. Williams of West Quincy gave readings. Miss Grace Manuel of Neponset, accompanied by Miss Grace Bellows of Neponset favored with vocal selections. Raymond Cassidy and Frank Dunham of Wollaston gave a short sketch entitled "The Recruiting Office." Raymond Cassidy took the part of Capt. Dennis Donovan, recruiting officer of the U. S. Navy, while Frank Dunham took the part of Michael O'Brien. The sketch was witty and kept the audience laughing throughout Games were then enjoyed to a late hour. Coffee and doughnuts were served by the entertaining Chapter.

QUINCY WOLLASTON

A Hallowe'en social was held at the Wollaston Congregational church by the Intermediates, Friday evening, Oct. 30, over fifty being present. They had ghost parade, after which they scrambled for peanuts and kisses. Then a fire was lit in the center of the room, and the boys and girls sat around and told ghost tsories. Soon a witch came into the midst and told some very interesting stories. After that games and stunts were played. Before going home refreshments were served. Everyone had a fine time. The vestry was very prettily decorated.

A very pleasant and novel Hallowe'en party at which many schoolmates were present, was tendered Miss Rachel McTear of Beach street on Saturday evening in honor of her twelfth birthday. The interior of the house was decorated with jack-o-lanterns and witches, and the black and orange Hallowe'en colors were much in evidence. All the girls were given witches' hats which they wore and when dancing they presented an appearance altogether appropriate to Hallowe'en. Peanut hunts, marshmallows on strings and many other Hallowe'en games were played, after which a luncheon was served. The table was prettily decorated with black and orange novelties and in the centre was a birthday cake with thirteen candles. Those present were Olive Holland, Dorothy Bishop, Sylvia Black, Ethelle Cleale, Mildred Kappler, Mabelle Kappler, Gladys Payne, Dorothy Benoit, Ruth Drew, Marion Hallett, Dora Harrigan, Julia Polk, Muriel Langelier, Mrs. Black and Mrs. Bishop.

Friday afternoon at 3.00, the Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet with Mrs. Joseph Walther, 81 Prospect avenue. Leader Mrs. Isaiah W. Sneath, Subject—"Temperance and labor."

The Wollaston Y. P. R. U. will give a play "A Dutch Detective" in the Wollaston school hall, Friday, Nov. 27.

The next meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian Club occurs Tuesday evening, Nov. 10.

We take great pleasure in announcing that the preacher at the Wollaston union Thanksgiving service this year is the Rev. Samuel R. Maxwell, the talented minister of the Second church in Boston.

On Friday evening, Oct 30, a Hollowe'en party was given in the vestry of the Park and Downs church by the Womans Guild. An excellent supper was served after which a large crowd enjoyed Hallowe'en program and games.

Friday evening, November 6th the Mens Forum of the Park and Downs church will meet. Supper will be served at 6.45. The program will follow. This is a growing club. There will be a good supper and program.

$5 In Gold Given With Each Suit or Overcoat $18 to $50
2½ Dollar Gold Piece With Overcoats or Suits $10 to $15
You Make a Gold Saving With Each Overcoat or Suit This Week

Forty-First Anniversary of

1873 The Continental 1914

When our doors opened at 8:30 this Monday morning we inaugurated a six days' Anniversary Sale and the close of our forty-first year of successful business. You are invited to celebrate with us. We give on those days Five Dollars in Gold with each Suit or Overcoat (uniforms only excepted) $18 to $50, and a $2.50 Gold Piece with Suits and Overcoats $10 to $15.

This is no Mark-Down Sale. The prices are the same as they were last week and will be after this week's sale. You get your Gold Piece with each Suit or Overcoat.

You buy your outfit at our marked prices and you are presented with a Gold Piece with each Suit or Overcoat. You'll certainly save money as our clothes are marked with the smallest margin of profit and our percentage of expense is the smallest in Boston.

The Reason we repeat the most successful sale of last year is: We made so many new friends---people who had never been to this store and have now become our regular patrons---we have made it a full week's celebration this year so we can properly take care of the crowds. Last year Friday and Saturday we were so crowded we could wait on only a part of the would-be buyers. We respectfully suggest you come early in the week if possible.

You can purchase here the best clothes made in America. We are sole agents for Hart Schaffner & Marx, Kirschbaum's Guaranteed Cloths, and show you Society Clothes, Fashion Clothes and the other prominent and well-known makes.

Never mind what you buy, you get your Gold Piece just as cheerfully with our lower-priced clothes as you do with the $25, $30 or $50 garments.

For cash only---no goods charged.

Just a word about ourselves—Forty-one years ago we opened the big store, corner Washington and Harvard Streets. We moved to this location opening Nov. 2, 1888. Over forty years of success, growing bigger in business and younger in years each year, and this week we commence a new year proposing to make Boston's Greatest Clothing Store better, brighter and livelier than ever.

WARD FOUR RALLY FOR CANDIDATE WALL

Much Criticism of other Mayoralty Candidates by the Speakers

Rival Candidates for Legislature Also Clash

The Ward rally at St. Mary's hall Monday evening was undoubtedly the most entertaining ever held in this city. For four hours the 500 on hand listened to platform arguments before Candidate Wall was presented, and after him came Col. Henry L. Kincaide, who received a flattering welcome although he was invading the precincts of Richard Olney, 2nd.

William McDavitt, Joseph Ecker and the talented Sullivan sisters furnished an entertainment which brought down the house, and encores were forced time and again.

Peter T. Fallon, in opening the meeting said the ward is on the dead end of Quincy, and is known by that title. He painted a bright picture of the future.

All of the speakers gave the voters their reasons why Mr. Wall should be elected and all were given a respectful hearing.

JAMES HAGEN.

James Hagen said no failure has been charged against him in his 35 years of business. He attacked Mr. Campbell charging him as one of the promoters of the Textile Machinery trust, one of the monster iniquitious organizations in existence. Tilden he said was a man who has retired from business and that means one who has gone into his shell and appears only on occasions such as political campaigns.

Candidate Wall entered the hall as Mr. Hagen finished, and the applause for the speaker and the welcome for the candidate were mixed together.

DANIEL DRISCOLL.

Daniel Driscoll discussed a man named Stinson now with the Campbell boosters. He, charged Driscoll, is the man who says the walls and ceilings of City Hall for the past 15 years were rotten with the germs of deception and graft.

Do you, asked Mr. Driscoll, do you think that the late Mayor William T. Shea ever became wealthy on the graft from City Hall? (Cries of No.)

Stinson further stated the people there dance the tango and the laborers do no work, and by the by, said Driscoll, this man Stinson lives in Somerville and votes there, and is he the man to tell the people who have lived here all their lives what is wanted? (cries of No.)

Another candidate, Charles "Historical" Johnson wants election because he served as assessor, and Mr. Johnson while in office was governed by an invisible commission, and I would ask if that is the case, how he can now equalize taxation when he couldn't then. We need Mr. Johnson about as much as the farmer needs the bicycle.

Campbell's chief claim to fame is the fact he run the Rockingham fair. I never heard of anyone in Brockton saying, elect me, I run the Brockton fair. If he runs that fair in conjunction with the auto show and others he will give the city about five minutes of his time.

Driscoll styled him Chester "Impossible" Campbell. He himself says it should be "Invincible" and when the votes are counted continued the speaker, he will be Chester "Invisible" Campbell. (Cheers.

COUNCILMAN CARLSON.

Councilman Carlson said equalization should mean a valuation of $50,000,000. New Haven land is taxed for about a cent, while workmen pay ten. It will take about five years to equalize all. The city has been run on party lines the past 15 years. The Representatives and Mayors have been controlled. One candidate seeking the mayoralty boasts he served as assessor and it was in his time they commenced jumping valuations. One candidate said the city needs a business man, and I have seen some so busy they had no time to do anything.

EX-COUNCILMAN MAHONEY.

John J. Mahoney, former councilman and a favored son, was received with cheers. He said Campbell ca-

Map Showing Furthest Advance of Germans In France and Approximate Present Battle Front.

This map shows the centers of the principal fighting in France and the little corner of Belgium. (1) Violent fighting proceeding in the region south from Nieuport and in the region of the Yser. (2) Progress by the German troops east of Ypres is asserted by Berlin, which speaks of it as "a slow advance." (3) The allies have made perceptible gains in the region between Armentieres and Lille, according to the French war office report. Berlin, on the other hand, says the German troops are advancing southwest of Lille. (4) Operations are being renewed in the Argonne region and to the westward. The French chronicle the seizure of Melzicourt, while the Germans say their troops are moving forward. (5) French advices say the troops in the Woevre district are advancing south of Thiancourt and north of Pont-a-Monsson. The double dotted line indicates the approximate furthest extension of the German advance into France preceding the battle of the Marne.

fall day and as the morning wore on this promise was fulfilled. The caucus officers in the several voting precincts were on hand at 6 o'clock, the hour for the polls to open, but long before that the City Messenger, City Clerk and police officers were at City Hall shippin gthe ballot boxes and ballots to the several precincts. One new ballot box is in use today. That is in Ward Five, where for several elections the box has gone bad. The new box is considerable smaller in size than the others in use, an daside from that it has all of the latest improvements.

Representatives of the candidates seeking the votes of citizens were out early getting out the vote.

In Ward One at 10 o'clock the total vote of the two precincts was 689. In Ward Two at the same hour about 450; Ward Three 600, Ward Four 400, Ward Five 800 and Ward Six 500, a total vote at that hour of

MR. VOTER:

If you were looking for a manager for a corporation doing an $800,000 business annually which one of the Republican mayoralty candidates would you place in the job?

Wouldn't you be mighty particular? Why shouldn't you be just as careful in the choice of a man to manage Quincy's business affairs? Quincy's business is your business. Quincy is a Municipal Corporation receiving and disbursing about $800,000 annually.

If you are a high minded, public spirited citizen you will select the candidate that is qualified for Quincy's biggest job by reason of his record for big things in business life. Why select a candidate because he is a good fellow, or because he needs a job? That isn't business! Quincy's greatest need is a Mayor who is a business expert.

CHESTER I. CAMPBELL is the one candidate who has had a big, broad experience. He has done big things and will do big things for Quincy. Quincy needs his genius and enthusiasm to make the City thrive.

The politicians complain because people have not taken much interest in politics this fall. But they might be still worse off if the people once did take a real interest in politics.

BETTING ON ELECTIONS.

A New York newspaper, at the heart of the national betting ring, remarks that much less betting has been done for a few years past than formerly. And this, in spite of the fact that the number of sports with big rolls increases year by year.

It is a game at which amateurs are worsted. Their warm enthusiasm so colors their judgment that the odds offered by the "talents" look too much like a sure thing.

All known methods of forecasting seem to go wrong nowadays. Each side always issues a statement in which it claims the biggest majority any party ever received. It is about as valuable and sincere as a European war office news bulletin.

Formerly, each political party sent around canvassers who sorted, slated, and labelled each citizen. Most of the people voted the way their fathers used to. By testing out a small section, and comparing them with your card catalog, you had the results by simple computation of percentages.

Somehow, people hate to be tagged nowadays. A leader of a certain section of voters says that canvassers do well to be very careful how they approach this element. If these voters get the notion that some one is trying to swing them, they resent it. Quite likely they would thereby be influenced to vote just the other way, in order to demonstrate their own indivuality and independence. Many people dislike argument, and always refuse to state their political beliefs even in the most casual conversation.

The modern election day is a gambling chance. The sports would better take an option on the weather or baseball. Politicians who make extravagant claims hurt their own cause The one thing that loses most elections is the feeling of party supporters that their side is sure to win, and that their one vote is not needed.

CARRYING YOUR OWN BUNDLES.

Students of economics have long been talking about the way the cost of food products is increased by delivering goods from stores to the consuer's door. Secretary of Commerce Redfield, in a speech just delivered at Boston, urged women to carry their own bundles.

In society circles some women would not now be willing to sally out with a market basket, unless they were sure their neighbors would not see them. It would seem almost socially lowering to carry home a roast of pork.

The ordinary run of people might not thus be affected by the damning appearance of a brown paper parcel. But they do not seem to have time to do their own marketing.

The business man does not probably make quite as long time at his office as formerly. But his time is filled up more closely. His father used to quit work at his place of business rather late, then he would go home and go to bed before nine o'clock. The son has his lodge or his club or an entertainment to attend in the evening. If he takes a half-hour off to visit stores and markets, and do the family shopping, and carry parcels home in his arms, he must either cut down his working hours, or go home late to supper, and cut short his evening of enjoyment.

Where women used to formerly circulate among the markets and grocery stores, now they order largely by telephone. They are governed very considerably by the advertisements they read in the newspapers. They are so busy with church work, bridge, and clubs, that there seems to be no time left for the marketing their mothers used to do.

The store delivery team may not be economic. But it is very popular and beyond doubt has come to stay, because it saves time to the hurried man and woman of today. If a man's time is valuable, it may be worth his while to pay the difference in the higher cost of goods and save the bother. With the majority of persons, it is simply one sign of the growing comfort and luxury of the age.

Ottoman Warships Bombard Sebastopol and Transformed German Cruiser Goeben Is Seriously Damaged—Italy's Interests In North Africa Are Gravely Menaced as Are Those of England—Government Now Has Reason For Entering War on Side of Allies—Martial Law In Egypt—Fighting In Belgium and France Continues a Deadlock

London, Nov. 3.—With characteristic vacillation, the Turk has begun to back down. With equally characteristic slyness he still continues hostilities on land and sea.

Apologies "for recent events in the Black sea" were wired to London, Bordeaux and Petrograd, but in no case was the "apology" accompanied by any reference to the demands of the triple entente ultimatum that the German-Turkish cruisers, Goeben and Breslau, be dismantled and all German officers dismissed from the service of the porte.

While these "apologies" were still passing over the wires, a Turkish squadron, headed by the Goeben, was hurling death and destruction into the historic Black sea port of Sebastopol, in the Crimea, while in a faraway field thousands of Bedouins in the service of Turkey were crossing the Egyptian frontier to worry the English.

Goeben Badly Damaged

It was during the bombardment of Sebastopol that the transformed German cruiser Goeben received her first real baptism of fire since her nominal enrolment under the Turkish flag. The bombardment of the city was vigorously responded to by the guns of the fort, and numerous Russian shells hit the Goeben.

She was evidently seriously damaged, as she was obliged to retire from the fight, and an intercepted wireless message from her read that she was "damaged."

Under such circumstances the tardy apology from the porte received scant consideration from the powers of the triple entente. The French government issued a statement in which it said:

"The Turkish government, in reply to a note of the triple entente powers, confined itself to proposing the recall of Turkish warships in the Dardanelles and expressed a desire to remain at peace with Russia, France and Great Britain. But in default of the dismissal of German officers in the Ottoman service, the governments of the triple entente could not hope that Turkey would be able to maintain the passive attitude which she offered to adopt."

British-Italian Agreement

An agreement between Italy and Great Britain to stand together for the common defense of their colonies in Africa is reported from Rome, although not yet supported by any official statement. Such an agreement, which seems natural under the circumstances, would at last put Italy definitely on the side of the allies, although she may endeavor to confine her activity to opposition to Turkey in defense of Tripoli and her other Mediterranean possessions.

It is admitted in Rome that Italy's interests in North Africa, along the Red sea and in the Aegean, are as gravely menaced as are those of England. In Lybia Italy is as much threatened by Turkey as is England in Egypt.

Since Turkey attacked Russia in the Black sea the war fever in Rome has increased enormously, and since it became known that Turkish troops are moving on Egypt the whole aspect of Italian policy has changed. The government now has a positive, definite reason for bowing to the will of the people and entering the war on the side of the allies.

Martial Law In Sight

Britain has taken prompt measures to stem the Mussulman invasion. Martial law was declared throughout Egypt. The British charge d'affaires at Cairo delivered copies of the proclamation to the diplomatic corps there. On orders from London the commander-in-chief of the British forces took command of the general situation, with power to suppress all outbreaks.

No further word as to the attitude of the Balkan nations has been received in London. A note from Constantinople says the Servian minister will leave there at once, which was, of course, only to be expected.

From Petrograd comes word that at an official meeting in Tiflis, capital of the lieutenancy of Caucasia, Russian, Georgian, Armenian and Moslem councillors reaffirmed the solidarity of the various populations of the Caucasus in the desire to repulse the Turks.

southwestern Belgium and northern France. The most notable event Monday was the recapture by the Germans of the town of Messines, along the stubbornly contested Ypres-la-Bassee front. This place, which the Germans are holding, has been taken and retaken no less than four times since last Saturday, each time with enormous losses in killed and wounded on both sides.

Contrary to all reports circulated during Monday, Ostend and Roulers are still in the hands of the Germans, according to dispatches from Amsterdam.

Losses have been tremendous on both sides during the fighting in Flanders, though both claim minor gains. Every foot of ground is won only at great cost of lives.

So great has been the butchery of late that numbers of German soldiers are said to be entering Holland, preferring to be interned to the end of the war rather than face any longer the murderous fire to which they have been subjected.

There are now 300,000 British in the field, and this number will be increased to 500,000 by Dec. 1.

BERLIN'S EXPLANATION

Turkey Entered War Because She Feared Disruption of Empire

Berlin claims Turkey was forced to throw in her lot with Germany because the porte recognized that an entente victory would mean the disruption of the Turkish empire, with Constantinople, Armenia and Turkestan going to Russia, Arabia to England and Syria to France.

On the other hand, in the event of the defeat of the triple entente nations Turkey was to be guaranteed territorially to be given aid in reconquering the Caucasus and Egypt and be given perhaps something more.

PORT OF SMYRNA CLOSED

Hint That American Missionaries Are In Danger In Turkey

The port of Smyrna is mined and closed, according to official communication to the state department at Washington by way of Constantinople. It was hinted in diplomatic circles that American missionaries are in danger in that city.

Alarm is felt also for the safety of the many American missionaries in the interior. It is feared the lawless marauding of bands of Turkish soldiers will make no distinction between British subjects and American citizens.

CARNEGIE "IN BAD"

His Statue Pelted by People In Native Town In Scotland

A dispatch to a London news agency from Dunfermline, Scot., says local sentiment against Andrew Carnegie because of his alleged pro-German attitude is so strong that the statue of Carnegie, which was erected by the citizens of his native town last June, was pelted by a crowd.

Carnegie films which have been exhibited at moving picture houses have been withdrawn, the correspondent says.

IN NICK OF TIME

Rockefeller Aid For Belgians Just as Food Was Giving Out

Praise for the plans of the Rockefeller foundation for the immediate relief of the non-combatants in Belgium is contained in statements made public at New York by Pierre Mali, Belgian consul general, and Lionel Hagenaers, a member of the Belgian relief committee.

The importance of the Rockefeller foundation relief measures may be realized when it is known that not more than ten days' supplies remain for the Belgian people, according to Hagenaers.

This is the first time the Rockefeller foundation, whose endowment is $100,000,000, has undertaken charitable work in such direct and wholesale way, its philanthropies heretofore having been concerned mainly with work along scientific lines.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

Increases Wanted on Two Appropriatins

A short but busy session of the City Council was held Monday evening. The absent members were Councilmen Bass, Carlson, Ericson, Gelotte and Sodergren.

Although the Finance Committee have a large amount of business still to be considered the committee made no reports having held no meetings since the last meeting of the Council

President Whiton in his usual expeditious manner put the business through with dispatch so that an adjournment was reached shortly after 8 o'clock.

SCHOOL FINANCES.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the School Committee setting forth the need of an additional sum of $2000 for instruction. Referred to Finance Commitee.

A communication asking that the receipts be placed to the credit of the School department as follows:—Industrial evening schools, $200; Industrial day school, $100. Referred to Finance Committee.

From the Mayor appointing Edward J. Cooper a constable. Confirmed.

BURIAL PLACES.

From the Mayor with inclosure from the Managers of Public Burial Places asking for an additional sum of $713. Referred to Finance Committee.

HANCOCK STREET WIRES.

From the Mayor relative to removal of wires on Hancock street between Granite and School streets. The Mayor says that he held a conference with the three companies having wires on the street. The Telephone company said that their wires were already underground. The Street Railway and Electric Light Co., object on account of the expense. The Street Railway Co., expenses for changing its tracks on Hancock street will be $24,000, and if wires are placed underground it would mean an additional expense of $20,000. The cost to the Electric Light Co. would be even more. The three companies however will be glad to co-operate with the Mayor, Commissioner and City Engineer in arranging their overhead wires. Placed on file.

RETIREMENT OF VETERANS.

The Mayor sent a request that the City Council take action to accept chapter 447 of the acts of 1912. In his communication the Mayor states that the city through the City Council and by referendum vote has accepted the acts relative to the retirement of oplice, firemen and laborers. No action however has been taken toward accepting the act which provides for the retirement of veterans of the Civil War in the employ of the city under civil service.

Laid on the table until later when Councilman Barrows offered an order accepting the act.

Councilman Craig believed that before action was taken the order should go to the Legislative Committee.

President Whiton then called Councilman Ross to the chair, and taking the floor said. This country can never do enough for the veterans who responded to the call in time of need. There were but very few veterans in the employ of the city and the number would probably never increase. Of course any Mayor who desired to be vindictive could make it so unpleasant for such veterans that they would resign. He however would not stoop to such an act. No matter whether a veteran did much fighting or not. That was not the question. He responded to the call and was there if the country needed him, and we owe it to them to do all that we can for them now. These men have worked faithfuly for the city and have well earned a vacation. If this act is accepted it will be possible to retire these veterans and give them a vacation to which they are entitled.

Councilman Barrows said that in accepting the act the City Council in no way abridged its power as any order retiring a veteran must first be acted upon by the City Council. The act provides that any veteran who has been in the employ of the city for ten years may be retired. This is the only way we can take care of these old veterans.

On the request of Councilman Bailey the Clerk read the act.

The order was then adopted.

PETITIONS.

A petition was received from Nathan Ames for a gasoline permit. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Beeman offered an order for a public hearing Nov. 16, which was adopted.

A petition of the Telephone Co., for a relocation for one pole on Palmer street and for attachments were granted.

A petition of the Telephone Co., for a locatioh for a new pole on Palmer street was laid on the table until later when Councilman Gilliatt offered an order for a public hearing which was adopted.

A petition for street lights on Albatross road was referred to the Executive.

Applications for minor licenses were referred to the License committee.

The Committee on Licenses reported leave to withdraw on the applications of Peter Gacicia for a permit to transport liquor, and of H. J. Smith for a hackney carriage license. Report accepted.

The same committee reported orders granting minor licenses which were adopted.

CITY ELECTION.

Councilman Craig offered orders calling the city election for Dec. 1, and designating polling places for the same. Adopted.

PUBLIC HEARINGS.

Public hearings were held on the applications of T. Gurney, Old Colony Laundry Co., and A. W. Loud for permits to keep gasoline. Later Councilman Beeman offered orders granting the permits which were adopted.

LARGER FEE.

Councilman Ross offered an order amending the ordinance concerning licenses, changing the fee for billiard and pool tables and bowling alleys to five dollars for each table or alley. The fee at the present time is one dollar for each billiard or pool table, and two dollars for each bowling alley. Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

MORE LIGHT.

Councilman Barnicoat offered an order for a street light at the corner of Bradford street and Madison avenue. Referred to the Executive.

Councilman Gilliatt offered an order for a street light on Green street, Wollaston. To Executive.

On motion of Councilman Bailey it was voted when the Council adjourn it be until Monday evening Nov. 9.

PLAYGROUND.

Councilman Gilliatt offered an order appropriating the sum of $600, in addition to the sum of $4,400 appropriated in an order passed April 11, to purchase land adjoining the Massachusetts Fields school for a school playground, said sum to be transferred from the playground fund.

ELM AVENUE POLES.

The order granting the Street Railway Co., and Telephone Co., a joint location for poles on Elm avenue took its second reading and was passed under suspension of the rules.

Adjourned at 8.25 until Monday Nov. 9.

PARTY AT BRAINTREE.

A Hallowe'en party was given by the Misses Sadie and Esther Nelson of East Braintree and the Misses Esther, Anna and Hilma Viden of Quincy, at 11 Nelson street, East Braintree, Saturday night. The house, outside and inside was profusely decorated with black, orange and blue crepe paper. Witches in airy flight were suspended everywhere among owls and black cats. The dining room was the center of attraction. In the center of the table was a huge pile of fruits and vegetables with small electric lights peeping out among them. Under this pile were hidden fortune rhyme cards tied to yellow and black ribbons to be drawn out by the guests.

A fate cake containing a solitare, thimble and penny was served with the ice cream. Big pumpkin jack-o-lanterns peeped out between the crepe paper draperies and green foliage.

The guests numbered 30 in all and were receieved by Madam witch who dealt out the zig zag partner cards.

FORTY YEARS IN SERVICE.

Oscar H. Munroe of 157 Elm street, Braintree was retired from the Boston postal service, Saturday, on his own suggestion. Mr. Munroe has been in the service for 40 years, but the last year has not enjoyed the best of health. He is a member of Gen Sylvanus Thayer post, G .A. R.

QUINCY'S VOTE FOR GOVERNOR.

"As goes the city so goes the state and nation" is truer today of Quincy than of Hull. It has been verified in every State election since 1889, except 1911, and in every Presidential election since 1875.

During these years the State of Massachusetts has gone Republican sixteen years and Democratic eight years, and so did Quincy. The Nation has gone Republican at six elections and Democratic at two elections, and so did Quincy.

Therefore the Quincy returns November 3 will tell who is elected that day as Governor of Massachusetts. The vote in recent years has been:

ST. GEORGE FUND.

That the devasting and terrible war being waged in Europe will exact its toll of blood, sorrow and privations from numberless firesides throughout the entire British empire is realized by the English born residents of this city, particularly the members of the Sons of St. George society which, through a committee of members has started a fund for the relief of the families of British soldiers and sailors.

To date $75 has been collected here. A similar movement throughout the state has resulted in $1,644.95 being gathered. The Quincy committee consists of Henry J. Rendle, chairman; John Pascoe, treasurer, Charles Best, George Runnells and Edward Warmington.

Their appeal incorporates sentiments which touch the loyalty of all who were born under the English flag, for in it they speak of "the brave fellows who are fighting at the front that the nations shall enjoy the liberty and freedom so dear to all. Substantial aid is needed to alleviate suffering, and therefore the appeal is made to the charitable and generous spirit of Quincy for contributions to a fund."

Thomas L. Williams, the local jeweler, has been appointed treasurer of the fund and all checks, it is announced, should be made payable to him.

POLICE BANQUET.

The Quincy police are arranging to attend the fourth annual banquet, complimentary to the Newton police base ball team, world's police base ball champions of 1914, at Grand Army hall, Chelsea, on Nov. 18. The local team was one of the three to register defeat on the champions. The affair is in charge of President John J. Donovan of Lowell, president of the league, and Edward F. Flannagan of Lowell, secretary. The Quincy men are looking forward to the affair with fond anticipation.

Types of Turkish Fighting Men Now Up In Arms Against Russia.

Photos copyright, 1914, by American Press Association.

Turkey has at last openly joined issue with Germany and Austria against Russia, and the Pandora's box of world troubles seems to have barely little left to spring on the universe. It has long seemed a foregone conclusion that the Turks would snap at Russia with the ultimate hope of regaining much of the territory in Europe that they lost during the Balkan war. These pictures show types of Turkish infantry and naval gunners.

WILL SWEEP CITY

3439. When it is considered that at 1 o'clock a year ago the total vote was 4,803 it will be readily seen that the voting is considerable in excess of what it was last year.

As there are 6,942 registered it will be seen that over fifty per cent had voted at 10 o'clock.

The voting strength by precincts is compared below, 1914 with 1913, there being 295 more voters this year:

	1914	1913
Ward 1, Pre. 1	619	573
Ward 1, Pre. 2,	871	783
Ward 2, Pre. 1,	318	344
Ward 2, Pre. 2,	601	547
Ward 3, Pre. 1,	662	637
Ward 3, Pre. 2,	517	551
Ward 4, Pre. 1,	510	486
Ward 4, Pre. 2,	478	487
Ward 5, Pre. 1,	669	668
Ward 5, Pre. 2,	646	581
Ward 6, Pre. 1,	590	559
Ward 6, Pre. 2,	481	431
Total	6942	6,647

The indications are that Col. Kincaide will carry Quincy by a large plurality, and that Candidate McCall and the Republican State ticket will have a plurality.

VOTE LAST YEAR.

At the State election last year 5,268 votes were cast in Quincy as compared with 5,681 in 1912. The vote by precincts was:

	1912	1913

Feats of a Strong Man.

Well known in the old buffalo days of Saskatchewan was Joe Beaupre, famed a thousand miles as the biggest eater in the north. Joe was not six feet tall, but he was a broad, deep, thick sort of man, with a hand like a ham and a stomach like nothing else in the world. He would eat an entire boxful of apples at one sitting and think nothing of it. Once, having encountered a gentleman who thought he was some eater, Joe consumed fifty-three pounds of buffalo meat in one day and topped off with a raw turnip, a six pound piece of pork, some lard and two loaves of bread. The best his competitor could do was thirty-seven pounds of meat. Beaupre was so strong he never would fight any man for fear he should kill him. One day, while sledding on a narrow trail with an obstinate horse, he became angered, struck the horse on the head with his fist and killed it. He loosened the harness and threw the dead animal on one side of the trail. He never really knew how strong he was. Beaupre died of rheumatism while still a young man.—Saturday Evening Post.

The Seventh Inning Stretch.

It is a simple ceremonial, but impressive, like all manifestations of the soul of a multitude. I need only close my eyes to call up the picture vividly. It is a day of brilliant sunshine, and a great crowd of men is seated in the open air, a crowd made up of all conditions, ages, races, temperaments and states of mind. The crowd has sat there an hour or more, while the afternoon sun has slanted deeper into the west and the shadows have crept across greensward and hard baked clay to the eastern horizon. Then, almost with a single motion—the time may be somewhere between 4 o'clock and 5 o'clock—this multitude of divers minds and tempers rises to its feet and stands silent, while one might count twenty perhaps. Nothing is said. No high priest intones prayer for this vast congregation. Nevertheless, the impulse of 10,000 hearts is obviously focused into a single desire. When you have counted twenty the crowd sinks back to the benches. A half minute at most and the rite is over.—Simeon Strunsky in Atlantic.

Hidden Ability.

Old Washington White and young Calhoun Clay entered a dancing competition. But age was against Wash, and his boots, a pair of cowhides six or seven sizes too large, were against him too. The prize was awarded to the younger man.

"Look-a-yere, Misto Empire," Uncle Wash growled, "whaffor yo' give de prize toe him?"

"Kase he done mo' beats 'n yo' done."

"Go long, man!" said Uncle Wash. "I done a lot o' steps in dese yere big boots what yo' never see!"—New York Tribune.

Kind Editors.

Needless to say, the night was cold. Brrr!

"We have used up the last stick of wood in the house," said the young artist to the brooding poet as they sat beside the embers of a fire. "What shall we do? Must I sacrifice my latest canvas?"

"Hold!" said the poet. "I shall bring my rejected slips."

And they kept the fire going all night. —New York Post.

Muscles of the Head.

The head has seventy-seven muscles —eight for the eyes and eyelids, one for the nose, eight for the lips, eight for the jaw, eleven for the tongue, eleven for the larynx, eleven for the ears, seventeen for motions of the head and neck, one to move the hairy scalp and one for the eyebrows.

CHURCH AND CHOIR

THE FIRST PARISH.

"When Prof. Munsterberg talks about the issues of the European war, his opinion carries no more weight than that of any man of average intelligence;" said the Rev. A. L. Hudson in the course of his sermon on "The Incarnation;" "but when he speaks on a subject embraced in the field of physiological psychology he speaks with the commanding authority of a leading expert. It is therefore exceedingly significant that he is reported this week to have said that science can no longer consistently deny the existence of the soul. In other words science, facing the mystery of life's deeper meanings is forced to recognize the entire reasonableness of the Christian faith in the Incarnation.

Mr. Hudson took as a text the words "God was manifest in the flesh," and said that these words state the universal faith of humanity. In all ages men have believed that the eternal and infinite God could and did express himself in ways that could be understood by finite man. The efforts of men's minds to explain this truth have been crude, materialistic and childish; but the fact is in no way impaired by explanations which now seem to us absurd. Faith survives when man-made creeds have passed away. Men have felt, and truly felt the presence of God in images, cathedrals, forms and creeds, or in the beauty and majesty of nature. And in all these ways the aim is the same; to realize the immediate possibility of man, in his varied needs, to feel the presence of God in his own life with power to protect, to inspire, to strengthen and console.

We are broad enough to recognize that the devout and faithful Buddhist really finds God and receives divine aid and comfort in his worship of the Buddha, that to the earnest Moslem Allah is in very truth the Eternal God and Mahommet is his Prophet. But we are not Buddhists nor followers of the crescent. We are Christians; and have been reared in the Christian faith. For us the supreme incarnation of the will of God must be found in the life, the teachings and the personality of Jesus Christ. That is what we mean when we say that we believe in the Fatherhood of God and the Leadership of Jesus. We believe that the Divine Will incarnates itself in every human soul, that God manifests himself in all things. But human life has always needed leadership. Without it we have no moral standards, but drift into social chaos. What Christendom needs today is an intelligent revival of faith in its Leader, Lord and Master, in order to save the social order from disintegration and the individual from moral degeneracy.

Selfishness and commercialism combined with lust of power have led the nations of the old world into fratricidal and self-destructive war. The same forces in the new world are bringing us to the verge of social revolution. For us there is and can be but one solution of this pressing problem; and that is an earnest renewal of our Christian faith and a willingness to serve the cause. This duty rests alike on all; but it comes with especial claims to liberal Christian churches, of whatever name, which undertake to keep in touch with the progressive spirit and scientific temper of the time.

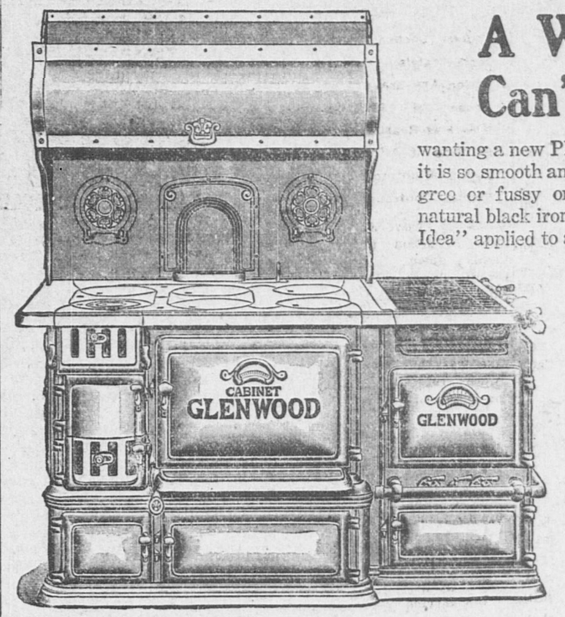

Next Sunday morning Mr. Hudson will preach upon "The significance of the cross."

PARK AND DOWNS.

Park and Downs Forum is the name of new club for men just organized by 42 men of the Park and Downs Congregational church. Its object is religious civic and social affairs: It is non-sectarian, and from the enthusiasm manifested at its formation it bids fair to be one of the (if not the) leading clubs in this vicinity. Its officers are men not only progressive but aggressive. It has addresses, and only a nominal fee of 25 cents for suppers and entertainments. Its meetings will occur once a month when supper will be served at 6.45 P. M. so that men coming from the trains and their duties of the day can come right there. The next meeting will be on Friday of this week with supper at 6.45. New members are solicited, and those desiring to join this up to date club, should send notice at once of their interest to Rev. Wm. B. Ayers, 38 Beach street, Wollaston, that provision may be made accordingly.

wanting a new Plain Cabinet Glenwood; it is so smooth and easy to clean, no filigree or fussy ornamentation, just the natural black iron finish.—"The Mission Idea" applied to a range.

The improved baking damper, heat indicator, revolving grate and roller bearing ash pan make it the most wonderful Cooking Machine ever devised to make housekeeping drudgless.

This Range is also made with Elevated Gas Oven instead of End Style as shown.

If gas is not desired, it can be had with large copper reservoir on the end opposite fire box. It can be furnished with fire box at either right or left of oven, as ordered.

MRS. LUCINDA A. THAYER.

The passing on to a better world of Mrs. Lucinda A. Thayer casts a gloom over a large circle of friends. She was born in Braintree on November 2, 1826, the daughter of John Hancock and Lois Thayer.

Throughout her early life she was a splendid type of woman, a leader in musical circles and church work. She was a member of the Universalist church of Weymouth at the time Rev. Mr. Livermore was the preacher.

On February 22, 1849, she married Lewis Thayer. They lived to celebrate their golden wedding in 1899. Mr. Thayer died a few years ago.

About a week or so ago Mrs. Thayer received the silver loving cup of Braintree for being the oldest lady resident of that town.

It was a pleasure to converse with Mrs. Thayer, because she was so amiable, lovable, and modern in her line of thought. She was always ready to do a loving kindness in case of want or trouble and proved to be an ideal mother, grandmother, sister and friend.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William Hayden of Braintree and one sister, Mrs. Joseph Warren Hayden of Quincy.

MARSHALL—WHITTAKER.

Miss Edna E. W. Whittaker of 45 Weymouth street, Houghs Neck and Edward C. Marshall of Boston, were married in Boston Oct. 27. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George W. Young of Boston. The certificate of marriage was filed early in September and the friends of the young lady at Houghs Neck were not aware of the ceremony until Sunday.

FORE RIVER LEAGUE.

The Machine Gallery still retains a comfortable mark in both wins and percentage in the Fore River bowling league, but the runner up of the team, the treasurer's office representatives who entered last week, enjoy a high percentage but few wins. The rivalry between the bowlers grows warmer with each match and ere long the men will be bitter enemies when in competition.

The feature of the week was Tirrell's showing which resulted in his tieing Mahoney's single record of 128. The Machine Gallery made a new mark with a team single of 505 and their new total is 1442. The standing:

FORE RIVER BOWLING

Machine Gallery Roll Highest Total.

Only one of six teams secured a 1400 total in the regular Fore River league matches at the Coliseum alleys Monday evening and despite the efforts of Tirrell, who got 320 in trying to beat the three string record of Mahoney at 328, and the total of McKenzie who made 315, there were no exceptionally big totals. Several individual strings were made that were of high calibre.

The Machine Gallery beat the Electricians 3 to 1. The first string went wide for the Electricians, the second reversed and in the third the gallery increased its lead and copped the total.

BROCKTON HIGH COMING

The football team of the Quincy High school, encouraged by the fine team improvement as shown in the game with Revere Friday afternoon, commenced a week of hard practice Monday in preparation for the game with Brockton High at the Merrymount oval on Friday afternoon.

The practice was at Weymouth where they scrimmaged with the High school team of that town. Particular attention was given to tackling, several of the men displaying a woeful lack of knowledge in that department in the game against Revere.

A special feature of the last two games was the support given by the student body. Organized into cheering sections under the leadership of "Reggie" Gay, Willard Crocker and "Shauneen" Shaughnessey, they rehearse daily. The numbers attending the games has increased to about 200 with the outlook promising additional attendance.

Most remarkable is the cheering of the girls of the school, which at times is heard loud and clear above the lusty lunged boys. The girls however specialize in the singing of the school songs, all of which are parodies on popular song hits.

DEATH LIST OF TWELVE

Others Who Partook of "Liquor" Containing Wood Alcohol May Die

Bristol, Vt., Nov. 3.—Twelve persons have died as a result of drinking liquor which contained wood alcotol last Saturday.

All the victims, it is charged by the authorities, purchased the liquor at the drug store of D. A. Bisbee, who was arrested.

As death after death was reported feeling in the town ran high. Bitter remarks against Bisbee were voiced by excited men, and the sheriff feared that an attempt might be made to get at his prisoner.

Officers took Bisbee to the county jail at Middlebury so there might be no occasion for an outbreak.

Those who have died are believed to be only about one-quarter of the number who drank liquor said to have been purchased at Bisbee's store. Several are reported dangerously ill.

Bisbee, the police allege, mistook a can of wood alcohol for grain alcohol. A quantity of liquor seized at his pharmacy has been sent to the state laboratory for examination.

$15,000,000 IN GOLD

Reaches Boston on Treasure Train From Federal Mint at Denver

Boston, Nov. 3.—The largest shipment of gold that ever came to Boston, comprising $15,000,000 in United States coin, arrived direct from the federal mint at Denver, where it was coined. It is understood it is for the new federal reserve bank which opens in a fortnight.

Every possible precaution to safeguard the treasure was taken from the moment it left the mint until it was packed in the government vaults here. It filled two steel cars of a through express train and was watched every minute, day and night, by an armed guard of twelve men, furnished in relays of 500 miles.

The gold came in 3000 canvas bags, about $5000 in each bag. Each bag weighed nineteen pounds, a total of 57,000 pounds for the total shipment.

TRIED AS A SPY

Sealed Verdict Returned In Case of a New York Man

London, Nov. 3.—The trial by court martial of Carl H. Lody of New York, charged with being a German spy, came to an end and it was announced that the sentence must be confirmed by the army officers commanding the home district before it is made public.

Lody was charged with selling information to the German government during time of war. Counsel for Lody did not deny the prisoner was guilty of war treason, but pleaded that the prisoner believed that he was doing his duty. This, the lawyer argued, should mitigate in the defendant's favor.

A sealed verdict was reached after six minutes of deliberation.

AGAIN A CANDIDATE

Wilson Will Endeavor to Secure Another Term In White House

Washington, Nov. 3.—On the eve of the congressional election it became known that men close to President Wilson are working on the understanding that he will be a candidate in 1916, despite his own silence on the subject, and that they have begun preparations for the campaign.

White House officials say Wilson is confident that both senate and house will be safely Democratic as the result of today's elections. Predictions were made that the majority in the house will be more than fifty and that the present majority in the senate will be increased.

PEDLER WAS MURDERED

Revealed by Autopsy on Body of Woman Found at Andover

Andover, Mass., Nov. 3.—Katoun Thomas, the itinerant pedler, who disappeared on Oct. 10, was murdered, it was established, when the body found near a cemetery in Andover was identied as that of the Thomas woman.

Her skull was fractured, and a deep gash behind the right ear appears to have been made by a hatchet. Medical Examiner Dow declares it was a case of murder.

DEPORTED TO CUBA

Punishment of Huerta Leader Who Threatened Americans

Washington, Nov. 2.—Secretary of Labor Wilson signed a warrant for the deportation from San Antonio, Tex., to Cuba, of Louis Hernandez, for threats made against Consul Silliman and ten other Americans arrested at Saltillo at the time of the American occupation of Vera Cruz.

Hernandez had pleaded not to be sent back to Mexico to meet the fate of other Huerta leaders.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Charles W. Newcomb, a Malden, Mass., contractor, was arrested on a manslaughter charge. His automobile knocked down and fatally injured Evelyn Fall, 50.

Payroll reductions for last week amounting to $3850.29 in two departments, as compared with last year's payrolls for the corresponding week, were announced by Mayor Curley of Boston.

Three dead and one probably fatally injured was the toll of automobile accidents in and around New York for one day.

CAMPBELL AT THE POINT

Says He Will Take Voters into His Confidence

The old town meeting is to be revived in Quincy if Chester I. Campbell is elected Mayor, according to a statement he made in a speech at the Town River yacht club Monday evening. Mr. Campbell said that when he became Quincy's chief executive that from time to time he was going to take the citizens into his confidence and discuss with them the needs of their particular sections at gatherings along the plan of the old town meeting .

I believe that a great deal of good would come of such meetings declared Mr. Campbell. It would give the Mayor an intimate idea of the things most desired and would also give him a chance to state his side of the case in an equally frank and honest way.

The man who wants to be a success as Mayor of Quincy has got to keep his hand on the public pulse. He can't play hide and seek, for after all he is a servant of the people. The closer he gets to the citizens and cooperates with them the more efficient his work as chief executive will be.

It is possible that this will add a great deal of work to the Mayor's job, but the man who wants to be on the job has got to do it. He has got to do everything in his power to cooperate, not only with the citizens but with every department head.

No matter how capable department heads are the greatest efficiency is not obtained unless they are one, harmonious whole, all pulling together for the common cause. This was one of the great faults with many of our past chief executives. It seems as if they thought that it was a part of the position to be antagonistic with the members of the City Council, the School Board and every department head.

Now every good business man knows to insure the highest standard of efficiency from his working force he has got to co-operate with them. He has got to bend with the storm. After all these machines are made up of humans, and must be handled with tact. You have got to make them feel that you are with them. You have got to encourage them.

Quincy needs all the help that can be given her. She is suffering from an ill that can only be cured by a strict application of business methods. It would be false if I stated that there is any corruption or graft in the administration of our municipal affairs, but I do believe that the city is in a bad way from neglect.

The most powerful corporations would soon decay if they lacked organization and harmony. Now this great municipal corporation of ours receives and disburses over $800,000 annually without a single modern business method in a single department.

I have no pre-election promises to make except that I will install some system and method in the conduct of our government. I have had a broad business experience. My work qualifies me to frankly claim that I am expert in commercial lines that call for more than ordinary ability as an executive, organizer and an administrator.

Recently I was called in to manage a project that required me in two months to transplant a town of fifteen hundred men in a small country village in New Hampshire. It required a police force a great deal larger than the city of Quincy ever boasted; its sanitary and health department was larger than ours, and had to provide perfect sanitation for 50,000 people daily and over a thousand head of cattle and horses. We had our street department that even built roads a finance department and in addition to this, we had to house and feed 1500 employees.

I am giving these facts so you can decide in your own mind, whether or not I am qualified to properly organize, administrate and execute the affairs of this city upon a strict business basis. This is only one of the many big business affairs that I handle and which require the work of an efficiency engineer and business expert.

I am not going to ask you to vote for me. I want you to look over the records of men who aspire to the high office that I am seeking, and chose the one you believe has had the proper training to give Quincy a business administration.

The rooms of the Town River Yacht Club were too small to hold the crowd that turned out to hear Mr. Campbell. Many left as they were unable to crowd into the club. John Hendry was the presiding officer. A. L. Stinson and Alexander Falconer were the other speakers.

Representative Sandberg, through the kindness of the Campbell committee, was invited to address the meeting in his own behalf.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mr. Campbell visited the headquarters of the Progressives in Atlantic where he made a brief speech. G. B. Bates was also present and spoke.

WOLVES OF LABRADOR.

Story of a Child and the Squaws Who Tried to Save Her.

A Labrador missionary, says Mortimer Batten in the Wide World Magazine, told me a curious story which occurred on the Labrador coast some years ago. One night the little daughter of a certain brave was missing, and, on discovering the child's tracks in the snow, a party of squaws set out to look for her.

What was their alarm when, a little way from camp, they found that the footprints of a great gray wolf accompanied those of the child. The brute did not appear to have harmed her, but had apparently frisked along ahead, enticing the child farther and farther from camp. In all probability the child mistook it for a dog and followed readily, though the superstitious Indians, of course, believed that the brute had exercised some devilish influence over her.

Darkness was creeping on and, though much afraid, the squaws continued to follow the tracks of the wolf and the child. Night found them far from home, when what was their horror to find that they themselves had been deceived and were now surrounded by wolves!

Only one squaw survived the night of horror that ensued to return next morning to bear tidings of the calamity to camp.

SHORTHAND BLUNDERS.

Misplaced or Wrong Vowels Lead to Queer Translations.

A volume could be filled with amusing stories of shorthand mistakes, the greater number of them due to mistaken vowels. For instance, "This day is big with fate" was transcribed "This day is big with fat," while "Do not indulge in spite", came out "Do not indulge in spit," and "A house of many gables" was transcribed into "A house of many gabbles."

The use of the wrong vowel may have the most amusing result, as in the phrase "Man, know thyself," which was once converted in the report of a sermon into "Man, gnaw thyself." To misplace a vowel is in shorthand the easiet thing in the world. T. A. Reed, the well known reporter, tells of a pupil who by this means turned "mighty acts" into "mighty cats," and another report of a sermon was spoiled by the advice "Return a blow with an ax," instead of, "a kiss."

The "reporting style," in which the vowels are omitted altogether for the sake of rapidity, is responsible for the famous American story of the shorthand clerk who took down a note of his wife's instruction to "be sure to remember to bring home some castile soap" and, as a result, returned home with a tin of oxtail soup!—London Strand Magazine.

No Airs About Her.

"Airs!" exclaimed the proud mother and shook her head vigorously. "My Elsie, for all her learning, hasn't any more airs, so to speak, than her poor old dad."

"Then she won't turn up her nose at her old friends?" queried the visitor.

"La, no!"

"How refreshing! Most girls who go through college nowadays will hardly look at you after they're graduated."

"Well, they ain't like my Elsie, that's all I can say," retorted Elsie's ma. "She's become a carnivorous reader, of course, and she frequently importunates music, but stuck up—my Elsie? Not a bit! She's unanimous to everybody, has a most infantile vocabulary and, what's more, never keeps a caller waiting while she dresses up. No, she just runs down, nom de plume, as she is."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Her Dainty Speech.

There was one young woman in the box party at the theater who took no part in the noisy clatter and giggle. With her gaze fixed upon the stage she watched the progress of the play, indifferent to the gayety around her except that her delicate, aristocratic, finely chiseled features bore a look of weariness and a scornful smile curled her lips. At last, however, she turned her head slowly and looked at the other members of the party. Then she spoke to the elderly matron sitting by her side. "That chicken in the blue kimono," she said, "thinks she is the whole custard!"—Argonaut.

Linen of Bohemia.

One of the oldest and most important industries of northern Bohemia is that of linen weaving, which furnishes employment under favorable conditions to fully 25,000 people, who are so skilled and clever in the production of fine linens that these goods are favorably known and find a ready market in all parts of the world.

Chloroform.

Chloroform was the result of ages of experiment in an effort to do away with the pain of surgical operations. Opium and many other drugs had been tried with more or less success. In executions by crucifixion vinegar and gall or myrrh were given to the victim to stupefy him.

GOODS RECOVERED.

Juveniles are thought to be connected with the theft of articles from the rear of the Winer store, Adams block, City square, during the past week. Among the goods taken was a case containing eight dozen lantern globes. Patrolman James Murray in making an investigation recovered two of four automobile lights, the loss of which had not been discovered, and before Tuesday he hopes to recover all of the stolen property. The fire prevention rules which went into effect a month ago require that boxes and packing can no longer be left in the rear of buildings over night and boys have been carrying it away. It is thought that they are responsible for the thefts.

AMERICA'S OPPORTUNITY

There are altogether too many pessimists in this country who are letting about the effect of the European war on business. Coming as it did immediately after a period of depression it kindled anew in the minds of some people the feeling that prosperity would not return for a long time. As a matter of fact the war's big cost will fall on Europe and as soon as the final treaties of peace are signed the commercial and financial ascendency of the United States is bound to begin—then we will have to get busy and figure out ways and means to fill orders helping Europe and Europe and we will have no time to lament over anything.

As a result of the war there has been a more or less disarrangement of business and finance, but it is now well in hand and will entirely stop as soon as peace is in sight—and that should be soon.

This war has given the United States a greater opportunity to increase its foreign trade than any other country has ever had. German foreign commerce is practically stopped and the commerce of other European nations at war is very severely affected. A large part of this trade will surely come to us if we are properly equipped to take it over. The opportunity presented requires a first-class merchant marine which this country has not had since the Civil war. With the re-establishment of a merchant marine the commerce of the United States will again be transported to all parts of the world in American bottoms, and we will become the greatest financial power in the world. We believe some new records for big business are not far ahead for the entire United States of America. Let us supply America's needs. This alone will make business improve greatly.

Certain-teed Roofing is for sale by dealers everywhere at reasonable prices.

WHITWELL STREET PARTY.

Two scores of friends tendered a Hallowe'en surprise party to Paul E. Palmgren, 23 years, at his home at 224 Whitwell street, on Saturday evening, and included in those present were friends from Boston, Lynn, Malden, Salem and Braintree.

A gold mounted fountain pen was presented to Mr. Palmgren the presentation being made by John W. Anderson of the E. J. Murphy pharmacy.

During the evening a musical program was rendered and vocal solos were given by Harry S. Anderson. Hallowe'en games were enjoyed and suitable prizes awarded the winners. Refreshments were served.

The house was tastefully decorated for the occasion with the Hallowe'en colors, potted plants and ferns. The affair was in charge of a committee of which Miss Hazel Johnson was chairman.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts

Superior Court. Norfolk, ss.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court next to be holden at Dedham within and for the county of Norfolk:

Respectfully libels and represents Edwin J. Foster of Quincy in said county that he was lawfully married to Fannie B. Foster now of Chicago, Illinois at Waterloo, Wisconsin on the 19th day of December A. D. 1874, and thereafterwards your libellant and the said Fannie B. Foster has never lived together as husband and wife in this Commonwealth but the said libellant has lived and resided in this Commonwealth for more than five consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel; that your libellant has always been faithful to his marriage vows and obligations but the said Fannie B. Foster being wholly regardless of the same at said Chicago in the month of June A. D. 1910, utterly deserted him and has continued such desertion from that time to the date hereof, being more than three consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Fannie B. Foster.

Dated the thirtieth day of September A. D. 1914.

EDWIN J. FOSTER.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Norfolk, ss. Superior Court.

On the foregoing Libel, it is ordered that the Libellant give notice to the said Fannie B. Foster the Libellee, to apear before the Justices of this Court, to be holden at Dedham, within and for said County, on the first Monday of December next, by causing an attested copy of said Libel, and of this order thereon, to be published once in a week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper printed at Quincy in the County of Norfolk, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the said first Monday of December next, and farther, by sending through the mail, as soon as may be, by a registered letter addressed to the last known residence of the said Fannie B. Foster an attested copy of said Libel, and of this order thereon, that the said Fannie B. Foster may then and there show cause why the prayer of said Libel should not be granted.

By the Court,

LOUIS A. COOK, Clerk.

October 10, A. D. 1914.

A true copy of said Libel, and of Order thereon. Attest:

R. B. WORTHINGTON,
Assistant Clerk.

CAMPAIGN ENDS IN WHIRLWIND

Three Parties Striving For Ascendancy In Bay State

THREE AMBITIOUS TOWNS

Westfield, Revere and Attleboro May Decide to Become Cities—Half-Holidays For Laborers to Be Balloted On—Outline of Issues Put Forth by Candidates

Boston, Nov. 3.—Massachusetts voters are at the polls today to elect a governor, a lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, state auditor and attorney general.

Voters in the sixteen congressional districts of the state will register their choice among the list of candidates to represent the districts and the state at Washington.

Forty state senators and 240 members of the state house of representatives will be elected in various legislative districts of the commonwealth.

Eight members of the governor's council will be chosen, one from each of the councilor districts. County officers will be elected in the fourteen counties.

In addition to the election of officers, the people of the whole state will vote on two questions submitted for their ratification by the last legislature, as follows:

"Shall an act passed by the general court in the year 1914 to make Saturday a half-holiday, without loss of pay, for laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by or on behalf of the commonwealth and otherwise to regulate their employment, be accepted?"

"Shall the act passed by the general court in the year 1914, providing for the abolition of party enrolment at primary elections, be accepted?"

Each city and town will decide for itself by ballot whether or not to accept the provisions of an act passed by the last legislature giving laborers employed by cities and towns an annual vacation of two weeks.

Voters in the towns of Westfield, Revere and Attleboro will decide whether or not to become cities and accept the provisions of charters framed for their acceptance by the last legislature.

Various minor questions, affecting local communities, will be voted upon in certain sections of the state.

The campaign wound up last night with the usual whirlwind tours. Mr. McCall, Republican, made his final speech before a big crowd in Winchester, his home town; Mr. Walker, Progressive, spoke at well attended rallies in Lynn and elsewhere, and Governor Walsh, Democrat, finished with a tour of the Boston wards, getting a big reception all along the line.

The Republicans have made as their principal issue a charge of extravagance in both national and state administrations and have emphasized the failure of the Underwood tariff bill to reduce the high cost of living.

The Progressives have devoted most of their attention to the Republicans, and have wasted but little ammuniton on the administration of the governor.

The Democratic issue appeals to the state to stand by President Wilson and support him in the crisis brought about by the European war. But Governor Walsh has made his record at the state house the issue.

Next to the head of the ticket the most interesting contest is for Lieutenant governor. The inactivity of the Progressives so far as supporting candidates on the state ticket, other than governor, has made the results in this fight very doubtful. The fight for lieutenant governor looks very much like an even thing and there is no question but that the remainder of the Democratic state ticket will not have as easy a time of it as last year.

Last year's vote for governor was: Walsh, Dem., 183,267; Bird, Prog., 127,775; Gardner, Rep., 116,705; Foss, Ind., 20,171.

Vermont's Senatorial Fight

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 3.—Interest in the contest between United States Senator Dillingham and Charles A. Prouty, who seeks the senate seat, overshadows all else in the state election. The movement in support of Prouty, who was indorsed by Progressives, Prohibitionists and Democrats, after nomination by a non-partisan organization, has gained considerable strength, but definite ground for comparison with the probable support of Dillingham, who is the Republican nominee, is lacking. Republicans, Democrats and Progressives each have state tickets in the field, but activities in their behalf suffered because of the senatorial campaign.

In Rhode Island

Providence, Nov. 3.—The political campaign was concluded with rallies in all parts of the state, the closing hours bringing optimistic predictions from managers of both sides. Joseph P. Burlingame, chairman of the Republican state central committee, said Beeckman will be elected governor by about 4000.

John B. Sullivan, head of the Democratic state committee, said Quinn will be elected governor by 5000 votes.

VESUVIUS AGAIN ACTIVE

Special Prayers by Inhabitants In Vicinity of Volcano

Naples, Nov. 3.—Mount Vesuvius is again in eruption and the inhabitants in its vicinity have become greatly alarmed. Special prayers were made and processions of people went to favored shrines, as a repetition of the disaster of 1906 is feared.

The activity of the volcano first manifested itself by deep detonations and rumblings. This was followed by gigantic columns of smoke and soon thereafter an abundant eruption of lava began.

The last serious eruption of Mt. Vesuvius occurred in the spring of 1906. Several villages were destroyed and the property loss was estimated at $20,000,000. About 500 persons were killed and 50,000 were rendered homeless.

CONFLICT IS FEARED

Carranza Has Not Recognized New President of Mexico

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 3.—Although General Carranza has announced that he was disposed to give up his executive power at the completion of the transactions of the Aguascalientes convention, the first chief of the constitutionalists has not recognized Eulalio Gutierrez, appointed by the convention to be temporary president of Mexico.

Carranza, now in power at the national capital, issued a further demand for explanations from the convention, which previously had retired both himself and Villa. Evidences point to a possible conflict between the Carranza and Villa factions, it is said. It is reported that both sides have begun movement of troops.

PLEA OF INSANITY

Likely to Be Offered by Ensign Charged With Theft Aboard Ship

Boston, Nov. 3.—Insanity will probably be the defense of Ensign Earl W. Robinson of the battleship New Jersey, who is being tried by a general court martial at the navy yard here on a charge of theft from the officers of the ship.

The offense was committed some time ago while the ship was en route from Vera Cruz to Boston. Every attempt to discover the culprit failed and finally the case was placed in the hands of private detectives. The matter was not brought to a head at the time on account of the trouble in Mexico.

JAPS WATCH HONOLULU

May Have Been Cause of Midnight Conference of Officials

Honolulu, Nov. 3.—A midnight conference was held between Collector of the Port Franklin, Deputy Collector Sharp and the Japanese consul here, and wireless messages were exchanged with the United States revenue cutter Thetis, patrolling outside the harbor.

Two Japanese cruisers, the Hizen and the Asama, are hovering outside the harbor, where the Thetis is on duty, but whether the conference and the messages had to do with them or not could not be learned.

Teamster Found Dying

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 3.—Joseph Goulet, 52, a teamster, was found fatally injured two miles outside of North Chelmsford. It is believed Goulet fell from his wagon and was run over. He died in a short time.

Death From Football

Pittsburg, Nov. 3.—James Levery, 19, died in a hospital here from injuries received in a football game. He was buried in a scrimmage and his back broken.

WARD FOUR RALLY

tered to a class of men who went to rallies wearing silk hats, carrying canes, men who will never support a candidate from Ward Four.

He said it was soft for Tilden, to retire as a business man. As a treasurer his success was due to the preparation of the documents by another, and the most illiterate man in the audience could fill the office as capably as he.

In speaking of Edward Fegan, the Democratic nominee, he said he would make a mighty poor business man since lawyers have a peculiar faculty of getting debits and credits mixed. Lawyers are so clever they can manipulate documents so we will not know whether we live here or in Brockton. He spoke of Charles Johnson being the truant officer without calling the office by name, and said Bates is clever and some are foolish enough to believe he will be mayor, and said John, wagging his head in a knowing way, a man who is not a good subordinate will never make a superior.

He again referred to Campbell, saying I am doing a lot of picking on that man, but I don't like the name. He assured the voters if Campbell is elected there will be a colored page in uniform at the door of the Mayor's office.

ARTHUR L. THOMAS.

Arthur L. Thomas reported one office holder as saying Wall was the only candidate who was a gentleman, but he didn't like the gang. Look us over said Arthur, we are all here and he pointed out the speakers.

And said Arthur, as the Sullivan sisters, arrived here are some more of the gang, what do you think, and the cheers came hot and fast.

PROF. EDGREN.

Prof. Edgren of Harvard, in a short speech full of complimentary sayings about the candidate disclosed a secret when he said he knew Wall 32 years ago, and he had the same silver top then.

WILLIAM McDAVITT.

At this point William McDavitt was introduced. He was given thunderous applause. The crowd called for Tipperary but the deputy sheriff didn't know the words. As he finished the first verse of his encore, Temple A. Winsloe jumped forward, took him affectionately by the arm, and said, some day we are going to talk Wall into office, others say we are going to sing Wall into office, but I never attempted to do anything in my life that my boyhood friend, Bill McDevitt didn't put his shoulder to the wheel to help me accomplish it. The soloist, made a short speech in which he touched briefly on politics, how he liked them, and after he added his word of praise to Mr. Wall he sang an Irish song and the crowd joined in the chorus:

ALFRED MARR.

Alfred Marr of Quincy Point registered his protests against the administration, and said he bought a piece of land for $900 and it is assessed for $5050, and said he, with the present Board of Assessors I wouldn't have to wait long to be a millionaire.

DAVID McINTOSH.

David McIntosh made a rapid fire speech and was immediately termed "Flashlight." In speaking of Alexander Falconer, campaign manager for Mr. Campbell, he said, Falconer rode into influence on the back of Jonathan Swingle; into the ring of political sagacity on the back of Temple A. Winsloe; and on the back of Chester I. Campbell he will ride into the ring of political oblivion.

Other speakers to follow were John Murdock, W. E. Robinson, Neil McDonald and former Senator Morrison.

TEMPLE A. WINSLOE.

Temple A. Winsloe, presented by Peter T. Fallon as the great "I am," preceded the candidate, and in taking a fling at those who said he was going to sell autos to the city he took a fling at the present administration, by saying the kind of machines he sold could not be purchased by the city while its present finanical condition continued. He told of how the taxpayers association endorse M. Wall and were responsible for the reception.

CANDIDATE WALL.

Mr. Wall, in a vigorous speech, told the audience the need of a strong man in the Mayor's office, and while he did not criticize former administrations he could not help noticing the deplorable condition of the streets in West Quincy as contrasted with those of at least one other ward in the city. He believed that Willard street its entire length should be a State Highway, that money should be expended to put the Streets of Ward Four in passable condition. He believed in an equalization of expenditures among the several wards of the city so that all might have a square deal. He felt some way should be devised that would permit the younger children to attend school a full day instead of half a day as is now the case.

In conclusion Mr. Wall said that he would see to it that taxes should be so assessed that the burden would fall where it belongs and not upon the humble home of the workingman. He said the Hancock House land is now assessed for $94,000, and he promised to assess it, if elected, at $200,000. He said he was opposed to the contract system of doing work, and wanted better car service and lower prices on gas.

In answer to a question from the audience Mr. Wall declared that whether defeated or elected he would us his best endeavors to have a large wall paper manufacturing employing 1000 hands located in West Quincy.

The rally had a most dramatic close at midnight when Councilman Daniel Corcoran and Representatives Edward J. Sandberg, candidates for the house from the Fifth Norfolk district, faced each other to thrash out who of the two lied about the other.

TILDEN AT TWO RALLIES

Visits Pastime Club and Also Houghs Neck

While Henry F. Tilden, one of the Republican candidates for Mayor, has several open rallies scheduled between now and the caucuses next Tuesday, for the past few days he has been holding home rallies in the different parts of the city. At these rallies, the voters of the immediate neighborhood are invited, and in this way they have an opportunity, not afforded at a public rally, of meeting the candidate in a social manner, and aside from hearing him express his ideas as to how he believes the affairs of the city should be conducted, those present have an opportunity to ask questions in relation to any particular matter of the business of the city in which they are interested.

At these gatherings he is not accompanied by any rooters who are not naturalized citizens as yet, or by spellbinders who have been residents of the city but a few months to tell citizens how the affairs of the city should be conducted.

Monday evening the candidate attended two of these gatherings. One was at the rooms of the Pastime club on Temple street, and the second was at Houghs Neck, not at a meeting of the Houghs Neck Association as was inadvertently announced, and under the auspices of no particular society. Simply a gathering of the voters of the district.

The gathering was held at the Bungalow dance hall and was filled to overflowing. People kept coming and it was necessary to bring in all the seats obtainable to accommodate those present.

Ex-Councilman John R. S. Ross presided, and the speakers were ex-Mayor Eugene R. Stone, Mayor Joseph L. Whiton, Councilman Herbert G. Beeman and the presiding officer.

Ex-Mayor Stone, Mayor Whiton and Councilman Beeman talked along the same line as at other rallies. They told of the great need next year of a business man in the office of Mayor, one who was thoroughly honest and who would give the time to the office that it now needed. It was pointed out that while a few years ago a few hours a day, was all that the Mayor needed to spend in his office at City Hall, that the business of the city had now grown to such an extent that it was necessary that the Mayor should be in close touch with matters at City Hall at all times. Mr. Tilden not only had the time to give to this work but was possessed of executive ability, and could and would look carefully after every detail, if nominated and elected.

Candidate Tilden received a rousing reception when introduced. He would not claim that he was sure of nomination, he said, as several of the candidates did, but he had confidence that the voters when they entered the polls next Tuesday would carefully weigh the qualifications of all candidates and then vote, and he was willing to abide by the result. Continuing he said, This city needs a man whose attention can be devoted to its welfare. A man without fear or favor, who is willing to enforce the laws of the city, regardless of consequences; and gentlemen, if you choose me you need have no fear, for I will be there to attend to all matters, no matter how trivial, and give to you the best there is in me. Waste makes want, and I shall not have the city's money wasted if I can help it.

REGISTRATION

CITY OF QUINCY

For the purpose of correcting the annual Register of Voters and of receiving evidence of qualifications from persons claiming a right to vote at the coming City Election, the Board of Registrars of Voters will be in session in the Council Chamber in the City Hall building on the evenings of

THURSDAY, Nov. 5 and SATURDAY Nov. 7 from 7.30 to 9 o'clock, also on WEDNESDAY, Nov. 11, from 12 M. to 10 o'clock P. M. which will be the final session before the City Election.

Every applicant for registration must appear in person before the Board. Every male applicant must present either a certificate from the Assessors, or a Tax bill or notice from the Collector of Taxes, showing that he has been assessed a Poll Tax as a resident of the city on the first day of April last, or a certificate from the Assessors that he became a resident of the city prior to June 1, 1914. QUINCY ATLANTIC

Mrs. Mary Ham of 61 Faxon road is the guest of relatives at Hooksett, N. H. for two weeks.

Robert W. Moore of Billings street who underwent an operation for appendicitis and a sprained ankle, at the Boston City Hospital ten days ago is reported as improving and his friends hope to see him home again soon.

A Hallowe'en party was given by Miss Margaret Read of Atlantic at Camp "Kitnalta," Pembroke, in honor of Miss Marguerite Woodruff of Danbury, Conn., together with Miss Jean Arthur, Miss Dorothy Bean and Miss Marion Newcomb all of Atlantic. The wonderfully clear sky and moon of Saturday night was a great help for the various "scares," stunts and tricks that were perpetrated.

A temperature of 70 degrees on Saturday helped greatly for swimming, canoeing and motoring. Good nature, happy dispositions certainly made the affair a success, and the young ladies hope they may live to see many of similar kind. Hallowe'en 1914 will be pleasantly remembered by all concerned. The party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Read.

The superintendent and 15 of her teachers and pupils of the Quincy Mansion school for girls attended the closing of the revival at the Atlantic Methodist church Sunday night. Rev. Dr. Bronson, district superintendent preached the closing sermon and administered the sacrament. There were 18 accessions to the church as a result of the four weeks revival meetings.

St. Kevins court, M. C. O. F., held a roll call meeting and class initiation in Poland's hall Monday evening which was attended by the majority of the members. Past High Chief Ranger Cornelius M. Duggan conducted the initiation. Among the special guests were Joseph Connolly of the high standing committee, and members of St. Ambrose, St. Francis and Quincy courts of this city, St. Louise of Neponset and St. Gregory of Milton. During the evening there were brief addresses, an entertainment and refreshments. The committee in charge was headed by Chief Ranger James T. Keohane, Edward Welsh, Joseph Duggan, Annie Keohane, Helena Hughes.

LONG BASEBALL GAMES.

One That Ran For Thirty Innings With a 4 to 1 Score.

The longest major league game was played on Sept. 1, 1906, between the Boston and Philadelphia American league clubs in Boston, when the Athletics won by a score of 4 to 1 in twenty-four innings. Jack Coombs, then a recruit from Colby college, and "Jumbo" Harris, a young pitcher from the New England league, were the respective boxmen used by the Philadelphia and Boston teams. The game lasted four hours and forty-seven minutes.

The previous longest games in the National league were played at Cincinnati on June 30, 1892, and at Philadelphia on Aug. 24, 1905. Both ran twenty innings. The game at Cincinnati was between the Reds and Cubs and resulted in a tie score of 7 to 7. At Philadelphia the Cubs defeated the Quakers by a score of 2 to 1.

On May 31, 1909, the longest professional game on record was played between the Bloomington and Decatur teams of the Illinois-Iowa-Indiana league, Decatur winning in the twenty-sixth inning by a score of 2 to 1. Fargo and Grand Forks engaged in a contest which lasted twenty-five innings at Devils Lake, N. D., in 1895. Later Hartford and New Haven, in the Eastern association, played twenty-three innings, the former winning 2 to 1. Geist, for the winning team, and Jansen, for New Haven, pitched the entire contest.

Amateurs are credited with playing the longest game, the East End All-Stars and the Brooklyn Athletic club teams of Cleveland contesting for thirty innings on July 4, 1907, the latter winning 4 to 1.—Ed A. Goewey in Leslie's.

THE WORLD'S GREAT BANKS.

Only Sixty-one Have Deposits Over a Hundred Million Dollars.

For years the mere name of the Bank of England has been a synonym for financial strength and greatness. In a list of the great banks of the world the Bank of England is sixth. There are three banks in England with a greater line of deposits. The greater banks are London City and Midland, Lloyd's bank and London County and Westminster. London City and Lloyd's each has deposits above $500,000,000. The London County has deposits of $440,000,000. The great Bank of England has a little more than $350,000,000.

The leading bank of the world, from the standpoint of deposits, is the Imperial Bank of Russia, with deposits and current accounts aggregating $630,000,000, a sum big enough to stagger the mind.

The National Bank of Argentine and the National City bank of New York are sixteen and seventeen in rank, with deposits close to $230,000,000 each. The Bank of Spain is greater than the Bank of France, much greater in deposits. But Spain cuts no figure in the finances of the world. That is hard to explain. In this world list there are only sixty-one banks mentioned with deposits in excess of $100,000,000. In this list the United States has eight banks, a good showing, as none of them depends on the deposits of the United States to help it out. — Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune.

In Doubt.

The Blanks' maid of all work was a practical young woman of about twenty-seven years. One day when her mistress was making some plans for the future the matter of fact Serelda said:

"I don't know, ma'am. It might be that I won't be with you much longer, an' then mebbe I will. I ain't sure yet."

Knowing that a young man had called a good many times to see Serelda, her mistress said:

"Are you thinking of getting married, Serelda?"

Without the least show of embarrassment or enthusiasm Serelda said:

"Well, yes, to tell the truth, I am. Then again I don't know if I will. I've got a good place here with good pay, and he's such a fool, mebbe I'll stay on with you!"—New York Post

"How's that, sir, may I ask?"

"Why, here you are quite in love with yourself, and you haven't a single rival!"

HOW WORK IS DONE.

Editor Daily Ledger:

There seems to be a misunderstanding about the work accomplished through the agency of the Associated Charitie. Briefly stated, the work of the Association is to investigate cases of distress or misfortune that are called to the attention of the Secretary, either by citizens or by organizations. The work of the secretary is to discover the real facts involved and then to communicate with the nearest or most desirable local charitable organization, and such organization will then take the matter in hand in co-operation with the secretary, and furnish the necessary money for the results desired.

NO RETURNS BY TELEPHONE

Telephone Company Discontinue the Service

The telephone Company is not going to attempt to give election returns this year to clubs, associations, or to individual subscribers. The reason for this decision is explained by Commercial Representative Scott of the company as follows:

"When the giving out of returns was first introduced," he said, "its purpose was to advertise the widespread connections of the telephone. At that time it was a very good advertisement, and public appreciated the simple bulletin of who was elected, governor or president, as the case might be.

"Today this advertising value is practically nil, because the universality of the telephone has become so much a matter of fact as to be taken for granted. The element of novelty no longer exists.

"Moreover, the complexities of modern politics have made it difficult to satisfactorily collect the returns,and especially difficult for us to see that figures are given out correctly.

Our organization is not planned for the distribution of news, but rather to make connections for other people. Therefore, the job of training young women operators to give out this complex political information, once a year, has been no small task.

"Many of those who call for political returns want special localized information, which we are not in a position to obtain for them, and criticize rather frankly if we are not in a position to give this information."

Republicans Make Gain in Congress and Legislature

DAVID I. WALSH

GRAFTON D. CUSHING

Boston, Nov. 4.—David I. Walsh was re-elected governor of Massachusetts. In the big Republican sweep and the bad smashing which the Progressive party in Massachusetts suffered, his plurality was reduced to about 14,000 from 55,000 last year.

Ex-Congressman McCall was a strong second. Joseph Walker, the Progressive candidate, was a weak third. The Bull Moose vote of the state went to pieces, Walker only receiving about 25 percent of the vote cast for Bird last year.

Lieutenant Governor Barry went down in the Republican wave, Grafton Cushing, the Republican candidate, winning with a safe plurality.

The Democrats lost five congressmen. In the Eleventh congressional district in Boston, G. H. Tinkham defeated the Democratic candidate, Francis Hogan. This was the district represented by Congressman Peters. In the Sixteenth district Congressman Thatcher was defeated by Joseph Walsh.

W. H. Carter of Needham was elected in the Thirteenth district, defeating Congressman Mitchell. The Fourteenth district shifted and elected a Republican by a small majority, Mayor Howard of Brockton. Congressman Deitrick, in the Eighth district, lost to Frederick W. Dallinger of Cambridge.

As the congressional delegation now stands the Republicans have thirteen out of the sixteen congressmen.

OLNEY WINS FOR CONGRESS

HOWARD	12,556
KINCAIDE	9,236
OLNEY	13,276

These are the totals of the Fourteenth district for Congressman, and it will be seen that Olney, the Democratic candidate, wins by a plurality of 720.

An analysis of the vote makes an interesting study. For instance, Quincy, as was predicted, was carried by Kincaide, but Brockton the home town of Howard, the Republican candidate, was carried by Olney, the Democratic candidate.

It will be noticed that Quincy and East Bridgewater were the only places in the district carried by Kincaide. On the other hand Howard the Republican candidate carried Braintree, Foxboro, Holbrook, Milton, Sharon, Stoughton, West Bridgewater, Westwood and Weymouth. It was a very flattering vote Kincaide received in Brockton, Whitman, Braintree, and Abington, in fact in the whole district. It was not a vote for a Progressive but for Col. Kincaide as a man and a live wire.

It might also be added that the entrance of a Progressive into the contest resulted in the election of a Democrat as was the case two years ago. In 1912 Kincaide lost to Gilmore by 598 votes, but on Tuesday he was

One of the hardest fought local battles was that for Representative from the Fifth district, which comprises wards One, Two and Three. There were but two candidates, Representative ichael T. The unofficial returns received during the late afternoon indicated that the contest would be a close one, and it appeared to be anybody's fight until the official vote was announced. Then it was seen that Councilman Ericson had won by a majority of 16

RECORD BREAKING VOTE FOR McCALL

Big Pluralities in the City for All Republican Candidates Except Howard

Col. Kincaide Goes Out of City With Lead of 884

QUINCY VOTE OF 1914.

McCALL, R.	2570
WALSH, D.	2221
WALKER, P.	452

QUINCY VOTE OF 1913.

GARDNER, R.	1220
BIRD, P.	1841

Never before did Quincy give a candidate for Governor as many votes as she gave Samuel W. McCall, the Republican, on Tuesday, who had a grand total of 2,570. The previous high water mark was in 1911 when Frothingham received 2,502. In Foss' first year his combined vote was 2,438. Draper was given 2,393 one year and 2,302 another, when there were no Progressives in the field.

The Democratic vote has been larger twice before; in 1904 when Douglas was elected, and in 1910 when Foss was elected.

Last year Bird, the Progressive led Quincy with a total of 1841, but this year Walker had but 452, a slump of 1389 votes.

The Republicans made a gain of 1350 votes, and the Democrats a gain of 418. For Lieutenant Governor they made even a better showing.

McCall carried eight of the twelve precincts in the city, was tied in another and lost but three precincts, those in Ward Four, and precinct two of Ward Two.

Governor-elect Walsh carried two wards of the city, and McCall the other four. McCall received his largest votes in wards Five and One; Walsh received his largest in Wards Four and One; and Walker his largest in Wards Five and Six. In the entire city there were 103 blanks or defective votes for Governor, but only two in Ward Five.

Quincy gave pluralities to all the Republican candidates except Howard for Congress. Had Howard received the average plurality given the other Republican candidates he would have been elected.

All three of the amendments were adopted.

The complete vote of the city for all candidates is given by precincts on another page.

Charles Proctor, the Democratic candidate for Senator from the First district has probably realized by this time that it does not pay to conduct an unclean campaign, and, that the candidates who hopes to strengthen his cause, in the end finds that it reacts, for the official returns show that Louis F. R. Langelier of Quincy won out in the district by upwards of

Although busy reading the murder trials in full the voters will stop once in a while to notice the headlines about the fall campaign.

Mr. Carnegie thought his company ought not to make more than $50,000-000 a year. How can a man expect to succeed in life when he has such unpractical scruples

SIMPLIFYING DANCING.

Last year the society world studied modern dancing. There were as many different dances as dancing teachers. A dozen or more forms of one dance, the one-step, were taught. Others also had many variations. The result was that the dance floors at the summer resorts were a jumble of conflicting steps last summer. The larger part of the crowd sat around the room, and watched other people get their feet twisted into bow-knots.

This year the dancing teachers announce that they are going to teach simpler steps. It is about time. People will not indefinitely pay down their perfectly good money to learn figures that go out of style before they are acquired.

Dancing teachers make a mistake in trying to teach too many different things. The average dancer has no desire to exhibit his skill before admiring spectators. When it comes to the 43d measure of a 64 measure group of steps, he is very apt to quit, and spend future evenings in the peace and quiet of his own home.

COL. KINCAIDE INTERVIEWED

Says Old Parties Have Become More Progressive

In speaking of the election Henry L. Kincaide says:

I have this morning telegraphed my hearty congratulations to Richard Olney, 2nd, on his successful election to Congress from this district.

"In the campaign just closed I waged the most aggresive fight within my power. My greatest handicap was the party I represented on account of its waning condition. Throughout the district I found city and town committees disorganized, and in some towns the committee had closed up shop and given up political business after a long period of inactivity, and much discontent among the members of the committee and the party as a whole. To pull these committees together I found it to be a hopeless task and in my endeavor to form new committees where none existed, I found the task discouraging.

"The men who formed the Progressive Party two years ago were aggressive men who stood for principles and issues, but during the past two years both old parties have become more progressive an dthe issues on which the Progressive party was formed have largely disappeared. No great party can exist without important issues.

With due credit to the intelligence of the large number of voters of this district who were Progressives two years ago, they have seen lack of leadership and lack of great issues in their own party and have chosen to vote with the party which to them seemed most successful or able to accomplish results. Under these conditions with a disorganized party back of me (general business depression) thousands of men out of work in the district, and a desire on the part of men to vote for relief from present conditions, I am not greatly surprised at the election returns.

"I am grateful for the splendid vote I received and in the confidence placed in me by so large a number of the voters in the district under existing political conditions. The future of the Progressive Party as gauged by no uncertain nature."

MR. ERICSON HAPPY.

Representative-elect Ericson made the following statement to the Daily Ledger: "Naturally I am pleased over my election, but what gives me particular satisfaction is the fact that the Republican party has been returned to power in the Legislature. I take this occasion to express my thanks to those who elected them and to assure the people of Quincy that I shall give them the best that is in me at the State House.

COSTUME PARTY OF THE GUILD

Half a hundred members and gentlemen friends attended the costume party of St. Margaret's Guild in the Christ church parish house on Tuesday evening. The rooms were prettily decorated with autumnal foliage Hallowe'en decorations and Jack-o-Lanterns.

The greater part of the evening was devoted to dancing, music being furnished by Mrs. Effie L. Rhines. A few games were played, the majority of those present participating. The costumes were varied, all present being attired in creations that caused considerable laughter.

Punch was served. The evening was in charge of Miss Cora Barnicoat, Miss Mary Hogan, Miss Jennie Boutelier and Miss May Oppie.

ADAMS CHAPTER D. R.

The November meeting of Adams Chapter Society of the Daughters of the Revolution was held at the birthplace of John Adams, Monday.

At 12.30 a chafing dish luncheon was served consisting of creamed chicken, welch rarebit, hot rolls, doughnuts and coffee. There was a large attendance of chapter members and friends. The house was bright with open fires, Jack o'lanterns from the Hallowe'en party of Saturday made the old house look very attractive.

After a few words of greeting from the regent, the business meeting followed. A letter was read from the President General of the D. R. Society Mrs. Clara Rogers Bleakley telling of the new magazine to be published by the General Society to be called "The Patriot." This magazine is to be issued quarterly and will contain news of a patriotic character of interest to all D. R. members.

The chapter voted to subscribe to the magazine. After the luncheon the ladies enjoyed a game of whist, closing one of the most enjoyable meetings ever held by the Adams Chapter.

ENGLISH BALLAD AFTERNOON.

The ladies who gathered at the Women's clubhouse Monday afternoon for the English ballad recital for the benefit of the Visiting Nurse fund were much pleased with the entertainment. Mrs. George G Saville gave an interesting sketch of the different composers, going back to the 13th century showing the gradual development of English ballad music up to the present time. Mrs. Saville was very good.

Miss Catherine Saville sang the songs in illustration of the different composers and sang well, with good interpretation. Among the older ballads was one of the 13th century, one from Henry the Eighth, and from "As You Like It." Of the modern there were coster songs, compositions of Sir Arthur Sullivan, Rule Britania, and a song the soldiers are now singing, "It's a long, long way to Tipperary."

Mrs. Evans' piano accompaniment added much to the enjoyment as the music was quaint and an important part of the interpretation of many of the songs.

Mrs. Saville has been asked to give the recital before several clubs and has accepted invitations from Cambridge and Weymouth Clubs.

WOLLASTON WOMENS CLUB.

The Wollaston Women's Club held its regular meeting Tuesday evening in Wollaston School hall which was crowded. Mrs. Arthur Ropes, president of the club, presided and music was furnished by Albert Hayden who sang two Scotch border songs, "When the Bonnets Come Over the Border," and "Loch Lomond." He was accompained by Mrs. Moulton. The music was spirited and inspiring. Mrs. Willard Keyes of the Education committee introduced the speaker of the evening John Kendrick Bangs.

Mr. Bangs first paid a pretty compliment to the lady who introduced him and then told funny stories about his own introductions. One of the stories being that once when his picture was posted in a drug store window to advertise his coming, these words were underneath the picture, which he described as a lithograph portrait of an animal in action, "Danderine did this, and we can prove it."

He gave a definition of celebrities and salubrities and then proceeded to his accounts of the salubrities of whom he cherished fond recollections.

Winston Spencer Churchill of London he described at a reception given in his honor at New York and told how he managed to get a second introduction and although Churchill shook hands with 100 in ten minutes when he came back the second time the Englishman told him he had shaken hands with him once, to which Bangs replied, "I came back for your thumb and fore finger" and how Churchill showed him the broad of his back and studied the decorations. He defined him as a celebrity but not a salubrity. He lacked the powers which go to make a salubrity because he lacked the sense of humor and wholesome fun. He contrasted him to his neighbor an old rheumatic man down in Maine whom he used to meet on his walks. His greeting was always the same. "How do you do. A fine day." One rainy blustering north-east stormy day he met this same poor cripple going out to care for his cattle and as Bangs passed the old gentleman he held up his withered hand and made his customary salutation and when Bangs said "Do you call this a fine day?" he replied, "Fine of its kind as I ever see." This man was a salubrity. The possibilities of the sweetness of human nature were shown in this kindly person. He contrasted this man's attitude to the unkindness of the muck-raking which one often sees in magazines where writers try to make us believe there are no great men but those who have climbed to greatness and prosperity by thrusting down others, and declared that there were countless thousands who had climbed properly.

He then came to Richard Harding Davis, who he spoke of as a novelist dramatist and sampler of jails. He told of the beautiful qualities of tenderness which this man possessed and gave an account of how he took $500 at Christmas time and went to the slum districts of New York and spent the money among the needy children there and made them royally happy without even letting them know his name and then slipped away quietly. This tender, human sympathy he said was what made the "Van Bibber" stories possible.

Rudyard Kipling, came next. Mr. Bangs gave a remarkably sympathetic account of his character and in a kindly way showed how a Yale professor who gave him adverse criticism failed to understand him. He explained how Kipling's manners were colored by the company in which he was found, the pink of punctiliousness today and the reverse tomorrow. He believes in the essential good qualities in human beings and could be on the level of the man he was with.

He told funny stories about Kipling and himself and the architect who built both their houses. These two jokers put up a joke on the architect pretending to each dislike the other and sat in front of Bang's open fire and wrote conversation which they learned and repeated when the architect took them to dinner. All this to show the boyish fun in Kipling. He then told how the change in some of Kipling's writings now from what they were 20 years ago was accounted for by the death of his little five year old daughter, whom he loved so devotedly. He used to play with her and weave fairy stories as he played with her. At her death something snapped in his heart and he could never catch the strain again.

He read as one of his wonderful compositions the familiar poem which is as follows:

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting, too;
If you can wait and not be tired of waiting,
Or being lied about don't deal in lies
Or being hated don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk to wise;

If you can dream—and not make dreams your master;
If you can think—and not make thought your aim;
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two impostors just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you've given your life to, broken,
And stop and build 'em up with worn-out tools;

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose and start again at your beginnings,
And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the will which says to them: "Hold on!"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue
Or walk with kings—nor lose the common touch;
If neither foes nor cooing friends can hurt you;
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the earth and everything that's in it,
And—which is more—you'll be a Man, my Son!

Henry M. Stanley, the great African explorer and his wife, who was Miss Dorothy Tennant, he next alluded to, but it was Mrs. Stanley's qualities of tact which drew forth his words of praise. He told how she won all hearts by this quality. At a large reception when Mrs. Richard Henry Stoddard was presented to her she remembered that this lady was an authores and quickly recalling her pen name exclaimed, "I should like to know Elizabeth Barstow, but I don't want to know Mrs. Richard Henry Stoddard."

Conan Doyle the author of "Sherlock Holmes" came next. Mr. Bangs told of the first hour of Dr. Doyle's visit in his library when his little boy came in and broke up any existing ice by swatting Dr. Doyle with his calico rag baby at the back of the neck and then followed a sideaching description of how this big literary giant and the youngster romped together before the open fire. He made his audience feel the present of this big-heartedEnglish man who could appreciate pumpkin pie and young America. He proceeded to show the big man's friendliness when eight years later on hearing that Bangs was in England, hunted him up at his hotel and shook him for not letting him know that he was there and carrying him home to where in his library he had the three sticks burning in the grate instead of the conventional coal fire. This he did to make Bangs feel at home and he knew that nothing would appeal to him as the burning log and its odor.

Andrew Carnegie and his sense of humor came next in order. There was a joke here about Bang's home address in Maine and Rural Free Delivery being converted to the title of Doctor of Rural Philosophy. Judge Robert Grant of Suffolk County, whose writings he spoke of in the highest praise and told of a most laughable experiment where he had written all the swear words on a sheet of paper and numbered them up to 27. Both these men deciding that the example of swearing was bad, agreed to express themselves in numbers. When upon one occasion the judge needed an explosion at golf he cried "1 to 27" inclusive."

Mark Twain and his profound belief in his fellow man; his boyishness and irresponsibility, the love story of his married life and the tender, loving heart which the beloved humorist had. He quoted:

"God give him a year
For every tear has turned itself into cheer."

to show how Twain touched the heart while causing a smile. When Bangs caused a tear to fall from Twain's eye the latter glancing at him with a full heart declared the tear came from jealousy not grief.

Mr. Bangs closed by quoting one of his own poems.

The telling of what John Kendrick Bangs said is tame, it is his inimitable manner of telling his stories which adds to them the charm which is needed to make them complete. The man's love of children and his own qualities of salubrity combined with his wit and keen sense of humor give the ability of a rare entertainer.

RETURNS WERE PROMPT

Never was there a time at a State election when official returns were received at City Hall with more promptness than on Tuesday evening. It was probably precinct Two of Ward Five which got its returns ready first as usual, although these did not arrive at City Hall until some of the other precincts had arrived. It was a little before 7 o'clock when City Clerk was notified by telephone that the returns of this precinct were ready, but before he could start an automobile after them, several other precincts reported by telephone that they were ready.

As many public automobiles as could be obtained were dispatched to the different polling places. The result was that a number of the precincts arrived at City Hall at the same time.

The first official returns to arrive were from Ward Two, precinct two, which came into City Hall at 7.01. From then on they came faster than could be tabulated, so that by 8.30 every precinct was in, and work was commenced obtaining the totals on the adding machine. This machine facilitated matters to a great extent, so that by 9.30 the City Clerk was able to announce to the crowd the totals of candidates in Quincy.

There was quite a crowd at the Hall to receive the returns, and their loud talk bothered the tabulators somewhat, and several times the City Clerk threatened to clear the room if they did not keep quiet. Five minutes after he had read the totals to the crowd, the room was cleared, although they remained in the corridor and in the office of Mayor Whiton until nearly midnight, waiting for scraps of news that might come through by telephone.

The time of arrival of the official returns at City Hall with the total vote of each precinct was as follows:

	Time	Vote

TOTAL STRING OF 505

Scored By McKenzies But Nichols Won

The Clan MacGregor matches at the Coliseum alleys Tuesday night were like election, the finals telling the story. Drummond took a brace in his third string and rolled 127, while Hatsings got 113, Mavers 124, Martin 109, O'Neil 103 and Dell 102, Nicoll 116, O'Neil 109, Dackers 109.

The Hughes crew and the McLeans split the points, the final division resulting from the third team single to which O'Neil and Dackers contributed 109 each.

GAINS SCORED BY REPUBLICANS

Democratic Majority In Congress Is Decidedly Reduced

CLIMAX IN NEW YORK STATE

Whitman Elected Governor by Overwhelming Majority, While Davenport, Strongly Supported by Roosevelt, Is Even Behind Sulzer and Democratic Congressmen Lose Seats—Wadsworth to Succeed Root In United States Senate—Triumphs of Penrose In Pennsylvania and Cannon In Illinois Are Features of Election—Progressives Flock Back to Republicans All Along the Line

New York, Nov. 4.—Sweeping Republican gains throughout the country, which reached a climax in this state by the overwhelming victory of Charles S. Whitman for governor and James W. Wadsworth to succeed Elihu Root in the United States senate, are indicated in the returns of the general elections.

Whitman was elected governor of New York by 167,000 plurality over Martin H. Glynn; Wadsworth by 105,000 over James W. Gerard.

It was a landslide. The legislature was carried overwhelmingly by the Republicans, and the whole Republican state ticket is elected. Sulzer, Independent, beat Davenport, Progressive, about two to one.

Davenport, in support of whose candidacy ex-President Roosevelt devoted most of the campaign, was left far in the rear, his vote being exceeded by that of William Sulzer, who was deposed as governor last year.

Heavy falling off of all the Progressive vote in many states, the return to congress of former Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, decisive Republican gains in New York and Illinois in the house membership and the overwhelming defeat of Representative Palmer by Senator Penrose in Pennsylvania were features of the day's returns. Democratic leaders, however, were pleased by a triumph in Massachusetts, where Samuel W. McCall was defeated for the governorship by Governor Walsh.

Returns indicate that the Democrats will retain control of congress with apparently no change in the senate, but a decidedly reduced majority in the house. Results in Illinois, Indiana, California and Colorado as to the senatorship are in doubt.

In Illinois, Roger C. Sullivan, who had the indorsement of most administration leaders, Secretary of State Bryan excepted, leads in Chicago and Cook county by a large plurality over Senator Sherman, Republican, and Raymond Robbins, Progressive, but Sherman is running ahead in the country districts and is claiming the election.

Senator Shively, Democrat, found in the Indiana returns a strong opponent in Hugh Miller, the Republican candidate, with former Senator Beveridge, the Progressive candidate, polling a smaller vote than had generally been expected. Administration leaders are claiming Shively's election.

In Colorado, Senator Thomas, Democrat, is being hard pressed by Hubert Work, the Republican candidate.

The triumph of Penrose in Pennsylvania over Palmer, who was one of the original supporters of Woodrow Wilson, and Gifford Pinchot, Progressive, was overwhelming.

The senatorial fight in Kansas also is uncertain. Charles Curtis, former Republican senator; Congressman Neeley, Democrat, and Representative Murdock, Progressive, engaged in a spirited contest for the seat of Joseph L. Bristow.

Senators re-elected as a result of hard battles were Frank B. Brandegee, Republican, of Connecticut, who was opposed by Governor Baldwin; Albert Cummins, Republican, of Iowa, who defeated Representative Connolly; John W. Smith, Democrat, of Maryland, and William J. Stone, Democrat, of Missouri; Jacob H. Gallinger, Republican, of New Hampshire, opposed by Representative Stevens.

Democratic senators in the south were re-elected without difficulty, new senators from southern states chosen being Representative Underwood of Alabama and Representative Hardwick of Georgia.

Former Governor Beckham, Democrat, of Kentucky, was chosen for the long term.

Francis E. McGovern, Republican, was elected to succeed Senator Stephenson, Republican, from Wisconsin.

The triumph of former Speaker Cannon, Republican, over Frank I. O'Hair for representative in the Eighteenth Illinois district, seems certain. Other Illinois Republicans who were turned out of the house in the last Democratic landslide, who will be returned to congress, were William B. McKinley, Charles E. Fuller and John A. Sterling.

Republicans also made gains in New York, Oscar W. Swift defeating Representative O'Brien in the Ninth district; Robin B. Sanford defeating Representative Ten Eyck; Walter W. MacGee succeeding to the seat of Representative Clancy, and R. L. Haskell, Republican, being elected in the Tenth district, formerly represented by Herman Metz, Democrat.

The defeat of Representative Korhley, Democrat, of Indiana, by Merrill Moores, also marked the general trend of Republican gains throughout the country.

Sereno E. Payne, Republican, of New York, one of the oldest members of the house in point of service, was re-elected without difficulty.

In Tennessee, also, a change of party control occurred. Returns point to the defeat of Governor Hooper, the Republican incumbent, by Thomas C. Rye, Democrat.

In Pennsylvania, where occurred one of the most spirited campaigns, Martin G. Brumbaugh, Republican, took a long lead over Vance G. McCormick, Democratic candidate for governor, who was indorsed by the Progressives.

In Ohio, the race for governor between James M. Cox, the Democratic incumbent, and Frank B. Willis, Republican, is close, with Governor Cox in the lead.

SWINGS TO REPUBLICAN

Spaulding and Gallinger Are Winners In Granite State

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 4.—New Hampshire abandoned the Democratic regime of the past two years by electing a Republican governor, Rolland H. Spaulding, over Albert W. Noone, Democrat.

ROLLAND H. SPAULDING

The Republican victory extended to the United States senatorial fight, Senator Gallinger defeating Congressman Stevens. Edward Wason, Republican candidate for Stephens' seat in congress, defeated Charles French, Dem., by a close vote.

Cyrus A. Sulloway, former congressman, was re-elected to congress in the First district over Eugene E. Reed, Democrat, who defeated Sulloway in 1912.

IN RHODE ISLAND

Returns Indicate Election of Beeckman by Nearly 5000

Providence, Nov. 4.—R. L. Beeckman, Republican candidate for governor, had a margin of nearly 5000 votes over his Democratic opponent, Patrick H. Quinn.

R. L. BEECKMAN

In the First congressional district the vote is very close, but in the Second and Third the Republican candidates have slight margins. The returns, however, are far from complete.

BALDWIN DEFEATED

Republican Ticket Is Elected In the Nutmeg State

New Haven, Nov. 4.—Connecticut returned to the Republican fold by making a clean sweep. Frank D. Brandegee was re-elected to the United States senate over Governor Baldwin by a safe majority.

Judge Marcus H. Holcomb was elected governor by a majority of about 10,000. The senate and house will be Republican.

NORTH WEYMOUTH

John Carter and family have moved into the Lemuel Torrey place on North street recently vacated by the Blake family.

William Baldwin has returned from a business trip to Johnson City, Tennessee.

Warren Clark, son of Rev. Charles Clark of Pilgrim church was injured at the High school Monday, during football practice and rendered unconscious. A physician attended him and took him to his home on Howard street.

Herbert Tyler, brother of Will Tyler, and Carlton Tyler of this village were victims of an accident Monday which resulted in the death of Herbert and superficial injuries to Carleton. While at work painting a house at Dorchester the staging broke throwing both men to the ground. A fractured skull and several other severe injuries caused the fatality. Carlton Tyler was injured about the right side and leg.

NEW FIRE APPARATUS.

North Weymouth had a gala day Saturday when the Knox combination arrived, in charge of Fred Green, the official demonstrator. The selectmen and other town officers were driven over the main thoroughfares of Ward One, and two trips were devoted to "joy rides" for the children. Incidentally it is reported that Nov. 7 will be designated as Ladies' day, when the women of the community will be given rides.

The new apparatus is a 40 horse power Knox combination with 145 inch wheel base, electric starter and lights, 140 gallon chemical tank and 150 feet of chemical hose and carries an extra charge of soda and acid; two pony extinguishers; 1250 feet of 2 1-2 inch water hose; one 30 foot extension ladder and one 15 foot roof ladder. The tonneau seats eight men with a locker for each, holding boots, coat and hat.

The other two pieces purchased are practically the same, but larger and in addition equipped with a pump.

Chief Billings of Quincy and Chief Cushing of Weymouth were present at the arrival of the apparatus.

KING COVE CLUB.

As the crowning event to a successful season, the K. C. B. C. Auxiliary, Mrs. John Heibeck, president, tendered the King Cove Club a gentlemen's night, Saturday evening Sixty guests responded to the invitation exceeding the capacity of the clubhouse so that a goodly number held a reunion in Charles Pratt's cottage nearby, while awaiting the second serving of a turkey supper with all the fixin's.

The decorations were of Hallowe'en design, and the games also on that order. Irving Morgan won first prize in the bob for apples, and Charles Pratt the second. Frank Miller and Mrs. Jacob Loud were the successful contestants in the fish game, and John Wolfe and Lester Culley tied in suspended apple game.

The Kazoo Trio, Mrs. John Heibeck, Mrs. Irving Morgan and Mrs. Jacob Loud made a decided hit with popular musical selections.

Three hearty cheers and a vote of thanks to the ladies and the singing of Auld Lang Syne closed another of the enjoyable affairs for which the Auxiliary is famous.

WALSH PLURALITY

[illegible] was re-elected secretary of state, having defeated A. P. Langtry.

It is probable that State Auditor Pope is also elected, although there is a narrow margin between the votes of State Treasurer Mansfield and Attorney General Boynton and their Republican opponents.

The result is in doubt because of the closeness of the vote, and it may be late today before the returns from the state will be received on the remainder of the state ticket. Neither the Democratic nor the Republican state committee are making any definite claims.

In the city of Boston the "no" vote on the question of a larger city council was adopted by a majority of 20,850. The vote was a decisive repudiation of the Lomasney district bill. The friends of the charter believe that the decisive vote registered against a change will discourage further tampering with the Boston charter on Beacon Hill.

There is no doubt that the referendum providing for the abolition of party designations was overwhelmingly adopted.

The Republicans carried the legislature strong. It looks as if the Republicans will have a majority of forty in the house, or about 140 members. In the senate it appears that twenty-six Republicans have been elected, which gives a majority of six.

The slump in the Progressive vote was easily the big feature of the election. Its size was beyond all expectation. Walker will not poll much more than 30,000 votes, as against 127,000 polled by Bird last year.

The Progressive party went from a strong second last year to a bad third. It was practically a disintegration. On the face of the returns it was apparent that Walsh got a big slice of the Progressive vote, and it was this vote that assured his election. Thousands of Progressives, realizing that Walker did not have a chance of holding second place, shifted to the Democratic candidate.

In Essex county, which has always been a strong Republican district, Walsh got a surprise vote, but he failed to carry Worcester. The governor's vote was almost 20,000 larger than last year, and generally he made a consistent gain throughout the towns.

Congressman Treadway had an easy time of it in the First district. In the Second district Congressman Gillett of Springfield was returned by a safe majority.

Calvin D. Paige was re-elected in the Third district, defeating O. A. Hoban, the Democratic candidate, and Jonas Demis, the Progressive candidate. Congressman Winslow had no trouble with Hugh O'Rourke of Worcester in the Fourth district.

In the Fifth, Congressman Rogers was re-elected with a wide margin between his vote and that of his nearest opponent, J. J. O'Connor of Lowell.

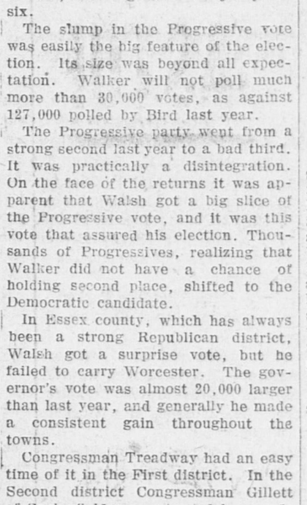

Congressman Gardner won in the Sixth with his usual handsome majority.

In the Seventh district Congressman Michael F. Phelan of Lynn won by a narrow margin. The Ninth district returned Congressman Roberts.

DILLINGHAM RE-ELECTED

Vermont Chooses Republican Governor and Both Congressmen

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 4.—Returns in the vote for United States senator give William P. Dillingham, Rep., a majority of 6559 over Charles A. Prouty, Prog. Dem.

CHARLES W. GATES

The Republicans claim safe majorities on the state ticket, electing Gates governor and two congressmen.

Revere Votes to Be City

Revere, Mass., Nov. 4.—By a majority of 960, the voters of Revere took advantage of the referendum to decide in favor of the town becoming a city. The vote on this question was more than two to one in favor of the change in the charter.

Underwood to Be Senator

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 4.—Oscar Underwood as United States senator and the entire state and congressional Democratic ticket were elected in Alabama.

REGISTRATION

CITY OF QUINCY

For the purpose of correcting the annual Register of Voters and of receiving evidence of qualifications from persons claiming a right to vote at the coming City Election, the Board of Registrars of Voters will be in session in the Council Chamber in the City Hall building on the evenings of THURSDAY, Nov. 5 and SATURDAY, Nov. 7 from 7.30 to 9 o'clock, also on WEDNESDAY, Nov. 11 from 12 M. to 10 o'clock P. M. which will be the final session before the City Election.

Every applicant for registration must appear in person before the Board. Every male applicant must present either a certificate from the Assessors, or a Tax bill or notice from the Collector of Taxes, showing that he has been assessed a Poll Tax as a resident of the city on the first day of April last, or a certificate from the Assessors that he became a resident of the city prior to June 1, 1914. If a naturalized citizen, he must produce for inspection his papers of naturalization.

Persons who have lived in the State one year and in the city six months previous to December 1, if qualified in other respects can be registered.

No names can be added to the registers except the names of voters examined as to their qualifications between the thirtieth day of April last and the close of registration on Wednesday, Nov. 11, at 10 o'clock P. M. The board of Assessors will be in session at their office during the same hours.

votes. While there is no question as to the accuracy of the count of the election officers, the chances are, on account of the closeness of the vote, that a recount will be asked for.

CHARLES A. ERICSON,

Ericson carried Ward One by 183 while Sullivan carried Ward Two by 115, and Ward Three by 52.

The vote of the district was:

	Ericson Rep.	Sullivan Dem.
Ward 1, Pre. 1,	307	187
Ward 1, Pre. 2,	351	288
Ward 2, Pre. 1	85	120

VOTE IN THE SIXTH NORFOLK

Corcoran as well as by Cassidy, who announced on the public platform that it was his first entrance into the political arena.

This district is nominally Republican, but here again the entrance of a Progressive reduced the Republican majority.

Corcoran carried Ward Four his home ward by 312 and Sandberg carried Ward Five the Republican stronghold of the city by 258 over Cassidy, the second highest man in this ward. In Ward Six Sandberg carried the ward by 51, making his plurality in the district 497. The vote of the district was:

	Cassidy Pro.	Corcoran Dem.	Sandberg Rep.
Ward 4, Pre. 1	16	332	82
Ward 4, Pre. 2	29	204	142

LANGELIER RE-ELECTED

3,000 votes, or to be exact 3,147.

When it is understood that last year Langelier won by only 400 votes is can readily be realized what a landslide there was to Langelier. His majority is probably the largest given any candidate, for the Senate. Langelier carried every town in the district except Randolph, Proctor's home town, and carried his home city of Quincy by 1555 majority.

Last year the total vote of the district for all candidates was:

Langelier, Rep.	5667
Murray, Dem.	5129
Winchenbaugh, Prog.	3321

Another interesting comment that might be made on Tuesday's election was that Langelier carried Ward four, the Democratic stronghold of the city by 289, which is probably the first time that a Republican state candidate ever carried that ward.

The vote of the district by city and towns was as follows:

	Langelier Rep.	Proctor Dem.
Quincy	3298	1743
Braintree	857	429
Canton	425	390
Holbrook	303	183
Hyde Park	1320	943

THE KAISER'S AMBITION

Speech to Troops Reveals He Is Fighting to Rule the World

The Copenhagen correspondent of the London News has sent in a dispatch, in which he says a German subject, who heard Emperor William when he addressed his troops, quotes the kaiser as follows:

"We are fighting for the life of Germany. They wish to kill Germany, but I say if we win—and we must win—a new empire shall arise more splendid than the world ever saw—a new Roman-German empire which shall rule the world, and the world shall be happy."

ADVANCE OF RUSSIANS

Said to Be Firmly Established Inside Prussian Frontier

The London Star publishes a dispatch from its Petrograd correspondent, in which he says that the Russians are now securely established inside the east Prussian frontier.

Emperor William's thirty miles of barbed wire fence around his big game preserve at Rominten, the correspondent goes on, is now in the possession of his enemies.

The Result in Georgia

Atlanta, Nov. 4.—Georgia elected to the United States senate the Democratic nominees, Hoke Smith and Thomas W. Hardwick. Nat E. Harris, Democrat, was elected governor. All Democratic congressional nominees were elected.

Members of Bethany church made generous donations today to the Day Nursery. The supplies were taken to the chapel and there was more than an auto could conveniently carry at one time.

James E. Smith of 20 Newcomb place, a shipwright at the Fore River shipyard, and Prothesia M. Palmer of Dedham were married on Oct. 8, the ceremony being performed by Rev. F H. Steenstra of the St. Chrysostoms church. They are living in this city.

Quincy has long been famous as the birthplace of Presidents. The Kings Daughters edition of the Daily Ledger will make it known as the home of talented women.

CHANGES AT FIRE STATION

While the citizens of the city discussed the possible political complexion of the state, the firemen at the Central station have been busily engaged in changing over the floor arrangements, and as a result of their assistance to the city carpenter, three stalls that for years served as the homes of the horses of the chemical have been torn out and that space rebuilt into quarters for the tractor engine.

The combination has been shifted to where the engine formerly stood and the auto chemical will take its place, directly in front of the tractor engine. The new arrangement will be of extreme importance in cold weather for it offers an opportunity of loading the auto with dry hose directly from the tower.

Work was started on the change a few days after the tractor engine was put in commission and the men have never ceased their efforts. The effect when complete will be a pleasing one.

Chief Billings is fairly tickled over the co-operation of the men, and if the appearance of the men enthusiastically working at the task indicates anything they were just as tickled to do the work.

The station is now considerably improved, and with the installation of new heating apparatus and an appropriation sufficient to put the fire alarm system in proper condition, Central can take its place in the front rank of stations of its kind in the State.

VOTE LAST YEAR.

At the State election last year 5,268 votes were cast in Quincy as compared with 5,[illegible] in 1912. The vote by precincts was:

APPOINTMENT OF FIREMEN

Mayor Whiton and Chief Billings announced the appointment this morning of Edward T. Lane, as a member of the permanent fire force to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Richard Colbert. They also appointed Frank O'Brien as a substitute fireman, to fill in during vacation seasons and whenever an extra fireman is wanted. The appointments take effect immediately.

ELECTION NOTES.

One of the most commented things about the election in Quincy was the fact that Joseph Walker, Progressive candidate for Governor, received but one vote in precinct one of Ward One. Progressives evidently are not a popular party in this ward.

Although the several candidates for Mayor have been holding almost nightly rallies for the past few weeks there is to be no let up, and all candidates are planning rallies for the remainder of the week. On Thursday night all candidates will be at the Wollaston yacht club house and in eddition to this there will be rallies in several of the wards.

A grand automobile parade is being arranged in the interest of Henry F. Tilden, for next Monday evening. The parade will be through Quincy Point, South Quincy, West Quincy, City Square,, Wollaston Park and Norfolk Downs winding up at Brassee hall, Wollaston, where a grand rally will be held.

Guy Andrews Ham, who a year ago was defeated by Charles W. Guy of Quincy for Councillor, through a mix-up in names, won this year by a good plurality. This year in his campaigning Mr. Ham made it known that he desired to be known as plain "Ham."

John F. Merrill of Quincy was an easy winner for County Commissioner having defeated William J. Sullivan of Quincy ,the Democratic candidate for the office, by a large majority.

No official returns have as yet been given out as the result of the amendments, relative to vacations, Saturday half holiday and abolition of party enrollment, and it may be a few days yet before these questions are finally known

In Boston the amendment relative to increasing the number of members of the City Council was probably defeated by a large majority.

Revere, the town which has often figured in public print, voted to change its form of government from a town to a city, Attleboro also voted to change to a city form of government, but Westfield which voted on a similar propisition decided against changing.

NEW PRESIDENT.

Herbert Griffin, driver of tractor engine 1, and vice president of the Firemen's Relief Association, has been chosen president to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Richard Colbert who passed away during his first term. Mr. Griffin has been a member of the department for many years and is popular in department circles and throughout the city. Arthur Pinel was elected to the vacancy caused by his elevation. The two vacancies on the Board of Directors were filled by the election of Chief Faxon A. Billings and Edward Barry, the former to be a director at large.

QUINCY WOLLASTON

Miss Grace Goodwin, Miss Bertha Goodwin and Miss Helen Arthur entertained about fifty of their friends in Association hall, Montclair, on Saturday evening. The hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion. The first part of the evening was given up to the playing of Hallowe'en games. Miss Marion Orr read a ghost story while Miss Helen Arthur acted the part of ghost. Ice cream and cake were served after which dancing was enjoyed. Just before the guests departed sweet cider and doughtnuts were brought in. Mrs. Goodwin, Mrs. Arthur and Mrs. Dicey matronized the affair. Guests were present from Brighton, Dedham, Brooklin, Wollaston and Montclair.

The Ladies' Aid of the Wollaston Methodist Episcopal church held their regular monthly meeting in the church parlor on Monday afternoon. Arrangements were made for a red and blue contest in connection with the mile of pennies which the ladies of the church, assisted by their friends, propose to raise before April.

It will be necessary for those who desire seats at the supper to be held in the Wollaston Methodist church on November 11 to speak to the hostesses at once as there is but a limited number of tickets and many have already been taken up.

The fact that the clock on the belfry of the Wollaston Methodist Episcopal church is once more going will be greatly appreciated by Wollaston people.

The Rev. F. W. Wilson of Upper India is to preach at the Wollaston Methodist church Sunday morning.

Miss Hazel Wellington of West Somerville returned to her home Monday after a three days visit with Miss Helen Handy of Standish avenue.

Miss Ethel M Pfaffmann of Worcester was the week end guest of her aunts the Misses Pfaffmann of Clay street, coming up for the Harvard-Michagan game.

Miss Anna Marie Hyland of Standish avenue entertained nine young friends at a Hallowe'en party Saturday evening from seven until nine o'clock. There was a witch, games and stunts were played, refreshments served, and on going home the young folks were enthusiastic over the fine time they had.

WESLEY WEBBER PASSES AWAY

Wesley Webber, the only artist who witnessed the surrender of Gen Lee at Appomatox Court House, and whose sketches of that event are considered of great historical value, died today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Luther E. Jones at 45 Watterston avenue in his 77th year. His body will be sent to Gardiner, Me., where he will be given a Masonic burial by the lodge of that city with which he was affiliated.

Wesley Webber was born in Gardiner, Me., in 1841. As a boy he showed talent, and while in his teens decided to become an artist. He enlisted with the 16th regiment of Maine at the outbreak of the Civil war, and during his term of service devoted his spare time to sketching. His artistic senses quickened as he saw the leader of the Confederacy tender his sword, and afterwards he made many sketches of the occasion.

On being mustered out he returned to his home town and for six years conducted a shop for ornamental sign and carriage painting. He set his first studio up in Boston and met with much success. In 1890 he went to New York and opened a studio. He remained there until this spring when he came here on a visit because of ill health.

Mr. Webber made a special study of marine subjects although he painted landscapes, animals and subjects from still life. He never studied with any of the famous artists but won fame through his individuality of design and color. His pictures have been exhibited at the Boston Art Club and the National Academy at New York.

Mr. Webber also had a reputation as a composer of music, having written "Dreams Celestial" and "Call me, my love, again. He was also an accomplished musician and played several instruments.

QUINCY WEST

Members of the Arbutus club of West Quincy and friends were entertained Tuesday evening by Mary Finn, club president, at her home Wesson avenue. During the evening solos were rendered by Misses Ella Mulligan and Anna Thayer. Future plans for the club were discussed.

QUINCY ATLANTIC

Charles Lyons, who was found in an unconscious condition in a barn at Atlantic last week and taken to the Quincy City Hospital, died from a cerebral hemmorhage, followed by paralysis, according to Medical Examiner Fred E. Jones. Lyons when discovered made some mention of an assault, and the rumor spread through the Atlantic section. Members of the Police department, who say they saw him six hours before he was found, say there was nothing about his appearance to indicate he had been assaulted.

His funeral was held this morning from the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Thomas Radley, of 64 Old Colony street. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at the Church of the Sacred Heart by Rev. J. P. Cuffe, pastor. The musical portion was sung by the regular choir under the direction of Miss Mary Stevens, organist. There was a good attendance and many floral remembrances. Burial was in St. Marys cemetery. The bearers were Thomas, and Daniel Radley, Michael and Timothy Lyons Jr., and W. F. Donaher.

On Tuesday the School Committee viewed the lots at Norfolk Downs and Squantum suggested for new schoolhouses.

QUINCY SQUANTUM

A pleasing entertainment is promised at the Squantum church this evening when Mrs. W. Norton Stetson will give readings, and there will be solos and duets by Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Leonard, Miss Jordine Davison and Mrs. James Butler. Local talent will also contribute musical numbers.

EARLY REPORT ON FORE RIVER

Bill for $391,000 Will Be Recommended

Contrary to its usual custom, the regular meeting of the Board of Trade on Wednesday evening was a short one, an adjournment being reached shortly after 9 o'clock.

The first business of the evening was the election of new members and the following were elected: John J. Burk, H. W. Denmore, P. F. Flynn, Joseph Fratus, H. D. Walker, L. W. Newall, H. L. Loud and Eric G. Bergfors.

Dock Commissioner Crane said that the report of Col. Craighill on the bill for $291,000 for deepening and widening the Weymouth Fore river would probably be made at an early date and that at that time he might want some assistance of the Board in pushing the matter along.

Charles Chapman was then intro-

TRESPASS AT COURT HOUSE

To Stop Talking With Prisoners at Window

Several weeks ago orders were issued forbidding persons from going to the rear of the Court House and talking to prisoners in the detention room throught the window.

Walter Curry and Joseph Burke, both of South Quincy, stepped across the lawn Wednesday to say "Hello" to someone waiting for a bondsman. While they talked through the open window they were spotted and shortly after were placed under arrest. John E. Kenney furnished bail. Both young men are charged with trespass.

The orders to keep persons from the rear of the building were recently issued because prisoners have received "booze," tobacco, etc., through the open window, and the possibility remained that a black-jack or other

OPTIMISTIC FOR QUINCY

Campbell Says He Will Boom the City

Chester I. Campbell was "at home" to the voters of Wollaston Wednesday evening in the Wollaston School hall, and if there was any doubt in the minds of his supporters as to the outcome in this particular section of the city on primary day it must have been dispelled, for he was given an uproarious reception and at the conclusion was repeatedly cheered as the next mayor of Quincy. The Wollaston school hall was not large enough to accommodate the crowd of over 700 persons that attended the meeting. Every seat was taken and scores were obliged to stand.

Every one of the speakers told of the enthusiasm and crowds that greeted Mr. Campbell in the various wards of the city, and all predicted that he would be nominated on primary day by an overwhelming vote. The meeting was free from any personal criticism of the other candidates. In fact all of the speakers extolled Mr. Campbell's opponents even though they disagreed with their political views

WEDDING AT WEST QUINCY

Miss Bizzozero the Bride of Richard James Howard

Miss Clorinda Rina Bizzozero of West Quincy and Richard James Howard of South Quincy were married at St. Mary's church, West Quincy, at 8.30 Wednesday morning. Rev. Fr. Thomas R. McCoy, pastor, performed the ceremony and officiated at the nuptial mass.

Angelo Bizzozero, brother of the bride, was best man, and Livia Bizzozero, sister of the bride, was her attendant. The bride was dressed in Faille Francaise, with court train, chiffon draperies, pearls and lace. Her bridal veil was caught up with orange blossoms. Her bridesmaid was dressed in embroidered white chiffon with green satin trimmings and salmon satin girdle and wore a picture hat. The bride carried a shower bouquet of lillies of the valley, and the bridesmaid carried Killarney roses and ferns.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride at 13 Bates avenue, and assisting in the receiving line were Ernest and Jenny Bizzozero, parents of the bride, and Mrs. Catherine Howard, mother of the groom.

The wedding breakfast was attended only by the immediate families of the contracting parties. The decorations at the church and house were white chrysanthemums and ferns.

Miss Bizzozero is well known throughout the city as a musician. While a student at Woodward Institute she frequently appeared as piano soloist and after her graduation from there she studied further. For a time she was organist at St. Mary's church. She is very popular and is a member of St. Mary's Guild and the Bonita Club, an organization of Quincy and Weymouth young ladies.

Mr. Howard is a popular resident of South Quincy, and is a graduate of Adams Academy. He at present holds a responsible position with a large manufacturing concern.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard are now on a honeymoon trip to the White Mountains and after their return will live in this city.

THE KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS OATH

Obligation of the Fourth Degree Is No Longer Secret--Printed in Full

Order Repudiates Another Oath As Bogus

A local deputy of the Knights of Columbus is authority for the statement that there is no truth in the rumors relative to the oath taken by members of the Knights of Columbus.

Several of the libellers who have charged the Knights of Columbus with taking a certain oath have been brought to trial, found guilty and sentenced to imprisonment, as said oath was bogus.

All fair minded persons, no matter of what faith will be glad to learn from authoritive sources that copies of the alleged oath of the order which are being circulated are false in every particular.

Important criminal libel cases brought against parties in Minnesota have resulted in the conviction of the libellers, and at the trial which was before a jury it is interesting to note that one of the twelve jurymen was a Methodist clergyman.

At this trial National officers produced as part of the evidence, the obligation of the Fourth degree of the order, swearing that it was the true oath administered to candidates for that degree.

In the interest of fairness and at the request of local members of the order the Daily Ledger gladly prints in full the oath.

"I swear to support the Constitution of the United States. I pledge myself as a Catholic citizen and a Knight of Columbus, to enlighten myself fully upon my duties as a citizen and to conscientiously perform such duties entirely in the interest of my country, and regardless of all personal consequences. I pledge myself to do all in my power to preserve the integrity

There is profound unrest in Mexico over the fact that they have had a president as much as six weeks.

Two hundred million people of Europe aren't allowed to decide for themselves whether or not they want war, because three or four kings wouldn't like it.

The modern idea of a campaign of education is a two-minute speech of funny stories told from an automobile, to an audience of 17 persons at the rural cross roads.

Complaint is made of many idle freight cars, but enough seem to be running to accommodate tramps and theatrical people.

Many people stay at home election day to spite the political machines, which helps the machines elect their candidates.

An anxious inquirer asks if it is an obstacle to a student's social success at college, to have it known that he stands high in scholarship.

President Wilson seems to be taking a restful vacation consisting of reading a five foot shelf of books every day.

Although the slowness with which election returns come in is annoying, it is not necessarily considered a disqualification to a ballot counter to be able to add figures.

While 40,000 people are yelling at the football game, the philosopher discussing the elevation of the human race is welcomed by a gentle patter of applause from the gloved hands of an audience of forty.

Some one asks what has become of the man who used to march up to the polls year after year and vote the party ticket from top to bottom. Well, just at present he forgets all about election day until he reads the returns in Wednesday's papers.

ARTIFICIAL LIGHT.

The sun is low in the horizon when November comes. Soon the shortest days of the year will be with us. There is an element of melancholy in their coming. Also the absence of daylight is an economic problem of some importance.

Defective eyesight is one of the handicaps on human labor. This infirmity is largely due to carelessness in use of the eyes under artificial light. When middle-aged people were young, books and newspapers were almost invariably printed in much finer type.

It was very difficult to get the standard authors in legible typography. Many famous newspapers were dressed in what is now called "six point," considered fit now for nothing but legal notices inserted as a matter of court form.

In the old-time home, the toilsome women still stuck to their black work and delicate embroidery, even if the little oil lamp failed to distinguish the thread from the material. They still do such work with imperfect illumination. If your children have to put on spectacles at a precocious age, it is usually because you or your parents abused your eyes.

In the country districts, many factories still try to get along with oil lamps. The imperfect lighting creates an atmosphere of gloom, which affects the energy of the force. Tools and material slip out of sight and the results are unproductive. Farmers blunder around their barns with lanterns, many of which are upset, and a high price is paid in the form of insurance. Modern lighting systems are a wonderful substitute for sunlight, and render eyestrain needless. One can well care for his eyes with modern oil lights, though they are not fitted for large working quarters. But good facilities do not remove human carelessness. How many people there are who sit reading in a darkening room at twilight, simply too indolent to get a better light. A host of people earn a living by relieving the eye strains caused in such ways. Great factories make optical goods, and people line up in the waiting rooms of costly oculists.

Attwill's plurality	8,601

A General Surprise

Boston, Nov. 5.—Corrected figures, which undoubtedly will stand as final until the official tabulation of the vote is made, established Governor Walsh's plurality over Samuel W. McCall as 9724 and Grafton D. Cushing's plurality over Lieutenant Governor Barry as 17,211.

Other figures in which the element of estimate still prevails establish the victories of the Republican state officials over the present Democratic office holders at from 6000 to 10,000 votes.

Democratic officials who canvassed the returns with some hope of finding a loophole which would allow them to speculate on a possible election of the state treasurer, secretary, auditor, and attorney general gave over the task. State Treasurer Mansfield sent a letter of congratulations to Charles L. Burrill, his Republican opponent, in which he admitted his defeat. Similar letters from the other officials were also sent.

Many Republicans were earnestly hoping Frank H. Pope, the Democratic state auditor, would be shown by the returns to have defeated Alonzo B. Cook, their own candidate. Cook, who appeared hardly at all at the Republican gatherings, profited by the wave, and defeated Pope by over 6000 votes.

The state leaders of the Republican side were almost stunned with the size of the victory which they had won. They had hoped for two congressional seats, they won four. They hoped for possibly two seats in the governor's council, and they won all but one of the total.

They had hoped to gain possibly thirteen seats in the state house of representatives and they gained thirty-three, and then ten seats in the senate.

Considerable speculation was devoted to the lead of Cushing over McCall. Those who studied the figures were not long in reaching a conclusion. Cushing led McCall by 14,257 votes. It is agreed that a liberal contribution to this figure came from the 4600 Progressives who voted for Walker but not Magenis. These men took Cushing as their second choice rather than Magenis.

The balance, no doubt, was made up in part of men who voted for Walsh and stopped at Barry. Inasmuch as there were 12,678 of those as tabulated, the votes were there for the asking.

The Republican label was effective in blunting the edge of many expected sharp contests.

Republicans are positive in their assurances that the Progressives who returned to the fold were not to be given any further cause for worry or distress.

FUSION FAILS IN VERMONT

Republicans Get Everything In Green Mountain State

Burlington, Vt., Nov. 5.—Practically complete returns show that Senator Dillingham was re-elected to the United States senate by a 28,698 vote over Charles A. Prouty, candidate on the Democratic, Progressive and Prohibition ticket.

The contest between these men was the hottest political battle in many years, but the "Old Guard" rolled up a majority of 6961.

Returns give Charles W. Gates, Rep., a vote of 33,102. Harland B. Rowe, Dem., received 24,471 and B. H. Aldrich, Prog., 6235. The remainder of the Republican state ticket went along with Gates and won a sweeping victory.

In the Second district, P. H. Dale, Rep., went to the front with a vote of 10,028 against 3775 for John B. Reardon, Dem., and 3243 for Frazer Metzger, Prog.

One thing was demonstrated beyond dispute, and that is that a fusion ticket is a failure in Vermont. In every case where a fusion county ticket was adopted it was defeated by an overwhelming majority.

GRANITE STATE VOTE

Spaulding and Gallinger Each Have a Comfortable Lead

Concord, N. H., Nov. 5.—Complete returns from the state give the following figures on governor and senator:

For governor—Rolland H. Spaulding, Rep., 46,200; Albert W. Noone, Dem., 33,814; Spaulding's plurality, 12,386.

For senator—Jacob H. Gallinger, Rep., 41,577; Raymond B. Stevens, Dem., 34,044; Gallinger's plurality, 7533.

Edward Wason, Republican candidate for Stevens' seat in congress, defeated C. J. French, Democrat. Cyrus A. Sulloway, former congressman, was re-elected to congress in the First district over Eugene E. Read, Democrat, who defeated Sulloway in 1912.

Concord remains "wet," after a vigorous no-license campaign. Manchester also remains "wet." Franklin went for license after being dry for eight years.

The total Progressive vote, which two years ago was 14,401, shows a loss of nearly 80 percent.

ALMOST A CLEAN SWEEP

Republicans Get About Everything In Rhode Island

Providence, Nov. 5.—The Republicans made almost a clean sweep in the elections in Rhode Island. R. L. Beeckman, their candidate, is elected governor by a plurality of 9447. Beeckman received 41,691 votes, Patrick H. Quinn, Dem., has 32,244 and Fred D. Thompson, Prog., 1184.

Congressmen O'Shaunessy, Dem., and Kennedy, Rep., were re-elected. Congressman Gerry, Dem., was defeated for re-election by W. R. Stiness, Rep., who obtained a plurality of 787.

Emery J. Sansouci, Rep., was elected lieutenant governor by a plurality of 10,135. Secretary of State Parker, Attorney General Rice and General Treasurer Reed, all Republicans, were re-elected, each having a plurality of more than 15,000.

Every city in the state and all but six of the towns voted for liquor license.

IN THE NUTMEG STATE

Democrats Are Snowed Under by Substantial Pluralities

New Haven, Nov. 5.—Revised returns from the Republican sweep show Senator Brandegee's plurality over Governor Baldwin for the United States senateship was 13,074.

Marcus H. Holcomb's plurality over Lieutenant Governor Tingle for governor was 17,715. Pluralities for other members of the state ticket range in the neighborhood of 15,000.

The pluralities of the five Republican congressmen elected range from 1058 for P. D. Oakley in the First district to 4011 for R. P. Freeman in the Second district.

There are good working majorities in both branches of the state legislature.

THE VOTE IN IOWA

Size of Republican Pluralities the Only Question

Des Moines, Nov. 5.—The re-election by Iowa Republicans of United States Senator Cummins by 25,000 to 30,000, and Governor Clarke by 10,000 to 20,000 is certain, the only question being the size of their pluralities.

GOVERNOR CLARKE

With the exception of the Eleventh district, which is in doubt, it seems the Republicans also elected their congressional delegation.

A. L. Stinson took occasion to challenge the accusation made by Dennis Driscoll in a rally at Ward 4 the other evening. Mr. Stinson said, that if Mr. Driscoll was correctly quoted in the Ledger, that he was the champion Ananias of the country. Down in City Hall he will find the proofs that I am a taxpayer and citizen of Ward Six. I also want to say that I never lived in Somerville, as charged, and that I haven't been in Somerville for five years.

All these false statements indicates to me that Campbell has got them on the run. He will keep them busy until election day and after January first he will keep everybody busy in City Hall. When Mr. Campbell is mayor this old city will throb and vibrate with energy just the same as everything does in which Chester I. Campbell is the directing force. He will boom Quincy as he knows how to do it.

Frederick H. Bishop of Wollaston, who is president of the Textile Exhibitor's Association, said that Councilman Murray, who was the chairman of the meeting, allowed him but ten minutes to tell of his personal observation of Mr. Campbell in the business world, but no man in the world could tell what he knew of Mr. Campbell in an hour he declared.

The citizens of every municipality in this country are gradually awakening to the fact that politics must be eliminated from the conduct of the municipal business. In several places they have with more or less success run the city governments by a commission. The vital importance of conducting a city's business on a business basis is fully realized by the voters, and the time is not far distant when most of the municipalities of the country will be empowered by their charters to go out into the open market and hire a business expert to run their city upon the same basis that he would conduct the affairs of any great corporation.

Quincy has a rare opportunity. Her citizens don't have to go to the legislature to secure permission to get an efficiency expert as her mayor. All they have to do is to go to the primaries next Tuesday and vote for Chester I. Campbell. He is one of the greatest organizers and administrators that there is in the commercial world today.

He has a wonderful faculty of gathering a great organization together and get them to work with the precision of a machine without browbeating any of them. Quincy will miss a great opportunity if Chester I. Campbell is not elected mayor. He could handle the affairs of a city five or six times the size of Quincy without turning a hair.

Alexander Cowe of Ward Three gave a brief, eloquent talk that brought such applause that he was obliged to respond to an encore. Down in Ward Three we are a very hard working, patient lot of people, said Mr. Cowe. We have been hoping against hope but now we have started in to do some thinking for ourselves. I personally know most of the candidates who are opposing Mr. Campbell. They are splendid fellows, all of them, but they haven't got the right kind of stuff in them to give us a business administration. We want a straight, hard-headed business man like Mr. Campbell to give us a business administration.

Acting Mayor Whitton was eulogized by Councilman Charles W. Bailey, who declared that the present Mayor was doing his duty as he saw it. We must give him credit for his splendid work even if we don't admire him for supporting the candidate that he is for in this campaign.

Councilman Bailey said that he felt that he was within his rights when he inquired into the records of the men who were candidates for mayor. Without mentioning them by name and with no display of venom, malice or mud slinging, Councilman Bailey proceeded to strip them of any qualities they professed to have. He also said:

"Any banker will tell you that Quincy's bonds are least desirable of all the municipal bonds issued in Massachusetts. They are fourth from the bottom of the list. This is because of our inefficient manner of conducting our finances by men who haven't had the slightest idea of the task they were confronted with."

CANDIDATE CAMPBELL.

Mr. Campbell was the last speaker introduced by the chairman. He gave a convincing, clear cut argument for a business administration, and bared his business record as a proof that he possessed the qualifications for the job of mayor.

We all realize that what the city needs most is a business administration, but we have got to determine from the list of candidates which one is capable of bringing about the desired results, declared Mr. Campbell.

I am just as anxious as any voter in this city in securing the right man for the job. I am not going to ask you to vote for me. I want you to make a fair decision after weighing all of the facts. If you think one of my opponents are better able than I am to give the city a business administration, then vote for him. I have no selfish motives to serve. Frankly, I place the interest of the city above any personal ambitions.

If I can't be mayor without resorting to mud slinging, I don't want the job. All of the candidates are splendid chaps, but I don't admire some of their close followers. I don't care a rap about their personal habits, or affairs, but I feel that I have the right to ask them some pointed questions regarding what they have done that qualifies them to be mayor of this city.

Some of my opponents go around with a sad face and keep shouting from their platform, that the city is going to the dogs. Now that isn't the case. I have very optimistic views of this beautiful city. She's all right, except that she is a bit weak. She needs some bolstering up and encouragement, and when I am mayor I am going to boom her for all that she is worth.

We have great commercial possibilities within the border of Quincy, only they haven't been shown to the outside world in the proper light. I am going to get out among the men who do big things and tell them about Quincy, and see if I can't bring some more business here.

We have a great granite industry in our city. I am informed that the transportation is not the best, and if Quincy could bring her granite to the Boston and other markets a little cheaper that the manufactories would be better able to meet competition. This is a matter that needs attention for we need every bit of business we can secure in Quincy.

Simmer down all of this campaign talk about Quincy, and you reach but one conclusion, and that is our municipality is loosely and inefficiently managed. There isn't any graft or dishonesty, but we utterly lack organization. There is a need of a chief executive who will have some life and vigor and transplant it to the different departments.

Just before the meeting adjourned, Mrs. Clara Cahill Park stepped to the stage and made a brief speech endorsing Mr. Campbell, stating how she regretted that women would be unable to vote for him. I never had the pleasure of knowing him personally, but I know that he is a busy man yet, he always finds time to give the annual outing for blind and crippled children, and that alone would recommend him to every woman's vote.

FREEDOM PARTY.

A large gathering of friends and relatives, pleasantly surprised Frithoif Johnson, Wednesday evening at his home on Cranch street, the date being his 21st birthday anniversary.

The party assembled at his home, where they awaited his return from evening school. Upon entering his home, he was immediately seized by four of his boy friends, who amid much laughter, hoisted him from the floor to ceiling twenty-one times. After which he was presented with a gold watch and fob.

During the evening selections were given on the graphaphone, and games were played. Refreshments consisting of ice cream, coffee, cake, cookies, candy and fruit were served during the evening. Also a large birthday cake, upon which 21 candles were burning.

Eastern Theater of War Where Russians Are Reported to Have Defeated Germans In Poland.

The battle line in the eastern arena of war shifted rapidly to the west on the center. The Russian right pressed steadily forward in East Prussia. In the center the Austro-German army which marched on Warsaw continued to fall back, with the czar's forces in pursuit. In Galicia, the Russian left, there was fierce fighting along the San, especially south of Przemysl.

HIGH SCHOOL PUBLIC SCHOOLS
WOODWARD INSTITUTE PAROCHIAL SCHOOL

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

As usual the Children's department of the Thomas Crane Public Library is a busy place, especially so during the noon hour and at the close of the afternoon session of the schools, when there is an eager crowd of boys and girls, some of whom are looking for a "good book" for home reading, others at the tables enjoying the picture books and puzzles.

The circulation of books for home reading have increased, as has also the reference work in connection with the schools. But we are anxious to get in still closer touch with the teachers and their work, and in order to do so, we are willing to do all in our power to help them. That we may accomplish this, we are asking the teachers to co-operate with us by coming to the children's room, thus becoming familiar with the books and pictures which we already have which will be of use in their work. Also by making suggestions of others which might be helpful. The pictures are in the form of a folio collection, the aim being to furnish available illustrations for historical, geographical, and in fact all the general subjects taken up in the usual school work. These pictures are loaned to teachers or any one desiring them for reference work.

The books in the Children's room are being reclassified according the Dewey system. By this method the books are arranged according to subject, which with the open shelf system makes them most accessible to the public.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The Quincy School Masters Club held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening in the Coddington school hall. Mr. Poland of the Malden public schools spoke very interestingly on "The Educational Features of Boys Camps" and his talk was well illustrated with the stereopticon.

In pursuance of the plans of the School committee the Superintendent of Schools has arranged conferences with the several grammar school masters, where the pupils who might be benefited by attendance at ungraded classes will be discussed. Each master is making a study of his own school to discover how many pupils there are and the reasons why it would appear that such a class would be beneficial. Unquestionably there is a considerable number of children scattered through the city who because of their peculiar mental makeup, get very little out of their school course. To allow such pupils to grow up in ignorance, because it is impossible in the ordinary grade room to give them closer attention, is a matter of false economy, and in the long run altogether dangerous and expensive. There is a growing tendency to establish small ungraded classes to take care of just such special cases and the action of the local School Committee is toward that end.

Supt. of School Fairfield Whitney and one of his grammar masters was in Quincy Wednesday afternoon, looking over the work and organization of the pre-vocational classes in the Coddington and Willard schools. These classes like the proposed classes for children of sub-normal type take care of special types of children, more especially the hand-minded type, and have done exceptionally good work in the three years that they have been in existence.

As an illustration of careless work on school buildings, the following example will be of interest. The Industrial school in preparing the building for its use, found it necessary to do some additional electric wiring, which was done by the electrical department of the school. In inspecting the old wiring, in the attic of the building, wires were found attached to the timbers without any protection, and with the utmost disregard of precaution against fire. In one case a wire had charred its way into a beam for some distance and in other cases, signs of slight charring were in evidence.

The condition of the Adams school grounds, notwithstanding the recent partial grading, is such that accidents continue to occur, from children losing their footing on the round stones and falling. The whole playground now needs a surfacing of some binding material to remedy the present conditions.

The School Census has been completed and the figures as tabulated will be ready for publication in a day or two. There has been a marked increase in population in Wards Two, Three and Five, a slight decrease in Ward Four. Taken as a whole the increase over the school population of last year is very marked, Judged by the usual method of computing a city's population from its school census, the city of Quincy at the present time has apparently reached the 40,000 mark in population.

WHO IS THE OLDEST GRADUATE?

All the committees that are completing plans for a big reunion of all Quincy High school graduates, have had largely attended meetings, and are making progress. It is a pleasure to those who started this movement to see the interest, hearty support and encouragement that is coming from all sides.

Every graduate can do his little share in making this reunion one big success and all are expected at High School hall on the evening of November 18, 1914.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL.

The first meeting of the school year was held Wednesday evening in the corridor of the school. Arthur W. Newcomb of the School Committee addressed the meeting on the school houses of Quincy Point and Quincy Neck. He described each building and its location. It was an excellent address and was much appreciated by all present.

There was folk dancing by a class of children from the Ward Two playground of last summer.

There was a lengthy discussion concerning the location of the proposed new schoolhouse for this ward, led on one side by Councilman Griffin in favor of the lot proposed by the City Council, and on the other, by Mr. Newcomb in favor of the Swithin lot as recommended by the School Committee. After full discussion the following resolution proposed by Councilman Griffin were passed:

Whereas, the present crowded condition of the Washington school (550 pupils in 10 rooms) is an injustice to the school;

Therefore, be it resolved that this association request the City Council and School Board to hasten by every possible means the erection of a new school house in this district.

And be it also resolved, that this association endorse and recommend the location on Lancaster, Lowe and Alden streets, as recommended by the committee of the City Council.

And be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the School Board and City Council.

Mrs. Chester Mellen, chairman of the Education committee of the Quincy Woman's Club, spoke of the work of her committee, especially of their movement for the introduction of a school nurse into the Quincy schools This was endorsed by vote of the association.

There were about one hundred people present.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Large Receipts Reported by Tax Collector

The appeal some days ago of Mayor Whiton to the citizens to pay their tax bills has had good effect as already announced. These, therefore, are busy days at the Tax Collector's office. There have been some citizens who felt that the valuation on their estates was unjustly high, who have declared that they will not pay. Some of these have told Mayor Whiton that they did not intend to pay, and he promptly informed them that they would pay up just the same.

All except possibly the Assessors themselves admit that the valuation his year was excessive, but those who have taken the trouble to go into the matter can find no relief unless the Assessors out of the goodness of their hearts abate part of it. But being limited in the amount for abatements, there must necessarily be a limit of the amount which can be abated. It is quite evident that next year, whoever is Mayor, there will be a readjustment of valuations all over the city.

In the matter of water bills, the threat to shut off water on all premises that have not paid up has had effect, and old water bills are coming in unusually well. The threat to shut off water was not an idle one, as quite a few who neglected to pay up in the alloted time have found out. It is reported that one of the richest concerns in the city was against the same proposition, and was forced to pay its water bill or have the water shut off. Mayor Whiton does not intend to be partial in the matter, and the rich man is being treated to the same punishment as the poor man if he does not pay.

Mayor Whiton is certainly making good in the office of Mayor as he has in every public office he has ever held. A year ago he was unexpectedly elected to preside over the deliberations of the City Council, and although at that time he lacked much experience as a presiding officer he quickly demonstrated the fact that he could and did make good. Always fair and impartial in his rulings he has made one of the best presiding officers the City Council has ever had, and the citizens of Ward One will make no mistake in returning him to the City Council for another year, in the event of which, there is no question but what he will again be elected to preside over its deliberations.

LADIES' NIGHT OF EAGLES

An Exhibition Drill by Uniform Degree Team

John Adams aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, observed its annual ladies night in Electra and Protection halls on Wednesday evening and several hundred members and their friends were present.

Worthy President Frank Duffy of the aerie, in the speech of welcome spoke of the objects of the organization, and its high position in the city. Dancing was enjoyed during the evening, music being furnished by Wilson's orchestra.

One of the features was the exhibition drill by the uniform degree team of the aerie under the direction of George Mitchell, conductor. Commencing with the letters F. O. E. the team presented a series of intricate manoeuvers. Thre was an outburst of applause at its completion.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dackers, who were married last Saturday. The groom is the popular secretary of the aerie, and his bride, who was Miss Lillian Sass of Wollaston has a host of friends in this city. They were given a fine reception.

James J. Mellen, chairman of the entertainment committee in charge of the evening, acted as floor director, H was assisted by 13 other members.

SUPERIOR COURT.

Judge Irwin heard three suits in the Norfolk Superior Court at Dedham on Wednesday.

In the suit of Sands Burgess of Braintree against the New Haven railroad to recover $3000 damages for alleged personal injuries received while passenger on a train of the defendant company at Weymouth on Sept. 5, 1912, the court directed a verdict for the defendant and the case will be reported to the Supreme Judicial court.

The suit of Mary L. Sanders of Milton against the Bay State St. Ry. Co., to recover $5000 damages far alleged personal injuries due to the sudden starting of a car as the plaintiff was alighting therefrom at Swampscott on June 1, 1913, was continued, the evidence of the plaintiff being unfinished.

The case of Nelson T. Sanders of Milton against the same company was also unfinished. Sanders sues to recover $2000 damages for loss of his wife's services and medical expenses.

STATE FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS.

By invitation of the Norwood Woman's Club, the autumn meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs was held in the Civic Association building, Norwood Central, Wednesday. A the morning session which opened at 11.15 o'clock, the greeting was given by Mrs. Mabelle Dadmun Everett, president of the hostess club, to which Mrs. George W. Perkins, president of the Massachusetts Federation responded.

Reports of the 12th biennial convention of the general federation, held at Chicago, were presented by the following: "The Business," Mrs. Julius Andrews; "The Work," Mrs. J. Harry Poole; "The Sociability," Mrs. Irving Palmer; "The Inspiration," Mrs. W. W. Churchill; "The Lessons," Mrs. Leila Pennock; "The Outlook," Mrs. Georgia A. Bacon.

At the afternoon session which opened at 2:30, the following new clubs were presented. Economic Club of East Bridgewater, Lily Owen Burbank, M. D., president; Georgetown Woman's Club, Mrs. Maria L. Taylor, president; Norfolk Neighborly Club, Miss Anna P. Moore, president; Malden Women's Civic League, Mrs. Ralph Kirtland, president.

Most interesting addresses were given by Miss Jessie H. Hodder, superintendent of the Massachusetts Reformatory for Women at Sherburne, who spoke on the "Custodial Care of the Deficient," and by Thomas Mott Osborne on "How to Protect Society from the Criminal."

CLERKS GIVE LINEN SHOWER

Miss Ada M. Nightingale, clerk in the office of the Commissioner of Public Works at City Hall, whose engagement was announced to Frederick E. Tupper, a former Commissioner of Public Works a few weeks ago, and who severed her connection with the office on Wednesday, entertained the young lady clerks of the hall at her home on Granite street that evening. Potted plants and large clusters of roses, with which the home was decorated added to the effectiveness, and the evening was one of pleasure to all.

Later in the evening, after the young ladies had gone into raptures over the many pretty engagement gifts which Miss Nightingale has received, they presented her with a beautiful linen shower.

Dainty refreshments were served during the evening. Mr. Tupper arrived sometime later, and was immediately surrounded by the young ladies, and came in for his share of congratulations.

When the time to depart for home, the roses that had been used in the decorations were presented to the young ladies as souvenirs of the evening.

High single,—Baker 119.

High three string total,—Jenner and Baker 307.

High team total—Hoxie 1317

High averages,—Jenner 93, Hoxie and Baker 92, Geddes, Powers, Monroe and Brown 90.

The Wollaston Tennis Club bowling matches at the Coliseum alleys Wednesday evening resulted in Murray and Baker breaking the high single record held by Estes. Murray's single of 116, two higher than the mark, was made first, and Baker boosted it to 119 in his third string and held the honors. Baker also tied Jenners total record of 307.

The Geddes crew, the other one who nailed four points, was not in danger from the Estes from the time first ball rolled down the lanes. Geddes was the only man over the three figures, seven more falling for him.

MINNESOTA TURNS ABOUT

Hammond, Democrat, Elected Governor by Overwhelming Vote

St. Paul, Nov. 5.—Minnesota, bulwark of Republican strength, overwhelmingly elected a Democratic governor, W. S. Hammond, present congressman.

W. S. HAMMOND

The election of a Democrat, equalled twice before in the history of the state, is particularly significant in the face of the fact that Hammond, until a few days ago, was unable to take part in the campaign, because of legislative duties at Washington.

LANDSLIDE IN COLORADO

Nearly All Republican Candidates Are Swept Into Office

Denver, Nov. 5.—A Republican landslide swept into office George Carlson, Rep., for governor, and nearly every candidate on the Republican ticket in Colorado.

The fight between the liquor interests and the Anti-Saloon leaguers to decide whether the state shall go wet or dry is very close, and probably will require the official count to settle.

Carlson's plurality will be in excess of 25,000. The race between Senator Thomas, Dem., and Hubert Work, Rep., for the Colorado senatorship is neck and neck.

COX LOSES IN OHIO

Willis Elected Governor In Old-Fashioned Republican Landslide

Columbus, Nov. 5.—Ohio was struck by an old-fashioned Republican landslide. The Republicans elected Frank B. Willis governor by a plurality estimated at from 8000 to 15,000 in excess of Governor Cox.

© by Buck

FRANK B. WILLIS

Cox sent congratulations to Willis. Cox observed his defeat was brought about by Hamilton county (Cincinnati). Cleveland supported Cox by 18,000.

NEW JERSEY REPUBLICAN

G. O. P. Gains Six Congressional Seats In President's Home State

Trenton, Nov. 5.—Big gains were made by the Republicans in the home state of President Wilson. The next congressional delegation will stand eight Republicans to four Democrats. This was a gain of six seats for the former, the last delegation having been made up of ten Democrats and two Republicans.

The Progressives did not poll 5 percent of the assembly vote and thus will be deprived of participating in the next primary.

Republican Governor In Oregon

Portland, Ore., Nov. 5.—Oregon returns to the senate George E. Chamberlain, Democratic incumbent, and to the house W. C. Hawley and N. J. Sinnott, Republican incumbents. C. N. McArthur, Rep., succeeds W. A. Lafferty, Ind. For governor, James Withycombe, Rep., succeeds Governor West, Dem. Oregon adopted the prohibition amendment by a large majority.

HOW CONGRESS IS AFFECTED

Democratic Majority In House Reduced to Twenty-Three

GAINS FOUR IN THE SENATE

Lower Branch Has 226 Democrats, 192 Republicans, 10 Progressives and a Lone Socialist—Democratic Leaders Think They Must Now Fight Republicans Alone

New York, Nov. 5.—Latest returns from Tuesday's election indicate that the Democratic party in the house of representatives for the Sixty-fourth congress will be reduced to twenty-three. The probable Democratic majority in the senate will be fourteen.

Democrats have elected 226 members, Republicans 192, Progressives 10 and Socialists 1. Of the six missing districts it is estimated that the Republicans and Democrats may elect three each.

Heaviest Republican gains in the almost overwhelming reduction of the Democratic majority were thirteen in Illinois, twelve in New York, ten in Pennsylvania and nine in Ohio. Progressive representation in the house was cut from nineteen to nine or ten. This resulted from the general collapse of the Progressive organization throughout the country, except in California.

Contests which were so close that they have not been determined are claimed by the Progressives in one district in California; by the Progressives in two districts in Colorado and one in New Jersey, and by the Republicans in two districts in Kansas and one in North Carolina.

On the basis of the latest returns, the senate of the Sixty-fourth congress will remain in Democratic control by an increased majority of four. Although there is uncertainty regarding the election in Utah and Nevada, the indications are that the new senate will consist of fifty-five Democrats, forty Republicans and one Progressive.

Senator Smoot of Utah will not admit defeat, although the latest returns show that James M. Moyle, Dem. Prog., is leading in the contest. Senator Newlands of Nevada also seems in danger of losing his seat to Samuel Platt, Dem.

In states where the fight was hottest victory was practically assured for Roger C. Sullivan, Dem., in Illinois; Charles S. Thomas, Dem., in Colorado; James D. Phelan, Dem., Indiana; Charles Curtis, Rep., Kansas; Warren G. Harding, Rep., Ohio, and Charles H. Burke, Rep., South Dakota.

The Progressive vote dropped in practically every state from its strength of two years ago. This is pointed out as being shown in a number of states by the election of former Republican members of congress who were defeated previously because of the large Progressive vote. Such men include Cannon and McKinley in Illinois, Longworth in Ohio and Hill in Connecticut.

According to the returns, the Progressives showed most strength in Kansas and California. In Pennsylvania and Illinois the vote did not come up to predictions.

There is a general sentiment among Democratic leaders, who have previously counted on the Progressive vote, to pay little attention to it in the future and to carry on an out-and-out fight with the Republicans.

SUFFRAGISTS REJOICE

Claim to Have Carried Two States, With a Third In Doubt

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Woman suffrage leaders rejoiced when belated returns indicated that votes for women had been apparently granted in two of the seven states voting on the question in Tuesday's election, with a third state in doubt. First returns indicated refusal of the franchise to women in all seven states concerned.

Montana and Nevada, according to the latest returns, granted votes to women, while Nebraska shows such a small vote against the proposal that the women claim the state.

Missouri, Ohio and North and South Dakota refused to grant equal suffrage, the majority against granting the franchise to women increasing with the size of the population concerned.

TWO STATES REMAIN "WET"

Indications That Four Others Have Voted Against Saloons

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Two of the six states that voted on the question of ousting saloons decided to retain barrooms, while the other four went dry.

Ohio and California voted in favor of retaining saloons. Arizona, apparently, voted dry, women voters contributing materially. Colorado, Washington and Oregon show slight leads in favor of ousting saloons.

The Result In Michigan

Detroit, Nov. 5.—The lead of Governor Ferris, Dem., over former Governor Osborn, Rep., is more than 30,000 votes. Osborn conceded his defeat. Republican candidates were successful in eleven districts, while the Democrats carried two.

NEW CHURCH LEAGUE

Rand, Davis and Makaria Classes Winners

Three interesting matches started the new Quincy Church League on Wardwell's alleys Wednesday night. The Rand and Davis classes found their opponents rather easy taking all four points, but the Makaria could only get three points from the Pilgrim class.

The Davis class took all the honors with team single string of 452 and grand total of 1287. Duff of the same class captured high single of 113 and high three string of 295.

EARLY REPORT

duced to show and explain to the board his invention, and adjustable ball bearing. Mr. Chapman had sample of his ball bearings with him, and he explained the invention at length. It was stated that this was the only adjustable ball bearing in existence.

In brief it was the desire of Mr. Chapman to have stock to the amount of $25,000 subscribed in Quincy, upon which he would locate his plant here. He had already secured a contract for a million dollars which he could close as soon as his plant was established. At the start he would employ about 25 men, but when in full running order a hundred or more skilled men would be employed.

No action was taken toward subscribing for the stock.

The directors asked the approval of the Board of its placing a $10 advertisement in the issue of the Daily Ledger to be published by the King's Daughters. It was voted to expend that amount.

A letter was received from Gen. Bancroft of the Elevated, regretting that the name of the official at the Dudley Street terminal who was not informed about late cars to Quincy, could not be given. He stated that the officials were supposed to fully inform themselves as to connecting cars.

On the suggestion of James Joss, it was voted that anyone joining the Board for the balance of the year that the $5 paid would include the dues for the year 1915. The meeting then adjourned.

A few of the high single strings were: J. Corkery 116; Jones 110; Sim 108; Marchant 105; John 104; Bishop 103; J. Reid 102; Jardine 100. The teams will bowl on Tuesday and Thursday night of each week.

The basketball team held a meeting Tuesday evening at the gym. Another meeting is called for Sunday.

The skating rink is all ready for the water. The ground has been rolled and the fence has been put up around the hockey rink.

AGE NO BAR

Everybody in Quincy is Eligible.

Old people stooped with suffering,
Middle age, courageously fighting,
Youth protesting impatiently;
Children, unable to explain;
All in misery fro mtheir kidneys.
Perhaps a little backache first.
Urinary disorders, dropsy may quickly follow.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Are endorsed by thousands.

Here's Quincy testimony.

Mrs. E. H. Prouty, 85 North street, Quincy, says: "I had backache and headaches and my kidneys acted irregularly. It took only a couple of boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills to completely cure me. Another of my family suffered from lame back and weak kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills were used in that case with equally good results. The benefit I got has been permanent. I will always be glad to publicly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, for they have certainly done me a lot of good."

JAPANESE ARE AFTER GERMANS

Another Great Battle In Pacific Appears to Be Imminent

British Admiralty's Statement Concerning Disaster Off South American Coast Does Not Say What Became of Those Aboard the Monmouth—Chief Seaport of Arabia Attacked and Bombardment of Dardanelles Forts Continued—Turkish Diplomatic Relations With Great Powers Definitely Severed

London, Nov. 5.—Japanese warships are hurrying eastward to combat Germany's title to mistress of the Pacific, won by the defeat of Rear Admiral Craddock's squadron off the Chilean coast.

Eight Japanese battleships are reported off Easter island, about 2300 miles west of the South American coast, and under full headway for the scene of the German naval victory. Easter island is a possession of Chile.

With the Pacific as her peculiar domain, and with the interests of her ally at heart, it was only to be expected that Japan would quickly dispute the mastery in those waters so easily won by the Germans.

In addition to the fleet on the way there is also along the Pacific coast at the present time the Japanese cruiser Idzumo, off British Columbia, two Japanese warships off Honolulu, and the great Japanese battle cruiser Kingo, with its formidable battery of 14-inch guns, which was last reported between San Francisco and Honolulu.

Another big battle in the Pacific would seem to be imminent, in which retribution for the British losses at Carondel will be attempted.

What About Craddock?

In the meantime the fate of Rear Admiral Craddock and the several thousand sea fighters who served under him in the battle of Carondel is as yet a mystery. It seems probable that all of the more than 900 souls aboard the cruiser Monmouth, which was sunk within thirty minutes after firing began, are lost.

Craddock's flagship, the Good Hope, aboard of which he is supposed to have been, was set on fire during the engagement, and is variously reported to have finally sunk and to have taken to flight.

A peculiar report was given out by the British admiralty, the first official statement made since the disaster, which says that "it has received from German sources details of a naval engagement off the Chilean coast in which the British cruiser Monmouth was sunk and the cruiser Good Hope severely damaged." It is naively added that "the admiralty has no confirmation of the report."

This brief and unsatisfactory statement is an evident indication that Craddock has either perished or has taken refuge at some isolated point from which he is unable to forward cablegrams to London.

The British cruiser Minerva, which destroyed the Turkish forts at Akabah, has gone further south and attacked the town of Jiddah, the chief seaport of Arabia.

A Vigorous Bombardment

In the meantime the British and French warships, which have commenced an attempt to force the Dardanelles and seize Constantinople, continued an energetic bombardment of the Dardanelles forts. It is learned from Athens that the British fleet led in the attack, which was pressed with the utmost vigor.

Turkey has definitely broken off diplomatic relations with Great Britain, France, Russia and Servia, and is therefore now formally at war with those nations. Her diplomatic representatives at London, Bordeaux, Petrograd and Nish demanded and received their passports.

Turkey's half-hearted "apology" for firing on Russian ports and merchant vessels was not acceptable. From Constantinople comes the news that the Turkish cabinet has split and that three ministers have resigned, presumably on account of their opposition to the war policy of the Young Turk party headed by Enver Bey.

Meanwhile the two great battle lines, one of which extends through Belgium and France, and the other through East Prussia, Russian Poland and Galicia, are practically stationary, and the tremendous armies composing them appear to be practically at a deadlock, though German withdrawals are reported at the Yser and near Lyck.

PREDICTS FINAL SUCCESS

Joffre Congratulates Commander-In-Chief of Russian Forces

General Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French forces, sent a telegram to Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian forces in the field, the text of which follows:

"We have received with keen pleasure all the dispatches concerning the triumphant march of the Russian armies during the past fifteen days, including those relating to the new advance which has just brought them into proximity to the German frontier.

"I desire to convey to your imperial highness my best congratulations. On our part we have checked the furious German attacks, and by incessant, energetic action we are endeavoring to destroy the enemy's forces opposed to us.

"Our situation is good and I hope that our combined efforts soon will lead to final success."

WHITMAN BY 135,000

Big Vote For Sulzer Proves a Surprise In New York

New York, Nov. 5.—The New York landslide not only swept District Attorney Whitman into the gubernatorial chair, but enabled the Republicans to send James W. Wadsworth, Jr., to the United States senate, elected the rest of the state ticket and gave the Republicans control of the next legislature by a majority of seventy-seven on joint ballot.

Whitman's plurality over Governor Glynn will reach close to 135,000.

The surprise of the election was the vote cast for William Sulzer. Turned down for the nomination by the Progressives at the primary, the deposed governor, without a party behind him, polled close on to 125,000 votes, while the Progressive candidate, Frederick M. Davenport, ran a poor fourth, getting less than 50,000.

The victory of the Republicans was complete. They swept away a Democratic majority of fifteen in the senate, electing thirty-six of their candidates and obtaining a majority of nineteen in the upper branch. In the assembly they made a gain of twenty-four, electing 103 of their number.

The Progressives did not figure in the result at all. Davenport polled but 7 percent of the vote cast for Oscar B. Straus for governor two years ago.

COPPER KING DEAD

Heinze Suddenly Succumbs to Attack of Liver Disease

Saratoga, N. Y., Nov. 5.—F. A. Heinze, owner of immense copper interests in the west, died suddenly here. Heinze, whose legal residence was Saratoga, came from New York to vote.

Heinze, who was 42 years old, had been ill since last June with cirrhosis of the liver. He had made his home in Saratoga for the last six months and his son, 2 years old, was the only relative he had here. His wife died about a year ago.

When a young man Heinze bested the Standard Oil, was victor over the Amalgamated Copper company, outfinanced gray whiskered financiers, beat Wall street at its own game and became many times a millionaire before he was 35.

FORESTS ARE THREATENED

Moth Parasite From Europe May Cause Trouble to Pines

Washington, Nov. 5.—Pine forests of the United States are threatened with serious damage as the result of the introduction of the European pine shoot moth, the department of agriculture announces. Immediate treatment of trees attacked is urged.

The new insect is a small orange-red moth, the larvae of which came into this country within the buds of imported pine seedlings from abroad. It has been found thus far in only ten localities in six states from Massachusetts to Pennsylvania.

A Sharpshooter Duel

By SAMUEL E. BRAND

At the close of the Spanish-American war Edward Cunningham, who had been through the Santiago campaign as a private in an sharpshooter regiment, was considered an expert in that line of warfare. He knew all the dodges in drawing an enemy's fire to an inanimate object, in causing him to show himself, and had the ability to put a bullet just where he pleased at almost any distance.

Cunningham left college to go to the war, and when he came out of it, being much run down by the climate of Cuba, he decided to go abroad to recover his strength.

In Paris Ned met a couple of young Americans who had been in the Spanish war, and the three set about seeing Paris. One evening at a cafe they ran up against a party of French army officers, who, recognizing them for Americans, began to make invidious remarks against the United States. They said nothing calling for resentment, however, till Ned took a little silk United States flag out of his pocket and waved it in their faces.

"Put that dirty rag up!" said one of the officers.

"You call that a dirty rag, do you?" said Ned, his eye lighting with anger. "I'll give you a colored shirt." And he threw some wine from his glass in the officer's face and on his bosom. The man thus attacked calmly wiped away the wine with his napkin, then said a few words to one of the others, who came to the table of the Americans and demanded satisfaction under the code. Cunningham assented, but, being the challenged party and thus having the choice of terms under which the duel should take place, chose for the meeting grounds a farm some twenty miles from Paris and for weapons rifles. The principals were to take positions a mile apart and advance, each conducting the campaign according to his own secret will.

This did not suit the Frenchman at all. There were but two ways of fighting a duel to which he was accustomed—the one with a foil, the other with a pistol, the former being the ordinary French method. He objected to any except one of these methods. Cunningham would not yield. He proposed, however, that if the Frenchman would apologize for speaking disrespectfully of the American flag he would apologize for throwing wine over him. But the officer, being in the army, could not permit such an insult to pass without a fight. He was therefore obliged to accept Cunningham's terms.

One morning bright and early the two parties started by separate conveyances to the farm on which they were to fight. They had succeeded in keeping the affair from the public, but it was known among army officers, and they flocked to the ground in order to witness this singular fight. They have sharpshooters in their armies abroad, but it is a question if there is the free fighting, the ingenious methods practiced among Americans, whose expedients come down from the Indians.

The two principals were placed, the one on the north, the other on the south side of the farm. The interval between them was made up of fields partly and thinly wooded. Unless they purposely covered themselves by taking position here and there behind a tree the duelists could see each other all the way. The distance, so far as the fight was concerned, was not so great as would appear, for the carrying range of the rifles was considerable.

They had scarcely left their positions before Cunningham fired several shots. Whether he did this to get some idea of the range or to rattle his enemy was not known. His first stop was made behind a fence thickly filled with bushes. At the same time his enemy took position behind a stone wall. They were at long range.

The American resorted to the common device of raising his hat above his screen. Getting a bullet in it, he made up his mind that his enemy was not skilled in this kind of warfare. When he saw the Frenchman change his position, passing a gateway, Cunningham's surmise was confirmed. He could have shot the man during the few seconds he was exposed.

Cunningham had no wish to kill his enemy. During the maneuvering he could have shot the Frenchman several times. Desiring to wing him, he invented a stratagem that would permit him to get an easy shot. Tearing a loose piece of railing from the fence, he picked up a stick about three feet long and with his handkerchief fastened it across the longer piece about a foot from one end. Taking off his coat, he put the sleeves on the cross-piece and put his hat on the end, as scarecrows are usually made. Having finished this work, he held his figure against the top of the fence so that it would look to his enemy as if he were sitting on it.

Two shots came in rapid succession, one of them knocking the dummy over. The Frenchman saw it fall and, concluding he had shot his enemy, came out from hiding and advanced leisurely across the field. Cunningham watched for an opportunity to wing him without seriously hurting him and put a bullet through the calf of his leg.

Without the drawing of blood the affair might have gone on indefinitely. As it was, nothing more was required. Mutual apologies were exchanged, and Cunningham and his friends were handsomely entertained at the mess of the French officers.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

LIBRARY TO OPEN SUNDAYS

At a meeting of the trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library held Wednesday evening it was decided to open the reading room of the main library Sunday from Nov. 1 to May 1 during the hours from 2 to 6 o'clock. The trustees believe that this will tend to satisfy a large and growing demand on the part of the public to whom otherwise the library would not be conveniently available.

REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

QUINCY SQUARE

The Scandinavian Republican Club has invited all the Republican candidates for the Mayoralty to a conference at Electa hall on Thursday evning to meet the voters of Scandinavian birth.

Miss White, the librarian of the Thomas Crane Public Library, has just attended the fall meeting of the Massachusetts Library club in Stockbridge, where one session took the form of an experience meeting with reports from the local secretaries. The libraries of the state have been di vided into small groups, each group having come prominent library as its centre, for mutual helpfulness. Quincy's group consists of Avon, Braintree, Holbrook and Randolph.

Very few of the window cards displayed by the candidates for Mayor and other offices comply with the law, as they have no signature at the bottom as required.

The entertainment at the Sons of Veterans fair Wednesday evening was furnished by the Camp Fire girls, lead by Miss Ruth Bass. The program consisted of "The Garden of Love Waltz" and "Tandem," two couple dances by members of the Wampatuck Camp Fire; a flag drill in camp fire costume by members of the Quossett Camp Fire; and a jockey dance by members of the Wampatuck Camp Fire.

Wednesday morning a large banner in the interest of G. B. Bates was suspended across Saville street. Later in the day it was removed as it was said that the authorities objected, and that no permit had been obtained.

Nine tables were in play Wednesday evening at the weekly whist tournament of the Granite City Club. The two best scores were made by George H. Field and George P. Meade. Ice cream anl cake were served after the tournament.

Several members of Rebecca Wiswell tent, Daughters of Veterans of this city are planning to attend the inspection of Dorothy L. Dix tent at East Weymouth this evening, by department inspector Miss Agnes Barry. Among them will be Mrs. Emma Ela, Mrs. Christine Flynn and rMs. Mae Berry, officers of the local tent.

Now it looks as if the King's Daughters will not be able to find space for all the good things prepared for their special issue of the Daily Ledger next Wednesday. The special articles are world-wide in their scope.

Yesterday was a record breaking day for high temperature on Nov. 4 and today is another for Nov. 5. The noon temperature on both days was 65.

QUINCY WOLLASTON

The funeral of Wesley Webber, who enjoyed a national reputation as an artist and composer of music took place this afternoon and was well attended. Services were conducted by Rev. Isaiah M. Sneath of the Wollaston Congregational church. The body was sent to Gardner, Me., his native town, where he will be given a Masonic burial by the lodge of that city with which he was affiliated.

LOST STRAYED OR STOLEN

Braintree Alarmed Over a Missing Selectman

Lost, strayed or stolen. This was the question that confronted the usual quietness of Braintree on Wednesday afternoon. The lost, strayed or stolen person was no other that Henry Storm the veteran member of the Board of Selectmen. For a time the wildest kind of excitement prevailed, which was greatly augmented when the deep bells and whistles of the fire alarm system tolled off the lost child call, and firemen were seen hurrying into the woods between the Braintree and Quincy line.

Sometime later after the woods had been thoroughly thrashed without finding any trace of the missing selectmen, and the weary searchers were trudging along toward home, the Town Father showed up. He had been to Boston.

It seems that Wednesday the Selectmen of Braintree accompanied by City Engineer Sargent went over the line between the Mother town and Quincy to locate some bounds that were found out of place a week ago, when the line was perambulated. During the course of their travels the party became separated but eventually came together again. That is all but Mr. Storm. He did not appear and no amount of search could locate him. As a last resort the party went to his home, but he had not returned and his family did not know of his whereabouts. Then it was that the lost child call was sounded.

The firemen, like the Germans invading France, divided into groups and beat about the woods for hours without result. As time went on, and no trace of the missing man was found the excitement grew and grew. Stories of all kinds spread like wild fire. Some had him falling into a quarry hole and being dashed to pieces on the jagged rocks below, others had him seized with an attack of illness, and hundreds of other suppositions.

The excitement quickly cooled off, however, when along about dark the missing man stepped off the train at East Braintree, all unconscious of the stir which he had made.

It seems that after becoming separated from the rest of the party, and having completed his part of the job, locating the boundary posts, he thought he would visit the Hub. Taking a short cut through the woods he boarded a train for Boston, not for a minute thinking of what the consequences would be when he failed to meet his brother Selectmen, and it was not until he stepped from the train, only to meet a crowd of overjoyed and excited citizens, that he realized what trouble his lack of thoughtfulness had caused.

JOHNSON RALLIES.

Candidate Johnson speaks this evening at Doble's hall, the rally to be preceded by a parade. He will also speak at Wollaston, Atlantic and Quincy Point. Friday night he will speak at Electa hall, Quincy Point and Atlantic.

Why Roquefort Is Strong.

Roquefort cheese gets its sharp flavor from caproic, caprylic and capric acids and their salts, which are formed by a sort of hydrolysis of the fat during the ripening period. This change is caused by a microbe called Penicillium roqueforti. These acids have a peppery taste.

CRANBERRY RECIPES.

CRANBERRY SAUCE.

Heat two cups, each, of sugar and water to boiling point. Add one quart berries, cover saucepan, and stand on back of stove five minutes. Then boil five minutes. Set the sauce aside, covered, in the saucepan until cold (this is important. Use only sound cranberries. Do not cook or keep in metal vessel. Fruit will retain its shape.

CRANBERRY SAUCE.

One quart raw cranberries, three cups cold water. Boil in porcelain lined vessel until tender. Add four cups of sugar and boil slowly for five minutes. May be strained to remove skins if preferred. Use less sugar if a more acid sauce is wanted.

CRANBERRY JELLY.

Four cups raw cranberries put in porcelain lined vessel with one cup of boiling water. Boil twenty minutes. Strain and measure the juice. Return to the fire and cook rapidly ten or fifteen minutes. Then add one cup of hot sugar to each cup of juice. Cook five minutes and turn into molds or glasses.

CRANBERRY PIE.

One and one-half cups split raw cranberries, one cup sugar, one-half cup water. Put ingredients in porcelain lined vessel, and cook ten minutes Cool and bake in one crust with a rim and strips across the top. Also may he cooked with a rich upper crust if desired.

BAKED CRANBERRIES.

Wash and pick over the berries, put four cupfuls of them into an earthenware dish with sufficient water to cover them. Cover the dish and place in a moderately hot oven and bake until the berries are soft. Then stir in two cupfuls of sugar and bake fifteen minutes longer. Serve cold.

BAKED CRANBERRY PUDDING.

Beat yolk of two eggs. Add one-half cup milk, one cup sugar, three tablespoons melted butter, two cups flour, one teaspoonful cream tartar, three-fourths teaspoonful soda, two cups chopped cranberries. Bake three-fourths of an hour and serve hot with

Sauce;

One large teaspoonful flour, moisten with water, stir in one-half cup boiling water, one cup sugar. Add the beaten whites of two eggs, and flavor to taste.

CRANBERRY FRITTERS.

One egg, one cup sweet milk, one and one-half cups flour, a little salt and cup of cranberries cut fine, little over one-half teaspoon soda. Fry in deep fat. Use syrup. One cup each of brown and granulated sugar boiled together. Add teaspoon of vanila.

CRANBERRY KETCHUP.

One quart cranberries, one cup water, two cups vinegar. Tie in piece of muslin a few cloves, four whole allspice, a tablespoon of broken stick cinnamon and some mace. Simmer all together in a granite pan until fruit is soft. Press through a colander, add two cups of brown sugar, simmer ten minutes longer and seal. This recipe makes a delicious ketchup and one very conveniently made in small quantities at any time through the winter or cranberry season, and can be safely made in large quantities for mid-summer use.

STEAMED CRANBERRY PUDDING.

Beat two eggs well, add three-quarters cup sugar and one-half cup milk, then two cups flour, one-half teaspoonful salt, and two teaspoonsful of baking powder, all sifted together. Then stir in the cranberries one cup either whole or halved. Butter a pudding mold and steam one and one-half hours. Serve with sauce.

CRANBERRY SALAD.

Allow one package of gelatine to soak in one pint of cold water until dissolved. Pour into this two quarts of boiling cranberry juice, add the juice of a lemon, one-fourth teaspoon of salt, sugar to taste, and when cool add one cup of black walnut meats, and one cup of celery chopped fine.

STORING CRANBERRIES.

Cranberries should be kept in a cool, dry atmosphere, where the temperature is as uniform as possible. They can be kept in perfect condition for many month, in sealed jars filled with cold water, which has been boiled.

CRANBERRY BLANC MANGE.

Cook and strain cranberries as for jelly and add one cup of sugar to each pint of juice. Heat in a double boiler. When boiling hot, add for each pint, two tablespoonsful of cornstarch, which has been wet with cold water. Boil three minutes and turn into molds. Serve ice cold, with sugar and cream.

CRANBERRY SHORT CAKE.

Take two cups prepared flour, one-half cup washed butter, rub into the flour, one or two yolks of eggs, add milk to roll out like biscuits, but not as thick, one-half inch is enough. When baked, spit and fill with sauce.

QUINCY SQUANTUM

The first of a series of entertainments in the First Church of Squantum was held Wednesday night in the church auditorium and was a great success. A good sized crowd attended and every number on the program was greatly enjoyed. Rev. T. W. Davison and J. H. Leonard had charge of the entertainment which was a literary concert. A feature of the affair was readings by Mrs. W. Norton Stetson of Wollaston, who was formerly Miss Maud Read of Atlantic. Her numbers were well chosen to display her great ability as a reader. She recited "The Book Canvasser" "Minor Reflections" and "Rosa.

Miss Turner of Cambridge sang two solos which were much enjoyed. Every number on the program was of the highest order and warmly applauded by the audience. The other numbers were: Trio, Miss Hazel Davison, piano, Miss Edith Abbott, cornet and George M. Armstrong, violin; whistling solo, Joseph Uppling; cornet solo, Charles Bostwick; tenor solo James Butler; duet, Joseph Uppling and Master Joseph Uppling Jr.; solo, Miss Jordine Davison; selections by trio. Mrs. Ethel Jones Bostwick and Miss Hazel Davison were accompanists.

The children of the Sunday School of the First Church of Squantum were given a Hallowe'en party in Community hall Monday evening. Hallowe'en games were played and a most delightful time enjoyed by the seventy fiv children present.

The Squantum Women's club held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Hiram A. Morse. It was voted to hold a supper and sale in Community hall on December 12. Plans are also being made for a musicale in one of the Boston hotels in January at which Ethel Frank Brigham will be the soloist. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Matthew McGrain.

Lost Secret of Greeks.

No greater gift could be made to our modern world than the rediscovery of the Greek physical supremacy. The secret of the method by which for one brief period they realized perfection was long since lost, no one knows how.

At present so little do we understand the principles of training which guided the Greek in his games, in his battles and his dances and made the proportions of his figures different from ours of today that Greek sculpture is in reality a puzzle to us. Certain postures fixed by the Greek sculptor seem to us contortions, bordering on physical impossibilities. There is always a terrific controversy over the restoration of Greek sculpture, and even then the arms and heads and legs we supply never look right.

All this because we do not understand the principles by which the Greek ordered the movements of his body. It was a great secret of bodily co-ordination, and the secret has been lost and with it the ability thoroughly to understand Greek art.—New York Times.

Won Her.

"Do you know," he said, "that every time I look at you I have thoughts of revenge?"

"Why?" she gasped.

"Because," he answered, "revenge is sweet." Then she told him she thought tomorrow would be a good time to see papa.

All Greek to Father.

"Pa, does money talk?"

"Yes, my boy."

"What language does it speak?"

"Some foreign tongue that I'm not familiar with."—Baltimore Sun.

BRIEFS

Good attendance marked the third night of the Sons of Veterans fair in Faxon hall on Wednesday evening and one of the most pleasing features was the entertainment given by the Camp Fir Girls of this city under the direction of Miss Ruth Bass. Their program included special dances in costume. Other organizations of the allied patriotic societies of the city will direct the entertainments the balance of the week.

District Deputy Supreme Knight Edward D. Barrett of this city installed Grand Knight Edward Butler and the other officers of Weymouth council, Knights of Columbus at Weymouth on Wednesday evening. On next Monday night he will serve as installing officer of Ave Maria council of West Quincy and on Nov. 19 of Cohasset council at Cohasset.

Having sold the edition of the Quincy Daily Ledger of Wednesday, Nov. 11 to the King's Daughters, we will accept no advertisements for that issue, except legal advertisements, standing advertisements or from those under contract. QUINCY SOUTH

Abigail Adams Lodge, I. C. of A. held a very successful whist party at Doble's hall Tuesday evening. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Gorman, Mrs. Canna, Mrs. Walsh, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Taylor. Consolations to Miss McDonald and Mrs. Allen.

The Ladies Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church on Water street took a very good way to christen their new dishes and silver ware when they gave a supper and surprise to Mrs. Mutch of Pongapoag in remembrance of her kindness to them last summer when they took an auto trip to her home. The supper consisted of ham, escalloped potatoes, assorted cakes, pies, fruit, rolls and tea. When nearly over Mrs. Smart, the president in behalf of the ladies presented Mrs. Mutch with a beautiful cut glass fern dish and fern, Mrs. Mutch was so overcome that it took a few minutes before she could speak, but she thanked the ladies again and again and said she never would forget it. She invited the ladies up again. After supper games were enjoyed. Beautipieces were played on a Victrola owned by Mrs. Ross, and piano solos were given by Mrs. Flockhart. The party broke up at a late hour. Among those present were Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Bishop, Mrs. Beach, Mrs. Craig, Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Dell, Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Flockhart Mrs. Farquason Mrs. Hayden, Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Muckle, Mrs. Mutch, Mrs. Michael, Mrs. D. THE CANDIDATES WERE ALL AT SEA

Out Over Waters of Quincy Bay in the Wollaston Yacht Clubhouse Last Night

Careful However to Keep Within Three Mile Limit

All of the candidates seeking the Mayoralty nomination, as well as two of the candidates who will not enter the primaries but go before the people at the December election, accepted the invitation of the Wollaston aPrk Improvement association Thursday evening and spoke before the association at the Wollaston yacht clubhouse.

Every candidate was applauded when introduced, and again when he had completed, but the only candidate to be interrupted by applause was Mr. Tilden. His remarks were frequently punctuated. All of the candidates with the exception of Mr. Campbell were late in arriving being in attendance at other rallies. Mr. Campbell came to Wollaston first and was the first speaker. Mr. Tilden and Mr. Johnson arrived about the same time. That is at 9.30. Each was accompanied by a crowd of supporters, the Tilden supporters coming in half a dozen automobiles.

Owing to the lateness in arriving of the candidates the spare time was taken up in short addresses by Councilman Gilliatt and A. MacDonald who is seeking the nomination of the City Council from Ward Five. After the Mayoralty candidates had finished Mayor Whiton was introduced and received a very enthusiastic reception. When he had concluded most of the audience left the hall, although a few remained to hear several candidates for Councilmen at Large who were present.

Dr. Philip Kelley presided and the first speaker was Chester I. Campbell.

CANDIDATE CAMPBELL.

Mr. Campbell said that there were several important matters for the voters to consider at this election. He took it that all candidates for Mayor were good fellows. Each has his own ideas as to the kind of administration Quincy needs. Personally he was not seeking the office; if he had been he would have been a candidate four years ago. This year he had been waited upon by a committee of 25 or 30 and they put up the matter in a different light. They said Quincy needs a strictly business administration by some one who has had experience, and that it was my duty to allow the use of my name.

He wanted it understood that he was not a politician. Never was and never would be. If elected no politics would interfere with his work as he did not know what a politician was. Quincy needs a man who was an organizer and administrator, and one of execution. If you decide my qualifications are such I will get your vote.

No man at City Hall need fear if he

FEGAN TO TOUR CITY

Edward J. Fegan who is candidate for the Democratic nomination has planned a whirlwind tour of the various wards of the city for the "night before." In St. Marys hall he will appear early in the evening and other speakers will be the various candidates for the City Council.

The Ward Two rally will also hear the candidates and the same will prevail at Atlantic.

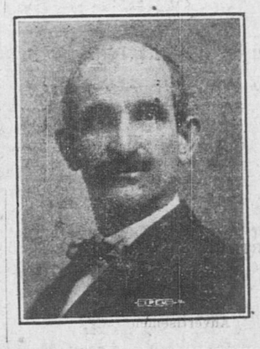

Mr. Fegan's discussion of city affairs to date has been logical and fearless and his platform, somewhat different from the other candidates, is "good government, consistent with efficiency.

Fritz Olsen was the winner of the first Senior class weekly contest, making 9 ft. 1 in, in the standing broad jump. Henry Trask was second and Arthur Axberg was third. Points will be scored throughout the season and the three high score men will be awarded suitable prizes.

The scores on the bowling alleys were not high for the month of October. Edward Eaton and William Childs dividing first place with the score of 107. Ten tickets are given free for the highest monthly score.

If the interest is great enough the Physical department committee will run off a three-mile cross country run (handicapped) on Thanksgiving morning. This event will be open to Senior, Employed Boys, and Students. What do you say fellows? Better start to train now.

The Juniors and the Employed Boys have chosen their captains for the season's group games. The Junior class elected the following fellows as their leaders, Michigan, Theodore Brown; Penn State, Everett Robbie; Princeton, Herbert Hendry; Harvard, Eric Nelson. The Employed Boys' teams have selected the following fellows as their captains: Dartmouth, John Osberg; Syracuse, Alton Hall; Yale, Fred Kingsbury; Harvard, James Sullivan.

The standing of the Employed Boys' teams are as follows, Dartmouth, 11.3 points; Harvard 10.4 points; Syracuse 4.2 points; Yale 1.4 points. Juniors' team points are as follows, Michigan, 6 points; Princeton, 6 points; Harvard, 4 points; Penn State, 2 points.

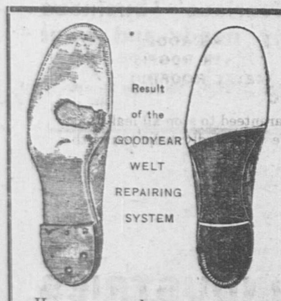

Good times are promised this month socially for the Boys' division. Nov. 18 we are going to have one of the best lectures possible on snakes. Real live specimens and some mighty interesting pictures of their native home. The admission will be ten cents for those under eighteen, and fifteen cents for those older. This is for anybody and those that come are sure to hear one of the best possible talks.

Ping-pong tournament is being played off among the Juniors with a great deal of interest. The winner among the Juniors will play the winner of the Employed Boys' tournament for the championship of the Boys' Division.

Saturday morning meeting for all boys over ten, at 9 sharp, in the Association hall. The speaker this week will be Rev. I. W. Sneath, of the Wollaston Congregational church. He is sure to have a good message, fellows, so drop around. Don't forget those buttons the fellows are working for as well as the banners they are trying to win for their school, by having the largest number of fellows out each week.

This evening the members of the teams in the Membership campaign will meet for supper at 6.30. Chairman Prout is very anxious that every member of every team be on hand.

In order that every member of the "gym" class may have a chance to get out after memberships this evening, there will be no class for the seniors. Fifty members ought to be secured this evening.

Have your shoes attended to before the wet weather is upon us.

IN ATTEMPT TO REACH CHANNEL

Germans Preparing For Fierce Attack Upon Allies

BRUSSELS ABOUT EVACUATED

Men and Big Siege Guns to Take Active Part In Battle of Flanders, Which, Authough Long and Furious, Is Still Indecisive—Opposing Armies In Eastern Theatre of War Making More Wide and Sweeping Movements — Formal Announcement of State of War With Turkey—Bombardment of Dardanelles

London, Nov. 6.—The Germans have practically evacuated Brussels, leaving only a few military posts behind to guard the Belgian capital.

The heavy siege guns, whose 16½-inch projectiles played so important a part in the downfall of Liege, Mons, Namur and Antwerp, have been hurriedly transported to the westward, to add weight to the desperate attempt of the Germans against the lines of the allies at Ypres, which the Germans are making the keystone of their attempt to reach the shores of the English channel—with the rich port of Calais as their objective point.

General army headquarters at London, in a statement giving an account by an eyewitness of the fighting in West Flanders, admits that this great battle is the most bitterly contested so far in the western theatre of the war—harder fought than the titanic struggles at the Marne and Aisne.

Many Rumors Afloat

Thursday saw a multitude of rumors that the allies had gained ground in this fighting, especially in the neighborhood of Nieuwport. The official statement issued by the French war office, however, minimizes these successes, stating there is no new information on the operations to the north of the Lys. A violent offensive movement by the Germans north of Arras, the statement continues, resulted in the loss of a few trenches by the French, which were later retaken.

It is evident, in any event, that the great battle of West Flanders, which has been fought almost continuously since Oct. 26, is still indecisive. The Germans planned to reach a point of vantage on the North sea by the capture of Calais, but found this impossible, not only because of the stubborness of the defense put up by the allies and the Belgians, but because the route along the sea was barred to them by the inundation of the low lands, which the Belgians had created to stop the German advance.

The allies' attempt to move northward to Ostend failed for the same reason, and the opposing armies confronted each other in the neighborhood of Ypres, where the most desperate fighting of the Belgium campaign has now been going on for ten days.

Situation In the East

More wide and sweeping movements are being made by the opposing armies in the eastern theatre of the war. The Russians have driven back the German centre to the river Warthe in Russian Poland, have held back a German offensive movement from East Prussia and are now straightening out their line for a more vigorous offensive against the Austrians, who have been trying to beat back their left wing in Galicia.

The allies are depending on the Russians to win these operations decisively, so that the Germans will be obliged to rush relief to the Polish battleground.

The entrance of Turkey into the fighting has given the military strategists of London and Paris something to worry about. They fear that the Russian forces operating against the Germans and Austrians will be weakened by the sending of reinforcements to the south against the Turks. The Russian authorities, however, say that Turkey's advent into the war has already been discounted and that they have sufficient troops on the spot to deal with Turkey.

Reports Are Conflicting

The first reports of the fighting between the Russians and the Turks are conflicting as any of the Austrian and Russian reports of the war in Galicia. Each contender claims to have invaded the other's territory and to have defeated his frontier armies at almost the same spots. These fights, however, have probably been only advance guard affairs and it is likely that it will be some time before a real battle takes place.

According to unofficial reports Turkey has an army of 90,000 infantry and artillery and 20,000 cavalry on the Caucasus border.

The Anglo-French fleet continues to bombard the Dardanelles. The Turks claim that no damage has been done the forts, and the fleet commanders report that no damage has been done the fleet.

Fear German Battleships

All England was perturbed at the admission that four German battleships and four cruisers had dodged the British patrol, slipped out of Wilhelmshaven and would threaten the British coast. These German warships are still unreported.

Great Britain and France have formally anonunced that a state of war exists with Turkey. Great Britain has denied that the British cruiser Minerva bombarded the Arabian seaport of Jiddah on the Red sea, and proclaims that the sacred Moslem cities will not be molested so long as there is no interference with pilgrims from India. The governments of Russia and France have given similar assurances.

Persia, in spite of influence brought to bear by the German and Turkish ministers at Teheran to join in the war against Russia, has announced her neutrality and has appealed for Great Britain's good offices in preserving her territory from violation.

All the Balkan states are anxiously awaiting the action of Bulgaria. If Bulgaria enters the war the entire Balkan country is likely to be dragged in.

TEN MINUTES TOO LATE

German Who Had Four Sons Killed Begged Kaiser to Spare Fifth

How a broken old German named von Koenig, three of whose sons were killed in the invasion of France and a fourth shot in Prussia, pleaded successfully with the kaiser for the life of the fifth and last in behalf of the aged mother, made nearly insane by grief, only to learn that this one, too, was struck dead ten minutes before the message arrived, is told by an eye witness.

The father of this broken family is himself a retired colonel of the German army. When he learned of the fate of his sons, he hurried to the kaiser and begged that the remaining son be transferred to a point of safety.

Upon hearing the story, the emperor was unstinted in his praise and straightway gave the order granting the request. The old colonel hurried joyously to where his son was stationed and sought out the general in command.

"Your son was killed in action ten minutes ago," he was told.

The officers were installed by Right Worshipful Gardner R. P. Barker, district deputy grand master of the 26th Masonic district, assisted by Worshipful Charlie W. Dunbar as grand marshal. Both of the installing officers were presented bouquets of flowers.

Past Master Hartley L. White is receiving honors thick and fast this week. On Tuesday he was elected a representative to the General Court, and at this meeting he was re-elected a trustee of the permanent fund, a member of the Masonic relief committee, and a proxy to the Grand lodge.

It was voted to observe ladies night during the winter, and a special committee was appointed.

Past Master Frank A. Reed presented to Worshipful Master Crane, on behalf of the lodge, a beautiful past masters' jewel, he having completed one year in the East.

ATTEMPT TO STEAL DOG

Two Dorchester young men, whose names have not been learned, had an unpleasant experience on Thursday trying to steal the full blooded Irish terrier owned by George Tanner, well known to those who attend the Kincaide theatre. Both jumped from an auto at Phipps and Water street during the afternoon, and coaxed the dog over to where they stood. While the tail was gently wagged one passed a hand under the fore feet and started to pick Teddy up. The dog who had been docile until then suddenly turned, jumped into the air and nearly fastened its teeth on the throat of the young man. His companion caught the terrier before it struck the ground with the result that he was bitten through the hand, so that the wound was cauterized.

The dog went back home but didn't tell Tanner about the attempt to shanghai him, but others who saw the affair did. The dog is the favorite of the neighborhood and is a great friend of the children. No trace of mongrel blood flows in its veins.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

CAMPBELL RALLY

sons, Mr. Campbell gave out a statement to the effect that everything pointed towards his nomination on Tuesday. "Conservatively I estimate that I ought to get more votes than the aggregate of all the other candidates opposing me," declared Mr. Campbell.

At the street railway barns he was invited to talk to about fifty employees who cheered him when he departed. His talk with the railway men was an informal one. Mr Campbell explained his position on union labor and this brought him the cheers of the street car men.

In the evening Mr. Campbell addressed a big crowd at the Wollaston Yacht club. His talk was a brief one as he had to hurry to Alpha hall where a big crowd awaited him when Mr. Campbell entered the hall the entire audience stood up and cheered.

He said in part: After a strenuous day of campaigning, I wish to assure my friends that I haven't a fear as to the result next Tuesday. I have been in every section of the city. Big crowds that were genuinely enthusiastic have greeted me. Quincy is thoroughly aroused to the need of a business administration and I feel that the battle is already won.

Win or lose, the man who tackles the mayoralty job next year will have to make a strenuous effort to conduct the affairs of our city in a business like manner. It is our plain duty to elect a man capable of giving Quincy the best administration she ever had. If you can't conscienciously vote for me because you don't believe that I am capable to handle the job then pick out the man you believe has the right sort of stuff in him. Don't let sentiment sway you, when you cross your ballot.

Not only does the business end of the city need organizing on an efficient basis, but her manufacturies and commercial interests need some booming. Our possibilities are great. With the right sort of advertising we would attract a lot of business to this city. We have plenty of room to grow, and we have advantages that no other city in the Commonwealth can offer.

A. L. Stinson said that it was time to run the city along practical lines. Everybody, he said, recognized that was the real issue of the campaign now being waged. With this question settled no intelligent voter could do other than cast his ballot for Chester I. Campbell. He has been schooled in the handling of great numbers of men. To lead men is a wonderfully rare art and it should be one of the essential qualifications for a chief executive of our city.

Alexander Cowe made one of his characteristic speeches that went big with the audience. He explained the sentiment in Ward Three and said that Campbell would poll a big vote there on Tuesday.

John W. Hendry brought a message from the voters of Quincy Point. It was a decidedly optimistic one from a Campbell standpoint. Mr. Hendry said that he believed that it was time for a business administration.

BETHANY JUNIOR MEETING.

Bethany Junior Endeavor held a very interesting meeting Thursday afternoon in the chapel. Alice Miller was leader and the topic was "How home missionaries work." Following a short talk by Miss Ada Williams, the leader of the Missionary committee, a group of Juniors presented a scene from a home missionary's home in Nevada. Russell L. Williams took the part of the missionary, Doris Prout his wife, and Olive Prout, Eleanor and Betty Sargent, George and John Laing his children.

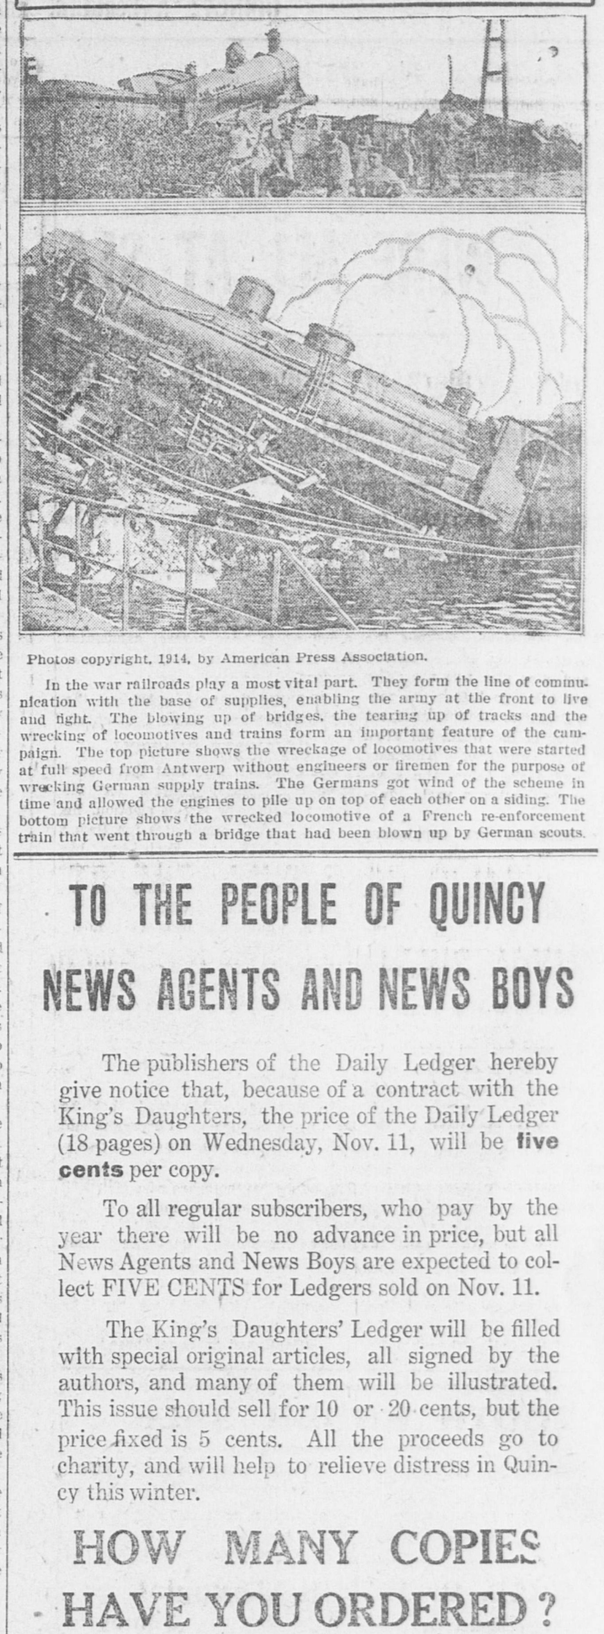

Gordon Spear was the expressman. He brought to their home a box of articles presumably sent by the Juniors of Bethany. Then the box was opened and its contents examined and there was great rejoicing in the family. Little Betty was especially happy when a glass of jelly came to view for she was tired of bread with nothing on it. Each one was fortunate to find just the things he wanted in the box. The program was entertaining and instructive.

Train Wrecking Plays Important Part In War as These Views Show.

Photos copyright, 1914, by American Press Association.

In the war railroads play a most vital part. They form the line of communication with the base of supplies, enabling the army at the front to live and fight. The blowing up of bridges, the tearing up of tracks and the wrecking of locomotives and trains form an important feature of the campaign. The top picture shows the wreckage of locomotives that were started at full speed from Antwerp without engineers or firemen for the purpose of wrecking German supply trains. The Germans got wind of the scheme in time and allowed the engines to pile up on top of each other on a siding. The bottom picture shows the wrecked locomotive of a French re-enforcement train that went through a bridge that had been blown up by German scouts.

DREADNOUGHT SUBMARINES

Fore River Company Will Submit Bids

The Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation will be one of the firms who will submit bids to the government for building the new type of submarines, designs and specifications for which have just been completed. The bids are to be opened Dec. 15.

The new submarines are of a new and distinct type and will outclass the famous U-9 class of the German navy. They will be known as fleet submarine and will have a displacement of 1200 tons, which means they will be twice the size of the present United States submarines. They will have high speed and defensive power and will be able to accompany an American battleship and not lag behind.

They will be about 300 feet long and will carry their own wireless outfit and will have a crusing radius of about 3500 miles at a 21 knot speed. They will carry rapid-fire guns for self defense and enough torpedoes to sink a modern fleet of dreadnaughts. The cost of the new type of submarine will be about $1,250,000 and will be built under the naval appropriation of $4,460,000 for carrying eight or more submarines.

It will be known as a submarine destroyer and also a diving destroyer. It has been learned that both England and France have plans for similar submarines but have been keeping their plans secret. The motive power will be the Diesel internal combustion engines and will burn heavy fuel.

MISS BAKER NOW MRS. STURGIS

Harry Gaynor Sturgis of 45 Darrow street and Miss Gertrude M. Baker of 1256 Sea street, both residents of Houghs Neck, were married at the beach on Thursday. The ceremony was performed by Rev. William J. Sayre of the People's Union chapel.

The marriage of the popular young couple was a surprise to their many friends about the city. The bride is the 16 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Baker, and the consent of the parents necessary so the ceremony could be performed, was readily given. The groom is well known throughout the city. They will live at Houghs Neck.

PLANNING FOR THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving is almost here. The Associated Charities are making their annual plans for co-operation in relief giving, in order to prevent duplication, and to make sure that every needy family is provided for. They have sent letters to various churches and societies asking that the names and addresses of families which they propose to aid, shall be furnished at least a week before Thanksgiving for the purpose of comparison.

When requested to do so the Associated Charities will visit any family to learn whether they need assistance. By this method and with cordial co-operation of public and private agencies duplication for the past two years has been practically eliminated in this city. This year when times are so hard it is hoped that it will work equally well in order that every family in need shall be provided for.

DISTRICT COURT.

Thomas W. Daly was fined $10 on account of costs for failing to have a number plate on his automobile at Quincy.

John P. Crowley was fined $5, Michael Downey $10 for drunkenness at Quincy.

William Herne was sentenced to one month in the house of correction for drunkenness at Milton.

Albern H. Sawyer was fined $20 for violation of the automobile law at Milton.

Leon Blakema, Paul L. Bormardeau and Martin Davis were brought down from the Concord reformatory and arraigned for breaking and entering the waiting room of Thomas Whelan at Braintree. The boys waived examination and were sent back to the reformatory.

LARCENCY IS CHARGED

Charles E. Lyons, 23 years of 24 Barry street, and Frank Murphy, 23 years, of 34 South Bridge street, Worcester, are held by the police of Station 11, Boston, on a charge of larceny.

The police say both are responsible for the larceny of $48 in money and a $3 check from Joseph Sullivan of Botolph street, Atlantic. They say the theft was committed opposite Neponset avenue about 11 o'clock on Thursday evening.

The complainant in the case is Patrolman Gallagher. Lyons was taken into custody by Boston officers at his home this morning at 6.30. Murphy was arrested by the patrolman after a hard tussle.

In the Dorchester court this morning their cases were continued for a week. Bail was set at $300.

THE CANDIDATES

is efficient and doing his work properly. Men were not efficient largely from lack of organization in this department. Each department should be organized and the head should be a busy man. Then his clerks would be busy. It was all bosh for a man to state he would lower taxes. The Mayor has no authority and he doubted if it could be fixed. Until debt was reduced we cannot look for a reduction in taxes. With organization and efficiency the debt can be reduced. He had made a study of organization for years and to bring about results we must have a perfect organization.

CANDIDATE POWERS.

Spoke of existing conditions in Quincy, and said from all he had heard we had had all the business administrations Quincy wanted, and all we could afford. Workingmen were far superior to a business administration Any man who says he will give an $18 tax rate is smoking the wrong pipe. We all know we had a low tax rate this year. Taxes must be equalized. Ang man telling you he equalized. Any man telling you he will give this or that is wrong. The Mayor you want is one who will give you justice and live up to the City Charter.

If you want anything you petition the City Council. It is not for me to tell you want you want. When I am Mayor there would be no men holding two offices as now. "I'll tell you another thing. A man who lives in Braintree is assessed in Quincy this year. He has a room at the Poor farm so he can be assessed here.

"Another thing. There is a poor cripple at the Poor farm sleeping on a bare board. Is that right?"

He believed in unionism. He had been a member of the union for 21 years, and he hoped they would look up his labor record. A man who is not a union man, is no man to represent the people. There was no gang or clique following him about, and there were no strings tied to him.

To the ladies he would say, put your shoulders to the wheel. You should be the ones to run the School Committee, men have not got the feeling for children that the women have I ask your support for a Quicker Queenlier Quincy."

CANDIDATE TILDEN.

Said that he was pleased to come to Wollaston, the stamping ground of Mr. Campbell, and address intelligent men. He was born in Quincy and had lived here all his life. He was City Treasurer for two years and handled your money. During those two years he co-operated with the heads of the different departments and we succeeded in reducing the debt $109,800. No other administration has done this except ex-Mayor Bryant, and his was but a few hundred dollars. While in office he had always treated people as they should be, and never took a penny but he had said thank you. He felt that his two years' experience ought to count for something, and that he knew something about the conduct of city affairs.

Do you think a man can go into that office and do the work in two or three hours a day? It cannot be done. I do not propose to be in the office all of the time. I intend to go about the city and see what is being done in the different departments.

The matter of debt is in the hands of the Council. The Mayor can veto but the Council can pass over the veto. There is no question but what some of our valuation is inflated. He proposed to place the assessed value where it belongs. If a place is assessed for $5,000 and the owner has a sign up for years offering to sell for $4,000, then that valuation is $4,000.

We must stop the debt from accumulating if we want to reduce the debt.

I did not want to run for the office but a committee came to my summer home. They were Col. H. L. Kincaide, Joseph L. Whiton, Nathan Ames Eben W. Sheppard and Samuel MacQuarrie. I refused, but they insisted and gave me until Saturday to decide. That night 25 of them came to my home. I still refused, but they hung on and I consented.

In the business world I have been a success all of my life. You cannot find a thing against my character in business life. There are no strings tied to me, and City Hall is not running me. There are many improvements which the city needs, but we must economize. We need a new police station. The present one is a disgrace, yet he would not advocate a new building until we were better off. The schools should have all the money they need. I am no politician and my platform from the first has been co-operation and conservation. Co-operation with the best there is in the city, and conserve the best interests of all. Waste makes want. If we stop the little leaks we will stop the ship from sinking.

CANDIDATE BATES.

Before speaking, G. B. Bates hung his chart showing how the money of the city is expended. He had no music, bag pipers or red fire with him, but he was there to tell them what the matter was with Quincy, and why it costs more to live here than in any other city in the Commonwealth.

Why should we pay the railroad 15 cents to Boston, and the street railway 10 cents when the other side of Boston people can ride the same distance for 5 cents, Why should we pay $1.20 for gas when the same company furnishes Boston and Milton gas for 80 cents Why should we pay 15 cents a kilowatt for electric lights, when Braintree pays but 10 cents? Why should we pay 6 cents for Sunday papers when every other place pays but 5 cents?. Everything here is costing us too much.

We have heard much about boosting Quincy, but the only thing he had seen boosted was tax bills and salaries at City Hall. It was time we shut off. As long as the corporations do not pay their share of the burden these will continue. Property valued at thirty-five millions is only assessed for five millions. The Fore River Corp. is not assessed one half its value. That is why the company are able to pay such large salaries. But the little homes pay their full value every time.

He then spoke of the land of the New Haven railroad on the Quincy side of Neponset river which was assessed here for half a cent a foot while on the Boston side it was assessed for $3 a foot.

There is something the matter with the Assessors. I was appointed to get after the tax dodgers but they got after the Mayor and he got after me. He proposed to serve on the Board of Assessors when Mayor, but not to draw salary. There would be no tax dodgers when he was mayor. The railroad instead of being a blessing is a burden. It is just as easy to have an $18 tax rate as it is to raise it. We have ten millions of vacant land that is not assessed for three millions so that there is ample opportunity to get money to reduce the tax. The Tubular Rivet Co., is assessed 75 percent of its valuation and the Fore River Corp. 20 percent. Is that right?

Mr. Bates than took up the matter of the chart prepared by the City Auditor showing where money raised by taxation went and he enlarged upon the fact of the growing amounts that was paid for debt and interest. In closing he guaranteed and $18 tax rate. He spoke briefly of the schools and how they had been going behind for lack of proper money being given them, also of the condition of our streets.

CANDIDATE JOHNSON.

Said he had no tale of woe to tell. He had been a resident of Quincy 38 years and had been actively engaged in business for the greater part of that time. We need a business man for Mayor. He was in the real estate business which needed a man with a knowledge of values to make it a success, he had a large experience in values, and had been frequently employed by the Commonwealth and the Federal government as an expert. They would not have employed him if he had not been competent and had experience.

He had held public office in Quincy and had served on the Board of Assessors under three Mayors. We were exceedingly fortunate in having a man of such ability and experience to step in and take up the reins of government when our Mayor passed away. The present Assessors have showed by their work they did not consider values. Great hardship had resulted from their jump in valuations.

He had always been active in everything for the welfare of the city. He asked the support of his hearers and said he would appoint men as Assessors who would re-adjust valuations Some even now should be increased, but many could be reduced. This is the problem in which you are all interested. There was no widespread discussion during the years he was on the Board of Assessors.

CANDIDATE WALL.

Said we are looking for relief not from a Republican or Democrat, but from an honest administration, and an honest man to administer the affairs of the city. That was his platform. He would give a good business administration. He would give its affairs the same care that he had his own business for 35 years. He had never failed in business. Only five percent of the business men never fail, and he was one of that five percent. He was waited upon by sixteen men to be the taxpayers candidate. That committee now numbered 1617. He did what he could for good government last year.

The speaker made reference to the administration of the late Mayor but as he is now gone and not able to defend himself his remarks are omitted.

He then spoke of how valuation had been increased all over the city. Some more than they should be and some not enough. He agreed with one of the other speakers in regard to the corporations getting by with a low valuation. He believed the valuation should be readjusted. There was a great opportunity for industrial development of Quincy, and he should work to that end. We should make all effort to get new industries to come here. He then told what organization had done at Houghs Neck and in closing told how his personal friend the late Mayor O'Brien of Boston had reduced Boston's tax rate, and he believed it could be done in Quincy.

CANDIDATE FEGAN.

Without question the best orator of all the candidates is Mr. Fegan. He said that there comes a time in the life of every corporation when stock must be taken. Quincy is a large corporation and the time has come here to stop and take stock. We are forced to the conclusion that there is something fundamentally wrong in Quincy. The government is getting too far away from the people. Some people are over burdened with valuation while some corporations are not paying there share. All agree that the taxes is the burning issue of this campaign. The first step toward righting things is a re-valuation of the property in Quincy.

There is something fundamentally wrong when we have three assessors under the charter appointed for one, two and three years, who can be turned out and three new men put in to assess values. It is time the City of Quincy took steps to remedy this The remedy he believed was in having the assessors elected by the people Elect a man from each ward who knows the values of that ward and then have one at large as a chairman

We have a lower tax rate this year but if you take your tax bills and figure it out on last year's valuation you will find that you are paying from $22 to $25 more. He believed some places were undervalued and he cited some of these places.

MAYOR WHITON.

In introducing the Mayor the chairman said Quincy was fortunate in having a man of his ability and experience to grasp and carry on the affairs of the city.

Mayor Whiton in opening said he was pleased to be present in the interest of good government, and listen to the candidates telling about things that would happen when they were Mayor, which he declared would never happen. Some of the statements made are ridiculous. He then told of how he had found things when he took office. Taxes were not coming in and there was $170,000 in temporary notes coming due. He went at it, and he was pleased to say that over $350,000 had been paid into the treasury in two weeks. It was an unpleasant duty which he had to perform in regard to taxes and water bills, but he had done his duty without fear or favor.

In regard to shutting off water it had been done in every case, excepting in the case of a poor family. One corporation had tried to get by on a $900 water bill but he had given the three hours to pay up of have their water shut off and they paid.

He then spoke interestingly of some of the things at City Hall, especially about assessing. He believed with Mr. Fegan that the assessors should be elected by the people. The assessors can not abate a tax unless application is made in writing. A Mayor can not ask the Assessors to abate a tax. If he does so he is liable to go to jail.

You know whom I favor for Mayor and I tell you it is no soft bed for any man. We do need a man who has had some experience at City Hall and a man who is fearless and will stand up and do what he thinks is right.

It was not right and no man who had a regular business could afford to give up his business for the sake of being Mayor one year at a salary of $2,500. It will take a man's whole time to the duties of the office.

The real issue is the City Council. No Mayor can expend a dollar until the Council has appropriated it. Until 16 members of the council have said yes.

He then paid a compliment to the present City Council, saying that they would go out of office with a debt reduced of $95,000 based on the 1913 taxes.

Do not be fooled by promises of this thing or that thing, put a man in City Hall who has some experience in city affairs and will give the city all of his time.

BOWLING IN ELKS LEAGUE

The Elks bowling league matches at the Wardwell alleys on Thursday evening developed into an exhibition between Dr. J. P. Murphy and David Hanson. Both tied for high single at 135 and jointly smashed all the city records to date for high single in league competition. Hanson however did better in his total by 10 pins, finishing with 325 against 315 for Murphy.

A large gallery was on hand to witness the small ball fest. Murphy who got the high single last week closed his first with 83. He gained 14 in his next and then opened up his assault on the fourth lane, with the result the team of Dr. Maloney totaled 1317. The team also took four points with Fitzgerald and his 115 helping considerable.

KILLS WIFE'S PARENTS

Confessed Slayer Blamed Them For His Domestic Troubles

Andover, Vt., Nov. 6.—George F. Warner was arrested here, charged with the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Wiggins, whose bodies were found in their home.

According to the authorities, Warner admitted that he had shot the couple and expressed satisfaction. He was taken to the jail at Chester.

Warner, whose wife is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wiggins, is said to have blamed Mrs. Warner's parents for differences which had resulted in her suing for divorce. He was found in a pasture near his mother's home, suffering from cold and hunger. Although he had a rifle and a shotgun he surrendered without resistance to the party which had been searching for him.

Petition to Oust Mayor of Salem Has Defective Signatures

Salem, Mass., Nov. 6.—Again the attempt to oust Mayor Hurley by means of a recall has encountered a snag, for it looks as if the registrars of voters had found defective more than 300 of the 2000 names on the petition and that there will not be the necessary 1793 names to carry out the recall provision of the charter and secure a new election.

The petition was filed by the Better Government associataion. Should it be found short on names the organization will have ten days in which to get additional ones. The trouble is that some men signed only their initials and did not give their addresses.

TOOTH POWDER EXPLODES

Man and His Wife and Daughter Are Seriously Injured

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—Anton Yucker, wife and daughter are in a hospital, seriously burned and otherwise injured as the result of one dose of toothache powder.

Viola, the daughter, complained of an aching molar and her mother found a powder remedy which had been purchased in Austria ten years ago.

As the powder was being heated, some fell on the stove, causing an explosion which wrecked the room. Physicians at the hospital said the remedy contained nitro-glycerine.

A SHORT-LIVED REBELLION

Beyers and Maritz Reported to Have Been Completely Crushed

London, Nov. 6.—A Cape Town dispatch declares that the rebellion of General Beyers in the western Transvaal and the mutiny of Lieutenant Colonel Maritz in northwest Cape Town now appears to be completely crushed.

Unofficial reports indicate that something resembling an armistice is being observed. The rebels are still collected at certain points in the northern Free State, but all these points are marked by adequate loyal commandoes.

Framingham, Mass., Nov. 6.—Miss Margaret Brock, who was shot three times by her jilted sweetheart, Stanley Krystopavis, died at the Union Avenue hospital. A bullet through her lungs proved fatal.

The Footlights' Glare

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

Manager Harry Von Tilzer will offer "To-Day" the startling drama of contemporary life in New York, by George Broadhurst and Abraham Schomer at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, for the fifth and last week on Monday. "To-Day," which enjoys the enviable distinction of being the drama longest on the boards in New York during the theatrical year 1913-14, is described as one of the most profound and striking of human dramas in that it discusses one of the prevalent problems of married life. Edmund Breese, a sterling actor, who is always sure of a warm welcome all through New England, heads the very strong cast.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"Ready Money," James Montgomery's story of New York life as it is lived by those who want to get rich quickly, has been the bill at Castle Square all last week, and has drawn big houses to the popular South Boston playhouse. Next week will see Henry Bernstein's powerful drama, "The Thief," new to stock, but which has been acted by actresses of the calibre of Sarah Bernhardt, Jane Hading, Madame Simone and our own Margaret Illington. The part of the young wife who steals from her best friend to buy the pretty dresses which her husband admires, is one of those in which there is room for considerable variety of interpretation, and it will be interesting to see how Miss Mary Young, whose advance in emotional work has been so marked of late years, deals with the tremendous scene in which the wife is forced to confess her guilt.

SHUBERT THEATRE.

"The Passing Show of 1914" will begin its third week at the Shubert Theatre, Boston, Monday evening. A more bewildering array of drolleries, comicalities, farcicalities and whimsicalities have rarely or ever been seen on the stage. The object of "The Passing Show" is to amuse, and this purpose has been amply fulfilled. The scenic contrivances are so multifarious that it "puts all wonders under" how the producer was able to arrange it all so that the thirteen scenes were made to melt one into the other without confusion or long and tiresome waits. In this new "Passing Show," there is such a wild whirl of song and dance, travesty and extravaganza, that one cannot withold the thought that there must have been an immense amount of labor, combined with cleverness, in its construction. Chief among the funmakers are these two delightfully whimsical comedians, George W. Monroe and Harry Fisher. The auditor not only holds both his sides, but laughs to dislocation.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

Julian Eltinge, artist extraordinary to the American theatregoing Public is coming to town once more, this time in an entirely new piece, "The Crinoline Girl," in which he achieved much success last spring during his prolonged run at the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York. He will be seen at the Colonial Theatre next Monday, November 9.

"The Crinoline Girl" affords Mr. Eltinge the opportunity of appearing in his famous dual characterization of a pleasant young man and of a superlatively charming young women. It is a play with music, a "farcial melodramatic comedy with songs" to use the exact billing provided by the author Otto Hauerbach, who wrote "The Fascinating Widow," the musical comedy which served Mr. Eltinge for three seasons.

The thrilling situations and the laughable complications, we are given to understand, are furnished by the adventures of a wealthy young American (impersonated by Mr. Eltinge) who became an amateur detective to win a reward of $20,000 offered for the capture of a gang of jewel thieves and thus prove to his fiancee's father that he is something more than a society butterfly. The action takes place at Lausanne, Switzerland, and needless to remark the aforesaid wealthy youn American finds himself called upon to don feminine apparel in the course of his criminal investigations.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

Lydia Lopokova and "The Young Idea" have completely captivated Boston! Not in years has the Hollis Street Theatre sent forth such delighted and enthusiastic audiences and seldom indeed have "the gentlemen of the press" so warmly commended a playhouse offering.

The youth and grace, beauty and charm, magnetism and personality, dramatic ability and fascinating skill as a dancer, of the new star have won a triumph all the more gratifying and unusual because of the fact that the stage has not known Lydia Lopokova heretofore other than as the premiere of the Russian dancers. That she has flashed in a bound into the great white light of public favor as a star, no one can gainsay, and unlike many new stars, her tenure promises to be long and profitable to her, and of infinite delight to all who love youth, artistry and charm on the stage. As the proof of the pudding is in the eating, the following bit of logic and enthusiasm on the part of the playhouse reviewers of Boston may be quoted:

"In and out of the warp of the play and the woof of the acting ran, like a fine bright thread, the charm and skill of Miss Lopokova. As a comedienne no less than as a dancer—and she was both last evening—she is a figure of youth, unspoiled and almost untouched as yet, by the theatre. The young charm that is the gift of the gods, flows from her. The audience was in constant smile and rustle of pleasure." —H. T. Parker in the Transcript.

BOSTON OPERA HOSE.

The trend of the times is indicated by the elevation of the cinematograph to the realms of art. The moving picture, once considered a low, uninspired form of amusement, with its faulty workmanship, weak insipid, unsubstantial dramatic effects, inartistic settings and generally low appeal, has run the course of public condemnation toleration and final recognition, until now it has reached a point where it is looked on as a great power for the advancement of the good and the beautiful in the artistic and educational world.

In Boston the past year expensive productions of film dramas have been shown in the finest theatres and before the most exacting audiences. However, the latest and greatest honor accorded this new enterprise is a place on the program at the Boston Opera House, the handsomest and most spiendidly equipped theatre in America. Under its new policy this magnificent playhouse is fast becoming one of the most popular theatres in Boston.

AT SYMPHONY HALL.

The series of Sunday afternoon concerts in Symphony hall, Boston, began with much success last Sunday with the annual appearance of the Philharmonic Orchestra of New York. Next Sunday afternoon at 2.30 will come the first of the artists' concerts with two singers of highest rank, Madame Olive Fremstad, dramatic soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York and Pasquale Amato, distinguished Italian baritone of the same institution. Both of these singers have gained the highest prizes possible in their chosen profession and they have made a programme of songs, arias and duets which will be more than usually attractive. The programme is as follows:—

Aria from "The Masked Ball" Verdi
Mr. Amato
Geh', Geliebter Hugo Wolf
Die Geister am Mummelsee Hugo Wolf
Madame Fremstad
Chanson de la Foret Sombre
A. Borodine
Fleurs d'Amour A. Borodine

Democrats Think Election Results Favor Administration

REPUBLICANS ALSO PLEASED

Prepared to Welcome Uncle Joe Cannon and Other Erstwhile "Lame Ducks"—House Committees Will Have to Be Reorganized—Table of Gains and Losses In the House

Washington, Nov. 6.—Democratic administration leaders claim a "substantial majority" in the house and continued control of the senate as a result of the elections for next congress. They assert that their majority in the senate has been increased from ten to fifteen. In the house the returns indicate that the present overwhelming Democratic majority of 140 has dwindled to twenty-three.

With this the Democratic leaders profess themselves satisfied, declaring that it is the greatest majority "ever returned by any party in an off-year following a tariff revision." The Democrats also assert that the returns show that the Progressive party has practically disappeared, and that therefore the Democratic victory is a triumph over a reunited Republican party.

Republicans, however, are jubilant over the result. They assert that the Progressives are returning to the fold, and that by 1916 the way will be cleared for a sweeping Republican victory. They are prepared to welcome back "Uncle Joe" Cannon and many of his erstwhile followers who have fought their way back to seats in the house, after their defeat in 1912.

Three breaks in the "solid south," which Democracy has held for so many years, are pointed to as indications of Democratic weakness. Republicans elected from Maryland and North Carolina, and a Progressive seated in the Third Louisiana district give aid and comfort to the apponents of the administration.

The next congress will see a general reorganization of the house. Speaker Clark, who was returned by a goodly majority from his district, will undoubtedly be the Democratic choice for speaker. But the election of Representative Underwood to the senate from Alabama will precipitate a contest for the Democratic leadership in which Representative Kitchin of North Carolina, ranking member of the ways and means committee, will take the leading part.

The reduced majority of the Democrats will also necessitate many changes in the organization of the powerful house committees. In the senate, even a slight increase in the present narrow Democratic majority will strengthen the administration, which during the present congress has at times been somewhat embarrassed by the slender margin of control.

The standing, with gains and losses in the house, are as follows:

Rockefeller Pleads Not Guilty

New York, Nov. 6.—William Rockefeller appeared in the criminal branch of the United States district court and entered a plea of not guilty to the indictment charging him with conspiracy in connection with alleged acts as a former director of the New Haven Railroad company. He was placed under $5000 bonds.

INFECTED CATTLE FOUND

Foot and Mouth Disease Has Reached Bay State Herds

Boston, Nov. 6.—The foot and mouth disease, which started in Michigan last August and spread rapidly among livestock in other middle eastern states, has reached Massachusetts.

Several infected cases have been discovered in the last two days, and the state authorities are establishing strict quarantines in the hope of preventing an epidemic.

In 1902 the port of Boston was closed against all shipments of animal products as the result of a similar infection, but it is believed the disease will be checked in time to avoid a repetition of this step.

Affairs of Copper Magnate's Estate Said to Be Complicated

Saratoga, N. Y., Nov. 6.—F. A. Heinze, the copper mine owner, left no will. This became known when Heinze's lawyers obtained an order appointing Mrs. Lida M. Fleitmann of New York, Heinze's sister, administratrix of his estate.

The papers filed with the court placed the nominal valuation of "more than $10,000" on his estate. The lawyers intimated that the estate's affairs are somewhat complicated and that public estimates which have been made heretofore are largely in excess of its actual value.

FIGHTING IN MEXICO

Real War Between Carranza and Villa Is In Progress

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 6.—An official report received by Villa officials in Juarez said that a battle was in progress between Villa and Carranza troops twenty miles south of Aguascalientes, where the convention of chiefs recently attempted to adjust their factional difficulties.

It is said Villa has sent a force of 10,000 men and more than 100 cannon to meet the advance of the Carranza troops, whose strength is not known.

SIX MEN KILLED IN FIRE

Seven Seriously Injured by Leaping From Hotel Windows

New York, Nov. 6.—Six men were killed and many badly hurt in a fire that destroyed the Waverly hotel, a lodging house.

Before the fire was discovered it had destroyed the stairways and cut off the escape of fifty men in the building. The majority of these were rescued by firemen, but a number leaped from the second story. Seven were hurt seriously.

Fatal Riot at Havana

Havana, Nov. 6.—A riot occurred between the police and soldiers because of an attempt of the former to arrest soldiers. One policeman was killed and a number of soldiers and civilians injured.

School Principal Drops Dead

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 6.—Benjamin Cook, principal of the George B. Stone school and one of the oldest schoolmasters in this section of the state, dropped dead from heart failure in school.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

John Callahan, 6, was run over and almost instantly killed at Cambridge, Mass., by a wagon driven by Herbert R. W. Hyde, who was arrested.

The cornerstone of Phillips Exeter academy's new administration building, which is to replace the burned structure, was laid at Exeter, N. H.

The District of Columbia court of appeals reversed a ruling of a lower court and held that Sunday baseball in the national capital is illegal.

Michael Brennen, 45, was fatally injured in an elevator in a wholesale grocery at Boston.

Following the resignation of Aurelio Souza, president of the Peruvian cabinet, all the other members of the cabinet resigned.

DEATH OF W. O. HOWLAND

The announcement of the death of William Otis Howland at the Cambridge hospital on Teusday will be received with surprise and genuine regret by his many friends and acquaintances in Quincy. Although a resident of Cambridge, he has been a familiar figure in Quincy for many years, through his connection with the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance company.

Mr. Howland's death is due primarily to an accident a few weeks ago when he was knocked down by an automobile in Cambridge and suffered a fracture of the hip. He was taken to the Cambridge hospital and was apparently doing nicely when heart trouble set in from which he died.

Mr. Howland was 76 years of age, and for upwards of thirty years has been connected with the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co., making his home in Cambridge but coming to Quincy every day.

Years ago he went to China where he was located for some time. Previous to this however he had been connected with the local insurance company and on his return he again became connected with the company.

He was very fond of a game of billiards, and that he might better enjoy his favorite pastime he became a member of the Granite City club of this city where he could be found many noons and in the late afternoon enjoying a quiet game of billiards.

He was a member of Rural lodge of Masons having joined the order about 46 years ago.

He is survived by a widow and three sons, Shepard, Allan and Gerald. His son Allan has won considerable fame as an artist and samples of his work adorn the walls in the office of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co.

The funeral will be private with burial at Ashland.

EXPERIENCES IN WAR ZONE

The annual pop concert of the Quincy Catholic Club, the proceeds of which will be devoted to charity, will be given in Music hall on the evening of Nov. 17. The final arrangements were made at the regular meeting of the organization in the rooms of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, on Thursday evening. The affair will be given under the direction of a large committee with Past President Miss Mary Lyons as chairman and Mrs. R. E. Foy as secretary-treasurer.

The concert last season was the most brilliant event ever held in Quincy and the members promise that the event this winter will eclipse all previous successes.

A social hour followed the business meeting. The main feature was the talk of Miss Corrine LaBrecque of Adams shore who was on the way to Europe when war was declared and whose whereabouts remained a mystery for several weeks. Miss LaBrecque talked in an interesting manner of her experiences in the war zone and was loudly applauded.

During the evening vocal solos were rendered by Miss Catherine Brown, accompanied by Miss Eva Rice, after which there was a short sketch, "The Silent System," presented by Miss Mary Lyons and Miss Margaret Heaney. The act was given an enthusiastic welcome.

Refreshments were served at the close of the program by the hospitality committee including Mrs. R. E. Foy, chairman, Mrs. William Donovan, Miss Catherine Walsh.

QUINCY SQUARE

The George L. Gill Associates held a well attended whist party in Odd Fellows' hall on Thursday afternoon. The winners were Mrs. A. T. Morrison, Mrs. G. W. Sargent, Mrs. C. L. Bean, Mrs. W. L Thomas and Mrs. G. Blaisdell.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wood are today informally observing the eighth anniversary of their marriage at their home on Whitwell street. Both are popular in this city.

The president of the Ministers Association warns the public against a book agent who is using the names of Quincy clergymen without authority.

The annual fall bazaar of the Swedish Methodist church on Fort street opened in the church vestry on Thursday evening. The affair is being held under the direction of Rev. Axel E. Hillman, pastor of the church. He is assisted by the members. Short programs will be rendered each evening and refreshments served. A special program is arranged for the close on Saturday evening.

SAYINGS OF SAGES.

Men seldom, or, rather, never for a length of time and deliberately, rebel against anything that does not deserve rebelling against.—Carlyle.

Recompense injury with justice, and recompense kindness with kindness.—Confucius.

If those who are the enemies of innocent amusements had the direction of the world they would take away the spring and youth, the former from the year, the latter from the human life. —Balzac.

The contemplation of celestial things will make a man both speak and think more sublimely and magnificently when he descends to human affairs.—Cicero.

QUINCY WEST

The gospel team of Boston University is to conduct special services at the Hall Place M. E. church Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday all day. A cordial welcome will be extended to all.

JOHNSON RALLY

sentative Walter E. Piper, who paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Johnson as a friend, a citizen and co-worker in many organizations.

Mr. Johnson at once launched into a speech that stirred the audience that packed the hall. After a lengthy discussion of the much-vexed question of taxation in all its phases, Mr. Johnson declared with much feeling, Men of Ward Three, I am a part and parcel of the good old City of Quincy. Never at any time of my life apart by myself, but always with the people; giving freely of my time and strength to forward the interests of my fellow citizens, and keep alive and protect the fair name of our city.

I have been an active member of a large number of civic and fraternal organizations. In view of this, my fellow citizens, I ask you to place in my hands as a trust, the affairs of the city, and I pledge you I will obtain results.

There has been considerable discussion, gentlemen, about the public schools, by two of my opponents. One of them says he believes in Quincy girls for future vacancies, and another of my opponents calls attention nightly to the fact that the Mayor has nothing to do with hiring teachers, which is true, and between them they are confusing the minds of the voters.

I shall dispose of this question by saying that I owe much to the schools. I received my own education in them, and it is in the Quincy schools that my three boys have been educated, and fitted to go out into the world to hold their own in the battle of life. Naturally I am friendly with the schools, and if elected Mayor I shall do whatever I can to assist them discharge their important functions. That is all I have to say about the schools. It is enough. I refuse to help drag the public schools into the campaign at all.

I invite the attention of my friend Campbell away from the schools, which are not an issue in any way, and not under the control of the Mayor, to the real issues of the campaign, such as Public Works, Fire department, Police department, water rates, Assessment of property, collection of taxes. These are real live issues, especially the last two.

What do my opponents know about the assessment of property? What will be their policy on above questions? I have already explained to you the tax question. The other important matters will receive my early attention, and I will, with the assistance of the City Council, use every endeavor to improve each and every one.

All through the campaign I have hardly heard the name of the City Council even mentioned. I would remind the candidates that there is a legislative body in connection with our city government, and that they have certain rights and powers under our City Charter.

Men of Ward Three, here in this ward, the home for so many years of the lamented John L. Miller, who was elected as a Tax Payers' candidate, I now announce my title to the people "The average man's candidate," my platform:—Justice to all, and favor to none; re-adjustment of values; efficient and economical administration.

The citizens of Quincy are entitled to the Mayor's full time in the city service. Give me your support and thereby benefit yourself as a taxpayer by my fourteen years experience in city affairs.

Other speakers were: Ex-Councilman John R. Richards, Ex-Councilman Otto Gelotte, Councilman Chas. A. Ross, J. Q. A. Field, Alfred J. Pinel, T. L. Williams, A. L. Whitman and Isadore Abrams.

A. L. STINSON REGISTERED

The Registrars of voters met at City hall on Thursday and added 35 names to the voting lists for the City primaries. One of the 35 to become registered Thursday night was A. L. Stinson, one of the campaign spellbinders who has been somewhat critised for his statements about City hall being affected with sleeping sickness.

This evening Candidate Johnson will speak at the Scandinavian Republican club, and also at Poland hall.

QUINCY POINT

Several of the mayoralty candidates met at Quincy Point on Thursday evening and addressed about 200 at the Waseca Club. Joseph Pinel of the club presided. The speakers were Thomas McGrath, Gustave B. Bates, James E. Wall, Charles H. Johnson, Edward P. Powers, Edward J. Fegan and Councilman Thomas Griffin.

MANY NEW REBEKAHS

Sixteen Unite With George L. Gill Lodge

One of the largest class initiations ever held in connection with Odd Fellowship in Quincy took place at the meeting of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge in Odd Fellows' hall on Thursday evening, when 16 became members of the lodge. Additional applications were received and acted upon.

The work was under the direction of Mrs. May Gaynor of Dorchester, degree mistress. She was assisted by the degree team of the ladge, the ritualistic work of which was under the direction of Noble Grand Mrs. Sadie M. Wood.

The special guests of the evening were District Deputy Grand Master Mrs. Estelle C. Adams of Dorchester, who was accompanied by her suite of officers. Speeches were made by the visitors.

The work of the degree team and Mrs. Gaynor was executed with rare skill and brought forth much applause from the 200 who were present from East Weymouth, Somerville, Charlestown, Boston, Dorchester, South Braintree and East Boston. A light collation was served at the close of the exercises.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Quincy Man Injured at Portsmouth Navy Yard

Thomas M. Cunniff of this city was probably fatally injured in a fall at the Portsmouth navy yard this morning.

Cunniff is the son of Mrs. Helen M. Cunniff, formerly of Quarry street extension, and fell considerable distance from the mold loft. He sustained serious injuries.

He was treated at the shipyard and taken from there to then Naval hospital. An effort is being made to locate his mother in this cit, her present adress being unknwn.

SULLIVAN WANTS RECOUNT

Michael T. Sullivan who was defeated by Councilman Charles A. Ericson by 16 votes for Representative from the fifth district has petitioned the Registrars of Voters for a recount. The recount wil be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

The decision of the board of trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library to open the library Sunday afternoons for those desiring to enjoy a few hours reading, is to be commended. Several towns and cities have tried this Sunday opening and found it worked out very successfully It gives those employed through the week an opportunity of using the library which otherwise is of no benefit to them. A few hours reading in the quiet literary atmosphere of the library reading room, is a Sunday recreation to be commended and encouraged.

Friends of Col. Kincaide are now expressing regret that he didn't go after the Republican nomination a few months back, as they believe he could have easily secured it and with it won the Congressional election. Both propositions are probably true, but had he turned his back on the Progressive party this year, after it had honored him with its nomination last year, he would be doing something of which he isn't capable,—an unsportsmanlike act.

If Mr. Kincaide had to go all over it again, he would no doubt prefer defeat with honor to election as a result of doing an ungrateful act. The thing to regret is that he joined the progressive movement; but, having joined it, it was his duty to run on its ticket or not at all. He chose the honorable course and deserves all credit for it. Two years hence the Progressive party may be absolutely dead and in that event the live wire from Quincy would be the strongest man for the Republicans to nominate.

The returning Progressives deserve to be welcomed back warmly by the Republican party,—not as returning prodigals but as members of a firm who went out and stayed out until the firm had abandoned principles which were ruining it and estranging it from the good-will of the people. Now that the G. O. P. seems to be getting restored in the confidence of the American people, it behooves it to avoid the blunders which cost it loss of favor with the people during the last two years.

FIRE PREVENTION DAY.

Gov. Walsh has named next Monday, the anniversary of the great Boston fire, as Fire Prevention day. Ev-Everybody understands that a greater part of the fires are the result of carelessness and the lack of proper precaution in regard to preventing fires.

There are many contributing causes of fire, among which might be mentioned, the glass lamp, the cigarette, brush fires, defective flues, etc. The so-called safety matches are another contributing cause of fires. The heads of these matches fly off when struck and before one is aware a fire has been started.

Too much care cannot be exercised by everyone to prevent fires and on Monday, the anniversary of the great Boston fire, it behoves all to have in mind that conflagration, to look about their homes, to see that there is no accumulation of waste paper, rubbish or inflammable material which a spark, no matter how slight, might cause to burst into flame, and thus start a fire which would destroy thousands of dollars of property.

Another thing which should be borne in mind is to familiarize yourself with the location of the fire alarm box nearest your home, and to remember that in case of a small fire that fire headquarters may be readily reached by telephone at all hours of the day or night.

Have your shoes attended to before the wet weather is upon us.

EASTERN STAR PRESENT DRAMA

An All Star Cast in the "Valley Farm"

Quincy Chapter 88, Order of Eastern Star, held its annual entertainment for members and friends in Music hall on Friday evening and the attendance was very large. A four act drama, "Valley Farm," was given by a cast of members, after which there was dancing until one o'clock.

The drama unfolded the life of a country girl who married a chap and went to the home of his parents to live. Life there became unbearable, and she left. Meeting and elderly friend she took his advice and returne dto the farm of her girlhood, where after delays and difficulties she is reunited with her husband.

The cast follows:

Harold Rutledge, a young New Yorker, Lawrence B. Ford.
Perry Deane, a son of the soil William H. Walker
David Hildreth, a New York Lawyer, Albert E. Sargent.
Silas Holcomb, owner of Valley Farm, Charles E. Bishop
Azariah Keep, a clock tinker William J. Charles
Jennings, servant at Rutledge mansion, George J. Schools
Hetty Holcomb, a country flower transplanted to city soil, Annie E. Rose
Isabel Carney, niece to David Hildreth Mildred L. Crowley
Mrs. Rutledge, Harold's mother, E. Gertrude Nash
Alvira Holcomb, sister of Silas Elizabeth E. Russell
Lizzy Ann Tucker, who borrows but "never gossips" A. Maude Briggs
Verbena, hired girl at the farm, Annie Louise Laing

Miss Annie Rose and Miss Mildred Crowley were presented with handsome bouquets at the end of the first act, and all the young ladies of the cast later received bouquets. The drama was exceptionally well given, the plot being unfolded in an natural, sincere way without any amateur touches. In fact it was an all star cast.

Among the guests of the evening was past grand matron Mrs. Lucy Colby of Newburyport, who was accompanied by her husband.

The committee of arrangements included Mrs. Margaret E. Gammon and Miss Annie E. Rose. They were assisted by Miss Mildred L. Crowley, Mrs. Elizabeth E. Russell, Mrs. Katherine T. MacDonald, Mrs. L. Charlotte Spargo, Mrs. Alice Peterson. Mrs. Mary Gordon, Miss Margaret Milne, Miss Elizabeth Laing, Mrs. Bessie Patterson, Miss Margaret Michael, Miss Ruth Kemp. Thomas E. Cassey was floor director.

FRANKLIN ASSOCIATES DANCE

The second grand dance of the Franklin Associates was given in Alpha hall on Friday evening, with a large attendance from Quincy and surrounding towns. Delegations were present from the Nonpariel A. C. Seneca Social Club, Redmen A. C., Quincy Adams Social Club, Manet Social Club, Pastime Club, Neponset Wanderers, Oakland Social Club of East Weymouth, Thistle Club, Glenetha Girls, Quincy Y. W. H. A., and the Hello Girls.

The new dances prevailed until midnight, music being furnished by Hamilton's orchestra. Refreshments were served in Union hall.

Wallace S. Carson was floor director John J. Igo assistant, and William S Clements, chief of aids.

Edward Carson and Russell Farquharson were members of the committee in addition to the following aids; James Bisson, George Boutilier, Wallace Caddy, Fred Carson, John Curry, Andrew Costa, Enos Costa, Roy Cavicchi, Harry Farquharson, Harry Malnati, Robert Morrison, Walter Nicol and Harold Nightingale.

TILDEN AT QUINCY POINT

Whiton, MacQuarrie and Stone Also Speak

The Tilden campaigners were in Ward Two Friday evening holding a rally at the Town River yacht club There was a large attendance of voters and the meeting was very enthusiastic and was said by those present to have been the best rally held in that hall this campaign.

Fred Drake was the presiding officer, and in opening he paid a tribute to the worth of Candidate Tilden, saying that he was just the man the city needed at this time, and that no mistake would be made if he was nominated and elected, for he was the man of the hour.

Other speakers aside from the candidate were Mayor Whiton, Samuel T. MacQuarrie, and ex-Mayor Eugene R Stone, who was the first commodore of the Town River yacht club.

Candidate Tilden spoke along the same lines as at other rallies. He said he was born and had always resided in Quincy and that his life was an open book. Some of the other candidates had been trying to find something against his character but were unable to do so. He believed it would be a mistake to put any man in the office of Mayor, especially at this time, who had had no experience in municipal affairs. Some say that anybody can be Mayor, but no one realizes what the duties of the office are until he has had something to do with the internal management of city affairs.

His two years experience in the office of City Treasurer had given him an incite into the financial affairs of the city, which were most important and that if elected he would give his undivided time to the duties of the office. He would not promise to sit in the office all day, for he believed that it was highly necessary that the Mayor should go about the city in person and see for himself just what was going on. There were, he believed many leaks, simply because of lack of attention by the proper officials, and it would be his business to stop those leaks.

He could not and would not undertake to promise what the tax rate or valuations would be next year. It was impossible for any Mayor to foretell the tax rate, but in the matter of valuations there was no question but what a readjustment should be made. The law did not allow the Mayor to serve as an assessor and he had no desire to. If elected however it was his purpose to select the most competent men in the city, regardless of party affiliation for the several offices, their selection being on merit and on their fitness for that particular office to which they would be appointed.

There were no strings tied to him and he was not the candidate of City Hall or any other clique, but was the candidate of business men, whose only desire was that the business of the city should be conducted along the same lines as they would conduct their own business. This was the only way that Quincy could recover from the present conditions. As far as Quincy being bankrupt that was all folly. Our assets far exceed our liabilities.

Samuel T. MacQuarrie made his first appearance on the stump as a campaign speaker. He told of his part in getting Mr. Tilden to enter the contest He then spoke of an incident that happened at Wollaston two days ago, to show to what extent the feelings of some candidates had reached.

Candidate Tilden also spoke at the meeting of the Scandinavian club in Electa hall.

Tonight the Tilden spellbinders will hold a rally at Poland's hall, Norfolk Downs and Monday night at Brasee's hall, Wollaston. Previous to this rally, there will be an automobile parade through the several wards of the city, starting from City Square at 7 o'clock. The rally is to be held at 8 o'clock and good speakers will expound on the needs of a business man at City Hall

CHARITABLE SOCIETY

Annual Report of Secretary and Treasurer

The annual meeting of the Quincy Charitable Society was held Monday Nov. 2. The following reports will be of interest as showing the work of the society.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

This report for the year ending Nov. 2, 1914, is the 78th annual report of the society. The first meeting of the executive board was held Dec. 6, 1913, at the residence of Mrs. E. G. Pratt, and the first business presented for consideration was the vacancy, caused by the resignation of the director, Mrs. Robert McLennan, which resignation was received with deep regret. The names of several philanthropic and public spirited women were proposed but upon motion, it was voted that the secretary be instructed to confer with Mrs. Roberts and report at the next meeting.

At the January meeting Mrs. Roberts was unanimously elected, making the board of directors as follows: Mrs. E. L. Pratt, Ward One; Miss Amey Newcomb, Ward Two; Mrs. John G. Roberts, Ward Three; Mrs. Walter E. Piper, Ward Four; (known as Brewers Corner;) Mrs. Robert Teasdale, Ward Four, (known as the Railway;) Mrs. Thomas Fenno, Ward Five and Mrs. Harry W. Read, Ward Six.

The society has a membership of 9, 11 of whom comprise the executive board. We have lost by death two members, Mrs. Frank Curtis of Ward three, Mrs. Edmund S. Taylor of Ward Five.

The meetings of the executive board have been six held regularly, the first Thursday of each month, from December to May inclusive. As has been the custom the meetings are omitted during the sumer months, but the work nevertheless continues, the directors keeping in touch with each other as circumstances require.

At the March meeting it was voted that the treasurer be authorized to purchase index cards for the purpose of facilitating the work of the society, and that an index system of all cases be always kept to date. This has been done and all inquiries can now be answered with a minimum amount of delay. At this meeting it was further voted that the secretary be instructed to extend the heartfelt sympathy of the society to Rev. Mr. Hudson, vice president of the society in his recent affliction. It was also voted that the treasurer Mrs. Abele, be authorized to open the Safe Deposit Box in the Granite Trust Company when it may be necessary, and that the secretary notify the Granite Trust Company of this vote.

Communications have been received from Charles E. Thompson, M. D., State House, Boston, for the commission to investigate impediments to marriage; from Breck's Bureau, expressing their ability to fill various positions with men or women as occasion requires and from Charles F. Getchell. The latter was a special inquiry, relating to aged dependants.

During the year 27 families have been assisted at various times. In most cases there were a large number of children in these families and there the work of the society told in a far-reaching manner. Members can justly feel that much good has been accomplished in helping so many children and parents. Twice loans have been applied for to tide over critical periods but it was not deemed advisable to grant these requests.

At this time I desire to publicly acknowledge the useful and ever ready co-operation of Miss Jenny M. Purchase, secretary of the Associated Charities of Quincy, for her zeal and constant application to duty; her kindly and sympathetic response to the many calls upon her time and services. She deserves many thanks and this society wishes to extend to her, its full appreciation of her splendid work.

As Secretary, I wish to thank all those who by their efforts and assistance have done so much in furtherance of the lofty purposes of our society and who by their cooperation with the secretary have also done much to carry forward the business of the Quincy Charitable Society.

Mary E. Addison.

CHRISTMAS IN EUROPE.

"Long years ago in Bethlehem
The gentle Mother mild,
Held close against her happy breast
The little Christmas Child.
Angels leaning from heaven sang—
"Good will and peace on earth,"
While King and Shepherd side by side
Hailed the dear Christ Child's birth."

The anniversary of this birthday is drawing near, it will be a sad lonely Christmas morning in thousands of homes in England, France, Russia, Belgium, Servia, Germany and Austria. Vacant chairs will tell of the father, husband, son or brother who has given his life for the country he loved. Can we not do something to brighten the day for the little children, shadowed by this awful war?

In the glow of the approach of this greatest of anniversaries let us throw aside all prejudice remembering that all seven nations are our brothers, in the brotherhood of common humanity, and let us do what we can to make the children happy. What can we do?

How many of us know of the Santa Claus ship that is to sail from New York? Surely Quincy children will feel an added happiness on Christmas day if they know they have helped to send a bit of Christmas to some less fortunate children, and we "grown ups"—will we not fill a stocking for some little one over the sea, in memory of happy Christmases we have had or perhaps in memory of a child who is dear to us?

All stockings, with the mate fastened to it and labelled whether for girl or boy, may be sent directly to Mrs. Eva MacDonald Valesh, 37 West 39th Street, New York City, or any stockings sent to Miss A. M. Wainwright, 63 Adams street before Nov. 20 will be very gladly forwarded by her.

Who will send a stocking filled with some of the things children love?

In SOCIETY

The Lyndon Hardwicks have returned from a three weeks' visit to her people in Philadelphia and are now at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick of Chestnut street for the winter.

Miss Bertha Fuller of Atlantic spent the week end with relatives in Providence.

Mrs. H. Gerrish Smith of Presidents hill entertained a few friends at a buffet luncheon Tuesday in honor of Mrs. Joseph W. Powell of Presidents hill, wife of the new president of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation. Some twenty ladies enjoyed Mrs. Smith's hospitality and the occasion was a most delightful one.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice L. Burt of 40 Billings street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter born Tuesday, November third. She has been named Doris.

The John H. Leightons who have prolonged their stay at Bayside, North Weymouth on account of the fine weather hope to be settled the coming week in their home at 41 Spear street.

Kathryn Crane Memorial Club is arranging an afternoon dance for young people, to be held at Alpha hall early in the Christmas holidays. The proceeds are to be devoted to the Visiting Nurse Fund, so the young people will have an opportunity, not only to have a good time, but to help along a good cause.

Clara Fuller of Plympton is the guest of her brother, J. C. Fuller of Botolph street.

Representative elect Charles A. Ericson was given quite an ovation at his home on Euclid avenue, in the wee sma' hours following the election returns Tuesday night. Mr. Ericson has the good wishes not only of his Swedish countrymen but of those among whom he has elected to make his home, and for whose interest he has worked faithfully and consistently. He is deserving of his new honors and will serve his city well at the State House.

Dr. and Mrs. George Bracket Rice, who for several years have resided at 247 Kent street, Brookline, are to make their home at 308 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, where they have taken a spacious apartment. They remained at their summer place at Crow Point, Hingham, until last week, after having been there since early in the season.. The Brookline home of Dr. and Mrs. Rice has been the scene of much hospitality, and Mrs. Rice's receptions on Feb. 12, in recurring years, to observe the birthday anniversary of Abraham Lincoln, have been notable events.

The regular meeting of the Billiken Club was held at the home of Miss Cora Harding, Botolph street, Tuesday evening, and the members were pleasantly entertained by the hostess. The names of Misses Lydia Randall, Marion Reinhardt and Helen Hunt were suggested as new members and unanimously voted upon. Plans were made for a Hallowe'en barn party at Miss May Buckley's.

Miss Etta M. Prescott of Presidents hill is at West Newton for the week end, the guest of Miss Grace M. Isaac.

On the eve of the departure of Everett A. Barber on his bi-annual five months trip, a dinner party was held in his honor at the home of Mrs. M. J. Stephens, Prospect street. The table was prettily decorated with yellow, and a five course dinner was served. Those present to enjoy the evening were:—Mrs. Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. William Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Emery, Mr. Robert Newall, Dr. Maria E. Drew, Miss Lydia Randall, Miss Helen Hunt, Miss Marion Barber. Toasts were given to those Reinhardt, Miss Julia Barber and Mr. present, and after the dinner the guests adjourned to the parlor where music was enjoyed until a late hour.

The Herbert Drakes are hoping to return to Quincy soon, as work remodeling their estate on Goffe street is being pushed ready for their occupancy. The weather has been unusually pleasant for their prolonged stay at Cohasset, but most of the summer residences there have been closed for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. William Nelson and daughter Elizabeth of Standish avenue are leaving next week for Virginia. They have many friends in Wollaston who regret their going and best wishes follow them to their new home in Newport News where Mr. Nelson has accepted a position with the shipbuilding company.

A jolly Hallowe'en festival was given at the home of Mrs. M. J. Stephens, Prospect street., Saturday evening, where Misses Lydia Randall and Marion Reinhardt entertained a number of their friends. The guests were greeted by two ghosts who demanded silence and led them through many appropriate stunts. Games were played and a very pretty luncheon was served, the table being adorned with Hallowe'en decorations. Later in the evening the guests were startled by the appearance of a ghost who entertained in a most unique fashion. Those present were:—the Misses Bertha Estes, Leah Hepnigar, Margaret Knight, Ruth Ferguson, Alice Igo, Elizabeth Powers, Dorothy Flahive, Helen Hunt, Julia Barber, Marjory Miller and Alice Goodspeed.

Tuesday evening, Mrs. Edward Sweeney of the Metropolitan Parkway Atlantic, is to open her home for a charity whist in aid of the Daly Industrial School of Dorchester. A musical programme has been arranged for those not caring to play whist. The matrons Mrs. Edward Sweeney and Mrs Joseph McClure will be assisted by Misses Nellie Reecy Anna Manion, Clara McClure, Nellie Gerry, Mary White, Nellie Pickering, Margaret Cavanaugh, Mary Duggan, Mary R. Sullivan and Messrs. Edward Sweeney, Richard Cole, Philip Guinon, Joseph McClure, Dr. Sweeney, John McClure, Edward Welsh, Lewis Twitchell, William Troy and John Cusick.

Miss Ruth Jones of Elmwood avenue, has gone to New York to enter the American Academy of Dramatic Art. Miss Jones has a host of friends who wish her success in her chosen work and before leaving she was the guest of honor at several luncheons and teas.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl French Doble and baby son John who have been spending the summer at Wildacres, the Marshfield Hills home of Mrs. Doble's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace F. Spear have moved to East Braintree where they have purchased a place.

ONLY TWO REPUBLICANS

So Says Mayor Whiton of Mayoralty Candidates

The Scandinavian Republican club had as guests last evening the four candidates for the Republican Mayoralty nomination,—Messrs, Campbell, Johnson, Bates, and Tilden; and also the following candidates for the City Council,—Frank F. Prescott, Robert B. Craig and A. N. LaBrecque at large; Joseph L. Whiton and James H. Slade in Ward One, all of whom were introduced to the members and spoke on the issues of the campaign.

Representative E. J. Sandberg, who has been honored with a re-election, presided, and G. R. Blomquist was secretary. Other speakers were Representative elect Charles A. Ericson Councilman, Otto Gelotte, William Gelotte, W. L. Thomas, John D. Mackay, Oscar Frisk, Assessor Eric C. Bergfors and Rev. Leander Hokenson of the Swedish Lutheran church.

Mr. Campbell spoke first, and left to attend other rallies. He urged the voters to decide whether they wanted to continue the present condition of affairs or adopt a business administration.

Mr. Johnson presented his qualification, and waxed warm on the taxation question. He complimented the late Julius Johnson who served with him as an Assessor. He also defended past Mayors of Quincy,—Hall, Bryant and Thompson; Shea, Stone and Miller.

Mr. Bates first hung up his chart showing how the tax dollar is expended, and then commended on each sub-division. He queried why should we pay so much for gas, electricity, car fares, etc., and charged that Mayors had been tools of the corporation.

Mayor Whiton as a candidate for the Council followed and sailed into the arguments of Mr. Bates. He said the greatest curse of Quincy was its knockers. The Mayor had absolutely nothing to do with the price of gas, electricity or car fares. Quincy streets compared very favorably with those of surrounding towns, not excepting Milton. As Mayor during the balance of the year he proposed to collect the taxes, water rates and assessments without fear or favor. The law forbids the Mayor to coerce the Assessors. It was not a fact that poor people were losing their homes because of taxes. He complimented the present City Council and said they would reduce the city debt about $85,000 this year.

His statement that there were only two Republican candidates for Mayor brought Mr. Bates to his feet, and a stenographic report of the debate which followed would make interesting reading.

Mr. Whiton claimed men who were seeking other nominations than Republicans were not good Republicans. Mr. Bates said he was as good a Republican as the Mayor.

Mr Tilden said everyone present must have the interest of Quincy at heart, as it is now after 11 o'clock. Voters should select the one best qualified. I think I have the ability, and I will work for the people at large. We should reduce the debt before we ask for more improvements.

No one in Quincy ever received a more flattering compliment than that given Frank F. Prescott by John D. Mackay, who spoke at length relative to Candidate Prescott, saying that as editor of the Daily Ledger he had done more for Quincy in the last 20 years than any man in Quincy.

FATAL FALL.

Thomas R. Cunniff, 23 years, of the crew of mine practice ship San Francisco, died Friday at the Portsmouth Naval Hospital after falling from the main topmast of the vessel to the deck 124 feet below.

Cunniff was engaged in painting at the very top and is said to have attempted to reach around the other side of the mast, and in so doing got partly out of the boatswains chair. In trying to get back he lost his hold and plunged head foremost.

In the plunge to death Cunniff barely escaped striking C. R. Johnson, the chief machinist, who had just left the engine room. Nearly every bone in Cunniff's body was broken.

Cunniff was the son of Mrs. Helen M. Cunniff of this city, who formerly lived on Quarry street extension. He held the rating of ordinary seaman.

WELL KNOWN ARTISTS

To Assist at Vesper Service at Squantum

A vesper service of unusual interest is to be held Sunday afternoon at the Squantum church. Through the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Adams, some exceptionally fine talent has been secured for the musical part of the service. These include 'cello solos by Ralph Smalley of the Boston Symphony orchestra, violin solos by Vincent Walkden and vocal solos by Ethel Frank Brigham, late of the Boston Opera Co.

Mr. Smalley is a well known 'cellist of exceptional talent. Mr. Walkden is a pupil of Charles M. Loeffelo of Boston, Philip Mittell of New York and Prof. Arthur Atterall of the Halla orchestra of Manchester, England, and is a graduate of the London School of Music, being a member of a class of 300 pupils and received the degree A. L. C. M.

In addition to the above talent Miss Frances Bean of Medford will give a cornet solo and Miss Morrison of the Edison School of Oratory will give readings.

NEW TEMPLE AT WOLLASTON

Masons to Break Ground for $40,000 Building

It is expected that ground will be broken at Wollaston next week for the foundation for the Masonic Temple to be erected by Wollaston Masonic lodge. The site of the Temple is near the corner of Beale and Hancock streets. The lodge has long been hampered for room, its membership now having reached a point where it was absolutely necessary to have more room.

The matter of erecting a Temple has long been considered. Some time ago plans were prepared and work undertaken to sell stock among the members. A certain sum was needed before actual work could be begun.

At the regular communication last Tuesday evening it was announced that a few hundred dollars more was needed. A recess was taken and in a few minutes the required amount was subscribed and the lodge is now ready to go ahead with the building of the Temple. The estimated cost of the Temple is in the neighborhood of $35,000 or $40,000.

HEANY HAS RESIGNED

Quincy's First Assistant Commissioner of Public Works

Martin P. Heaney, first assistant to the Commissioner of Public Works, has tendered his resignation to Mayor Whiton, to take effect Saturday, Nov. 21. The resignation has been accepted. Mr. Heaney was appointed to the position some six months ago by the late Mayor Miller, being one of the three to successfully pass the civil service examination. Nothing has been done about appointing a successor, and as work for this year on streets is practically over it is doubtful if an assistant is appointed. Perhaps the next Mayor will not see the necessity of an assistant commissioner.

JOHNSON RALLIES.

Charles H. Johnson announces his program of rallies for tonight and Monday. This evening there will be a rally at his headquarters in the Johnson building on Maple street. Sunday will be a day of rest and no gatherings or meetings will be held. Monday evening he will speak in all of the wards with a grand rally at 8 o'clock in the basement of the Finnish church on Buckley street.

Elma Olsson of Webster street is still in the Children's Hospital where she is waiting to have a slight operation on the knee.

McPHAIL—CRUIKSHANK.

Malcolm B. McPhail of 737 Washington street, a chipper and caulker at the shipyard, and one of the most popular young Scotsmen of the city, and Miss Florence M. Cruikshank of Boston, were married in this city on Friday.

The ceremony was performed at the manse of the First Presbyterian church by Rev. J. A. Matheson, pastor, and was witnessed only by the immediate relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. James Hardie of Braintree were the attendants.

A reception followed at 737 Washington street, where the young man has made his home since coming to Quincy. Many attended and participated in the program. Mr. and Mrs. McPhail will live in Quincy.

You'll Admire the NEW FALL RALSTONS

Some men tell us—and it's what others feel but do not express—that the men who make Ralstons seem to have a peculiar knack of making and finishing shoes which makes them look "right."

Ralston styles always have originality, yet without a suggestion of freakishness. Moreover, they are correct, for Ralstons are everywhere accepted as "authority styles."

We are sure that the new Fall models just received will prove especially pleasing to you. Will you come in and see them? No trouble to show goods.

MILTON HIGH WINS.

The Milton High football team really showed that they could play football on Friday when they defeated Hyde Park High by the score of 26 to 0.

At the beginning of the game it looked as if Hyde Park was going to win, but in the second quarter when Sprague of Milton made a touch down, the visitor's fighting spirit seemed to vanish. Within a few minutes Sprague made a second touch down and White kicked the goal. The score was 13 to 0 in favor of the home team at the end of the half.

In the second half, White made the third touchdown and kicked the goal. When Hyde Park got the ball it looked as if they might make a touchdown, but Sprague intercepted a forward pass, and the visitors lost their only good chance to score in the game. Near the end of the game Reiser threw a forward to White and the latter ran 55 yards for the fourth and final touchdown.

He did not succeed in kicking the goal. Milton's backs were very strong and did considerable damage to Hyde Park's line. Sprague and White were the big stars of the game with their extraordinary spectacular plays.

NEW PARK AND DOWNS FORUM

Auspicious Start of New Men's Club

The Park and Downs Forum, the latest of the mens clubs among the churches of the city, met Friday evening in the vestry of the church, and like other clubs of a similar nature in the city started off with a dinner. The tables were laid in the form of a U and every seat was occupied. The menu was a particularly tempting one consisting of Oyster cocktail, cream salmon and peas, pickles, escalloped potatoes, raised biscuits, apple pie, sherbet, cake and coffee.

The officers of the new Forum are:
President, Thomas G. Breen.
Vice President, Charles Weeks.
Secretary, Walter E. Brown.
Treasurer, Artemus Dingwell, Jr.

Mr. Breen the president of the Forum is best known as the man with the tall hat. He is an Englishman by birth, but has been in this country something over two years. is an importer of teas from India and in connection with his business travels all over the coutnry. He is possessed of a great deal of enthusiesm, of the Teddy Roosevelt style, and although an Englishman has an understanding of the American temperament and how to reach the American people. He is a member of the Park and Downs church, and the Forum under his guidance should be a success.

During the dinner and evening there were a number of musical selections. Song books were passed about and A. M. Dingwell acted as accompanist and sang the solo parts, the club joining in the chorus.

The first speaker was ex-Councilman Albert N. Murray, who was followed by William J. Colby. The latter spoke of the objects of clubs. Communities were better for the reason of their clubs, which serve to bring together the best elements of the community. This was particularly true in regard to church organization for social and civic improvement.

Chester I. Campbell brought the greetings of the Wollaston Congregational club. The more the men of the neighborhood become interested in a forum like this the higher will be their ideals.

Frank F. Prescott, editor of the Daily Ledger, was elected an honorary member and briefly thanked the members and congratulated them.

Edward J. Fegan also spoke briefly

Charles L. Pratt spoke on the success of men's clubs in connection with churches.

The speaker of the evening however was Deputy sheriff Oliver J. Curtis whose subject was "Some aspects of prison life." His talk was intensely interesting as he brought out some of the human side of prison life.

The following ladies served on the supper committee: Mrs. Franklin Brown, Mrs. James Boone, Mrs. Amory Waite, Mrs. Artemus Dingwell, Miss Marion Brown, Mrs. William B. Ayres, Mrs. Charles Richardson and Mrs. L. H. Paine.

Among those present were:

Defeat Brockton to the Tune of 34--10

Quincy High school, playing the most spectacular game of its career, took Brockton High into camp at the Merrymount oval on Friday afternoon by a score of 34 to 10. The game was filled with thrills and the work of Captain Paul Larkin justified his selection as leader of the team. Recovered blocked kicks resulting in touchdowns, runs the length of the field, forwards, perfect offensive work, and a stone wall defense, all combined to create more enthusiasm among the half a thousand students present than the supporters of likely political candidates possess.

Along the side lines were officials of colleges and High school managers, and with the visitors was Roberts, the former Amherst star, now coach at Brockton; Arthur Staff, formerly coach at Quincy High and now baseball and basket ball coach at Brockton.

Headmaster Ernest L. Collins of High school acted as timer for the game, and Laughlin, formerly of Harvard, was umpire. Eddie O'Brien of the Boston Post was referee.

The game had been on but a few minutes when Brockton through a forward advanced the ball to Quincy's ten yard line and Bogian carried it over for the first score. Shortly after Kelly of the visitors added three more points by drop kicking from the 25 yard line.

Quincy then came into its own. Uncorking a burst of speed in which all the players partcipated, led by Larkin and Hamlin, the local aggregation bunched together and through spectacular work succeeded in routing the visiting rivals.

Hamlin, who starred in receiving forwards, took a long one from Bogan and squirmed through the visitors defence from the 25 yard line for a touchdown.

Larkin made a 40 yard run, exhibited excellent tackling and in the third period corkscrewed through the eleven Brocktonites with a run of 60 yards for a touchdown. A few minutes after he plugged the line for another score.

Bunch Arthur who contributed the second six points to the score did so when he recovered the ball after blocking a punt and ran 25 yards for a goal.

DiSenso did a similar stunt when he recovered a blocked kick in back of Brockton's goal.

The cheering section was full of live ones, directed by Reggie Gay, Shaunecn Shaughnessey and Willard Crocker. The summary:

CAMPBELL IN WARD THREE

Offers Gift of $100 to Charity As Challenge

Chester I. Campbell at the several rallies Friday evening declared that he would give $100 to any worthy charity in Quincy if any one of the accusations made against him by supporters of the other candidates were proven. He said that most of these false attacks upon his business record were being made by stealth and underground channels, and challenged the authors to come out in the open and prove their case, and he would gladly enrich any local charity.

All of the Campbell speakers voiced the statement, that mayoralty candidates who permitted any of their speakers to utter false statements, and fail to make good when chalpaign were fired last night but the wholesome, untruthful condition to exist in City Hall if they were elected.

The big Campbell meeting last evening was in Malnati hall, South Quincy, which was crowded to the doors. At Pandora hotel, Hough's Neck and at the Forum of the Park and Downs church, Mr. Campbell was greeted by enthusiastic crowds. He also talked to the members of the Scandinavian Republican club. The last big oratorical guns of the Campbell campaign were fired last night but the committee is planning a big demonstration for Monday evening. Mr. Campbell at the Malnati hall said in part:

There are just two issues involved in this contest for the mayoralty nomination; one is politics, and the other is business. If you want the conditions that have exisited in the operation of our city for a great many years, and which have brought the finances to such a critical stage, then vote for the candidate who represents the political interests.

If you believe that it is for the best interest of the city that there should be a business administration during 1915, then vote for the man you think is the most capable of bringing it about. There are several who are offering themselves as a business administration candidate, so you will have to inquire into their records in order to get at their qualifications.

It is not my intention to pay any attention to the pre-election accusations that are being hurled at my head, but I think every thinking voter should weigh these statements, the most of which are coming through underground channels. I do not care to take up in detail any of these falsehoods that have been circulated, but I will say that I will place $100 in reputable hands, the same to be given to some worthy charity if any of these men can make good.

The fact that I have made it a rule not to make any pre-election promises does not mean that I am not awake to the needs of the various sections of the city. No man, if he is a broad, experienced, business man, could keep his eyes and ears closed to the common knowledge of these conditions. Any observant citizens walking through the streets of this section could tell at a glance that your sidewalk and streets are in wretched condition.

All of this show an inefficient operation of the several departments. The money for these necessities has been appropriated, but through lack of efficient organization the work has not been properly executed. What you need to remedy these conditions is a business administration which will keep a careful account of every dollar expended, and see that its value has been received. In that way a great deal of money will be saved, the work will be done more satisfactorily, and of course, the wretched existing conditions will quickly vanish.

But before any improvements are made, the city must be operating on a business basis. Method must be installed, the leaks traced and stopped up. Once this is accomplished, our city will be in a fair way to redeem itself financially, and this will mean ultimately a reduction in taxes, as it will tend to increase the revenue and at the same time keep down the overhead cost of doing business.

Councilman Charles W. Bailey exposed some of the inner workings of politics and he furnished some surprises to the saber, practical minded workmen that crowded into the hall. He hold of a former Commissioner of Public Works, who stated to the City Council members a few years ago, that he believed that 75 per cent of the water brought into the city was wasted.

Why didn't the chief executive have this investigated and have this colosal waste definitely traced and stopped? I suppose that he lacked energy. It was simply too much work for him to start something. If a Commissioner of Public Works made such a report to Chester I. Campbell, when he is Mayor of this city, he would have someone in the Water department explain it, and if they failed he would get somebody more efficient who could discover what the trouble was and stop it.

Alexander Cowe said that it was time for the voters to do some thinking for themselves. In the past, he said, the citizens of Ward three have put too much confidence in the politicans, who have come to them prior to election and promised a variety of improvements for the district, and as usual predicted a lower tax rate. We know now that all this talk about taxes is bunkum, for not long ago we awoke one morning to suddenly discover that property we believed to be worth only $1000 has increased in value several hundred dollars overnight—at least on the books of the city Assessors.

We have taken all these pre-election promises in good faith and none of them were kept. Mr. Campbell is rather an unusual candidate, for he will plainly tell you that he hasn't a promise to make. That sounds real and reasonable in view of our past experience.

He does, however, promise us that he will conduct the affairs of the city on strict business lines, and work out the salvation of the city's difficulties on rational business basis. He has demonstrated that he is a very capable business expert with extraordinary capacity as an organizer and executive and to me, at least, he is the one candidate that I believe can give Quincy a business administration.

POVERTY PARTY AND PRIZES

At November Social of Young Women's Club

A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by the Quincy Young Women's Club at their November social meeting. After a short business session Miss Blanche Hayden in charge of the entertainment for November introduced Miss Lillian Read a reader who gave two extremely pleasing selections "Daisy's Music Practice Hour" and "The Bridge Tender's Story."

An interesting twenty-minute sketch was given entitled "The Same Man," with Miss Blanch Hayden as Gladys engaged to Harold and Miss Bertha Polk as Ethel engaged to Harry. This was followed by two piano and violin selections by Miss Anna Burns, violinist and Miss Hester Hawkins, pianist.

The entertainment closed with a drill by the Quosett Campfire Girls the following taking part—Miss Ebba Holtein, Miss Mildred Dyack, Miss Hester Hawkins, Miss Eva Dyack, and Miss Violet Smith, pianist. The entertainment was very pleasing and Miss Hayden deserves credit for her efforts.

As the social was in the nature of a poverty party a grand march was next in order and Miss Clara Goodwin was awarded a prize for the best costume. Several games and dancing closed the evening.

BILLIKEN CLUB INTIATION.

Thursday evening, Oct. 29, members of the Billiken Club gathered at the home of Miss May Buckley, and dressed as ghosts assembled in the barn, which was trimmed with autumn leaves and decorations suggestive of Hallowe'en. Into the dimly lighted barn and amid the weird sounds two of the new members, Miss Lydia Randall and Marion Reinhardt were escorted and put through initiative stunts, much to the merriment of May Buckley, Julia Barber, Cora Harding, Ethel Robinson, Mary Farrell, and Edna Robinson. After the two young ladies were pronounced members of the club, electric lights were turned on and the remainder of the evening was enjoyed by all in playing games, and dancing to the strains of a victrola. Seasonable refreshments were served by the hostess.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic, all Teething Troubles and Diarrhœa. It regulates the Stomach and Bowels, assimilates the Food, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

TO THE PEOPLE OF QUINCY

NEWS AGENTS AND NEWS BOYS

The publishers of the Daily Ledger hereby give notice that, because of a contract with the King's Daughters, the price of the Daily Ledger (18 pages) on Wednesday, Nov. 11, will be five cents per copy.

To all regular subscribers, who pay by the year there will be no advance in price, but all News Agents and News Boys are expected to collect FIVE CENTS for Ledgers sold on Nov. 11.

The King's Daughters' Ledger will be filled with special original articles, all signed by the authors, and many of them will be illustrated. This issue should sell for 10 or 20 cents, but the price fixed is 5 cents. All the proceeds go to charity, and will help to relieve distress in Quincy this winter.

SWIMMING CLUB.

The Wollaston Swimming Club had its first swim of the season Wednesday, at the Ocean Pier Baths, Beachmont. At that time it was decided that future meets throughout the winter would be held Tuesday evenings. This is one of the best organizations of its kind and its members have been more faithful than those in any other swimming club in these parts. The organization is headed by Fred Tobbenboske of Wollaston as president, from whom application blanks may be obtained by those enthusiastic over the sport.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

QUINCY SQUARE

The next entertainment in the Y. P. R. U. series is to be a dance, to be held next Friday evening at Alpha hall.

The Universalist Sunday school is to hold a hunting party in the vestry of the church, Thursday evening at 7.30. Everybody welcome.

An entertainment and social was given in the vestry of the Universalist church, Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Dorcas society. A clever farce was presented by friends of the society after which all took part in a peanut hunt, games and music. Hot chocolate and fancy cakes were served by Mrs. George F. Spooner and her assistants.

Reapers Circle of Christ church meets next Friday evening at quarter of eight with Miss Madeline Pollock of Bigelow street.

Thursday afternoon the Women's Guild of Christ Church meets in the parish rooms at two o'clock for work. The annual fair will be held Nov. 18 and 19.

The lecture topic for the pleasant Sunday evening at Bethany, "A bad beginning," will be of great and vital interest to all lovers of young people and to all parents. The singing, which all can enjoy, is led by a large vested chorus. The church will be open at 7.00 P. M. The organ recital commences at 7.15.

KINCAIDE SPENT $1,698.75

Col. Henry L. Kincaide of this city, considered the most successful independent campaigner in Massachusetts, although he did happen to finish in third place in the Congressional race, reports that the cost of his campaign was $1,698.75. W. A. Sloat received $1,004 for newspaper advertising and other expenses, and contributed the remainder to various Progressive party committees of the district.

QUINCY WOLLASTON

The Wollaston Unitarian Club of which Dr. Charles E. Monroe is president this year, has been most fortunate in securing Charles H. Levermore of the World Peace Foundation as the speaker at its November meeting, Tuesday, Nov. 10, at 6.30 o'clock. Mr. Levermore will speak on "The War and Afterwards."

At the Wollaston Unitarian church the Rev. Arthur W. Littlefield of Needham is to preach Sunday in exchange with the minister. The public is cordially invited.

The Walther Mens class meets Sunday at 12.15 in the Wollaston Baptist church, Rev. Joseph Walther in charge, subject, "The Social Phase of the Saloon." Great chorus of men—earnest discussions and a hearty greeting. All men invited.

The Baptist, Congregational, Methodist and Unitarian churches of Wollaston join this year as usual in a union Thanksgiving service to be held in the Unitarian church, Thanksgiving day, at 5 P. M.. The Rev. Samuel R. Maxwell, the new minister of the Second Church of Boston, has been secured as preacher for that occasion.

The Men's class of the Wollaston Methodist church are to hold an unusual and interesting session Sunday at twelve o'clock. A leading citizen of Wollaston will defend "Pony Licence in Quincy," another will defend "Local Option," while a third will speak on Prohibition in Maine, a Success or a Failure." A discussion will follow. Every man not otherwise engaged is invited to be present and defend his views on these subjects. The class is to have a room to itself hereafter.

Thomas Turner lead the prayer meeting at the Wollaston M. E. church Thursday evening in the absence of the pastor who preached at the Hall Place M. E. church.

The Rev. F. W. Wilson of Upper India is to preach at the Wollaston Methodist church Sunday morning.

Rev. William B. Ayers is to give the eighth in his series of lectures at the Park and Downs Congregational church, Sunday evening at seven o'clock, on the great lessons of the war with, "Is the World coming to an end?" as the special subject. These lectures are drawing full houses.

David L. Jewell of Grand View avenue has received numerous messages of sympathy on the death of his brother Oscar E. Trusdell who died at his home in Newton after a week's illness caused by a shock.

The fortnightly all day sewing meeting of St. Chrysostoms Guild will be held Wednesday beginning at ten o'clock at the home of Mrs. G. A. Vibert, 20 Phillips street. Luncheon will be served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Fox and Mrs. Parlee and at half past two the regular monthly business meeting will be held.

ELKS BANQUET.

The first of a series of entertainments to be given the coming winter months for the members of Quincy lodge of Elks, under the auspices of the new entertainment committee, is scheduled for next Tuesday evening. There will be a short session of the lodge after which an adjournment will be made to the clubhouse on Foster street where a banquet will be served after which some well known vaudeville talent will give an entertainment. It promises to be an enjoyable evening.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

QUINCY ATLANTIC

Several new members were added to the Epworth league of the Atlantic M. E. church as the result of the recent revival meetings.

Rev. E. C. Pollard, pastor of the Atlantic M. E. church is raising $400 besides the church budget to cover the cost of a fire proof roof on the church and other expenses. Over half the required amount has already been subscribed.

The ladies of the Atlantic Methodist church are preparing to hold their annual fair Nov. 17 and 18. Besides the sale there is to be an entertainment.

Arrangements have been made for an entertainment to be given in the Atlantic Memorial church Monday evening, Nov. 16. John Thomas, one of the best known humorists of Boston and several other well known artists are to take part. The affair will be in charge of the Ladies Benevolent Society.

The Cabinet meeting of the East Norfolk Christian Endeavor Union is to be held in Memorial church Monday evening.

William Geekie who was one of the charter members in the Boys Brigade in Memorial church fifteen years ago has taken charge of the drill department of the Minute Boys organized last July.

Mrs. Millard F. Baker has improved so much after her operation of three weeks ago that she is able to get about the house and assist in the housekeeping.

Several active citizens of Ward 6 interested in the city government have asked Councilman Carlson to take out special papers and run as an independent candidate for the city council this year. They believe his record in the council this year has been creditable and that he has worked for the good of the ward.

The girls Club formed by the classes taught by Miss Ruth Ferguson and Miss Alice Waterhouse in Memorial church met Monday evening with Mrs. W. F. Cummings and report an enjoyable evening.

FIRE STATION CHANGES.

One of the most sweeping changes ever made in fire department circles took place this morning when the motor apparatus was assigned to the westerly side of the house, and in the future will leave by the westerly side of the door. To bring about the change, it was necessary to tear out the stalls for the horses of the combination which was done by the men at the station under the direction of the city carpenter. The horses were transferred to where the steamer horses were housed.

When the tractor engine came back from Providence where it had been equipped the places of the engine and combination were reversed, and this morning it was run back into the new quarters, the auto chemical brought from the rear quarters and placed in front of it and the car of Chief Bilings faced about so that all three will now leave by the westerly door and give the horse apparatus free play.

The reading room of the Thomas Crane Public Library is to open Sunday afternoon, Nov. 15, from 2 until 6 o'clock. This arrangement will continue each Sunday through the winter until May 1, if the accommodation is appreciated, as is hoped. The reading room is well supplied with magazines and reference books, besides many interestings new books of nonfiction and other books on various special subjects.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Bids were opened by Commissioner Brown this morning for building the stone and concrete bridge on Winthrop street, Houghs Neck, and for building Ocean street, Atlantic. The bids were as follows, all being taken under advisement.

At the meeting at the Wollaston Yacht club Thursday evening, Edward P. Powers one of the candidates for Mayor, charged that deplorable conditions prevailed at the Quincy Home. One of his statements being that a poor cripple had no bed to sleep upon, but was obliged to sleep on the hard boards.

It was a broad statement to make, and Mayor Whiton who heard of the statement, with his usual promptness, lost no time in making a full personal investigation. As a result of his investigation he brands the statement as absolutely false, without an iota of truth in it.

Mayor Whiton said this morning he had found that all of the unfortunates had good comfortable beds to sleep upon and that they were given three meals each day.

The Mayor did just right in making a prompt investigation of charges, evidently made to create political capital. It seems too bad that any candidate seeking the votes of the citizens should make statements of such a nature.

The mourning which has been on City Hall for the past thirty days out of respect to the memory of Mayor John L. Miller was removed today.

Street watering carts have been sprinkling the streets about City Square. The streets are so dry however that the water runs off about as fast as it is put on. However the cart is going over them twice so that the dust is being laid.

THE KILLING OF PHEASANTS

The secret is out at last. There are pheasants in Quincy, and since the beginning of the open season 15 have been killed in this city. Two have met death at the hands of the hunstman in Braintree.

These figures, official from the Massachusetts Fish and Game Commission, present facts to the general public of this city not generally known.

The commission reports that only 7585 pheasants have been slaughtered up to Friday and that there is no fear of the extermination of the bird. The list of the entire county is 558.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

An adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held this evening. The meeting is held largely in order that the City Council may canvas the returns of the recent State election, and declare the election. Although everybody in Quincy probably knows what the result was here, it does not legally become the result until declared by the City Council. The only other business of importance is a public hearing on the taking a small corner of land on Rogers street to make a good job on the street. As it is the night before the city primaries, and several rallies are scheduled, the members of the Council will probably be anxious to get away early.

ORDERED TO CLOSE GARAGE

Karl Burglund according to information furnished by fire department circles, has received notification from the fire hazard commission to close up the garage conducted at 1613 Hancock street, because the building does not comply with the new laws. Burglund some months ago leased the barn in the rear of the Plumer block and has done a flourishing garage business. It is understood that he has neglected to make the changes recommended by the Commission. The barn, located in the rear of business establishments, is considered hazardous.

CONTESTS AT CITY PRIMARIES

Republicans Have Four in Field for the Mayoralty Nomination

Eight Candidates For Five Councilmen at Large

The hottest municipal campaign in the history of the city for nominations will close tomorrow. There have been other years when there have been contests for the Mayoralty nomination, but never a year in which there were so many candidates, or a year in which there had been so many rallies previous to the primaries. As a whole the campaign has been free from mud throwing, a condition that has characterized some of the campaigns of the past.

Some years there has been but little interest in the primaries for lack of contests. That is not the condition this year, however, for there have been candidates in plenty for the voters to make their selection from.

The question voters are asking themselves today is are the citizens alive to the situation and will they give the few minutes necessary to attend the primaries on Tuesday. Complaints for the past month have been heard on every side, and if the voters do not attend the caucuses, and register their vote, then they will have no slams if conditions are not improved next year.

It will be of general interest to the voters to be told something about the primaries of last year.

Although there were 6647 registered voters at the primaries there were but 2,032 voted. Of this number 1207 voted the Republican ticket, 791 the Democratic and 34 the Progressive.

Charles H. Johnson was the only Republican candidate seeking the nomination for Mayor, and he received 964 out of the total of 1207. The lack of interest is perhaps best shown, when it is stated that in Ward Five, the Republican stronghold of the city, that the total Republican vote was but 103.

Among the Democrats there was a contest with the result that it was the largest Democratic caucus held for several years. The candidates were Dr. John H. Ash, and Edward J. Fegan. Of the total, Dr. Ash received 452 and Mr. Fegan 277.

The Progressives had a candidate in William G. Shaw and his total vote was 34.

The vote by parties:

	Rep.	Dem.	Pro.
Ward One	338	72	12
Ward Two	102	123	3
Ward Three	203	84	1
Ward Four	74	408	0
Ward Five	103	15	13
	1207	791	34

Although the amendment submitted to the voters at the state election a week ago eliminating party enrollment at primaries was undoubtedly accepted the act does not become a law until officially declared by the Governors Council. For this reason voters in Quincy tomorrow will use the party enrollment. If already enrolled they will be handed the ballot of their party as they enter the polling places, but if not enrolled they will be asked to declare themselves.

According to the records of the Registrars of Voters the number of voters enrolled in the three parties is as follows: Republicans, 3422; Democrats, 1096; Progressives, 108.

It will be readily understood therefore that but a very small part of the registered vote of the city are enrolled. Many in other years have refrained from attending primaries for the reason that they did not care to enroll themselves.

The voter having passed the first election officer and obtaining his ballot proceeds to one of the booths to do his marking. If he is a Republican he will find four candidates from which to make his selection for Mayor, G. B. Bates, Chester I. Campbell, Charles H. Johnson and Henry F. Tilden.

For councilmen at large he will find a list of eight from which to make his selection of five. Herbert G. Beeman, Frank F. Prescott, Charles L. Gilliatt George A. Bolster, Robert B. Craig, Thomas J. McGrath, Charles W. Towne, Alfred N. LaBrecque.

For School Committee at large it is between Herbert S. Barker and Arthur W. Newcomb.

In Ward One he will find six names from which to select the three ward councilmen to be nominated.

In Ward Two there is but one candidate.

Ward Three has only two, and Ward Four none.

In Ward Five there are four seeking the nomination, and in Ward Six five.

The Republicans have no candidate as member of the School Committee from Ward Four, but from Ward Six there are three candidates seeking the one position.

On the Democratic ticket the voters will find two candidates for Mayor G. B. Bates and Edward . Fegan.

No candidates are seeking the nomination for Councilmen at large on this ticket. In Ward One there are two candidates for the three positions as councilmen from the ward. In Ward Two, there are four candidates, Ward Three, 3; Ward Four, 5 none in Ward Five and three in Ward Six.

No names appear on the ballot for School Committee at large, and in Ward Four but one name for the nomination as School Committee from the ward. In Ward Six there is also but one candidate for the school committee from that ward.

The Progressives will find but very few names on that ballot. For Mayor G. B. Bates is opposing Chester I. Campbell.

There are two candidates for Councilmen at large. For Councilman from the Ward, there is one in Ward One, none in Wards Two, Three or Four, four in Ward Five and three in Ward Six.

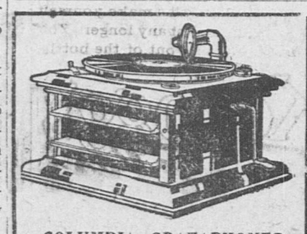

INCENDIARY FIRE.

A bold and unsuccessful attempt was made to burn the hay wagon and store house of J. E. Sheppard & Sons at East Braintree, Sunday afternoon, shortly after 5 o'clock. Mr. Sheppard had visited the storehouse a few minutes before the fire was discovered. Charles Torrey discovered the fire and shouted for help, and his son ran to the fire alarm box and sounded the alarm.

Charles Daly an employee of the firm ran into the building and discovered a bale of hay blazing and succeeded in extinguishing the fire before the department arrived. An investigation by Chief Whitmarsh showed that a quantity of kerosene had been sprinkled over the hay. This is the third fire in East Braintree within a short time which is believed to have been the work of an incendiary.

JOHNSON RALLIES.

Candidate Charles H. Johnson is to make a whirlwind tour of the city tonight speaking in every ward. His first address will be at Houghs Neck, at the end of Sea street, near the Yacht club house where he will arrive at 6.30. The time and place for the other wards is as follows: City Square 7.15; corner Washington and Union streets, 7.45; Doble's corner, 8; Brewer's corner, 8.20; Finnish hall, 8.30; Poland's hall, Norfolk Downs, 8.50; corner Beale street and Newport avenue, 9.15; corner Copeland and Cross streets, 10; City Square 10.30.

WOMEN'S PAPER WEDNESDAY

King's Daughters Have An Interesting Number

The women of Quincy are looking forward to Wednesday upon which day the Kings Daughters, issue a Womans Edition of the Daily Ledger. For several weeks past the corps of lady editors, newsgathers and "ad" solicitors have been hard at work, they have learned from experience some of the things which the newspaper man runs up against every day of his life. It is an experience that will be of vast benefit to them, for it has taught them what the life of a newspaper man is, and will help them to overlook some of the errors that will creep into the most carefully edited newspaper.

Without question this special edition, of eighteen pages, in three sections, will be the most up to date Women's Edition ever issued. A vast amount of matter, of particular interest to women, has been accumulated, and in addition to this there are many special articles, well worthy of reading. For instance it might be mentioned that:

Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard has written an article on the "Attractions of California," with many illustrations.

Elizabeth Glendower Evans writes on Equal Suffrage and the World's Peace.

M. S. Kingman, who is 91 years of age, writes interestingly on Daughters of the King.

Miss Ruth Bass on a woman's view of sports.

Mrs. Irene Chipman Tirrell contributes a poem, a Rock-a-Bye song, another entitled "Little cousins," and also writes of a day at Pond Home.

Teresa A. Crowley tells about the movement for equal suffrage.

For my lady, Margaret Jane Chambers writes a Fashion's Song; Blue Jeanne on Fashions of 1914-1915, and millinery notes by Mme. Sari.

Mrs. William H. Doble writes on Old Cape Cod of Massachusetts.

Much has been heard this fall about the Assessors and Mrs. Geoffrey Chaucer's "An ancient ballad of the Assessors" will cause smiles to appear.

City Hall notes by the woman reporter should furnish good reading, as the woman reporter is expected to be on deck at the City Clerks office the night before, receiving and tabulating returns from the city primaries, and partake of mince pie after all are in.

In additions to these, there are special articles about the Young Womens club, the Day Nursery, Hospital Aid association, Kathryn Crane Memorial club, Charitable Ten, Charitable Society, Riverside club, Needle work guild, Kings Daughters of Weymouth, Camp Fire Girls, Y. M. C. A. Auxiliary, District Nurse, New England Womens club, and many similar articles too numerous to mention.

It will be a paper will worth preserving, and will in a measure show if women are equal to men in the editing and publishing of a newspaper.

Says British Annexation of Egypt Can Only Be Temporary

The Frankfurter Zeitung publishes a dispatch from its Constantinople correspondent, who transmits an interview with the Khedive of Egypt, in which the latter expresses himself undisturbed by the reported British annexation of Egypt.

The people of Egypt soon will recognize, the khedive declared, that the situation created by the British cannot continue, and the Britons soon will see that the annexation of the historic and holy territory of Egypt can be only of a temporary character.

Girls and women will sell the Ledger on Wednesday, and they will be at all the railroad stations in Quincy and Braintree, and also about City Square, and some will make a house to house canvass. Have you placed an advance order? Nearly 10,000 Ledgers will be printed that day.

MIX-UP ON RALLY.

Some of the candidates for the Mayoralty nomination who had accepted invitations to address a meeting of the Hebrew association at the Synagogue on School street, Sunday reported at the hall at 3.30, the time set for the meeting, but found the Synagogue locked and not a person about. After waiting a few minutes and no one showing up, they left later it is understood that Mr. Bates and Mr. Wall apeared on the scene and addressed those who gathered later in the evening.

DISTRICT COURT.

Alfred McGlone was fined $10 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Percy Baldwin was fined $10 for assault at Braintree and ordered to make restitution in the sum of $5.

Edward Hannon was sent to the State farm for drunkenness at Quincy, and Jeremiah Desmond was fined $3 cost for the same offense.

Samuel Goldberg was fined $10 for collecting junk without a license at Quincy.

LITTLE MEN IN BIG JOBS.
One of the great criticisms of the American Government is that political offices are too frequently filled by inferior men, whose character and capacity do not properly fit them for the business of passing just and wise laws. These men creep into Congress and the State Legislatures by "playing to the gallery" for votes and popularity, and instead of helping to pass good laws for the greatest good of the greatest number of people, seek merely to advance their personal power and prestige by advocating laws that ignore fundamental principles of business and are economically unsound and destructive in their effect on everybody. Class legislation is given in return for political debts, and special laws are urged favoring political henchmen or "pork barrel" contractors at home. Such men may gain some temporary advantage but are always discovered and eventually retired. Those who have made long, honorable records in public life were above this type.
Economic conditions adjust themselves under most any kind of laws, and in the long run, the order of things is bound to equalize in some form of a square deal. Class legislation always reacts on the people who are supposed to benefit by it.
What we need in our legislative halls is a class of men who do not seek to advance special interests or who do not seek too much personal prestige, men who are level-headed, honest and unprejudiced on any social, political or economic question, familiar with the fundamental principles of business and industry and are willing to work for favors toward none and a square deal for all.

Among Our Churches

FIRST PARISH.

Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson preached upon "The Significance of the Cross," and especially emphasized the difference between the Feudal and the Christian idea of sacrifice. The Feudal idea has its value. It stimulates a spirit of loyalty and service on the part of the citizen without which no nation and no form of civilization can long endure.

It is that spirit of loyalty and service, even to the extent of giving one's life if need be for the fatherland, which gives to Germany its tremendous military power.

But the right direction of this power requires that the highest Christian ideal of sacrifice and service shall dominate the lower. Otherwise selfish interests and ambitions will use this accumulated power as a destructive force to over-throw the greatest gains of civilization in the interest of "World-Power."

The Christian ideal of sacrifice and service involves a voluntary self-surrender to the will of God. It is based upon a living faith in the incarnation of the spirit of God in the soul of man; and its supreme symbol is the Cross of Calvary. Mr. Hudson made a strong appeal to liberal churches and liberal Christians to exemplify in every way their willingness to serve humanity through their loyalty to this living faith.

At the meeting of the Young Peoples Religious Union in the afternoon Mr. Emery L. Crane gave a most entertaining and instructive talk upon the ancient records of the First Parish, reading some extracts from the old records which are now a part of the records of the city.

He said that a large portion of this record is becoming indistinct and almost illegible in places and recommended that an effort be made soon to have them published and thus preserved in permanent form. After the meeting this recommendation was discussed among the members, and the general opinion was expressed that this would be an excellent work for the young people to undertake.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

At the opening session in the Senior department of the Bible School on Sunday the following facts were noted in connection with the temperance lesson of the day. That four States had just voted for state wide prohibition, making fourteen states in all that have voted out the saloon. The attendance of the school was very good, considering the weather, many classes having every one present. The total attendance being 433. There was a meeting of the Christmas committee at the close of school.

There was an installation of officers at the Christian Endeavor meeting at 6 o'clock in Bethany chapel. It was conducted by thepastor, Mr. Willmott. He impressed upon the newly elected officers the fact that Christian Endeavor is essentially a Christian organization, and not primarily a social one. The following are officers for the coming year:

President—Chester Sabean.
Vice-president— Wesley Williams.
Secretary—Alice Parker.
Treasurer—Howard Cantley.
Corresponding Secretary— Helen Damon.
Union lookout committee—Thomas Sandison.
Music committee—Gladys Hunt.
Representative of C. E. World—Ida Thomas.
Efficiency chairman—Esther Beckford.
Prayer meeting committee—Wilhelmina Laing.
Junior committee—Grace Fisher.
Missionary committee—John Willmott.
Social committee— Agnes Fisher.
Lookout committee—Evelyn Stewart
Flower committee—Ethel Beal.
Finance committee—Wesley Beckford.
Good citizenship committee—Robert Pratt.
Good Literature—Ada Williams.

The installation was impressive. John McMillian was the leader of the meeting and the topic was "Getting out of ruts, and keeping out." C. Wesley Williams rendered a solo, "Still, still with thee." A large number took part in the meeting.

HALL PLACE M. E.

Sunday closed a most successful week of special services at the Hall Place M. E. church. Commencing Sunday, Nov. 1 the church observed "Win-My-Chum" week. The attendance throughout the week has been very good, and a deep interest has prevailed. The pastor, Rev. P. S. Neldon preached both morning and evening. Monday evening the pastor had charge of the services. Tuesday evening the Rev. Mr. Boro of New Hampshire preached. Wednesday evening, Rev. Mr. Sayre of Houghs Neck brought the message, and on Thursday evening Rev. G. M. Bailey of Wollaston preached. Friday evening the Gospel Team of Boston University School of Theology came out and took charge of the services. The following young men were present Friday evening, Mr. Carpenter, leader, Mr. Barnett, Mr. Stevick and Mr. Shattuck. The text of their message was taken from the three temptations of Jesus. Each man emphasized one of the temptations of Jesus, and the leader summed them up, and made the appeal.

On Saturday evening a change was made in the team and Mr. Phillips came in place of Mr. Barnett. The text was taken from two places, a question and an answer "What shall I do to be saved?" Acts 16-30. "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God." Micah 6-8. Each man developed his part of the text, and Mr. Carpenter again summed the sermon up and brought home the message.

Sunday morning the following men were present on the team, Henry Weldey, Leader, Mr. Phillips, Mr. Shattuck and Mr. Stevick. Mr. Weldey led the morning service. Mr. Philips preached a fine sermon on the text "For I know whom I have believed." 2 Tim. 1-12.

In the Sunday school the team also worked and each young man taught a class. At the close each man told of his conversion or what led him to Christ. The team also took charge of the Epworth League devotional service. Mr. Weldey led the singing and each man on the team spoke on some phase of the Christian, "What the Christian is," "What the Christian is not," "The great need of the Christian in the world." Mr. Phillips closed the service with a plea for the unsaved and the re-consecration of the Christians.

At the evening service the same order was carried out as in previous services. The text was taken from Joshua 24-15; "Choose you this day whom ye will serve." At the close of the sermon an altar service of prayer was held led by Mr. Weldey. This was followed by an appeal to the unsaved and then the re-consecration of the League members and those who had given their hearts to Christ, this service being led by Mr. Phillips, the prayer of consecration offered by the pastor Rev. P. S. Neldon.

A time of spiritual refreshing has been enjoyed throughout the week which will mean much to the church and people in the days to come and the services of all who have helped throughout the week are appreciated.

The "Queen Esther Circle" will hold its third regular meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Mary Williams, Ashland street. All members are to come prepared to sew.

Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.30.

Junior League Friday afternoon at 4 P. M.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

Although Sunday morning was a stormy one, there was a good number out to listen to a very strong and helpful sermon by the pastor, Rev. Joseph Walther, "The uniqueness of the Bible," being the subject. Taken from 1 Sam. 21:9 were these words "There is none like that.""

Sunday School followed the morning service a good number being present. Our superintendent, E. L. Durgin said we should make a larger use of the Bible in the Sunday School.

The Junior Endeavorers had a very interesting subject at their meeting, "How home missionaries work." Mrs. Joseph Walther had charge.

Y. P. S. C. E. was in charge of Selden H. Nickerson; subject "Getting out of ruts and keeping out".

The pastor took for the subject of the evening service at 7.00,"The arm of flesh an dthe arm of God." The chorus choir rendered music morning and evening.

Monday at 2.00 and 8.00 P. M. the Massachusetts Federation of churches will meet in Central Congregational church, corner Newbury and Berkeley streets, Boston.

Tuesday evening at 7.45 the Nearer and Farther Lights Society will meet with Mrs. Charles M. Kempton, 263 Farrington street.

Wednesday, beginning at 2.30 P. M. and continuing till and through Saturday afternoon the twenty-fifth annual state convention of the Massachusetts International Sunday school association will be held in Worcester. Wednesday evening at 7.45 the Albee Women's class will hold a social in the chapel, every member urged to be present.

Thursday, all day, donation day for the Baptist home, Cambridge. An invitation is extended to all to visit the home on that day. Take Cottage Farm bridge car at Park street subway, directly for the home.

Thursday evening at 7.45 the regular meeting for praise, prayer and testimony will be held in the chapel, subject, "What we believe about affliction." Come and make this meeting a power for good.

Friday afternoon at 2 a Christmas Sewing Bee for the Leonard Street Orphanage Atlanta, Georgia, will be held at the home of Mrs. C. B. Kimball, 134 Prospect avenue. Work and refreshments provided, but ten cents charged to buy material. All ladies invited.

Friday evening at 8 a union young people's social will be held in the vestry of the Wollaston Methodist church.

Friday evening at 7.45 a business meeting of the Sunday School will be held in the Albee class room.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

At the Sunday morning worship Mrs. L. J. Child of Boston rendered two beautiful solos,—"O rest in the Lord" from Elijah, and "When the mists have cleared away" by Henshaw. The pulpit was occupied by the Rev. Arthur W. Littlefield, minister of the First Congregational society in Needham. Mr. Littlefield preached an excellent sermon on "Spiritual adolescence of youth," and held the closest attention of the large congregation present.

An all-day sewing meeting in the interest of the Belgium refugees will be held in the vestry Wednesday, at 10 o'clock. Bring a box luncheon. All women willing to lend a hand are invited.

The union Thanksgiving service with sermon by the Rev. Samuel R. Maxwell of Boston will be held in the Wollaston Unitarian church Thanksgiving day at 5 o'clock.

Quite a number of Wollaston Unitarians attended the dedication of the beautiful new edifice of the Second church in Boston, corner Beacon and Andubon Circle, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

WOLLASTON METHODIST.

Rev. F. M. Wilson, district superintendent of a section of Northwest India Conference, preached at the Wollaston Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning. He took as his text, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature.

Mr. Wilson in his discourse spoke of the two great movements which are taking place in India today, namely the mass movement and the layman's movement. The first is the expression of the people of the consciousness of sin in the heart, and is a mighty revival movement which is to bring about the salvation of India. The fruits of this movement are the requests of thousands to be baptized into the Christian faith.

The Layman movement began by sixty native converts going from village to village, telling the story of the cross as it had come to them. These men were poorly prepared for the work which they had so earnestly undertaken but a wealthy Baptist man who in his travels had been shown the work which these natives were doing, and moved by their zeal, gave the money for a school where these men might be trained. Sixty were invited to join this school but two hundred accepted.

Mr. Wilson closed with an appeal that the people of America should come forward with their money and make it possible to put workers into the field who shall care for the thousands upon thousands who are seeking baptism and have to be refused because there is no one to care for them spiritually after they have been received into the church.

Rev. George M. Bailey gave the fourth sermon in the series on Real Evolution on Sunday evening the subject being "Yesterday Girls."

A number of Wollaston people are to attend the illustrated lecture given by S. Earle Taylor on "North Africa and the Moslem World. in Tremont Temple on Tuesday evening. Tickets may be secured from Rev. George Bailey. The tickets are free.

PARK AND DOWNS.

At the morning service at this church Sunday the pulpit was occupied by Rev. G. W. Brooks of Dorchester, who took for his text the 71st Psalm, 11th verse. The speaker brought much of his talk to show the power of Christ in the present European war.

The evening sermon by Rev. Wm. B. Ayers was the eighth in the services on "Great religious lesson from the War." The country discussed was Belgium.

These lectures are of the highest spiritual and religious character delivered with zeal and energy characteristic of the speaker who oft-times throws into them the broad sunshine of humor. The music at both morning and evening services was of a most pleasing nature, especially so were the two anthems "All hail the power of Jesus name" and "If you love me keep my Commandments." and the duet by Mrs. Wm. J. Hazzard and Mr. Arthur F. Capen.

ATLANTIC METHODIST.

At the Atlantic Methodist church Sunday morning the pastor took for his text, Job, 19-25—"I know that my Redeemer liveth." His hteme was—"A knowledge of a personal living Redeemer."

A good audience greeted the pastor at the evening service. His theme was the dissolution of Man, followed by a promised Resurrection. The help derived by the recent months revival meetings was manifested in the services of the day.

FIRST SPIRITUALIST CHURCH.

The meeting Sunday was opened with prayer and praise service. Dr. Hubert Le Roy Clough delivered an address on "The life beyond," which held the attention of a large appreciative audience, after which he gave many good and acknowledged messages. Dr. Clough will be with us for the next two Sundays at 2.30 and 7.00, and we are sure to hear something satisfying from him.

Mrs. S. V. Odiorne gave many good messages and we had a very pleasant meeting.

Meeting at Mrs. Odiorne's, 8 Mechanic street, Tuesday evening at 8 P. M.

QUINCY SQUANTUM

The First Church of Squantum was filled to the doors at vesper service Sunday afternoon, when noted musical artists of Boston gave selections. The affair was a great success and was arranged and carried out through the direction of Mrs. S. H. Adams.

Vespers followed the regular services and Sunday school. A number of Boston and Atlantic people attended attracted by the unusually fine talent secured through the personal acquaintance of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Adams with Boston musical people.

Vincent Walkden, formerly soloist of the Philharmonic orchestra of Boston, and this week appearing at Keith's Bijou theatre, opened the program. He played a violin solo "Souvenir," by Drdla. Mr. Walkden proved himself a finished artist and responded to an encore.

Miss Rose Casassa sang "Ave Maria" by Bach Gounod. She has a very pleasing soprano voice and used it to fine effect.

Ralph Smalley, the well known 'cello soloist formerly of the Boston Symphony orchestra, played "Chanson Napolitani." Mr. Smalley is a wonderful artist and his rendition of this selection and of an encore which followed were of the highest order.

Mrs. Ethel Frank Brigham, Squantum's favorite singer, and formerly of the Boston Opera company sang in her wonderfully sweet soprano voice, "Repentance" by Gonoud with a 'cello obligato by Mr. Smalley. For an encore she gave that beautiful little piece, "The Little Gray Home in the West."

Miss Frances Bean showed wonderful control and technique of the cornet in her rendition of "The Southern Cross" by Herbert Clarke. Miss Bean is to appear at the Bijou theatre this week as a cornet soloist and will be given a rousing reception by her many Squantum friends and admirers.

Miss Mildred Bean played the accompaniment for her sister, Miss Frances Bean. Mrs. Ethel Jones Bostwick was the acompanist for the other artists and played in her usual finished manner.

COTTON LOAN FUND LEGAL

Attorney General Declares It Breaks No Anti-Trust Law

Washington, Nov. 9.—No violation of the anti-trust laws is threatened by the $135,000,000 cotton loan fund plan, according to an opinion handed down by Attorney General Gregory at the request of President Wilson.

"I am unable to see how such a plan could be thought to fall within the purview of the anti-trust laws," the opinion says.

The alarm from Box 445 at 4.21 Sunday evening was for a fire in a hen house on Quarry street belonging to an Italian family. The loss was slight.

QUINCY A. A. VICTORIOUS

The Quincy A. A. football tean opened its season at the Merrymoun oval on Saturday afternoon by pinning defeat on the strong Ft. Andrew team by a score of 6 to 0. The loca boys were billed to play Ft. Srong bu they were obliged to cancel at the las minute and Ft. Andrews were substi tuted.

The Quincy's demonstrated that the would rather play football, than ea all of them jumping into the fray in tent on upholding the reputation o the team although they took thei positions on the line without a min utes practice. The feature was th tackling of Nedzo Bennett. Webi McDonald at quarter, giving the sam signals in use the past three years run off the plays in fine style an threw several successful forwards The first touchdown was by Monke Woods who with the assistance of Mc Donald plugged the line. THE MILTON ACADEMY WIN

The Milton Academy football team ended their season Saturday morning when they defeated the Country Day School team by the score of 23 to 0 The game was full of costly errors and several 15 yard penalties were imposed on both teams by the referee In the very first quarter Captain Brewer kicked a beautiful field goal from the 15 yard line. Immediately after this Felton blocked a punt kicked by Thorndike of Country Day and Brewer rushed it for a touchdown. Then "Heinie" Faxon the Quincy boy, and one of the best kickers the Academy has had for years kicked the goal. In the second half Johnson, the Academy full back made an end run which resulted in another touchdown. Faxon again kicked the goal. When Country Day had the ball, Florence, Milton's left end, got the b"all on a fumble and rushed about 25 yards for a touchdown. This time Faxon failed to kick the goal. Neither team was in any way successful with their forward passes. Train or, Brewer and Johnson were the star players of the game for the winners while Thorndike was the big player for the losers.

TILDEN AT NORFOLK DOWNS

Ex-Councilman Badger the Presiding Officer

There was a large attendance of voters Saturday night at the rally in the interest of Henry F. Tilden at Polands hall, Norfolk Downs. Ex-Councilman Frank E. Badger presided, and the speakers aside from the presiding officer, were Councilman Herbert G. Beeman, Mayor Joseph L. Whiton, ex-Mayor Stone, Councilman John R. Nelson, Candidate Tilden, Charles W. Towne and A. N. LaBrecque.

Mr. Badger in opening the meeting spoke of the great need next year of a man in the office of Mayor, who aside from being a business man should be one who could give his whole time to duties of the office. It would be the heighth of folly to send a man to City Hall who was in no way familiar with conducting city affairs. It was all right to say that a man entirely unfamiliar with the internal workings of the city could step into the office of the Mayor and revolutionize everything. He would find on he start that there were many things of which he was entirely unfamiliar.

Candidate Tilden spoke along the same lines as at other rallies. He had no promises to make other than to give his whole time to the duties of the office, and to closely follow every appropriation to see that no money was wasted and that the city got full return for every dollar expended. He said that he would not attempt to answer the intimation made by one of the candidates that he had gathered his nest while in the treasurers office. Such statements showed how unfamiliar the man must have been with the conduct of city affairs. Books must balance to a cent every night, and it was an absolute impossibility for any man in the office of City Treasurer to take money that did not belong to him, without it being immediately detected. The man who made such an intimation must be hard pushed for material for campaign speeches when he will stoop to such a low position.

Mayor Whiton told of his experience during the past month in the office of Mayor, and that the man who entered the office of Mayor next year would find it no bed of roses, he also talked along the same lines as at other rallies speaking his views on the Mayoralty situation in a forcible manner sohwing conclusively that he knew just what he was talking about. What he wanted to see was a business man in the office. A man who had been tried and not found wanting and one who could and would give his whole undivided time to the duties of the office. In closing he said the voters would make no mistake in placing Henry F. Tilden in charge.

Ex- Mayor Eugene R. Stone spoke in the highest terms of the ability of Mr. Tilden. He had selected him as is City Treasurer because he believed him amply fitted for that office and he was glad to say that he had made no mistake. He was the man of the hour and the voters of Quincy would make no mistake if they gave him their votes at the primaries on Tuesday.

Herbert G. Beeman and John R. Nelson spoke along the same line. They personally had no axe to grind. All they wanted was that the city should have a business man for Mayor next year and that man they believed to be Henry F. Tilden.

C. W. Towne and A. N. LaBrecque did not touch on the Mayoralty question but spoke of their own candidacy.

BURIED IN HIS SAILORS UNIFORM

The body of Thomas R. Cunniff, the Quincy blue jacket whose death followed fatal injuries at Portsmouth, was brought to this city Saturday and his funeral was held this morning from St. John's church, where a high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Fr. Florence McCarthy. The musical portion of the mass was by the regular choir under the direction of John Mahon, organist. Miss Eva Rice was the soloist.

The young man was dressed in his sailors uniform and draping the casket was a large Naval Jack, while floral remembrances, among which were four large wreaths of roses, violets and carnations from the crew of the ship, surrounded the casket. Other remembrances were from Mr. W. Kenney, Miss Louise Cunniff of this city and Miss Finegan of Chestnut Hill, Brookline.

The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery and the bearers were Patrick Grogan, James Mullarkey, David Barry, James Walsh, Leo Cunniff and Leo Kenny.

IMPROVEMENT AT SHIPYARD

Work Resumed on the New Storage House

There is a general rumor about that the Fore River Shipbuilding Corp. has secured important new work. But as yet there is no foundation for reports of new contracts. The contemplated improvements at the shipyard which were held up by the stringency of the money market, will however be pushed now. These include a new store house and an extension of the crane runway. Bids for government work will soon be opened, and the Fore River Corporation is a bidder.

REMEMBER MR. KINCAIDE

Suggested For the Republican Nomination

The Republicans in the 14th Congressional district have a splendid opportunity to make a strategic nomination in 1916 in the selection of Henry L. Kincaide of Quincy, who has formally left the Progressive party after making two quite phenomenal runs as its congressional candidate.

Two years ago his vote exceeded that of the Republican candidate and fell little short of that of the winning Democrat. This year Kincaide's vote was a very large one, amounting to one-third of that cast for all the Progressive congressional candidates in the state. A man of such vote-getting strength, with good ideas of the public service and high personal character, will be no small acquisition to the Republicans. They will be showing an essential liberality by immediately welcoming him to an important place in their ranks. In no way can the break of 1912 be more effectively healed than by a spirit of good fellowships among the reuniting clans.

DEMOCRATS ARE AROUSED

Candidate Fegan Holds Four Rallies

Holding forth at four rallies Edward J. Fegan, Democratic candidate for Mayor, spoke to five hundred voters in the city Saturday evening. The first stop was at the Pastime Club in City Square, where the candidate was given a hearty reception.

In Hibernian hall, South Quincy, and Slager and Hibernian halls, West Quincy, Candidate Fegan held his audience spellbound, while, with his gifted display of eloquence, he launched forth into a discussion of the issues of the campaign.

Mr. Fegan said he intended to conduct a campaign in strict keeping with the high office to which he was aspiring. He laid stress upon the necessity of selecting a council that will co-operate with the Mayor in bringing about a solution of that grave problem of concern—the taxation question.

He said that it was time the voters awakened to a realization of what the present mayoralty contest meant. Already, said Mr. Fegan, two of the mayoralty candidates are bordering upon a violation of the corrupt practice act in view of their lavish expenditures to date, and if men are going to defray exhorbitant expenses to buy the honors, it is apparent that the voters, in the final analysis, will have to shoulder the burden. This money is not being spent without purpose; a return is to be expected and the taxpayer is the man who will have to pay the penalty.

Mr. Fegan continued to advocate his policy of securing good assessors by vote of the people. The government of Quincy has been getting too far away from the people. It is now high time to stay such a situation if the city is to prosper as conditions should warrant.

At Hibernian hall, South Quincy, David Warner presided. At Slager hall, William Shea presided, while Councilman O'Dowd was in charge of the meeting in Hibernian hall, West Quincy, which took the form of a reception to Richard Barry, the well known West Quincy young man who recently became a benedict.

Other speakers were ex-Councilman John Smith, candidate for Councilman from Ward Four; Joseph Barry, another aspirant for the same office, Robert Walsh, School committeeman, Joseph H. McPherson; unopposed for re-election and Leo P. Noonon, who charged that Martin Heaney, assistant commissioner of public works, was forced by the present Mayor to resign for political reasons. Mr. Noonan urged the Democrats of West Quincy to stand by Governor Walsh and nominate Fegan by an overwhelming majority.

All the speakers declared that Mr. Fegan was well equipped for the office he seeks.

Tonight in St. Mary's hall, West Quincy, a monster rally will be held. All the candidates for Councilmen from the ward will speak in addition to Mr. Fegan and his array of spellbinders and it is expected that the hall will be the scene of one of its old time events.

CLOSE OF THE S. OF V. FAIR

The annual fair of Col. Abner Packard Camp, Sons of Veterans, came to a close in Faxon hall Saturday night with an attendance which outnumbered any throughout the week. The main feature was the awarding of the prizes. The judges, Robert Boggs, N. Haddad, Harold W. Smith, Walter R. Meade, William Bird, were assisted by Reece Walton of this city.

Members of the allied patriotic societies were among those present and the sales at the booths were large.

The fair which extended over the week was under the direction of C. F. Strattard, chairman, Commander Eddie Prouty, Senior Vice Commander William R. French, Guy T. Baker, William J. Talbot and Carleton McNeil.

IS IT YOUR KIDNEYS?

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Quincy Citizen Gives a Valuable Hint.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is where danger often lies. You should realize that these troubles often lead to dropsy or Bright's disease. An effective remedy for weak or diseased kidneys is Doan's Kidney Pills. Read the experience of a resident of Quincy who has tested Doan's.

C. P. Russell, 37 Washington street, Quincy, says: "My kidneys were weak and acted irregularly. I also suffered from pains in my back. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and the first box relieved me. I intend to continue taking this medicine."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Russell had. Foster-Milburn Co. Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

CROSS GERMAN FRONTIER IN TWO PLACES

Russian Troops Are Advancing Toward Heart of Germany

RETREAT OF TROOPS ADMITTED AT BERLIN

Fear of Cossacks Causing Inhabitants Along German Frontier to Seek Safety In Flight—No News of Beaten Austrian Army—Germans Falling Back From Franco-Belgian Seacoast—Capture of Important Heights After Long and Fierce Struggle—Invaders Leave Little of Ypres—Fogs Put Aviation Corps of Both Armies Out of Business—Russian Port on the Black Sea Bombarded by Turkinsh Cruiser

London, Nov. 9.—Cossacks in advance of the main Rusisan army are within 150 miles of Berlin, having crossed the Silesian frontier northeast of the town of Kalisz. They are now pushing forward between Posen on the north and Breslau on the south, with the river Oder as their main objective.

The Russian troops are, therefore, now advancing towards the heart of Germany from two points, having already penetrated into East Prussia in the vicinity of Lyck from upper Poland.

For the first time in many weeks the name of a German town figures in the Petrograd official statement, this being in connection with the invasion of Silesia. The laconic announcement of this important move of the war is that on the left bank of the Vistula the Russian cavalry penetrated German territory, damaging the railway near Pleschen station, to the northeast of Kalisz.

Although this is merely the Russian outpost, it indicates that the Germans, so recently put to flight from the vicinity of Warsaw, have retreated steadily until they have regained their own territory, presumably to make a stand on the banks of the Oder at Breslau.

Retreat Admitted by Germans

For the first time since their defeat at Warsaw the Germans made admissions showing the direction and extent of their retreat. This was in a Berlin report mentioning the defeat of a Russian cavalry force near Kolo, twenty-five miles from the German frontier. This shows that the Germans have retired behind the Warthe river, which, roughly, parallels the German frontier.

Preceding the Russian official announcement that the Cossacks are actually in Silesia, there have been rumors for some days past that the Russians have penetrated into German territory, some even mentioning the occupation of Bromberg, which lies sixty-nine miles northeast of Posen. Timid inhabitants of the border regions from Breslau north to Posen have been fleeing from their homes in fear of the Cossacks in spite of assurances from Berlin that General von Hindenburg's defeated army was in the vicinity.

No news has come from the beaten Austrian army of the San, which has been cut off from its German allies and driven up to the flank of the Carpathian mountains. If they can succeed in crossing the snow-filled passes into Hungary, with the victorious Russians harrying their rear, it will be one of the notable military retreats of history.

German Campaign Fails

All reports from the Franco-Belgian line show that the Germans continue to fall back from the seacoast, a movement which has been in operation ever since their disaster on the Yser. The attacks upon the allies' lines around Ypres have materially slackened, and there are indications that the Germans are now heavily reinforcing their lines forty miles further to the south for a violent attack upon Arras. This may be intended as another attempt to strike at Paris, or part of a plan to cut off the extreme French and British left, and then make a further dash to reach the coast at Calais.

Fighting Sunday along a large portion of the battle line was hampered by heavy fogs which interfered with the artillery firing and put the aviation corps out of business. The only real success of the day was won by the Germans, who report the capture of an important height near Vienne-le-Chateau to the west of the forest of Argonne, a position which has been fiercely fought for during several weeks.

Before the Gemans gave up their futile attacks upon Ypres, that city was reduced to a heap of ruins. A few shells are even now being directed toward the place from a distance of eight miles. Hardly a street nas been left intact. Two shells struck the famous Cloth hall, which dates back to the thirteenth century, and did much damage to the beautiful building.

Quiet Day on the Sea

Sunday was an off day so far as naval activity is concerned. Reports came by way of Petrograd regarding the bombardment by a Turkish cruiser of the Breslau type off the Russian port of Poti in Transcaucasia, on the Black sea. The warship opened fire upon the town, the fort, lighthouse and railway station, firing from 120 to 130 shots. Then drawing towards the mole, the cruiser attempted to open fire upon the Russian troops with rapid fire guns, but rapidly steamed away when the Russians replied with their artillery.

Valparaiso considers as baseless the rumor of the last two days of naval battles off the coast of Peru and Coquimbo, Chile, in both of which fights Japanese warships were supposed to have figured. No Japanese fleet has been seen off the Chilean coast, add the authorities.

The internment of the German cruiser Geier at Honolulu, after having been given limited time in which to make a decision, has released for service in the Pacific two Japanese warships which have been guarding the harbor ever since the Geier took refuge there more than a month ago.

COUNT VON MOLTKE.

Rumors From High Berlin Official Say German Chief Of Staff Is Seriously Ill.

DRIVEN FROM OFFICE

Von Moltke Put Out So That Kaiser Could Be Supreme

While it has been officially announced in Berlin that General von Moltke, chief of the general staff, has been retired on account of ill health, it has become known that the real reason for his dismissal is on account of the desire of the crown prince to act entirely on his own responsibility.

In addition, the kaiser's autocratic ways had become unbearable. Everybody in Berlin knows there has been an open rupture between the kaiser and the chief of the general staff.

General von Falkenhayn's appointment is construed to mean that the kaiser has taken over the military operations in his own hands, because none believe the new leader has the qualifications of his predecessor. His only support in military circles is the kaiser.

Already Berlin is referring to von Falkenhayn as a puppet of the kaiser and in no way comparable to General Joffre.

"MILLS WILL GRIND SLOWLY"

But Germany Dreams of Day When Woe Will Befall Nippon

The Berlin Lokal Anzeiger, commenting on the German defeat at Tsingtau, says:

"Germans will never forget the heroic fighting at Kiauchau of those who defended the colony. Never shall we forget the brutal violence of the yellow robbers, nor England, who instigated them.

"We know that we cannot settle our account with Japan at present; for years she will enjoy her booty. Our mills will grind slowly, but even if years should pass before the right moment comes at last, then a shout of joy will resound through Germany. 'Woe to you, Nippon!'"

CALLS COUNCIL OF WAR

Kaiser Reported to Be Much Affected by the Russian Advance

A dispatch from Rome says:

German advices received here say that Emperor William, much affected by the Russian victories, has held a council of war, which was attended by General von Hindenburg, the Duke of Wurtemburg and the Austrian chief of staff, Field Marshal Baron Conrad von Hoetzendorf, to decide on a further plan of campaign

FRIENDLY TO GERMANS

Constantinople Views All Other Foreigners With Suspicion

Dispatches from Constantinople describe the situation there as outwardly such as it was during the Balkan war. Foreigners are regarded with suspicion and keep to themselves, except in the case of Germans, who may be seen everywhere. German money is so plentiful that it is often accepted as if it were Turkish.

In the cafes the German language is constantly heard and this is true also of places of amusement.

The governing classes are described as appearing solemnly confident, but the army is declared to be totally unprepared for war. The storehouses are said to be empty and no commissariat exists. Many soldiers are still wearing the uniforms worn in the previous war and the army officers have not all been paid, it is asserted.

THANKS TO MORGENTHAU

British Government Appreciates Services of American Envoy

The British government has officially thanked the American government for the friendly and invaluable assistance given by Henry Morgenthau, the American ambassador at Constantinople.

The communication to Secretary of State Bryan quotes Sir Louis Mallett, late ambassador at Constanainople, as saying no words can express his sense of indebtedness to Morgenthau and his staff.

Morganthau accompanied Mallett to the station, greatly assisting his departure and that of his staff, and it was entirely owing to his exertions that a large party of British subjects who were prevented from leaving on the night of his departure were allowed to go on the following day.

CONSCRIPTION IN BELGIUM

Those Who Refuse to Enlist May Be Commandeered

Another call to the colors has been issued by the Belgian government to all its nationals. The summons this time is accompanied by an intimation that those not joining voluntarily may be "commandeered."

Under the latest decision the Belgian government has regard to the Belgian refugees. All Belgians under 45 years of age who were previously members of the civil guard are now allowed to enlist in the regular army, and all unmarried Belgians between 18 and 30 not wishing to enlist as volunteers are informed that they "may be commandeered and their services employed in different works for the army."

CARRANZA ORDERED TO VACATE OFFICE

His Refusal Will Mean Continuation of War In Mexico

Washington, Nov. 9.—General Carranza has until 6 o'clock Tuesday night to make up his mind whether he will relinquish the provisional presidency of Mexico without a struggle or whether he will fight for the retention of his present office.

The news that the convention has sent such an ultimatum to Carranza was received here officially.

The convention demands that he announce his recognition of the sovereignty of the convention and bow to it by vacating his office from which the convention has already deposed him and named General Guetierrez in his place.

NO SPECIFIC REMEDIES

Kissing Is One of the Causes of Spreading of Scarlet Fever

Washington, Nov. 9.—Kissing, the common use of drinking cups and towels, the practice of children exchanging candy and fruit, and coughing and sneezing, are the principal means of communicating scarlet fever, the United States health board announced. Carelessness of parents also is held largely responsible for the spread of the malady among children.

It is admitted that the federal experts know of no specific remedies for the disease, and that once contracted it must run its course.

MESSINA ALARMED

Fear That Strong Shock Is Forerunner of Period of Earthquakes

Messina, Nov. 9.—A strong earthquake shock felt in this vicinity has caused considerable alarm among the populace, especially following so closely the fresh activity of Mount Vesuvius.

Fears are entertained that the new shock is only the forerunner of another period of earthquakes.

According to the registrations at the observatory, the centre of the earthquake was about seventy-seven miles distant from Messina.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

There was an unusually large number at the harvest supper given by the Ladies' Aid Society of the East Congregational church in the basement of the church. The supper was an excellent one and certainly showed that there were some splendid cooks among the members of the society. The following young ladies waited on table: Dorothy Fuller, Marion Hathaway, Edith Stocker, Emily Doherty, Lucy Bigelow, Pauline Shapleigh, Ruth Abbot and Eleanor Burbank. The supper committee included Mrs. M. A. Abbott, chairman; Mrs. Benjamin Fuller, Mrs. Lydia Shapleigh, Mrs. James Kent, Mrs. Edmund Carlton, Mrs. Oscar Bohm, Mrs. C. E. Snow, Mrs. Kelley and Mrs. John Marr.

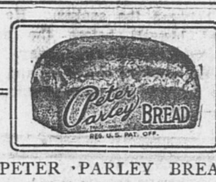

At the First Baptist church, Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. J. Hamilton Woodsum preached on "The real value of Christian testimony." The Sunday School and Woodsum Class met at 12 M. with large numbers present. In the evening a missionary service was observed as a farewell to Miss Agnes Nielson, who will go this week as a missionary to Rangoon, Burma. Miss Nielson and several girl friends from the Gordon Training School spoke. The C. E. Society met at 6 P. M., led by Miss Inez Carder. The subject was: "Getting out of Ruts and Keeping Out."

The Ladies Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will give a reception to Miss Agnes Nielson this evening. All members of the church and friends of Miss Nielson have been invited to be present. Mrs. David J. Brown, president of the society has full charge of the reception.

The Neighborhood Club meeting, held Friday afternoon at the home of Miss Elizabeth Hutchinson on Bates road was very well attended. Miss Edith Randall of Quincy gave a most interesting talk on: "My European Travels." The talk was very instructive besides enjoyable.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Baptist church will hold their regular meeting Wednesday afternoon in the church parlor. A change in the hour is made from three o'clock to two.

Having sold the edition of the Quincy Daily Ledger of Wednesday, Nov. 11 to the King's Daughters, we will accept no advertisements for that issue, except legal advertisements, standing advertisements or from those under contract. REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

QUINCY SQUARE

The price of the Daily Ledger on Wednesday will be five cents per copy because of a contract with the Kings' Daughters. It will be worth 10 or 20 cents because it is an 18-page paper full of original articles by women.

Everyone is interested to read how the women will report the City Primaries in the King's Daughters' issue of the Daily Ledger on Wednesday. But that will be only one of the interesting features of that big number of the Daily Ledger.

Well known Quincy people are in the cast of the bright little play, "The time of his life," and as they have been under the careful training of Mrs. Isabelle Davis, a fine presentation may be expected. The play is full of fun from beginning to end. It is to be given on Tuesday evening at Alpha hall under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. and should attract a large audience.

The Registrars of Voters met at City Hall Saturday night and added 34 names to the voting lists, closing the registration for the city primaries.

WALL RECEPTION.

The citizens of Houghs Neck will tender James E. Wall a reception this evening at the Sea street Dream. It is announced that there will be twenty speakers and good music.

CLOSE CALL FOR ERICSON

His Majority Reduced to Two By Recount

A recount was held by the Registrars of Voters this morning of the votes cast at the State election last Tuesday for Representative from the Fifth district. According to the returns of the election officers, Charles A. Ericson won by sixteen votes. By the recount however Michael T. Sullivan gained and Ericson's lead is reduced to two votes.

The greatest change was made in precinct two of Ward One. In this precinct Ericson lost six votes, Sullivan gained seven, and blanks gained one.

In Ward Two, Ericson lost one, Sullivan gained two and blanks lost two. In Ward Three, Sullivan gained two and Ericson gained three, while blanks lost four.

The vote by precincts at the state election and the recount is shown by the following tables:

THE RECOUNT.

	Ericson	Sullivan
Ward One, Pre. 1,	307	187
Ward One, Pre. 2,	345	295
Ward Two, Pre. 1,	85	120

QUINCY SOUTH

Master David McCormick of Milford, N. H., is visiting Mrs. John Michael and family of Caledonian avenue.

The alarm from Box 137 at 1.35 this noon followed inside of five minutes by the recall, was for a slight fire in the house of Alfred Davis on Brook road. The woman of the house had put some wood in the oven of the kitchen to dry out and it took fire.

Miss Nellie Smith Souter of 44 Faber street, South Quincy, and Edward J. Hodge of 30 Town Hill street, were married at Arlington on Friday. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Samuel C. Bushnell. The groom is a motorman in the employ of the Quincy branch of the Bay State street railway, and is very popular with his fellow employees. The bride is a well known South Quincy girl and is the daughter of Alex Souter. They will live in this city.

BRIEFS

Friends of James Nicol will be sorry to learn that he is seriously ill at his home on Coddington street.

Mrs. Sarah C. Williams is to hold a whist party in Protection hall, tomorrow afternoon for the benefit of Maple Lodge K. & L. of H.

Eugene LaBrecque of Adams shore, a well known young man in this city, was successfully operated upon at the Carney hospital on Saturday.

A regular meeting of Paul Revere Womens Relief Corps will be held at Grand Army hall, Tuesday afternoon with a whist party in the evening in charge of Mrs. Agnes Fletcher.

H. D. Cole, the optician, formerly with C. F. Pettingill, is now in busness for himself on Depot street. He has an attractive store and is doing a good business.

The many friends of Wellesley in Quincy will read with interest of the Sousa benefit concert to be given in Symphony hall, Boston, the afternoon and evening of November 17. Wellesley has $550,000 to raise before Jan. 1st, and the committee in charge is using every effort to make the concert a great success.

Eddie C. Carson of the Franklin Associates appeared at the annual dance of that organization in Alpha hall on Friday night using a cane to support a badly sprained ankle. Carson, employed as a driver for the Adams express was injured in City Square Friday when in standing on a wheel to take a heavy case from the wagon his foot slipped and his leg went between the spokes. He extricated himself before the horse made any attempt to run away. He was given medical treatment and was one of those in charge of the floor at the dance.

QUINCY WEST

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Elcock of Copeland street, entertained several friends Sunday evening, at a game dinner.

The officers of Ave Maria council, Knights of Columbus will be installed tonight. The work will be under the direction of District Deputy Supreme Knight Edward D. Barrett of this city, who will be accompanied by his staff.

One of the most eloquent and forceful sermons ever delivered in this city was given before the members of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's church on Sunday afternoon by Rev. Fr. Thomas R. McCoy. The attendance was large and new consultors were appointed. There were 150 new members added to the society.

Mary A. Leary, wife of John Leary, well known in this city, died at her home at 42 Huntington road, East Milton, on Saturday afternoon after a comparatively short illness. Mrs. Leary was the mother of Arthur Leary president of the Copeland Club of West Quincy, and Margaret Leary of the Quincy telephone exchange. Other children who survive her are: Mrs. Roderick W. McDonald, Mrs. Philip T. Egan, Joseph, William and Daniel Leary.

Although a member of St. Gregory's parish, Mrs. Leary and her children regularly attended St. Mary's church in West Quincy. Her funeral will take place on Tuesday morning, a high mass of requiem being celebrated at St. Gregory's church, Milton Lower Mills, at 9 o'clock, which will be attended by a delegation of members of St. Francis court, M. C. O. F., of West Quincy, with which she was affiliated.

QUINCY POINT

The first of a series of socials in aid of the new mission station of St. John's parish at Quincy Point will take the form of a dancing party in the hall of the parish school on Friday evening.

QUINCY WOLLASTON

The Wollaston Unitarian Club meets Tuesday, Nov. 10. Dinner at 6.30 P. M. Speaker: Charles H. Levermore of the World Peace Foundation. Subject: "The War and Afterwards."

THREE IN COURT.

What the police are inclined to think may turn out to be a case of white slavery was unearthed Sunday night, when Capt. McKay, Inspector Goodhue and Officer Doran raided the premises at 1 Baxter place and arrested Michael Petoni, Mike Robini and Flora Adams for being idle and disorderly. The police believe that the woman, a young American girl, was being forcibly detained at the premises.

According to the police they have been watching the place for some time, and as a result of what they saw the raid was made. Paraphernalia of an incriminating nature was found. All three were arraigned in court this morning for being idle and disorderly and cases were continued a few days for a hearing.

VOTERS SHOULD RALLY TO WHITON

His Service to the City Entitles Him to a Re-Nomination

Unsigned Cards Are Repudiated Rumors Denied

Councilman Charles A. Ericson in an interview with the Daily Ledger Monday evening denied most emphatically that there was any foundation for the rumors in circulation about City Square, that he was using his influence with the Scandinavian voters against the nomination of Councilman Joseph L. Whiton. Councilman Ericson said that he had always been clean and above board in politics, and that he should continue to remain so. There was not a iota of truth in the statements being circulated.

Monday evening cards, without the signature of the party who issued them, or of the printer who printed them, were being freely circulated about City Square. While the name of Councilman Whiton was not mentioned on the card it was clearly an effort to influence the voters against him.

One of the cards urged that votes be cast for Charles H. Johnson and three for the City Council, whose names were mentioned, while another card issued evidently by the same persons, urged that votes be cast for G. B. Bates for Mayor and three for the City Council, whose names were mentioned.

In neither case was the name of Councilman Whiton mentioned, and it was clearly a case where efforts were being made to defeat Mr. Whiton at the polls today.

The cards were clearly in violation of the Corrupt Practice Act, and it will go hard with the party who issued them if he is found out. It might also be added that the printer and the man who distributed the cards are equally as liable.

The attack on Councilman Whiton is evidently in retaliation of the stand he has taken in the contest for Mayor as well as the stand he has taken since assuming the office of Mayor. Mr. Whiton, if anything, is outspoken and fair, treating all alike. He found on entering the office of Mayor many outstanding water bills and he immediately took steps to collect them using all alike. Some of the delinquents tried to get by without paying, but there was no partiality shown, and they were told that they must pay or have their water shut off, and pay they did.

JOSEPH L. WHITON.

It is not surprising, therefore, that when a man does his duty and enforces the law, on rich and poor alike, he makes enemies. This is the kind of a man that Quincy has long needed for Mayor, and instead of trying to relegate him to a back seat, the voters should rally to his support, and show that they appreciate the work which he has been trying to do, and when the votes are counted tonight there is but little doubt but he will have been renominated, as he should be.

Candidate Johnson also called at the Daily Ledger office this morning to say that he wanted it understood that he was entirely ignorant of the source of the cards that were being issued. That he was not fighting anybody's campaign for Councilman, and anyone who knew him would know that he had no hand in the issuing or circulation of the cards.

Andrew Johnson, one of the candidates for the City Council, whose name was also used on the card, says that the cards were issued without his knowledge or consent and that if he had been consulted he would not have listened to it a minute. He believed in conducting a clean campaign, and if he could not be nominated without resorting to such methods, then he would be defeated.

There are rumors in circulation about City Square, that certain people are using all their influence to defeat Joseph L. Whiton for nomination and election as Councilman from Ward One.

One of the chief characteristics of Mayor Whiton is frankness. If he has anything to say about any person, he does not go behind a corner to say it, but comes out openly and above board, a characteristic which every fair-minded man, cannot help but admire.

It would seem too bad, therefore, if in the spirit of revenge the recognized abilities of Councilman Whiton should be ignored, especially at this time when the City Council needs the

NIGHT BEFORE WAS LIVELY

Candidates for Mayor Have Big Demonstrations

Never has there been a more lively "night before a caucus" in City Square than Monday night. Automobiles by the scores began to gather soon after 7 o'clock and by 7.30 there must have been nearly 150 cars assembled. There were three distinct parades. Each burned lots of red fire, blew tin horns, waved flags, shouted and cheered, while one parade was enlivened by a drum corps and bag pipers.

The three parades were held in the interest of the candidacy of Henry F. Tilden, Charles H. Johnson and Chester I. Campbell.

The Tilden parade formed on Hancock street in front of the Savings Bank building and when they started through Temple street with red fire burning and banners flying every car contained its full complement, and every man a voter it is said.

About the same time the parade of Charles H. Johnson formed on Maple street. Each of his cars bore large signs in the interest of Mr. Johnson and they also burned quantities of red fire. These cars were also filled to their capacity and every man a voter.

The Campbell parade larger than the other two combined, formed near the fountain in City Square and each of these cars contained banners while there were also numerous transparencies. They had a drum corps and bag pipers. There were many ladies in the cars who perhaps some day hope to have the privilege of voting.

The Campbell parade became separated soon after the start and travelled in two sections through Quincy Point South Quincy and West Quincy, but each made a great showing and the demonstration of the Campbell followers was never equalled in this city.

All three parades made trips in every ward of the city and most of the candidates spoke in the different wards. It was a grand wind up of the most strenuous caucus campaign ever held in Quincy.

WEYMOUTH MAN DEAD.

Word was received at South Weymouth on Monday of the death in Riverside, Cal., Sunday of J. Clarence Howe, who formerly conducted a bakery in Weymouth, and who served on the board of Selectmen for many years. Mr. Howe went to California two months ago for his health and was about to start for home when taken ill. His wife died at Riverside, California, two years ago while there on a visit. Mr. Howe was 66 years of age. One of his peculiar characteristics was that he wore a straw hat, both summer and winter.

LATEST!

QUINCY TO BUILD TWO

Will Get Contract for Two Torpedo Boats

Bids were opened by the Navy department at Washington this noon for building six torpedo boats for the United States navy.

There were six bidders, and from the bids is now looks as though the Fore River Corp. would receive a contract for two of the boats. The Bath Iron works two, and Cramps two.

POLLS ARE NOW OPEN

City Primaries Will Close at 9 P. M.

The polls for the city primaries opened at 12 o'clock today and the early hours of the voting indicated that the primaries would bring out a large vote. While all of the candidates have automobiles at the several polling places, and while there will not be much use for them during the afternoon, it is expected that they will have plenty to do this evening. There are many voters whose business will keep them in Boston until this evening so that the great rush of votes are not expected until night.

This noon there were many guesses as to who would win at the caucuses and after all is said and done, it is anybodys nomination until after the votes are counted. Today is probably the last time that the party enrollment will be used in its present form at primaries, so that people who in other years have hung back rather than be enrolled with any party will go to the polls today and vote, understanding that whatever enrollment they give today will not amount to anything hereafter, and that in future primaries they will be free to vote for the parties they wish.

While the total vote of the primaries a year ago was but a little over 2000 it is expected that todays vote will total nearer 3000. At best it will probably be after night before anything definite is known.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Mannex have returned to their home in West Quincy from a visit to friends in New Brunswick.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

Amendment to City Auditors Ordinance

The important matter at Monday nights meeting of the City Council was the order introduced by Councilman Thompson, amending the ordinance establishing a system of auditing and accounting. The proposed amendment strikes out the existing section 3 and inserts a new section.

The new section provides that the City Auditor shall keep an account of the estimated receipts and actual receipts of each year to be furnished by the City Treasurer. That on January first of each year he shall transfer all unexpended balances of appropriations made in the budget to the "Unexpended balance fund." That all contracts made or supplies and material of any description purchased, amounting to $200 or more by any department or board, officer or Mayor shall be so made or purchased only on a written contract, signed by the department, etc., and by the dealer.

These contracts shall be made in triplicate on printed blanks approved by the Auditor, one copy to be delivered to the dealer, one copy retained by the department, and the third copy transmitted to the Auditor as soon as the contract is made.

That the city shall not be liable on any account unless at the time it is made there is sufficient balance of the appropriation to which it is chargeable and in determining said balance all prior contracts filed with the Auditor shall be deducted. The dealer may present his contract to the Auditor for certification of unexpended balance on hand.

If any contract is cancelled or modified the department, etc., shall at once notify the Auditor in writing, and no forms on such written contract shall be waved or altered except by written memorandum issued in the same way and under the same conditions as the original contract. On cancellation of a contract the unexpended balance of the appropriation to which it is charged shall be increased accordingly.

The accounts of every department shall be kept so as to show on their books all prior contracts made by them, and the Auditor is authorized to install in any department a system of accounting to conform with the accounting in his office.

All accounts, claims and bills and pay rolls, which have been approved and certified shall be filed with the Auditor, and carefully examined, and if corectly cast shall duly approve the same. No such account, claim, bill or pay roll shall be approved by the Auditor unless at the time the indebtedness was contracted, there was an unexpended balance to which it is chargeable, nor shall it be approved if not properly chargeable to which it is sought to be charged, and properly itemized.

These are the principal matters contained in the proposed amendment. The order was referred to the joint Committee on Finance and Ordinances.

The absent members were Councilmen Bailey, Bass, Gelotte, Gilliatt, and Ross.

LOWE LOT.

A communication was received from the Washington Parents-Teachers association urging that a school building be erected in the Point district and that the Lowe lot be accepted. Referred to Finance Committee.

BURNS MEMORIAL.

A communication was received from the Secretary of State relative to approval of the certificate of incorporation of the Burns Memorial association with George M. Maver, Alfred O. Black, Francis Morrison, Alex Cowe, William Soudan, Thomas Johnston, Alex. W. Russell, James Nicol, Angus D. Martin and Robert D. Smith, as incorporators. The certificate was approved.

PETITIONS.

A petition of the Telephone Co. for attachments on Cummings avenue, Putnam street and Ritchie road was granted.

A petition from J. R. Peterson for a gasoline permit was laid on the table until later when Councilman Beeman offered an order for a public hearing Dec. 7. Adopted.

Applications for minor licenses were received and referred to the License committee.

An application of B. Mason for a license to collect junk was received under suspension of the rules and referred to the Committee on Licenses.

REPORTS.

The Committee on State Aid reported an order granting soldiers relief which was adopted.

The Committee on Elections reported the result of the vote in Quincy at the state election which was declared to have been read.

HEARING.

A public hearing was held at 8 o'clock on the order widening Rogers street, in order to remove a sharp and objectionable corner. No one appeared for or against the order. The hearing was closed and later Councilman Beeman offered an order accepting and widening the street which was ordered to a second reading.

Adjourned at 8.07, until Monday Nov. 16.

HOLDING EUROPEAN TRADE.

The past few weeks have seen a heavy amount of orders come in from Europe for goods previously made across the water. If handled right, one would think that some of this business should be permanent.

After the war is over, the European governments will of course continue to buy their war supplies at home. But in many lines, American goods are clearly superior. Though costing higher, they may be enough better to be equally cheap in the long run.

Manufacturers who are trying to please European patrons will do well to remember that attention to little idiosyncracies and whims s a great point in winning business friends. The fact that a certain style is popular in America does not necessarily mean that it can be made permanently acceptable abroad. If goods are to be sold permanently in Europe, they must be a faithful imitation, in appearance and quality, of what the people of those countries had previously been using. As a whole, the people of Europe demand pretty substantial goods. Articles must have solid wear in order to give satisfaction.

THE INVESTMENT OF SAVINGS.

It is a ticklish time to invest money. The low prices for standard bonds, five to eight points down since the war began, look good. Yet capital is being destroyed at an incalculable rate. It would seem, when the war is over, as if Europe must call its money home, and throw our securities for any old price. Wherefore let the buyer beware.

Bank dealers say in reply, that European investments must for many years be hazardous. Consequently people who wish a safe place for funds will look to this country. This sounds plausible. But foreign capitalists may feel that unless they stand together and keep their money at home, no economic revival is possible. The chances are that America will have to absorb the bulk of its own securities.

Even the most competent experts can't agree in estimating these new and unknown forces. Wherefore it is doubly foolish for the ordinary investor to gamble. Even before the war, securities had been declining for a number of years. Investors have generally seen their capital shrink, while insiders have skimmed the cream of such few advances as were made. The public is suspicious and questioning as to corporate profits, and inclined to require stockholders to reduce dividends in order to keep up the property of public service corporations, etc.

All this uncertainty in the wide world makes home investments look more than ever good. The home bank, where you personally know the officers, where any injudicious management would be checked by sharp local criticism, is more secure than the stock of the most powerful corporation in Wall street.

When you take a mortgage on a little home or farm in or near your own town, you have no worry lest the slippery wizards of high finances are watering your stock, or piling debts on top of it. You can personally see with your own eyes that your capital is being kept good.

WORK EXPECTED AT SHIPYARD

Nothing Definite However to Report Today

During the past few days there have been many rumors about City Square to the effect that the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation had secured contracts involving many millions, but just how much truth there is in the rumors cannot be definitely stated as yet. That there is a prospect that the company may get large contracts, there is no doubt, but it was said at the office of the company this morning that no contracts in writing had been received as yet.

The officials are loath to make public what they may possibly have in view, from the fact that publicity at this time might result in no contracts being awarded the company. The officials however did state that just as soon as anything definite developed that the public would be informed immediately.

The United States government are opening bids at Washington today for torpedo boat destroyers, and as the Fore River Company is a bidder for these vessels, it is more than possible that they will be successful in landing contracts which may mean a large amount of work.

The rumors referred to in the first paragraph, however, were relative to contracts for foreign navies.

Rumor has it that the company will build twenty submarines for some foreign navy, but which is a matter of doubt. One places the contract for the English government, another for France, and still a third for Japan.

It is stated that the vessels will not be completed at the Quincy yards, but will be shipped in the same manner as were the submarines during the Japanese war with Russia. That is knocked down to be put together and supplied with their engines when they arrive at their destination.

To meet and handle this big contract it is said that a large number of new men will be put to work in the near future, and that the company has already commenced work laying out the yard to handle the work. The plant is fully equipped to handle the big contract but just what time will be given the company is not known.

But little information can be gained from the officials at the Fore River yard as they say that they are not yet in a position to talk, and that too much publicity may result in the contracts going to some other company. It is expected however, that a definite announcement will be made in a few days.

Beecham's Pills

WHEN a remedy has been tried in thousands of homes for over sixty years and has attained the largest sale of any medicine in the world, it is because it has been found to have unequalled merit. Beecham's Pills have been so tried and have well proved to be the best help mankind has ever known.

EVERYBODY needs to help Nature from time to time. The liver becomes torpid, the stomach weak, the bowels inactive through some accident or carelessness. Then discomfort comes and serious, lasting sickness may follow; but this can be avoided if the important organs of digestion are given the help they need.

WHEN Beecham's Pills clear the system of impurities, stimulate the liver, regulate the bowels—the signs of biliousness disappear. Headaches, nervousness, depressions, stomach pains, dullness, bad nights, bitter taste cease to cause discomfort. Beecham's Pills owe their great fame to their power to relieve indigestion and biliousness.

Insure Better Health

Beecham's Pills are recognized as the best corrective of disordered conditions of the organs of digestion. They are reliable and effective; they act gently but promptly without causing trouble or any after ill effect.

There is no wisdom in delay. You ought to have on hand, ready for use the moment there is need, this matchless family remedy. Then discomfort will soon disappear and little ills will not become serious sicknesses.

Try a few doses and learn that Beecham's Pills will aid you to better health

DR. GORDON APPRECIATED

Hospital Trustees Adopt Resolutions on Service

The quarterly meeting of the City Hospital Trustees was held Monday afternoon and was well attended. At this meeting in recognition of the long and faithful service of Dr. John A. Gordon as chairman of the executive committee, the trustees unanimously adopted resolutions in appreciation of his work. It was a notable testimonial to Dr. Gordon for none know better than those closely identified with the hospital of his work and of the time which he has freely given to this most worthy cause. The resolution follows:

"Although year by year countless men and women throughout the world are concluding long periods of unselfish service for their fellows and although countless resolutions testifying with heartfelt sincerity to such service are recorded by former associates, it is seldom indeed that this testimony can be rendered with such earnest conviction and complete frankness as now, when the opportunity has come to us for expressing our appreciation of Dr. Gordon's work for this Hospital.

"Twenty-five years ago, while busy as few men are with the demands of a practise which, in itself seemed to measure man's full duty to society, Dr. Gordon voluntarily assumed a large share of the burden consequent to the planning, building and organizing of this institution. The present City Hospital of Quincy with its great beneficent capacity is only the realization of his early ideal. During these twenty-five years there have been few of the activities of the Hospital in which he has not had a part, adding always to their effectiveness. He has been unsparing of his time and labor to an incredible degree, it being estimated that nearly one-quarter of his waking hours have been spent in this service.

"Chairman of the Executive Board 24 years, member of staff 11 years, consulting physician 19 years, consulting surgeon 12 years, chairman of Medical Board 5 years—the list though long is yet incomplete and but faintly indicates the good he has accomplished.

"We accept his withdrawal from the Executive Board with profound regret but realize that he has many times over earned the right to ask relief from its exacting duties. Surely such a record of self-sacrifice will be an inspiration for years to come to those who take up the work in his place, while the knowledge of the gratitude of his fellow-citizens and the memory of work well done should constantly brighten the many hours of his life which we trust are yet before him."

The report of the superintendent, Miss Hill was most interesting, and showed in detail the work of the hospital. She reported that the number of patients in the hospital Aug. 1 as 32. Since then up to Oct. 31, the number admited was 230, making a total of 262. She also reported that the total admitted since January 1, was 707. Carrying out the same ratio for the remainder of the year it would mean a total for the year of 850. This is nearly double the number admitted during the year 1912, and shows how fast the hospital is growing and how its service is being recognized.

Of the total to Oct. 31, 127 were males and 135 females. Of this number 171 were surgical cases, 46 medical, 23 obstetrical, infants born 22. Of the total admitted, 40 were discharged well, 162 were relieved, 5 not relieved, 13 died and on Nov. 1, 42 remained at the hospital. The daily average was 35.

In the minds of many doubtless there is some doubt as to the meaning of the report "relieved." It means that while patients in some cases are practically well, their wounds, in case of a surgical operation, are not fully healed up, so that they can not be called well, but are classed as relieved. No patient is called well unless at the time of his or her discharge, they are absolutely well.

Miss Hill also reported that at the meeting of the Hospital Aid society it was voted to provide decorations for the Christmas season at the Hospital.

It was also announced that through affiliation it had been arranged so that each member of the senior class of nurses should spend a part of her time in district nursing under the direction of the Quincy District Nurse association. This arrangement went into effect Nov. 1.

SOME FOOT FACTS.

If people knew some real facts about foot troubles they would in many cases use entirely different methods of treatment. Fallen arches flat-foot, corns, bunions, enlarged joints, knuckled toes and ingrowing nails are some of the afflictions of the human race.

Arch props, plasters, salves and various devices have been used in the past as remedies with some success but in many cases have proved unsatisfactory.

Of late a shoe has been placed on the market of which great things are said. It is called the "Ground Gripper," and proofs of cures of all the above mentioned troubles are daily received. This shoe is worn by doctors, nurses and prominent people in all walks of life.

The makers issue an interesting booklet and the Granite Shoe store, the Quincy agency, will be pleased to furnish these booklets free and demonstrate this wonderful shoe.

It will pay you to call at the Granite Shoe Store and get a Ground Gripper booklet the next time you are downtown.

Governors In Conference

Madison, Wis., Nov. 10.—Thirty-six governors, former governors and governors-elect attended the opening here today of the seventh annual governors' conference, which will suggest and consider means of improving conditions within states and of simplifying relations between states.

TRY TO SMASH ALLIES' LINES

Germans Make Tremendous Effort to Reach Sea

SOURCE OF NEW FORCES

Holland Hears That Boy Recruits and Old Men Are Being Hurried to Front by Invaders, While Other Reports Say Whole Corps Are Being Sent Westward to Aid In Carrying Out Kaiser's Edict—Russian Advance Into East Prussian Frontier Continues—Gained Over 150 Miles In Less Than Three Weeks

London, Nov. 10.—A final desperate effort of the Germans to break through the seemingly impregnable lines of the allies in southwestern Belgium has begun. The harrassed and decimated forces from over the Rhine are hurling themselves forward against the British and French in a gallant attempt to carry out the kaiser's edict to "reach the coast at any cost."

It would seem that Sunday's cessation of activities in the vicinity of Ypres was only a feint. This little town, which has been the centre of incessant warfare for the past month, and in which hardly a building is left standing, was again made to bear the brunt of heavy artillery fire from the German lines, which, as reported by the aviation corps, have been heavily reinforced.

All the way from Ypres northwest to Dixmude, a distance of about fifteen miles, is now the concentrated battle line, and over this already war-worn region, drenched with blood and furrowed by shell fire, the supreme effort of the beaten Germans will be made to retrieve their former disasters.

The state of the conflict would seem to indicate that the German attack thus far has been held in check. Fog obscured the fighters during a great part of Monday. The French war office officially says the allies have made progress along the entire front between Dixmude and the river Lys, but that the advance has been slow on account of the severe attacks of the enemy and "because of the strong organization the enemy has had time to effect around his points of support."

The Germans, on the other hand, declare that in spite of obstinate resistance by the allies, the attacks on Ypres are progressing slowly but steadily, and that the hostile attacks southwest of Ypres have been repulsed with the capture of several hundred prisoners.

That the Germans in this region are reinforced has been known for several days, but the source of the new forces is a puzzle. Holland dispatches have claimed that the Germans are hurrying their boy recruits and old men to the front, and that trainloads of the veterans who have been fighting the allies are being withdrawn and hurried eastward to confront the victorious Russians in East Prussia and Silesia. Contrary reports received in London say that whole corps are being hurried westward to aid in the attempt to crash through to the English channel.

The brilliant advance of Russian armies into German territory, which is looked upon by military experts in London as one of the big feats of modern warfare, continues with incredible activity. The detachment that Sunday crossed the Silesian boundary west of Kalicz has made further progress between Breslau and Posen, and has destroyed the German railway which has formed one of the lines of communication of General Rennencamp's retreating army.

An official statement from the German war office says a Russian force was repulsed north of Lake Wysztytan, which is directly on the East Prussian frontier, about fifteen miles south of Wirballen. This is the first admission from Berlin that the Russians are operating so far to the westward. These reported "defeats" of the Russians have lately been followed by the sudden appearance of the "defeated" a few miles nearer German territory.

Eighteen days ago the Russian armies stood at the river Vistula from Warsaw to Ivangorod, and were just gathering momentum for a pursuit of the beaten Germans. In those eighteen days Grand Duke Nicholas has driven them more than 150 miles.

It appears that the German troops in the north, centre and south had no time to pause at the outer defenses of the German frontier and prepare to block the Russians from a counter invasion. The Thorn-Kalicz-Czenstachova line, prepared long in advance, and relied upon to stop Russia short, has been of no value.

CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS

Kitchener Says British Empire Is Fighting For Its Existence

Scenes of extraordinary enthusiasm were witnessed at the Guildhall at London on the occasion of the inaugural banquet of the new lord mayor of London, Sir Charles Johnston.

Added interest attached to the gathering by reason of the special circumstances of the times and the presence of the principal ministers of the crown responsible for the conduct of the war and the diplomatic representatives of the allied nations.

Confidence in the ultimate success of the allied arms was expressed by Earl Kitchener, who pointed out the great issue at stake, the advantage possessed by the allies in men and material, and in "that wonderful spirit which has never understood the meaning of defeat."

Lord Kitchener praised the territorials, "the glorious French army," the brilliant leadership of Grand Duke Nicholas, the "splendid deeds of the gallant Belgian army" and the gallantry of the Japanese forces. Continuing, Kitchener said:

"The British empire is now fighting for its existence. I want every citizen to understand this cardinal fact, for only from a clear conception of the great importance of the issue at stake can come the great national moral impulse, without which the government's war ministers, or even their navies, do but little.

"The progress in the military training of those who already have enlisted is most remarkable, and the country may well be proud of them, but I shall want more men and still more until the enemy is crushed."

ENTHUSIASM FOR WALL

Given a Reception by Neighbors at Houghs Neck

The best attended and most enthusiastic meeting ever held in Houghs Neck occurred at the grand reception tendered Mayoralty candidate James E. Wall at the Sea Street Theatre Monday evening. All available seats in the hall were taken and long before the meeting opened standing room was at a premium. Over twenty speakers from the different wards of the city made addresses on the municipal campaign. Equalization of expenditures, lower taxes, better streets, and a wide-awake, busier Quincy were the key notes of the speakers.

Candidate Wall in his clear, concise and businesslike manner, free from all rhetorical display, outlined his ideas on municipal government and the needs of Quincy in particular. It was most apparent that Mr. Wall had made a deep study of existing conditions, and the methods by which he intended to remedy the situation made a deep impression on his hearers. He dwelt upon the necessity of all doing their part in assuming the burdens of government, and that the taxes should be so assessed that the burden would fall where it belonged, on those who could well afford to assume it, rather than on the small individual property owner and rent payer who now is compelled to stand a far greater share than he could afford.

Mr. Wall showed how Quincy could be developed into a large manufacturing city and thousands of dollars of taxable property brought here. Quincy only needs an awakening to her opportunities to enable her to take her proper place among the cities of the nation. He felt that immedate action should be paid to the needs of the younger school children and that a method should be devised to permit them a full day's schooling instead of half a day as at present. In conclusion he promised, if elected, an economical, businesslike, progressive administration and a square deal to all.

Other speakers included W. E. Robinson, Councilman Carl E. Carlson, ex-Senator Morrison, W. L. Murdock, Daniel Driscoll, David McIntosh, Niel McDonald, Arthur L. Thomas, Albert C. Marr, John A. Mahoney, James H. Hagan, T. A. Winsloe, and Professor Apted of Harvard University. E. T. Kimball presided.

Mr. Driscoll said he would reply to the "Ananias" attack upon him by Mr. Stinson. Mr. Driscoll had the latest voting lists prepared by the Board of Registrars and convinced his hearers that he was not mistaken when he remarked at a previous rally that Mr. Stinson was not a voter of Quincy. It appeared from the records that it is only within a few days that Mr. Stinson had become a registered voter of the city.

Arthur L. Thomas showed from the Assessors' reports the amount of taxes assessed in Houghs Neck and the amount paid in taxes into the City Treasurer by residents of Hough's Neck. His remarks made a profound impression on all present, as few indeed were aware of the great amount so paid into the city treasury.

The other speakers dwelt upon the needs of Houghs Neck the apparent indifference of a great many residents to the possibilities of this charming seaside resort, and the call for the expenditure of a fair share of the city's money on that section.

Vocal and instrumental selections were rendered during the evening by the following well known artists: Ecker Brothers, William E. McDevitt, and James Cahill.

Just before adjournment the chairman requested all those present who were going to support and vote for Mr. Wall for Mayor to raise their hand. Instantly every hand in the theatre was raised.

The meeting closed with the singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee" and the "Star Spangled Banner."

NEW BOULEVARD TO BOSTON

Will Connect With Columbia Road at Crescent Ave.

A slight change has been made in the boulevard route between Boston and Quincy and after a trip over the proposed strandway Mayor Curley of Boston has decided to eliminate the bridge.

The route will now follow Old Colony avenue, extending under the bridge at Columbia road, and becoming part of the new boulevard. This will do away with the necessity of a bridge and save $50,000 which will be expended on improvements along the boulevard. All the land needed for the boulevard has been obtained and the Metropolitan Park Commissioners are ready to file their plans in two weeks for the City Council to pass upon, before accepting the act authorizing the boulevard's construction at a cost of $450,000.

The Commission has obtained land at Quincy, the Mayor announced, which will permit of two different connections, one with Blue Hill reservation road and the other to connect in the vicinity of Quincy square, with the boulevard to Nantasket and the South Shore, making one complete boulevard from South Boston at City Point to Nantasket, probably one of the most remarkable of its kind, and one that the Mayor thinks will be more popular than the North Shore drive. The plans call for a new bridge over the Neponset river at Neponset which will bring the cost of whole thing about $750,000.

OF INTEREST TO QUINCY LADIES.

The Granite Shoe Co., have won another distinction in the way of a new ladies' shoe, called the "Health Insurance shoe." The uppers and middle are made of finest selected kid and calf stock, and the soles (the big feature) are made of a mixture of pure gum rubber and leather compound that makes them absolutely waterproof; that is, you can be on your feet all day on wet and snowy sidewalks, and your feet will be perfectly dry. The shoe itself is made in the height of style and comfort has not been forgotten. Quincy ladies would do well to drop into the Granite Shoe Store and see the shoe for themselves. This is just another instance of the progressive business methods of the Granite Shoe Co.

Siegel Making Fight to Escape With Light Fine

STORY OF GREAT FAILURE

Crash Involved Tying Up of $11,000,000 and Swept Away Savings of Fifteen Thousand Depositors, Leaving a Pitiable Trail of Misery and Suffering In New York

Geneseo, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Henry Siegel, one-time merchant prince and head of the former Siegel system of department stores, went to trial here before Supreme Court Justice Clark on a charge of grand larceny.

Siegel, with his former partner, Frank E. Vogel, was indicted on fourteen counts, following the collapse of his stores representing a loss of approximately $2,250,000.

Vogel died suddenly a few weeks ago. Following the pleading to the indictments Siegel and Vogel were liberated on $25,000 bail. It is now probable that under a law recently enacted Siegel may go free on the payment of a $500 fine, or a year in jail, or both if the court so rules.

More unconcerned apparently than any one directly connected with the trial, Siegel declared that he would not only be acquitted, but would rehabilitate himself in the business world, pay his creditors in full, and was looking forward to the trial with "real enjoyment." He attributed a part of his present difficulties to his wife, but did not go into details in speaking of that.

Attorney Stanchfield headed the array of counsel for the defense. Assistant District Attorneys Embree and Train appeared for the state. District Attorney Whitman announced after being elected governor he could not ethically appear in a case that might later come before him as governor.

When Clark adjourned court four of the jurors had been selected who will determine whether Siegel was guilty of a criminal act in the conduct of his New York business. Three of the four jurors are farmers. Each admitted having read about the Siegel-Vogel transactions.

The crash of the Siegel interests in Boston and New York, involving the tying up of $11,000,000, came Dec. 29, 1913. Fifteen thousand depositors, the majority of whom were employes, had entrusted their savings to the bank conducted by Siegel and Vogel. Not only were the savings swept away, but the sick fund benefit as well. Into this each employe had been compelled to pay a certain sum each month.

There were severe individual losses among the employes of the Siegel store of this city. Office managers, bundle girls and bootblacks alike lost their life savings.

There was great excitement and almost hysteria when the employes found their money had been swallowed up in the failure. In New York, some of the saleswomen threatened to loot the stores, while others stood about and shouted that Siegel and Vogel should be made away with.

No bank or mercantile failure in Greater New York left a more pitiable trail of suffering and misery among small depositors than the collapse of the "house of Siegel."

Siegel had a meteoric rise. In 1867 he was working for $3.50 a week as clerk in a clothing store. In 1887 he established a department store in Chicago. He first came east in 1896, when he established a store in New York. Within a few years he was rated as several times a millionaire.

His first wife died before he came east. In 1896 Mrs. George M. Wilde, widow of Rear Admiral Wilde, U. S. N., then a society reporter on a New York paper, met Siegel. A few months later the merchant married her.

They plunged into society here and abroad. It was to pay for these incursions into society of two continents, according to the prosecution, that Siegel "borrowed" from his private bank without giving other security than stock in one of his stores.

Last of New Haven Directors Enter Pleas of Not Guilty

New York, Nov. 10.—Charles F. Brooker and James S. Elton, last to plead of the twenty-one New Haven directors and former directors indicted on charges of conspiracy, appeared in the federal district court and entered pleas of not guilty.

They were given until Nov. 23 to demur to the indictment or withdraw the pleas, and were released under $5000 bond each.

Execution Rate Is Cut

Boston, Nov. 10.—Edwin B. Currier, who has collected about $4500 from the commonwealth for officiating at executions at the state prison, has notified Warden Allen that he has reduced his price per execution from $250 to $150.

Washington, Nov. 10.—The body of Lieutenant General Adna R. Chaffee was buried in Arlington National cemetery with the full honors of his rank.

WOMEN'S PAPER IN DEMAND

May Possibly Sell at a Premium on Thursday

It is possible that the Kings Daughters edition of the Daily Ledger tomorrow may sell at a premium on Thursday, for Unity Circle is greatly encouraged by the signed advanced orders which they have received.

Already over 3,000 orders have been taken, and the cash in most cases paid. This is in addition to the 3,200 usually sold. Several of the members have sold over 100 Ledgers each, and orders have come from far and near.

One lady sent $5 for a single copy, and the Kings Daughters expect to receive 10 and 25 cents for several copies. And the edition is worth it, too. It is in three parts,—a total of 18 pages and richly illustrated. An edition of 10,000 will be printed.

The table of contents:

PAGE ONE,—Pictures of the Editors and Board of Managers, article on "Equal Suffrage and the World Peace" by Elizabeth Glendower Evans; "The Women of California," by Miss Mary E. Fletcher, formerly of Quincy; "An Ancient Ballad of the Assessors," by Mrs. Geoffry Chaucer; "Epilogue on Mayors" by "A," and squibs.

PAGE TWO,—Editorial page, Editorial on "Our Paper;" also "History of Unity Circle of King's Daughters," by Addie L. T. Abele; illustrated article on "A Day at Pond Home for the Aged" by Mrs. Irene Chipman Tirrell, and photo of Mrs. A. H. Evans, president of International Order King's Daughters and Sons.

PAGE THREE,—"Out of Door" page with articles on "Bird Life in Winter," by Mrs. Mabel A. Pfaffmann; "Winter Gardening," by Fannie Fisher French; "A First Summer With Bees," by Florence J. Sargent; "Rose Culture," by Harriet Perkins Guy.

PAGE FOUR,—"The Order of King's Daughters," by Miss Susan R. Brockenshire; "Gordon Rest," by Mrs. M. Wheatie Farley; "Greetings From Whatsoever Circle," by Mary G. Taylor; "Greetings from Golden Rule Circle," by Florence E. Earle; "County Greetings," by Mary M. Sawtelle; "Red Cross Work in Milton"; "Greetings from Former Leaders." Picture of Margaret Bottome.

PAGE FIVE,—"Glimpses of the World" page: "Riviera," by Mrs. Elizabeth H. Alden; "Attractions of California," with illustrations by Fanny M. Shepard.

PAGE SIX,—"At Home and Abroad" page: with articles on "Old Cape Cod, Massachusetts," by Henrietta F. Doble; "Fair Melrose and Abbotsford," by Alice G. Ropes.

PAGGE SEVEN,—WOMEN'S CLUB page: "The Quincy Women's Club" by Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith, illustrated; Club Life in Quincy; Young Women's Club of Quincy by Minnie Packard; Riverside Club; Women's City Club of Boston, by Helen Storrow; "Who Are the King's Daughters" by Mrs. Helen M. Dean; The Quincy Federation of Women's Club, by Alice Haynes Marsh; "To The King's Daughters," by M. S. Kingman; Ilustration of Mrs. M. Wheatie Farley.

PAGE NINE,— Childen's Page: "The Golden Flower of Happiness," by Miss Ella F. Packard; Cildren's Sayings; "Little Cousin," by Irene Chipman Tirrell; "Rock-A-Bye Song," by Irene Chipman Tirrell; "The Municipal Christmas Tree," by Mrs. T. A. R. Kitson; "Stray Thoughts."

Pages 14 to 18 inclusive will have the news of the day and several special Kings Daughters articles crowded out of the first two sections.

CARD OF THANKS.

According to the recount of the votes cast for the office of Representative to the General Court, Fifth Norfolk District, it appears that Charles A. Ericson has been elected by a majority of two votes.

I therefore extend my congratulations to the successful candidate and I trust that he will find it a pleasure to serve the people of the district as has been my experience during the past two years.

I wish to thank the citizens of the district, of all parties, who stood by me during the campaign and I assure them that the memory of their loyal support will be cherished as a fond memory by your humble servant.

Michael T. Sullivan.

NUMEROUS EXECUTIONS

Turks Who Express Anti-Government Views Are Punished

There is great anxiety in Turkish governmental circles regarding the attitude of certain groups of the people of Constantinople. An evidence of this is found in the activity of the military courts.

The Constantinople police maintain a close surveillance over the population and any one expressing anti-government views is immediately arrested and court martialed. A considerable number of public executions have taken place in the last few days.

TRANSPORTS IN READINESS

Japan Said to Have an Army to Offset Action of Turkey

Fifty transports are coaled and lying in readiness in Yokosuka harbor. It is understood that these ships are to convey the advance guard of the Japanese army to Europe via the Indian ocean and the Suez canal.

The forces of Nippon, it is believed, are to be used by the allies in Egypt and in the Ottoman empire to offset the action of the Turks. Twelve warships are anchored in Yokosuka harbor, and a still larger fleet is lying at anchor off Nagasaki.

VOTERS SHOULD RALLY

ablest men the city can find to legislate on the many important matters that must surely come before that body next year.

Mr. Whiton has served the city many years both as Councilman at Large and as Councilman from Ward Two and Ward One. He has never hesitated to freely express his opinion on any question, and is recognized as one of the ablest men the City Council has ever had. For the past two years he has occupied the position of President of the City Council, and he has been readily recognized not only as an able presiding officer but absolutely fair and impartial in all of his rulings.

Upon the death of Mayor Miller, under the provisions of the City Charter, he became Acting Mayor. He took hold of the perpexing and manifold duties of this office with the same zest that he has always manifested in anything he has entered into. Although coming at a season of the year when his private busines demanded much of his time, he readily sacrificed his own business and has given to the city the greater part of his time since then.

While performing the duties of Mayor, where he has shown the same ability that has characterized him as a member of the City Council, he has fought shy of politics, but after office hours and when on the stump in the interest of the man whom he thinks best fitted to administer the affairs of the city next year, he has, as usual, been outspoken in his ideas and has not hesitated to say just what he thinks.

Such characteristics in any man are to be admired and it is not believed for a minute that the voters of Ward One will sacrifice a good man seeking nomination, simply to help disgruntled persons to get personal revenge.

TILDEN RALLY AT WOLLASTON

Man of Experience They Say is Necessary

Henry F. Tilden closed his campaign by a grand rally in Brasee's hall Wollaston, where the speakers were ex-Mayor Eugene R. Stone, Mayor Joseph L. Whiton and Candidate Tilden.

Both ex-Mayor Stone and Mayor Whiton told again of the great need there was of having a business man as Mayor next year. Quincy was a fast growing municipality, and the time had come when it was necessary that the Mayor, whoever he might be, should give his entire time to the duties of the office.

A few years ago a Mayor could spend an hour or two in his office in the morning and that would be sufficient. Now, however, there were things that were constantly coming up that required the Mayor's personal attention, and he should be on duty all of the time. Then it would be a good thing for the city if the Mayor should go about and see for himself just how things were going. In Mr. Tilden we have a man who not only knows how to conduct the affairs of the city on a business and economical basis, but who will give the timed needed and will be on the job early and late.

Mr. Tilden told of the way the cards had been removed from the stores in Wollaston. He also told of his past experience in City Hall, and promised if nominated and elected to give the city the best there was in him. He knew what it was absolutely impossible for any man to enter City Hall as Mayor who had not had one day's experience in the conduct of city affairs, and make a success of it. There were new things coming up every day, and new conditions. It was absolutely necessary for the welfare of the city that there should be a Mayor next year who was familiar with city business. That there was need of some revision in valuations was too well known to need repeating. No man could promise that the tax rate next year should be a certain sum and deliver the goods. It was absolutely impossible, and anyone who believed such statements could not have a clear understanding of the laws that governed taxation and the fixing of tax rates.

He, however, promised if nominated and elected that he would select men for the office of Assessors who would give the matter of valuations the careful attention that all admit is now needed.

JOHNSON IN SEVERAL WARDS

Much Pleased With the Enthusiasm Shown

Charles H. Johnson in his tour of the city Monday night was enthusiastly received in every ward. First he spoke at a barn rally at the residence of Freeman W. Grant in the Quincy Point ward. As he was speaking at Doble's corner the Campbell parade wentby, and he stopped to allow it to pass, taking off his hat to the ladies in the car.

At Wollaston he was repeatedly interrupted by a crowd of boys, until he told them this was a free country and that he had been in Quincy before they were born, and that he and every other citizen were entitled to respect.

Mr. Johnson said this morning that he was more than pleased with the result of Monday night's trip, and that he felt confident of being nominated.

SHIPYARD BOWLING

The Fore River league bowlers flirted with triples in the matches at the Coliseum alleys Monday night but all failed to attain them. Tirrell came the closest with 296, boosted with a single of 115, high single of the evening. Smith got 112 and Bliss 108 and 106.

The Machine Gallery and Blacksmiths divided the points. The latter took the first by 13 and lost the second by 40 while they took the third by two. The totals however gave the big end to the Gallery.

PRINCE OF WALES FUND.

Several of the fraternal organizations in this city are doing what they can to raise money by subscription and otherwise for the benefit of the Prince of Wales fund, which has for its purpose the helping of those that are in need because of the terrible war now waging in Europe. Clan MacGregor, Order of Scottish Clans, and Granite Lodge, Order Sons of St. George, are taking up subscriptions for this very worthy cause.

The Loyal Ladies of Clan MacGregor are to hold a whist party on Tuesday, November 10, at Clan MacGregor hall, the income from which is to be added to the fund. The whist party will commence immediately after the regular meeting which is to be called rather earlier than usual.

SCHOOL SOCCER CHAMPIONSHIP

First Game of Series at the Park Tomorrow

The first of the series of games to determine the grammar school soccer championship will be played at Merrymount park after school Wednesday afternoon between Washington and Coddington schools, leaders of their respective leagues.

The Washington brought their season to a close a week ago without a defeat. The Coddington played their last game Monday afternoon, defeating Massachusetts Fields school 3 to 0. Coddington has won five and lost one game.

Preparations are being made to accommodate the largest crowd of children that ever gathered at a grammar school game and Dr. J. Gardner Smith, physical director of the school and James Perkins and Thomas B. Pollard, principals of the warring schools, will be in charge of the side line rooters.

In a special match at the Wardwell alleys Monday evening, a team captained by Hey beat a team led by LaVelles, 1238 to 1236. J. McLoud got high single, 117. The totals:

Hey	401	418	419	1238
LaVelles	397	400	439	1236

STREET RAILWAY TO ARBITRATE

Considerable progress has been made in the adjustment of the impending labor disagreement between the Bay State Street Railway and its employees and with the acceptance by both of the new working agreements no time was lost in the appointment of men to arbitrate the wage question.

James H. Vahey of Watertown has been chosen to represent the employees and Henry E. Reynolds of Braintree, assistant general manager of the road, the company.

Both are now considering the third man.

SPORT NEWS

Capt. Paul Larkin of the Quincy High school, considered one of the best ends in football circles, will probably be chosen by the sporting editors of the metropolitan papers as an interscholastic end. His work on the gridiron has been carefully watched all season and beyond question he is the star of the local team. His tackling, clean but sure, his ability to get away with the ball, his receiving of forward passes, his genuine leadership and the spirit of victory he communicates to the players marks him as one of the best men who ever wore a Q. H. S. uniform. Larkin graduates this year and his place will in all probability be filled by Hamlin, who with Larkin has made the team at times appear as though it was a two man combination. Capt. Larkin on entering High school lost no time in getting into athletics, and in his sophomore year gave indications of his prowess. Last year he made good in every department and this year his work has been exceptional. He is not only popular, because he can uphold the reputation of the school in sports, but because he is a natural leader. He has been signally honored during his senior year, being captain of the baseball and football teams.

The Wardwell alleys the past week have been the lanes on which all the records of the city have been broken. On Saturday evening Chester Moyle, an 18 years old South Quincy boy, got a single of 153, and smashed all individual records outside of competition made this season. Dr. J. P. Murphy, while rolling with the Elks league Thursday night got a single of 135, establishing a new league single record for the city. Through the error of a clerk at the alleys, Hanson, in the scores published in the Daily Ledger, was credited with a string of 135 on the same night, but an examination of the sheet shows that Dr. Murphy alone reached that figure. None have endangered the single woman's record of 118 made recently by Mrs. Florence Moran, which is said to be one better than the record held by a Waltham girl. Mrs. Moran's record was not official however. Mrs. Gretchen Elcock secured the award for the highest string last week by getting a single of 102.

REGISTRATION

CITY OF QUINCY

For the purpose of correcting the annual Register of Voters and of receiving evidence of qualifications from persons claiming a right to vote at the coming City Election, the Board of Registrars of Voters will be in session in the Council Chamber in the City Hall building on the evenings of

THURSDAY, Nov. 5 and SATURDAY Nov. 7 from 7.30 to 9 o'clock, also on WEDNESDAY, Nov. 11, from 12 M. to 10 o'clock P. M. which will be the final session before the City Election.

Every applicant for registration must appear in person before the Board. Every male applicant must present either a certificate from the Assessors, or a Tax bill or notice from the Collector of Taxes, showing that he has been assessed a Poll Tax as a resident of the city on the first day of April last, or a certificate from the Assessors that he became a resident of the city prior to June 1, 1914. If a naturalized citizen, he must produce for inspection his papers of naturalization.

Persons who have lived in the State one year and in the city six months previous to December 1, if qualified in other respects can be registered.

No names can be added to the registers except the names of voters examined as to their qualifications between the thirtieth day of April last and the close of registration on Wednesday, Nov. 11, at 10 o'clock P. M. The board of Assessors will be in session at their office during the same hours.

STATE BOARD IS DISINFECTING

Earnest Efforts to Stamp Out Foot and Mouth Disease

CATTLE SALES ARE BARRED

Epidemic May Lead to Higher Prices For Milk and Beef—Nearly 45,000,000 Cattle Affected by Quarantine In Various States—Farmers Urged to Aid Authorities

Boston, Nov. 10.—Disinfection of the cattle centres in Massachusetts on account of the foot and mouth disease has begun. The stockyards at Watertown, Brighton and Somerville will be treated, as well as all conveyances in which cattle have been shipped and private premises where the disease has been discovered.

Dr. Walker, state commissioner of the bureau of animal industry, announced that no new centres of infection from the foot and mouth disease had been discovered in Massachusetts since Saturday.

As soon as the United States and Massachusetts authorities can reach an agreement as to the amount of compensation to be paid owners of infected cattle the work of disposing of these cattle will be started and probably by the end of the week all infected cattle in the state will have been killed. The federal government and the state will each bear a proportion of the compensation, yet to be agreed upon.

Higher prices in milk and beef are likely to be asked of the consumer as the result of the epidemic, as it is estimated that nearly 45,000,000 cattle, valued at about $900,000,000, are affected by the quarantine, which is now in force in ten other states beside Massachusetts.

Unless the disease in this state is checked through the authority vested in Walker by Governor Walsh and the executive council, it may be necessary to wage a war of extermination against pigeons, fowl, dogs and cats in infected areas, as all domestic animals are carriers of the disease. At present there is an order in force which keeps dogs and cats on infected premises tied up.

With the strict quarantine against cattle shipments into or out of the state, Walker says that he believes his department will now be able to cope with the situation if the farmers will do their part. He urges that cattle be watched closely for symptoms of the foot and mouth disease, and that the discovery of cases be reported at once to the state authorities.

Cattle dealers all over the state have been instrusted to cancel auctions of live stock. All cattle recently sold or auctioned have been placed under strict quarantine for a period of ten days. This order holds in quarantine 200 cattle sold at auction at Worcester last week and 170 head sold at auction at Sunderland.

It is charged that nearly 100 different sales of cattle were made at the Brighton yard after the arrival of the infected cattle. Twelve hundred sales have been made in the past two weeks. All the sales will be traced and the cattle carefullly examined.

BUMPER GRAIN CROPS

Yield, Quality and Prices Compared With Those of Last Year

Washington, Nov. 10.—Yields of important crops were estimated as follows:

Corn—Yield per acre 1914, 25.8 bushels; last year 23.1; total production, 2,705,692,000; last year, 2,446,988,000; quality, 1914, 85.1; last year, 82.2; price, Nov. 1, 69.7 cents per bushel; last year, 70.7.

Wheat—Yield per acre, 16.7 bushels; last year, 15.2; total production, (preliminary estimate) 891,950,000 bushels; last year, 763,280,000; quality, this year, 89.7; last year, 93.2; price, Nov. 1, 96.2 cents; last year, 77 cents.

VALUE OF FIRE DRILL

Hundreds of Children March to Safety From Burning School

Waterbury, Conn., Nov. 10.—Fire broke out in the Mulcahy school here while 400 children were at recitations.

Despite the fact that smoke was pouring from the ventilator shafts, the pupils, responding to the school bell for fire drill, marched out of the building in perfect order, none being injured.

The greater part of the structure was destroyed. The loss is about $35,000.

Autoist Killed Under Car

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 10.—James O'Neil was killed and James Sweeney seriously injured when the auto in which they were riding along the Lowell boulevard tourned turtle and pinned them under the car.

Canada Asked For More Men

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—Earl Kitchener, British secretary of war, has asked Canada to furnish 100,000 men for the war against Germany.

Killed as Derrick Collapses

Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 7.—While Chester Allen was riding a girder that a derrick was hoisting to the third story of a building here the derrick collapsed, he fell and was killed.

MORE ARRESTS EXPECTED

Illegal Operation Killed Miss Sullivan, but Blame Is Not Fixed

Houlton, Me., Nov. 10.—Before the arraignment of Dr. Lionel Dudley and the others who are held in connection with the death of Miss Mildred Sullivan, it is expected that two more arrests will be made.

A coroner's jury reported that the girl's death was due to an illegal operation, but it did not fix the blame. The body was brought to Houlton from Presque Isle.

The funeral was held from the Sullivan home. Rev. J. L. Hess, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiated and burial was in the Evergreen cemetery.

On the train that brought the body to Houlton rode Ambrose Bridge, Mildred Sullivan's sweetheart. He presented a picture of utter dejection.

BIGAMY AND NON-SUPPORT

Charges Upon Which Former United States Marshal Is Held

Boston, Nov. 10.—Accused of bigamy and non-support, former United States Deputy Marshal Donald Cameron pleaded not guilty to both charges when arraigned before Judge Ahern. He was held in $1100 bail for a hearing Nov 19.

The two women who claim to be his wives were in court and sat on the same bench, though they did not speak to each other.

Cameron was arrested in his second wife's house in Lawrence. The second Mrs. Cameron was put under bonds as a witness.

Cameron's arrest came as the result of the finding of Mrs. Cameron and their ten children in destitute circumstances at their home in Boston.

THINKS WILSON INDORSED

What Bryan Has to Say Concerning the Recent Election

Washington, Nov. 10.—Secretary Bryan, back at the state department after his campaigning trip west, issued a formal statement summarizing the results of the election and declaring that they could not be considered otherwise than as an indorsement of President Wilson and his policies.

Pointing to the slump of the Progressive vote as the outstanding feature of the election returns, Bryan said this had resulted in no change in the leadership of the regular Republican ranks; that Penrose and Cannon would represent their party in congress and the Progressives returning to that party would have to accept all they had protested against and more.

THINKS SULLIVAN "SALTED" $1,000,000

District Attorney Hunting For Funds of Bank Wrecker

New York, Nov. 10.—A hunt for $1,000,000 was begun in earnest by the Kings county grand jury which is investigating the actions of David A. Sullivan, Brooklyn bank wrecker, whose automobile joy rides while he was a prisoner at Sing Sing have furnished the latest morsel of scandal at the New York penitentiary.

District Attorney Cropsey, conducting the grand jury's monetary researches, is satisfied that Sullivan has "salted away" $1,000,000 of the money which was lost to hundreds of small depositors when his peculations smashed the Union Savings bank and sent Sullivan to prison for two years.

Deer Season In Bay State

Boston, Nov. 10.—The open season on deer begins Nov. 16 at sunrise and closes at sundown on the following Saturday. It is figured that open season means that about one-fifth of the deer will be killed. Moose may not be shot.

Temperance Law Upheld

Washington, Nov. 10.—An Oklahoma temperance law prohibiting persons who buy liquor outside the state from conveying it from one place to another within the state was in effect held valid by the supreme court.

City Marshal a Suicide

Eastport, Me., Nov. 10.—City Marshal William J. Wilson committed suicide by shooting in the police station. It is thought Wilson's act may have been due to a recent illness.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Edward Fitzgerald, 48, was found dead in a clump of bushes at Boston. Death was due to natural causes.

Fire of mysterious origin swept through a nine-story building of the New York Dock company at Brooklyn and did $100,000 damage.

The first real snowstorm of the winter struck northern New York and from two to three inches of snow fell.

The Emperor of Japan has donated $25,000 toward the foundation of St. Luke's international hospital at Tokio.

In the past year the sum of $954,912 has been distributed to the various mission fields of the Methodist church in foreign countries.

QUINCY ATLANTIC

At the Cabinet Meeting of the East Norfolk Christian Endeavor Union Monday night in the Memorial church about sixty of the members sat down to supper at 7 o'clock.

After the supper solos were sung by James Butler, Miss Jordine Davison and Miss Laura Churchill. Then the members went to the chapel for their business meeting.

Contributions were solicited from some of the socities for the New Christian Endeavor building, and also a contribution from the union for the Junior work.

The president asked for suggestions from the pastors to what might be done by the Christian Endeavor societies.

Several suggestions were made that would mean work and progress by the young people. One was that there might be a two weeks evangelistic campaign that would touch every society in the union, and reach many of the young people who are not in touch with church life. Another was that the Endeavorers might do much in the way of good citizenship by getting many of the unnaturalized Canadians to become citizens. These two suggestions were acted upon and will be carried out during the winter.

Twice during the meeting the Endeavorers took a few minutes recess in order to review the precessions of the mayoralty candidates. Dr. Sneath of Wollaston was chosen counselor of the union to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rev. J. A. Mathe son.

The Atlantic Improvement Association at the regular meeting in Music Hall block rescinded the vote of one month ago that the association should not invite any of the candidates for Mayor or the City Council to be the guests of the Association.

There was a lively debate on the question, as some feared that if the association should take any interest in politics that it might cause a disruption among the members but the sentiment was so strong that for hearing the candidates that those opposed to it gave in, and made the vote unanimous.

The directors will most likely call a special meeting and invite the candidates and serve lunch as they did last year.

The association also appointed a committee to find a vacant lot in the ward that could be used for the benefit of the smaller children as a playground and procure such apparatus as may be needed. The regular playground is monopolized almost wholly by large boys and men as a base ball field.

A committee was also appointed to take steps in trying to get another mail delivery a day.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Benevolent Society of the Atlantic Memorial church took the form of a thimble party, Monday afternoon. There was the usual routine of business, while all the members worked industriously for the Christmas sale. Those who came unprovided with work were furnished with work by the chairman of the apron and useful tables. The afternoon, which proved to be very interesting and of unusual cordial sociability was followed by a dainty lunch served by Mrs. Spencer Apollonio, Mrs. John Abbott, Mrs. M. F. Baker and Mrs. Herbert Beeman.

The Atlantic Shakespeare Society will hold its third meeting on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. William F. Cummings. Mrs. Cecil H. Marble is to be the chairman for the afternoon and the readings will include selections from Pericles and the study of the "Homes and Haunts of Shakespeare."

QUINCY SQUANTUM

The regular meeting of the Squantum Improvement association which was scheduled for tonight has been postponed to Thursday evening on account of the City Primaries. The meeting will be held in Community hall. A large amount of important business comes up for action.

There will be a meeting of the committee of the First Church of Squantum in the church tonight. A large attendance is expected as many matters of interest to the church are to be brought up.

A meeting of the Ladies Aid will be held in the church parlors Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hogan are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a daughter born Wednesday. She will be named Virginia.

It will be Squantum week at the Bijou Dream theater, Miss Mildred Bean niece of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bond summer residents of Squantum will play cornet solos. Miss Bean was formerly soloist of the ladies orchestra on the Plymouth steamer, and last season was soloist at Lexington park. QUINCY WOLLASTON

James E. Cahill of Wollaston, who sometime ago got the pedestrian fever, took another hike Sunday covering a distance of between 36 and 37 miles. Accompanied by a fellow worker at the Old Colony Trust Co., he left his home in Wollaston at 4.20 A. M. and walked to Fields Corner, where they arrived at 5.05. From here they took a car for Adams Square where they arrived at 6.10. Leaving there they started for Framingham via Coolidge corner, Newton, Waban, Wellesley Hills, North Natick, Framingham junction and Framingham centre, a distance of 23 miles arriving at Framingham at 12.10.

On the homeward trip they walked as far as Wellesley Hills where they took a car for Park street, where they arrived at 3.30. In all they walked 9 hours and 45 minutes, and between 36 and 37 miles and rode, about 22 miles, arriving back in Wollaston at 6 P. M.

"GROUND GRIPPER" HEALTH SHOE

REAL REASONS

1. They restore weak muscles, prevent and cure flatfoot by exercise.
2. You can walk 10 miles daily with comfort and ease.
3. 1000 Agents say, "Best Wearing Shoe in the United States."
4. Over 200 Hospitals, Colleges, Y. M. C. A. and Schools recommend and endorse them.
5. We can fit any foot, AAAAA to EE, all sizes.
6. Foot health, strength, comfort for everyone.
7. Sold in 1000 cities and towns in the United States.
8. Made in all leathers for Flatfoot-Golf, Tennis, Gymnasium, Outing and Dress.
9. Thousands of cases of foot weakness and flatfoothave been cured by the use of this shoe ONLY.

ACTUAL CURE MADE BY · GROUND · GRIPPER · SHOES

The above patient living in Springfield, Mass., was suffering with Flat Foot and Bunions, a local doctor advised her to wear "Ground Grippers." The Doctor kept a careful diagram of her foot from April 19th to July 10th and the above drawing is reproduced from his records.

This cure was sent to us by one of our leading agents and is authentic.

In so-called "flat-foot," plates of steel or other material are given, which serve as mechanical braces, which give a push or lift to neutralize a defect. Such a measure must be inefficient, not only giving no cure but at best only permanent dependence—one error neutralizing another for a time. Those who get well after the use of such plates do so because the cause of the foot collapsing is temporary and disappears. All other cases are permanently enslaved.

A tilted or twisted plate does not tilt or twist the foot; but on account of its arbitrary fixity only makes the foot try continuously to get away from it, and causes painful spasm. This leads to the question—

Why do some cases get better wearing plates?

Because, in certain cases, the feet work so hard to get away from the plates that they develop muscular power and strengthen ligaments. To get a result by this method, however is indirect and illogical. There is much work and discomfort with little result.

Casts are taken of so-called "flat-foot." Casts impress the sufferer. They have no real bearing on the treatment. Proper walking, the strengthening of the feet, the restoration of foot and balance are accomplished alone by proper shoeing, proper muscular stimulation and mental direction. Right shoeing allows one to walk rightly—it does not make one walk rightly.

Proper walking is the proper exercise for all the waking hours. Proper walking will restore the stiffened feet and every minute of proper walking helps the feet to become soft and flexible as they were in childhood. Plates and stiff shoes are made because of the belief that the foot has a fixed arch, whereas the truth is that the foot has the power of arching. The corrective arch does not restore arching, but only holds up the bones like a crutch.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE AND THE WORLD'S PEACE

By Elizabeth Glendower Evans

As psychology teaches, emotion is an engine whose function it is to generate action, while emotion that does not so issue is sterile. Hence it is important that the pity and the horror aroused by the war now raging in Europe, should be directed toward constructive activities. As one means to that end, I recommend an explicit alliance between the movement for Equal Suffrage and the movement for banishing war from the earth.

Is effort for the World's Peace a counsel of perfection? Is the cessation of organized and legalized murder, an accomplishment which must await a change in the human heart? By no means. It is a state of society within the compass of such folks as exist today, once international institutions are created to some degree similar to those already operating within every civilized land. And that is by no means an impossible undertaking. Already progress far beyond what is at all generally realized has been made toward replacing war by law. While such further steps as the limitation of armaments, an international police force and international courts of justice, long advocated by leaders of the peace movement, are suddenly looming up as practical propositions.

Moreover, in every one of the contending nations, influential groups are even now organizing peace opinion. They are urging that in the terms of settlement of this war, new grievances shall not be created which shall pave the way to fresh wars, and that methods of democratic control be provided which would prevent the government from again declaring war without reference to the will of the people. While in our own land, since the outbreak of the war, 25 so-called peace treaties have been ratified, and others are under negotiation. These treaties bind the signatory powers, during a specified period, in case of disagreements of any character, to refer them for investigation to a mutually constituted tribunal, and meanwhile to refrain from hostilities for a period of one year. These treaties, as initial steps, are sound in principle, and if lived up to and copied by other powers, would go far toward eliminating war.

Knowledge of these facts, both what has been accomplished and lost the next steps which are considered practical, if spread broadcast, would yield a mighty harvest. For institutions are not miracles. They are human devices created to meet human needs. But they become operative only when backed up by a widespread and well informed public opinion.

So here is where the opportunity of suffragists comes in. Let them become students and propagandists of the facts and the arguments which when known and understood by the multitude will bring peace down from the heavenly country and domesticate it here upon our battle scarred earth. Swords and ploughshares by Lucia Ames Mead is an exceedingly useful hand book for such use, and should be in every Suffragist's hands. Many other books as well as pamphlets and leaflets can be obtained at The World's Peace Foundation, 40 Mt. Vernon street, Boston. Membership in the Massachusetts Peace Association, 31 Beacon street, Boston, (with dues of $1.00.) will put one in co-operative touch with other workers in the cause.

While parents and teachers can get suggestions from the American School Peace League, Mrs. Fannie Fern Andrews, Sec'y., 405 Marlboro street, Boston, which will help them plant anti-war ideals in the minds of the young.

The times are ripe for the coming of peace. War is a survival of a barbaric age. It makes a mockery of religion. It is a blasphemy against God and man. The conscience of the civilized world is in revolt against it,—the conscience both of the unhappy people who through no choice of their own, are involved in its horrors, and of the neutral nations whom a similar fate will presently overtake, unless they join hands and determine to find out a better way.

Let then the women who ask the vote as a means of humanizing society, understand their opportunity. Let them become heralds and builders of the World's Peace.

AN ANCIENT BALLAD OF THE ASSESSORS

By Mrs. Geoffry Chaucer

As I stood on the highway in Quincy town
(What time the autumn leaves turn brown,)
I heard a low and sad refrain
Which swelled on the breeze and was gone again:
"Oh! mark ye well, on this fair day,
"We pay under protest, we ALL do say!"

And lo! as I looked with all my might,
A goodly company hove in sight
They'd gathered from all the Quincy towns:
From Wollaston and from Norfolk Downs,
From Quincy Centre and South and West,
From Atlantic they came with all the rest,
From Quincy Point and from fair Montclair
They slowly mustered, in City Square.
And as they gathered, I heard again
The murmur of their sad refrain:
"Oh! mark ye well, on this fair day,
"We pay under protest, we ALL do say!"
The long procession went up the street
With faces of gloom, and reluctant feet,
I called to them, with a heart-wrung cry
As their mournful figures went slowly by:
"Oh! where are ye going, ye pilgrims all?"
"To pay our taxes, at City Hall;
But mark ye well, on this fair day,
"We pay under protest, we ALL do say!"

Said one:—"I've a shanty at Quincy Point,
"T'is tumbling down, and all out of joint;
"There's a mudhole in front and another in back—
"But its value is raised, alas and alack!"
Then another:—"I live on Presidents Hill;
"In peace and contentment I dwell—until
The assessors came and with fiendish glee
"They boosted the value up, three times *three!"
The victims then entered the City Hall;
They entered the office, one and all,
Of the fear some beings who grappled in
The trembling citizen's store of "tin."

EPILOGUE ON MAYORS

By "A."

We have never heard that any heated discussions take place in the office of our City Clerk, but we can well believe it after a recent call there when we are sure the thermometer stood at 90 degrees.

That reminds us that there is said to be an excellent system of ventilation in City Hall, which lets in fresh, cool air. Is it possible that it is also to let out "hot air?"

Our genial Acting Mayor says the office is no picnic. There seem to be plenty of men anxious to go on such a picnic.

We heard some stirring music the other night and as we listened we caught the strains of "The Campbells are coming," but along with the Campbells there are evidently several others coming and each one Bates his hook and works to the full extent of his Powers. One of them is Johnson and i F e-gan to go to work the right way he might win out.

But there is an election early in December and so let us wait Til-den, and see who the candidates are who have to go to the Wall.

It sometimes seems as if the emblem of wisdom had deserted Quincy, but we can still hear its faint cry—Too-whit—Too-hoo—Too-hey.

For the taxes we pay,
For the laws we obey,
For the work of a day,
We want something to say.

We feel sorry for the woman who dares not have a flower bed in front of her house again. It was the only improvement that could have caused the $300 raise in her tax assessment.

THE WOMEN OF CALIFORNIA

By Miss Mary E. Fletcher

The Woman's Emancipation Act was signed, in California, over two years ago, and since then women are taking a greater interest in all that appertains to the welfare of the State and Nation. While woman's interest has always been paramount in all questions that tend towards the upbuilding of the home; today the California woman looks farther afield and gives thought and study to the broader questions that affect the State and Nation, and men are ready to recognize and admit that her influence is even now, in the short space of two years, a dominating factor for betterment.

While in former years woman's activities, outside of the home, were confined to social and charitable work, today in California she is identified in almost all lines of work and is especially active politically. During the present political campaign, which is now drawing to a close, we had one woman running on the Republican ticket for Lieutenant Governor and another for Superintendent of Schools. In every city in the state women have organized Political Clubs and they are officered and presided over by women, and none will gainsay that women have not learned all the tricks of the trade.

Here in the beautiful city of San Diego we have women who have won deserved success in many walks of life. At Point Loma, a suburb section of San Diego, is located the headquarters of the Universal Brotherhood of Theosophical Research, of which Katherine Tingley is the official head. In medicine we have a number of successful practitioners of all the schools. We also have, living in our midst, one of the oldest women lawyers in the United States.

A woman is in charge of our Public Library. In painting and music we also number many successful artists, and within ten miles of the city limits, on beautiful Grossmont, such notable artists as Schumann-Heink, Carreno, Gadski and Carrie Jacobs Bond own beautiful homes and when tired of their world's work they come here to rest.

Two of the most successful restaurants in San Diego are managed by women, and their success is largely due to that touch of home life they have given in their preparation of the food served to their guests In the buying and selling of real estate we have a number of successful women and many others are engaged in active business pursuits.

The founder of the Helping Hand Home, one of San Diego's most valuable charitable organizations, was founded and is managed by a woman. Women are also the leaders in our musical organizations, and our Symphony Orchestra is largely officered by them. The Society of Associated Charities is almost wholly officered by women and this is likewise true of all minor societies that have been organized for the improvement of social conditions.

At the California Panama Exposition, which is the official title for the World's Fair to be held here in San Diego during the entire year of 1915, women are taking a prominent part and are largely helping to make it the success it so justly deserves.

San Diego's most successful gardener is a woman, and she has gained a fortune in this line of work. In care of the Schumann-Heink gardens at Grossmont is a woman who formerly acted as dramatic critic of one of the most successful daily newspapers in New York state. She does all the gardening work, personally, and when that is over, writes stories for magazines or newspapers. One of San Diego's oldest banks had a woman as its first cashier and bookkeeper, and our largest department store employs a woman in the same capacity.

The question is often asked, "Will woman's emancipation and her greater mingling with men rob her of her social prestige and respect?" It certainly will not in the least, where woman is always treated with courtesy and where she is today recognized as man's equal.

OUR PAPER

The King's Daughters of Unity Circle wish to take this opportunity to thank the business and professional men and women who have so generously supported their enterprise. Were it not for the co-operation of these people whose advertisements and professional cards appear on the pages of this paper, the King's Daughters edition of the Daily Ledger would not have been possible. King's Daughters will feel in duty bound to give their patronage as far as possible, to those who have aided them, remembering that one good turn deserves another.

We wish to thank most heartily those who have so kindly contributed articles for our paper. It is a fact well worth mentioning, and one that was a great encouragement to us in the preparation of the paper that everyone who wrote for us, without exception, did so willingly and gladly. Many of our contributors are very busy women, with little spare time at their disposal, but none were too busy to extend the helping hand.

It was a distinct disappointment to the Editorial Staff of this paper not to be able to place on its pages ALL of the valuable material that was so kindly and generously sent to us. Lack of space made it impossible to include many of the contributions notwithstanding their excellence.

Dr. Sarah A. Dixon, Tewksbury, contributed one of her excellent sermons for our King's Daughters paper and the Editorial Staff regret exceedingly that lack of space made it impossible to publish it Unity Circle of King's Daughters remember with gratitude and pleasure Miss Dixon's address at our last Annual meeting and we appreciate her continued interest in us

The picture which appears on the front page was made possible through the skill of Miss Sue Rice and the courtesy of the Boston Herald.

It is unusual for a city of our size to have so many gifted women that it is possible to issue an eighteen page paper of considerable variety, gotten up wholly by women.

GENTLEMEN, HATS OFF TO THE WOMEN.

HISTORY OF UNITY CIRCLE OF KING'S DAUGHTERS

By Addie L. T. Abele

"Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity." So sang the Psalmist of old, and so a responsive "Amen" might be sounded today by the King's Daughters who have known such goodness and pleasure in Unity Circle.

In 1889 at her home on Goffe street, Mrs. T. H. Wason, assisting Mrs. M. E. Taber, organized twelve young ladies into the "Whatsoever Circle." Shortly after, the "Every Day Sunshine Circle," composed of girls in her Sunday school class, was formed by Mrs. Theophilus King, their object being to bring a bit of sunshine into the home every day.

Success and growth attended each of the above movements, and in their union, on the 13th of November, 1893, Unity Circle was born. The motto adopted was from 2nd Samuel, "Behold, thy servants are ready to do whatever my Lord, the King, shall appoint." Twenty-five were present at the first meeting.

The following year, the Sterling Ten, also organized by Mrs. King, joined Unity.

Our history might, for convenience, be divided under two heads—resources and results, or what we have had, and what we have done.

Mrs. A. H. Evans
President International Order
Kings Daughters and Sons

Members, money and many things for distribution, including clothes, books, flowers, etc., have formed our resources.

Many members have been called to their Eternal Home. We bless their memory, for each name suggests kind service and associations.

Our power for good is measured first, by the personal influence of earnest members; and second, by the money which we have gathered and given. The strenuousness of our efforts is really wearying as one reads the continuous records. On every page we read of work accomplished. We can hardly expect to always keep to the pace that was set by unfettered youth. Candy, apron, necktie, cake and pie, and Rummage sales, lawn parties, lunches and suppers; lectures, readings, concerts, dramatics and drills—all have brought good returns. Money is also procured from members by a voluntary contribution at regular meetings, and by a system of ten cent fines for absence from such meetings. We also acknowledge gifts of money from honorary members and circle friends.

So much for our resources or what we have had to do with. What have we done? At various times we have entertained the City and County Conventions. Our first reception was tendered to the Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip in 1897. Then followed a reception to our older friends, now an established custom that gives annual anticipation. Various receptions to children and mothers from Boston missions have been held at Merrymount Park. Of especial delight was a reception in 1909 in honor of Miss Amelia Bumpus, a member whose valued assistance deserves particular mention. She "put her creed into her deed and went about doing good."

The "Home for the Aged of Norfolk County," at Pondville is the prescribed county work of our organization. Much money has been given by Unity Circle. Six hundred and seventy dollars were raised for the admission of a Quincy couple into this home and other contributions enabled us to confer life membership upon one of our members.

The State work at Gordon Rest has been assisted as requested. A monthly contribution to Ingleside entitles us to representation in the corporation of this excellent charity home.

Gordon Rest at Hanson

Other outside works assisted are The Deaconess Hospital, Willard Y. Settlement, Morgan Memorial, North End Mission, Seaman's Friend Society, Floating Hospital, Emigrants Home, South End House, Deaconess Aid Society, Cheerful Letter Society, and Bethsaida Rescue Home.

Foremost in home ministration has been our general charity relief work. The adoption of a circle grandmother, in 1894, and the continuous care through her sickness and death a year and a half later, meant new responsibility, but it also meant comfortable provision for the closing months of life to one who was unfortunate and aged. More than that, it suggested the establishment of Pond Home where similar cases can now be cared for. Special charity is always dispensed at Easter, Thanksgiving and Christmas times.

It is surprising to note the growth of organization in our city since our beginning. Then only three home institutions claimed our help Bethany Church, the City Hospital and City Almshouse. In addition the Y. M. C. A., Day Nursery, Women's Club, in various departments, including the Visiting Nurses, and work for Quincy girls, the Anti-tuberculosis Society, all have offered us opportunities for regular assistance to Quincy people, through organized channels.

So many charity organizations caused an awakening to the needs of an Associated Charities. For two years we were represented in a preliminary monthly conference of charities, and when the call came Unity Circle was quick to recognize a new obligation and help support a paid secretary.

Such in brief outline has been our life and as our Circle record shows increasing growth and activity, so we trust our individual progress is marked by spiritual development and Christian service.

A DAY AT POND HOME FOR THE AGED

By Mrs. Irene Chipman Tirrell

Until I had visited the Home myself, it really meant little to me, except as I thought it a wonderfully good work; but when one has visited there, it means so much more to her that I would urge every King's Daughter who can, to visit the Home, and see for herself what this work means, and how well it is being carried forward.

The visit of which I shall tell was a happy affair, and one not difficult for many to duplicate. Mrs. Feeley of Pope's Hill and Mrs. William G. Shaw of this city, furnished automobiles for our party of nine. We started at 10.30 in the morning, taking our luncheon, and each member contributing a pound of candy which was mixed and packed in half pound boxes making a gift for each member of the Home.

It was a glorious day in early September, and our ride out into the country was delightful. On our arrival we were most graciously received by the matron, and given an opportunity to go over the home, a number of us never having seen it.

It is most attractive and homelike, both inside and out; the view from every window is beautiful, a typical country landscape of wooded slopes and meadows. Assembled in the home one finds nearly every type of woman represented. The busy housewife, still braiding rugs and knitting, at the age of 85, and proud to say she is determined to work as long as she lives; alert and cheerful as she must always have been in her own home. The dainty lady with her black dress and fine lace, graceful and gracious, as in the old days. The fastidious and fretful; the vital and life-loving; the quiet and thoughtful; the talkative and careless; the prim and careful; and in every type the touch of love for kin and friends, common to us all.

Pond Home at Pondville

Think for a moment how much tact is required to keep such a varied company happy; and they surely are happy at Pond Home I believe, for each member is allowed to please herself in as great measure as possible.

After spending a few moments in each of the rooms, we went out to the orchard, and arranged our lunch boxes, carrying over comfortable settees for those of us who could not recline gracefully, and a table to hold our goodies, for of course we had appetizing things in abundance; and, oh! it was good to be alive that day, and in such congenial company. The delicious scent of pine and brier and wild grape added zest to our feast, and it was long ere we gathered up the fragments and declared we could eat no more. Perhaps we were a little intemperate, but if so we were certainly not greatly to be blamed; everything seemed to conspire to that end.

It had been announced that we should give a parlor entertainment at 2 o'clock, and preceding that hour all the inmates who were able were taken for an auto ride around the town. Our audience assembled one by one, and when all were comfortably seated in the spacious parlor we gave our program, as arranged. It consisted of piano solos by Mrs. Feeley, songs by Mrs. Moore, and original verses by myself, and certainly we never appeared before a more appreciative audience, nor one more generous in applause; but at the end, one old lady ventured to ask rather wistfully if we couldn't play something kind of lively, like "The Old Grey Bonnet," and when told that unfortunately we hadn't the music with us, she asked, still more wistfully, if one of us couldn't play "by thought." As it happened, I could do this, and after playing the chorus over I ventured to sing it to them, greatly to their delight.

Then one begged for the "Last Rose of Summer," humming in a soft voice as I sang it for her; and after awhile Mrs. Moore and I remembered that we had once sung "Cuddle Up a Little Closer," with appropriate acting, for a company of friends, and so we sang that, without accompaniment, after which Mrs. Feeley found "Bells on His Fingers and Rings on His Toes" in her music roll, and to her spirited playing we sang this with much gesture and facial expression, making it as professional as possible.

Well, I don't think you ever saw people more pleased than those old ladies were with that bit of the "lively and up-to-date." They were no longer old people but young people, and when we closed with a round of dance music, jigs and reels, it actually brought some to their feet to step out the tunes they had danced to many a time before. This was an added amusement for the quieter ones. Every one there had enjoyed the program entirely. They said over and over again, "We have enjoyed everything; the poems were beautiful and those lovely songs and piano pieces; but oh! this last makes us feel as if we had been to the theatre. We feel ten years younger."

They followed us out to the piazza, waving good-bye to us as we came away and telling us to be sure and come again. We had made them laugh. They had laughed with us and at us, and it made us feel very near to each other.

We are all too apt to idealize the old, thinking of them as of finer mould than ourselves, living in sweet memories of by-gone days; serene, spiritual, and always interested in the highest and best. This is true, only in so far as it is true of each one of us, of the average woman.

As one young girl has aptly said, "old people are just like young people only more so,' and in taking up work for Pond Home it is a good thing to remember that the women there are as vitally alive to the spirit of the age as we are ourselves. They have with them always the memories of the old; when you can bring anything to them, bring the new.

Pond Home is indeed a refuge and shelter; the members so tenderly cared for, and the house so well conducted that a visit by any King's Daughter or interested friend is sure to add enthusiasm to the work of maintaining it.

BIRD LIFE IN WINTER

By Mrs. Mabel A. Pfaffmann

Never before has the interest in birds in this country been so widespread as it is today.

Laws both Federal and State are on the whole, the best we have ever had, and they are more effectively enforced than at any previous time.

Many plans are on foot for the establishment in various parts of the country of bird refuges or sanctuaries, and for the systematic placing of nesting-houses and feeding stations in public parks. Owners of country places small and large are endeavoring in various way to attract birds about their homes and so enjoy the fruits of their efforts. We are looking forward to the day when birds will be considered as essential a part of country life as flowers are now, when the common species at any rate will be generally known as are daisies and dandelions.

In Brookline the Forestry department has put up four hundred nesting-boxes in different parts of the town. They declare that birds must be protected and encouraged to live in the town, if the fight against the insects is to be successful. The Brookline Bird Club, acting upon an idea originating with the Milton Bird Club, gave a most successful exhibition last winter, and everything pertaining to the study, conservation and attracting of wild birds was planned. Both exhibits were held in the Public Libraries, and I see no reason why we could not have one in our library. The exhibition was open for one month and nearly four thousand people registered. The work of destructive insects, particularly the leopard moth and elm beetle, was shown, illustrating most vividly the necessity of attracting the birds to destroy these pests.

Let us take some definite action this winter towards the protection of our wild birds. Soon the ground will be frozen, the leaves and seeds gone from the trees, and the birds will need our assistance. A piece of suet or ham bone wired to the limb of a tree will attract nuthatches, both red and white breasted, downy woodpeckers and chickadees.

The ideal time to put up bird houses is during the fall or winter. All bird authorities inform us that birds do not like their home to be new, the house seeming more natural if somewhat weather beaten. Many of the birds which nest in holes use them to sleep in during the winter and are apt to use the same as nesting-boxes the following spring.

The German Berlepsch bird box resembling a natural bird home more closely than any other type of nest-box, is used exclusively by the Meriden Bird Club. I have purchased a case of Audubon bird houses made after this Berlepsch pattern in three sizes, suitable for chickadees, downy woodpeckers and flickers and the cost prices are $1.10, $1.25, and $1.35 respectively.

The Weathercock Food House I find most successful, and the one I have feeds from twenty to thirty chickadees each day all winter. It is supported by a pole and turns with the wind in such a way that the open side is always sheltered. The birds very soon become used to the swinging motion, and protected in even the hardest gale will go on feeding with little concern. The back of the food house consists of a single sheet of glass. An ordinary soap box put on its side and erected upon a pole will do, and filled with chopped nuts, peanuts, are most successful) sunflower seed and always suet, if placed within sight of a window, will help one pass away many shut in hours during the winter weather.

A very artistic, inexpensive and practical cement bird bath made by the incurable inmates of the Massachusetts General Hospital is exhibited at Cowley's at 6 Park street, Boston. Last week we saw the strange cimbination of a squirrel, robin and bluejay, all perched upon the edge of our bird bath.

I wish more teachers of our public schools would avail themselves of the privilege they and the school children can have, by joining the Junior Audubon classes. Each pupil to pay a fee of ten cents each year, and when ten or more have paid their fee the pupils will receive the Blue Bird button, and the teachers a set of colored bird pictures and the splendid magazine, "Bird Lore."

Often, when we suggest to our friends they feed the birds in the winter, they say. "Why, we always feed the sparrows." We discourage that, and quote the U. S. Agricultural department's statement that sparrows are dirty and obnoxious, and scare away our native wild birds, and tell us how to trap them and even eat them. The English sparrow is an importation, and adds nothing to our pleasure either by his song or his plumage, and we drive him off whenever he visits us.

For the benefit of those who have not had the time or inclination to know the birds that are here about us during the cold weather, I give a list of the permanent winter residents, as well as some irregular residents. The juncos and golden crowned kinglets have already arrived. The bluejays, flickers,, downy woodpeckers, red breasted nutthatches, while breasted nuthatches, brown creepers, chickadees and crows are with us all winter. Frequently during blizzards and intense cold the robin, purple finch, meadow lark and gold finch, visit our garden for food. Later, flocks of cedar waxwings will feed upon the berries left upon the shrubs, and the beautiful pine grosbeaks, red polls, crossbills, and the Northern shrike and the sparrows will be here.

The first Bird Field Day was held at Worcester under the auspices of the Massachusetts State Grange, the State Board of Agriculture and the State Audubon Society. Mr. Gregory, chairman of the State Grange, gave as his final message at Amherst during the week: "Do all in your power to attract birds to your towns and premises; establish sanctuaries and put up every year bird houses which now may be obtained cheaply, or which may be made at home. Insert on your lawn, or on public grounds, bathing places for birds (make them not more than two inches deep with sloping sides); plant shrubbery about your house and grounds the kind that bear the berries birds feed on; and when winter comes and with it the deep snow, don't forget the birds in the village as well as in the woods. Feed them often, and you will be surprised at the results your efforts will bring you. If you only strive to accomplish these results, even if you may fail in many cases, I know that you will find yourselves because of your associations with out-or-door life, better men and women, stronger to carry on life's works."

WINTER GARDENING

By Fannie Fisher French

The woman whose privilege it is to make a home, where her loved ones may grow and develop into the almost limitless possibilities life now offers, wields a power immeasurable; and wise is the woman who realizes the indefinable forces that create an atmosphere where the best impulses and aspirations may find expression.

One of the helpful influences along this line is found in the cultivation of flowers. Here we work with infinite power in creating beauty and fragrance beyond any human art.

One is much more certain of success with bulbs than with seeds or plants. Sound, healthy bulbs should be obtained from a reliable dealer. Good drainage provided, well watered when first potted, and set away in a dark, cool place, just a little above freezing temperature, and left to form roots, for several weeks, watering occasionally as needed. When the roots protrude through the hole in the bottom of the pot, they may be brought gradually to the light and warmth. After the roots show they will keep a long time in the cool dark place, so that pots may be brought forward at intervals for a succession of bloom.

The beautiful paper white Narcissi may be grown in water among stones to hold the bulbs in position. These do not need any period of darkness. In a sunny window they grow rapidly, sending up strong stalks bearing the beautiful clusters of fragrant white flowers. Half a dozen of these bulbs together in one dish make a fine show at small expense.

Hyacinths hang out their waxen bells in a great variety of colors as well as white, and often two, sometimes three spikes of these lovely flowers follow each other in close succession from the same bulb.

Tulips are said to be more difficult for beginners to grow, yet for me they have a great charm. The Keizerkroon a variety, almost sure to succeed flaunts its glowing colors with such strength and cheer that the dullest wintry weather seems warmed and enlivened by their gayety.

And for those who delight in yellow flowers, there are the daffodils. The Van Sion with large double heads of bloom, pouring out their golden hearts like a veritable sunburst of color in riotous abandon, and their sisters, the trumpet varieties that seem to me more prim and proper, yet beautiful beyond comparison. I find daffodils may be kept back almost indefinitely but in two weeks after coming to the light, the blossoms begin to open.

These are but a few of countless varieties that are within the reach of all. Let me say also that, as in many other things, it is not always the highest priced bulbs that give the best results.

A FIRST SUMMER WITH BEES

By Florence J. Sargent

Instructor of the Misses Shapley's school, Bryn Mawr, Penn.

If my limited experience with bees had not been a choice pleasure and, as a recreation at least, most profitable, I should hesitate to write of it lest a guileless follower suffer from my little knowledge; but if one loves nature and nature's children, she is sure to find as I did that a summer with bees is a delight to be continued.

Late in June I became the proud owner of a bee-hive, heavy, as the seller assured me, with a colony likely soon to swarm. I had not reckoned upon that as an immediate possibility, and had at hand as my equipment, for the first season, only a second hive-body with frames filled with wired foundations, a shallow super with frames of half inch starter foundations, and of course, the inevitable hive tools, smoker, veil and gloves.

I had been advised to give the bees two days to become accustomed to their new surroundings before opening the hive. During that forty-eight hours they conducted themselves in a way to deepen my anxiety. Only a few workers were flying in and out, one of the signs of near swarming.

When, however, I opened the hive and lifted out one frame after another, I found that I had nothing to fear. Evidently a swarm had left the hive shortly before I received it There was a little honey in each frame but no sign of eggs or larval nor any one frame that was thickly covered with bees. All I had heard of foul brood, bee paralysis and other diseases recurred to my mind. I found the queen—one needs no previous experience nor book instruction to recognize her graceful, slender body—but was only partly reassured.

A second examination several days later discovered eggs in abundance and each visit after that disclosed eggs, larval and newly hatched bees, all gray and furry from their tightly screened cradles.

Early in July, as they rapidly increased in numbers, I placed the shallow super on the hive body and soon found the comb drawn out and honey beginning to be stored. Nothing can be prettier than the freshly made comb with its contents of liquid amber:—nothing more engrossing than to sit beside the hive watching the workers come freighted with honey or yellow pollen, and go out with such hurrying, eager haste, that one feels she ought to be ashamed to sit idle in the face of such tireless energy; nor can anything be more satisfying than to take off the honey, as I did the latter part of August, thirty pounds of it.

As I had used extracting frames instead of pound sections, I cut up the comb into chunks and sealed it in preserve jars.

It was only when I removed the honey that I felt the bee's sharp weapon of defense. I was awkward and heated, two conditions that they resent, and they were justified in their attempt to punish the robber of their stores. But after all the sting is only a momentary prick followed, after an application of peroxide, by a swelling and feeling of lameness the second day. The third day the discomfort has quite gone. There is no reason why one should be stung on the face or neck, if the veil is carefully put on.

During September the bees were fed a syrup of equal parts of granulated sugar and water, about ten pounds of sugar in all. It is almost unbelievable that they will store away over three quarts of syrup in a night, leaving the pan with its excelsior float perfectly dry. As an additional precaution against winter famine they have a feeder full of bee candy, a delicacy for which they have an especial fondness.

Now that the season is over I consider that it was my good fortune to have had a weak colony with which to work the first season. I became accustomed to handling them when to do so was comparatively simple because of the small number, and I could watch with greater ease and interest their growth and increase.

Practically all the drones driven out, workers and their queen will soon be snug in their winter hive-box, well protected with excelsior cushions:—and I shall look for these to welcome, with quivering wings, the first crocus blossoms next spring.

ROSE CULTURE.

By Harriet Perkins Guy.

Roses are divided into three parts; the early roses, which are the Persian yellow, a low rose, American climber and a few others which we need not mention. The next class of roses consist of different kinds of ramblers, red, white, blue, yellow, pink and white; among these are the Dorothy Perkins, Lady Gays and the Farragut. All these are hardy, but blossom but once during the season.

Then comes the Thousand Beauties which blossom all the summer into late fall. Next comes the hardy standard roses, which blossom in the early summer. As there are three thousand of these roses, our paper will not allow us to name them all. The Jack and the June will blossom several times during the season.

Now we come to the low, hardy roses which blossom all through the season. Among the best of these are the Baby ramblers. The hardy Hasting's rose was the favorite of Queen Alexandra of England. The English sweet brier is very popular among the English people.

All roses excepting climbers should be cut down within eight inches of the ground. All require very rich soil. All ever-blooming roses should be fed with fertilizer the first of August. Roses which are half hardy should be covered during the winter.

THE ORDER OF KING'S DAUGHTERS

By Miss Susan R. Brockenshire.

Not all of our readers know, perhaps, that this Order of The Kings Daughters and Sons, was the result of the coming together, January 13, 1886, of just ten Christian women, that they might grow more Christlike; might help others so to grow, and then lend a helping hand.

From those who so met, Mrs. Margaret Bottome was chosen president, and Mrs. Mary Lowe Dickinson, general-secretary and treasurer, and to the hour of their passing on they served the Order with loyal hearts and ready hands, giving of their best to all phases of the work.

Wonderfully they led us, to work undreamed of until the little Silver Cross, the order's badge is worn in every country in our world. No words can tell what we owe these pioneers, and while it gladens us to know the work so bravely begun, is to be carried loyally on, by those trained by our much-loved leaders, it saddens us to realize that not one of the first ten noble women is now on our International staff of officers.

Miss Susan R. Brokenshire. Third Vice-President of the International Order.

At the second annual convention of the Order in Detroit, last May, the burden of the work was laid upon the shoulders of younger women. Mrs. Anthony H. Evans of New York city, chosen as our president, is pre-eminently fitted for the office. Her charming magnetic personality; her seventeen years of loyal service as recording secretary of the Order, make her truly, as some one says, a link between the old and the new.

That different localities might be represented on this board of officers the vice-presidents were chosen from the larger field, viz:—First vice president, Miss Annie M. Brown, Canadian president; Second vice president, Miss Jennie C. Benedict, central council member from Kentucky; third vice president, the writer, Massachusetts State Treasurer; all women who love the Order and who will serve it to the best of their ability.

The work at New York headquarters, will still be carried on by the faithful, untiring Miss Clara Morehouse, as general secretary. West Virginia is asked to lend us Mrs. Robert J. Reed, once second vice-president of the Order, who brings all of her loyal self to the work as recording secretary.

At the Detroit convention those who had worked with our second loved president, Miss Kate Bond, and Mrs. Dickenson, felt the sad strains that were under all the glad notes of the day, when the resignations of these faithful, honored leaders were read, and it was with full hearts that it was voted to hold them to the Order; Miss Bond as honorary president for life, and Mrs. Dickenson as general secretary emeritus of the Order, and honorary editor of the Silver Cross Magazine, which she had founded and carried on through all her life.

So close to her Heavenly home, was our beautiful Mrs. Dickenson even then, that only a few days later, on June 8, she heard the Father's welcome call. Brave, sweet woman, she had served us to the end. It seemed fitting that Mrs. Dickinson's successor as treasurer, should be her niece Mrs. Kate N. Farnsworth, honored State president of New Hampshire.

On the new staff also, Mrs. R. L. McLaurin, formerly Central Council member from Vicksburg, Mississippi, is to be found as editor-in-chief of our Magazine and she would ask the hearty co-operation of all members and circles, that our magazine may be the very best.

May we as The King's Daughters so uphold the hands of our new leaders, that we shall not alone do the work that has been done, but shall go forward—as they call us—to greater works "In His Name."

Margaret Bottome

GORDON REST.

By Mrs. M. Wheatie Farley.

The state work of the King's Daughters and Sons of Massachusetts is "Gordon Rest," a vacation home for working women and girls, who cannot afford to pay a high price for board.

Through the beneficence of James Gordon, who left at his death a fund for a vacation home for working women; this beautiful place in Hanson was purchased by the New England Helping Hand Society, who had carried it on for ten years, but felt it a burden with their other work.

In July, 1897, the property was purchased by the King's Daughters of Massachusetts and remodelled, accommodating fifty people. In 1903 an adjoining cottage and twelve acres of land were added, increasing accommodations for twenty more, and providing an excellent garden and woodlot.

A small price is charged for board, and the circles in the State are asked for yearly contributions toward its support.

Circle and friends knowing those who need the rest and quiet of the Home, but cannot afford to pay even the small price asked, are glad to send them to us for a few weeks, meeting all expenses.

Nearly all the rooms are furnished and cared for by Circles and Counties, thus leaving us free to reach more who need us. No one able to pay over four dollars per week is entitled to come to the Home.

We are always glad to have the King's Daughters visit us, and we find that it adds greatly to the enthusiasm of a Circle to have a member spend a few days with us. Our doors are open from June first to the middle of September, and during that time, about two hundred people find health and recreation.

We need the help of every King's Daughter in the State, that the Home may prosper, and that we may reach more who need us in the days to come.

GREETINGS FROM WHATSOEVER CIRCLE.

The Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters of Wollaston extend hearty greetings to the Unity Circle of Quincy, and best wishes for the success of the Circle, in their new vocation as "publishers," such as they have attained, in all the different lines of work attempted by them.

Mary G. Taylor, Leader.

Whatsoever Circle, King's Daughters of Wollaston, was organized January 1890.

Motto:—"Look up, not down; look out, not in; look forward, not back, and Lend a hand."

Text:—"Whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by Him.—Col III, 17.

The Whatsoever Circle King's Daughters of Wollaston, is one of the oldest circles in Quincy. It is to celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary in January 1915.

Of the original members, who formed the circle in 1890, only two remain with us as active members. Many changes have taken place during these years, and we now have twenty-two active and twenty-six associate members. (The Associate members pay one dollar annually.)

Our largest membership was from 1905-1910 when there were sixty to sixty-five members.

Looking over the records of the past years, it is impossible to tell the lasting impressions that have been made by the members, upon those less fortunate than themselves.

The kindly, encouraging word, the bright flower, the personal service in time of sickness, all have left their imprint on those whom they have been bestowed.

The early records of the circle are missing, but the Treasurer's books of the past ten years, show that we have expended $2,709.56.

Mary E. Taylor, Leader.

GREETINGS FROM GOLDEN RULE CIRCLE.

Greetings to the Unity Circle of The King's Daughters, Quincy, from the Golden Rule Circle of East Weymouth. May you be most successful in your new enterprise.

Florence E. Earle, Secretary.

COUNTY GREETINGS.

To the King's Daughters' of Unity Circle, Quincy, Mass.

Greeting: Accept my sincere wishes for success in your new enerprise; editing a newspaper WELL is a great accomplishment, and I trust your effort in this direction will result in a good and thoroughly interesting paper.

May you realize from its publication a large financial benefit in order that your treasury may be abundantly filled, thereby enabling you to respond to the numerous calls for aid which you will have, during this hard winter before us, and may your loving service be blest by Him who said "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these ye did it unto me."

Will you please mail to my address five copies of your paper, and allow me to congratulate you in advance upon the success, I am sure will be yours.

Most cordially yours "In His Name",
Mary M. Sawtelle,
President Norfolk County Association.

RED CROSS WORK IN MILTON.

During the month of October, Ellsworth hall, the use of which was kindly given by Mr. H. E. Sheldon, was the scene of great activity, for every Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday of each week, from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 in the afternoon, quite a company of women, under the efficient leadership of Mrs. William D. Parsons and Mrs. Henry E. Sheldon, were busily engaged in working for the Red Cross.

With the aid of five sewing machines much good work has been accomplished. Already seven lounging robes and over five dozen sets of pajamas, also a number of warm mufflers which were knit and contributed by an old lady eighty-four years old, have been forwarded to the State headquarters.

Mrs. Parsons is a member of the Red Cross committee of the Milton clothing and money are being collected for the Belgium sufferers. Woman's Club. Through her efforts The Neighbors Club has given two or three whole days to the work of the Red Cross.

It is to have the pleasure of listening to an opera talk in January by Mr. Havrah Hubbard. The club considers that it is fortunate in having Miss Edith Randall of Quincy on its programme for five talks through the winter.

The King's Daughters Circle is to hold a sale of aprons, cake and candy, in the vestry of the Congregational church on the afternoon of November 14, the proceeds of which will be used to help carry on their work during the winter.

GREETING FROM FORMER LEADER.

By the scope and sympathy of their ministrations, the King's Daughters Circles have become beacons in the community and in times of stress have extended cheer and renewed hope to many a burdened, sorrow-stricken life.

In its spiritual significance may the Motto of the Order, Look up, not down; Look out, not in; Look forward, not back and Lend a hand." touch a responsive chord in all hearts and multiply your efforts a thousand fold.

Grace M. Isaac.

Greetings to Unity Circle of King's Daughters from one who for fourteen years had the honor of being a member of your circle.

My wish for you for the years to come: May you be a blessing to the churches with which you are affiliat-

RIVIERA

By Mrs. Elizabeth H. Alden

To winter on the Riviera is an experience fraught with pleasure to one in good health, but it is no place for invalids although many go there. The climate is capricious. When at its best nothing can be more delightful, but cool, gray days and high winds must also be counted on. The temperature drops quickly near sunset and there is sometimes a variation of ten degrees between the sunny and shady side of the street. Nowhere does sunshine make such a difference. In cloudy or rainy weather half the charm is gone.

The vegetation is semi-tropical. Flowers are always in bloom. In January the golden mimosa yellows every terrace. Men, women and children are engaged in cutting it. Hundreds of baskets filled with its feathery blossoms are daily shipped to northern markets. The date palm, palmetto and eucalyptus, together with the pine and cypress, are common growths besides the orange and olive. Both in Cannes and Grasse the orange tree is cultivated wholly for the blossoms. Grasse is a centre for the manufacture of perfume. A wealth of carnations, violets and jasmine is grown on the terraced hillsides near the town. The process by which all this bloom is converted into scent is full of interest.

The scenery of the Riviera with its combination of sea and mountain is picturesque in the extreme. The coloring of the Mediterranean is exquisite, ranging in tint from electric blue to indigo and including all the shades of green. While sitting in a garden surrounded by bloom and verdure one has only to raise the eyes to see the snow-crested Maritime Alps whose protecting wall shut out cold winds from this favored locality.

It is a paradise for motoring. The roads are fine, largely due to the efforts of the Touring Club of France. The famous Corinche road, formerly traversing the coast from Genoa to Nice and stopping there, has now been extended almost to Frejus. The beauty and variety of the panorama this highway affords are beyond description.

On the Riviera the rich and poor are brought into close contact. Luxurious hotels line the boulevards, and handsome villas dot the hillsides occupied by pilgrims from colder climes. A step away is always the old town built on a hill where the populace lives in tall houses on canon-like streets, in some cases merely staircases, with a heterogeneous collection of roofs at all angles. Arches connect the upper stories of opposite houses as a safeguard against earthquakes.

Near San Remo is the deserted town of Bussano crowning a hill top. Rendered unsafe by the earthquake of 1887 the inhabitants abandoned it altogether, and built a new town about a mile away near the sea. There was something uncanny in the aspect of the dead town. It seemed under a spell of enchantment. Except for the lack of glazing in the windows it looked habitable, but no footsteps sounded in its vacant streets.

Every Riviera town has its advocates, but few combine so many attractions as Cannes. Aside from its own charms it is a centre from which various excursions of interest may be made. A favorite one is to the Iles de Lerins, three quarters of an hour by steamer. St. Marguerite, the nearer island, is famous for an old fortress and prison where was incarcerated for eleven years the man with the Iron Mask.

At Monte-Carlo one sees fashionable society at its worst, with ultra styles in dress and an insane craze for excitement fostered by the Casino. In almost all the towns there is a handsomely appointed Casino where gambling is openly practiced. Many municipalities are supported by the proceeds of these public gaming tables. It was said of old, Surely in vain the net is spread in the sight of any bird, but here gullible fools walk into the snare with their eyes wide open.

There are certain festivals characteristic of the Riviera such as the Fete of Lanterns, when there is a procession of floats brilliantly illuminated which parades through parks and streets, also ablaze with Chinese lanterns and electric lights. The Battle of Flowers is a well-known festivity celebrated on two dates a month apart. It is less picturesque than formerly as the motor car has largely superseded the landau in the procession and motor cars do not lend themselves to decoration.

The carnival of Shrove Tuesday usually has novel features. The procession is headed by King Carnival, a huge figure in a dragon-drawn car, who is publicly burned in the evening attended by a motley crowd in mask and domino, who dance and make merry in the street until midnight when, presto change! "Farewell, King Carnival. Enter Monsieur Careme."

Glimpses of the World

As Seen Through Women's Eyes

THE ATTRACTIONS OF CALIFORNIA

By Fanny M. Sheppard

It would be futile to attempt in these columns more than brief suggestions of the thousand and one attractions that claimed my interest and attention during the four months I was privileged to visit California. I will simply tell you with the help of my dairy, which I kept religiously, of some few things which interested me most. Just the few words, "How I wish you were to accompany me," from a dear friend who was about starting for the Pacific coast seemed all that was necessary to incite enthusiasm and bring about the proposed trip. Certainly it did seem as though a good fairy had slipped into my home that day in January whispering to me to drop all care for a time and let the dream of my life come true, for in my heart there had ever been a secret longing sometime to visit California.

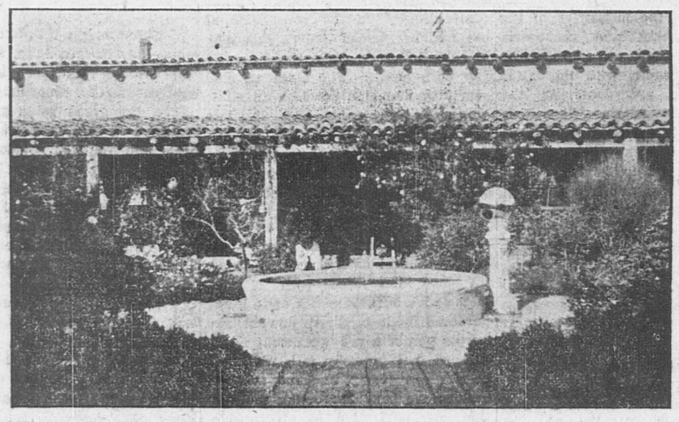

A California Pergola

After four delightful days en-route we began to feel the gentle warmth of summer climate and on the fifth day, as we were nearing our destination, it was with a realizing sense that we were in a new land and had left behind the bleak winter of our acquaintance.

Oh beautiful Pasadena! how my first impressions seemed to fairly tumble over each other. The day was ideal and as we passed from business sections to the residential streets, the city seemed to us like a vast flower garden. The air was scented with the perfume of many flowers, that of the orange blossom predominating. The streets seemed broad and wonderfully well made and many of them were bordered with stately palms and magnolias, in fact everything seemed to bring the city up to its boasted title, "Pasadena, the Crown City of the San Gabriel Valley."

Fancy the mysterious sweetness of an avenue canopied by pepper trees, such was Marengo avenue, and as we were leisurely approaching our hotel on this beautiful thoroughfare, all in an instant, looking toward the north, I caught my first glimpse of the mountains. What a surprise! they were infinitely more beautiful and interesting than I had anticipated. The city seemed sentinelled by this range of wonderful lofty peaks, the Sierra Nevadas.

Ramona's Marriage Place

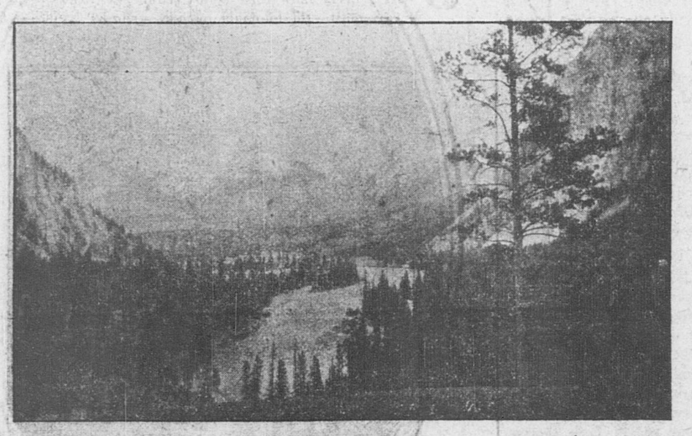

I noticed a number of outstanding peaks and formations and upon inquiry, learned that practically all of them bore names of their own, and these names were given for definite reasons. One of the most striking peaks seen from my chosen viewpoint ,the window of my room, received its present name when President Eliot of Harvard visited the site where the Harvard photographing telescope had been placed. He walked to the summit of this point to see the view and as a compliment to him, the point was named "Mount Harvard." It would be a pleasure to describe in detail the ascent of Mount Lowe and Mount Wilson, the two most popular peaks in the Sierra Madras. They were extremely picturesque.

But to leave the mountains and tell you how as a visitor I enjoyed the city; with what great delight I spent so much of my time driving with friends on the magnificent boulevards, which led to so many points of interest. The city was so beautiful, many times I thought of our communities at home where geraniums, heliotropes fuchsias and poinsettias are grown in pots and tenderly nursed indoors through the winter months. Here we saw miles of scarlet, pink and white geraniums in great beds, as hedges and as trailing screens from second story windows; heliotropes and fuchsias climbing to the roofs of buildings, and the Christmas poinsettias in gorgeous bloom as high as the eaves of the houses.

We found roses everywhere, hedges of them, bungalows literally buried in them in endless variety. We were charmed with the myriad palms, the lace-like pepper trees, the dainty-leaved acacia, the camphor, the useful eucalypti, to say nothing of the dark foliaged orange and lemon and other citrus trees. The glorious Golden Ophir bush held me spell-bound, it was in full bloom covering in many places, sheds and garages. I was told that one magnificent bush had been for years, while in bloom, the meeca of tourists, and it is a time-honored local anecdote, that one public vehicle driver has always proudly pointed out to his customers, the famous "Golden Gopher bush of Pasadena avenue.

In a word, Pasadena is ideal from every standpoint; its flowers and fruits, its sociability,—for the social life of the city is noteworthy; its magnificent homes, the rare beauty of the grounds surrounding these attractive homes its hotels, schools and wonderful churches being splendid examples of modern church architecture. It is apparent to every visitor that it is a church going community. Upon asking the reason for this, the answer given was "By all the churches uniting to make the city old-fashioned in its fine religious enthusiasm.

One of the never-to-be-forgotten days of my trip was Easter Sunday in Southern California. It did seem that there never was on land or sea such an Easter. The rich abundance of flowers to be seen everywhere, brought from the wild meadows, the cultivated gardens, the hillsides, the florists shops and the lilies, such beautiful lilies,—"Solomon in all his glory" was not arraved like the lilies that bloomed for Easter in California.

A matron was there, both young and bright,
She held her taxbill full in sight.
As she waited her turn, her kindling eye
Fell on the telephone standing by.
She grasped the receiver and rang the bell
And in a moment, (so strange to tell!)
She rapidly talked with a far unknown—
Then crossed to the desk, and in cool, clear tone—
"I have changed my mind, through advice"—she said,
"I'll not pay my taxes." Then turned and *fled!

And so it goes on every bright fall day.
"We pay under protest"; each one doth say!

* Historical fact.

Now here is a Store that has built up an enviable reputation on account of its quality, correctness and general beneficial method of doing business; there is not one firm in Quincy doing business in our line that was in business when we started—now does not that mean something? It means that we have the correct methods and that the people of this city know and appreciate the fact that there is one store of Genuine Quality combined with low prices which helps to lessen the strain of the present day prices of food stuffs. Now just one thing more. It is always cheaper to buy the best in food stuffs even if you have to buy less to do so. It has always been acknowledged that Quality Wins in every thing. Highest Quality and Lowest Prices is Our Standard so don't be deceived and talked into something just as good. But come and trade where there is no misrepresenting of goods or trickery carried on, but every thing on the Square. We are absolutely the Lowest Priced Store in all New England when you consider the quality of goods we carry and they cost you no more than does the trashy food you are asked to buy and which is represented to be just as good as Johnson's. At Home and Abroad

OLD CAPE COD, MASSACHUSETTS

By Henrietta F. Doble.

By Henrietta F. Doble.

When Thoreau first visited Cape Cod, sixty-five years ago, and jotted down in his note-book the observations, which were afterward immortalized in his book "Cape Cod," he found the "bared and bended arm of Massachusetts" as he called it, a peculiarly isolated country, sparsely settled, no railroads beyond Sandwich, and the common highways, mere crooked paths, deep with yellow sand. Beside an occasional pedler or hand-organ man, visitors were so infrequent that Thoreau could not convince the inhabitants that he had nothing whatever to sell. After vainly trying to explain that he was solely on pleasure bent, one old fisherman remarked "Well, it makes no odds what it is you carry, so long as you carry truth along with you."

There were no hotels or inns of any sort, and Thoreau and his friend were obliged to ask some kindly disposed sea captain, fisherman or lighthouse keeper wherever they happened to be when the need came, for food and a night's shelter.

What a contrast today! For twenty-five years or more, city people have been steadily increasing in numbers there for the summer months and since the advent of motor vehicles and the good roads that they have compelled, Cape Cod, from May until December, swarms with visitors from all over the country. Well equipped, even luxurious hotels have sprung up its whole length, and beautiful summer homes are scattered through the villages and line the sea shore, from Buzzard's Bay, where the "bared arm" joins the body of Massachusetts—down to Provincetown, the "closed fist." In Thoreau's day, the industries of the Cape were fishing and coast-wise trading, now they are cranberries and summer people, with the latter largely in the ascendant. As the years go by, the native "Cape Codder," who, at first looked askance at the "city folks" who infested his domain has come to tolerate them, and to realize that new life and new prosperity have followed in their train.

Except in winter, when it is bleak and windswept (and even then it has its devotees) Cape Cod is quaintly beautiful. Those who have never visited it, and if they think of it at all, consider it a dreary waste of sand, should some day take a motor car and leisurely journey its length. It would be hard to choose a "best time" to go, for all through the changing seasons, surprises, delights and beauty follow in endless succession. Perfect roads wind over hill and valley in every direction, through little villages, some of them quite ambitious in size and up-to-dateness, past cosy homes, gardens, farms and orchards, and every little while for it is never far off, we catch glimpses of the sea, smell the salt air and revel in the invigorating breezes. "The cool breezes of the Cape!" These are its greatest attractions, for near its shores, on bay or ocean side, summer heat loses its terrors. Each season thousands flee here for relief from the heat alone. Sitting on our piazzas, scarcely one without wraps, we read with amazement the news of intense heat, humidity and prostrations in the cities, for rare indeed are the days that are not comfortably cool. On the south side of the Cape is the best salt water bathing in the world. The clean, clear water rushing in over the yellow flats warms to just the right temperature, there is no undertow, and the soft, sandy beaches stretch for miles with never a rock or pebble.

For those who like boating and fishing, the facilities are of the finest. All through the summer, catboats, motor boats and large pleasure yachts dot Cape Cod Bay and Nantucket Sound. The little lakes and rivers are delightful for canoeing. Deep sea fishing is much indulged in, and yearly both veteran and amateur fishermen, boast of large hauls of tautog, scup, cod, mackerel, blue-fish and butter-fish.

The charming old natives of the country, a great part of them retired sea captains and their wives are literally the "salt of the earth." The old men, though bluff, are kindly and lovable and are brimful of quaint humor and have a simple philosophy all their own—and the wives, who in their youth accompanied their husbands "over the boundless main" toughing in every port, are young and spry at eighty years of age. These are the characters that Joseph C. Lincoln, the chronicler and poet of Cape Cod loves to depict, and every Cape Codder, native and adopted, reads his books with admiration and appreciation. He, himself, was born in Brewster, and he handles the Cape, its people, its habits and traditions with a loving and sympathetic touch. Each summer finds him somewhere on the Cape, either completing a book or gathering material for another, and the people old and young, adore him and watch for his coming.

Interesting books, too, could be written on the flora of the Cape, for this desert, as so many people deem it, blossoms like the roses. The wild flowers are marvelous both in hue and species. From April when our search under last years' fallen leaves, is rewarded by fragrant sprays of trailing arbutus, and a little later, when the beach plum bushes, all white and feathery with tiny blossoms, and clumps of purple lupins line the roadside, down to late October when the woods are a riot of color, and the marshes are wonderful carpets of soft Persian shades, and great masses of late golden-rod and asters of every hue, white and lavender to deepest violet, intoxicate the senses —a procession of loveliness trails before the delighted eyes. This too, in summers when there is almost perpetual sunshine; in wet seasons, like our last, the Cape becomes a paradise.

In June, there are hedges of elderberry and wild rose, fields of daisies and clover, the silver maple is in full leaf, and the locust trees hang heavy with their long sweet fronds. When July comes, the swamps are odorous with azalea and sweet pepper bush, water lilies cover the surface of the little unexpected ponds, and bunches of old maid's pinks ("moonlights" in the vernacular of the natives) Queen Anne's lace and blackeyed Susans make the meadows gay with bloom. The clear air and sparkling sunshine act like an elixir on the garden plants, and in late summer, the bright colored flowers, like rambler roses, trumpet vines, gladioli, dahlias, nasturtiums and marigolds make gorgeous patches on the landscape.

Even the cranberry bogs, well-kept and level as a floor, the graceful vines interspersed with clusters of the pink adder's mouth orchid, and bordered with cardinal flowers and purple gerardia are wonderful in all seasons, but in early fall, when the berries are plump and red and the natives are busy harvesting the crop they are unrivalled in picturesqueness. All over the Cape, except at the tip end, are groves and forests of pitch pine and scrub oak, low in growth, to be sure, but lovely at all times, with underbrush of blueberry and bayberry, ferns and brakes, tangles of wild grape and horse brier and carpeted with hog-cranberry, misleading name for such a pretty vine.

On the pleasant journey through the Cape, wonderful scenes, like moving pictures, crowd closely on one another—Onset bay with its little islands—Buzzards Bay looking toward Marion—the country all along the new Cape Cod canal—Barnstable Long Meadows with round haystacks of salt grass, with the white cliffs and blue ocean in the distance; Bass River—Chatham Bars where the long breakers tumble on the beach, and there is nothing but the savage ocean between us and Europe ("the ocean graveyard" it is called, for the nine miles of seashore from Chatham to Monomoy Point are always strewn with wrecks and are the most dangerous on the Atlantic coast) the wide stretch of beach at Orleans, Pleasant Bay surrounded by low hills, and the boundless miles of ocean, always with white sails, and the harbor at Provincetown—quaint little Provincetown with its one street, the harbor and shipping on one side and the boundless ocean, always glistening with white sails on the other—all beautiful, vivid in color and ever varying and shifting into each other. But one scene to the eyes of an old lover and roamer of the Cape, surpasses them all. As you cross the Cape from Harwich to Brewster, suddenly you reach the crest of a hill, and there spread out in panorama before you, is the whole of Cape Cod Bay! Plymouth harbor—the line of coast from Brewster to Provincetown with the Pilgrim monument looming up from the tip end—little rivers gliding through the marshes and cosy villages nestling under the hill.

Stand on the hill, in a clear, sunshiny day in late June, with the soft sky overhead, the deep blue of river and ocean, the white sail in the distance, the green fields and meadows outlined by old grey walls, and the hills and valleys golden with the tiny flowers of the wild indigo, and fairy land lies there before you!

Thus, this huge bar of sand which old Ocean has been heaping up since time immemorial, and on which the Pilgrims turned their backs, as too bleak and cheerless to consider for settlement, in the three centuries which have elapsed has been slowly emerging from oblivion, and now is fast becoming one of the chief and best-loved play-grounds of America; for such is the fascination of the place, that whoever tastes the clear, salt air of the Cape, like the lotos eaters is constrained to tarry, and taste it again and yet again.

As I write the spell of Bonnie Scotland creeps over me. Once more I feel the rush of the winds on the moorland, and see the long stretch of blue lochs and purple mountains. Again I hear the wild notes of the bagpipe on the "bonnie, bonnie shores of Loch Lomond." There comes to mind the glorious sunset from Calton Hill, the west glowing with gorgeously tinted clouds of rose and gold, the sunset light glinting on the waters of the Firth of Forth, and lighting up the monuments on the Hill.

QUINCY: a Beautiful and Attractive City in Which to LIVE—a Most Advantageous City in Which to Do BUSINESS.

Vol. 29. No. 263 QUINCY, MASS., WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 11, 1914 PRICE 5 CENTS

THE QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB

By Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith, President

"The Woman's Club movement is but one manifestation of that larger effort for liberty and culture found in great women's souls all over the country." The above is quoted from an address made by Jane Addams at the twelfth Biennial Convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs held in Chicago last June.

At that time one of the foremost Boston papers said in an editorial "This, unquestionably, in point of importance no less than in point of size, is the greatest women's congress ever held. Within a quarter of a century the Federation of Women's Clubs has come into existence, has spread from one state to another, and has developed an influence in sociological, civic, philanthropic, art and economic affairs, the value of which to the community, the state, the section and the Republic at large is beyond computation."

The General Federation of Women's Clubs comprises the Federations of forty-seven states, including nine thousand clubs with two million members. The Massachusetts State Federation has a membership of nearly sixty-three thousand, with two hundred and seventy-four clubs, and our own City Federation about eight hundred members with four clubs.

Co-operation, team work, efficiency! These are words we frequently hear. The trite old adage, "In Union there is strength," has taken on new form in the more modern and virile expressions of the day, but the meaning remains the same.

In the spring of 1905, the Quincy Women, feeling the need of an organization in which they could work together for civic betterment organized the Quincy Women's Club.

They took as their object "the purpose of furnishing an associated centre for united thought and action in humanitarian, literary and social work, and the promotion of philanthropic and charitable work in Quincy and its vicinity."

The names of many of our public spirited women might be mentioned in connection with the organization of this club, but the one who was preeminently interested to have it assume the form which it did was Miss Elizabeth Johnson, now a resident of Boston, but at that time a zealous worker for the humanitarian uplift of Quincy. Through Miss Johnson's efforts Dr. Jeffrey Brackett was moved to offer the club the use of his beautiful old home on Goffe street, and there, today the club is comfortably housed. This home was given that it might become a centre of Social Service in Quincy thus all the philanthropic organizations in the city are invited to hold their meeting there.

The Associated Charities have an office in the building, and two Visiting Nurses directed by the Visiting Nurse Committee of the Quincy Women's Club live under its roof. For the benefit of some who may not be familiar with the projects undertaken and supported by our club, it may be allowable to enumerate some of them.

The Visiting Nurses; the Summer Schools; the kindergarten for non-English speaking children; the children's home gardens; the Associated Charities— an outgrowth from Charities Conferences held by our Philanthropic committee; the Young Women's Club, mothered by the same committee, and now meeting in the High School gymnasium; co-operation in establishing branch libraries and reading rooms and the purchase of a reflectroscope for the same; Tuberculosis Exhibition and subsequent erection of a shack at Mt. Pleasant Camp for tubercular patients; contributing towards supervised playgrounds; School Savings Banks; improvement of railway stations by the planting of trees and shrubs; and just recently the work of our Forestry committee through which over two thousand dollars have been expended by property owners in Quincy in protecting and improving their trees. These, together with lectures and many classes are some of our achievements.

The benefit derived from bringing together the women from the various wards of the city to work together for common ends cannot be measured. Nothwithstanding the fact that ours is a philanthropic club, many social events stand to our credit, like:—gentlemen's night; receptions to the School teachers of Quincy; Twelfth Night Revels and annual assemblies, musicales, operas and dramatics.

The tenth season has opened with promise, and the members of the club are looking forward to the tenth anniversary which will be observed upon February 23, 1915.

The motto chosen from the writings of Mrs. Browning for the Year Book of 1914-'15 is a fitting close to this article and an exposition of our attitude.

"Our part is to conspire with the new work of new days, a heart to resolve, a head to contrive,, a hand to execute."

CLUB LIFE IN QUINCY

PROLOG.

Descend, O, Heavenly Muse, my brain inspire,
With thoughts resplendent with poetic fire,
With vivid thoughts, sufficient to portray
In proper style, the subject of my lay.
'Tis club life dear unto the female heart,
In every act of life it plays a part.
Its in her mind from early morning light,
Until she rests her weary head at night,
And I have sometimes heard a woman say,
Its in her mind from dewy eve till day.
So sing, dear Musey, if you only can 'Bout all these clubs that have no use for man.

You'll find these clubs of every kind indeed,
Adapted to each separate woman's need.
Some clubs will tell you how to breathe and walk
And some (if any woman needs it) how to talk.
Some lay great stress on literature or art,
And some are altruistic from the start.
No matter if they've never been to college,
These clubs will cram their heads just full of knowledge.
Knowledge about the planets and the stars,
And whether there are really folks on Mars,
They're taught to work in plaster and in clay,
And how to keep the leopard moth away.
They find out how to tell pure wool and silk
Ho w to detect that wretched germ in milk,
The're taught just how to foster civic pride,
And forty-leven other things beside.
They try to have a finger in the laws,
And learn to judge between effect and cause;
On music of all kinds they simply dote,
No matter if they cannot sing a note;
Some women, or at least so I have heard,
Have run quite mad about each little bird;
They'll watch for hours and stand upon their head,
To find out if its tail be blue or red;
And when you come to talk about debate,
To speak upon this point I hesitate,
Because they rush in madly as you know,
And argue anything with friend or foe.
They'll argue 'bout things concrete or abstract,
No matter if they're not backed up by fact;
You gaze up at the moon, and if you please,
They'll prove to you it is a piece of cheese;
The gastronomic part is not neglected
For probably you all have long suspected,
That women have good appetites and when
They get together, they eat just like the men.
We used to eat our breakfast in the morning,
But new ideas so rapidly are dawning;
That breakfast now is where lunch used to be
And luncheon soon will take the place of tea.
Most clubs require a meeting called a board,
Where sometimes there is conduct most untoward;
The motions that these women learn to make
I often think would really take the cake,
And when to grapple with them they're unable,
They simply vote to lay them on the table.
There are clubs for Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Monday,
For each day in the week excepting Sunday.
There are clubs of every sort beneath the sun,
But of perfect clubs I never knew but one.
For of all the clubs on this terrestrial ball
The one that you belong to's best of all.
But if we do get weary or depressed,
We know these clubs are really for the best.
We know the record of our past and present,
And may the future of our club be just as pleasant.

EPILOG.

The oak trees spreading boughs once touched the ground,
But day by day and year by year it grew,
A little farther from the earth,
And nearer to the blue.

So may we women aspire to be,
As time glides swiftly by,
A little farther from the earth,
And nearer to the sky.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CLUB OF QUINCY

By Minnie Packard.
President of Y. W. C.

With the dawning of a new year for our Young Women's Club we are anticipating grand results. In the first place, through the very generous gift of $100 from our mother club, we are able to hire a paid worker, Miss Clara Goodwin of Brookline.

We are to hold socials including entertainments and games the first meeting of every month, as we did last year. During the other weeks there will be classes in dramatics, in gymnastics and probably in dressmaking and embroidery.

The club at this time wishes again to express its greatest appreciation for Mrs. Gurney's enthusiastic work for our dramatic class. Through this column we desire to sincerely thank everyone who has encouraged so willingly and generously the work of our club.

We wish to extend a very hearty welcome to every girl over sixteen living in Quincy to join our club. Our meetings are held in the Quincy High School gymnasium at 8 P. M.

Will those who wish to join please send their names to Miss Carlena Walker, 25 Thayer street, Quincy. Help us to make this the most successful year of the club in numbers and in enthusiasm.

We are now members of the National League of Women's Workers, and we shall try to live up to our aims "to have and to share" and also to increase among the young women of Quincy a spirit of democracy and co-operation."

RIVERSIDE CLUB.

The Quincy Women's Riverside Club was organized in 1912, and joined the State Federation in 1913. The business meetings are held fortnightly, Wednesdays, at 2 P. M., at the Town River Yacht Club House.

The members of this club are active and interested workers in anything that pertains to the best interests of our city.

WOMENS CITY CLUB OF BOSTON.

By Helen Storrow.

That the Women's City Club of Boston, organized June 20, 1913, and incorporated December 29 of the same year, was launched at the psychological moment to fill a long felt want in the community is evident from the amazing rapidity of its membership growth. Its wide appeal is attested by the varied interests represented among its members, which include business women, home makers, professional women, society women, and followers of vocations and avocations too numerous even to classify.

The spirit of the club is essentially democratic, as has been shown in the many delightful meetings held during its year and a half of life, under conditions which would not ordinarily make for wide acquaintance and co-operation. Obliged to hold its meetings under alien. though hospitable, roofs, and deprived of the warming inbuence of a club home, where members may mingle and become pleasantly acquainted with one another, it is a source of gratifying surprise to discover how the spirit of fellowship, sympathetic understanding and congeniality has spread.

With the opening of the new clubhouse at 40 Beacon Street, one of the most beautiful examples of Georgian architecture in Boston, this spirit we feel will become even more manifest, and we expect that the cozy corners, cheery fireplaces and attractive dining rooms in the old mansion will develop many delightful and lasting friendships among women who might otherwise never have met, or, meeting, might never have recognized in each other needs and sympathies.

The aim of the club is to establish a common bond of interest in public and civic welfare, to provide a clubhouse where its members may meet informally, and to furnish an open forum where leaders in matters of public import may be heard. That just such an organization was needed in Boston is shown in the fact that in its short lifetime and before its clubhouse was ready for occupancy practically 3.000 women from in and around the city, with no inconsiderable number from cities and towns at some distance, have joined its membership.

There is every indication that we shall have an enrollment of 5.000 in a comparatively short time. When our clubhouse is open there will develop many attractive features in the way of entertain ment, both intellectual and social, which will appeal to the membership, and we confidently hope that the homelike rooms will become a common meeting ground for women whose varied experiences and ideas may furnish constant inspiration and benefit, each to the other.

If we consider the unborn generations who must be taxed for the war that is now raging, we may conclude that there are worse things than our local assesments.

WHO ARE THE KIING'S DAUGHTERS

By Mrs. Helen M. Dean, a Trustee.

In the year 1886, Mrs. Margaret Bottome, an earnest Christian woman of New York City was crossing the Atlantic. In the night she heard doors opening and shutting in the state room next to her, and upon inquiring she learned that a young man, who was traveling alone, was very sick, and the nurse and ship's physician were caring for him. She longed to offer her services, and wished she had some badge, or something that would indicate her willingness to help and sympathize with the sufferer. All was quiet in the morning for the young man had passed away.

She then resolved that when she reached home she would call her friends together, and have some kind of a society formed to be ready to help when help was needed. From her efforts grew the International Order of The King's Daughters and Sons, of which Mrs. Bottome was the beloved President until the Lord took her home.

Circles of The King's Daughters are now found in every quarter of the globe, and whenever you see the little maltese silver cross it means a daughter of the King, ready for service.

In Norfolk County there are 24 circles, with over 700 members. Much faithful work has been done, visiting the sick, and shut-ins, helping the poor, visiting hospitals, and along many other lines of work. But the special work of the King's Daughters of our county was begun in 1902, when the King's Daughters opened a home for aged, worthy people, called The Pond Home at Pondville. A board of fifteen trustees was chosen from the different towns to have the management and care of the Home. Upon the trustees rests the responsibility of seeing that $300 is secured to meet the running expenses of each month. Owing to the generous gifts of many friends outside the circles, they have never had to report at the close of the year an empty treasury. But the experienced home-mother knows that if she is fortunate enough to have the money placed in her hands to meet the bills for rent and raiment, coal and cost-of-living that is only the initial step toward providing, and continuing a comfortable happy home for her loved ones.

In The Pond Home family are seventeen aged people two will be 90 on their next birthday, with five others to care for them. A superintendent, a man for the out-door work, a cook, a laundress, a table girl, and often a nurse and a doctor.

The Pond Home is situated from two to thirty miles from all the Trustees, and any housekeeper knows that with a family of 22 people constant care and superintendence must be exercised in order to keep every thing running smoothly and comfortably.

Mrs. E. Trask Hill, who used to be our loved State President, and was in close touch with all sorts of homes, often said, The Pond Home was her ideal of what a home should be.

If some of Norfolk County's people to whom God has entrusted large means, should feel inclined to add by gift or legacy to the $20,000 endowment Fund already secured enough to make $100,000, the Trustees would have much more time and strength, and money to devote to making the Pond Home family more comfortable and happy.

"There is need of help for the helpless the whole world over, and The King's Daughters are in line to respond to that call."

May we all hear, as Sir Launfal did in his vision, "the voice that was softer than silence saying to us:
"Who gives himself with his alms, feeds three Himself, his hungering neighbor and me."

THE QUINCY FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUB

By Alice Haynes Marsh

The Quincy Federation of Women's Clubs has for its object the purpose of securing more thorough acquaintance, and, in case of need, united action among the Women's Clubs of Quincy. It is organized for co-operation in civic, educational and philanthropic effort for the betterment of the whole city.

President Wilson said in an address at Swarthmore College last year, "Do you court honor? You will never get it by serving yourself. Do you court instruction? you will get it only as the servant of mankind. Do not forget then why you are here, not merely to make a living, but by counsel and action to move forward to common ends, that shall be crowned with honor an achievement."

A large contract but none too large when undertaken by the combined membership of the Quincy, Riverside, Wollaston and Squantum clubs now composing the Federation.

It is hoped that other Women's organizations may desire to combine their effort with that of the Federation, thus both giving and receiving support.

The executive board is made up of the officers, the president of the clubs, one delegate for each one hundred members, with the chairmen of committees representing Civics, Education, Philanthropy and Instructive, Visiting Nursing.

This board has already voted to unite with the Board of Trade and asks the co-operation of the clubs in the effort to secure a suitable waiting room and convenience station for Quincy square. It has a committee to look into the matter of securing the use of Adams Academy for a rest and recreation center for the young women of the city.

This Visiting Nurse, the Day Nursery, the Young Women's Club, the Women's Auxiliary and the Associated Charities all asked for and received the assurances of the interest and help of the Federation.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. has under consideration the matter of joining forces and the purposes of the King's Daughters are so allied that they will work side by side with the Federation to make Quincy a better place in which to live.

With these thousand earnest women united for the common good, what may not be accomplished for our city.

TO THE KING'S DAUGHTERS.

By M. S. Kingman
91 years of age.

Hail! Daughters of a King:
What tidings do you bring,
As you pass by?
Come tell us of the day,
Did sunshine mark the way,
As you sped on?
Did gratitude uprise,
And lift you to the skies,
For noble gifts?
Or, was't a thankless task
To give what was not asked?
The proud hearts shift.

"Behind us moves a train,
Where joy has come again.
Wiped are the widow's tears;
Hushed are the orphan's fears;
The sick revive,
Kind sympathy looked on,
And half the pain was gone.
We saw the way was dark,
And touched the dying spark,
Of Hope laid low.
Breathed love upon the breast,
And God He wrought the rest:
This we well know."

Oh! Daughters, fair and blest,
All deeds of righteousness,
Are steps to Heaven:
Faith takes you by the hand,
And in that better land,
Reward be given.

FASHION'S SONG

By Margaret Jane Chambers

Tell me now, dear fashion's number,
Life on earth was but a dream,
And the gowns we wore last summer
Now old-fashioned to you seem.

Styles we have, and styles we follow!
Trusting that we reach the goal;
Where the great and glad tomorrow
Sends us skirts, at least called whole.

Not enjoyment, and not comfort,
Seems our destined end or way;
But we're hoping for the import
Of styles better than today.

Patience long, and patience ever!
Sighs the hearts, so stout and brave,
Hoping that some artist, clever,
Will design what all will crave.

In the world's broad field of battle,
When styles and sense have bitter strife,
Be not like dumb, driven cattle!
Be a heroine in this life!

Trust the future, for 'tis pleasant!
Coats worn long and capes the rage!
Tunics drape the skirts, at present!
Hats are small, thus saith the sage!

Future styles will all remind us
We shall graceful be, once more
Leaving skirts, that long have bound us
Wearing widths we all adore;

Dress skirts, that perchance a daughter,
Viewing pictures of the past,
Would not blush, to show another,
Fearing they might think us fast.

Let us, then, be up and doing,
Wearing styles right up-to-date;
Gathered basques and girdles showing,
Cape basques, also, are quite late.

FASHIONS OF 1914-1915

By Mme. Jeanne

"We sacrifice to dress, till household joys
And comforts cease. Dress drains our cellars dry,
And keeps our larder lean. Puts out our fires,
And introduces hunger, frost and woe,
Where peace and hospitality might reign."
—Cowper.

Paris is not the place to look to at the present moment for "Le Dernier cri" in fashion. It is a city of silence—and mourning. American women now have the oportunity to show their independence and create fashions for themselves. What with the war, the mobilization of the troops, and the issuing of "permis de sejour" for the foreigners within her gates, fashion, even at this opening time, has ceased to be the subject of paramount interest in Paris.

A few suggestions from Paris however show us gorgeous gowns of rich brocades, wraps of velvet laden with furs, dancing frocks of taffeta with short, full skirts and funny tight fitted, short waisted basqued bodices.

Shimmering material and trimming is in favor, with American women, for the dance frock and dinner gown. Much black will be worn, both velvet and satin, and in consequence jet trimming will be used.

Fur is much used for trimming—no narrow bands; four inches is the limit of narrowness. Long haired furs as fox and skunk are cut into wide belts for one piece dresses, suits, long coats and even for evening wraps. The modish furs are marmot, skunk, sable, opossum, monkey fur, moleskin and astrachan.

Long tunics will be worn all through the winter, also long coats and 1880 length of bodice, giving a perfectly shapeless line with never a sign of a waist.

A new and successful feature of the season is the one piece dress extending to the nape of the neck in the back and has long tight sleeves. It may open in the front over a tucker of tulle. Fine braiding is prettily revived on skirt and blouse.

The Monte Carlo coat sweater, cut in loose lines and of heavy Angora makes a smart sport coat.

Autumn modes bring added length in coats, added width in skirts and an occasional foreshadowing of higher necks in blouses.

FARMING AS A RECREATION FOR THE CLERGY

By the Farmer's Friend

In the little town of ——— situated in Massachusetts, on a quiet sunny slope of the hillside, nestles a cottage: not a modern bungalow, but such a cottage as our ancestors loved; with the low, vine clad doorway and porch, and the interior to match the exerior in style of architecture. What an ideal spot for an intellectual mind worker to rest his weary brain.

A certain pastor of a large city church finds rest from his mental labors in such a spot, and here he also finds recreation, for he is a successful farmer as well as a gifted preacher.

On this hillside are raised berries, grapes, apples, potatoes, corn and vegetables, that would put many a farmer to shame, because of their size and quality.

This clergyman and his good wife are very hospitable, and many of his city parish love to lend a hand in the farming, so three times during the season a merry party of his church workers hie away to this country town and lend their hands in cultivating the soil, and harvesting the produce.

It is not all labor, for many a jolly laugh floats out upon the breeze, indicating, not only that a humorous story or two have been told, but that clergymen are human as well as divine, in their thoughts, and love the companionship of their fellow-men.

No. doubt, by coming into close contact with his flock, he thereby learns of their mental and spiritual needs, and while they furnish help and companionship in the manual labor, he is storing up material for sermons for their future help.

After a forenoon of labor, comes the gathering around the board for a good, old-fashioned luncheon, provided by the ladies of the party as their part of the help and fun. Sometimes some of the people from the nearby church drop in and enjoy a few hours of sociability around the board, thus proving the old saying true "The more the merrier."

When fall arrives this clergyman returns to his flock, rested in mind, and ready for the winter's work, thus proving that farming is a recreation.

FAIR MELROSE AND ABBOTSFORD

Memories crowd thick and fast of the trip through "The Trossachs" among the scenes so wonderfully described in Scott's "Lady of the Lake." Once again I see the beautiful undulating fields, with the Eildon Hills in the background, which lead us to fair Melrose and Abbotsford, the home of Sir Walter Scott.

It is a veritable castle of red sandstone which greets the eye—this home of the poet on the banks of the Tweed. Every part of it was intended to recall to Sir Walter, some tower or romantic. ruin which he had admired and described.

The entrance hall is lined with armour as Scott arranged it. On the floor is the "Mistletoe Chest" where the fair young bride Ginevra hid herself in laughing glee on her wedding day. No search revealed her and not until long years afterward when the chest was opened was the mystery solved. About the room are casts of Robert the Bruce's skull, a clock once key of the Old Tolbooth in Edinboro, and in glass case by the window owned by Marie Antoinette, the huge Sir Walter's last suit.

It was almost with reverence that we stepped into his study containing his chair and desk made of wood from ships of the Spanish Armada, and we pictured Sir Walter as he went up the steps and along the balcony at one side of the room which led into his chamber.

In the library is the bust of Sir Walter by Chantry. The window contains a case of relics which fairly thrills one to see. There is a lock of Bonnie Prince Charlie's hair, a purse of Flora MacDonald's, another of Rob Roy's—a piece of Queen Mary's dress and the ebony crucifix the beautiful but unfortunate Queen held in her hand when she went to her death. Here, also, is a blotter once used by Napoleon, and buckles in the form of bees which clasped Napoleon's coat; a brooch of Rob Roy's wife and a tumbler of Robert Burns with a poem scratched on it with a diamond.

The armoury is filled with coats of mail, curious swords in cases, revolvers of Napoleon and armour found on Flodden field. From the drawing room windows can be seen the Tweed whose murmur was so dear to Sir Walter's heart.

It seemed fitting to drive from here to Dryburgh Abbey where Sir Walter lies buried. As the bridge over the river was being repaired, we walked across and along a beautiful country lane with a thatched roof cottage almost hidden in a fork of the road, the front fairly embowered in roses climbing riotously to the roof. Those "lowly thatched cottages!" What wonder the poet sang

"An exile from home splendor dazzles in vain,
Oh give me my lowly thatched cottage again
The birds singing gayly that came at my call,
Give me them and that peace of mind dearer than all."

We watched the thin wreaths of smoke curling up from the chimney, and wanted so much to wander down the quiet lane that curved beside the house. It just needed the little face that peeped at us from behind the hedge to make that picture of home, sweet home complete.

Down the road a little farther a narrow gate led in to the Abbey grounds. I wonder if the Abbeys and ruined castles throughout the British Isles could have been half so lovely in their perfection as are now in their ruin. Could the stained glass which once filled the windows have been half so beautiful as the glimpse of trees and shrubs and sky framed by the exquisite tracery of stone. Ivy mantles one window, completely covering with its delicate foliage the ruin which man's hands have wrought. Sir Walter lies buried in St. Mary's Aisle with his wife and their eldest son.

It is not a long ride from Dryburgh to Melrose surely one of the most beautiful of Scotland's ruined Abbeys. We held our breath with delight as we saw the exquisite carving on columns and windows. And as if to fill our cup of delight to overflowing, we were shown about the Abbey by a tall brawny Scotchman, whose "burr" was most fascinating as he showed us the wonderful sculpture, and the places known to all through Scott's poems of Marmion and "The Lay of the Last Minstrel."

Many bits of these poems did our guide recite as we gazed at the grave of Michael Scott, the Wizard, or stood in the Douglas chapel, the Chapel of St. Bridget or St. Bride, the grotesque statue of the saint still there in its niche in the wall.

In a part of the high altar three or four simple bouquets of wild flowers laid upon a grave, were a touching tribute to the memory of the valiant hero, Robert the Bruce, whose heart lies buried here.

The wind blows through the lonely aisles as it has done for centuries.

"Where flags of proud crusaders waved, masses of weeds and ivy flutter in the breeze; the only footsteps here today as those of travelers; the only incense on its ruined altar, the breath of the wild rose."

We registered in the banqueting hall of the monks, and then went outside to gaze at the beauty of the ruins there.

"If thou wouldst view fair Melrose aright, Go visit it by the pale moonlight."

but it was by the light of a perfect day that we saw it, and the memory of its beauty will never leave us."

Truly we could—"home returning, soothly swear,
Was never scene so sad and fair."

RUSSIAN FITCH FUR SET.

A beautiful fur set, consisting of a large pillow muff and collar of Russian fitch.

ART IMPLIES "THE BEAUTIFUL."

By Sue Rice.

In this present age of conventionalities, and conforming to all manner of set modes of living and thinking, one must pause occasionally to study themselves, their individual ideas, hopes and ambitions, and not follow the popular trend of fashion and thought, for when one loses their own identity in the throng, they lose what possibilities they have to appreciate art, also to create things artistic.

Let us see just what the definition of "art," is. Webster says, "aptitude, skill, dexterity, readiness." These are the requirements for creating, and are easily acquired, but the feature to be most in evidence, must be the ability to ""express your idea." In any work of art, we must have some thought we wish to express, some idea, that is our own, and express that idea in our work.

Take the works of Beethoven, he had a message of love, and hope, perhaps another time, sorrow, his own expression of that idea in music gives to us what we term a work of art, because it is a true version, an expressed thought that makes us feel the things he felt.

An artists expresses himself on a wonderful canvas, that an appreciative mind can sympathize with and understand.

Tolstoi says, "You cannot say about a work of art, 'I cannot understand it.' If I cannot understand it, it means that the work of art is poor, for the function of art is to make people understand that which is not clear to them." As you look upon a beautiful painting, the artist's idea finds echi in your soul, till you have as keen enjoyment as he intended you should have. Yet no great artist ever fully expressed what was in his soul, he can only vainly attempt what he really feels.

Poe writes: "So vast is art, so narrow human things." This must have been his feeling when he attempted to say in mere words, what he really felt, and so it is little wonder these geniuses die unsatisfied, their desire to express much is great.

Yet through their efforts we are happier bigger and brighter and have a better understanding of the infinite and we should all be glad that they have lived for us, thankful also that we have the gift of appreciation.

Our aim should be to bring the atmosphere of these geniuses to our own lives and homes. In continued study of great artists, in music, painting, literature and other arts, we develop in ourselves the love for the beautiful, then by continually developing our individual ideas we are made happy by any achievement of our own, that is along these lines.

Today, the modern home is a work of art. "If it is," the decorator has studied art or is a genius, and creates a beautiful room out of four plain walls. Ingersoll says:—"The mere necessities make life a bare existence but in the presence of art, the walls expand, the ceilings rise, and all becomes a palace indeed." That is the reasons of our calling for all things artistic to be in our every day living. We feel its need at every turn.

Emerson says: "Art is the beautiful way of doing things." And the developed mind demands the beautiful in every sphere. Ages ago our ancestors wore sack cloth, and the untutored minds of some foreign countries still clothe themselves with just a covering, but today, our modistes skill is great, and their creations can often be termed works of art, graceful in lines, wonderful blending of colors and originality in design.

Of our modern discoveries no greater advancement is shown than in application of art in photography. Photography as a science was only discovered by Daguerre in the year 1822. It remained a science for many years, advancing rapidly as is seen by our wonderful magazine reproductions every week. But to create a photograph to be compared with a painting has remained for the last few years to develop. To the artist of the brush, a photograph was seemingly machine made, and nothing more, but, artists have themselves developed the science of photography, to their own satisfaction, where they can apply their talent and create a photograph with all the merits of a painting. Whereas a sitter must pose for a painter many times before the portrait is complete, a camera takes an instantaneous likeness, that can be then finished as the artist desires to see it completed.

This proves that a discovery by a scientist is one thing, and may prove useful beyond anticipation, but a new delight is discovered when an artist sees possibilities from his standpoint, and by his works demands recognition of his discovery. This year, for the first time a photograph is hung in the salon of London. A Boston photographer is the artist so honored.

So in conclusion I would say, that in every sphere, no matter how humble our mission here may apparently be, we should endeavor to "create the beautiful" always, and no teacher is necessary but Nature and the Great Masters in art. Understand these, and "know thyself."

MILLINERY NOTES

By Mme. Sari

The hat may make or mar the woman's appearance.

Put your hat in keeping with your individuality, and you will be sure to have a combination both pleasing and attractive.

The wrong hat on a person throws one's appearance out of tune as much as a jangled note in a piano.

Dame Fashion has surely been kind to us for this fall and winter season.

Broad of brim and flat of crown is a black panne velvet sailor with two ostrich plumes of mottled gray and white.

The picturesque hat—a cavalier afternoon hat of sphinx velvet with a wide rolling brim—unique ornament of ostrich pompons with two long burnt ostrich feathers towering above.

Rolinsky—the dark brown fur of Siberian mink—a fur with almost the beauty of sable—a small pointed toque with two aspiring paradise plumes.

Soft crown of a corbeau blue velvet turban—a monument of blue "coq" feathers so high that it must surely reach the summit of the mode.

Even a close fitting turban finds it possible to rest upon the head at an angle.

A beautiful white felt hat of the cavalier outline may be trimmed with a band of skunk fur round the crown and cluster of violets on the brim.

The same shape will be seen in pearl gray and pale putty felt and will be fashionable all the season.

Sets of muff, collar and hat to match gives a charming look of completeness about a street costume.

One attractive set is made of monkey fur and soft brown velvet. The hat is a small high turban and the muff is a barrel shaped one. The collar is of choker sort. On the hat, on the muff and on the collar is fastened a big shell pink velvet rose.

SUCCESSFUL PIGEON RAISING.

The keeper of fancy pigeons must understand at the beginning, that the raising of these fancy birds is a pastime and not a business for profit.

First—visit some good pigeon show where many varities of the birds may be seen. After deciding on the stock that you care to deal with, refer to your catalogue and find the name of a reliable breeder who has your chosen variety for sale. Don't expect to get good birds for nothing. Pay a good price to begin with, and you will save yourself money, and disappointment eventually.

Again you must not expect to buy the breeders prize birds—but content yourself with good breeding stock and feel sure of a good start.

The house of the pigeon should not be any old hut, as I have sometimes seen. The open air house is the very latest in the pigeon world. Have perches for all birds, or there will be a regular European war; once a bird selects a place to roost he keeps grimly to that one perch. The same rule applies to the nests. Clay nest pans should be provided—two for each pair of birds, as sometimes the pigeons will nest a second time before the young are on the floor. Tiers of egg or orange boxes make good nest arrangements. Keep the nests clean, as filth will kill your birds. Nesting materials may be had from short straw, hay or pine needles.

Food for the birds may be purchased from some grain store. Canadian peas should compose the bulk of the mixture with kafir corn, sunflower seed and hemp. Some breeders feed but once a day while again it may be necessary to feed two or three times a day. Keep plenty of ground shell or grit; old plaster, for lime, and salt cat for the salt is needed. Salt cat can be purchased at stores dealing in pigeon supplies.

Have a good drinking fountain in house, as pigeons drink much water, especially when feeding the young. Keep drinking cups very clean.

The best time to breed is the later days of spring, when the eggs begin to hatch. Send to the American Pigeon club for bands for the young birds. These bands are put on the bird when he is about five days old and give the year of hatching. The bands qualify a bird to be shown in any pigeon show in the country.

Finally, join some pigeon club; learn what the other members are doing or not doing. Don't expect to get pigeon news on one page of a poultry magazine. Subscribe to a good pigeon magazine, and keep in touch with the pigeon world.

Sherborn, Oct. 21, 1914.

GREETINGS.

The secretary of the Kings Daughters of Plymouth county, Mrs. Olive Fuller, sends greetings and has given us a large order for papers.

The following former Leaders who have left town, send greetings:—Mrs. Bessie Hall, Mrs. Blanche Blanchard, Mrs. Leila Johnson, and Miss Grace Isaac.

He was only three, but he stood with his legs wide apart and his eyes glued to the Victrola, while it played a Woodland Fantasie. When the end was reached he heaved a great sigh, and looking at his hostess with wonder and conviction in his eyes, he said, "There's lots o' dicky-birds in that box, Mrs. B."

Grandma—"After Grandma dies, who will give you any pennies, Willie?"

Willie—"Why, you won't take your pocketbook to Heaven, will you?"

THE GOLDEN FLOWER OF HAPPINESS

By Miss Ella F. Packard

In the far-famed country of Corinthia, where the birds sang all day long and where many sparkling springs bubbled continually, there lived a great many years ago, a beautiful princess named Rosamond. Rosamond had a wonderful palace for her home,—both her king-father and queen-mother granted her every wish, —she had seven servants, all her own to command, who even hunted for her silver ball if it rolled away while she was playing. Don't you think that the Princess Rosamond ought to have been happy?

But the princess was not happy—she never smiled—and very often tears would roll down her cheeks, and all her seven servants would tremble in fear that the king would blame them for her unhappiness.

Poor Princess Rosamond! By the time she had reached her fifteenth birthday, she no longer played ball—she would send away her servants, and hour after hour would sit by the great fountain in the palace garden, watching the constant bubble, bubble from the hidden spring. Long ago, her father had asked the advice of all the doctors and magicians in his kingdom concerning her, and every one of them had been unable to help her.

One day when, as usual, she had wept for a long time, as she wondered at the sparkling beauty of the water bubbles, she was surprised to see a fine mist suddenly rise over the fountain. It faded away as quickly as it had come, and standing on the rim of the fountain, directly in front of Rosamond, was the tiniest little lady she had ever seen. Her gown was pale green in color and it floated around her like a cloud. In one hand she carried a golden wand and on her head was a golden crown. Her voice, when she spoke, was like the ripple of the brooklet as it passes over the pebbles in its path.

"Why do you weep, my child?" she softly asked the princess.

Rosamond could only murmur in answer, "I do not know."

"That is a poor reason, indeed, Princess," said the fairy, rather sternly. "But perhaps it is not your fault, after all."

"Oh, I am so sorry that I offended you by crying; indeed, I could not help being sad," replied Rosamond. "Please do not go away; won't you tell me who you are?"

"Yes, dear Princess, for I have come to give you advice. I am the Queen of the Fountain Fairies, and have listened for a long time to many complaints from my subjects when your salt tears have dropped into their fountain homes. So I finally called a council of all the fairies, and finally the Queen of the Flower Fairies offered to help you, if you would promise to do all that she commands cheerfully and secretly."

"Yes, yes, Fountain Fairy, I will promise willingly, if you will only help me," cried Rosamond eagerly.

"Then listen, Princess. The Queen of the Flower Fairies bids you seek for the Golden Flower of Happiness. You cannot mistake it, for in its centre lies a bright red heart. If you really wish to obtain it, you must receive no help from anyone; and you must be kind and gentle to every living thing; you will gain the flower when you least expect it. Farewell."

At once the Fairy vanished in a cloud of mist, just as she had appeared, and Rosamond was left quite impatient to begin her search. She stamped her little foot and clapped her hands sharply together. At once her servants came running from the distance. Then Rosamond remembered the Fairy's advice. No one must help her!

"You may go," she said to them all, "I shall not need you for a long time. You may take a holiday."

And they, much astonished, but always obedient, withdrew.

Immediately, Princess Rosamond began to search for the golden flower among those in her father's gardens. Hundreds of different blossoms nodded their heads at her, but she only looked at the yellow flowers, and not one of them had a red heart centre.

When night come, she was quite discouraged, but yet she longed for the next day when she could seek again.

For three days she looked in vain. More buds flowered every day, and there were so many blossoms that she very often wished she might call her servants to help her. But she was so eager to find the Golden Flower of Happiness that she did not disobey the Fairy's advice.

On the fourth day, as Rosamond approached the fountain in the midst of the gardens, she was surprised to find a crippled beggar boy there ahead of her. She knew that people with ragged clothes were never allowed in the palace gardens and she was just about to tell him to go away, when she remembered that she must be kind to everyone. So she said gently:

"What do you want here, little boy?"

He held out his hands to her.

"Please, pretty lady, give me something to eat. I have had nothing for two days, and I have travelled far."

"Why," exclaimed Rosamond, "you poor boy; just wait here a few moments and I will bring you something to eat right away."

She flew into the palace; she called and called; no one seemed to hear her; she ran down into the great kitchen; no one was there; all the servants had gone to get their day's orders from the major-domo.

"Well," Rosamond thought, tossing her pretty head, "at least I know where the jam is."

She opened the pantry door and climbed the little steps to the long shelves, and after taking one of the largest jars from the shelf, she hastened down and out to the boy near the fountain.

"Here," she said, breathlessly, "I had to get this myself for you."

Then she looked at the boy. He was no longer a crippled beggar, but a handsome prince and in his hand, outstretched to her, he was holding a beautiful golden flower with a glowing red heart in its centre. Because of her unselfish service to some one else, the Princess Rosamond had at last been rewarded by the Golden Flower of Happiness.

CHILDREN'S SAYINGS.

A little boy was visiting his grandparents. In order to discourage his very frequent use of the word "aint" his aunt charged him a cent every time they heard him saying it. One day he announced "Anyway, Grandma and I have a lovely time together. We say 'aint' all we like and never charge each other anything.

ORIGINAL.

Little Robert was watching a large St. Bernard dog named Marquis which was playing with a small sky-terrier in the yard opposite.

"Look out mamma," he called to her, "and see Marquis over in his yard playing with a little piece of a dog."

Eleanor, who was six years old, had been going to school only a few weeks but she had learned to raise her hand when she wanted anything. One day she put this into effect when she was sent to get the eggs. Just as she reached the door of the hen house her mother heard her say, "All you chickens that have laid an egg, raise your hands."

Little Miss E., aged 4, had gone for a walk with her dolly. Upon her return she found the family seated on the piazza reading, but she could see nothing but the backs of their heads. Looking up at them a while she said, "Well, here you all are, with your backs facing the street."

Three year old Frederick who had been invited by his grandmother to go with her and "be a Methodist," answered: "No, I am going to be a good boy."

LITTLE COUSIN.

By Irene Chipman Tirrell.

Little cousin's come to visit,
They've just carried him away
To take his travellin' clo'es off
So I guess he's goin' to stay.

But I wished an' wished he wouldn't
When my mama held me tight
An' said how he was comin'
With her face all shiny bright.

She seemed awful pleased an' happy
But it made me kind of blue;
For I'd only seen him just bare once
An' I didn't know what he'd do;

For I 'membere d little cousin
When he'd only just begun
To be a little baby
An' I know he thought 'twas fun

To try an' pull my hair out,
Tho' his hands was dreffal small,
He hadn't any toofies
An' he couldn't talk at all.

I knew I didn't like him,
Tho' my mama said I should
'Cause he was Auntie Sarah's
Boy, and' that I must be good.

An' say I loved the baby;
But somehow there I couldn't,
The more my mama'd tell me
The more I'd say I wouldn't.

But now he's quite a big boy
An' can talk an' walk an' play;
An' so I guess I'll love him,
Well, I'll try to, any way.

ROCK-A-BYE SONG.

By Irene Chipman Tirrell.

Rock-a-bye, my baby, in a lilac bough,
Blossoms sweet are at your feet, buds above your brow,
Over your swaying cradle shadowy clouds of white
Softly, cover the lady moon; good night my babe, good-night.

Rock-a-bye my baby, in a swinging nest;
Star of love shall watch above while you sleep and rest;
Song of birds shall greet you, when the morning light
Opens wide your wondering eyes; good-night my babe, good-night.

Rock-a-bye my baby, safe on mother's breast,
Sweeter far than bough or star or blossom-covered nest;
Kisses rare caress you, loving arms hold tight,
Angels guard and keep you; good-night, my babe, good-night.

THE MUNICIPAL CHRISTMAS TREE.

By Mrs. T. A. R. Kitson.

There are two days in the year when we forget all differences and unite in celebration. These days are Christmas and Independence day.

The last few years have witnessed many changes in the methods of our celebration of the "Glorious Fourth," where not long ago we each had our own festivities with a little display of fireworks, we now have come to join in making the day one of united rejoicing.

Through the efforts of a public spirited committee, patriotic and instructive entertainment is provided for the community during the day time and at night a wonderful display of fireworks closes a day strenuous though patriotic and devoid of the harmful elements of the olden fourth.

The Civic Committee of the Quincy Women's club are attempting this year to inaugurate a Christmas Eve celebration which shall appeal to the whole people in the same spirit of unity which has made "Independence Day" such a success. While our plans are not yet matured we have already assurance of the help and co-operation of many of the prominent organizations in the city, and we feel sure of success.

A mammoth Christmas tree, gayly lighted, will be provided, and we shall hope for the co-operation of every choir and musical society in the city, and with the accompaniment of a band there will be singing of familiar carols, in which, all the people will be expected to join with the true Christmas spirit.

In urging the co-operation of all Quincy, this year, let us remember that never before in all history, has the world had cause to unite more fervently, in the appeal for "Peace on Earth and Good-Will among Men."

STRAY THOUGHTS.

Of a stranger who was a guest of The King's Daughters.

Forgive, kind Daughters of the King
A humble rhymer, who would sing
Your praises if she could,
Tell of the garments that you make
And all for Charity's dear sake,
King's Daughters, fair and good.

The poor you clothe, the hungry feed,
Keep open door for all who need.
Like one of old, you pass not by,
But harken to the wounded's cry,
You soothe his sorrow, ease his pain
You do it not for praise or gain,
Precious to you, in Heaven, will be
Those words, "Ye did it unto Me."

WHY WOMEN SHOULD HAVE THE BALLOT

By Mrs. Claire H. Gurney

The cause of equal Suffrage has progressed so rapidly in the last decade that it almost seems unnecessary to plead it. But here in Massachusetts, the birthplace of religious freedom, the cradle of liberty, woman still has her political freedom to win.

We hope that the cause is nearly gained, but there is still some work to be done, some opponents to be converted.

We do not ask for the franchise, thinking thereby to revolutionize the State or to right all wrongs at the first Equal Suffrage election. We know that woman's vote, will, without doubt be distributed as man's is. But we do believe that on matters of vital interest to the home, the children, and to the woman herself, her vote will be a conscientious one. And we believe that the conscientious vote of woman is needed. In a really happy and successful home, we always find the union of both masculine and feminine elements, and the State is merely a larger home.

Lillie Devereaux Blake in writing on this matter says "The National housekeeping is all out of order for want of that virtue, love of order, and above all conscientiousness which woman especially represents." It will always be the great moral questions that will most interest women. They will vote as they now work, for better laws for women and children; for pure food; better sanitary conditions; practical education; civil service reform; protection of young girls; for for temperance and peace.

These are not the questions that appeal most strongly to men. Men's interest lies in the great political matters, such as the tariff and money standard, but the future welfare of the nation depends upon moral as well as political conditions. As Thomas Wentworth Higginson says—"Woman needs the vote not because she is man's better half, but because she is his other half". Men and women in their votes will supplement each other.

But aside from the question of the betterment of existing conditions, woman needs the political power to protect herself. To again quote from Mr. Higginson:—"There never yet existed a race, nor a class nor a sex which was noble enough to be trusted with political power over another sex or class or race." Woman not only needs the ballot for her protection, but if our theory of government is correct, she has the same right to it that man has. She helps to make the nation. She, as well as man is a thinking working unit in the great whole. She is taxed both directly and indirectly as man is.

It is said that woman's place is the home! But many women would have no homes if they did not first go into the business world and earn them, and shall not these women have a voice in the laws governing their business, whether their work be in mill, store, office or school?

The business woman needs the vote, the factory operator, the clerk in the large department store, the garment maker, the dressmaker, the stenographer, the teacher, the social worker, all these women are up against conditions in their own business life that they can see should be righted, and that could and would be righted if they had the ballot.

It has been said that in Massachusetts without the vote, by persuasion and through the chivalry of men, the laws have been so modified as to accomplish all the reforms asked for by the women. Much needed legislation has been done it is true in the past fifty years, but in states where women vote the same has been accomplished in an incredibly short time. And in many cases the laws on our statute books have been placed there through the efforts of the pioneer workers for Equal Suffrage,—the women who carried along the work of the pioneers and the men who sympathized and worked with them.

We women are constantly called upon to use our influence with politicians for this or that good measure, and the politicans themselves are asking for our support. But indirect influence is often tricky and sordid, and it is always cumberous, and a pure-minded, clear-headed woman hates to use it. With the ballot she can, at least, express her own opinion honestly and without fear at the polls.

But what has moved thousands of women to work for Equal Suffrage has been their strong conviction that it is the duty of every citizen whether man or woman to serve the nation by voting.

The earnest women of Massachusetts come not shrieking hysterically for their rights, but quietly and with womanly dignity—to do what they sincerely believe to be right.

QUINCY CATS OF HIGH DEGREE

By Charlotte Brown

A good thoroughbred Persian cat is the most truly aristocratic animal those haughty beauties moving maknown. Who has not seen one of jestically across the room, waving her magnificent plume, and deigning to loftily accept the softest cushion, and the many admiring attentions bestowed upon her by her adoring mistress.

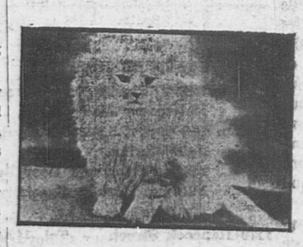

It does not seem very generally known that raising these beautiful pets for the market is an easy and fascinating way to make the pin-money fund a little larger. With most of us, alas, it is usually much too small. A good pedigreed queen, or two of them if possible is really quite a profitable investment, as the kittens will bring from $25.00 up, according to their good points.

"Don-Otto," the beautiful silver male at the top of the page is valued by his mistress at $500.00 He is a great prize winner and always brings home the blue ribbon from the Boston show. His mother was the most beautiful silver Persian ever exhibited on the American show bench. She was imported from England, and her fond mistress refused $250. for her at one time. Her name was "Donna," and she was a most remarkable cat in many ways, and won the much coveted special prize "Best cat in the show" every time shown.

A litter of 4 or 5 of these baby Persians, playing together is the most interesting sight, and a continual circus performance, playing with mammy's lovely feathery plume, climbing up chair legs swinging on the tablecloth corners and doing all sorts of such cunning stunts, with their little round faces more like fancy pictures than real live kittens.

Usually they have very good dispositions and are particularly affectionate with who love them. Once in a while of course there will be an exception and jealousy is most always the cause. In the case of "Alyta" for instance, a very fine chinchilla queen and most gentle and loving with her mistress, but she wants all the little love-pats and attention herself. If any of the other cats are made of and petted, "Alyta" will take the very first opportunity to slap that other cat's face—every time. She is a devoted mother, until her babies are old enough to change their daily bill of fare, and are not satisfied with what their mammy provides; then she will have nothing more to do with them. She has absolutely no further use for them.

Cats are just as individual as people, and no two are alike, which is one of their chief charms. "Billy Burke" was very sensitive to strange voices, and whenever a stranger came to the house, Billy would disappear and remain in hiding until the family were alone again.

Another cat of this same family was very much like a mischievous child, always looking for trouble. She would call the kittens around her, sit perfectly quiet for a minute or two, then suddenly give a leap and go like a flash round and round the yard like all possessed scaring those blessed babies just about out of all their nine little lives, and that cat would look for all the world as though she was laughing at them.

It is a popular belief, I have heard, that these cats are harder to raise than their short-haired cousins. This may be true in a way, because they must necessarily be kept more confined, being much more valuable, and if allowed to run free might be stolen or killed by dogs or automobiles, but where one has only one or two, they are easily cared for and will repay a little love and good care, many times over. They are getting to be much more of a fad for a fashionable pet than the toy dogs and it is quite surprising how many men purchase these lovely cats.

HOSPITAL AID ASSOCIATION.

By Frances Blackmur, President.

When the Hospital was established in Quincy it was evident that organized assistance would be needed to furnish and replenish certain supplies for the institution. As a result, the Hospital Aid Association came into existence. The Association was formed on the theory that much could be accomplished, if everyone would do a little.

In 1890 the Association became endowed and at the present writing it has an endowment fund of only $415.63. The membership is not restricted to women, but includes men as well. At present, there are 311 members, 67 having joined the Association during the past two years. All that is asked of a member is a contribution of $1.00 each year. The interest in the Hospital Aid Association is growing and enthusiastic, but the wants of the Hospital are ever increasing and a large membership is imperative, if the good work is to continue.

Anyone wishing to join the Association may do so by sending their name, address, and $1.00 to Miss Etta Prescott, Glendale road, Quincy.

Meetings are held on the last Thursday of the month, and the women of the Association sew for two hours on articles which are needed in the Hospital. Last year, the Hospital Aid Association supplied the Hospital with all the sheets, pillow cases blankets, bath blankets, towels, bath towels, table linen, bed spreads hot water bag covers, bed pan covers, hundreds of bandages, straps, dressing and surgeons towels, dish towels, and dozens of night shirts and night gowns.

When one realizes how many patients are cared for at the Hospital during the year, they can form some idea of the amount of good work done by the Association.

The cut heading this article shows for what we are working. Won't you join the Hospital Aid Association, if you are not already a member?

Y. M. C. A. AUXILIARY.

By C. P. Hodgkinson, Secretary.

Every woman, the mother of boys or interested in some one's else boy, should be a member to the Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. "Auxiliary" means work, women aiding; the women's part at the Y. M. C. A. certainly is important, where the need is, there the work is, and the Auxiliary has its duties.

The second Friday of each month, at 3 o'clock, from October to May inclusive, the Auxiliary meet in Association hall in the Y. M. C. A. building. There is always a most helpful and inspiring devotional exercise, conducted by different friends or ministers to open the meeting, usually followed by music also by some friend of the Auxiliary. Business follows, there is always more or less; then, Mrs. E. I. Beale the president introduces the speaker, some one whom she knows will bring to the members an interesting and timely subject; no one is ever disappointed.

All hearing the State Boy's Secretary, H. W. Gibson's address at the October meeting could not but be helped by his message. Mr. Gibson is the boy's friend; knows him thoroughly, sympathizes with him, and loves him. He suggested all who possibly could to avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing Mrs. Irving H. Upton of Roxbury speak before the Auxiliary in January on "Fretfulness in the home." One does not necessarily have to be a member to profit by these meetings, all who may come are heartily welcome.

The work is divided among eight committees, namely:—entertainment, boy's work, refreshment, membership, music, hospitality, flower and reception. The refreshment committee is an active one, suppers and Bible class "feeds" always being in order. The entertainment committee is busy with the play, "The time of his life" to be given in Alpha hall in November. It is hoped the affair will be a success as this committee is largely responsible for the condition of the treasury.

Having renovated the boys' parlor and re-upholstered the chairs in fine leather, the reading room looked more in need of fresh paint than ever, a committee was appointed and the walls were soon made clean and wholesome. Other rooms the boys use every day are sadly in need of paint and repairs, the Auxiliary hopes to put them in fine condition before winter is over. All bills paid, it is satisfactory to note and $189.74 in the treasury October 9 to begin the year's work.

The program for this year is instructive as well as attractive, printed in booklet form. Membership according to wards is given. Officers, dates, speakers and their subjects are clearly stated, as well as the names of the directors representing the various churches.

THE QUINCY DAY NURSERY.

By Elizabeth B. Hultman.

The Quincy Day Nursery is an incorporated society for the purpose of caring for the fatherless children of the city whose mothers must work away from home during the day, the mother being a widow by death or desertion.

No child under nine months or over seven years of age is admitted to the Nursery excepting as provided by the by-laws. Children who have been cared for in the nursery for several years still have the privilege of taking their luncheon there when attending school until they are twelve years of age.

The mothers pay five cents a day for each child and for that small fee the children are cared for from seven in the morning until six at night, and provided with one substantial meal at twelve o'clock which consists of one of the following dishes each day, corn chowder, pot roast, beef stew, beans, macaroni with tomatoes and creamed salt fish and mashed potatoes.

In addition the children are given luncheons at half past nine and half past three o'clock consisting of crackers or cookies. They always receive their meals with joy and it is a pleasure to watch them. Before beginning dinner they sing a song of Thanksgiving and when the meal is finished they sing all the nursery songs.

In the earlier days of the Nursery its privileges were abused by some women who had husbands who supported them, but as the wives did not wish to care for their children they put the children in the Nursery while they added to the family income. I have even heard reports that some women left their children there while they went shopping. I do not know that these things were true, but such rumors did the Nursery an immeasurable amount of harm. Fortunately, I think the Nursery has lived down that reputation and I know for a fact that no woman has children there now who is not entirely dependent upon her own efforts for the support of her children. Many people thought the "Mother's Aid Pension" would make a great deal of difference to the Day Nurseries but so far as the Quincy Day Nursery is concerned there is only one of our mothers who is receiving any aid and she is assisted with her rent. We conduct a careful investigation regarding each new applicant before admittance of her children to the Nursery. We are also very careful about watching the children for humors or contagious diseases and for the past year and a half there has been no epidemic of any kind in the Nursery.

The Nursery is constantly growing. In August 1913 we cared for an average of eleven children a day while in August 1914 we cared for an average of eighteen per day. The Nursery is supported by the generosity of the public. We begin our year October first and just before that date, sometime the latter part of September, we hold a "Tag Day" which nets us the larger part of our annual income. This year we took in the largest sum in our history, $550.00, and it is most encouraging to feel that the public really takes an interest in the work of the Nursery, and that the interest is growing.

There has been some objection to having young girls sell the tags but this prejudice is fortunately dying away. All mothers wish their daughters to help make the world a better place, and what nobler way can they find than by helping these women less fortunate than themselves, who in their youth may have had all the protection and kindness that those who are asked to help now have, and may lose by adversity and misfortune over which they have no control. It is all for sweet charity and it seems impossible that anyone should misunderstand or take advantage of young girls asking them to buy a tag.

The Ladies Guild of Christ Church gave us a most generous Donation Day Thursday, October first. The Ladies of Bethany Church give us a Donation Day each year. Donations of all sorts are most welcome.

We have a dance for the grown people and one for the children each year and these four things are the extent of our demands upon the generosity of the public.

The City of Quincy generously supplies the Nursery with a Thanksgiving dinner and I know no dinner is eaten with more thankfulness or gives more real pleasure than this one. At Christmas time the children are given a Christmas tree and party with ice cream and cake, and anyone who wishes to come is most welcome.

Visitors are welcome at the Nursery at all times and the Directors of the Nursery would be glad to have everyone in Quincy visit the Nursery and see for themselves the work we are doing.

THE DISTRICT NURSE.

By Clara C. Hunting.

District Nursing in Quincy was started by the Quincy Woman's Club, at the incentive of Dr. Jeffrey R. Brackett of Boston, when in 1905, he gave his old homestead on Goffe street, to be used as a club house. The first nurse began her work in July of that year, taking up her residence at the club house in the rooms set aside for her use. Great credit is due that first nurse, Mrs. Hatch, for her untiring efforts in starting this important work.

As time went on, our physicians became more and more dependent upon the district nurse for assistance, and the number of calls increased until in 1911 it became necessary to engage a second nurse. Since these two nurses have been on duty constantly, and have become quite indispensable to the community.

They are called by practically all the doctors in Quincy and they take all kinds of cases, except contagious diseases. Their work is not limited to the poorer classes of people, but they may be called by anyone who needs the care of a trained nurse in the home for a short time each day. The doctors find it a great convenience to have the help of the nurses in obstetrical cases, or in minor operations at the homes of their patients.

The co-operation of the Quincy Hospital and the Associated Charities is helping to increase the work. Arrangements have been made with Miss Hill, the superintendent at the Quincy Hospital, whereby the third-year nurses of the training school are to take a two-months' course in district work with our nurses. The hospital also notifies our nurses when patients are discharged from the hospital, who may need some care at home before they are fully recovered.

The Weekly Conferences, held at the office of the Associated Charities, are attended by our nurses whenever possible. The secretary, Miss Purchase, sometimes has cases brought to her notice in which the district nurses can be of great assistance. The importance and need of this district nursing in Quincy is evident, when its steady progress is shown. During the month of September just passed 372 visits were made by the two nurses. As all parts of Quincy profit by this work, it seems as if all the people of Quincy should help it financially.

The Quincy Women's club gives the rooms, with light, heat and telephone service, and in addition $200 annually toward the salaries of the nurses. The fees collected by the nurses are turned in toward their salaries. The maximum fee for an ordinary nursing call is fifty cents; $2.00 for an obstetric case, and $2.00 for assistance at an operation. But even with this help, several hundred dollars must be raised each year by the Visiting Nurse Committee. Unity Circle, King's Daughters, has made an annual contribution of fifty dollars ever since the work began. The Quincy Catholic club and the Kathryn Crane Memorial club also give ten dollars each annually. We wish we had more such friends among the churches and societies. The greater part of the money raised comes from individual subscriptions. Why not save our pennies and make a contribution to this good work?

A little girl, who was to have a party on her third birthday, asked a little friend who was four years old, if he was coming to her party. He answered her saying: "If I have a madvertisement I guess I will."

"Does the baby talk yet?" was the question asked the baby's brother. "No, he don't need to talk. All he has to do is yell, and he gets everything in the house worth having."

Two little boys, Johnny and Tommy, were playing "funeral" one day. They marched around the grave which they had dug, threw in flowers, and then Johnny said, "They always sing at funerals, so lets sing "Everybody's doing it!" So they sang the song, but there was some doubt in Tommy's mind in regard to the appropriateness of this vocal selection, so when the time came for another song, he proposed that they sing, "Stand up for Jesus." "Oh no," exclaimed Johnny. "Let's sing 'Sit down, you're rocking the boat!"

A little five year old, who had watched with interest a brother digging fish worms, came with a big caterpillar and said: "Oh see the upholstered worm."

SOCIAL SERVICE IN QUINCY

By Jenny M. Purchase

Secretary of Associated Charities

Social Service is a service rendered to the community as a whole, on the one hand, or to whole classes of people in the community on the other. Great leaders of men like Moses and Isaiah, Jesus and Paul were full of zeal for the temporary welfare of men: they emphasized not only individual obedience to the law and to the commandments, but they made it clear that seeking the temporal welfare of men is an essential part of any gospel that would lay claim to being God-inspired.

The Associated Charities of Quincy plans to supplement the work of the churches and to combine with them for the benefit of individual families and for the community at large. The Society welcomes clergymen and delegates from churches of all denominations, to the meetings of the Society and to the weekly conference which is held Wednesday afternoons at 3 o'clock ,and also welcomes active church workers as friendly visitors for families.

They endeavor whenever possible to put families in touch with the church of their own denomination and when a family has no church preference, they try to make connection with the church they would naturally belong to. And so the work is not non-religious, it is non-sectarian.

There are now nearly 700 families known to the society, scattered all over Quincy—known to the society because of sickness, poverty, weakness, mental or moral, drink, old age, inefficiency etc. etc. Beside the churches the schools, the physicians, The King's Daughters, the Needlework Guild, the Quincy Charitable Society, the Kathryn Crane Memorial club and other public and private agencies, many private inviduals cooperate to make the work a success.

If you know a case of need in this city why not call up Quincy 1180, see if the family is already known to the society and find out what has been done? If they are not already known a visit will be made at your request and a report returned to you. Any need will be at once relieved. This society offers a business-like, sensible, thorough, efficient and systematic way of caring for the poor and the needy. The officers and directors of the society are well known representative men and women of this city. That the people of Quincy appreciate the work of the society and realize its value to the community is proven by the generous support which has been given during the two and a half years of its existence.

Because of the war and for other reasons, the coming year promises to be a hard one. With more men out of work, more poverty and suffering everywhere, there is a greater demand for food, shoes, clothing etc. There is increased work for the society and increased expenses. But the society is entering on a campaign to meet these needs, full of courage and with confidence that the people of Quincy recognizing the need, will also recognize the importance of a quick and a generous response to the appeal.

THE MOVEMENT FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE

By Teresa A. Crowley

The fact that many women are more or less indifferent on the question of votes is sometimes cited as a reason why suffrage should not be further extended, but reform movements of all kinds, or rather, I do not like the word "reform," let us say all changes, however beneficial they may be, are invariably met by the indifference of the many and the opposition of the few. We have only to glance back over our own history to show this to be so. Our glorious Revolution, of which we are now so proud, was fought out, as the historian Lecky points out "by a small but energetic minority."

And we all know of the reception which the early anti-slavery people received at the hands of the majority of the people, in fact, it seems to be in the nature of the majority of the masses of people, on any question, to fall into line afterwards, and they usually add "Why, yes! we have believed in this thing for years." In fact, I understand it is almost impossible to find an anti-suffragist or anyone who was an anti-suffragist, in any of the suffrage states.

We know that every step forward in the progress of the world, and in the progress of women, from the opening of the public schools to girls to the opening of suffrage to adult women, has been opposed by the few and looked upon with indifference by the many, but there are a few who would now look with indifference upon the altering of any of these privileges after they have once been granted. Therefore, we must take this question upon its merits and accept this indifference of the masses and opposition of the few as the inevitable and matter of course thing.

We are told that a woman's place is the home, and that she should not mix in politics. This, of course, is entirely over-looking the hundreds of thousands of women who have no home or who are forced out of their homes by the necessity of earning their daily bread, but conceding that the happiest and the usual place for woman is the home, we still feel, more for that reason perhaps, than for any other, that she should have the vote. It is all very well to say that the home should not enter into politics, but we cannot prevent politics entering the home.

When we remember the numerous laws that are passed connected with pure food, with sanitation, with street cleaning, with schools and all those other phases of life, that each woman is bound to come into contact with, we can no longer expect the woman in the home to keep entirely aloof from politics. That is already impossible. Every time she turns the water faucet in her home, she turns on a stream of politics. Even the milk is subject to regulation of the legislature. Now this is not outside the home, but inside the baby. By all this I do not mean to say that women by possessing the vote could bring about ideal conditions along all these lines of which I have spoken, but I do mean to say that their judgment on such matters is invaluable and that their voices should count, and I mean further to say that the very men who are interested in keeping the streets dirty, the schools poorly sustained, the food and mik supplies impure, are aso the very men who would rather see anything in the world come to pass than that women should be given the vote.

Therefore, my conclusion is that because woman's place is the home she should have the vote to represent that home and to protect that home, if for no other reason.

We feel that the woman who pays taxes suffers an injustice when she has no voice in saying how they shall be spent. I know that it is said that a man too often pays taxes on property where he has no residence and therefore no vote, but at least the man is represented somewhere, somehow. If his interest in the place is sufficiently great he can acquire a residence and a vote there, but it is hard to make the woman who owns and lives on one piece of property and pays perhaps the largest tax in town on it, see the justice of it when she sees that money laid out in roads, lights and other things without being able to help decide where these roads and lights shall be and how much they shall cost. It is hard for such a woman to realize that taxation without any possible representation is not quite as much tyranny now as it was in the days when that was the war cry of this country.

It is of course obvious that votes are not based on the property qualification, otherwise as it has been pointed out, John D. Rockefeller would have one hundred votes to another man's one, and by the same token it is equally obvious that votes are not based on the qualifications of physical force, otherwise Jack Johnson would have a hundred votes to one of,—well of some of the members of the legislature for instance. But, the world has outgrown both these ideas. The idea that voting depends on physical force is a theory and we have facts to deal with.

Now what are the facts? That soldiers and sailors, the very men who do the fighting when there is any to be done, are also the very men who do not and cannot vote, that the best fighters are usually the very young men, that in this state we allow all the men the lame, the halt, the blind, the invalid, the cripple, who by no possibility could be called upon to defend this country no matter what her need, to have a right to vote if they choose to exercise it. We do not quarrel with these facts, we simply call your attention to them to show that this theory that the right to vote depends on the ability to fight is nothing but a theory—a sound one perhaps—but one that simply does not fit the facts.

The family were discussing the high prices of provisions generally when the small boy butted into the conversation "Jam has gone up too," he remarked. "Ma keps it on the top shelf now."

QUINCY CHARITABLE SOCIETY.

The Quincy Charitable Society was organized on Nov. 21, 1837 at the home of Rev. William P. Lunt, the pastor of the Unitarian church who was its first president. The object of the society is admirably stated in the preamble of the constitution which is as follows:

Considering that it is God that giveth us power to get wealth, and health, that we may enjoy it, and considering that He has commanded us to be ready to give, and glad to distribute, and hath assured us that with such sacrifices, He is well pleased, and considering the present necessities of the poor, and their future wants, we do resolve by Divine permission to form and to maintain a society in the town of Quincy. to assist the poor.

The society gives to all worthy people in need of assistance, coal and groceries whenever their need is made made known to the directors.

The society disburses between $400 and $500 each year, including $50 paid to the secretary of the Associated Charities, and help when called upon, those who apply to the secretary.

This society was incorporated in December, 1904, several deceased members having left money in trust, the income to be expended by the directors.

CAMPFIRE GIRLS.

By Carlena Walker.

Quincy has five Camp Fire groups: the Wampatuk at the Point; Moswetuset at Wollaston; Quossett at South and West Quincy and Pasonagessit and Chickatawbut in the Center. Of these the Wampatuk is the oldest. Each group is organized separately, but all meet together frequently for general good times.

As most people know, the Camp Fire symbolism is Indian, chosen because of its applicability to each particular group. Wampatuk was the Indian who sold most of the land at Quincy Point to the white settlers. The Camp Fire bearing his name has selected as a symbol, the mark that he used in signing the treaty for the land. To their guardian, Miss Ruth Bass, Quincy is indebted for the introduction of the Camp Fire movement.

Quossett means Rocky Places, an especially good name for the group living in the quarry district. For a symbol they have chosen a heap of stones. Miss Marie Bass is the guardian of the Quossetts.

Moswetuset is the Indian name for the land at Wollaston. Their symbol is a cairn and their guardian is Miss Dorothy Sayward.

Both the Camp Fires in the Centre derive their names from Mt. Wollaston: Chickatawbut being the name of one of the chiefs, and Pasonagessit, the old Indian name for the land itself. The latter have as a symbol, the tree that appears on the seal of Quincy. Miss Alice Brooks is the guardian of the Chickatawbuts and Miss Carlena Walker of the Pasonagessits.

Grouped together, all these Camp Fires have fifty-two members of whom eight are Fire Makers and thirty are Wood Gatherers. Miss Ruth Bass is our only Torch Bearer. The others have not attained any rank as yet. These degrees are all earned by performing various duties which carry out the Camp Fire watchwords—"Work, Health and Love."

During the past year, the various groups have had two tramps to the Reservation and a swimming party at Wollaston beach. In the spring, the Moswetusets invited the other groups to an elephant party, the proceeds of which helped to buy the elephants for Franklin Park. The next general meeting was a Hallowe'en Party in Hancock Hall on October thirtieth.

There is also one Nest of Blue Birds an organization for girls under twelve years. They are taught sewing and basketry by the Wampatuk Camp Fire girls. When they are old enough, they will became Camp Fire girls, too.

THE CHARITABLE TEN CIRCLE.

Miss Rebecca Palfrey, a member of the Cambridge family of Palfreys, who became the wife of Rev. David Utter, pastor of the Unitarian Church in Denver, Colorado, wrote a most attractive and suggestive little poem called "The Daughters of the King," which was read all over the country and finally led to the organization of the King's Daughters. Among the first in Quincy was the circle known as the Charitable Ten organized Jan. 8, 1888. Several members are now over ninety years of age.

Last spring after twenty years of most faithful service as a leader, Mrs. F. S. Davis resigned much to the sorrow of the entire circle. None felt competent to fill the vacancy as efficiently as Mrs. Davis had, but finally at the request of the circle Mrs. Thomas Fenno became leader and is a most sincere earnest worker for the King.

MISADVENTURE IN PIGEONS

The subject of pigeons is never mentioned in our family now—it is too painful. It is some three years since our son conceived the plan of going into the pigeon business as a side line while going to college. It looked like a "get-rich-quick" scheme, and while my judgment spoke against it, I knew that young people must be encouraged in their enthusiasms, so made no opposition. The father enthusiastically agreed to finance the affair, and to put it upon a business basis, the son was to regard it as a loan, to be repaid out of the profits.

A college friend had a brother in New Hampshire who wished to dispose of seventy-five pigeons. He had made so much money out of them that he felt it was sinful to keep them longer.

We bought and they arrived. An aunt loaned a long shed attic, and a large two-story wire house was added for a flying coop. Conditions seemed ideal. All my pet cake tins were taken for baths and food, and even the bread raiser cheerfully laid upon the altar. Now began the grain bills. Every pigeon delicacy was ungrudgingly bought, a preference being given to imported foods.

We expected that it would take some time for them to become wonted, but they continued homesick for so long a period that we grew anxious. They looked ancient to me, and I still feel they were. Grudgingly they commenced to lay. Many of them laid in the nests and set on the floor. Rats took a hand in the game, still further retarding the pigeon business.

However, by July a few squabs were ready for the market. A neighbor ordered six and we all felt more cheerful.

Then began the tragedy of the case. Some young hoodlums had discovered the tempting pigeon house, and each week-end we found fewer pigeons. At last the young thieves became so brazen that they came in the daytime, their method being very simple a small boy would crawl between the wires stun the pigeons by hitting them with a long pole, pass the birds to the boys outside who would put them in gunny sacks.

When I first saw them carrying on their operations, I rushed to the telephone and called up the Police Station, stating the case. "Do you know the names of the boys?" a voice said. "Of course not," I replied. "Then how do you suppose we can catch them," said the voice. It was a powerful lesson on the police protection of our property.

Learning from this that we must depend upon ourselves, I set myself to do police service. I brought on asthma, and strained a weak heart by chasing boys with burlap bags up the hill, only to see them disappear in the distance with their booty, and catch their howls of derision.

The long summer waned, and also the pigeons. It was an immense relief when late in October the son announced that he was going out of the pigeon business. He dressed the remaining pigeons, two dozen, and sold them. His only previous sale was two and a half dozen squab, so the total income from the venture is very plain. As a business investment it was a failure but as an object lesson to the son it was a howling success. and father paid the bill.

THE BETHANY WOMEN'S UNION.

By Charlotte L. Crane.

That "in union there is strength" has been proven by the women of Bethany Congregational church.

Gathering together the scattered forces of several groups of women within the church, who were working for as many different objects, the Bethany Women's Union was successfully organized. The work now embraces not only that of the former organizations, but under the various committees for Missions, Boys Work, Home Culture, Hospitality, Membership, Serving, Welcoming and Suppers a much broader field has been entered upon.

The regular monthly meetings, at which a lunch is served at noon, affords an excellent oportunity for the promotion of social intercourse, while the afternoon address along some one of the adopted lines of work, always interests and is a stimulus to better service.

The Union is another name for opportunity, where every woman in the church may find her niche. Those with limited time or means at their disposal can always hold out a helping hand, while those better favored can reach out in countless ways.

The Union inspires them to be and to do something for the church, and for the community and for the Kingdom of God.

We would suggest that the Civic Association confer with the Mayor, and arrange to allow the painting of houses and cleaning up of property without increased valuation.

A WOMAN'S VIEW OF SPORTS.

By Miss Ruth Bass.

And still we talk about the Braves "All hail George Stallings' Braves, World's Champion for 1914."

What about our own "brave" sports in Quincy. We have them Yes old historic town. If you really wish to see a good game;—go to one of the grammar school league soccor games.

Soccor foot ball was introduced into the public schools with the advent of the present physical director. It is a good clean open game, and one that can be easily followed.

Competitive games such as soccor and baseball among the schools have done splendid work in uniting the different parts of Quincy. Before the grammar school league there was a great deal of hard feeling and scraps. Now keen rivalry is about as far as it goes.

The Washington School star in this particular line of sport. These boys are the champions having been scored on only once in the last three years. Tie score or no score at all was the general run of the games last fall.

The Grammar School baseball championship fluctuates from one section of the city to another. Boys all understand the inner work of baseball. A penant school game is almost as exciting and thrilling as a Worlds series. Not quite.

High School is holding its own in foot ball as usual. The basket ball season begins January 5, with a game with Wellesley at Quincy.

What about the girls of Quincy a great real is said and very little is done for them. They have no chance to represent Quincy in sport except as fans. Along the line of athletic training for girls, Quincy is far behind even the small towns. Why should that be Girls deserve as much and certainly need as much training along that line as the boys do. Who is to take care of the future generation if not the girls of today and how better fit them to be healthy happy useful women than by systematic physical exercise.

The old idea that a women is a doll to be dressed up and petted is fast dying to take care of themselves. The growth of civilization demands it. Why not have it made a little easier!

Splendid work is being done at Woodward. Besides corrective gymnastics, educational and aesthetic work recreative games such as basket ball, volley ball and tennis are played. To make competition more keen two silver cups are awarded yearly. One, for basket ball goes to the winning class team. The individual cup awarded in tennis is well worth the effort to win. The tennis turnament is a yearly affair that is looked forward to with the keenest anticipation not only by the contestants but by all the pupils.

A flourishing Athletic Association at Woodward has committees who plan for outings in the way of tramps, skating parties, snow shoeing and tennis. A monogram is awarded for excelling in any if the above sports.

The physical department of the Young Men's Christian Association in Quincy consists of a qymnasium with sufficient floor space to accommodate large classes, locker room, shower baths; swimming pool and two bowling alleys. The gymnasium is well equipped, excellently lighted and ventilated. The apparatus is modern and kept in good repair. The swimming pool is the only place in Quincy where a man or boy can swim the year around.

The system of exercise is planned to provide for each member the exercises best adapted to his need and to promote the highest degree of health. The methods employed include the principles which experiment and scientific study have provd to be best adapted for associations, and have the hearty endorsement of reputable physicians and business men.

The aim is to give the greatest good to the largest number and to aid each member in securing that dgree of health that enable him to better accomplish his work in life.

Special recreative features are provided such as basket ball, volley ball, baseball, cricket, slug-ball and bowling.

Thayer Academy is not doing so much in athletics as in former years. the girls have been playing soccor football this fall. September and October have been ideal months for outdoor sports. Later is the season the girls will no doubt develope a strong basket ball team to put them among the winning teams of this section.

The boys at Thayer have done nothing in football. They will probably make up in a fast basket ball team.

On the whole this is a poor time of year for sports. Baseball just over, college foot ball in its prime taking every ones attention winter sports and track events hardly in full swing.

ANNUAL MUSICALE OF QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB

By Mrs. Jennie Hocking Hunt

Those of us who witnessed nearly thirty years ago, the first production in Boston of Gilbert and Sullivan's opera, "The Mikado," will remember the furor and delight with which it was received. Everyone flocked to see it and soon "Tit Willow," "The flowers that bloom in the spring," "The Moon and I," "I've got them on my list," and the many other tuneful lays of the score, became household melodies.

The Mikado was composed in 1885, at the very height of Sullivan's career, and the essentially lyric quality of his music, the fluency of the melody, and above all, the dainty orchestrations so characteristic in his light operas, were perhaps never surpassed in any of his other compositions.

On the evening of February 10, 1915, the Music Committee of the Quincy Women's club, Mrs. Jennie Hocking Hunt, chairman, will present this opera "The Mikado" at Music hall. The Quincy Women's club has demonstrated before what it can do with a Gilbert and Sullivan opera. Neither cast nor audience we venture to say, have forgotten the fine performance of the ever-popular "H. M. S. Pinafore" given by members of the club a few years ago. The late James Pitman, who was for many years the coach of the Castle Square theatre plays, and who directed the production of the opera for the club, stated that he never saw a better amateur performance in his life that the whole presentation had the finish of professional work.

Unlike Pinafore whose cast was made up entirely of women, a few of them professionals, the Mikado's dramatis personae will be composed of both men and women, all of them well known artists. The leading woman's part. "Yum-Yum," will be taken by Mrs. Mary Hastings Slade, the soprano soloist of First church, Quincy, and a more charming heroine of the opera could scarcely be found. The part of "Katisha, daughter-in-law elect" of the Mikado, has been given to Miss Annie Deane, whose splendid impersonation of Captain Corcoran in the Pinafore success mentioned above, every one will recall. This is Miss Deane's favorite role, and in it she surpasses herself —Mr. John E. Greene, the bass soloist of All Souls church, Braintree, will be the "Pooh-Bah," Mr. Charles H. Everett, baritone of the Wollaston Congregational church will take the part of "Pish-Tush." The leading male part "Nanki-Poo," the disguised son of the Mikado, will be ably impersonated by Mr. Frederic Kennedy, the tenor soloist of the Rogers Memorial church, Fairhaven, Massachusetts. Negotiations are nearly completed for engaging artists for the remaining four principal parts in the cast, and a chorus of sixty people will soon begin rehearsals. Mr. Kennedy will stage and coach the entire production and a fine orchestra will be in attendance.

Mrs. Hunt has the hearty support and co-operation of the Music Committee and the club in general, and one of the greatest achievements of the many successful efforts during the ten years' existence of the Quincy Women's club, is enthusiastically predicted.

WOLLASTON GLEE CLUB.

The Wollaston Glee club has the unique distinction of being the oldest musical club, in point of years of continuous work, in Quincy. The first meeting of the club was on March 25, 1901, with a membership of ten; at present there is an active membership of thirty and an associate membership of one hundred.

Article II of the Constitution reads: —"The purpose of this organization shall be to awaken an interest in music and to disseminate a knowledge of music throughout the community," and the club has faithfully endeavored to carry out this ideal. This has necessitated devotion of time and energy by each member of the club in order to give the community something better musically each season.

There have been three directors during the life of the club, Messrs. Walter Arnold, William Lester Bates and John A. Crowley. The latter is now serving the club to the satisfaction of everyone.

It has been the custom of the club to use its money in presenting to its patrons the very best musical talent possible at concerts; that this custom is satisfactory to the public is shown by the increased size of the audiences at each succeeding concert.

The Glee Club each season gives two concerts in Wollaston and one or more outside. They have had the pleasure of assisting at concerts for worthy causes, notably for the Y. M. C. A. building fund. The San Francisco earthquake sufferers, and the organ fund for the Park and Downs church.

The benefits of the Glee club are open to all men who have some knowledge of vocal music, and any such are cordially invited to communicate with any member or officer of the club.

The season of 1914-15 promises to be a most interesting and enjoyable one. The first concert is to be given Jan. 12, 1915, with Mme. Sapin, contralto of the Boston and Metropolitan Opera Cos., assisting. At this concert the program includes "Awake my Love," Gericke,—"The Cruishkeen Lawn," Herbert,—"'Tis a long way to Tipperary," Judge,— "The Monk of the Mountain," Bullard,—Brahms "Rhapsody" arranged for men's voices with contralto solo, Mme Sapin singing the solo.

The spring concert comes April 6. It is expected at this concert the assisting artist will be America's leading Prima Donna, Mme. Evelyn Scotney of the Boston Opera Company, and the public may rest assured that the club will do its best to maintain its reputation in the work produced.

QUINCY CHORAL SOCIETY.

The Quincy Choral Society holds a high position in the social and artistic life of our city. It stands in its accomplishments on a level which by comparison to its size is second to none in this state. All loyal citizens at this time are intensely interested in the upward trend in every direction to make the city of Quincy a delightful place to live in, therefore we must take pride in the fact that a society which stands for the best in musical art is well established and performing its mission of uplift and giving enjoyment to music lovers season after season. Statistics have proven that in most musical societies it is the usual and not the unusual thing to require financial assistance year after year.

In view of the fact that musical productions of so high a standard and of so necessarily great expense can be supported almost entirely by the public, places Quincy Choral Society in the front rank in regard to progress and raises the musical influence of our city to a high position where music lovers hope it will remain.

It is fortunate in having at its head a live wire president, Mr. T. B. Pollard, who has been the only president the society has known since its inception seven years ago. Its affairs are planned and executed by a most ambitious board of officers and directors, who work together in a vigorous, still harmonious, manner with only one object in view, and that for the best welfare of the life of the Society.

The chorus is drilled under the baton of a conductor, Mr. George Sawyer Dunham, who stands high in the musical profession in and about this state.

Rehearsals for this season's work began on Tuesday evening, Nov. 3, and the studies which have been carefully selected are Rossini's "Stabet Mater" and Gounod's "Gallia." These contain gorgeous chorus numbers and beautiful parts for solo voices. The concert date is set for March second. All young people who can sing are cordially invited to join and by sending the name to the president or secretary will receive a hearty welcome.

COMING EVENTS.

The Men's club of the Wollaston Congregational church, Chester I. Campbell, president, will give a Minstrel Show, Dec. 11-12, 1914. There will be a large chorus, with specialties and an original southern plantation scene.

There will be a Vesper service at the Wollaston Congregational church on Sunday, Nov. 22, at 4 P. M. Gounod's "Gallia" will be sung, the soprano solo being taken by Miss Ruth MacaTammany, the new soprano of the church. Miss MacaTammany possesses a brilliant voice, and is studying for grand opera. Owing to the war in Europe, she is obliged to remain in this country, which is the good fortune of the Congregational church.

A new male quartet has been organized, composed of Quincy young men known as the Schuman quartet. It includes: Mr. C. D. Hopkins, first tenor; Mr. H. L. Rogers, second tenor; Mr. C. H. Everett, first bass; Mr. L. B. Weston, second bass. Watch their progress.

OLD MAIDS.

All girls should marry when they can. There's naught more useful than a man. A husband has some faults, no doubt, and yet he's good to have about; and she who doesn't get a mate will wish she had one, soon or late.

That girl is off her base, I fear, who plans to have a high career, who side-steps vows and wedding rings to follow after abstract things. I know so many ancient maids, who is professions, arts or trades have tried to cut a manlike swath, and old age finds them in the broth. A loneliness, as of the tomb, enshrouds the spinsters in its gloom; the jim crow honors they have won they'd sell at seven cents a ton. Their sun is sinking in the West, and they, unloved and uncaressed, must envy as they bleakly roam, the girl with husband, hearth and home.

Get married, then, Jemima, dear; don't fiddle with a cheap career. Select a man who's true and good, whose head is not composed of wood, a man who's sound in wind and limb, then round him up and marry him. Oh, rush him to the altar rail, nor heed his protest or his wail. "This is", you'll say, when he's been won, "The best day's work I've ever done."

KINGS DAUGHTERS QUARTET.

The Kings Daughters Quartet, better known as the "Cecilian," was started last winter under the direction of Mrs. Frank Moore. Its members are members also of the Kings Daughters and Bethany vested choir. Alice Parker sings soprano, Ada M. Williams second soprano, Isabelle Laing first alto, and Florence V. Sabean second alto. The quartet furnishes music for Bethany Kings Daughters meetings, and has had several engagements out of town and at home. In the spring the young ladies gave a concert at the South End Settlement House, Boston, assisted by Mrs. Moore and Miss Agnes Ruggles. Its members are confident of a successful season this year.

WHAT OUR WOMEN COULD DO IN THE EDUCATION FIELD

By Martha Kincaide Mackay

At the close of every school year there are children who for various reasons cannot be promoted. Perhaps they have been absent because of illness and have not completed the years work; possibly they have been careless and playful and interested in things outside of the class room. Whatever the cause, there is usually a considerable number of children who fail to receive promotion.

This means that they must repeat the year's work. They have lost a year of school-life, and the city must pay for it, and give to these children another years' training of the same grade, and very probably the class-room will be overcrowded. One of the worst features of the matter is that the children will feel their lack of success at the beginning of the term, and with that realization comes discouragement.

Nothing succeeds like success. The best teachers keep their children from becoming failures by interesting, encouraging and inspiring them to make the needed mental effort to help themselves along. Many teachers can look about with pride to the boys and girls whom they saved from drifting into this class, by the strength of their own character and personality. Large numbers of grown up boys and girls recognize their debt to loving, faithful teachers who made them work and study and saved them from wasting their school days.

Classes are large and the amount of work to be accomplished in a year in each class is appalling, and so in spite of all efforts, there is always a percentage of children who need assistance to keep them up to grade, and there are not funds available to pay for doing this extra work, besides it cannot be done in regular school time.

Here, then, is some work which the women of Quincy could do during the summer months. Six weeks of individual work upon the backward children of the city would probably put 90 per cent of them up to grade and ready to go on with their classes in the autumn.

Even an inattentive child would form excellent habits in such a summer school. This direct training would react upon his whole life. A defective child under close observation and happy surroundings for six weeks often reveals hidden qualities. The intimate, individual teaching gives him an opportunity to develope and also an impetus to make an effort.

We have in our Woman's Club a large number of ex-school teachers and some experts in the educational field. If a summer review school for children who have dropped below grade, were conducted in Quincy, these women could give a small portion of their time during the summer for such work.

The school could be so systematized that no woman need teach more than an hour a day for two weeks during the summer. It would not matter whether the methods used were the latest or not. Results should be the thing for which to look. There are in the Woman's Club women of intelligence, with sweet faces and kind hearts, who could help these backward children and send them on their way rejoicing, with new confidence in themselves and their own power.

Out of the large number of ex-teachers there would be one who could direct the lessons in reading. If spelling were the subject which needed summer review work, there would be found some women who remembered tricks for fixing words in the mind by using the eye and ear. If fractions were the stumbling block how easily some of the treasurers could make the work a game for the children to enjoy.

Consider the money that this work would save the city, to say nothing of the healthy, helpful influence for the children. The individual, intensive teaching produces wonderful results. In a school-room of forty children each child's proportion of the teacher's time must be very limited, at most it can only be one fortieth. The years' work must be done. If he can't keep up the pace, he must fall behind. The close, individual work teaches the child how to study. Once that habit is acquired he is never in the old-left over class again. With this new found-power, he is able to take his place and hold his own, and he is conscious that his success depends upon his own efforts. He realizes that his future advancement is in proportion to how much he takes in and gives back of what knowledge the teacher presents to him.

The summer review work has met with the approval of our most prominent educators where it has been tried, and they are enthusiastic over what it accomplishes. It is to be hoped that the experiment may be tried in our city by the women who are so earnestly endeavoring to make Quincy the leader in all educational and philanthropic movements.

OUR TREES.

By Martha Kincaide Mackay.

Early last spring people in our city began to hear about the pests which were at work upon our trees. The city men did their best about spraying and ridding the trees of gypsy and brown-tail moths, but there were so many trees and so many pests, it was not possible to keep ahead of them.

The Forestry Committee of the Woman's Club then began to advocate each property owner caring for his own trees in order to save them. They secured the services of a Field Secretary from the Massachusetts Forestry Association. He went wherever he was desired, and advised what to do with the trees which had been attacked. There was no charge for his advice. Where people wished him to undertake the work he did so. Young men from the various schools of forestry were with him. They were nimble and got to the tops of the trees easily, and in this way located all the trouble.

In the early summer the leopard moth made its appearance in our city. This is the worst of all the pests, because it is so deadly in its work and so prolific. Five hundred to one thousand eggs from a single leopard moth is what there is to reckon with. The large worm must be located in the tree and drawn out with a bent wire and burned. Then the hole into which it has bored and laid its eggs must be filled with bi-sulphide of carbon to kill the life in the eggs, and stopped up with putty.

When a small hole appears in a tree, with a little sawdust about it and the sap starting out, that is the signal for quick work in order to save the borer from destroying the tree. They bore up under the bark and then strike for the heart of the tree and often tunnel entirely through the trunk. It is not unusual for them to kill a tree at the top first. In that case the top limbs must be cut off and burned.

While the gypsy and brown tailed moths and the elm beetle are to be fought vigorously to save the trees, they are not to be compared in destructiveness to this leopard moth.

Already the residents of the city having trees on their estates have expended $2,200 to exterminate these pests, and that is splendid, for if this work had not been done the trees would have been lost, because the city men cannot do the amount of work which is necessary to save the trees.

The leaves will soon be off the trees and it will be easy to find the various moths and kill them. Careful work this fall will help us to rid the trees of pests and save them to beautify our city, yield us shade, and keep down the temperature in summer, and make homes for the birds which are the friends of the gardeners.

CAMPBELL SWEEPS THE CITY

Acting Mayor Whiton Receives Flattering Vote

CHESTER I. CAMPBELL.

JOSEPH L. WHITON.

The Scotch bagpipers with their air "The Campbells are coming" would have been right in style Tuesday night, for from the time the first unofficial returns were received there was nothing to it but Campbell. It was a landslide as will be readily understood when it is known that Campbell received a total of 1563 votes, Johnson the second man received 741, Tilden 537, and Bates 391, a total of only 1669 for all of Campbell's rivals.

It was the largest caucus the city has ever held, which shows the great interest that was taken by all voters. The total vote was 4145 as against a total of 2006 at the city primaries in 1913.

Chester I. Campbell carried Wards Three, Five and Six; Charles H. Johnson won in Wards One and Two; and Henry F. Tiden was the favorite in Ward Four.

During the progress of the caucuses, the old timers who were handling check books at the polling places, had it all figured out to a fine point who would win. They gave Wollaston to Campbell, but had it, that while the nomination had simmered down between Campbell and Johnson, that Johnson would win. In Ward One especially the Johnson automobiles were unusually busy all of the evening, and the way in which they unloaded voters at City Hall, made it appear that Johnson would swamp the ward. The returns however showed that doubtless while accepting a ride in Johnson's automobiles they had voted for Campbell.

The Tilden vote was also as great a surprise, especially to those who had been handling his campaign, and it only went to prove that anti-caucus promises amount to nothing. For instance in some wards where house parties were held, with thirty or forty present there was great enthusiasm, and each of these thirty or forty promised to get two and three votes each. The returns however showed that there was something wrong in Denmark.

As the late Henry H. Faxon said, "when Ward Five goes Democratic and Ward Four goes Republican, there is something vitally wrong."

However the vote showed that the citizens and taxpayers are far from being satisfied with present conditions, and that they have taken Mr. Campbell's word that he will give the city a business administration, and work for efficiency in all departments.

As a whole, Mr. Bates' promise of an $18 tax rate did not seem to be taken seriously, for it was a rash promise which anyone at all familiar with city affairs knew was impossible. No man, no matter how efficient he is, can promise a year ahead what the tax rate the coming year will be. There are so many things that enter into the make up of the tax rate that cannot be foretold that few believed it could be carried out.

There were also some surprises in the vote for Councilmen at large. Many were conceding that T. J. McGrath would be one of the fire nominated, but here again they were wrong for he was low man on the list.

The vote of Frank F. Prescott was a surprise to many, who while admitting that he had a good opportunity of receiving the nomination, did not for a minute think that he would get the large vote which he did. His total was 1923. He was second man of those nominated being only 47 votes behind Councilman Craig the high man.

HERBERT G. BEEMAN.

Of the five nominated Councilman Gilliatt was the low man, which was probably due to the fact that outside of his own ward it was not generally known that he was a member of the present City Council, and had served several years as Councilman from Ward Five. His own ward, however,

BATES LOSES ALL NOMINATIONS

Fegan the Choice of the Democrats As a Mayoralty Candidate

Campbell Also Secures Progressive Nomination

While but few seriously questioned but Edward J. Fegan would defeat G. B. Bates for the Democratic nomination, there were some who had been declaring that Mr. Bates would win. The result showed differently, and here again Mr. Bates was not taken seriously in his statement of an $18 tax rate.

Mr. Fegan carried every ward in the city, his total vote being 621 to 119 for Mr. Bates. The largest vote for

EDWARD J. FEGAN.

Mr. Bates was in Ward Four where he received 52 votes, but here Mr. Fegan almost swamped him with a vote of 272. In Ward One Mr. Bates home ward he received but 5 votes to 72 for Fegan, and so it was all along the line, nothing but Fegan.

There were no names printed on the ballot for Councilmen at large, but in several wards names were written in but whether they get the nomination or not is hard to tell.

For School Committee there were no names printed on the ballot.

In Ward One, J. Harry Slade and Henry F. McGee were nominated for Councilmen from the Ward.

In Ward Two, there was quite a contest for Councilmen from the ward with the result that Councilman Griffin and Robert J. Williams, Jr., were renominated. The third man, Timothy W. Stack defeated ex-Councilman William H. Flynn by 34 votes. The votes of the several candidates were as follows:—Griffin 120, Williams 100, Stack 89, Flynn 55.

In Ward Three the two candidates on the ballot, Robert T. Foye and John S. Higgins were nominated. It is also possible that some of the names written on the ballot may give another man a nomination.

In Ward Four there was a hot contest for the three positions for Ward Councilmen. Joseph A. Barry was high man with a total of 236, Councilman James O'Dowd second with 233 and ex-Councilman John D. Smith third with 180. Of the other two candidates, Councilman Stephen B. Little received 151 and ex-Councilman Harry T. Boyd 108.

In Ward Five no candidates were nominated.

In Ward Six John J. Cusick, Philip R. Guinan and Louis A. Twitchell were nominated without opposition.

For School Committee from the ward Joseph H. McPherson was nominated from Ward Four, Michael T. Sweeney from Ward Six.

PROGRESSIVE TICKET.

That there are still a few Progressives left in Quincy, was shown by the party vote of Tuesday, the total vote of this party being 98. Doubtless many of these would like to have voted some other ticket, but as they were enrolled it was the Progressive ticket or nothing.

For Mayor there were two candidates G. B. Bates and Chester I. Campbell. Mr. Bates received a total of 12 and Mr. Campbell 84.

For Councilmen at large Councilman Charles L. Gilliatt and William J. Nott were nominated. Possibly the scattering votes may nominate others.

In Ward One, J. Harry Slade was nominated. Andrew Johnson and J. R. Ross also received some votes and it is probable that they will be nominated.

No candidates were nominated in Wards Two, Three and Four.

In Ward Five the three names on the ballot were nominated. That is Rodney P. Gallagher, Allan R. McDonald and Alfred H. Richards.

In Ward Six, William Mac Mahon, William E. Barnes and Alex D. McDonald were nominated.

No nominations were made for School Committee at large, or for School Committee from Ward Four. In Ward Six however Daniel A. Bruce was nominated from the ward.

SUBMARINES MAY BE BUILT

The Herald says editorially and the women say it's all right:

"The announcement that the Fore River shipyard have contracted to lay down twenty submarines for a foreign power creates interesting speculation as to the ultimate destination of these vessels. It goes without saying that one or other of the European governments now at war will foot the bill, but which one?

"Admiral Sir Percy Scott of the British navy has but recently left this country for England. Charles M. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation has been in London for several weeks.

"Sir Percy is the submarine expert at the admiralty, and only a short time before the present war became involved in a heated controversy with Admiral Beresford and other high naval authorities because he maintained that the fighting strength of the great battleship had been nullified by the perfection of the submarine.

"Naval engagements thus far have proved his contentions to have been more than justified, although we have yet to see the result of a sea battle between a fleet of these silent and invisible fighters and a first class line of battleships. The loss the three Crossies was due to daring submarine work by the Germans. The closing of the North sea is partly a result of their activities, and it has been evident for some time that Mr. Churchill and his sea lords have been making every effort to strengthen this branch of the service.

"At a large meeting in Liverpool the other day, held for the purpose of stimulating recruiting, Mr. Churchill declared that the German fleet must either very soon come out and fight on the high seas, or be dug out like rats from a hole. Naval men interpreted his words to mean that the admiralty had evolved a tactical scheme whereby the German fleet would be driven from under the protection of their shore batteries at Wilhelmshaven and Kiel by a concerted submarine attack. It was then found that Britain's available submarine strength was not sufficient to make the attempt with any degree of safety, and the order to the Fore River yards is perhaps one of the results.

But this is not the whole story. We learn that the submarines are to be delivered in sections, presumably for transportation purposes, to be spliced and rivetted together at their base. This looks like a German market. With the command of the Atlantic trade routes between this country and Europe in the hands of the Allies, such an arrangement would hardly be necessary with England the consignee.

"This idea is besides typically German. She has proved herself an adept in railing big guns in sections from one part of the country to another and setting them up ready for field use at the railheads; and the feat of transporting monitors and submarines by land from the Baltic to the Scheldt is one of the minor astonishing accomplishments of the war.

Viewed from the aspect of international law the United States is interested not at all in these submarines; either in sections or as completed vessels, they are contraband of war and must be taken over by the purchaser within the three-mile limit, where responsibility of both the country and the Fore River company ceases.

Massachusetts has already provided largely of the sinews of war to the fighting nations. Boots for the infantry, saddles for the cavalry, duck for tents, and khaki jackets, have been purchased in this state. We now receive the second largest foreign order for warships ever placed in this country."

WASHINGTON COMMENT.

A Washington dispatch to the Herald makes interesting comment concerning the Quincy bid for foreign submarines:

Officials of the government were interested today in the press dispatch from Boston saying that an order for the immediate construction of 20 submarines had been placed yesterday with the Fore River Ship Building Corporation of Quincy, Mass., and that it was understood that the order had come from some foreign government. President Joseph W. Powell of the Fore River Corporation was at the navy department today in connection with the opening of bids for the construction of destroyers for the United States navy, and Secretary Daniels asked him some questions about the Boston story.

Mr. Powell said that his concern had

THE HOME IN THE BIG OAK TREE.

By Miss Mona Birse

To-whit! to-whoo! to-whit! to-whoo!

Mr. Wise Old-Owl sat in his doorway, in the hollow of the Big Oak Tree early one morning, just as the sun rose out of the sea, and blinked his sleepy eyes, for you see, it was time now for him to go to bed.

He had just returned from an all-night hunt but had caught nothing, and the litle owls in the nest were calling for supper and he had not even a mouse to give them.

Mrs. Owl too had been out and he was afraid that she had met with no better success for she had not yet returned.

He felt very gloomy and despondent and began to think that things were going all wrong with him. "Oh dear!" he sighed, "I built my house in this beautiful Oak Tree because the leaves are so broad and stay on all through the year, and, indeed the foliage is so dense that it seems almost like having the whole woods to ourselves. I thought this such a nice, quiet neighborhood in which to bring up the baby owls, but I am afraid it is too quiet for not even a mouse has squeaked today."

To-whit! to-whoo! to-whit! to-whoo!

He turned his eyes full of wisdom in the direction from whence the familiar sound came, for he knew that Mrs. Owl was on her way home and he hoped that she came not empty-handed.

She came in with a brisk, busy air, but he could see that she carried no bundles under her wing, so, after the usual greetings were over he said, "Well, my dear, did you find no mice, nor chipmunks, nor sparrows on your journeys? I had no luck at all last night and the children are hungry." "Oh dear no," she replied, " I have not been hunting all this time. You see, our club met last night and we discussed the best ways in which to serve up the mice and such creatures as we catch, and the subject was no interesting that we all forgot to go out until nearly daylight, and indeed, it was all I could do to see my way home."

Of course, this state of affairs did not make Father Owl feel any more agreeable, but, being a Wise Old Owl, he had learned that there are times when silence is golden, and the least said soonest mended, so he just tucked his head under his wing and went to sleep.

Mrs. Owl entered the house and was met by a clamorous appeal, from her little family, for something to eat. Now she loved her children as all mothers do, but she had been so busy here and there that she had forgotten, for once at least, that they needed supper. She called them around her and began to tell them stories of the outside world which she had just visited, and which they would see for themselves before very long. She told them of the club meeting and the various ways of serving mice, chipmunks and sparrows, that had been suggested, some of which they would try.

The little ones were very much interested and, for the time, forgot their hunger. Pretty soon she noticed the little heads begin to nod, and a sigh of relief escaped her when the last one was fast asleep.

Then Mrs. Owl thought it all out. Here she was in her beautiful home in the Big Oak Tree, surrounded by her babies and with good Father Owl to provide for them. It dawned upon her that her blessings were many, that the best thing for her to do was to stay at home with her little brood and help Father Owl to hunt when the nights were dark and mice came out in great numbers. She would not spend her time in discussing foolish topics, but continue to serve the mice and other food just as she used to do, which is the only way owls know mice are fit to eat. Thus, having the problem all straightened out to her satisfaction, and, being very tired, she too went to sleep.

The sun rose higher and higher but still they slept on. It reached the west and went down in a blaze of glory. The clouds became tinged with gold and pink and green and purple. Then the stars came out one by one and the little family in the Big Oak Tree began to open their eyes. Just as Father Owl opened his a bat flew through the leaves and in dismay he called aloud to Mrs. Owl, "There, now! mice can fly, what are we going to do?" But she would not be discouraged after making so many resolutions, so answered, "Well, if mice are going to fly we must just fly after them," and, suiting the action to her words, away she flew. Pretty soon back she came with a big field mouse which made Father Owl feel rather ashamed of his grumbling. Taking the hint he shook himself wide awake and he too went a-hunting. He had been gone only a very short time when they heard through the cool night air the familiar to-whit! to-whoo! to-whit! to-whoo! and here he was, at the very door, with a big fat robin.

So they all had a feast, prepared in the way such feasts have been prepared since the beginning of the world. The baby owls had all they could eat, and harmony was again restored to the little Home in the Big Oak Tree.

QUINCY CITY UNION.

The first annual meeting of the Quincy City Union of King's Daughters was held Oct. 20, 1894, and was organized for the purpose of bringing the Circles of Quincy into closer relationship.

Its membership consisted of seven active circles, four of which have grown and flourished, and are still active as City Union members, namely The Unity Circle, Reapers Circle, and Charitable Tens of Quincy and Whatsoever of Wollaston.

By their annual meetings they have stimulated and encouraged the Christian activities, for which the Order of The King's Daughters stands believing that "In Union there is strength."

During the twenty years of its existence there have been many interesting and helpful meetings and many speakers from other charitable organizations have brought their work before the Union, and have also received encouragement and financial aid as well.

In 1907, one hundred dollars was given to the Union, in memory of Miss Mary Turner, the income of which is to be used for worthy Quincy causes. Each year the interest has been used as stipulated and, records show, always wisely.

Pond Home for the Aged in Norfolk County stands as a monument to The King's Daughters work, and the City Union has always cheerfully done its share. In fact, as a union of earnest workers, it has tried to fulfill its mission, and radiate courage and helpfulness, through the circles, into the limitless field open to every true "King's Daughter" for service "In His Name."

AN AUTUMN EVENING.

at Townsend Harbor Pond.
By Mrs. William A. Dole.

A glorious autumn passes o'er the land,
The climax of the year.
Scattering abroad with generous hand,
The largess of good cheer.
We say that never were such harvets seen,
Such fruit in bounteous store!
Pride o' the earth, well-earned, I ween
From the farmer's toil—now o'er.

A restful spirit from good work done
Pervades the country-side
O'er the Harbor Pond in the setting sun,
Broods November's evening tide,
The waters lie calm in Nature's peace.
How can the world be stirred
With news of wars that never cease
And the cruel, naked sword!

The leaves softly fall in the woods beyond,
And formed of mist and haze
A mystery seems to close upon the pond
Yet clear before my gaze,
Rises a cross—stiff—stark on the distant shore,—
Again the Crucified!
We need thee, Lord, to still the cannon's roar
And stem the battle's tide.

ENVOI

The last rays of the sun fall on the place
And make the cross blood-red!
The Red Cross! Grant us Lord thy grace!
Thy mercy is not dead!

WEYMOUTH UNION.

The King's Daughters Union of Weymouth was formed seven years ago with the principal motive to work for the maintenance of Pond Home for the Aged in Pondville as this home is the special charge of Norfolk County, in fact it is "Our Family."

After having cared for Our Family our hearts and minds and hands are to serve in foreign missions, not afar, but here in our community.

Are the King's Daughters appreciated? I can only answer, that if numbers account for the interest in our public social functions we are. Our husking bee's were a joy to all and netted nearly $40 profit each. Our garden fetes for the past three years have been attended by approximately 2,500 people the first year and about 3,000 at the last.

We contribute to Gordon Rest, the Floating Hospital, Morgan Memorial, a district nurse in Weymouth and many private individuals and families needing immediate assistance, are ministered to by the individual circles.

The Whatsoever, Inasmuch, Golden Rule, Opportunity, Watchful, Unity, Ivy and Pansy Circles of the King's Daughters Union of Weymouth have a total membership of 125.

For the past year and a half we have conducted semi-monthly Sunday afternoon vesper services in the Town Home and Almshouse of Weymouth, and last August we presented to the town of Weymouth, a splendid granite drinking fountain, for the use of humans, and small animals, which stands in the mall at Jackson Square, East Weymouth. Our every wish is, ever to serve Our Father, truly In His Name.

QUINCY MANSION SCHOOL.

This school opened very pleasantly on September 24. Already the pupils are very busy. There have been lectures on current events and various subjects.

Mr. and Mrs. William Foster of Boston came out and told of the work of Ford Hall. They told most interestingly of the soup kitchen established last winter.

Miss Haywood addressed the school recently on the work of the International Institute for Girls in Spain. Miss Heywood spent a year as teacher in the school. Her lecture was illustrated with stereoption views.

Mrs. Willard invited the alumnae and their children to spend the day of Monday, Oct. 19, at the school.

Mr. Frank Speaight, the renowned Dickens lecturer is to speak in January.

NEEDLE WORK GUILD.

Among our local charities, the Quincy Branch of the "Needlework Guild of America" must not be forgotten. Its work is done quietly, and only those in touch with its management know the great amount of good accomplished by the organization. It is a National work, first established in Philadelphia, Pa., in 1885, and is modelled largely after a society in England founded by Lady Wolverton. It is wholly non-sectarian and its branches are scattered over the whole of our country. It has no dues, and no meetings, except an annual one, when the two new garments required for membership are brought by each contributor.

The old Scotch saying that "mony a little makes a muckle" is verified when one sees the mass of garments collected by these individual gifts, and realize how many needy ones are made comfortable by this means.

The late Mrs. George Morton realized its helpfulness and at her death left a fund to aid in its work. It is of great assistance, and if more of our people could know the good that the small contributions accomplish, they would gladly help in its work.

BY WAY OF EXPLANATION.

The article on "Misadventure in Pigeons" on page eleven of this issue was written by Mrs. Iva Marsh.

The picture of the Quincy City Hospital which was to have illustrated the article of the Hospital Aid Association was unavoidably crowded out, as were a number of other illustrations and several articles written especially for the Kings Daughters' issue today. It would have been easy to have filled six more pages.

The article on "A Womens View of Sports" by Miss Ruth Bass was printed before the proof corrections were made, hence there are several typographical errors which should be excused in the rush to get out this edition.

Less Than a Cent

You may know a woman who has a reputation for making delicious cake, biscuits, etc.,—who seems to hit it right every time.

You may also know a woman, who, no matter how painstaking, can't seem to get the knack of successful baking.

Both use the same butter, same eggs, same flour and sugar. What is the difference?

Very likely it's all in the baking powder. Undoubtedly the woman with the knack uses Royal Baking Powder, and the unsuccessful woman uses an alum baking powder thinking it cheaper.

Yet the difference in the cost of a whole large cake is less than a cent.

It is economy to use

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure No Alum

Can't Afford It?

Let's figure it out and see

How much would you charge to go to the grocer's or the provision dealer's ?

How much would you give, on a stormy day, to be able to visit a distant friend ?

How much would it be worth, in case your child were taken suddenly ill at night, to be able to summon the doctor at once, and, perhaps, by special instructions from him by wire, to be able to give temporary relief pending his arrival or even to save its life ?

The expense of a telephone is not figured by what it costs for a whole year, but by how much it saves each time it is used. Therefore, with all these things in mind, ask yourself not received any contract for submarines from any foreign government. It was reported that the submarines were not to be turned over to the foreign government as completed vessels, but were to be shipped abroad in sections, and Secretary Daniels asked Mr. Powell whether it would be proper for a neutral nation to permit such shipments to a belligerent government.

According to what was said at the navy department, Mr. Powell indicated that he was of the opinion that there would be no violation of neutrality if this course were followed. He did not admit, however, that his company had any intention to enter into any such arrangement with a foreign government, belligerent or otherwise.

The Boston report has an application to the celebrated case of the Confederate cruiser Alabama which destroyed much United States shipping. The British government, which had permitted the building and outfitting of the Alabama at an English shipyard, paid the United States $15,000,000 for the damages inflicted by the cruiser.

Under United States laws shipment of munitions of war to Europe is not illegal, the burden of restricting such commerce falling on the fleets of belligerents. The American government, however, would be obliged to prevent the fitting out of any armed expedition, the building of a war vessel in American waters being construed as such.

LONDON INTERESTED.

The visit of Charles M. Schwab, president of the Fore River Company, to England, has something to do with the submarine or other contract for Quincy. The Herald in a London dispatch says:

Charles M. Schwab will sail for New York Wednesday on the Adriatic. He refused to say anything about his trip to England, except to remark: "I hope before a great many years to write an autobiography, and I trust that when I do so I can tell the full story of the last three weeks"

Mr. Schwab has occupied a suite of rooms at the Savoy Hotel for 10 days and has consistently declined to be interviewed. It is known, however, that in private conversation a few days ago he made the remark that "Lord Kitchener is the best president the United States Steel Corporation ever missed."

FARCE BY AUXILIARY

"The Time of His Life was presented under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. in Alpha hall, Tuesday evening and was a genuine success. The affair was under the direction of Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis, coach and a committee headed by Mrs. William Hodgkinson.

The show was of the present, and had considerable to do with the experiences of a man who is secretly engaged to an estimable young lady of a household presided over by a peppery father, with other characters carry on the plot in a way decidedly not amateurish.

CONFESSION OF MISS MICHAUD

Relied Upon by Both Sides In the Sullivan Case

BLAME FOR DEATH OF GIRL

Counsel For Dudley Puts It Up to Her Sweetheart and Nurse—Each Half of Those Having Cognizance of Tragedy Charges Other Half With Responsibility For It

Houlton, Me., Nov. 11.—Attempts by the defense of Dr. Lionel E. Dudley, under arrest for the murder of Miss Mildred Sullivan, to saddle the death of the girl upon the nurse, Kate O. Michaud, and the victim's midnight burial in the Presque Isle woods on her sweetheart, Ambrose Bridges, overshadowed in interest the simple funeral of the victim of the sensational tragedy.

The defense answered the alleged confession of Miss Michaud, in which she laid the death of Mildred to Dudley, Miss Alice Pelletier of Presque Isle, and her brother, Perley Pelletier, by loosing detectives on the trail of Miss Michaud and of Bridges and putting the death charge squarely up to them.

The scene has been laid for one of the most thrilling murder trials ever known in this state, with each half of the persons known to have cognizance of the death of Miss Sullivan openly charging the other half with the responsibility.

The clearest hint was given of which side the government would take in the fight among the death party, when County Attorney Archibald announced that Miss Michaud was, in his opinion, telling the truth. He refused to give out further details of her confession, but said she had given a good description of the place where Miss Sullivan's body was found.

The new figure that loomed large in the case was the sweetheart, Ambrose Bridges. He was brought here from Presque Isle, spent a night in jail, and was released. He was questioned by the authorities, and it is understood will be on hand when wanted; but he is not under detention.

He is the man who was first employed by the Sullivan family to look for their daughter when she disappeared. He was a Bangor and Aroostook railroad strikebreaker.

Miss Michaud was brought here, having been taken in charge by a deputy sheriff on her way home to Wallagrass.

It was explained she was not under arrest as an accessory, but had been surrendered by bondsmen who furnished her bail for appearance before the grand jury as a principal with Dudley for performing the illegal operation on Miss Sullivan.

In addition to the charges of Dudley's attorneys that they have proof that Miss Michaud and Bridges were real principals in the Sullivan girl's death, they are said to be basing their plans on the very thing that is also encouraging the county attorney in his prosecution—that is Miss Michaud's confession.

Miss Michaud said, according to the story gleaned from the authorities, that Alice Pelletier performed the operation on Mildred, and that Dudley was called afterward, but before her death. In this connection the sending of the dead girl's stomach to Bowdoin college for examination is significant.

BURNED ABOARD STEAMER

Loss of Eight Hundred Horses Consigned to French Port

Norfolk, Nov. 11.—Virtually all of the 800 horses on board the British steamship Rembrandt were burned to death when the ship took fire off the Virginia capes.

The Rembrandt was bound from Baltimore for St. Nazaire, France, and the animals are understood to have been intended for the armies of the allies.

It is reported that Captain Edlin of the Rembrandt has notified the owners of the ship that he had reason to believe the vessel was fired by German spies who were members of the crew.

Mexico City, Nov. 11.—A general war is on again in Mexico. Generals commanding 50,000 men in this neighborhood were relieved of their commands by General Carranza because they refused to nullify their actions when they signed an agreement to abide by the decisions of the Aguascalientes convention.

Among these are Generals Benavides, commanding 10,000 men, Villareal, Robles and many others.

ODD FELLOWS ROLL CALL.

No ladies could be admited to the meeting of Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows Tuesday evening, but the King's Daughters learn that it was one of the largest meetings the lodge has held for some time. The event was the annual roll call of the members.

Among the 22 charter members of 1884 who were present were Frank F. Prescott, Tobias H. Burke, George W. Cummings and Joseph H. Layton, each of whom recalled events of 1884. Other speakers were: Thomas F. Burke, Past Grand W. H. Cobb, Past Grand Frank L. Carlton, Past Grand Frank W. Flowers, Col. Henry L. Kincaide, Past Grand Edward L. Goodridge, Past Grand Charles L. Hammond, Past Grand Charles J. Jones, Past Grand James Moorhead, Jr., John D. Mackay, Past Grand Representative Sam Wood, Jr., and others. Good feeling prevailed. A supper followed the meeting.

Bro. Kincaide made the suggestion that a grand reunion of members be held next year, and offered Alpha and Union halls for the occasion. The offer was accepted with thanks.

Great to Behold

is the way that children take to our bread and eat it with a relish that heretofore was reserved for sweets. Let us initiate you into real baking that savors of the kitchen in the best regulated home. Our bakery is a sanitary example in itself. We keep everything fresh and the age of all our bread and cakes is not a day.

DINE WITH US ON THANKSGIVING DAY!

EXTRA NOTICE: We have arranged with our leading markets to supply us with TURKEYS for our customers, which are to be of the plumpest, richest and tenderest character that experience can select. We shall give FREE one of these fine turkeys to every customer purchasing merchandise to the value of $20 or over.

WHY WE DO IT: We too have every reason to be thankful in this year 1914, thankful that our country is not involved in war, thankful that we are enjoying the fruits of a good business, and thankful to our patrons for their very liberal patronage. To show our appreciation we make this FREE OFFER OF TURKEYS, not merely as a business proposition, but as an earnest of our heartfelt appreciation of a generous response to our offerings of trade values during the past year.

Here are a few more "Thanksgiving Specials," to add to your present cause for rejoicing:—

MALLORY'S HATS

EXPLANATORY NOTICE: Our prices have ever been noted for their brevity. The reason is obvious. We have a large manufacturing plant at 69 Summer Street, Boston, which is constantly in touch with the large factories of the country, receiving consignments of the latest fabrics daily, which are made into up-to-the minute garments at prices that otherwise would be out of the reach of the average wage-earner.

The assortments are so extensive that it would require a volume to enumerate. If it is impossible to suit you from our regular stock, we shall be pleased to give you a card to our headquarters, at 69 Summer Street, Boston, where you can and will be suited at no extra expense. Let's get acquainted.

In conclusion we wish one and all an enjoyable Thanksgiving and trust our efforts to make it so will be far reaching.

Sincerely yours

FUNERAL OF MRS. JOHN LEARY

The funeral of Mary A. Leary, wife of John Leary, held Tuesday from her home at 42 Huntington road, East Milton, was probably the largest ever seen in that town. There were 34 carriages in the procession and two barouches, the latter being filled with magnificent floral remembrances from friends in Quincy, Milton and Dorchester. Among those who attended were 30 employees of the Metropolitan park commission and a large delegation of members, St. Francis court, M. C. O. F. of Quincy, with which the deceased was affiliated.

A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Gregorys church, Milton Lower Mills by Father Charles Heaney. The musical portion of the mass was sung by the regular choir.

The remembrances included a standing piece from the employees at the Quincy Telephone Exchange, standing wreath and mound from the Park employees, standing cross from Ave Maria council, nights of Columbus.

The bearers were James Ogle, John F. Burke, Michael F. Riely and Michael Lyons of St. Francis court, John Henhessey and John F. Welch. Burial was in the Milton cemetery.

MILTON RECEPTION.

About 125 people attended the reception tendered to Miss Agnes Nielson by the Ladies Missionary Society of the First Baptist church in the church vestry Monday evening. Miss Nielson is to leave town Friday for Rangoon, Burma, as a missionary for seven years. In the receiving line were Rev. and Mrs. J. Hamilton Woodsum, Mrs. Charles Geddes, Miss Agnes Nielson, Deacon David J. Brown and Mrs. Brown, Deacon Marchant and Deacon John L. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson The ushers were Mrs. George Berry Duncan Tocher, Mrs. J. Albert Simpson, Mrs. James L. Lewis and Mrs. James H. Leatherbee, Rev. Woodsum opened the reception with a few remarks and introduced the speakers. The three deacons and clerk of the church, G. B. D. Tocher, made some very helpful remarks. Then Miss Nielson was ushered on to the platform and presented with a gold watch by the pastor as a remembrance from her friends in the church. Miss Nielson was very much surprised and thanked all present very much. Punch and cake was served by the following: Miss Edith C. Johnson, Mrs. Lillian Bryant, Miss Grace Hopper and Mrs. George Berry Duncan Tocher. Miss Nielson will leave here Friday afternoon for Chicago. From there she will go to Salt Lake City, then to San Francisco and to Honolulu, Manila, Hong Kong and Peking, China She does not know how long she will be delayed at this last named city but it all depends on the present war. She will be accompanied by eleven other missionaries who are going to places in the same vicinity.

The officers of the Glee Club of the Milton High School have been chosen for the coming year. They are as follows:

President—Kenneth D. Johnson.
Vice-president—Milton Tucker.
Secretary—Caroline Cook.
Treasurer—Nicholas Appolonio.
Assistant director—Hugh Robertson.
Librarian—Francis Gosselin.
Monitors—Josephine Nelson, Walter Bartlett.

Miss Harriet Whittier the director of the club is planning various interesting musicals and entertainments for the coming year.

Mrs. William B. Batchelder of Huntington road is confined to her home on account of illness.

The game between the High School and English High football teams, scheduled for this afternoon (Wed), was cancelled on account of the death of the English half back, Wells.

CLAN MacGREGOR LEAGUE.

The single strings of some of the bowels in the Clan MacGregor league matches at the Coliseum alleys Tuesday evening created considerable excitement but it all ended peacfully, no records being broken.

McLean with 125 for high single got a total of 310. Smith opened his evening with 116, McKenzie made 113, O'Neil 111, and several others passed the century mark. Smith was the only one beside McLean to triple.

The teams of Nicolls and McLean split the points, each taking two. The big team single in the second string carried enough to cross the total to the McLeans.

MEADOW FIRE.

The combined forces of the Wollaston, Atlantic and Central fire stations fought a meadow fire this morning in the rear of the Boston Gear Works. The fire was set to protect the surrounding property. The danger lay in the many gallons of oil emptied on the bog land about two years ago. The danger is now removed.

Box 71 was for a slight fire in a dump at Mill and Washington streets. There was no damage.

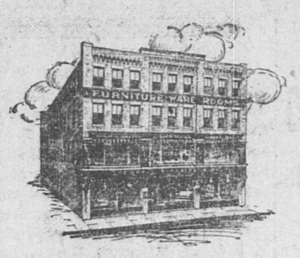

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice P. Spillane of Elm street are leaving Thursday for Saranac in the Adirondacks, New York for an indefinite stay Mr. Spillane's health has improved very much the past few weeks and their many friends hope that a permanent cure will be found with change of climate.

Today's issue of the Quincy Daily Ledger is 8000 copies requiring a ton and one-quarter of paper printed from four rolls on the Duplex press which weighs fourteen tons.

REGISTRATION
CITY OF QUINCY

For the purpose of correcting the annual Register of Voters and of receiving evidence of qualifications from persons claiming a right to vote at the coming City Election, the Board of Registrars of Voters will be in session in the Council Chamber in the City Hall building on the evenings of THURSDAY, Nov. 5 and SATURDAY Nov. 7 from 7.30 to 9 o'clock, also on WEDNESDAY, Nov. 11, from 12 M. to 10 o'clock P. M. which will be the final session before the City Election.

Every applicant for registration must appear in person before the Board. Every male applicant must present either a certificate from the Assessors, or a Tax bill or notice from the Collector of Taxes, showing that he has been assessed a Poll Tax as a resident of the city on the first day of April last, or a certificate from the Assessors that he became a resident of the city prior to June 1, 1914. If a naturalized citizen, he must produce for inspection his papers of naturalization.

Persons who have lived in the State one year and in the city six months previous to December 1, if qualified in other respects can be registered.

No names can be added to the registers except the names of voters examined as to their qualifications between the thirtieth day of April last and the close of registration on Wednesday, Nov. 11, at 10 o'clock P. M. The board of Assessors will be in session at their office during the same hours.

MAYOR INTERVIEWED.

When seen this morning Mayor Whiton said: "There has been a story in circulation about City Square this morning that I intended to take out nomination papers as an independent candidate for Mayor. I want it thoroughly understood that the statement is absolutely without foundation.

"Mr. Campbell won the Republican nomination with a decisive pluarlity. I shall give him my hearty support, and I sincerely hope that all supporters of the Republican candidates will do the same, which I have no doubt they will.

"I believe it is time for the people of Quincy to unite, forget any petty differences that may have existed, and be fair and resolute for clean, honest government, without fear or favor, to friend or foe, class or creed, rich or poor, carrying out the laws of our municipality.

"I believe in Mr. Campbell we have the man who will do this thing. I appeal to all citizens to rally to his support, as it is the only method that will bring us to a position which all good citizens desire.

"As for myself I want to thank the citizens for their loyal support. I also want to thank the Daily Ledger for its support and the loyal manner in which it took up my cause. Its firm stand contributed largely to my handsome vote.

It is certainly gratifying to know that the people appreciate my efforts in trying to do right since I took charge of the executive department. I have only done what I considered my plain duty, and the supoprt I received is bound to give my sucessor the moral courage to carry on the work along the same lines."

CAMPBELL SWEEPS CITY

gave him a very handsome vote and to this he owes his nomination.

While one editor succeeded in being nominated the other editor running for the nomination did not fare as well. Evidently they thought that one editor in the Council would be sufficient next year. A. N. LaBrecque however was sixth in the list.

GEORGE A. BOLSTER

Councilman Craig led with 1970, Frank F. Prescott was second with 1923, Councilman Beeman 1880, ex-Councilman G. A. Bolster 1739 and Councilman Gilliatt 1490.

WHITON RE-NOMINATED.

That the voters of Ward One appreciate the work of Acting Mayor Joseph L. Whiton is shown by the very flattering vote which he received for Councilman. The cards circulated by some persons, whose name is at present unknown, evidently proved a boomerang. This is usually the case The Daily Ledger put the case fairly up to the citizens of Ward One in its Tuesday's issue, and the voters were aroused to the need of the hour, and rallied to his support, giving him a vote in Ward One that was nearly two hundred larger than the second man. Mayor Whiton received 557. J. Harry Slade was second man on the list receiving 394, while Councilman William P. Thompson the third man received 348. The votes of the other candidates were: Andrew Johnson 329, ex-Councilman John S. Ross 324, Carl F. Prescott 160.

In Ward Two there was but one candidate on the ballot, Charles B. Yule. Names were however written in the ballot and there is but little doubt but what Fred Drake will be the second nominee.

In Ward Three there were but two names on the list, Councilmen C. F. Barnicoat and Charles A. Ross. The name of Frank Ferguson was placed on the ballots by the use of stickers, and he is doubtless nominated as one of the three candidates.

There were no names on the ballot for Councilmen from Ward Four, but several were written on. Whether they are correct or not can not be told as yet.

In Ward Five there were four candidates for the nomination. Councilman Alfred H. Richards led the list with a handsome vote of 655 which was within five votes of the number given Mr. Campbell in this ward. Allan R. McDonald was second with 520, Harry A. Stevens third with 501. The fourth man on the list, Rodney P. Gallagher, received 337.

In Ward Six there were five candidates seeking the nomination, and the three highest men were Councilman John R. Nelson, 299; Josiah A. Fuller, 271; and Frederick J. Kessler, 253. The vote of the other candidates were: Edward E. Palmer 250, Edwin A. Poland 187.

ARTHUR W. NEWCOMB

The Republicans made no nomination for member of the School Committee from Ward Four, but in Ward Six there were three candidates,—Daniel A. Bruce the present member from this ward, Lyndon D. Gurney and Sydney J. Smith. Mr. Bruce was an easy winner with a total vote of 254. Mr. Gurney received 127, and Mr. Smith 88.

ENTHUSIASM FOR CAMPBELL.

Chester I. Campbell, who won the Republican nomination for Mayor, received the returns at the Campbell headquarters in City Square. As soon as it was seen by the unofficial returns that he had undoubtedly been nominated, his supporters marched to City Hall, cheering all of the way. They marched by fours and their cheer was Quincy—Quincy—Quincy; Campbell—Campbell—Campbell.

Marching up Depot street they entered City Hall by the side door, and were met at the entrance of the Mayor's office by Mayor Whiton who extended his hand and congratulated Mr. Campbell on his success. Courtesies were exchanged and the Candidate asked for the co-operation of all that the city might prosper, and those present promised to give him their support in making Quincy the best city in the Commonwealth.

Mr. Campbell remained in the Mayor's office for some time, and befor 11 o'clock Charles H. Johnson came in and extended his hearty congratulations to Mr. Campbell saying that he had but to bow to the will of the voters. Mr. Tilden did not make his appearance in City Square during the evening. He received the returns at his own home, and as soon as he learned what the result was, he retired for the night.

Ex-Mayor Eugene R. Stone who was present extended his congratulations and pledged his support to Mr. Campbell, as did others in the office. As each gentleman spoke there were cheers and the Campbell shout.

From City Hall the party went to the Republican headquarters on Temple street. Here ex-Mayor Stone started in to preside until Vice President A. L. Whitman arrived when the honor of presiding was turned over to him.

The keynote of Mr. Campbell's remarks was co-operation. He said that the people had expressed their wish for a business administration and he promised if elected to give it to them. He had conducted a clean campaign and he was glad that there had been no mud throwing, and that there would be none during the coming campaign.

He desired to thank his backers during the campaign who he said were among the best citizens of the city. He had made no promises of any kind, other than to give the city a business administration and efficient government, and that, he would carry out. He also spoke of the campaign to come and said that there was still work to do.

He expressed a wish that Mayor Whiton might be elected. At that time the returns had not been received and it was not known how Ward One had gone.

Others to speak were Councilman Charles W. Bailey, John L. Hamilton, A. L. Stinson, ex-Councilman Albert N. Murray, John Hendry, City Solicitor Walter S. Pinkham, Edward Palmer, Mr. Kolson, and William Prime.

It was at a late hour when the meeting adjourned, and it was announced that there would be a meeting Thursday evening, to which all of the candidates were invited.

JOHNSON FOR NOMINEE.

Charles H. Johnson, who failed to secure the Republican nomination put an end to the rumor that he would run independent in an interview with a Daily Ledger reporter this morning.

Mr. Johnson said he was willing to abide by the decision of the voters and would support Chester I. Campbell, the nominee. Mr Johnson also said he was deeply appreciative of the support given him. The rumor current Tuesday, that unless he secured first place on the ticket he would run as an independent and that half of the members of the Republican City Committee would resign to back him in his campaign, was dissipated with the statement of the candidate. Co-operation is the watchward of the Republicans.

EDITORS' FRATERNAL.

Frank F. Prescott
Editor Daily Ledger:

Let me add my congratulations for your splendid victory at the primaries yesterday. While I was defeated I am sincerely glad that a newspaper man was nominated. It is my belief that a newspaperman, especially one who has made a study of municipal affairs, will be able to do splendid work in the City Council. Trusting that you will be elected and thanking you for the square deal given me by your newspaper during the campaign, I am, sincerely yours,

"GROUND GRIPPER" HEALTH SHOE

9 REAL REASONS

1. They restore weak muscles, prevent and cure flatfoot by exercise.
2. You can walk 10 miles daily with comfort and ease.
3. 1000 Agents say, "Best Wearing Shoe in the United States."
4. Over 200 Hospitals, Colleges, Y. M. C. A. and Schools recommend and endorse them.
5. We can fit any foot, AAAAA to EE, all sizes.
6. Foot health, strength, comfort for everyone.
7. Sold in 1000 cities and towns in the United States.
8. Made in all leathers for Flatfoot-Golf, Tennis, Gymnasium, Outing and Dress.
9. Thousands of cases of foot weakness and flatfoothave been cured by the use of this shoe ONLY.

ACTUAL CURE MADE BY GROUND GRIPPER SHOES

The above patient living in Springfield, Mass., was suffering with Flat Foot and Bunions, a local doctor advised her to wear "Ground Grippers." The Doctor kept a careful diagram of her foot from April 19th to July 10th and the above drawing is reproduced from his records.

E. W. BURT & CO., Inc. Makers and Patentees

This cure was sent to us by one of our leading agents and is authentic.

In so-called "flat-foot," plates of steel or other material are given, which serve as mechanical braces, which give a push or lift to neutralize a defect. Such a measure must be inefficient, not only giving no cure but at best only permanent dependence—one error neutralizing another for a time. Those who get well after the use of such plates do so because the cause of the foot collapsing is temporary and disappears. All other cases are permanently enslaved.

A tilted or twisted plate does not tilt or twist the foot; but on account of its arbitrary fixity only makes the foot try continuously to get away from it, and causes painful spasm. This leads to the question—

Why do some cases get better wearing plates ?

Because, in certain cases, the feet work so hard to get away from the plates that they develop muscular power and strengthen ligaments. To get a result by this method, however is indirect and illogical. There is much work and discomfort with little result.

Casts are taken of so-called "flat-foot." Casts impress the sufferer. They have no real bearing on the treatment. Proper walking, the strengthening of the feet, the restoration of foot and balance are accomplished alone by proper shoeing, proper muscular stimulation and mental direction. Right shoeing allows one to walk rightly—it does not make one walk rightly.

Proper walking is the proper exercise for all the waking hours. Proper walking will restore the stiffened feet and every minute of proper walking helps the feet to become soft and flexible as they were in childhood. Plates and stiff shoes are made because of the belief that the foot has a fixed arch, whereas the truth is that the foot has the power of arching. The corrective arch does not restore arching, but only holds up the bones like a crutch.

WOULD BE VIOLATION OF NEUTRALITY

Claim of German Ambassador on alleged Contracts of Fore River Corp.

Opinion of State Department Being Anxiously Awaited

A dispatch from Washington states that the German Ambassador, Count Von Bernstorff, visited Sec. Bryan, Wednesday and vigorously protested against the shipment from this country to Great Britain of munitions of war.

Continuing the dispatch says:

The protest was based upon the report that the Fore River Shipbuilding Company has accepted from Great Britain a contract to construct 20 submarines, at a total price of $11,000,000.

The Ambassador made a special trip to Washington to advise Mr. Bryan that the German Government had been advised that the Allies had given Charles M. Schwab contracts for munitions that would total approximately $100,000,000. He said that his information was to the effect that Mr. Schwab had received from the British War Office contracts for outfitting virtually the whole of the new British Army which is now being drilled in England.

The Ambassador insisted that the acceptance of those contracts and their fulfillment was a gross violation of the spirit of neutrality which President Wilson has urged upon the People of the United States. He pointed to the fact that Great Britain is now master of the Atlantic and from her position as such she will be enabled to refit her Army and Navy from America.

The officers of the shipbuilding company have taken the position that there is no violation of the neutrality regulations in shipping to any of the beligerent countries, sections of war vessels, providing that they are not put together and that they do not consitute an actual fighting machine.

Mr. Lansing, counsel to the State Department, this afternoon refused absolutely to discuss any phase of the questions which have arisen as a result of the announcement of the contract for the submarines.

It is understood that the shipbuilding company is awaiting the opinion of the State Department before actually beginning work on the vessels. It is understood also that attorneys for at least one other shipbuilding company have asked Mr. Lansing's advice upon similar questions, but they have received no definite replies concerning the position that the Administration will take.

President Powell and Secretary Mac Quarrie have returned from Washington where they went to be present when the bids for the torpedo boat destroyers were opened on Tuesday but had nothing to say in regard to any contracts with foreign governments other than no contracts had been signed. In fact they have nothing whatever to say about the many rumors of the company building war vessels for foreign powers.

In regard to the contract for the two torpedo boat destroyers for the government the Fore River Corp. expect that it will receive a contract for two of them. It was said however that it would be a week before any official notice would be received in regard to the contracts.

Government Wages War on Foot And Mouth Disease In Many States.

The dread foot and mouth disease is again being fought in the United States. Cattle in over a dozen states are quarantined and the Chicago stockyards were closed, thus sending up the price of meat. This rapidly spreading plague has appeared five times before in this country—namely, in 1870, 1880, 1884, 1902-03 and 1908. The outbreak in 1908 cost the department of agriculture $229,112 to stamp out. The loss to cattle men was very great, and many dairymen were put out of business. The present outbreak, according to the department of agriculture, appears to be fully as virulent as that of 1908. This picture shows how cattle exposed to the pestilence are killed. The animals are led into a deep trench—their own grave—and shot one by one. To hasten the destruction of the carcasses as well as to prevent their being dug up again by persons willing to obtain the price of the hides at the cost of spreading the disease over the entire country the hides are slashed and the carcasses cut open and covered with quicklime. It is most important that farmers, dairymen and cattle raisers aid quickly in eradicating the disease.

TILDEN TO CAMPBELL

Extends Congratulations and Best Wishes of Success

Henry F. Tilden one of the Republican candidates seeking the nomination at the primaries for Mayor, but who found when the votes were counted, that he was not in the race, has written the following letter to the successful candidate extending his congratulations. In his letter he says:

Mr. Chester I. Campbell,

Dear Sir:

Kindly accept my congratulations upon your glorious victory. I trust you will meet with the success that is due you at the polls Dec. 1. and I assure you of my support.

Yours very truly,
Henry F. Tilden.

Ernest Barnes of Pacific street, Rockland, died at the Lakeville Sanitarium in his 33rd year. He was born here, the son of Quincy Barnes. The deceased was vice president of the Rockland aerie of Eagles and a frequent visitor to the local lodge. He was also a member of Court Pioneer Foresters of America, of Rockland. A widow survives him.

OVER 7000 ON VOTING LISTS

Registration for the Municipal Election Closed Wednesday

Registration for the municipal election closed at 10 o'clock Wednesday night the Registrars of Voters having been in session since 12 o'clock noon. During the afternoon and evening the names of 85 males and 7 females were added to the lists, making the total of male voters added since the state election 155. This brings the grand total for the municipal election on Dec. 1 to over 7000 voters, a very large increase over the number on the lists for the municipal election of 1913.

ITALIAN RALLY.

Nearly 150 Italian Citizens were addressed by Candidate James E. Wall on Wednesday evening. Othes interesting speakers were J. J. Mahoney, N. A. McDonald, D. McIntosh, D. Driscoll and T. Winslow. Lornzo Caravaglio presided and was assisted by Nunziato Di Bona of West Quincy.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

COLLECTION OF TAXES SLOW

About $75,000 Less Than a Year Ago

After all that has been said and done by Mayor Whiton, the tax receipts of the city to Nov. 1 are $74,214.93 less than last year when they should be $100,000.00 larger. They are however $82,303.48 in excess of 1912 to Nov. 1.

The water receipts have broken the record and are $5,275.39 larger than to November last year. The sewer assessments average about the same.

City Auditor Fairbanks reports these figures:

TAX RECEIPTS.

1914 to Nov. 1	$533,655.11
1913 to Nov. 1	607,870.04
1912 to Nov. 1	451,351.63

WATER RECEIPTS.

1914 to Nov. 1	$122,429.27
1913 to Nov. 1	117,153.88
1912 to Nov. 1	120,139.00

SEWER ASSESSMENT.

1914 to Nov. 1	$14,217.76
1913 to Nov. 1	15,706.63
1912 to Nov. 1	13,688.68

SEWER CONNECTIONS.

1914 to Nov. 1	$7,206.64
1913 to Nov. 1	5,540.83
1912 to Nov. 1	6,159.41

Since Jan. 1, 1914, the City Treasurer has paid debts to amount of $239,995 but the City Council has created new debt to the amount of $176,400.00. The decrease in debt therefore is $58,595. The borrowing capacity of the city is $277,792.

SLADES STAR IN ASCENDANCY

J. Harry Slade's lucky star is in the ascendancy this week. Tuesday he was successful at the city primaries in receiving the nominations of three parties as a candidate for Councilman from Ward One, which practically assures his election at the polls Dec. 1. Wednesday evening he took part in the weekly whist tournament at the Granite City club, and was successful in getting a total score of over eighty percent which enabled him to carry home a handsome silver spoon to his better half.

White slave charges have been preferred against Michael Palrie and Michael Robino who were arrested in a house at 1 Baxter street on Sunday evening during a raid of the premises. The police claim that through evidence uncovered they have a strong case against the men. Flora Adams, taken into custody at the time, was charged with idle and disorderly conduct.

NEW MASONIC TEMPLE FOR WOLLASTON LODGE

Building to be of Brick With Granite Trimmings and Located on Beale Street

Will Contain Large Public Hall in Addition to Lodge Apartments

Application was made to the Inspector of Buildings this morning for a permit for the Masonic Temple to be erected by Wollaston Masonic lodge. E. W. Campbell is the architect and the builder is Leroy Morgan. The cost of the Temple will be about $30,000.

The Temple will be located on Beale street about 200 feet west from Hancock street. It will be of brick with Quincy granite trimmings, its main dimensions being 80 feet by 80 feet with an L 70 feet by 12 feet. It will be two stories high with basement.

In the basement will be located the boiler room and a large banquet hall, the size of the latter being 64 feet by 40 feet. Aside from the main banquet room there will be a kitchen, toilet and check rooms.

The larger part of the first or street floor will be given up to an auditorium or public hall. This will be 40 feet by 48 feet. On one end will be a stage 16 feet by 23 feet on either side of which will be dressing rooms.

The main entrance from Beale street leads into a large vestibule in which is located a ticket office and cloak rooms for ladies and gentlemen. At the rear of this corridor, and to one side is an entrance leading to a stairway by which the apartments of Wollaston lodge on the second floor are reached.

The whole of the second floor will be occupied for lodge purposes the size of the lodge room being 40 feet by 64 feet.

On the Beale street side is a smoking room 14 feet by 12 feet, a Masters' room 12 feet by 12 feet, while on the westerly end will be the main entrance to the lodge room and ante, reception rooms, etc.

Of the amount necesary to erect the building, stockholders, composed of members of the lodge have subscribed for upwards of $10,000 of the stock and a meeting has been called for this week to take the necessary legal steps to incorporate the "Masonic Building Association" also to select the necessary officers of the association.

Chester I. Campbell, who has acted as chairman of the committee having the matter in charge, has been the prime mover in the enterprise and it is announced that the contract for the building has been let and that active

CAMPBELL FOR MAYOR.

Unless the unforseen happens, there is nothing that can prevent the triumphant election of Chester I. Campbell as Mayor of Quincy the first Tuesday in December. It is now Chester "Invincible" Campbell.

Some Mayors of Quincy have been elected by less than 1,500 votes, but in the Republican caucuses this week with three active rivals, he received 1,563 votes out of 3,267. The supporters of these rivals have already pledged their support to the successful nominee, which, together with Democratic, Independent and Progressive votes, will make a grand total of nearly 3,000, possibly more. No Mayor ever received as many votes as this and there can be no doubt about the election of Mr. Campbell. However, there should be no let up in the work in behalf of the candidate, and the larger his majority the more independent he can be in the discharge of the duties of Mayor.

Quincy is indeed fortunate in having as a candidate a gentleman of the ability of Chester I. Campbell. Strong and active in physique, broad and well informed; successful as an organizer and in the management of big things; a believer in Quincy and enthusiastic for its future; a strong advocate of good government; a man who can afford to be independent in the selection of his official family, and who will regardless of the ties of party or friendship gather about him the best men it is possible to secure for the various city departments; a man who will give Quincy a clean, progressive and economical administration. Such a man is Chester I. Campbell.

The Daily Ledger heartily congratulates Mr. Campbell on his nomination To the voters, regardless of party; we say, rally to the support of Mr. Campbell, and make his election unanimous.

THE EDITOR THANKFUL.

So many messages of congratulation have been received by mail, by telephone and personally, by the editor of the Daily Ledger, that he takes this method of returning hearty thanks to the 1,923 voters who said so emphatically that they were willing to give him a trial as a member of the legislative branch of our city government. The size of his vote for Councilman at large was one of which any candidate might well be proud. It will be his pleasure as a Councilman to co-operate with Mayor Campbell and President Whiton in giving Quincy a progressive yet economical government in 1915. A reduction of the city debt and interest will be his chief aim, and good government will have preference over politics every time.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

It was in a book store that I heard the remark first, "Oh, what lovely books! How I wish I had had such beautiful books when I was a child," And the woman who had been a child of the older generation looked eagerly and longingly at the books which the children of the new generation might posses and enjoy. And, surely of all the differences that mark the change in environment between the child of the nineteenth ceaturv and that of the twentieth, there is no place where the change has been more radical than in this making of children's books.

Thirty or forty years ago the attitude of publishers and booksellers toward "juveniles" was that of indifference, tempered possibly with a little contempt. "They didn't pay" from a financial viewpoint; and from an artistic viewpoint it wasn't worth while to put much time and thought into something that the child would only be using for a short time.

But what a difference in the attitude now! We have come to see that grown people are pretty much what the training and opportunities, or lack of opportunities, in their childhood, make them. And that to educate a person to appreciate the beautiful we must surround him in childhood with beautiful objects. But to develop the child in the best way there must be not only beautiful objects, but high ideals and thoughts. And it is an opportunity not to be missed that in some of the children's books of today you will find both of these things.

The movement of better books for children developed in two ways; that of reissuing the classics for children in more beautiful editions and that of publishing every year artistic editions of such new books as semed to be of high enough standard. Selecting books from both of these classes of juveniles, the Thomas Crane Public Library has made the beginning of what is hoped will be a permanent collection of beautiful books for children.

This collection is to be kept in a special case in the Children's room; and used, it is expected, in two ways. First, by the children themselves, under the supervision of the Children's Librarian; and second, by the parents and friends of the children, when they are considering buying a book as a gift for a child, and wish to look over some desirable books before making a selection. It is hoped that all people interested in children and books will come to the library to see this collection and to make use of it freely whenever it may be a help to them. The prices of these books range from $1. to $5. and there are even a few less than a dollar.

Among the less expensive books, there is a fascinating edition of Miss Mulock's "Litlie lame prince," with its gaily colored pictures of moated castles and children in medieval costume on prancing horses also a dainty edition of "The magic fishbone" by Dickens, with its pastel pictures of groups of happy, frolicking, chubby children. There is, too, another Dickens book, "Dickens' children," illustrated by the wonderfully sympathetic pictures by Jessie Wilcox Smith with little demure David Copperfield sitting upon a stool beside Peggotty, and Pip and Joe Gargery comfortably and cozily settled before the fire.

Among the newer books are the two rather unusual ones written and illustrated by E. Boyd Smith, the "Railroad book" "Chicken world." These belong to a series of books which Mr. Smith is issuing and are well worth noticing. They are of a somewhat peculiar shape, flat and easy to handle by the younger children, and contain full page illustrations in pleasing colors. These illustrations were painted by Mr. Smith after careful study of the subjects, and the books are designed to give accurate infor-

ATTRACTIONS OF CALIFORNIA.

By Fanny M. Sheppard.

I visited church after church, dropping in here for a word of Easter message, or pausing within some crowded vestibule to catch a note of an Easter anthem. The old story seemed to be given in a new dress of words and the music surpassed anything I had ever heard.

One of the most impressive features of the morning was the sunrise service at five-thirty upon the crest of Mount Rubidoux in Riverside. It was estimated that the throng which participated in the pilgrimage up the mountain side numbered 6,000. It was a glorious service, the vast gathering as they neared the summit sang, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory," the air of the old hymn floating well over the city and such a spirit of reverence manifested, one had only to look into their faces to know why they were there.

But I must hasten on and leave untold, many interesting things. Los Angeles, but a short spin from her sister city, Pasadena, was temptingly near so many points of interest that the matter of choice as to where to go first was a bit confusing, but in those many happy weeks I made trip after trip, and everywhere to my complete satisfaction. Then to Redlands and Riverside through the most beautiful stretch of country I had ever seen, drove for many miles through the home place of Lucky Baldwin where the air was redolent of orange blossoms and the luscious fruit was growing in the very shade of the snow-covered mountains. We visited the packing plants and it was most interesting, the way in which fruits are made ready to go across the mountains to our Eastern States.

An ocean trip to Santa Catalina island was enjoyable, where through the glass bottom boats, I saw real trees with long branches waving as on land during a tempest, and strange sea plants, among which brilliantly hued fish darted to and fro. The water was wonderfully clear, marvellously clear, the people around me leaning over the transparencies went into ecstasies. But to this day, I am a bit skeptical about that glass bottom boat.

Near Los Angeles, there were several popular sea-side resorts easily reached within an hour by automobile. Long Beach appealed to me as the most perfect spot for sea-bathing imaginable. The old Spanish Missions were interesting ,each one a study in itself and as one of our party fittingly expressed it, "They were the precious heirlooms of a far away day.

One glorious morning while enjoying an interesting ride by rail, southward along the Pacific coast to San Diego, seated upon the platform of the observation car, we caught from time to time such remarks as these: "Never any depressing heat." Climate perfection." "The tourists we have always with us," and so on—rather amusing I thought, neverless with all due respect to those California boosters, upon reaching San Diego, the first thing to mar our pleasure was the depressing heat. At no time previously had we found the climate anything but ideal, here with the temperature at 90 degrees for several days even the most beautiful bay in the world, San Diego, did not furnish refreshing breezes. Centrally located at the beautiful U. S. Grant Hotel, we found it most convenient to all attractions of the city. We were made welcome at the old light house at Point Loma. This point is one of the most picturesque in Southern California. It was worth traveling miles to see.

On one side the glistening bay with the beautiful city of Coronado and its islands and on the other side the blue Pacific stretching to what seemed the end of the world. A short trip to "Old-Town," here one can see California as it was one hundred years ago. It is the place of first things, the beginning of California history. In this hallowed village, we visited Ramona's Marriage Place, quaint and beautiful with its adobe walls four feet thick, its tiled roof, its rafters bound in raw-hide, its patio gardens, its Spanish kitchen, its old wishing-well, and its cool corridors where we sat and listened to the story of the missions.

Every morning in San Diego, one could see jolly parties starting for the trip to Old Mexico, and of course we were given the customary advice, "This we surely must not miss." How amused we were when as we crossed the boundary line between United States and Mexico our professional guide turned to us and said: "Now friends, you are in a foreign country."

Then from this point in an old coach drawn by six horses, we were taken what seemed a perilous ride across the bed of the Tia Juana river to the quaint little Mexican village of the same name. It was quite un-American, standing about in groups were the picturesquely clad natives. We went into the shops where one could purchase Indian pottery, Mexican curios, drawn work, etc., and if it appealed to you, a good Spanish dinner. Our driver told us that many in these parties see nothing at all, as they spend the entire time writing postal cards thus affording proof, to their friends, that they have been in a foreign country. A return trip through the valley of the Sweetwater,a snapshot of Great Sweetwater Dam was all that could be desired to complete this enjoyable day's trip.

The more I saw of California, the more it fascinated me. It actually fulfills all the promises made in the guide books and abundant literature offered. Often-times I found myself singing "I love you, California," the one song that is taught to the children throughout the State, upon entering the public schools.

One makes many warm friends on such a trip. How I realized this as we said our last good-byes. For three months we had been like one family at our little hotel and through home friends I had enjoyed the hospitality of many delightful people in and about the city, and then again the clubs of which I have told you nothing. I attended these regularly and gained much of interest from them. I must admit however, as I boarded that train in Los Angeles early one morning bound for San Francisco with suit case in hand with all the flowers that could be held under its straps, the other arm filled with roses, there seemed an undercurrent of sadness beneath it all.

Many of us realized we had come to the parting of our ways, with the uncomfortable thought that we might never meet again. It was with regret I took my last look at the mountains that had been such an inspiration to me. This was the beginning of my journey home. Soon this thought became uppermost and with great delight, I studied the carefully prepared schedule of my trip. I had much to anticipate.

It was midnight when my train reached San Francisco. Here awaiting me was happiness indeed. Instinotively we knew each other, that brother whom I had not seen in thirty years, and who with his dear wife and family had been awaiting a visit from me. My first morning in San Francisco, I could seem to see nothing but those massive tall buildings, rising so white and imposing, of the most modern construction and artistic merit. This and many other things, I was told, was the result of the reconstruction of 1906. The roads were excellent for automobiling and we improved every moment taking trips of a day through "Golden Gate Park" far out into San Mateo county through many sections taken up almost entirely by fine country houses of wealthy San Franciscans. From San Maeto one can continue into the beautiful Santa Clara Valley. There was much to appreciate and enjoy in San Francisco. Again travelling Canadian Pacific, making pleasant stop-overs in Seattle, beautiful Victoria and Vancouver then for miles and miles the train glides on through the heart of the Canadian Rockies to what seemed the most beautiful place in all the world for scenery and effects—Banff.

But it was of California only, I was to tell you, so I will hasten on from a week-end in Banff, to Minneapolis, Chicago, a side trip into dear old Quebec, Montreal, then homeward.

And did my New England homecoming seem an anti-climax, after the four months pageant of beauty that I had enjoyed? No indeed! The Massachusetts hills greeted me in their brightest spring green. The sunny warmth of a beautiful May day welcomed me back again and home was sweeter than any other place in the world.

THE CAMP FIRE GIRLS.

The Camp Fire Girls is an organization which has gained a strong foothold in Quincy during the last three years. There are now five campfires: Wampatuck, the oldest, at the Point, Pasonagessit in Quincy Center, Moswastusett in Wollaston, Quosset in South Quincy, and Chickatawbut in Quincy Center.

The aim of this movement is indicated in the watchword, Wohelo, which, although it sounds and looks like an Indian word, is not Indian at all, but a combination of first two letters of Work, of Health and of Love. Or, to express the idea in another way, the law of the Camp Fire, which every girl must learn before she becomes a member, sums up the ideals of the organization as follows:

"Seek beauty,
Give service,
Pursue knowledge,
Be trustworthy,
Hold on to health,
Glorify work,
Be happy."

Fire is the symbol of the Camp Fire girls because it was around a fire that the first homes in far off savage times were made; so the Camp Fire stands for the home and its symbolic use reminds the members of the ideal of the whole organization—to train girls to grace the home and to meet intelligently the twentieth century problems in connection with it.

Symbolism, indeed, plays a large part. The fire, for instance, stands not only for the home, but also for the simplicity of out-of-doors. Sometimes the sun is used for a symbol for fire. The symbol of membership is the standing pine, which means simplicity and strength. For their symbolism, the Camp Fire Girls use as far as they can symbols and customs of the American Indian.

That is why the ceremonial dress is patterned after the costume of the Indian women. The Camp Fire ceremonial costume is a dress of khaki trimmed at the sleeves and at the bottom with leather fringe. Moccasins are on the feet. Around the neck are the "honor" beads, of various colors, strung on leather thongs and worn as an ornament, like a necklace. The hair hangs, a braid over each shoulder, and is confined about the temples by a bead headband.

The method of starting a camp fire and the rules for its guidance are prescribed by the National Board which has its headquarters in New York. Dr. and Mrs. Gulick who originated the idea are still very active in guiding the policy of the organization.

A camp fire consists of a group of not more than 20 girls, all 12 years of age or over, who naturally belong together, like a number of school friends or the girls in a certain neighborhood, with an older girl or woman as leader or Guardian. The first thing the girls do is to choose a name and a symbol for their camp fire. For example, one group, the first in Quincy chose the name of Wampatuck, the Indian chief of whom the early settlers of Quincy bought the land, and selected as their symbol the mark with which Wampatuck, who could not write his name of course, signed the deed. Next, each individual girl chooses her ceremonial name, an Indian one usually and one that means something to her, either describing her characteristics or indicating some ideal to which she is aspiring to grow. Each girl also has her individual symbol. Pac Ker, the ceremonial name of the guardian of the Wampatuck Camp Fire means, in the language of the Penobscot Indians, a fish. The name and the symbol, a fish, were chosen because the owner is very fond of the salt water and loves to be on it or in it every moment that she can spare. Another girl took the name Neachee, combination of the first letters of the words "neat" and "cheerful" because that was the kind of person she desired to be.

The next two months the girls are busy qualifying for the first rank, that of wood gatherer, for which there are certain definite requirements, and making their own ceremonial costumes and head bands. These bead headbands are often artistic and very beautiful for the girls work in their individual symbol that of their campfire in original designs. The headband of one of the Wampatuck Camp Fire girls is in black and yellow with the sign of Wampatuck occurring at regular intervals.

When a girl has completed the requirements of the rank of woodgathera, she is given a silver ring to wear on the little finger of her left hand. The design of the ring is interesting—there are seven fagots, one representing each of the seven points of the Law of the Camp Fire Girls; on each side of the ring are three little raised circles which stand for Work, Health and Love.

The ceremonial meetings which come once every month are very impressive with a beautiful ritual and the presence of a fire—an open fire of the meeting is held out of doors—if indoors, three candles. At these ceremonials, members are received into the different ranks and "honor" beads are awarded.

These "honor" beads serve as a record of useful things achieved. When you see a Camp Fire girl in ceremonial dress who has many variously colored beads strung on thongs ornamenting her costume, you may know that she is an accomplished young lady. The red beads are for health craft and are given for swimming, diving, knowing how to ride horseback or sail a boat without advice or operate a motor boat, for taking walks, being free from colds, sleeping with open windows, not eating candy or sundaes between meals, etc, The flame colored beads are for home-craft, which includes almost any household accomplishment like cooking, marketing, planning menus, knowing how to keep a house clean, taking care of a baby, entertaining, hand sewing, and the care of sick people. The green beads are for handcraft like basketry and stenciling. The blue beads are for nature lore, such as a knowledge of birds, trees and flowers. Brown beads are for camp craft—for knowing how to pitch a tent, cook over a campfire, build a fire in the rain and other out of door accomplishments. Honors in business, earning money, keeping accounts, saving regularly, are indicated by yellow beads, the color of gold. Red, white, and blue beads are for honors in patriotism.

Besides the honor beads, a girl's ceremonial costume indicates other achievements. If she wears a broad silver bracelet on her left arm you know that she has attained to the second rank, that of firemaker. If in addition to the bracelet she is wearing a round pin with a curious design, you may know she has attained to the third rank, that of torch bearer, a rank difficult to attain. Or, her rank may be indicated in another way, by a colored emblem on her sleeve, crossed logs for the first rank, a woodgatherer, crossed logs and a flame for a firemaker, crossed logs, a flame and smoke, is she is a torch bearer.

There are other meetings, usually held weekly, when the girls conduct the necessary business, sew or do hand craft work, study the requirements for the different ranks, or just get together for a jolly good time Camp Fire girls make a great deal of out-of-door life and go on tramps picnics and "bacon bats," for "We hold on to health, because through health we serve an dare happy."

Camp Fire work is dear to all Camp Fire girls. The groups are small so that the guardian gets to know the girls well personally and the girls learn to know the guardian and each other well. They all learn, as men and boys do, the value of team work of working with and "getting along" with their mates. The Camp Fire girls learn the dignity of work and the inestimable value of health.

Wo-he-lo means "Work, Health, Love." Work and have fun doing it: be healthy and happy; learn to love usefulness—it's the watchword of the Camp Fire Girls.

Efforts to increase the interest of children in the care of birds form a new phase of work by the committee on conservation of the Dorchester Woman's club. Mrs. Florence Morse Wright, chairman has gained permission from the school board to institute the making of bird houses in the eighth grades of the schools as a part of the sloyd and manual training work. Many patterns for bird houses have been gathered and the course will be developed to increase the interest of the children. The children have also been asked to collect seeds to provide winter food for the birds and later they will be taught how to make a bird's Christmas tree. Instead of burning their own holiday tree as soon as it is stripped of its candy and toys, the trees will be reloaded with gifts for the birds and planted outside the house.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

There was a large attendance Tuesday afternoon at the clubhouse at the public meeting of the Quincy Women's Club under the auspices of the education committee.

The usual business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, reports being given by the clerk and treasurer. The corresponding secretary announced postals with the club seal could be purchased of her or the treasurer, three for five cents, by club members or club committees.

Among the announcements was a conference at Jamaica Plain which club members were urged to attend. The Art committee had four tickets for the exhibit by the Guild of Boston Artists which any club members could have the use of by applying to the art committee. The civics committee announced the assembly to be held as usual Friday evening Nov 27 at Music hall. The legislature committee said if there was a demand for it another class in parliamentary law would be formed after the holidays. The two remaining meetings in the present class would be 35 cents for any wishing to attend. The philanthropic committee asked for the help of the club in the work of the Associated Charities also for the Young Women's Club which meets Wednesday evenings in the High School gym. Except the first Wednesday of the month which was a business meeting, club members could help by playing the piano during the social hour following the classes. Announcement was also made of this year's play in Boston by the Children's Players. The visiting nurse committee said that there was now in training for visiting nurse work a nurse in the senior class of nurses at the Quincy Hospital.

Mrs. Safford for the Wollaston Club announced a series of opera talks by Havrah W. L. Hubbard, the first one to be Monday Nov. 23, for which she or her committee would receive subscriptions.

The president told of two pleasant affairs held in the clubhouse the past week, the English ballad afternoon for the benefit of the visiting nurse work and a lecture musicale by the home economics committee. Both were largely attended and enjoyable.

Mrs. W. F. Cummings and Mrs. J. D. Mackay, delegates of the autumn meeting of the State Federation at Norwood brought back interesting reports. Mrs. Cumming's report was as follows:

The fall meeting of the State Federation of Women's Clubs was held Nov. 4 in the Norwood Civic Association building attended by nearly 1000 delegates. Mrs. Maybelle Dadmun Everett, whom members of the Quincy club remember so pleasantly, as president of the hostess club gave an address of welcome in which she said that in the past 40 years the town has increased from 600 to 10,000 in population and that few towns in the state had the variety of industries that Norwood has.

Mrs. George W. Perkins responded and her message to the 62,810 who now constitute the Federation was full of inspiration and ended with an earnest plea for the "greater culture of service."

The Corresponding Secretary urged all club women to take an active interest in the efforts being made by the Consumer's League to have the Boston stores postpone the after Christmas bargain sales until Monday, thereby giving the salespeople two days relief. If those having charge accounts would write to the firms with which they trade it would help toward this end.

The rest of the morning was occupied in reports of the 12th Biennial. This was admirably arranged and divided in six parts, each speaker being unusually adapted for the part of the work assigned her to report. Thus Mrs. J. Harry Poole in her keen, alert and interesting way gave an account of the work of the Biennial. She said that to her Conference means to give and to receive. The Federation must exist for the service of mankind. The slogan for the next two years must be service for humanity. Mrs. Julius Andrews in a quick business-like way reported the business of the Biennial which showed the General Federation to be the greatest organization the world has ever known and must prove a mighty force in the affairs of the day. Mrs. Irving O. Palmer with a refined, cultured and pleasing personality portrayed the sociability of the Biennial which began the moment the delegates entered the train at Boston and increased in significance until the end of the session. Mrs. W. W. Churchill fittingly and appropriately spoke of the inspiration closing with Mrs. Pennybacker's words "Thankful for the past, Thankful for the hopes of the future, let us gird on our armor of service for mankind.

Mrs. Leila C. Pennock brought a message of loyalty to both State and General Federations, showing the responsibilities of leadership and need of adopting larger and broader ideas. Miss Bacon, who is always a favorite closed the reports with an outlook toward the next Biennial to be held in New York in 1916. She said the extent of all work, its breadth and uplift rests on chairmen of committees. She reported that the department of household economics has been changed to home economics and the scope of work will include home management, food sanitation, clothing and shelter. The Art committees have a circuit exhibit which they will send to any club on application. As a memorial to Mrs. Francis Squire Potter who passed to a higher life a short time before the Biennial, the study of the Bible as literature was added to the library and literature department.

The report of the Pure Food Exhibit showed a net profit of at least $2,000 for the treasury of the Federation.

At Intermission, an opportunity was given the delegates to go over the Association with high school boys as guides and also to motor over the town to see the large number of industries.

This report would not be complete without giving an account of the building in which it was held. The main building of the Norwood Civic Association stands in one corner of a large enclosure of about six acres of land which is surrounded by a high iron fence supported by stone pillars. In the midst of wide plots of velvety green are baseball diamonds, running track and tennis courts. The Norwood Civic Association is the most complete plant of its kind found anywhere in the United States and quite likely in the world. In this building are centered all the activities of the town government, school department, clubhouse, Women's Club, Board of Trade, societies and orders, industrial plants, churches, charitable agencies, Board of Health. The co-operation of all these activities may be summed up in one aim—to work toward the instructive, constructive and preventive care of the individual in the home and in the town.

This immense work started seven years ago by a few boys who, needing a place for their club drills and meetings, went to a business man whom they thought might prove to be their friend in need.

He furnished the money required and the barn in which they had been meeting was made into a gymnasium and drill hall. Naturally enough in a thriving town of 10,000 these accommodations soon proved inadequate. Three years after the boys took possession of the barn, it was moved up to the old Everett homestead which was enlarged and improved and made into a large and cheery lecture hall with movable seats and a complete outfit of apparatus so that it could be easily transformed into a gymnasium for girls. Later the combination of barn and house was enlarged by the building of a first rate modern gymnasium and after that there was added a men's wing, and today these four—barn, house, gymnasium and men's wing makes the most complete and handsome Civic association plant to be found anywhere.

Of colonial structure it looks most inviting, it shines inside and out with white paint. The secretary said there had been hundreds of gallons of white enamel used on it, yet there was nothing institutional in its apparance, for it seemed like a home for everybody.

Last September what is called the Corner House on another corner of the grounds was acquired and remodelled and is now used as a hospital in the upper part. The lower part is splendidly equipped to teach cooking, sewing, millinery and all parts of home making. In fact, the motto of the Corner House being "to help people to help themselves" shows that it aims to be a good neighbor, and a good friend to all who come to it whatever may be their errand and volumes might be written of its mission of helpfulness.

The office serves as a clearing house and information bureau for the town. Two district nurses have their residences here and here one may find the seat of organized tubercular work dental clinics, eye clinics, mothers clubs, room registry, legal aid bureau and countless other kinds of helpful work.

The clubhouse has many rooms devoted toall kinds of work as well as games and enjoyments and all classes in all subjects required by the boys and men, girls and women who belong to and attend the Civic Association.

All these things show to an outsider that the sentiment of the residents of Norwood seems to have risen to that point where they see that the good of the many is the good of the individual and vice versa: that the whole key note seems to be one of helpfulness and eagerness to improve living conditions.

So every boy and every girl who grows to manhood and womanhood in the town of Norwood will have a fair chance and if by some misfortune a child is handicapped from the start the hand of brotherhood will be ever ready and willing to help him over the rough places. January 1 George F. Willett the donor of this great civic plant presented, free of debt the property to a board of trustees to be held as a trust for the people of Norwood for all time. The expense of running the plant is about $10,000 a year.

Mrs. Mackay's report was as follows:

Clubs which had come into the Federation were presented at the afternoon session. Their representatives told of what they had done in Malden, Bridgewater, Georgetown and Norfolk. Streets, yards and dumps had been cleaned up. They had had matrons for dance halls committees on sanitation who visited shops and one told of a working girls' home. Another of work to promote friendship among neighbors.

The exhibit for the prevention of infant mortality which is to be held in Boston was spoken of by George Rust Bedinger. This exhibit is to be held from Nov. 12 to 14.

Dr. George L. Cady of Pilgrim Congregational Church, Dorchester, spoke on "Our Duty to the Criminal." He said: We must not judge society only by that which rises to the top, the sediment should also be judged. Greece had her Plato and Rome her Caesar, but it was the millions of forgotten slaves that caused the trouble. If you are producing ten thieves while making one poet all is wrong.

When we read about "who is the whoest of the who" we must remember that the names of those left out help to make history. It takes 1,000 wild roses to make one American beauty. In order to deal with the best we must handle the worst.

There are two methods of treating the criminal—one is Christian and the other Pagan. The death penalty is a blot to be wiped out from Christian civilization. Murder is murder whether carried out by the state or individuals. Gladstone said "It is the business of the government to make it hard to do wrong and easy to do right." Courts should be so organized that justice must be the first virtue. 60 per cent of the criminals are feeble minded. The destiny of the individual is greater than upholding law.

In the state there are 32,000 criminals of the 20,000 are drunkards. A drunkard is not a criminal. Some of the laws produced by our commission failed because public sentiment about them in our state was not strong enough to help them along. This was due to ignorance of people in regard to the conditions in prisons.

Dr. Cady's dream is a small prison for the most hardened and a farm with cottages for others. There is an ideal prison in Switzerland. A farm costing $350,000 which is now worth $550,000. The prisoners added $200,000; It pays back 4 per cent.

Instead of having the state pay out $178,000, as we do, this prison in Switzerland built a railroad worth $9,000 and invested $7,000. The prisoners are paid wages. These accumulate and when the man comes out he has some capital. This could be done in America. In Switzerland they were not looking for a berth for a politician when they wanted a man for the head of this prison. They took the best graduate from a German agricultural college that they could find.

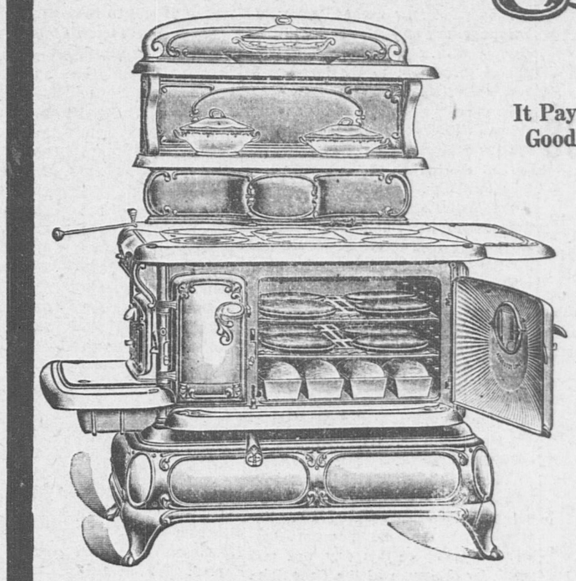

What is our attitude toward the prisoner when he comes out? Will he receive an open hand, or a face turned from him? God never shut the door of hope to any man. Read chapter 21 of Les Miserables. Where there is a dry eye there is a dry soul. He quoted Tolstoi: "We think there are circumstances where human beings can be treated without affection. There are no such circumstances—even in jail.

Mrs. Jessie D. Hodder, superintenden of Massachusetts Reformatory of Sherborn talked about their plan for the custodial care of the deficient She said in part:—The appropriation for her work was insufficient to carry

APPEAL TO WOMEN.

While obeying the request of our honored President for neutrality in the present awful conflict, no one, and especially no woman, can be indifferent to the natural promptings of humanity. We must keep out of this war so far as belligerent acts are concerned; we cannot and dare not keep out of it as ministers of mercy when the cry of distress reaches us from the ruined homes of Belgium and the poverty stricken British women and children. Our kinsfolk in Great Britain are taxed to the utmost with ever increasing burdens. Immense masses of penniless Belgians have fled for refuge to England. These people need food, clothing and shelter. Meanwhile tens of thousands of wage earning women in Great Britain are thrown out of employment. It is unnecessary to point out what terrible evils may result from this state of affairs. The need is urgent. The cry of distress cannot be silenced. We must give and give generously. The women of New England have ever been foremost in all philanthropic work. They will not fail now those who stretch out to them hands of entreaty.

Money may be sent to the treasurer of the Victoria League, Miss Edith Manton, 254 Savin Hill avenue, Dorchester, Mass., or to the treasurer of the Woman's Auxiliary to the British Charitable Society, Mrs. J. W. Smith, 7 Brookfield street, Roslindale, Mass.

Clothing and materials may be sent to the Headquarters of the Woman's Auxiliary to the British Charitable Society, 5 Park Square, Boston, Mass. For further information apply to Mrs. T. T. Stokes, 5 Park Square, Boston, from 1 to 4, Saturdays excepted.

Victoria League—Miss Geraldine Talbot, President; Mrs. James Humphrey, 1st Vice-president; Mrs. John Wylde, 2nd Vice-president; Mrs. C. H. Conant, Secretary; Miss Edith Manton, Treasurer.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Chester I. Campbell, whose fine endorsement by the Republican party at the primaries strongly indicates his election as mayor of this city paid a visit to City Hall this morning and met the department heads and clerks at the building. Mr. Campbell created a favorable impression during the short time he was there.

operations will be commenced in a few days.

Ordinarily work on the foundation would be delayed until spring but it was deemed wise to start this part of the work at once as there would be a considerable saving in the cost.

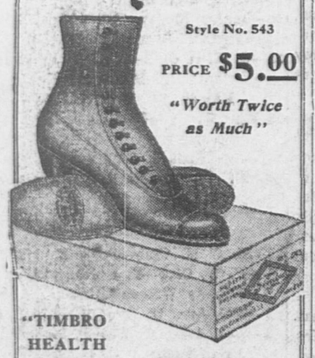

The present membership of Wollaston lodge is about 300 and it is growing very fast. At present the lodge meets in Odd Fellows' hall, which on very many occasions proves to be much too small. The smallness of the apartments is especially noticeable on occasions of the annual visitations.

The lodge has also long felt the want of a suitable banquet hall, which it does not now have. In addition to furnishing the lodge with a handsome Temple it will furnish this section of the city with a large and commodious public hall, a need of which has also long been felt.

SCHOOL COSTS.

Mayor Whiton has requested the superintendent of Schools to attend a meeting to be held in the City Hall, Chelsea next Monday at 10 A. M. for the purpose of preparing to renew the campaign begun last year before the Legislature, in the interests of a bill which would equalize the burden of public school instruction throughout the state. In brief this bill would levy a tax throughout the state which would again be redistributed on the basis of public school attendance.

It is plain how such a bill would benefit Quincy and all other industrial centres with a population increasing out of proportion to the increase in assessed value.

On the other hand those towns and cities which have become the refuge of the tax dodger will be obliged to bear part of the burden of the more populous localities.

The justice of this ought to be apparent to all. Pupils are educated not for the good of the city alone, but for the good of the state and nation.

The present condition of affairs is selfish and utterly wrong. The proposed legislation would apply not only to day school, but to evening school support as well. The share which the state now bears in the support of industrial schools undoubtedly is only the opening wedge in the direction of a more general support of all kinds of educational activity.

The bill as presented to the Legislature last year had strong support, and will undoubtedly be pushed more aggressively at the coming session. Senator Langelier of this city was last year, the chairman of the Committee on Education before which the bill was given a hearing.

EVER-RECURRING TROUBLE.

Complaint is made at regular intervals that High School pupils, going to and from school by way of Adams street use the street instead of the sidewalk, thereby running risk of accidents from the many automobiles using that thoroughfare at all hours of the day. The complaint is a very natural and proper one. To remedy it, is more difficult. In spite of warnings, people of all ages are negligent of safety, and the school authorities can only warn pupils of the danger and trust to common sense to act upon the warning.

NEW ATLANTIC CLUB.

The stockholders of the Atlantic Club recently held their first regular meeting which was well attended and at which the following temporary officers and committees were elected:—

President—Welcome G. Young.
Vice President—Henry F. Mosses.
Secretary—C. M. Pendleton.
Treasurer—Capt. James E. Packard.

who, with the following, will serve as a temporary board of directors:— F. M. Spicer, George W. Baker, H. K. Young, Albert H. Hall and Frank Palmer.

Finance Committee—James H. Churchill, Dr. Bruce, Capt. James E. Packard.

Clubhouse Location—H. E. Barclay, William E. Barnes, George W. Baker.

Clubhouse Arrangement and Furnishings—John Peacock, Frank Palmer, Welcome G. Young, Rev. T. W. Davison.

Billiard, Pool Tables, Bowling Alleys—W. G. Young, Harry Wilson, Russell T. Green.

By-Laws—Albert H. Hall, Capt. Packard, C. M. Pendleton, F. M. Spicer, Harry Wilson, F. H. Foss, W. G. Young.

The general committee reported that about $600 had already been subscribed by about 87 members with very little effort and it is estimated that a thorough canvass of the community, which will be made at an early date, should easily bring the amount up to $1500. Applications for a charter under the laws of the state of Massachusetts has been made. The club will be capitalized for $10,000 and the par value will be $10 per share.

Eighteen years has been decided upon as the minimum age limit for members. A special entertainment committee was appointed consisting of Messrs. Wilson, Peacock, J. W. Butler, Pendleton and Mitchell with Clifford Young as chairman who expect to produce a minstrel show in the very near future for the benefit of the club.

The continued enthusiasm with which the propositition is being received together with moral and financial support assures the ultimate success of the club.

The attendance figures in the public schools for the month of October are given below, and are noteworthy for the marked increase shown over the corresponding month of last year. For instance, average number belonging this year 6,441; last year, 5,871; or 570 more pupils in the schools this year than last.

Of this increase, the Quincy school claims 81; the High school 134; Washington 60; Wollaston 59; and the others less, excepting the Adams and the Gridley Bryant which show a loss of 27 and 30 respectively.

The complete figures follow:

If Women Only Knew

What a Heap of Happiness it Would Bring to Quincy Homes.

Hard to do housework with an aching back.
Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.
If women only knew the cause—that
Backache pains often come from weak kidneys,
'Twould save much needless woe.
Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys,
Read what a Quincy citizen says:

Mrs. Nellie A. Abbott, 33 Edison Park, Quincy, says: "I heard Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended and finally tried them. I had backache and disordered kidneys. One box of Doan's Kiney Pills fixed me up all right."

Mrs. Abbott is only one of many Quincy people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pils. If you back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Abbott had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c at all stores. EXPLANATORY NOTICE: Our prices have ever been noted for their brevity. The reason is obvious. We have a large manufacturing plant at 69 Summer Street, Boston, which is constantly in touch with the large factories of the country, receiving consignments of the latest fabrics daily, which are made into up-to-the minute garments at prices that otherwise would be out of the reach of the average wage-earner.

The assortments are so extensive that it would require a volume to enumerate. If it is impossible to suit you from our regular stock, we shall be pleased to give you a card to our headquarters, at 69 Summer Street, Boston, where you can and will be suited at no extra expense. Let's get acquainted.

In conclusion we wish one and all an enjoyable Thanksgiving and trust our efforts to make it so will be far reaching.

Sincerely yours

CHAMPION FOR THE THIRD TIME

Washingtons Win Final Game in Grammar Soccer Series

(By Lignum Vitae)

The soccer football team of the Washington school won the grammar championship for the third successive time by defeating Coddington 2 to 0 at Merrymount Park Wednesday afternoon. Both teams finished first in their respective divisions, the champions closing the season without a defeat.

The game was marred with an accident to Joseph Ryan, centre of the champions, who tripped in chasing the ball. He fell heavily to the ground, his right arm doubling under him. Medical aid was summoned and Dr. N. S. Hunting, and Dr. J. Gardner Smith, physical director of the schools, removed him to the Quincy City hospital. Dr. Hunting found his right arm fractured.

The winning goal was scored in the last five minutes of play and it was due entirely to the fine defensive work of Coddington, led by goal tender Torrey that larger score was not run up. Three well directed attempts at scoring were frustrated through his brilliant work.

Washington, under the leadership of Thomas B. Pollard, principal and soccer expert, trooped onto the field followed by about 150 girls and boys who were carried from the Point in special cars.

The Coddington rooters, with James S. Perkins principal in the front line, arrived in similar fashion. Both teams put in some spicy practice and then took their positions on the line when Referee Charles Swanson of Atlantic whistled for the fray.

Washington immediately opened up a strong offensive game, its backfield rallying to combination play and the Coddingtons, alive to the situation assumed a defensive worthy of more seasoned players.

While the play alternated, the positions of the play being reversed continuously, the rooters yelled encouragement and althohugh they lined the sides and cheered under the direction of the teachers they were obliged to break ranks but once for the ball going outside. This in itself demonstrates that the teams of this season do not play the bunch game prevalent the greater part of last year.

GAME CANCELLED.

Because of the death of Paul Wells, half back on the English High School football team, the Boston team cancelled its games for the season, except those to decide the championship of the city of Boston. The game with the Quincy High School, which was to have been played Saturday, is among those cancelled. In the place of the Boston team, the Elm Hill Preparatory School has been secured by the Quincy management. Little is known of the merits of this team, but it is expected to furnish an interesting game. As this is the only Saturday home game on the Quincy schedule, a big crowd is expected at the game and preparations have been made accordingly.

AMONG THE CLUBS

it on as it should be. She did not care whether the institution was self-supporting from a financial standpoint. The object to be attained is the salvation of the individual soul. She told how the deficient girl may be and often times is pretty and so attractive that it is hard to make her danger to society understood.

Regular clinics are held daily at the prison at which doctors and officers are present. There is an earnest effort being made to find out where these girls leave the path of virtue, what their tendencies were as little girls, what their history is as concerns health, habit and family; also what they would choose to do for life work and to help them to perfect themselves for this line of work.

It is a significant fact that the greater percentage of delinquent women are mentally defective. They do not become criminals from economic reasons, but from loneliness and heart hunger. There are 400 prisoners in Sherborn, ranging from 17 to 81 years of age. Only one is a college graduate, and the average never went beyond the fifth grade in school. They are all in need of special care and medical attendance, and if they are to be reclaimed there must be more money to do with. Mrs. Hodder appealed to the women of Massachusetts to help.

This was my first visit to a Federation meeting, and I was greatly impressed by it all. As I stood amidst this large number of women young and old, and with many more very young women than I had expected to see, I felt thrilled at the suggested power which they represented. Here was the balance of power needed to adjust the wrongs which exist in society in our state; and as I gazed into the sea of upturned earnest intelligent faces and felt the potential force of their influence, there welled up within me the hope that the circle of this influence could widen to reach across the water to our suffering sisters:

"Till the war drum throbbed no longer
And the battle-flags were furled
In the Parliament of man and the Federation of the World."

Mrs. Jethro R. Mellen who was unable earlier in the season to report on the summer school work of the education committee presented the following report:

During the past summer the Education committee has continued the work of the previous year, because it felt the ideas embodied were fundamental and wished to obtain the cumulative effect which comes from continued effort.

The Kindergarten school for the non-English speaking children in our city was opened July 6 at the Lincoln school with an attendance of 36 children. Before the close of the first week's session 59 children had enrolled including Russians, Swedes, Finns and Italians, and much to our astonishment not one child among them could speak a word of English.

In many instances mothers came to the school holding a child by each hand, unable herself to speak intelligent English and dependent upon an older brother or sister of the children to act as an interpreter.

The membership being limited to children whose ages permitted them to enter the public schools in September necessitated the refusal of many children from 3 to 5 years, while we were pleased, I can assure you, to welcome two Italian girls whose ages were fourteen and sixteen years respectively, arrivals of three weeks only at the opening of the summer school.

To develop physical health and increase intellectual vigor in these children would seem a great undertaking on the part of an inexperienced teacher, but Miss Frances Burke our former instructor was perfectly at home with the little charges and the results were gratifying when, at the close of the six weeks session the children were not only able to speak but were singing our little English school songs giving demonstrations in folk dancing and saluting the American flag.

The closing day brought the children to school the "pink of neatness" the little girls especially arrayed with large bows of ribbon on their hair which only goes to show the small amount of time required for one to become accustomed to the habits of others when under good influence. Cake and ice cream were served to the children their parents and friends and Mrs. Frederick Barnicoat donated six pounds of delicious home made candy for the children.

Specimens of the children's kindergarten work are placed in the club hall for exhibition to show the splendid work accomplished by these little boys and girls, future citizens of our commonwealth.

Oct. 20 the Education committee were represented at the New Adams school in the presentation of a picture of Mt. Shasta, it being the first picture to be hung in this beautiful school building. Owing to illness, the chairman delegated Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham, vice president and also a member of the committee to make the presentation. The committee was honored with the presence of the club president, Mrs. Chandler W. Smith who gave a very interesting talk on "Mt. Shasta and the Golden West," to a large and appreciative audience.

In looking into the future the committee hope to establish the work of a school nurse and home visitor, as each day brings many perplexing situations to the school teachers who would be somewhat relieved by the work of such a person. This idea however is in its infancy no definite plans having been formulated.

An enjoyable musical program followed the business meeting, a group of violin solos being given by Dr. George F. S. Pearce of Wollaston accompanied by Mrs. George B. Curran, a member of the music committee of the club. Dr. Pearce played "Meditation" by Souret and "Humoresque" by Dvorah, with a pleasing touch and technique receiving appreciative encores.

Mrs. Mellen introduced the speaker of the afternoon Dr. Walter E. Fernald, superintendent of the Massachusetts School for Feeble Minded at Waverly.

Dr. Fernald gave his hearers a good straight forward talk on an unpleasant subject but one that is a problem to be faced and solved by right thinking people. He said he thought the women of the Quincy Women's Club were alive to the problems of their city and how to meet them and that the world's problems were practically the same.

An appreciable number of children are born short or defective and unable to compete with others. Excluding Boston and some other large cities there are 7000 mentally defective in Massachusetts or approximately all told 15,000 to 20,000.

There were certain age tests and mental tests. While the physical age varies in the feeble minded the mental age remains the same, and the person cannot go beyond the mental age with every care and teaching. Those children damaged at birth or by accident later, which caused them to be mentally deficient were not as serious menace as those inheriting feeble-mindedness from ancestors.

The feeble-minded mother is the one we hear most about. If both parents are feeble-minded all the children will be. If one parent was feeble-minded because of accident it would not follow that the children would be. Where one parent was feeble-minded and the other normal the children would be half and half. There was no reason why cousins could not marry if there was no inheritance of feeble-mindedness in their ancestors. Sometimes it skipped a generation. Dr. Fernald showed that our forbears had a hand in shaping our destiny.

A feeble-minded child is always a baby mentally but grows up physically. Is easily led; has no fear of punishment, has no respect for the rights of others and is a problem to handle rightly. Girls especially lack reserve, are easily led astray and are a menace to the community.

It is not a theory, but a fact that 60 percent in the prisons are feeble-minded and cannot get a living, but live off society. When discharged from prison what happens? They are soon arrested again because they are feeble-minded but the question of caring for them is not solved.

Out of 300 white slave cases examined, over half were feeble-minded, and only 6 were found of good minds. The others were found to be incapable of self-support. Low wages, etc., were not at fault but feeble-mindedness. These cases should not be treated as criminals but as defective delinquents who are not responsible and should be permanently taken out of the community to erradicate the evil.

Marriage was important and not to be entered into lightly. In ten years views had changed and physical fitness was now considered. It was vital to teach the young the importance of efficiency. It should be taught in colleges and high schools as young people have the right to this information. Marriage is not for all. Certain individuals and families should not marry. How about the lower classes? The law makers must be educated. The feeble-minded child must be recognized as such in childhood, to guard against future crime. It was an altruistic work to be taken up by club women and churches, and defective cases protected against if parents do not take steps. Births of feeble-minded children should be prevented. Educate in a broad sense. Those who are not safe in the world should be segregated put into a retreat or community by themselves.

Vast sums are wasted on reform when prevention was what was needed. Protect the boys and girls of the community is the only way by removing the menace.

The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Breslyn, Mrs. Homer, Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Trainor, Mrs. George E. Adams, Mrs. Bixby and Mrs. Bennett. Mrs. M. M. Cannon and Mrs. H. E. Barker presided at the tea table.

DELIGHTFUL AFTERNOON.

The special meeting of the Quincy Women's club at the clubhouse on Saturday afternoon brought out a large attendance of club members and invited guests and was one of the most enjoyable of the season. It was under the auspices of the Home Economics committee, Mrs. Frank J. Moore acting chairman being the leading spirit, assisted by Mrs. Frederick H. Breslyn and Mrs. Arthur S. Townsend.

Mrs. Chandler W. Smith president of the club gave those attending a cordial greeting and introduced Mrs. Moore as chairman of the afternoon.

Mrs. Moore announced that the afternoon was in charge of three members of the committee and the program divided in three—a feast of music, a feast of information, and of refreshments with "truly" cake and tea.

The musical program was especially fine, the program being violin solos: "Adoration" by Zoroski and "Souvenir" by Drdla by Miss Edith Roubound; solos by Miss Lucy Root and Miss Agnes B. Ruggles, Pianist.

David J. Hickey of New York who spoke on Pure Food was most interesting. He said the man who takes money for which he does not give a full return is as much a robber as he who enters your house and walks away with your property. The man who sells you adulterated food injures and undermines your health is as much a murderer as the other kind.

Mr. Hickey had samples of food products which he had analyzed and showed several pieces of cloth which he had colored from confectionery coloring matter extracted from the candies. He called attention to many adulterated articles. He said he was not a pessimist but housekeepers should be stirred up. For every bad food product on the market there are a dozen good ones, and housekeepers should know the good ones. Mr. Hickey answered questions which brought out many good points at the close of his lecture.

The afternoon closed with a social tea. Mrs. Breslyn had charge of the tea and Mrs. George L. Badger and Mrs. Myron F. Ryder poured.

Mrs. Townsend was in charge of the reception committee assisted by members of the Home Economics Committee.

D. A. R. OF WOLLASTON.

The meeting of the Abigail Phillips Quincy chapter D. A. R. on Monday was the banner meeting of the year as the State Regent Mrs. George O. Jenkins of Whitman was the guest of honor, Mrs. H. L. Reynolds of Elm avenue was the hostess entertaining about 60 members and guests on this most enjoyable occasion.

The regent, Mrs. V. F. Waterhouse after a few words of welcome gave the meeting into the care of the program committee, Mrs. E. E. Jameson, chairman. Miss Muriel Badger, accompanied at the piano by Miss Dorothy Sayward sang in a charming manner "My Laddie" and for an encore sang "The Banjo Song."

Mrs. Jameson briefly introduced Mrs. Jenkins, who spoke for some minutes. She told of the work of the different chapters throughout the State saying that all seemed to be most interested in working for four definite objects. The one first in the hearts of all Daughters is Memorial Continental hall in Washington, D. C., the national home of the D. A. R. Each chapter is striving to do its part in reducing the debt on this beautiful building.

The second in interest is the work of the International college at Springfield. This school admits foreign born young people and teaches them the value of American citizenship and the true meaning of patriotism. Graduates from the school go back to their fellow countrymen in our large cities and in turn teach them their duty as loyal citizens of the United States.

The Red Cross work particularly in Belgium was engaging the attention of many.

Lastly Mrs. Jenkins spoke most earnestly for the work in our midst. Even on our own streets children and old people may need a helping hand or an encouraging word. This is a work all can and should do for as loyal daughters our aim is to live, not to ourselves alone but always to be ready to give help when it is needed."

Miss Badger again favored by singing "Just Awearying for you," and "The sweetest Flower that blows."

Very dainty refreshments were served by Miss Mary Broughton, Miss Dorothy Sayward, Miss Avis Toby and Miss Badger. The two ex-regents Mrs. W. F. Jones and Mrs. E. E. Jameson poured. The house was decorated with plants and cut flowers. Among the guests was the president of the Wollaston Woman's Club Mrs. Arthur Ropes.

A most successful sale of candy, useful and fancy articles was conducted by Mrs. J. K. Barber and members of the entertainment committee.

WOLLASTON W. C. T. U.

The monthly meeting of the Wollaston W. C. T. U. was held Friday afternoon, Nov. 6 at the home of Mrs. Joseph Walther, 81 Prospect avenue, Rev. Joseph Walther had charge of the devotional exercises.

Mrs. Isaiah W .Sneath read a very interesting paper on "Temperance and Labor" bringing out the fact that in all fields of labor and employment the temperate man is the most efficient. Alcohol weakens self control; lessens skill and precision in fine work; impairs judgment and has a paralyzing effect on the nervous system. Brain work is impaired by alcohol. Where head, hand, eye, muscle and nerve must work together for deftness and accuracy the temperate employee is the most efficient. Not only in the great games of football and base ball but in all other sports young men are finding the use of alcohol a handicap.

The president Mrs. George Crothers, gave a good report of the W. C. T. U. State convention recently held at Lawrence and urged all members to attend the state agairs whenever possible to get inspiration, enthusiasm and encouragement and learn of the real progress of the work.

A cordial invitation is extended to all Christian women to join this society and help with their presence and prayers to bring about a saloonless nation.

PUBLICITY CLUB.

The object of the Boston Women's Publicity club is to promote among women a knowledge of modern advertising in its relation to the home and all affairs of women and society in general; to promote truthfulness and efficiency in advertising and a better co-operation among women interested in this purpose. "We believe," said Mrs. Gallup, president of the club, "that intelligent men would prefer to use fair methods, but are handicapped by having to compete with the shrewd but less scrupulous men. We feel that women can help the honest man, the man who has learned that dealing honestly with women means better business, by making a study of these conditions, patronizing the reliable man and thus compelling the unreliable man to change his methods or forcing him out of business by not patronizing him. All this and much more we claim could be done while we are waiting for the ballot to be granted us.

"We believe that with the right knowledge of publicity women can be aroused to the power that lies within their grasp to change many things pertaining to the home."

ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S GUILD.

The Woman's Guild met with Mrs. George A. Vivert of Phillips street Wednesday afternoon who kindly opened her house on account of the present upset conditions of the parish rooms. The president, Mrs. Daniel C. Miller presided. The day's sewing consisted of garments for the Belgian Red Cross work in charge of Mrs. Alice J. Bainbridge who conferred with Miss Hattie E. Turner in regard to the work.

The luncheon was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Albert J. Fox and Mrs. L. Theodore Parlee.

It was voted to give through Mrs. Theodore Parker $5 for the Associated Charities work and by individual members the amount will be added to. The $45 made at the recent supper was voted to be used for furnishing the Guild room in the new parish house.

It was reported that through the efforts of Mrs. David L. Jewell a worthy woman with four children whose husband died a few months ago in the parish was now to receive aid through the Mothers' pension act.

It was voted to hold the next meeting Monday, November 30 because the regular date falls the day before Thanksgiving and it will be an all day sewing meeting at the home of Mrs. Theodore Parker of Russell street, Atlantic. The sewing will be for the linen table of the coming fair of which Miss Elizabeth Cook is chairman.

Mrs. David L. Jewell chairman of the Missionary committee gave an excellent report of the 37th annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary held at Trinity church, Boston Nov. 4.

QUINCY SQUARE

In the final rush of yesterday with the Kings Daughters edition of the Ledger which went to press at half past one much of the usual news was crowded out, especially the club news, which will be found in today's issue.

J. E. Ost, one of the best known Swedish violinists in this country, will appear at a concert in the Swedish Mission Congregational Church on Garfield street on Tuesday evening. He will be assisted by Mrs. Victoria Ellstrom-Bedel as pianist and Miss Hildur Ellstrom, singer. Mr. Ost is considered one of the best interpreters of the national and folk songs of Sweden.

The annual masquerade party of Skandia lodge, Vasa Orden will be held in Alpha hall this evening, and will be well attended by members and friends of this city.

A verdict in favor of Dr. Fred E. Jones of this city has been rendered by Judge Irwin in the Norfolk Superior court in the suit brought by Richard E. Hanrahan of this city. The plaintiff sued to recover $2500 under a claim that the defendant failed to set an alleged broken arm properly.

As far as possible notices are being sent to every graduate of Quincy High School for a mass meeting Wednesday evening, Nov. 18, for the purpose of forming an Alumni Association and it is hoped all will make a supreme effort to be present. The committee find in running through the various classes many changes of name and addresses and it is just possible all cannot be reached, but none should feel slighted because the committee is small and time has been short. Therefore every grad much pass this general invitation.

The Delta Sigma Club will meet at the home of Miss Edna Thomas Norfolk Downs, Monday evening Nov. 16.

Edmund Breese playing in "Today" at the Majestic theatre visited Quincy on Tuesday, and was much interested in our picturesque and historic city. Mr. Breese was the guest of Miss Sue Rice at whose studio pictures were made for his new play. Miss Rice took great pleasure in showing the city as a most promising place.

M. M. Barrett of 271 Whitwell street is in New York City this week attending the tenth annual convention of the Order Railway Track Foremen of America of which he was elected grand president.

Two ladies working together sold $12 worth of Kings Daughters Ledgers on Wednesday. They made a house-to-house canvass.

Edward E. Miller Jr., of Bigelow street observed his 12th birthday on Wednesday, and ntertained several of his little friends at lunch.

Mrs. Maria Williams of Granite street, wife of William J. Williams and mother of Frederick D. Williams, a well known pharmacist of City Square, is seriously ill at her home. Mrs. Williams was stricken Wednesday morning and her condition is cirtical.

PRESENTED BRIER PIPE

An informal stag party was tendered to Robert H. White, formerly of Brockton who is leaving the employ of the Pneumatic Scale corporation to accept a position in Canada. He is very well liked among his shopmates. The men of his department met a Mr. Dunstan's home to bid him farewell. During the evening he was presented with a briar gold mounted pipe which was a great surprise. A dainty lunch was served and the men left at a late hour with many farewellsand success to Mr. White and thanks to Mr. Dunstan for the pleasant evening spent with him.

JOHN ADAMS AERIE.

John Adams aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, met in Electa hall Wednesday evening, initiated three candidates, received several applications, appointed a nominating committee to report a list of candidates at the next meeting and made preparation for the election of officers at the first meeting in December.

President Frank J. Duffy presided and the initiation was under the direction of the uniform degree team with George Mitchell, conductor.

Several items of importance to the aerie were discussed. There was a large attendance.

William McEwan, a faithful member, who has been seriously ill, it was reported is convalescent.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES

mation as well as to please. And what boy wouldn't be pleased by the very cover of the "Railroad book," with its engine steaming straight toward one, from the heart of the book? And inside the cover there are all sorts of fascinating pictures,—one of the engine yard and turn table, one of a wrecking train at work, and one showing the engineer in his cab with all the machinery that is under his control.

There is a gay and merry book, which is very clever and original, as well as mirth, provoking,—"Mother Earth's children, the frolics of the fruits and vegetables" by Elizabeth Gordon. The book personifies and individualizes the different fruits and vegetables by representing them as children, and sometimes even as men and women, dressed in a costume that suggests the vegetable or fruit. The quaintness and diversity of the artist's ideas, and the ability to make everything in the picture count, even to the attitudes of the children and the expression of their faces, have resulted in a book that combines three qualities not usually found together,—humor, artistic beauty, and instructiveness. Underneath each picture is a little verse that adds to the enjoyment of the book.

Among the fairy books one feels in the land of enchantment, and the "forward, flowing tide of time" turns back for us as we revel in the creations, of such wonderful artists as Edmund Dulac, Warwick Goble, and Heath Robinson. The wealth of detail and the warmth of color that these artists have lavished upon these beautiful fairy tale pictures is astonishing, and the fact that they have done his, and the most "grown-ups" will enjoy the pictures as well as the children, shows that after all, we all like at times to get back to the "Land of dreams."

In the very attractive little book "My days with the fairies" the colored illustrations by Dulac are all mounted upon a pale brown background, which blends and harmonizes with the ecrus and browns and the cream white that are so often seen in the Dulac pictures.

Somewhat the same method of mounting has been used with the pictures by Heath Robinson for Anderson's "Fairy tales," though, in this case, a white margin has been used in addition. These pictures are charming in every way,—in the daininess and combination of the colors, the effect of simplicity, and the imaginative quality shown by the artist.

Not less attractive are the Warwick Goble pictures for Miss Mulock's collection of fairy stories,—here the effect is similar to that found in the Arthur Rackham pictures,—an impression as though the paintings were on ivory. And here we find, more beautiful even than in the dreams of our childhood, the princess, decked in flowing robes; the enchanted forest; and Snow White and Rose Red, clad one in purest white and the other in warm crimson.

Among the old standards we find attractive editions of "Heidi," "At the back of the North Wind," "Ivanhoe," "Child's garden of verse," and other old friends. And there are the Christmas books too; the "Christmas carol" and the "Birds' Christmas carol" of course; the "Children's book of Christmas," and the poem "The night before Christmas." This last is a gay red-covered book charmingly illustrated by Jessie Wilcox Smith.— a good book for Santa Claus to remember when Christmas is near!

These books are only a part of the collection, there are others just as interesting; and each person who looks at the group of books will doubtless make his or her own discoveries. We hope to welcome to the Library many friends of the children who might like to use these books as suggestions in choosing their gifts for the coming holiday season.

QUINCY WOLLASTON

The suit of Annie E. Youngquist of Quincy against the Old Colony Street Railway Co., to recover $15,000 damages for personal injuries arising from a collision of one of defendants cars with the carriage in which the plaintiff was riding on Hancock street, on March 17, 1906, was disposed of in the Norfolk Superior court this week before Judge Irwin. The case was settled by agreement of parties, judgment to enter for the plaintiff for $1 without costs. The suit of Andrew G. Youngquist against the same to recover $10,000 for the same cause was settled in a similar way.

Fred C. Bent a call man of the Fire department did splendid work at the fire which started between the Boston Gear Works and the Tubular Rivet Factory Wednesday. Mr. Bent has distinguished himself before at fires that needed quick action.

The Ladies Aid of the Wollaston M. E. church held a supper in the vestry Wednesday evening. Ten ladies acted as hostesses at the ten tables, and the menu at each table differed. Those presiding at the tables were:—Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Eric H. Ewertz, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Bennett, and Mrs. Joseph A. Sedgwick, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Bent, Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Keyes and Miss Aurilla Merrill. The president, Mrs. Joseph A. Sedgwick, and three past presidents attended the supper, Mrs. Walter C. Sanders who served fifteen years, Mrs. George Crothers four years. Mrs. Mrs. George Crother four years. Mrs. Lupton who has been treasurer for ten years and Mrs. Dimick secretary for four years were also present. After the supper Mrs. E. D. Bryant of Hartford, Maine gave a reading.

QUINCY POINT

Michael D. Sullivan, husband of Mary Sullivan and a resident of Quincy Point for many years died at his home at 99 South Walnut street, Wednesday after a long illness.

He was the father of Mrs. Mary Kerrigan, James and John Sullivan of this city, and Mrs. Margaret Barry of Brockton.

His funeral will be held on Saturday morning and among those present will be a delegation from Div. 3, A. O. H., of Randolph with which society he was affiliated.

QUINCY ATLANTIC

The Parent Teachers Association of the Quincy school in Atlantic has secured H. W. Gibson, State Boys Secretary of the Massachusetts and Rhode Island Y. M. C. A. to speak at their next meeting Nov. 17 at 8 P. M. in the Quincy School hall. Mr. Gibson under stands "boys" as well as any person in New England and whatever message he brings will be well worth hearing. A cordial invitation is extended to every one interested in the boys of the city to attend this meeting.

BETHANY BROTHERHOOD.

A largely attended meeting of the Bethany Brotherhood was held Wednesday evening with President Frank W. Crane in the chair. Dr. George W. Tupper, the immigration secretary of the Y. M. C. A. was the speaker and his subject "Foreign born neighbors." He gave a very instructive talk, and at the close answered intelligently several questions that were propounded. Evidently he is an expert on the subject.

Among the guests were: Hon. Albert E. Avery, judge of the District court Hon. Russell A. Sears, a former Mayor John D. Mackay, chairman of the School Committee; Frank Burgess, president of the Y. M. C. A. and others.

The committee served refreshments at the close.

OLDE TIME SING AT WOLLASTON

Given Under Auspices of Reliance Rebekah Lodge

Reliance Rebekah lodge gave a harvest supper and olde time sing Thursday night at Odd Fellows hall in ye towne of Wollaston, which was attended by many of the fellers and gals, as well as by some of ye married people. The fellers and gals arrived soon after dark so as to be on hand for the grand supper of garden truck that the sisters had got ready.

It is not often that the fellers could get away early, but harvesting is over so that they were able to do the chores and get into their Sunday clothes and be at the hall by 7.30.

Fearing that some of the party might get lost on the crooked streets of ye towne, full directions were given how to find the hall. All knew where the railroad tracks are and they were told that ye hall was on Newport turnpike, facing the railroad track. This made it unnecessary for the fellers to bring their lanterns with them and they were glad for in going home with the gals the boys wanted no lanterns about.

As it was some of the boys were late in getting home and it is said the reason was that they hung over the front gates too long.

Ye supper was fine and all did justice to it. My! how some of those boys did hoe into the good things. One would think they had not had a square meal for weeks. But it all tasted so good no one blamed them. Cold meats, cabbage, turnips, onions, squash and mince pies, etc.

The sing program was in two parts. Ye first parte opened with a grand march by the orchestra of John Hancock lodge. Then ye chorus sang "Old folks at Home" and "Sweet and Low." Humility Young sang "My grandmother's advice" and Hezekiah Dunham and ye choir "Cousin Jedediah;" Mehitable Cummings gave a reading. Ye opery quartette also wabbled.

During the time between the two partes ye young menne who desired to walk home with ye maidens took the opportunity to ask them while those in the second parte were slicking up.

In parte second ye choir sang "Old Oaken Bucket" and "War Times" Obejoyful Critchley blew on his cornet all alone, Samatha Waite and ye chorus sang "I cannot sing the old songs" Druscilla Collett and Ezekiel Cassidy sang together "Dost thou love me Sister Ruth." Then cousin Mehitable she spoke again and the two partes were over. Ye fiddlers of John Hancock lodge also played two times in the seconde parte.

The married women had charge of the supper and sing and they were Emma Ela, George's wife, Andy Johnsons wife, Mrs. Ward, and the wives of Fred Bent, Syd Barker, also Sarah Davenport, Lena White and Florence Waite, and they all looked pretty slick being fixed up in their best close.

Ye good old fashion comfortable gowns were wore by all the ladies, and they did certainly look some good. Lena Merrill wore a dress that was 150 years old and a bonnet that was right in style 100 years ago, and that of Emma Ela dated back 43 years ago.

Ye hall was much too small for the folks that gathered, 211 tickets being taken at the door and as all wanted some of the supper it was necessary to set the tables three times before all were satisfied.

MRS. HELEN L. RICHARDS.

Mrs. Helen L. Richards widow of Henry C. Richards, formerly of Braintree, died Thursday at her home on Newbury street, Boston after an illness of several months. Mrs. Richards was the daughter of Caleb and Susan Hunt Stetson of Braintree and was educated in the public schools of her native town. In June 1863 she was married to Henry C. Richards a Boston business man who died in April 1903.

Mrs. Richards was deeply interested in music and was a pianist of more than ordinary ability although never a performer in a public way.

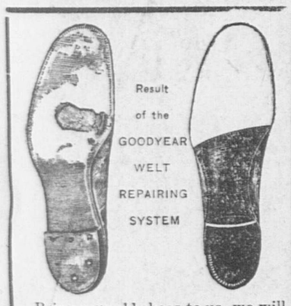

She is survived by two daughters, Helen S. wife of Rev. Caleb Stetson of Washington, D. C. and Gertrude, wife of T. C. Fuller of Boston. There is also a son Francis H. Richards who resides at 129 Newbury street, Boston.

MRS. JANE G. GURNEY.

Mrs. Jane G. Gurney of East Milton died at the home of her neice, Mrs. Jessie F. Curtis of 49 Upland road on Thursday, where she was visiting.

The deceased was a former resident of Brockton and was the widow of N. Norton Gurney who died eight years ago. Both were prominent in musical circles, Mrs. Gurney being the alto soloist at the First and Porter Congregational churches of Brockton and of the Church of the Unity of North Easton. She was also a member of the old Stoughton musical society and was a soloist at the annual concerts given under its auspices at Christmas.

She has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Deer of Bunton place, East Milton. Her funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon and burial will be in Union cemetery, Brockton.

Australian Cruiser Sydney and German Cruiser Emden, Which She Destroyed, and Captain of "Terror of the Seas"

Without doubt the most spectacular features of the naval side of the world war were the daring exploits of the German cruiser Emden and her final destruction by the Australian cruiser Sydney. In this illustration the Sydney is shown at the top and the Emden at the bottom, with a picture of brave Captain Karl von Mueller, commander of the Emden. The Emden was called the "Terror of the Seas" and also the "Scourge of the Pacific." In three months she had sunk or captured twenty-four British merchant ships at an estimated loss of $10,000,000. She successfully eluded capture despite the fact that seventy warships of the allies were hunting for her. Her remarkable feats read like romance and will go down on the pages of naval history as the most daring of modern wars. Finally it remained for the Sydney of the Australian navy, auxiliary to the British navy, to bring down the prize. The Sydney, a vessel of greater tonnage and equal speed to the Emden, engaged in battle with her off the island of Cocos, in the Indian ocean southwest of Java. The German cruiser ran ashore and was burned. Many of her officers and crew perished. It was reported that Captain von Mueller was saved.

FARCE NOT WELL ADVERTISED

Small Audience at Dramatics at Wollaston

The farce presented by the Wollaston Dramatic Club for the benefit of the Wollaston free kindergarten on Thursday evening in the Wollaston school hall, needed only a little advertising in the Daily Ledger to make it a success. The farce entitled "For One Night Only" was well presented, but only a few people knew of the entertainment and the audience was small.

The cast was as follows:

Prof. Martin Goldwhinney, Willard E. Keyes
Dr. Leopold Newman, Ernest W. Arnold
Charles Harkins, Horace Cath
Jack Harkins, Winthrop M. Safford
Sparton Spotts, John Norrie
Mrs. Goldwhinney, Marion Thomas
Mrs. Newman, Evelyn M. Farrington
Paula, Mrs. Charles Sweet
Rosa, Lucy Luard

The coach was Mrs. H. J. Gurney and the orchestra was under the direction of Max Pinkham. Candy was for sale by young ladies.

INQUEST HELD.

An inquest on the death of Edna Leighton, who died at the City Hospital as a result of injuries received by being struck by an automobile at East Weymouth, was held before Judge Pratt this morning. The little girl had crossed the street in safety but ran back after her little dog, and directly in front of an aproaching automobile. She was taken to the Quincy City hospital where she died.

CHARLES LYONS EXONERATED

Found Not Guilty of Larceny by Dorchester Court

Charles Lyons 23, of Barry street, West Quincy, held by the police in connection with a charge of larceny of money from the person of Joseph Sullivan of Botolph street, Atlantic, in the Dorchester District Court Wednesday morning was exonerated of the charge which had been preferred against him.

Frank Murphy of 7 Bridge street, Worcester, now a resident of Atlantic, was fined $75.

Sullivan claimed that while awaiting for a Quincy car in Neponset ten days ago two men attacked him and that he lost $48 in money and a check for $3. Patrolman Patrick Gallagher of Neponset interferred and captured Murphy, who after being booked mentioned the name of Lyons with the result that he was taken into custody at his home.

Lyons, after the police learned the inside story, was held simply as a witness, all charges against him being dropped.

Sullivan had most of the money when he left the court. It was badly torn, and he will have it redeemed at the sub treasury.

MRS. BRIDGET KING.

Mrs. Bridget King, a long time and popular resident of West Quincy, died at her home at 16 California avenue, Thursday afternoon after a long illness. Death was due to heart trouble.

Mrs. King was the widow of Patrick King and mother of Martin, John J., James, Edward, Mary and Nellie King.

Her funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at 3.30. Services will be held in St. Mary's church and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

NELSON AGAIN ASSAULTED

Found Unconscious at Neponset Early Wednesday Morning

Charles J. A. Nelson, a former special officer of this city, was found in an unconscious condition in Dorchester early Wednesday morning and is now at the Boston City Hospital suffering from probable internal injuries and abrasions. His name is on the dangerous list. He was in pitiable condition when found by reserve officer William Delaney of Station 11, Boston, near Field's corner. The case of Nelson is one of the most puzzling the Boston police have been called upon to handle and Capt. Crowley is making an investigation. Nelson was first assaulted while waiting for a car at Neponset after midnight on Sept. 28 and was in the hospital with a fractured skull for several weeks. William Doucette of Neponset was placed under arrest on a charge of that assault.

Nelson was discharged from the hospital a short time ago and was to be a witness in the Central Municipal Court against Doucette Wednesday morning.

Nelson formerly lived at Squantum. He was dropped from the police rolls after a hearing before Mayor Whiton several weeks ago. He was in this city Tuesday, campaigning in the interest of one of the candidates.

He is known to have left here during the evening supposedly for home. Nothing was known of his whereabouts until he was found unconscious.

There is some talk about Nelson being the victim of an assault by a gang interested in the case of Doucette but the police have obtained nothing which promises to develop that way.

MAYOR WHITON A GOOD SHOT

Brings Down a Pheasant While Autoing Through Weston

Mayor Joseph L. Whiton, having brought the affairs of the city up to the moment, found time Thursday to take a trip in behalf of his own interests. He left in his auto and took his gun along.

After calling on several friends he started the homeward trip. While coming through Weston he spied a handsome pheasant in the woods. The bird disappeared and so did the Mayor He stalked his game for some few minutes and then the sound of a shot broke the stillness of the surroundings. Quiet again settled over the landscape until the rustling of parting bushes on the roadside revealed His Honor with the pheasant dangling over his shoulder. This morning he was busy making out the report required by the Fish and Game Commissioners while the bird was undergoing final preparations for the feast.

PROMISES TO BE HOT GAME

Where is Elm Hill school?

This question is being generally asked by the football fans of the city who read posters anouncing the team could play Quincy High at Merrymount oval Saturday afternoon.

Well listen. They are some team. One of the players was a guard on the Oak Hill school of Chicago which played against Waltham last year, another is said to hae been considered the star of the High school team of Rhode Island, another, according to the manager, has a reputation through northern New York, and so on down the line.

The boys average considerable more than Quincy and most of them have been out of High schools and academys for a year or more.

The Quincy High players know that, but they haven't quailed. They simply are ready to cop another victory. It ought to be some game.

The time for filing petitions for recounts of votes cast at the primaries last Tuesday expires at 5 o'clock tonight. There is a possibility that Andrew Johnson who was defeated for the nomination for Councilman from Ward One may ask a recount of the Ward One votes for Councilman. He lost the nomination to William P. Thompson by 19 votes.

MASQUE BALL SKANDIA LODGE

Variety of Dazzling Costumes Worn by Participants

Upwards of 250 members and friends of Lodge Skandia, Vasa Order, dressed in a variety of dazzling costumes, attended the annual masque ball in Alpha hall on Thursday evening. The grand march in which all participated was one of the longest ever formed in the hall.

The judges, Alfred N. LaBrecque, Andrew Johnson, Hjalmar Branstrom, and Charles Dalby found it difficult to award the prizes.

Mrs. Oscar A. Johnson, wearing a costume, made up entirely of autumn leaves, with crown to match, secured the first prize. The costume was one of the most picturesque creations of the year. Mrs. Hilma O'Brien, dressed as a cavalier; Julius Bash as a National Lancer, O. A. Johnson as a wood chopper and Mrs. Anton Nelson as a comic person received the other prizes. Anton Nelson, a man of tremendous girth and well known about the city secured the funny women's prize.

Music was by Cronstrom's orchestra of Everett and dancing continued until 1 o'clock. Refreshments were served in Union hall by Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Marvin. The committee in charge was Olaf Sundstrom, Eric Skoglund, Mrs. Hilma O'Brien, John Mattson, Elvira Carlson, Almeda Karlstrom.

RECEPTION FOR CHAMPIONS

The reception to be tendered the players of the soccer team of the Washington grammar school, in honor of the school winning the city championship for the fourth consecutive year will take place next week, but final preparations not yet being completed.

All of the boys who made up the team will be awarded the school letter and those who played a majority of the games will be given stickpins by Thomas B. Pollard, principal and coach of the victorious elevens.

Washington's souvenir of its first championship, a silver cup and shield were presented the school when it took the title the second and third times. The trophy this year has not yet been decided upon.

The reception will probably be held at the school and will be attendd by all the pupils and others interested in the game.

WOMEN VOTERS.

Under the new statute, women can vote in the caucuses for School Committee and have all the privileges a man has in that connection, providing they register as voters. However it is now too late for new registration before the city election of 1914.

This right is given them by chapter 345 of the Acts of 1914, which amends section 13 of the Acts of 1913. The extension of the franchise to women will be favorably received in this city by women who have needed only the encouragement to take an active part in School Committee affairs.

The new law states that every female citizen having the qualification of a male voter may have her name entered upon the list of voters for the nomination and election of members of the School Committee upon complying with the requirements. Women who are qualified to vote may sign nomination papers for candidates for members of the School Committee, to be voted for at the primaries, and shall be subject to the provisions of law relating to such nomination papers.

UNINTELLIGENT VOTING.

The returns from almost any election district show a regular proportion of errors in marking ballots. Also the returns always show many illogical oddities.

The mistakes of the ballot box are by no means confined to uneducated persons. Down in the back streets of the city where recent immigrants prevail, you might expct to find blundering voters.

The chances are that their political education has been well attended to. Some worker has taken his pupils one by one, and has shown them that even an ignorant man can mark a ballot correctly. For such citizens, the act of voting is a great privilege. They meditate over their lesson, with great searchings of heart enter the voting booth, and are apt to mark correctly.

Meanwhile the hurried business man enters the polling place, his mind centered on problems that he left at his office. Before he knows it, he may have marked two candidates where he could vote only for one.

In the states where the law does not permit one to vote a straight party ticket by making a single mark, the tail end of the ballot usually shows a lower total. Yet the contests most vitally affecting a community may come at the end. It seems but a trifling effort to mark a ballot from end to end. Many voters seem to become wearied by this strain on their massive intellects.

At primary or other elections where candidates are arranged alphabetically without party designation, the politicians always say it is a great advantage to have your name begin with A or B, so that you can head the ballot. If your name begins with a W or a Y, you are handicapped. There are always a number of indefferent voters who on many contests will mark the first name that they read. They would add to the average intelligence of the electorate by going fishing election day.

The article headed "Remember Mr. Kincaide" which appeared in Mondays Ledger was an editorial from the Boston Sunday Herald, but through oversight credit was not given. Such an editorial from a paper like the Herald is signficant of our townsman Mr. Kincaide in Republican circles.

People might be in better condition to profit by the spiritual lessons of Thanksgiving day if they had salt fish for dinner.

The trouble with the modern home is that it is based on the onestep and bridge whist rather than on pumpkin pie.

It is announced that the colleges will continue in session during the winter, in spite of the fact that neither football nor baseball can be played.

PRAISE FOR WOMEN'S PAPER

Many words of praise for the King's Daughters,' who issued the 18-page Daily Ledger on Wednesday, are coming in. All are merited:

ENERGY AND SKILL.

My dear Mr. Prescott:

I have just finished reading the King's Daughters' edition of "The Ledger" and because of its excellence I feel like sending you a word of commendation.

The members of the King's Daughters who had this enterprise in charge are evidently possessed of great energy, coupled with skill in the art of acquiring interesting news. The edition is certainly a credit to those who furnished the material, and I may also say that the Ledger force is deserving of commendation for the excellent appearance of the paper, which of course, is due to their care and skill in arrangement and workmanship.

Cordially yours,
Ernest L. Collins.

John D. Mackay, chairman of the School Committee, said:

"Intelligent co-operation was evident in every step of the project. The articles were, without exception, well written. The make-up of the paper was artistic. It was issued on time and distributed in a business-like manner. It is pleasing to know that the venture has proved successful, for there is no organization in Quincy which does more purely benevolent work than the King's Daughters."

Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott, pastor of Bethany church writes:

"I have read with great interest and admiration the "King's Daughters Edition" of the Ledger. All citizens must appreciate the industry, ability and intelligent discrimination revealed by the "staff of editors" and their faithful helpers. The burden was assumed with a high purpose to help those who are in need, and the tone of the edition was in keeping with the lofty purpose of the enterprise.

"The whole paper is an illustration to the men in business, in politics, and religion, of what can be accomplished when citizens work together for some worthy and unselfish purpose. These noble women have set the men a good example which we shall do well to follow.

"Personally, I have felt so proud of the paper, that I am sending copies abroad, that the women of other countries may appreciate the broad intelligence of the contributors, and the unselfish enthusiasm of the King's Daughters."

PRESS COMMENTS.

The comments that we appreciate the most are from the Evening Telegram. Editor LaBrecque says:

"Although over our head in the political aftermath, we found time to carefully peruse the very creditable special edition, of the esteemed Daily Ledger, edited and published by Unity Circle of King's Daughters. Of course we felt bound to compare it with a recent edition of the Telegram gotten out by the Wollaston Women's club. There is an old and trite saying that comparisons are odious. Perhaps they are, but it all depends upon the point of view.

"While we feel friendly disposed to any contemporary, and are even willing to admit that typographically the Daughters' special was a gem of the printer's art, we fell satisfied that the Wollaston women did a little better than their rivals in journalism.

"Then too, some credit is due the regular staff of the Ledger which contributed in no small way to the general excellence of the edition.

"But, getting down to brass tacks, the efforts of the daughters are worthy of more than passing notice. It showed a profound interest in their work, that they are conversant with the subjects handled, and that they are fully capable of putting their thoughts and ideals before the public in a most convincing manner. We take pleasure in extending our congratulations to the King's Daughters, and also to the esteemed Ledger, in that honest recognition of work well done.

French Remedy for Stomach Troubles

The leading doctors of France have for years used a prescription of vegetable oils for chronic stomach trouble and constipation that acts like a charm. One dose will convince you. Severe cases of years' standing are often greatly benefited within 24 hours. So many people are getting surprising results that we feel all persons suffering from constipation, lower bowel, liver and stomach troubles should try Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. It is now sold here by

Clyde T. Cox and druggists everywhere.

A. N. LABRECQUE.

"In conclusion we might say that such work will do more to boost Quincy than all the flamboyant verbiage that soap box orators could ever hope to do. Ladies accept our heartiest congratulations."

The Boston Journal gave nearly two columns of space to the Kings Daughters' edition with pictures of five of the staff. We quote:

"The edition of the Quincy Daily Ledger Wednesday afternoon was prepared entirely by the women of Unity Circle, King's Daughters. It is the largest edition of the Ledger ever published, for it contains eighteen pages and is divided into three parts. One copy of the paper was sold for $5. The copies sold rapidly, and it was difficult to satisfy the demand. About a year ago another Quincy paper was published for one day by the Wollaston Women's Club, and much interest was felt by Quincy people in comparing the journalistic efforts of the two organizations."

The Boston Post says: "Women secured the advertisements, wrote the stories and edited the Quincy Daily Ledger Wednesday. The 18-page newspaper issued by the King's Daughters of Unity Circle attained a circulation of 8,000 copies. The proceeds will be devoted to charity. The Ledger is a daily paper, and its publishers, the George W. Prescott Publishing Company, turned the entire plant over the the Unity Circle."

The Boston Globe says: Wednesday's edition of the Quincy Daily Ledger was published under the supervision of Unity Circle, King's Daughters. None of the women engaged in the active work of getting out the paper had ever done newspaper work before, but the edition was worthy of trained newspaper men. The regular size of the paper was increased from six to 18 pages, and an edition of 8000 was run off.

The paper was divided into three sections, one of which was devoted to the regular news of the day and the night before, and the other sections were devoted to special reading matter, nearly every line of which was supplied by Quincy women. As a series of historical papers alone, the edition was a very valuable piece of work. Nearly every women's society in the city was described at length by some member, and there were many poems some of which were satires on local subjects.

The Board of Assessors seemed to be the target at which most of the editorial pointers were aimed. For instance, jabs at the tremendous increase in real estate valuations during the past year were shied at in this manner by the women: "We feel sorry for the woman who dares not have a flower-bed in front of her house again. It was the only improvement that could have caused the $300 raise in her tax assessment.

And again: "We would suggest that the Civic Association confer with the Mayor and arrange to allow the painting of houses and cleaning up of property without increased valuation."

The Boston American says: Women of Unity Circle, King's Daughters, Quincy, are elated today by their success in publishing an edition of the Quincy Ledger. It is the largest edition of the Ledger ever published, containing eighteen pages divided into three parts. One copy of the paper was sold for $5. Mrs. G. L. Badger, was city editor for the day, Mrs. Victor E. Miller, editor-in-chief; Mrs. E. L. Mitchell, Jr., advertising manager; Mrs. F. W. Crane, Mrs. C. W. Guy, and Mrs. J. Francis Merrill, associate editors; Miss Lue Lewis, circulation manager.

RUNS WILD WITH PISTOL ON SHIP

Boston Man Takes the Life of a Newspaper Man

ALSO SHOOTS TWO OTHERS

Captain of Steamer Mohawk and a Passenger Sent to Hospital Suffering With Wounds From Which They Are Expected to Recover—Insanity Probably Responsible For Tragedy

Charleston, Nov. 13.—The arrival here of the steamer Mohawk from New York revealed a shooting tragedy on the high seas off the North Carolina coast that resulted in the death of F. W. R. Hinman, business manager of the Florida Times-Union of Jacksonville, and serious injuries to another passenger and to the Mohawk's captain.

All three were victims of bullets fired by a passenger who booked as George B. Perkins, architect, of Boston.

Hinman was president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' association and widely known in the south. The other injured passenger was B. H. Wright of Utica, N. Y. Physicians said both he and Captain Ingram probably would recover.

Perkins, who boarded the Mohawk at New York, was placed in irons immediately after the shooting and when the ship docked here was given a preliminary hearing and ordered held on a murder charge. Evidence tending to show he was not mentally responsible was introduced at the hearing.

N. K. Wentworth of Connecticut, who occupied a stateroom with Perkins, testified that Perkins had taken a narcotic, which, he said, was for headaches. Other passengers said Perkins had acted queerly.

Mr. and Mrs. Hinman, Mr. Wright and Captain Ingram were sitting in the companionway of the Mohawk when Perkins appeared, clad in pajamas and a raincoat. The captain told him he must wear more suitable apparel if he wished to remain.

Perkins immediately drew a revolver and began firing. Hinman was struck twice in the abdomen. Ingram was hit once and Wright once. A fifth bullet went wild. Perkins is said to have turned the weapon on himself, but found he had emptied it.

A wireless call for additional medical aid was picked up by the torpedo boat destroyer Flusher, which rushed to meet the Mohawk. Hinman died aboard the steamer. Ingram and Wright were placed in hospitals here.

The federal warrant charging Perkins with murder was read to the prisoner. He did not attend the hearing and the authorities said he manifested a listless interest in what had happened.

VICTIM IS IDENTIFIED

Robbery the Supposed Motive For Murder of Man In Maine

Houlton, Me., Nov. 13.—Two developments marked the efforts of the county authorities to solve the mystery connected with the finding of the body of a man at Easton.

One was the identification of the victim as John Timoney of Andover, Mass., aged about 36, and the other the decision of medical experts that he came to his death by murder.

Detectives believe that robbery may have been the motive for the crime, as Timoney was supposed to have $75 in his possession when last seen alive, and the money was missing when his body was found. It is believed he was felled by some blunt instrument. Timoney had been working for C. K. Bolster digging potatoes.

OVER 8400 SLAUGHTERED

Pheasant Hunters Busy During Open Season In Massachusetts

Boston, Nov. 13.—The open season on pheasants has resulted in the slaughter of over 8400 birds. This was the report which came from the commission on fisheries and game, when the close of the season was announced.

Chairman Field of the commission said that the season next year would probably open Oct. 15, instead of Oct. 12. But there is a bill in the legislature to give the governor control over the open season, and there may be no open season at all.

SUFFOCATE IN CELL

Barge Captain and Deckhand Were Arrested For Minor Offense

Branford, Conn., Nov. 13.—Mitchel Matthews, captain of the barge H. F. Allen, discharging coal here, and a deckhand named Reilly were found dead from suffocation in their cell at the local lock-up.

They had been arrested for a minor offense. The bedding in the cell had been burned, as had the men's garments, but the bodies were not badly scorched. The men, probably while smoking, set fire to the bedding and died from inhaling the smoke.

CAMPBELL ENDORSED

Republican City Committee to Support Nominee

A well attended meeting of the Republican City Committee was held Thursday evening at headquarters on Temple street. The committee voted to endorse the candidacy of Chester I. Campbell, the Republican nominee for Mayor. Alexander Falconer, representing the Business Men's Association, was present and a special committee was appointed to confer with a committee from the Business Men's Association to lay out a line of campaign. This meeting will be held next Tuesday evening at which time the candidates will probably be invited to be present.

ELMENDORF LECTURE.

Those who journey with Dwight Elmendorf, in his picture pilgrimage "Around Northern Europe," at Symphony hall this evening and Saturday afternoon, will agree with Mr. Dooley when he says:—"I can injye places bettther be not goin' to thim." Few travelers are so well prepared as Mr. Elmendorf, to present through the medium of pictures, a very effective and comprehensive survey of Belgium, Germany and Austria-Hungary. As they were before the outbreak of hostilities. Commencing with a few significant glimpses of London, Mr. Elmendorf will conduct his hearers to Calais, thence through Belgium and Holland to Hamburg. Berlin and Dresden will be the next objectives, after which the tour is continued to Austria-Hungary for a visit to Vienna, Budapest and Salzburg. The return journey to London, will afford glimpses of Munich, Frankfort, Heidelberg and Mainz; a trip down the Rhine, and views of Liege, Namur, Brussels, Antwerp, and other places in belligerent little Belgium. Next week "Southern Europe" will be discussed.

J. QUINCY HENNIGAN.

J. Quincy Hennigan, died at his home at 6 Bunton place, East Milton suddenly on Wednesday evening, the day following the 40th anniversary of his marriage. He was in his 69th year.

Mr. Hennigan was a familiar figure about the local District court house, having been the representative of the Public Service Commission of the State at inquests. He began railroading in his ninteenth year and devoted his life time to its improvement. He has served the state as an inspector for several years.

Funeral services will take place tonight at his home and the body will be sent to Derby Line, Vt., his native town, for burial. He leaves his wife and one daughter in Derby Line.

ANDREW WILSON.

Andrew Wilson, an 83 year old resident of this city died Wednesday at the home of his nephew, Mikel Gunderston, 42 Nweomob place. The deceased was well known among the Swedish people of the city.

NEW TRIAL IN CREOLE CASE

A new trial in the suit of the Southern Pacific Co., against the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation for breach of guarantee as to the speed and coal consumption of the steamship Creole has been ordered by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

The ship was built by the defendant for the plaintiff for service between New York and New Orleans. The decision is based on an erroneous interpretation of the guarantee of the lower court, especially that part providing for the management of the steamship during the trial trip.

The Creole failed to develop the 16 knots an hour speed guaranteed and the defendant corporation contends the steamship was never given a fair trial in accordance with the guarantee terms.

The Court of Appeals, on the question of damages, declared it could see no reason why the cost of installing new engines following the trials, entailing expenses of $236,500 and $114,200 for the time consumed in making the change, are not proper elements of damages for a jury to consider.

The judge of the trial court awarded the plaintiff a verdict of $2,948.41 which was appealed.

The Creole was the product of the old Fore River Corp.

WHITE SLAVERS ARE SENTENCED

The first white slave case ever heard in the district court at Quincy came up before Judge Avery Thursday when Mike Pitoni and Michael Robino, were tried and each sentenced to a year in the house of correction. Pitoni appealed but came into court this morning and withdrew his appeal and took his sentence.

The case grew out of a raid made by Capt. McKay and Inspector Goodhue upon a house at 1 Baxter place a few days ago. The woman in the case made a confession and it was mainly through her statements that the two men were convicted. The police however, who had been watching the place for some time, also introduced some damaging evidence, against the two men.

Presiding Judge In Trial Of Henry Siegel, Charged With Grand Larceny.

BANK MADE A PROFIT

Claim of Lawyers For the Defense In the Siegel Trial

Geneseo, N. Y., Nov. 13.—At the trial of the grand larceny charge against Henry Siegel the defense was jubilant over the admissions drawn from Herbert P. Howell, vice president of the National Bank of Commerce, from which institution Siegel is alleged to have stolen the money involved in the indictment.

The prosecution was equally pleased with the cross examination of Howell, contending that the defense had proved a material part of the people's case against Siegel.

Summarized, Howell's testimony tended to show the National Bank of Commerce had made a big profit on its transactions with Siegel's enterprises, extending over a period of ten years.

On the other hand the prosecution avowed that the answers given by Howell to the questions put by Siegel's lawyer proved that the bank lost money and went a long way to prove the larceny of $50,000, although the specific allegation upon which Siegel is being tried is the larceny of only $684.05.

WILSON REPROVES NEGRO SPOKESMAN

Passionate Remarks on Segregation Not to His Liking

Washington, Nov. 13.—In a heated, sensational manner, negro delegates from the National Independent Equal Rights league demanded from President Wilson the abolition of segregation in the government departments and received a sharp and pointed rebuke from the chief executive.

The president told W. M. Trotter of Boston that he (Trotter) had spoken as no other man had since the president took office and that when Trotter's organization called upon the president again it would have to be with another spokesman.

The president made a lengthy address to the negro delegates, beginning by rebuking them for dragging politics into the question and saying that if they had made a mistake in voting for him they ought to vote against him.

MISTAKEN FOR CANDY

Poisonous Tablets Cause Death of Child and Her Grandmother

Rockeville, Conn., Nov. 13.—Poisonous tablets, which were evidently mistaken for candy, caused the deaths of Hazel Rothe, aged 3, and her grandmother, Mrs. Edward Miller, aged 64, at their home in Dobsonville.

The little girl found the tablets in a bottle. After swallowing a few she placed a number of them in her grandmother's cup of tea. Mrs. Miller drained the cup before she noticed the unusual taste. Both died before medical aid arrived.

Suicide of Insane Woman

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 13.—During a spell of temporary derangement and in the absence of her nurse, Mrs. Joseph Kubrach, a 55-year-old Webster woman, hurled herself from a window of her room on the fourth floor of a hospital. Death was instantaneous.

Relieved of Martial Law

Butte, Mont., Nov. 13.—Martial law, which has prevailed in Butte since the arrival of the national guard, Sept. 1, was raised last night, when the soldiers departed from the city.

French Steamer Founders

London, Nov. 13.—A dispatch from Havre says the French steamer Duchess de Guiche foundered in the Havre roadstead during a gale and that eleven persons lost their lives.

TROOPS STAY IN MEXICO

Conditions Too Unsettled to Allow Them to Return Home

Washington, Nov. 13.—President Wilson and Secretary Bryan have decided not to fix a date for the evacuation of Vera Cruz by the American troops until it is determined which faction can dominate that section of Mexico sufficiently to carry out the guarantee asked by the United States as a prerequisite to its withdrawal.

General Aguillar is in command of most of the troops in the immediate vicinity of Vera Cruz and is believed to be loyal to General Carranza, who is in open conflict with the national convention, which declared General Gutierrez provisional president of Mexico.

The Washington government does not desire to interfere in any way in the tangled controversy which has arisen between the various military chieftains, but administration officials showed plainly their chagrin at the fact that several generals who wrote their names on the Mexican flag recently, kissing it as a pledge that they would abide by the acts of the convention at Aguascalientes, have now repudiated their oaths, refusing to support Gutierrez, selected as provisional president.

STAMPING OUT DISEASE

Killing of Affected Cattle Begins Today In Massachusetts

Boston, Nov. 13.—The next chapter in the crusade against the foot and mouth disease will be the killing of the animals that are affected. This will begin today, probably at Amherst.

Two approaisers have already been appointed, Otis H. Forbush, representing the federal government, and Myron T. Carrigan for the state government, and they will appraise the property that has to be destroyed because of the disease. Charles J. Dailey has been selected to supervise the killing, and in order that there may be no complaint later from the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals two of its agents will be invited to be present when the slaughtering is done.

Present arrangements are that the federal government shall pay one-half of the value of the doomed property, and the state government the other half. In appraising cows their value for milk and beef will be considered.

TELL IS OUTDONE IN MARKSMANSHIP

But Man Who Wielded Pistol Is Sent to Penitentiary

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Joseph Williams was sentenced by Judge Petit to serve from one to fourteen years in the penitentiary at Joliet although he did not do anything but shoot the earrings presented by him out of Daisy Payne's ears.

Williams thought the jury ought to give him some consideration not only because Daisy trifled with his heart, but because he outdid William Tell in marksmanship.

The judge in sentencing Williams informed Daisy that a man's heart is damaged easily, and admonished her to have only one sweetheart at a time hereafter.

"At that you're some shot," said the judge to Williams.

PASSES 30,000-POUND MARK

California Cow Produces Wonderfully Large Supply of Milk

Woodland, Cal., Nov. 13.—Champion Tillie Alcartra, a Woodland cow, has set a new record for milk production, in excess of 30,000 pounds in a year. The year was up today, but the 30,000-pound mark was passed several days ago.

Tillie Alcartra is a 5-year-old Holstein-Friesian. She set a new record last year, surpassing by a few pounds the 29,592-pound mark made by a Massachusetts cow.

MUST SERVE HER TERM

Virginia Court Denies Appeal of Woman Who Killed Husband

Richmond, Nov. 13.—The Virginia supreme court denied the appeal of Elizabeth Hall, sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary for the murder of her husband, Victor Hall, agent of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway at Green Spring.

Though suspected of several arson crimes at the same place, she was only prosecuted for the murder. Among the buildings burned was the railway station.

Shooting Deer From Autos

Stockbridge, Vt., Nov. 13.—The deer season is already proving one of the most successful in years. Some hunters have brought down good-sized bucks from automobiles.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Alfred Beaulieu, 60, dropped dead from heart disease while at work stripping bark from telegraph poles at Lowell, Mass.

Mrs. Elvira Gannett observed her 103d birthday anniversary at her home at North Scituate, Mass., by receiving many guests.

Minnie Diaid, 2½, obtained some matches, set fire to her clothing and was burned to death at Worcester, Mass.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Saturday morning meeting for the boys held in the Association Hall at nine o'clock sharp will be addressed this week by F. W. Robertson, of the Boston Y. M. C. A.. His talk will be "good fellows" so all you boys of Quincy who are over ten had better get around if you don't want to miss a treat. Illustrated songs and good singing.

Snakes! Real live ones will be shown at the lecture by Allen S. Williams, the noted snake lecturer November 18 at 7 P. M. Mr. Williams' will have with him also a number of beautiful lantern slides showing the snakes' natural surroundings and habits of living. This is under the auspices of the Boys' Division but men and women are invited. A small charge will be made and as the seating capacity of the hall is small if you are interested you had better make sure of hearing Mr. Williams by getting your ticket early. The boys of the Boys' division will have them for sale or they can be secured at the building as long as the supply lasts.

Much interest is being shown in the gym these days as the fellows are working hard at basket-ball to get in shape for the opening game which will probable be played at our courts the latter part of the month.

A bunch of the seniors journeyed to Braintree on Thursday evening to play against a team from the Braintree A. A. This is only a beginning for the boys but it should do lots toward showing them their weak places and getting them in shape for the regular scheduled games.

Ping-pong still holds the interest of the Juniors in the Boys' Division as the ping-pong tournament is still going on for them in the game rooms. The Employed boys have started to run off their tournament and should show up strong in the final games.

Bible class work will start next Friday evening November 20 when the first of a series of monthly suppers will be served to all the boys who are interested. The classes are going to be large this year due to the hard work of Joe Beal, chairman of that committee and all boys whether members of the Association, or not who would like to get in one of the classes should sign up at the building at once.

The Employed boys are starting in to train for their first monthly meet to be held Monday night November 23. These meets are opened to the public for the small price of ten cents and any one wanting to see a good exhibition of running and other events should not fail to be on hand that evening.

A trip to Bunker Hill has been planned for the boys for Saturday afternoon. All fellows who are planning to go on this trip are asked to turn in their names early so they wont be left out.

The young men of the city have an unusual opportunity to learn a language that is coming into more use every day. This is Spanish. E. F. Thompson a graduate of college in Mexico and also of Harvard will teach commercial and conversational Spanish. Call at the office about the matter. With the possibility in the near future that many of the South American countries will be opened up to our trade it is a wise young man who makes himself ready to meet this demand. The price is reasonable.

With the reviving of the interesting game of draughts, the Quincy Association ought to revive its interest in the game. We ought to be able to organize a team that would be able to compete with the nearby Associations.

A handsome illustrated booklet of the Providence Association was received this week. It is the last word in Association buildings. If any of the Quincy Association members are in Providence they ought surely go and see the building and meet Mr. Clee.

The Association Week of Prayer for young men was observed by the local Association by the holding of a meeting at the building Sunday afternoon. There was a good attendance and a profitable hour was spent.

The Membership campaign has been continued during the present week with good results. It will now probably be continued throughout the month in order to give the members a chance to get in some of the members they have nearly signed up. Fellows get busy.

TWO MATCHES ELKS LEAGUE

Teams of Captains Maloney and Larkin Winners

Ross and "Jacka" Joyce both went after Dr. J. P. Murphy's city record in the Elks league matches at the Wardwell alleys Thursday night but 135 was too distant, even for the doctor. Ross got 114 and Joyce 113, but not a man tripled in the two team matches.

Eddie Larkin's team swept the Hildebrands off the alleys while Dr. Maloney's quintette forced the Hansons to give up three of a possible four points.

SPORTING NOTES.

Jack Hubbard, Amherst's greatest football player and all-American halfback in 1905, returned to Amherst to assist Coach Riley in whipping the team into shape for the Williams game Saturday. The scrubs were given the ball throughout the scrimmage and they tested out the varsity defense on every variety of play. Practice was continued long after dark by the aid of electric lights which have been strung over one corner of Pratt field. The team as it will probably take the field against Williams is as follows: Swasey, right end; Goodrich, right tackle; Downer, right guard; Widmayer, center; Cross, left guard; Knowlton, left tackle; Brown, left end; Tow, quarterback; Rider, right halfback; Warren, left halfback; Ashley, fullback. College "Sings" have been held at morning chapel to work up the singing and cheering of the Amherst men at the game.

King's Daughters' Contributions

WOLLASTON WOMAN'S CLUB.

The club has started on its second year with three hundred members and a waiting list of over two hundred. The aim of the club is to do as much as possible along educational and charitable lines. The Civic Committee gave prizes to the children of the Wollaston schools for the two best flower and two best vegetable gardens. The prize winners were: Newton Dodge of the Wollaston School and Victor Brown of the Massachusetts Field School for the best vegetable gardens. Rachel MacTeer of the Field School and Earle Cath of the Wollaston School for the best flower gardens. Newton Dodge having won first prize from both Wollaston and Quincy Woman's Clubs. The committee also gave $50 to the Wollaston Playground.

Mrs. Joseph K. Barbour was chairman of the Tea Day at the Food Fair in Mechanics' Building. The tables made a most attractive feature. Red roses were used in decoration.

The club has been most fortunate in having Miss Florence G. Olney as the chairman of the Music Committee, and through her efforts we have not only had the pleasure of listening to splendid soloists but we are promised a rare treat in hearing the opera, Priscilla, by Surreite, on Friday evening, January 22, in Quincy Music Hall. There will be a chorus of fifty voices, both the orchestra and the singers being members and friends of the club. The Woman's Glee Club will render several selections at the musicale, March 2.

Donation Day was October 20. The Social and Industrial Committee had charge and distributed the good things brought by the club members to the deserving poor in the city of Quincy. This active committee has taken care of a worthy family in Wollaston throughout the year.

The Woman's Exchange conducts a sale of food at the close of every club meeting. They earnestly solicit orders for fancy pastries and birthday cakes.

The parliamentary law classes have been formed and are held on the second and fourth Fridays of each month from November to March, at the house of Mrs. Harry A. Stevens, 50 Wayland street. These classes are under the leadership of Mrs. Electa M. Sherman.

Among the special events was the Hallowe'en Dance, given in Alpha Hall on the evening of October 29. Some of the unique features of the dance being the large apple tree under which the matrons stood to receive the guests and the distribution of the dance orders by the little rabbit in the pumpkin. Ghosts and goblins, nodding from the corners and stairways, made it a truly Hallowe'en party.

The last meeting of the club was held November 3d, in the Wollaston School hall. Mrs. Willard E. Keyes introduced John Kendrick Bangs as the speaker of the evening in a most charming and graceful manner. Mr. Bangs' subject was, "Salubrities I have Met." He pointed out the lovable qualities which made some celebrities salubrities, illustrated by anecdotes from his personal acquaintance with Richard Harding Davis, Kipling, Dr. A. Conan Doyle, Mark Twain, and others. The teachers of the Wollaston schools were guests of the club that evening. The club hopes to have the children of the schools as its guests April 6, when Elizabeth Helena Soule will give an illustrated lecture, "A Trip to the Bottom of the Sea."

Mrs. Charles R. Safford, as chairman of the program committee, has given us the opportunity of listening to such able entertainers as Mrs. Elizabeth Pooler Rice, who, on October 20, read to the club "Friend Hannah," with great charm.

The president, Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes will give us a travel talk. She will take us on a Southern Mediterranean trip, stopping first at the Azores, Gibraltar, and Algiers, and so carrying us on, in her irresistible manner, "Under Italian Skies."

On December 1, we are to have the pleasure of listening to the second one of our own members, Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, her subject being, "In the Quest of Romance." Mrs. Gurney is a prominent worker in the cause of suffrage and a speaker of rare ability.

The club has still another interesting event to look forward to in the coming dramatics, on February 16. A prize play is in progress under the charge of Miss Theodora A. Luard with a large cast of well-known amateur players belonging to the club.

The following is a resume of the remaining interesting programs for the current club year:—

December 15, The Opera Talk on Lohengrin, by Havrah Hubbard.

January 5. An illustrated lecture by Martha P. Shannon, "American Art."

January 19, Reciprocity Day. We are to hear Homer D. Hurlburt on "Korea and the Far East."

February 2. "What Life Means to Me," by Gertrude Breslin Fuller.

March 16. Arthur Katchel will read, "The Music Master."

April 20. Mrs. Electa M. Sherman assisted by Miss Addie Heath Rice will entertain with "An Original Afternoon."

May. 4. The Annual Meeting, when officers will be elected for two years.

The late Mary Lowe Dickenson
General Secretary 1886—1914
Editor Silver Cross 1888—1914.

QUINCY CITY UNION.

The first annual meeting of the Quincy City Union of King's Daughters was held Oct. 20, 1894, and was organized for the purpose of bringing the Circles of Quincy into closer relationship.

Its membership consisted of seven active circles, four of which have grown and flourished, and are still active as City Union members, namely The Unity Circle, Reapers Circle and Charitable Tens of Quincy and Whatsoever of Wollaston.

By their annual meetings they have stimulated and encouraged the Christian activities, for which the Order of The King's Daughters stands believing that "In Union there is strength."

During the twenty years of its existence there have been many interesting and helpful meetings and many speakers from other charitable organizations have brought their work before the Union, and have also received encouragement and financial aid as well.

In 1907, one hundred dollars was given to the Union, in memory of Miss Mary Turner, the income of which is to be used for worthy Quincy causes. Each year the interest has been used as stipulated and, records show, always wisely.

Pond Home for the Aged in Norfolk County stands as a monument to The King's Daughters work, and the City Union has always cheerfully done its share. In fact, as a union of earnest workers, it has tried to fulfill its mission, and radiate courage and helpfulness, through the circles, into the limitless field open to every true "King's Daughter" for service "In His Name."

ORGANIZE FOR CAMPAIGN WORK

Edward J. Fegan, Democratic nominee for mayor, is one of the busiest men in the city since primary day. His vote, fully 90 per cent of those cast was a fine endorsement by the party which has chosen him as its standard bearer, and an organization is being perfected to carry the campaign to all parts of the city. Mr. Fegan, it so happens, is the only Quincy boy among the candidates, and in the local schools he prepared for college. He will probably devote his entire time to his campaign and associated with him are other live wires of the city.

ALL STARS WIN.

In the match bowling game between the Wardwell All Stars and the Norfolk Downs teams in the Quincy league at Wardwell's alleys Wednesday night the All Stars vanquished the Downs team by a score of 1454 to 1324. Ross of the Wardwells was high man on singles with 118 and on three string totals with 323. The return match will be rolled at the Norfolk Downs alleys next week. The next match will be with the Weymouths.

Several of the members of the Atlantic Methodist church have been attending the men's convention this week at Tremont Temple, Boston.

CONFERENCES ARE OVERHEARD

Dictagraphs In Cells of Suspects In Sullivan Case

SENSATION OVER DISCOVERY

Not Learned That Prosecution Has Learned From Talks Between Accused and Their Counsel—Latter Demand Immediate Investigation—Miss Michaud Is Indignant

Houlton, Me., Nov. 13.—Dictagraphs were discovered in the cells of Dr. Lionel E. Dudley, Alice and Pedley Pelletier, under arrest in connection with the death of Mildred Sullivan.

The finding of the machines by one of the attorneys for the defense created a sensation, as many conferences had been held in the cells by the lawyers and the accused. Just what the state authorities learned, if anything, from the machines, could not be learned.

One of the dictagraphs was torn down and is now in the possession of the attorneys, who have demanded an immediate hearing.

Five attorneys have been engaged to defend Dudley. Attorney Shaw, chief counsel for the accused physician, said: "We have a strong defense and will make a statement in a few days that will surprise the public."

One of the silent links in the evidence which the county authorities will depend on to prove their case is the fur coat found by boys near the tracks of the Canadian Pacific railroad. It is claimed that the schoolgirl's dead body was wrapped up in this so that no one would become suspicious if they saw the party on the way to the woods at midnight.

It is said the dead girl was placed in the machine to give the appearance of being alive. The fur coat covered her nightgown, which was the only other garment she wore.

A formal arraignment of the prisoners now held by the state in connection with the case is not expected. If they are brought into court it is expected a postponement will be asked, as the county authorities do not wish to show their hand until a jury hears the case.

The grand jury convenes here next Tuesday, and the case will probably be presented then. By that time it is thought a report will have been received concerning the contents of the girl's stomach, sent to Bowdoin college.

Strychnine or morphine is what the authorities expect will be found. According to Miss Michaud, a powerful drug was used to hasten Miss Sullivan's death.

Kate Michaud is said to be indignant at being kept locked up in the county jail. She believes that in exchange for the information she has given the authorities they should allow her her freedom. Her father has been refused permission to see and talk with her.

AMNESTY IS OFFERED

South African Rebels Who Surrender Will Not Be Prosecuted

London, Nov. 13.—It is officially announced at Pretoria that the rebels have been given until Nov. 21 to surrender, according to a dispatch from that city. All so surrendering will not be criminally prosecuted, but allowed to return to their homes on condition that they take no further part in the rebellion.

The leaders of the rebellion and those who have acted contrary to the rules of civilized warfare are excluded from the amnesty. Those refusing to surrender will be dealt with according to the rigor of the law.

BRAVES NOT FOR SALE

Gaffney Denies Report That He Will Sell Champion Club

Boston, Nov. 13.—President Gaffney denied the report that he was in the market to sell the champion Braves. Some time ago an offer of $400,000 was made for the club. This offer was laughed at then. It, of course, would not be considered now.

"I am going to stay in Boston for a long time," said Gaffney. "You can depend on that. I am not going to throw away the finest proposition I ever had just because a few people have sold the club for me."

OUR NATION PROSPEROUS

Walsh Directs Attention to Fact In Thanksgiving Day Proclamation

Boston, Nov. 13.—Governor Walsh issued his Thanksgiving proclamation, in which he names Nov. 26 for the observance of the ancient Puritan feast day.

The proclamation recalls the origin of the custom of returning thanks for blessings received during the year, and directs attention to the great material prosperity that has come to Massachusetts and to the United States in general, at a time when many nations are at war.

Dying From Cat-Bite

New York, Nov. 13.—Bitten by a stray cat a year ago, 13-year-old Grace Polhemus is dying of hydrophobia.

AMUSEMENTS

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

Boston has gone wild over Lydia Lopokova! Every night at the Hollis Street Theatre, there is witnessed the extraordinary circumstance of several curtain calls after the last act, to say nothing of the dozen or more that always follow the two preceding acts. The mad rush for suburban trains is deferred in order that this tribute may be paid to the newest and youngest of American stars, one for whom it is indubitable that a great career has opened. Such a figure of lovely youth, grace, and charm, with added gifts as a dancer that are exquisite to the last degree, a piquancy of personality that is irresistible, and dramatic ability of conspicuous calibre, is surely welcome to our stage. The prophecy is confidently made that within two years the little Russian will have a country-wide popularity, approached by that of no other actress on our stage, save Maude Adams. Her appeal to women is simply stupendous; they just want to pick her up and hug her. But her appeal is almost equally great for men. The adoration of the one and the admiration of the other, go hand in hand. She has the advantage, too, of appearing in a comedy that is one of the most wholesome, original and laughable that Boston has seen for years.

WILBUR THEATRE.

William Hodge has scored a triumph seldom achieved by following up his signal success of "The Man from Home" with another hit equally as brilliant and delightful. "The Road to Happiness," in which he has scored his latest footlight achievement as young Jim Whitman, is now in its eleventh week at the Wilbur Theatre, Boston, and capacity audiences are enjoying both him and his "comedy of cheerfulness" with uproarious laughter and enthusiastic applause. This is the sixth notable portrayal of native American character that this highly popular favorite has given to our stage. The first was Freeman Whitmarsh, that eccentric village painter and gossip, in the late James A. Herne's "Sag Harbor." The next was the gawky and droll Stephen Tully, the "boy who threw the fits" in "Sky Farm," Edward Kidder's play. The third was that odd old Captain Plummer in George Ade's "Peggy from Paris." Then came his Mr. Stubbins, that bibulous wife-hunter in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabage Patch," in which Madge Carr Cook was Mrs. Wiggs. Mabel Taliaferro was Lovey Mary and Helen Lowell was Miss Hazey to his Stubbins. After that Mr. Hadge's next conspicuous creation was Daniel Voorhees Pike in Booth Tarkington's "The Man from Home," in which he won such fame and fortune. Now his Jim Whitman in "The Road to Happiness" appears to be as pronounced a success as was his "Man from Home." The fact is that Mr. Hodge stands alone in his own peculiar line of parts.

SHUBERT THEATRE.

"The Passing Show of 1914," which will enter upon its fourth week at the Shubert Theatre, Boston, Monday, has enjoyed packed houses every night, as well as at the three matinees. Like former "Passing Shows" which have come to us from the Winter Garden in New York, it has extraordinary wealth of comic delights, terpsichorean beworderments, as well as scenic novelties. It overtops and puts under any other show of the kind which has came to us from fabled Broadway. Travesty and extravaganza had well nigh fallen into disuse when "The Passing Shows" began to come along and put a new life into this form of entertainment. These shows are so extraordinary lavish that they appear bewildering when compared to the average musical comedy, with their two or three simple settings. The current revue now at the Shubert is supplied with two acts and thirteen scenes, and referred to as being "a twelve hour show squeezed into three." Despite this wealth of scenic splendor, all is so cleverly put together that one scene follows the other with a quick forward motion. There is a diversity of dancing numbers that are most captivating, executed in greater part by "a drove of delightful dancing divinities." George W. Monroe sails through this entertainment, producing waves and billows of laughter.

CORT THEATRE.

Just like Reverend Henry B. Tierney's poem' there's always just the suspicion of a tear lurking in the happy laughter of Florence Martin in her delightful interpretation of "Peg" in Oliver Morosco's Celtic comedy "Peg O' My Heart" now nearing its hundredth performance in Boston at the Cort theatre.

There's joy in the heart of me,
Peg o' my heart,
'Tis the rale Irish part of me,
Peg o' my heart;
Night, sweet with dreams of thee,
Day's music seems of thee,
The moon tells her beams of thee,
Peg o' my heart.

Love for thee sings of thee,
Peg o' my heart,
Prayers of thee strengthen me,
Peg o' my heart;
None takes the place of thee,
Dreams of the face of thee,
Waken God's grace in me,
Peg o' my heart.

God save thee, soul of me,
Peg o' my heart,
Blood of the pulse of me,
Peg o' my heart:
God's mirrored trinity,
Faith, hope, divinity,
Throb in the soul of me,
Peg o' my heart.

Love for thee blesses me,
Peg o' my heart,
Smiles of thee, tears of thee,
Peg o' my heart;
Bring me so near to thee,
Binding thee, dear, to me,
Closer each year to thee,
Peg o' my heart.

I, too, am a child with thee,
Peg o' my heart,
God has been mild with me,
Peg o' my heart;
The birds' sweetest melody
Chimes with the knell o' thee
Hours while I tell of thee,
Peg o' my heart.
—Henry B. Tierney.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

"The Belle of Bond Street," an up-to-date version of "The Girl from Ray's" which has been re-written by Owen Hall and Howard Atteridge, who furnished the book, Adrian Ross and Claude Aveling who wrote the lyrics and Ivan Caryll and Lionel Monckton who composed the music, will served to restore Sam Bernard to the stage of the Majestic Theatre, Boston, for two weeks, beginning Nov. 16th, with the usual matinees and a special Thanksgiving day matinee, in his old character of Piggy Hoggenheimer, the rich and bored London bounder who is always looking for a sensation. Mr. Bernard, played this piece this summer at the Adelphi in London, where he received enthusiastic criticisms from the staid London press, which said he was a combination of "Potash and Perlmutter" which they think is typically American. There are ten dancing girls, ten girls from Ray's and ten bridesmaids, in addition to a large male chorus, and a special orchestra under the direction of Leonard Hornsey of the Gaiety London.

The plot of "The Belle of Bond Street" is principally concerned with a kiss that Winnie Harborough, the Belle, gives to Harry Gordon, the groom, on the eve of the departure on his honeymoon. Norah sees this and is so indignant that she will not occupy the same room at the hotel where they go. Harry is about to make it up with her however, when Winnie appears on the scene, trailed by Hoggenheimer, who has fallen in love with her, looking for a new sensation, and being tired of titled ladies.

It is all off again and Norah goes to the hotel Savoy in London where she expects to catch her husband dining with Winnie, but sees her with Hoggenheimer instead. Explanations follow and all is forgiven.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE

"The Thief" Henri Bernstein's clever satire on keeping up appearances, has been the bill at Castle Square all the past week. The play, which was seen at the higher priced houses about three years ago, with both Madame Simone and Margaret Illington in the chief part, lost none of its effectiveness by transfer to reportory, and Miss Mary Young's very striking performance of the dressy and unscrupulous little wife, who steals from her best friend in order to be as well dressed, fully deserved the hearty applause with which it was greeted. Next week will see "Paid in Full" Eugene Walter's intensely interesting and emotional play, also for the first time in stock. "Paid in Full" introduces us to a rough old sea captain who has risen by sheer force of character to be the head of a big shipping line. Captain Williams is a strange mass of inconsistencies, and just such a character as Jack London would love. Merciless to whatever he considers weakness in man or woman, he is yet capable of the noblest actions when his esteem is once gained. And he knows only two sorts of women "all good—or all bad."

Joe Brooks, an employee of the shipping firm, has married the daughter of a man whom Williams forced out of business. Brooks a coward capable neither of enduring poverty nor of working hard to succeed, embezzles money from the firm, and when discovered suggests to Emma that she should go down to the Captain's flat at midnight and beg his forgiveness. His plan is laid with the full knowledge that Williams has a bad character where women are concerned and that he is an undisguised admirer of his wife.

Emma's call upon the captain is the big scene of the play. It contains one of those dramatic surprises that make the fortune of a play writer, when they are skilfully handled. It is enough to say that Emma finds a firm friend where she had expected a ruthless betrayer, and that she goes home safe and happy but resolved to have done with the man who has exposed her in order to save his own skin.

NORTH WEYMOUTH

A super was served at Ward One engine house Tuesday, to the auto apparatus committee, selectmen and firemen. The alarm from Box 15 which interrupted the proceedings was false. On test Wednesday the auto made Sladen's in two minutes from a standing start.

Mrs. Mabelle Culley Redway has returned to her home in New Jersey, after a short visit with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Culley of Pratt avenue.

Mrs. Grace Warkus returns to her home in New York soon.

Rehearsals have commenced for the Universalist Men's Club minstrels.

Mrs. Willis Keene was a recent guest of Mrs. Francis Gorman of Hingham.

Mrs. John Hissing of Green street is returning soon from a two months stay at St. Elizabeth's hospital.

Friends of Mrs. E. J. Jordan are receiving post cards, denoting an enable visit in New York.

Three children of George White of Norton street have scarlet fever. The little ones of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bleakney are also ill.

Miss Annie Kearns was the guest of Mrs. Willis Keene Tuesday this week.

VETERAN SURPRISED.

Andrew Culley of Pratt avenue commander of Post 58 G. A. R. was completely and most pleasantly surprised at G. A. R. hall Tuesday, the occasion being his seventieth birthday. Supper was served in the banquet hall at 6.30 by an efficient committee, Mrs. Sarah White, chairman when a huge birthday cake was cut by Mr. Culley. A huge bouquet of chrysanthemums the gift of a friend, adorned his place at the table.

While the lower hall was being cleared, the company adjourned to the main hall, where Mr. Culley was congratulated by 200 neighbors, and friends from New Jersey, Greater Boston, Hingham, Norwell and Braintree.

Mrs. Mary E. Mahoney master of ceremonies, escorted to the platform, Com. Marstin of Quincy Post; Past Commander Pierson of Braintree Post P. D. P. Mrs. Mary E. Holbrook; Mrs. Jennie I. Loring president of W. R. C. Norfolk County association; Mrs. Elizabeth Pratt of W. R. C. 102; Mrs. Clara Maynard president Tent 32 D. of V., Commander White of Camp 36, S. of V.; Assistant A. G. Wilfred Wetherbee of Department of Massachusetts G. A. R.; Mrs. Charlotte Stoddard president S. of V. Aux. 31; all of whom presented to Commander Culley token of esteem and good wishes.

His wife, P. I. Mrs. Margaret Culley presented a beautiful 6x9 flag.

Post Corps and relatives united in the gift of a travelling bag, and gifts of money in gold came from his great granddaughter, Florence Margaret Cole of Baldwinsville, N. Y., and from the various patriotic orders represented.

Flint's orchestra gave several selections. Returning to the lower hall, dancing and refreshments were enjoyed until a late hour.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

The Agenda Club of the First Baptist Church held their regular meeting on Tuesday evening. The meeting was really a reception to Miss Agnes Nielson, the missionary, who left this week for Rangoon, Burma. After a brief business meeting the young ladies adjourned to the church parlor where a delightful supper had been prepared. Toasts were given by all present and the president, Mrs. Edith Davidson, presented Miss Nielson with an ivory toilet set, in behalf of the friendship of the members of the club. The party broke up at a late hour all wishing Miss Nielson "God speed" during her seven years absence. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Edith Davidson, Mrs. Burton Porter and Miss Inez Carder.

The Ladies Aid society of the First Baptist church met Wednesday afternoon in the church parlor. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Alexander Sim. The society has instituted a new idea for raising money. Each member is to give ten cents for each holiday in the coming year and the same amount for her birthday.

The Neighborhood Club is to give a reception and dance this evening to friends at Ellsworth hall. A good sized crowd is expected.

The King's Daughters Circle will hold a food sale Saturday in the basement of the East Congregational church. Home-made foods and articles will be on sale.

The High school football team plays with the Tufts College Freshman team this afternoon. The home boys are expected to put up a stiff fight against the college team.

At Cunningham Gym on Tuesday evening, in the bowling match, team 3 bowled 1267 against 1228 for team 10; team 2 bowled 1330 against 1292 for team 8, team 6 bowled 1224 against 1193 team 1. Some of the high single strings were Gordon 111; Joblin 107; J. Swift 101; and Delury 101.

Now that the newly organized Kemp class for young men of the East Congregational church Sunday school has really got in shape, the boys are planning to do various good acts for the community this coming season. The members of the various committees have recently been announced and are: Social—Ross Doherty, Alfred Wood and Louis Gosselin; Membership—Hugh Robertson, Lester Avery and Kenneth Hecker; Visitation—Paul Carlton. On Saturday evening the class give a social to boy friends in the basement of the church. The regular meeting of the class will be held this evening at the home of Edwin Lakin on Robertson street.

CITY SQUARE RALLY.

Edward P. Powers, addressing nearly 200 in City Square Thursday evening said he was to be a bigger factor in the coming election than generally believed. The candidate, having forgotten his watch said he was somewhat handicapped. His permit only allowed him an hour, but if the dial of the clock on the Frst Parish church was illuminated we wouldn't have to stop and look in windows to see the time. Mr. Powers waxed sarcastic in speaking of some of the supporters of the Republican candidate.

QUINCY WOLLASTON

The Merrymount lodge of the Knights of Pythias met in Colonial hall on Wednesday evening and entertained a large delegation from the Dramatic lodge of the Knights of Korassan lead by the Grand Vizier in person. There was speaking by Captain Stockford of the Marathon company, Chancellor Jacobs and Past Chancellors Vinton and Barnes, all of Monatiquot lodge, and Brother Ragg head of the insurance department of the Knights of Pythias. This was followed by a business meeting and the consolidation of Monatiquot lodge and Merrymount lodge was suggested, but no definite action was taken on this matter. There were visitors from the Monatiquot lodge of Braintree, the Delphi lodge of Weymouth, the Shawmut lodge of Boston, the Marathon lodge of Boston, and the Ivanhoe lodge of Charlestown.

Alargely attended meeting of the Massachusetts Fields Parents'-Teachers Association was held Thursday evening in the corridor of the school. The decorations were of orange and white with American flags. The event of the evening was a reception to the teachers and officers of the association. In the receiving line were: President and Mrs. S. J. Ripley, Superintendent and Mrs. A. L. Barbour, Principal and Mrs. D. H. Goodspeed and the teachers of the school. Mrs. McKenzie contributed pleasing vocal solos, and the refreshments committee served ice cream and cake. A social hour followed.

Morris and His Furniture.

In "William Morris—His Work and Influence" is retold how the two friends, Burne-Jones and Morris, setting out to keep house together in the now historic rooms, 17 Red Lion square, found themselves confronted with the unendurable ugliness and vulgarity of mid-Victorian furniture. Says Mr. Clutton-Brock:

"Their rooms were to be furnished, and Morris could not find in any shop a single new table or chair that he could endure. This was not mere fastidiousness. To him vulgarity in furniture was, like vulgarity of manners, the expression of a wrong state of mind, and if his own furniture had been vulgar he would have felt as responsible for it as for his own manners. Therefore he designed furniture to please himself, making drawings that were carried out by a carpenter. Thus simply and naturally he began his business of 'poetic upholsterer.' • • • From the first he was not only an artist, but one who tried to make the world what he wished it to be and, beginning with armchairs, ended with society."

Theatrical Superstitions.

Paris, a city of theaters, is full of theatrical superstitions. Nearly every one associated with the theater has some sort of mascot. Thus, M. Fernand Samuel, manager of the Varietes, always wears an old and battered straw hat as a luck bringer at every first night. Mme. Ristori used to walk in a cemetery on the day when she had to appear in a new part, and Mlle. Breval collects old horseshoes.

Mlle. Mary Garden always consults a clairvoyant before undertaking a new character, and Cora Laparcerie and Mme. Berthe Bady never dream of going on the stage without touching wood.

M. Henri Bernstein believes that there is some curious fetish in the name Zambo. He puts it in all his plays with different orthography. There is always a character called Zambeau, Zambault, Zambeaux, Zambau.—London Express.

Sound Deflection.

Sound does not always travel through the air in a straight line. It often happens that two zones of sound are separated by a zone of silence. In 1908 an explosion of dynamite on the railroad then building up the Jungfrau was heard in two different zones. The first extended through a radius of forty kilometers around the explosion. The other began at a distance of 140 kilometers, the sound being unheard in the intervening 100 kilometers. Similar phenomena had been observed elsewhere, and physicists tried to explain them by the reflexion of the sound waves from certain atmospheric strata. Professor Fujiwhara, who has studied such matters during volcanic eruptions in Japan, asserts now that these phenomena depend upon the direction of the wind in the middle strata of the atmosphere.

He Would Find Out.

Henry Irving in his early days once played a part which in the first act called for a dark stage. In this darkness he fought with an old earl, threw him heavily, and when he did not rise after the loud thud of his fall Irving would cry out:

"Great heavens, what have I done?"

One night he played the part in a small English town. A stage hand was very much impressed with the play, and to him the scenes quickly became real, so that when Irving reached the climax, felled the old earl to the ground and spoke the line "Great heavens, what have I done?" he was startled to hear the stage hand say in a loud voice:

"Strike a match and we'll have a look."—New York Globe.

Children.

Children are to be trained daily. To teach a child the right is to give him ideas; to train him is to reduce those ideas to practice.—H. W. Beecher.

TRAVEL WAS OBSTRUCTED

The monster pole which supports the wires crossing the School street bridge toppled over in the heavy wind which swept across from the railroad meadows at noon today. The pole fell across the bridge and workmen are hurrying to clear up the obstruction so traffic can be resumed.

The whistling of parting wires preceding the snapping of the pole drew the attention of the neighborhood. Many of the householders in the immediate vicinity, including the patrolman at Police headquarters reached the street in time to see the pole perform its stunt.

The emergency crews of the electric and telephone companies were summoned by Inspector Goodhue who was in charge of the desk and men to protect the travelling public were posted.

The fire alarm signals on the circuit crossing the arms on the pole were put out of business temporarily.

USE OF SELVAGES.

When the dressmakers first began to leave selvage edges exposed at the bottom of skirts and draperies and at any conceivable point on the bodice there were exclamations of amazement. But the freedom that this use allows, the grace and suppleness it gives to the fabrics, have more than justified it.

BEACH COTTAGE DESTROYED

Firemen Prevent Conflagration at Bethel Beach

The cottage of William Preston situated on Chesley street, Bethel beach, was completey destroyed by fire Friday evening. The fire was discovered by a 7 year old boy, Edwin Dennis, who informed his father who ran to Box 12 and sounded the alarm. This was at 7.12 and although the department made a good run to the fire the high wind had so fanned the flames that the cottage was practically destroyed by the time they arrived.

The wind was blowing a gale and as there were quite a cluster of cottages in the immediate vicinity there was great danger of the whole section being wiped out. The firemen however worked quickly and although the roofs of nearby cottages were covered at times with live sparks, owing to the good work of the department none took fire. At one place where two firemen stood on a banking with a line of hose, the wind was so strong it blew them off the bank. They were back again, however, the next minute.

One of the cottages nearest the fire was covered with a patent fire proof shingle, and while this roof was many times covered with live sparks they rolled off without doing the least harm.

The loss on the cottage and contents is estimated at $4,300 of which sum $700 is on the furniture.

Just what caused the fire has not been fully determined although it believed to have started from an overturned lamp.

Mrs. Preston was not at home, and her husband had only returned a short time before the fire. Neighbors saw him enter the house and when shouts of fire were heard these same neighbors saw him run from the house, the inside of which seemed to be a roaring furnace.

As soon as the fire had worked so that the wind could get at the flames, it seemed hardly a minute before the whole cottage was on fire.

The blaze made a bright illumination, and hundreds of citizens responded in electric cars and automobiles. So rapidly did it burn however, that in a few minutes the illuminated sky had become dark again.

The firemen are deserving of great praise for their good work in preventing the spread of the fire.

Mrs. Mary Sibley, who resides in a near by cottage was prostrated for a time, fearing that her grandson was in the burning building and it was not until she had been assured of the safety of the child that she became calmed

LIVELY DEBATE IS PROMISED

Two Reports Expected on Ward Two School Site

Several matters of importance are to come up for action at the regular meeting of the City Council Monday evening. One of the matters which it is reported will come up for action is the order to purchase a site for the new school building in Ward Two. The public buildings Committee reported an order purchasing what is known as the Lowe lot. The School Committee has gone on record as in favor of the purchase of the Swithin lot on South street and the and the Washington Parent-teachers Association is on record as in favor of the Lowe lot.

While the action of the Finance Committee Thursday evening has not been made public it is reported that the majority of the committee will report favorably on the order, which calls for the Lowe lot. Some of the members of the committee it is said reserved their right to present a minority report.

This means that a warm discussion on the merits of the two lots is sure to follow. The order for the Lowe lot has had one reading and can be passed, Monday night under suspension of the rules if sixteen votes in favor can be mustered.

Manet Encampment I. O. O. F. worked the Golden Rule degree Friday evening on six candidates. The exemplification was witnessed by a number of visiting patriarchs from Lynn, Somerville and nearby encampments.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

THE PROBLEMS AT PANAMA

Atlantic Men's Club Addressed by Mr. Rourke

Louis K. Rourke, the commissioner of public works, Boston, was the speaker Friday evening before the Men's Club of Atlantic. The meeting was held in the vestry of the Memorial Congregational church, Harry W. Read, the president, presiding both at the feast and as toastmaster. Among the guests were Frank Fisher Prescott, one of the candidates at large for the City Council. At the head table were also Rev. T. W. Davison who asked the blessing, and Charles A. Hall.

At 6.30 the members enjoyed a well-cooked dinner, which included: Roast mutton, mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, spaghetti, rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake.

President Read urged the importance of increasing the membership to 100. The following were appointed a committee to nominate a list of officers for the ensuing year: Henry Von Emden and W. L. Buckley.

Commissioner Rourke held the close attention of the members, who frequently applauded and showed their appreciation of his comments on methods employed b ythe government in the construction of the Panama Canal. He dealt mainly with the problems that arose.

Mr. Rourke said it was one of the greatest engineering feats in the world because of its magnitude and because it was successfully an honestly carried through by United States money as a government job; second because it brought the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of the United States 8000 miles nearer each other; third because it changed the trade lines of the world.

He spoke of early attempts to dig this canal and told why they failed. But the most interesting part of the lecture told of the problems and how the obstacles were overcome. How yellow fever had been stamped out. and the canal zone made more healthy than Boston. No particular race had any monopoly on what had been accomplished.

He told why it was not practical to build a sea level canal. Feeding of 100,000 or more people at Panama was a problem, but the government looked to New York for supplies and was able to sell meat cheaper there than it is sold in Boston. Housing was another problem, but that also was handled satisfactorily. Those in charge demanded efficiency, and those not willing or able were shipped home Several times in the lecture Mr. Rourke referred to the steamers that sailed every five days. At Panama rules were made to be enforced.

Mr. Rourke contended that the United States should strongly fortify the canal ,and have soldiers on duty all the time. The canal had cost the people of the United States about $4 per capita, but the new trade routes will compete with the railroad and the people will benefit in cheaper sugar and other necessities.

At the close, questions were answered. and then Mr. Rourke was given a rising vote of thanks.

Norton Stetson was chairman of the supper committee, and President Read and Charles A. Hall secured the speaker. The efficient waiters were: William McMahon, Paul Coombs, Herbert Smith, Archie Andrews, Harold Sherwin and Frank Fitzgerald.

Charitable circle of Kings Daughters will meet Monday afternoon at 2.30 with Mrs. J. H. Emery of Adams street. Plans to raise money will be discussed and the study of the Bible will be continued by Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick.

Map Showing Principal Points Of Russian Drives Into Germany.

How the Russians have possibly opened a way for a march on Berlin is shown in the above map. It is based on official and unofficial reports from Petrograd. Of vital importance was the statement in a Petrograd dispatch that communication had been broken between the German armies in Poland and in East Prussia and that the Russians were concentrating large forces between the Warthe and Vistula rivers (B), especially at Wlozlawsk. Such forces would be in position to drive a wedge through the opening made between the German armies and would be able to advance over a comparatively open country. To do so it must dispose of the two German armies and mask the fortress of Thorn on the Vistula. But apparently measures already have been taken with this end in view. Already a large Russian force has marched through Mlawa (A) into East Prussia. Operating with the forces concentrated at Wlozlawsk it might be strong enough to take care of Thorn and hold the East Prussian frontier even if the German forces now in far East Prussia should retire to this line and attack them. Russian forces that reached Pleschen in Silesia (C) appear to be the advance guard of strong forces. If so a Russian army is planted behind the left flank of the German defensive position from Kalisz to Czenstochowa and is in position to force the German army away from Berlin and, with the forces operating at D and E bend it back upon the Little Carpathians as the Austrians are being bent back on the main Carpathians.

GRAND BALL ON RIVADAVIA

Quincy People Were Among Invited Guests

Among the Quincy people who attended the reception and ball on the battleship Rivadavia Friday evening, given by Capt. Jose Moneta and officers of the vessel were President and Mrs. James W. Powell, Treasurer and Mrs. Joseph A. Sedgwick, Secretary and Mrs. Samuel T. MacQuarrie, Dr. and Mrs. Daniel B. Reardon, Col. Henry L. Kincaide, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Gavin, Miss Mary L. Gavin, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Remick, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Murphy and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Johnson.

Miss Helen H. Gavin, Miss Margaret Gavin, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Blanchard, Charles and Miss Catherine Brown, Mrs. Ida and Miss Hazel Estey, Roland Estey, Miss Catherine, Miss Margaret and Miss Barbara Johnson, Miss Catherine Garrity, Mr. and Mrs. Jose Bianchi, Wendell Luce, Miss Corinne Picard, Henry DeCoste, Henry McDonald, Miss Julia Ford, Leo Ford, Miss Gertrude Ford, Gen. Manager and Mrs. H. Gerrish Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bizzozero, Miss Livia Bizzozero. Representative Edward J. Sandberg.

In addition to these were many of the officers from the Charlestown Navy yard and fortifications in the harbor

On the quarterdeck where dancing was enjoyed throughout the night and early morning, myriads of varicolored incandescent lights cast their rays on the gathering of officers in gold laced uniforms, civilians and ladies in attractive gowns.

The lights were arranged to represent the American and Argentine flags and in the muzzle of each of the 12-inch guns were painted the American eagle and the Argentine coat of arms A profusion of potted plants and holly suspended the entire length of the quarterdeck were also in evidence. Dancers were protected from the wind and rain by an awning.

Two bands provided music for the dancing from the gundeck and an orchestra gave numerous selections in the spacious dining-room while the guests were partaking of luncheon.

Capt. Moneta was assisted in receiving by the following officers: Lieut. Commander F. Guerrico, Lieut. R. Bairilari, Lieut. D. Capanegra, Lieut. A. Zimmermann and Ensign S. Lagier.

In the Admiral's reception room a large silver centerpiece, with a condor, the South American emblem of liberty, engraved on each end, was much admired. It was the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Schwab, the former president of the Bethlem Steel Company. It was filled with red roses and yellow chrysanthemums.

The reading room at the Thomas Crane Public Library is to be open for reading purposes Sunday afternoon from two until six o'clock. If the room is well patronized showing the service is appreciated the Library will be open each Sunday afternoon through the winter.

NEW YACHT RACING UNION

Will Boom Yachting and Promote Good Feeling

The final joint meeting of the executive committees of the Yacht Racing Association of Massachusetts and the Inter-Club Y. R. A. of Massachusetts was held at Young's Hotel Thursday evening and was attended by all the committee men except C. H. Small, who is absent in the West. The meeting was enthusiastically harmonious and unanimously voted to urge upon the two associations an amalgamation on the basis that the joint committee has worked out with great care.

No new organization is to be formed but by the adoption of certain amendments to by-laws and racing rules, the two associations will merge and become identical under the common name of Yacht Racing Union of Massachusetts—a very appropriate title, and yet only a slight change for either association to make.

The Yacht Racing Union is to foster all the old Y. R. A. and Inter-Club classes, and to offer a class for the Bar Harbor thirty footers, and as outlined by the committee will be a great step forward in promoting the best interests of the sport, and looking after the varied interests of the yachtsmen.

An official board of five judges, called associate judges, is provided for. At least one of them will be required to attend every race to render such as-

Envious of the good time they are having in Europe, the Mexican factions are going to war again.

It is suspected that before long Dusty Rhodes Wandering Willie and their brothers and cousins will be around, having become Belgian sufferers.

Professional athletes still show their opposition to liberal education by refusing to take up football.

The trouble with the modern youth is the growing tendency to buy a dress suit before starting a savings bank account.

Many war correspondents are getting writer's cramp operating a pencil stub down in the back office.

Some weather prophets assure us that the unusually large number of red squirrels in the Maine woods this fall is a sure sign of a mild and open winter. Others tell us that the thickness of the corn husks indicates that the winter will be cold and stormy. Take your choice and prepare accordingly but don't let the coal get too low in the bin and be sure that the heating apparatus is in good working order. Prophecies are all right as far as they go but it is well to add to them a generous allowance of salt. Winter is bound to come and if we don't get it now it is pretty sure to bother us in the Spring.

If the various lodges are in need of suitable entertainment for their members and wish to find some means of increasing the attendance at meetings, we would respectfully suggest the organization of debating teams in a free for all debate. The great war and the events of the recent State election ought to furnish a generous supply of subjects, to say nothing of local issues and problems. Everybody has strong opinions on these things and the debates ought not to lack dash and ginger. It takes almost no time to start an argument on these matters and the discussions carried on with parliamentary restrictions would prove educational and interesting.

CLUB LIFE FOR BOYS.

Every one remembers the idyllic pictures one used to see of the entire family around the evening lamp. There was Father reading the newspaper. Mother, dear housewifely soul was knitting a pair of socks. The cat purred by the fireside. The boys and girls read their Oliver Optic or played jackstraws.

In those days, a family that after 7 P. M., could not call the roll and have all the children answer present, was considered loose in family government. But where are the boys now?

As the winter evenings come, the Boys scouts, Knights of King Arthur, and many other organizations upon up their doors. Many old-fashioned people see with alarm the boys being drawn from their safe, quiet, and peaceful homes. They may nominally be headed for the Boy Scout meeting, but actually for some undesirable hang-out. Some of the boys have more engagements in the evening than the grown-ups, and they almost need a private secretary to keep their dates straightened out.

For better or worse, the picture of the entire family gathered around the evening lamp is not so familiar today. It still exists on the farm. Even the cross roads dance may not tempt the young folks to walk the several intervening miles. But wherever people gather in towns, the boy becomes more and more a little society man.

Wise parents do well to insist on a good amount of sleep, yet they can not check these tendencies of the age entirely. A boy needs the experince of associating with his own kind. He must be trusted to take his little flights out from Mother's wing. If he can't be let out of sight at the age of twelve, he never can be. If he can join some good boy's organization under competent supervision, he learns some lessons of responsibility, self-reliance, and self-government that his father never had.

Y. M. C. A. MEN AT BRAINTREE

Two Days Conference Opened This Morning

Delegations of boys from fifteen Young Men's Christian Associations and five affiliated groups, all within Norfolk county, commenced to assemble at the North Congregational church shortly before ten o'clock this forenoon for the conference which continues throughout today and tomorrow. After registration of delegates and their assignment to the various homes where they will be guests during the conference, which was in charge of Mr. F. C. Folsom, chairman of the boys' work Committee of the Braintree Association, there was a brief devotional service conducted by Rev. J. A. Mitchell.

The address of welcome was by Arthur W. Hoe, president of the Braintree Y. M. C. A., who referred briefly to the relation of the county organization and the individual associations within the county, and particularly to the encouragement of the local association has received from frequent reports to it by County Secretary E. P. Conlon of the work being done in the associations from which the delegates came. After warmly inviting the delegates to make themselves "at home" in Braintree and assuring them that the officers and committeemen here are at their service throughout the conference, the president turned the assembly over to Bentley Mackintosh of the Sharon association, president of the conference.

A part of the business of the session was the appointment of a committee to rule on the points of the debate at four o'clock this afternoon, when Mr. Mackintosh and Edward A. Hare, Jr., of the Sharon high school will take the affirmative against Emery White and Russell Holmes of the Braintree high school on the question, "Resolved, that moving picture theatres do more harm than good in a town." The other features of the two days' program are:

TODAY 1.30 P. M. Demonstration of outdoor games in which everyone will be allowed to participate, at Hollis Field, under direction of Mr. L. F. LaRose, Physical Director, Quincy Young Men's Christian Association.

4.45—Election of officers. Reports from Group Conferences. Question box and discussion.

5.30—Illustrated talk, "Boys of Other Lands" by Mr. D. C. Drew, State Secretary for County Work.

6.00—Banquet.

6.45—Address, "Boys of Europe in War Time." by Rev. William T. Beale, Dedham.

SUNDAY A. M. Services in the churches. Delegates will attend church service with their hosts.

4.00 P. M.—Younger boys—(under fifteen years. Herbert S. Gott, Secretary for Younger Boys, Boston Y. M. C. A. Subject, "The Captain." Older boys—(over fifteen years) Mr. H. W. Gibson, State Secretary (Massachusetts and Rhode Island) for Boys' Work. Subject, "The Boy Who lost His Shadow."

Men's Meeting. Fred L. Willis, General Secretary, Young Men's Christian Association of Worcester, "A Big Fellow with a Big Message." Subject—"What Is It All About?"

7.15 Union Meeting at the North Congregational church. Subject—"That Boy of Yours." Mr. H. W. Gibson.

Most of the churches of the town, excepting the Union Congregational, will omit usual Sunday evening service in order that all may have an opportunity to attend the closing session of the conference. The public especially all organizations of boys and their leaders, is cordially invited to attend all sessions.

distance to club judges, as the latter may wish for, and to insure prompt hearing and uniform decisions on protests, and to see that an accurate report of each race is at once delivered to the secretary of the Union.

The Inter-Club point system was adopted as the basis of figuring championships and the means of securing good attendance at all races. It was also recommended that open races of cubs in Massachusetts, not members of the Union, may count for championships when approved by the executive committee, and sailed under racing rules not conflicting with those of the Union, provided that such outside open races are scheduled in advance with the Union's secretary. In all such races, as in the open races given by clubs of the Union, protests may be taken on appeal to the executive committee.

The system of delegates remains practically as at present, except that clubs having 400 or more members will be alowed an additional delegate. At present this covers the Boston, South Boston, and Quincy clubs. The Boston Y. C. wil be asked to give up one delegate, having two instead of three as at present, the feeling being that the Boston Y. C. can well afford this slight concession, since it has always been granted its past requests, and with its great influence can always count upon receiving every consideration.

The dues of clubs are to be $10. a year with no assessments. This should provide ample means for carrying on the Union's business and conducting two racing runs each year—one from Lynn to Marblehead, and one from Marblehead to Hull. Associate members will continue to pay $5 a year as at present.

It was also oted to recomemnd that the honorary members of both associations be continued as honorary members of the Union.

The executive committee is to have full power to appoint a measurer and his deputy, and to fix a scale of fees for their work in proportion to the size of the differnt boats and the amount of labor involved in measuring them.

It was the unanimous sentiment of the joint committees that the proposed amalgamation is fair to all, will boom the sport, be for the best interests of every yachtsman, promoting good feeling, keen racing, providing all the races desired, and an increased number of entries.

WALL AND FEGAN MAY UNITE

A Report That Wall May Not Be Candidate

The Teelgram is responsible for the following report:

"Steps hae been taken for an amalgamation of the Wall and Fegan forces against Chester I. Campbell, the Wollaston candidate for Mayor. While the lieutenants of both men are making denials of such a merger it is positiely known that such a movement is on.

"According to parties interested in both the Fegan and Wall campaigns it is planned to drop Wall as the candidate and put forth their combined strength on Fegan. With the democratic nomination Fegan will also run on citizens nomination papers.

"While the prime movers of the Wall campaign are opposed to any amalgamation of forces with Fegan as the candidate many of the real workers of the Wall committee are very favorable inclined towards Fegan. They feel that in a three-cornered contest Campbell would undoubtedly be a winner, but with the Fegan and Wall forces combined on Fegan the chances of Fegan's election would be strong.

"The Fegan suporters are favorable to such a combination and put forth the argument that Fegan would receive the entire democratic vote and the strength of the independent vote which in this city is very large."

The Campbell forces are elected over the report above, for it is an indication that the Fegan and Wall forces see little hope of victory either individually or together against Chester I. Cambell, the Republican and Progressive candidate for Mayor.

Edwin Brown, who has been living with his brother Seth on Arnold street has taken up his residence in Boston.

The Noah Torrey school association will hold its next meeting Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock in the school hall.

George R. Dobson broke ground on Dobson road this week for a new house he expects to complete before the winter is over.

Mrs. Carrie I. Loring, department inspector of the Massachusetts W. R. C., has been inspecting Corps in Fall River, Bridgewater Woburn and Revere.

Miss Anna Hayward and the Rev. A. P. Watson attended the New England Conference of Congregational churches held in Park Street church, Boston, Wednesday.

Miss Georgie Kelley, teacher of the second grade at the Abraham Lincoln school entertained a number of friends in the form of a sewing bee at her home in South Weymouth.

Tuesday afternoon the Unity Circle of King's Daughters met with Mrs. Paul Garvin of Summer street, Weymouth. Arangements were made for distribution of Thanksgiving baskets as is the annual custom of this society.

The large contracts at the Fore River shipyard is already booming the building trade here. Herman F. McIntire has started work on six houses that will be hurried right along. They are being built on the foundations recently finished on Fairview terrace.

Everett Hill who attends grade 8 at the Noah Torrey school, sprained his ankle during recess the first of the week and in consequence has been confined to his home on Washington street.

Miss Gertrude Kelley of Central street, who was a member of the graduating class of the high school this year, left on Wednesday to train as a nurse at the Boothby hospital Boston.

An interesting program has been prepared by Antietam Camp No.32 S. of V., for the observation of "Veterans Night" next Thursday evening. Post 87, G. A. R., Woman's Relief Corps No. 94, and Sons of Veterans Auxiliary No. 16, will be the guests of Camp 32.

Rolland W. Stoddard of Academy street passed away at his home yesterday afternoon after an illness of several weeks. Funeral services will b held Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Mr. Stoddard was a well known citizen of this town and had been employed for some years at the car shops in Readville. He was in his fifty-seventh year.

An all day sewing meeting will be held in All Souls' parish hall, Monday, November 16 at ten o'clock. Philergians and church women are invited to attend in large numbers. This is the last co-operative meeting. The work already under construction must be finished. Bring box luncheon. Hot coffee will be served by the All Souls' Alliance.

A meeting of the Hollis School Association will be held in the school hall next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Ralph L. Wiggin, superintendent of the Braintree schools will speak on "Some of the problems in our schools. There will be music and a social hour. Anyone interested in the school is invited to attend. This will be the second meeting of the season.

The auto chemical was summoned by telephone last evening to put out a fire in two trees near the engine house on Hollis avenue. The wires had evidently been torn from their fastenings by the high wind and were sending out sparks upon nearby houses. Superintendent Lawrence of the electric light department was notified and secured the wires temporarily by ropes. No damage was done.

Mrs. Eva B. MacDonald is receiving the sympathy of her friends here because of the death of her mother, Mrs. Eliza B. Cook who passed away last Friday at her home in Medford in her 75th year. The interment was in Wyoming cemetery, Melrose. Mrs. MacDonald who has been caring for her mother the past two months will continue to make her home in Medford. Her daughter Mrs. William J. Shores and husband of 28 Central avenue will move there later.

Wednesday about noon, a small family party gathered at the home of Rev. Joseph Kyte on Pond street, South Braintree to witness the marriage of his daughter, Helen Sherwood, to Seth Kimball of Pomfret, Conn. Miss Kyte wore a beautiful brocaded satin gown with fichu and sleeve ruffles of priceless old rose point lace. Her only ornaments were a brooch of pearls and sapphires the gift of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Kimball, and a small bar pin to match. She carried bride roses. her niece Edythe, acting as flower girl.

The position requires tact as well as the gift of approaching others and both gaining and retaining their confidence and co-operation.

WOMEN'S WORK IN POLITICS

Important Questions Are Settled by Decisive Majorities

BEAR ON THE NEXT CAMPAIGN

Suffragists Decide That Efforts Before Congress Shall Not Be Limited to One Measure—Factional Bitterness In Debates on Matters on Which Opinions Were Divided

Nashville, Nov. 14.—By a vote of almost two to one the convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association here decided that its work before congress during the coming year shall not be limited to efforts for passage of the Bristow-Mondell suffrage amendment to the federal constitution.

The association also declared by a decisive majority that its congressional committee shall not conduct campaigns against canddates in any state without consent of the suffrage association in that state.

The action of the association on these matters settled two of the most important questions before the present convention. Each had given rise to much division of opinion among suffragists during the last few months, and eaoh has a significant bearing on plans for next year's campaign.

The debate on both issues was decidedly spirited, and at times was characterized by factional bitterness.

Much of the opposition to the administration plan of working before congress for other measures besides the Bristow-Mondell resolution came from the "state's rights" suffragists.

Mrs. Blatch of New York, one of the leading champions of the one legislative measure plan, presented the initial motion: "That the Shafroth amendment be not proceeded with by the National association in the next session of congress."

A substitute offered immediately by Mrs. Brown of New York declared that: "it is the sense of the convention that the policy of the National association shall be to support by every means within its power, in the future as in the past, the amendment known as the Susan B. Anthony amendment, and further, that we support such other legislation as the National board may authorize and initiate to the end that the Susan B. Anthony amendment may become law."

Perkins Says He Knows Nothing of Tragedy on the Mohawk

Charleston, Nov. 14.—George B. Perkins of Boston insists that he knows nothing of the tragedy on the Clyde liner Mohawk, at sea, when he killed F. W. R. Hinman of Jacksonville, Fla., and wounded two other men.

Perkins is being held here by federal authorities. Captain Ingram of the Mohawk and B. H. Wright of Utica, N. Y., a passenger, who were wounded, are improving.

Perkins is 43 years old, a bachelor, and has independent means. He is an architect by profession but has never maintained an office. His chief interest has been in foreign travel, in which he has spent most of his time. He returned only six weeks ago from Europe.

LAUGH OVER SENTENCE

Two Boys Receive Five Years Each For Manslaughter

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 14.—Nishan Aprahanian, 16, and Manoog Garabedian, 17, the two Watertown boys who lured Ishmayel Izmerly-Oghlo, a Turk, into a field and beat him to death because he had cursed their cross, were sentenced to five years' imprisonment at the Concord reformatory in the superior court here.

Aprahanian appeared in court in knickerbockers and with Garabedian laughed and chatted while their sentences were being imposed. Through their counsel the boys pleaded guilty to manslaughter. They were indicted for murder.

ENGENDERS FALSE HOPES

Friedmann Is Severely Condemned In Federal Report

Washington, Nov. 14.—Dr. Friedrich F. Friedmann of Berlin, alleged turtle serum specialist in tuberculosis, was roundly scored for "unprofessional conduct, commercial greed and negligence," in the full report of Drs. Anderson and Stimson, to the United States public health service.

The physician was condemned also for engendering false hopes among white plague victims throughout the country.

Florida Negro Lynched

St. Petersburg, Fla., Nov. 14.—John Evans, a negro, was taken from the city prison here by a mob and hanged. He was charged with the killing of Edward F. Sherman and with attacking Mrs. Sherman.

New York, Nov. 14.—Albert Fritz of Brooklyn was found dead from drinking poison. He had more than $10,000 on deposit in the Siegel bank when the crash came.

GOOD WORK OF THE DAUGHTERS

Kind Words of Endorsement of Women's Papers

The editors and workers on the Kings Daughters edition of the Daily Ledger of Nov. 11 should indeed be proud of the many compliments the paper is receiving on all sides. Here are but a few.

Chester I. Campbell writes:

"I have read with considerable interest and benefit to myself the very remarkable "King's Daughter's Edition of the Quincy Daily Ledger" of November 11.

"The general tone throughout the paper is one of progressive action on the part of the women, and I feel that the same will be productive of much good.

"I am a firm believer that woman has a great part in everything that concerns life, and her entry into the artistic as well as the business life of a community is certain to prove of immense influence. In the horticultural and agricultural field, as well as the many and varied interests, she now stands pre-eminent.

"The ability of our women citizens of Quincy is shown by this wonderful edition of the Daily Ledger, and I feel that they can be a power for good in the future conduct of civic affairs, especially in so far as they touch the home life.

"The paper which has permitted them to use its columns shows the progressive, aggressive, spirit of the times."

Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath of the Wollaston Congregational church writes:

"It happened that Mrs. Sneath was the president of the Connecticut branch of the International Order of The King's Daughters and Sons until we moved to Wollaston. I therefore became familiarly acquainted with the commendable zeal and the good work that these women do. I have known also that they will undertake great things and do them well.

"In this latest achievement on the part of Unity circle we have what I call success. The order is advertised, women's work is presented in new forms, and it is to be hoped that the Circle has reaped a good financial benefit.

"I want to commend the paper from "Ad" to editorial. There is a variety that indicates how large an interest woman is taking in every phase of our modern diversified life.

"It was a fine piece of business strategem to make their issue the day following our municipal election, for the men would surely want to read that special number.

"What was the article I read with the greatest of interest? Why, of course, "Farming as a recreation for the clergy." Please tell my congregation that I am going to buy a farm.

"I want to add a word of sincere commendation upon the fine make-up, press-work and clear printing of the edition. Let the K. Ds. try it again."

Rev. William B. Ayers of the Park and Downs Congregational church writes:

"I congratulate heartily all interested in the splendid edition of the Daily Ledger which has been produced by the Kings' Daughters. Every good citizen of our city should be proud of a body of women who reveal such a marked ability to perform creditably work that generally taxes the ingenuity of men.

The print is good, the material is exceptionally fine and well assembled

I am glad to see so much space devoted to the presentation of the work of institutions that belong to Quincy.

This edition of the Ledger gives us an opportunity to meet together in print, to see who our neighbors are, and what they are doing.

"It is a splendid achievement and worthy of an enthusiastic appreciation."

Rev. Stephen C. Lang, pastor of the Washington Street Congregational church writes:

"Will you allow me just a word of commendation upon the special issue by the Kings' Daughters of the Daily Ledger.

"Such a special number speaks well for the organization that is original and industrious enough to use this unique means of raising money. The work of getting such a number to press is unknown except by newspaper people, but I am sure the range of the material, the neatness of arrangement and many advertisements commend themselves for attention.

QUINCY MUSIC HALL

NOVEMBER 27, 1914

"The Daily Ledger office is to be remembered, for this special issue means special work, extra care and people to work with, whose everyday business is much different. Besides, I feel you have done Quincy something especially good in giving place to and co-operating with an organization that does as good a work as the Kings Daughters."

BREAK IN WATER MAIN

Electrolosis cause another break in the ten inch water main on Sea street, just beyond Palmer street late Friday night, and about midnight the water works gang was sent down to repair the leak. The main through this section will be relaid at an early date.

Twice before within a few years has this ten inch main been put out of commission by electrolosis and up to the present time there has been no way devised to prevent the destruction of water mains by leaking electricity.

COMPLAINT DISMISSED

The continued case of Nathan Sternberg, who was charged with manslaughter in causing the death of Ethel Katler, a little Chelsea girl, came up in the district court this morning before Judge Avery. When it was called the court ordered the case dismissed for want of prosecution

The accident happened on Sumner street one evening last summer. Sternberg was passing through the street in his automobile when the little girl ran in front of his machine and was so badly injured that she died.

YOUNG PEOPLES DANCING PARTY

The Young People's Religious Union of the First Parish church held its first dancing party of the year in Alpha hall on Friday evening. The affair was a decided success and will be followed by another on Dec. 4.

The matrons were Mrs. George Saville, Mrs. George Pfaffmann and Mrs. James H. Slade. Frederick M. Atwood was head usher and was assisted by Richard Z. Crane, Willard F. Crocker, Robert Davis, L. Kenneth Edwards, William C. Edwards, Henry H. Faxon, Allen P. Miller, E. Horton Page, Eric Patch and William E. Weston.

The dance order reserved only numbers, no particular dance being stated. The majority danced the modern dances.

The matrons were seated at the upper end of the hall while many friends occupied the gallery and enjoyed th epretty scene below. Music was furnished by Miss Helen Nivers, piano and Mr. Richardson, drums; of Brookline.

Miss Minnie Packard, chairman of the committee on arrangements was assisted by Miss Marie Bass, Miss Beatrice Morrion, Willard Crocker and William Weston.

The Tufts freshmen team beat Milton High at Milton Friday afternoon 13 to 7. Robertson scored for the home team.

Weymouth High took its eighth straight victory through defeating Abington High, Friday 27 to 0.

Henry A. Morrs, of the Boston Power Squadron, presided over the meeting of the United States Power Squadron meeting in New York York. Friday. Three classes are now complete. Charles W. Laing, commodore of the Quincy squadron was present as a delegate.

—Governor-elect Charles S. Whitman attended the initiation ceremonies of his fraternity, Alpha Delta Phi, at Amherst Friday evening and remained to witness the Amherst Williams football game. Mr. Whitman, who is a graduate of Amherst College, class of 1890, has always taken a deep and active interest in the college. He delivered the Henry Ward Beecher lecture series two years ago and proved himself very popular with the undergraduates. The Senior class at that time presented him with a silver loving cup. He was given the degree of LL. D. at the 1913 commencement.

MILTON HIGH WINS AGAIN

The Milton High football team played a surprisingly good game Friday afternoon when they were defeated by the Tufts' '18 team only by the score of 13 to 7. The college team was a good deal heavier and older than the high school but still the younger team put up a splendid fight. The winners made their total score in the first quarter. After that the high school boys held them and in the third period Robertson recovered a Tufts' fumble and rushed it for a touchdown, Sprague kicked the goal. The wind was so strong that punts and forward passes were just about impossible to get off. Captain Reiser of the Milton team made several foolish plays during the game but still he played an all round game. Luce, Miltons right half, made two beautiful tackles in the first period. If the home team had played the sort of a game they played in this game earlier in the season they might have won several victories.

MUCH DAMAGE BY WIND STORM

The constant striking of the bells on the fire alarm circuits Friday afternoon was due to break in the lines, caused by the unusually high winds. There were two of the circuits that were opened, No. 1, on Quincy avenue, caused by a large limb falling onto the wires and No. 2, circuit near the corner of Beale and Hancock streets which was also caused by a heavy limb falling on to it. The fire alarm men however got to work at the first signs of trouble and although the wires were damaged in many places by the winds, all circuits are now in working order.

In all parts of the city however broken limbs scattered over the streets show how severe was the wind storm. Aside from the danger of people walking on the sidewalks being struck by falling limbs of trees, they had their eyes, ears and mouths filled with oily dirt which was anything but pleasant. In City Square the streets were watered so that the store keepers did not suffer so much as did residents and pedestrians on other streets of the city.

FIVE PASS THE CENTURY MARK

Some Good Scores Made by Bowlers in Fore River League

Several teams of the Fore River league started out for 1400 totals at the Coliseum alleys Friday evening but failed to make them, principally because triples were as scarce as hen's teeth. Five men passed the century mark, Ago and Rooney tieing at 110. Three others equalled it.

The Electricians put it all over the S. Dept., 4 to 0. They took the first string by one pin, the second by 55 and the third by 25. Low totals were made by some of the losers.

FLAG PRESENTATION.

At the regular meeting of Amana Rbekah Lodge No. 96 held at South Braintree Thursday evening, Miss M. L. Furnald of Quincy presented the lodge with a beautiful silk flag by way of celebrating the twenty-third anniversary of her membership in the Rebekahs. Miss Furnald is now treasurer of George L. Gill Lodge of Quincy, a position which she has held for many years but she was a charter member of Amana Rebekah Lodge of this town and was a member here for seven years. Mrs. Virgie Sears, noble grand of the local lodge accepted the gift in behalf of her sister members in an eloquent speech of appreciation. Afterward there was a social hour and refreshments were served. The next meeting, which comes Thanksgiving night will be omitted on account of the holiday.

YOUR SHOES SHOULD FIT YOU.

To insure proper fitting after your shoe style is selected it is necessary to have just your correct width. Many shoe stores carry only one or two widths in stock; if your foot is narrow the clerk is compelled to fit you short; if your foot is wide they must fit you too long. Up-to-date shoe stores like the Granite Shoe store carry all widths in shoes for men and women. Their slogan is that they "can give you a custom fit in five minutes that a custom shoe-maker could not give you in five weeks," and they can fit boys and girls just as well.

GERMAN FORCES ARE REPULSED

Desperate Drive at the Coast Has Come to Naught

ALLIES' LINES ARE UNBROKEN

Invaders Driven Out of Dixmude After Being Subjected to Shower of Shrapnel—Fields Strewn With Dead and Wounded as Result of Supreme Effort to Reach Channel Towns—Pick of Kaiser's Army Shattered at Ypres—Russians' Rapid Advance a Menace to Germany—Plan Believed to Be an Attack on Danzig—Outbreak of Naval Activity Expected In the Pacific Ocean

London, Nov. 14.—After spending forty-eight hours in an untenable position among the ruins of Dixmude, the Germans, as a climax to their latest desperate attempt to break through to the seacoast, have been driven out of the town, the capture of which created so much elation in Berlin on Wednesday night.

At the same time the flower of the Kaiser's army, the renowned Prussian Guard, has been crushingly defeated by Sir John French's First corps of the British army at Ypres, south of Dixmude.

So that there remains little to show for the supreme German advance towards Dunkirk and Calais excepting fields strewn with dead and wounded and the memory of some of the most desperate fighting since the war began.

The Germans have retired, the lines of the allies, though awfully cut up, remain unbroken, and in some instances the British and French, not content with holding their own against the impact of the Teutonic legion, have made further advances into Belgian territory.

A Fierce Encounter

It was short, sharp and decisive—the forcing of the Germans out of hardly-won Dixmude. Ever since their occupation of the devastated town on Wednesday they have been subjected to a shower of shrapnel which tore through the ruined streets with terrible effect, and every attempt made to emerge from the town on the east and force a passage across the Yser to the left bank was frustrated by the fierce counter-charges and enfilading fire of the British and French troops.

The end came Friday, when, after the harried Germans had again been driven back in a final dash for the river, they were pursued by a strong detachment of the French armies, who, with fixed bayonets, charged through the debris-strewn streets of the town at the heels of the Germans and hurled them back on their original entrenched lines in the flat country to the northwest of Dixmude.

Thus the barren victory of Wednesday, so widely heralded as the beginning of an irresistible rush to the coast which would bring the invaders within sight of the coasts of perfidious Albion, has come to naught.

Rout of Prussian Guard

The shattering of the Prussian Guard at Ypres was one of the most notable feats accomplished by the British forces since the expeditionary force landed in France. The guard, which is composed of the very pick of the kaiser's armies, and whose traditions run back as far as the time of Frederick the Great's father, had been posted behind Ypres with the express purpose of coming to terms with the hated English.

The fight was evidently a part of the general advance which resulted in the German occupation of Dixmude further north. It is evident that the Germans expected to break through the masses of the allies by mere mechanical force of weight and inertia. The guard came down upon the First corps of the British in overwhelming numbers. They were met with such galling fire that they were time after time driven back and slaughtered in counter charges.

So great were the numbers of the Prussians that in three places they actually broke through the first British line, but were in each instance hurled back and were finally compelled to retreat.

The carnage was enormous. There were 700 German dead counted in one spot after the final charge. The British also lost heavily, but no statistics are yet officially given out.

On the Eastern Battle Front

Military men now look upon East Prussia as the centre of gravity of the war.

In this latter field of operations a big battle is developing. The Russians are pushing vigorously a great enveloping movement. They are engaged with the Germans along a wide curve of 150 miles.

Military observers say the Germans have apparently checked their retreat in Poland and by counter attacks are endeavoring to create a diversion. They say, however, that the Russians are not to be turned from their plan, which is believed to be an attack on Danzig.

They argue that the Germans will have either to allow East Prussia to be overrun the second time or bring up reinforcements, and that they can hardly weaken their army along the Polish frontier, for that would leave Posen and Silesia open to invasion. The allies, naturally, are hoping that an effort will be made to relieve East Prussia at a sacrifice to the German armies in Belgium and France.

Battle Near In Pacific

Another big naval battle is momentarily expected on the Pacific coast of South America. The German cruisers Leipzig and Dresden, which participated in the Carondel battle of Nov. 1, steamed into Valparaiso harbor and are now taking on coal and supplies.

The British cruiser Suffolk was sighted twenty-five miles off Colon. Japanese warships have been reported for a week past as heading for the Chilean coast, although official dispatches from Valparaiso deny that any of the mikado's fleet has been sighted in the vicinity.

From Lima, Peru, comes word that a lighthouse watchman at Port Corral, Chile, 475 miles south of Valparaiso, reports sighting six cruisers steaming south. He believed they were German ships and that the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau, two more of those that defeated the British off Caronel, were among them.

Altogether there is every anticipation that the next outbreak of naval activity will come from the South American coast, and that it will not be long deferred.

ADDS BELGIUM TO REALM

Kaiser Also Warns His Army of the Perils Facing Germany

A Petrograd dispatch to the London Daily Telegraph quotes the following order, alleged to have been issued by the German emperor to his troops in East Prussia:

"My Dear and Faithful Soldiers: Thanks to your valor, France has been severely punished and Belgium has been added to the glorious provinces of Germany. You know also that our punitive expedition into Russia has been a brilliant success.

"But now we must turn to the new task of protecting our hearths, which moribund France and barbarous Russia are preparing to attack. Henceforward our military operations will take a new form which will soon be intelligible to you, my dear soldiers.

"Your trial has come—for you and all Germany. It is necessary to concentrate our energies on the repulse of our enemies for, otherwise, they aim to transform our free country into enslaved and degraded provinces of Russia and France. If Germany is dear to you; if the culture and faith of the nation and emperor are dear to you, you will offer the enemy a worthy resistance.

"Do not make a single step backward into our country. Remember that behind us destruction threatens: it is only before us that happiness lies. For country, for glory; forward, faithful friends!"

WANTS A MILLION MEN

Great Britain Has Lost Fifty-Seven Thousand Since War Began

It was officially announced in parliament that the British government will call for 1,000,000 more men to fight the Germans. This number is in excess of the number of men already voted for in 1914 and 1915. It does not affect the territorial force. The additional 1,000,000 men will bring the British forces up to 2,186,400.

On Aug. 5 there was a supplementary estimate of 500,000, followed on Sept. 9 by 500,000 more. The number of men now called out by the government answer the requirements of the year ending March 31, 1915, according to British war office estimates.

Austria Making Strong Effort to Float New War Loans

Extraordinary efforts are being put forward in Austria-Hungary to secure the successful flotation of new war loans. The emperor ordered a large sum of money from his private purse invested equally in the Austrian and Hungarian issues.

Convents and other ecclesiastical foundations have agreed to take large allotments and several municipalities are doing the same.

Meanwhile the general commercial situation is reported to be steadily growing worse and the newspapers are publishing daily lists of firms which have been placed under official supervision.

THE "WHITE GENERAL"

Russians Think Latest Appearance Means Victory For Them

The Petrograd correspondent of the London Daily Mail gives a legend permeating the Russian army of a "white general," who rides through the ranks on a white horse.

"If he looks a man full in the face," the legend runs, "that man bears a charmed life. Those whom he passes with eyes averted are marked for death.

"During the last two weeks the white general has not been seen in the Russian ranks. The soldiers say he is busy in the German and Austrian armies, walking with his eyes to the ground."

Kaiser Wilhelm's headquarters are now on German soil. He has moved from French territory and has established his headquarters at Coblenz, on the Rhine. This is well inside German territory and the capital of the Rhine province.

Two Zeppelins, both carrying machine guns, continually circle over the headquarters of the emperor and the utmost precaution is taken in guarding his apartments.

NEW CENTRES OF CATTLE DISEASE

Slaughter of Infected Animals Begins In Bay State

Boston, Nov. 14.—Three new centres of the foot and mouth disease developed in Danvers, Randolph and Dracut yesterday. New cases were reported to have been found in Holbrook.

Under the direction of Charles J. Dailey the infected cattle in Amherst were tied to stakes and shot. The carcasses of the animals were covered with quicklime and buried in deep trenches. Representatives of the S. P. C. A. were present to see that the killing was done in a humane way.

WANTED TO TALK BUSINESS

What Bridges Is Said to Have Telephoned to Miss Sullivan

Houlton, Me., Nov. 14.—Although a new witness for the state has been discovered in the Mildred Sullivan death mystery, attorneys for Dr. Dudley, who is charged with her murder, and for Perley Pelletier and his sister, under arrest as accessories, declare that the state is going to get a big surprise when the case goes to trial.

The new witness for the state is Mrs. Charles Stevens of Hammond plantation, who says that she overheard a telephone conversation between Mildred and her sweetheart, Ambrose Bridges, before the girl went to Presque Isle.

"Out party line rang," said Mrs. Stevens, "and I heard Ambrose Bridges urge Mildred to hurry to Presque Isle. He said twice during the conversation 'come here, I want to talk business.'"

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic, all Teething Troubles and Diarrhœa. It regulates the Stomach and Bowels, assimilates the Food, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

ALL SOULS' MEN'S CLUB.

The November meeting of the club was held in the parish hall of All Souls church, Braintree, Wednesday evening with a large attendance of members and guests. Supper was served at 6.30 o'clock, the menu comprising roast lamb, baked white and sweet potatoes, creamed celery, cold slaw, celery, rolls, coffee ice cream and cake. The tables were beautiful with vases of chrysanthemums and autumn leaves.

After supper, cigars were lighted and Dr. John C. Ferguson of Newton, the speaker of the evening, gave an intensely entertaining talk on "personal experiences in China," a country in which he lived for twenty-seven years.

Dr. Ferguson's narrative was inspired by recollections of scenes and episodes viewed from the study windows of his home in Nanking and embraced events both tragic and comic. His description of China as a country once free from all debt but now in debt and consequently "civilized" brought a great laugh from his hearers. He pictured the customs of the country and the ways of the people very vividly and also dwelt at length on the political and military aspect of the situation.

Dr. Ferguson is gifted with wonderful powers of description and also blessed with a saving sense of humor so that his address was a treat and he was accorded long and loud applause.

The meeting was adjourned at 8.45 o'clock after the singing of "America" by the audience.

PHILERGIAN NOTES.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held in Cochato hall, Tuesday afternoon, November 17. T. Philip Terry will give an illustrated lecture on "Japan and the Japanese."

The members of the executive board held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry F. Knight, Cedar street, Friday morning.

The attention of the members is called to the play "The time of his life" which is to be repeated with the same cast at Bates' Opera House, Nov. 17. Through the untiring efforts of Mrs. Joseph G. Spear, the interest and co-operation of the churches and organized charities of Braintree and Weymouth have been enlisted. This play, given Oct. 27, in Cochato hall in connection with the harvest fair of All Souls' Church was favorably and enthusiastically received. It is generally known that the proceeds will be donated to the Belgian relief fund, a most worthy cause which deserves hearty support.

SILVER LOVING CUP.

Mrs. J. B. Allen of Commercial street East Braintree, 92 years old, was officially declared to be the oldest woman in the town and was presented Tuesday evening with the silver loving cup of the Kroweldeen Society of the South M. E. Church. This cup was made several years ago for the society, as a testimonial to the oldest woman in town.

Mrs. Allen has been a resident of this town for many years. A short time ago she moved to the home of her daughter in Avon, but this winter is living in East Braintree. Mrs. Allen is the mother of Mrs. George Henry Arnold of Middle street, William Allen of the board of registrars, Joseph M. Allen and Mrs. S. P. Record of Commercial street. Mrs. Allen is enjoying the best of health.

THE PRESCOTT VOTE.

One newspaper report of the vote for Councilmen at-large says: "the Campbell forces threw their strength to Prescott and he came in second man of the five nominated." But the Prescott votes did not come from any particular Mayoralty candidate, as he led them all, being 360 ahead of Campbell in the city.

In Wards Five and Six where Campbell was the strongest, Prescott fell behind 80 and 27, but in Ward One he led Campbell 247; in Ward Two he was 106 ahead; in Ward Three just 120, and in Ward Four 37 ahead. Prescott was either first, second or third in every ward of the city, in a list of eight candidates, receiving 1,923 votes out of a grand total of 3, 267 Republican votes, a decisive majority.

The Merrill C. Ward Castle of Knights of King Arthur is meeting Tuesday evening. New members are initiated nearly every meeting.

The Hospital Aid association will meet with Mrs. Perry Lawton, Goffe street, Thursday, Nov. 19, a week earlier than the usual time of meeting on account of Thanksgiving falling on that date.

Among the newspaper comments about the candidacy of Col. Henry L. Kincaide at the last election, one of the strongest was an editorial in the Boston Herald of Sunday, entitled, "Remember Mr. Kincaide," which was reprinted in the Ledger on Monday of this week. It all goes to show that by his straight-forward conduct, during the recent political campaign, Col. Kincaide has attracted the attention and won the esteem and good will of the thinking men in the state, besides adding to his long list of friends.

Miss Gertrude Jones and Mrs. Wood are to represent Christ Church Sunday school at the tenth annual convention of the Sunday School Union in in the Cathedral in Boston, Nov. 17.

Brig. Gen. Thomas R. Matthews retired, was unable to attend the 100th anniversary of the birth of Gen. Joseph Hooker in Boston Friday, as he is at the Corey hospital, Brookline, where he underwent an operation, Gen. Matthews is reported as being convaescent.

The Quincy Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet with Mrs. Tirrell of 49 Upland road, Friday No. 20 at 3 P. M. A large attendance is desired.

Miss Gertrude Jones and Mrs. Wood will represent the Sunday school of Christ church at the tenth annual convention o fthe Sunday School Union in the Cathedral Boston, Nov. 17.

Rev. Edward Cummings of the South Congregational church Boston, successor to Rev. Edward Everett Hale, will be the speaker at the monthly meeting of the First Parish Club Tuesday evening. His subject is; "The breakdown of civilization", a discussion of the present situation in Europe.

"La Boheme" is to be the first opera talk in the series to be given by Havrah W. L. Hubbard of the Boston Opera house under the auspices of the Wollaston Women's club, more especially of the program committee of which Mrs. Charles R. Safford is chairman. Following La Boheme on Nov. 23 there will be three others after New Years.

The office room at the Cobb library at Pembroke is fitted for a reference and reading room with book stacks of a capacity of a thousand volumes. Mrs. Rebecca Gurney of Quincy has presented the library with three volumes of the genealogical records of the Gurney family, also a volume of poems, formerly the property of the Pembroke Anti-Slavery society of which her Nathaniel Damon, was the librarian of the society library.

QUINCY ATLANTIC

A largely attended rally in the interest of James E. Wall for Mayor was held Friday evening at Poland's hall, Norfolk Downs.

At the monthly meeting of the Ladies Benevolent Society of Memorial church Wednesday Mrs. L. T. Gurney reported that the harvest supper netted $50. After the business meeting Mrs. Spencer Appolonio, Mrs. Herbert Beeman and Mrs. John Abbott served tea, after which forty ladies helped sew aprons and useful articles for the fair to be held Dec. 1 and 2.

Robert Moore of Billings street who has been in the Boston City Hospital for three weeks is expected home this week.

W. H. Davis has taken rooms at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beals on Ocean street while Miss Davis is with her sister in New York attending her in her illness.

At the meeting of the Associated Charities at Memorial church Monday afternoon, Mrs. Theodore Parker and Mrs. William F. Cummings were chosen to canvass Atlantic and Norfolk Downs for the benefit of the Association.

There was considerable excitement among politicians Tuesday evening in Atlantic when it was rumored that Acting Mayor Whiton had decided to enter the mayoralty race as an independent candidate. The mistake was caused by someone reading the head lines in Tuesday's Ledger that citizens should support Mr. Whiton.

The Atlantic Club shareholders have asked several men to act as committees to perfect the organization and see what can be done this winter towards securing a house.

The Ladies Benevolent Society of Memorial church is to give Atlantic a rare treat Monday evening in the John Thomas recital. Among the singers are William A. McDevitt of Boston, Miss Lora Churchill and Miss Jordine Davison.

Mrs. Alva T. Beede gave a birthday party to her 5 year old niece, Miss Cleo Gill at her home on Appleton street Saturday from 2 until 5 P. M. By 2 o'clock the little folks began to arrive and were met by Miss Cleo who assisted in making them at home. At 3 o'clock a march was played on the piano by Miss Esther Canty and the children proceeded to the dining room where a chafing dish lunch was served to them, consisting of creamed chicken, celery, crackers, rolls, cake, cocoa, jello with whipped cream, candy.

The dining room was very pretty in pink and white paper flowers festooned about the room and from the dome in the centre hung four little cupid dolls. Covers were laid for 9 and from the center of the table to each plate was run a pink ribbon which each child pulled and found attached to it a favor. The place card and basket which was made in form of a rose was also carried out in the color scheme. At one end of the table was a large birthday cake with five lighted candles and at the other a vase of pink roses.

After lunch the little ones started in and had music and games, one of which was a fish pond. Each child took a turn and fished out an appropriate prize to take home with her. Those present were Miss Ada York, Miss Mildred Bare, Miss Esther Canty, Miss Helen Morrison, Miss Evelyn Coles, Miss Marion Dean, Miss Elenor Granahan, Misses Eileen and Alice Gallagher, Miss Dorothy Hall and Miss M. Cleo Gill. Miss Cleo was a most cheerful little hostess and all left for their homes after a most pleasant afternoon. Miss Cleo has been visiting with her aunt for the past three weeks and returned to her own home this week.

The John Thomas Concert Company will give an entertainment Monday evening at the Memorial church.

H. W. Gibson will be the speaker on Tuesday evening at the November meeting of the Parents-Teachers Association at the Quincy school.

Councilman Carlson of Squantum says that he feels very grateful to his many friends who urged him to run as a member of the City Council but his business interests were such that he could not spare the time. He says that he is well satisfied with the result of the primaries.

☞Everybody is interested this year in the fair to be held in Christ church parish house Wednesday and Thursday by the Woman's Guild for it is to be bigger and better than ever before. The Harvest Supper also appeals to many so all in all the ladies are looking forward to one of the most successful fairs ever held by them.

Frank M. Coe of Elm avenue is on a business trip through Maine.

The Walther Men's class meets Sunday at 12.15 in the Wollaston Baptist church. Rev. Joseph Walther will teach the lesson, subject: "Peter's Denial, Repentance, Restoration and Transformation." Chorus of men, discussions and hearty welcome to all men.

The roof of the outward train from Boston due in Quincy at 10.57 was discovered to be on fire as the train drew into the Wollaston station. The train was delayed a few minutes while the train crew and firemen from the Wollaston fire station extinguished the blaze.

Whatsoever circle of Kings Daughters will meet Monday evening with Mrs. E. A. Sayward, 225 Belmont street. Jellies and preserves are solicited for Pond Home for the Aged and may be brought to this meeting.

"Women of Today" will be the subject of Rev. George M. Bailey, pastor of the Wollaston Methodist church on Sunday evening. Wonder if he will say anything about the women whoo issued the Kings Daughters number of the Daily Ledger.

At the Y. P. R. U. meeting in the Wollaston Unitarian church tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock. B. Morrison Hooper will conduct the devotional meeting and Miss Edith Randall will give the address. The public is cordially invited.

St. Chrysostoms G. F. S. meets Tuesday evening with Miss Edith Atkins of 15 Bromfield street.

The Epworth League of the Wollaston Methodist Episcopal church entertained the Young Peoples' Society of Christian Endeavor of the Wollaston Baptist church and the Wollaston Congregational church on Friday evening. There was an orchestra consisting of drum played by Mr. Lewis, cornet played by Roger Bates, Violin by James Kennedy with Miss May Critchley at the piano. Ray Cassidy sang "The Ringers and on the Day I get to Heaven." The reader was Miss Helen Corridan of Weymouth, who read "The Tin Gee Gee" and "Seeing things at Night." Miss Corridan's selections were well received and she answered her encores with bright selections. She was accompanied by her sister Miss Marguerite Corridan.

After the entertainment there was a needle threading contest which was won by Miss Lena Thompson and Roger Bates. The contest on the jumbled cities of Massachusetts was won by Miss Marion Rand, who had twenty-five out of forty correct. The refreshments were chocolate and fancy crackers which were passed by little Myron Lane, Elizabeth Morgan and Miss Lewis. The affair was under the management of Mrs. Newell Lane who is the head of the Social department of the League. The plan of haing a union social of the Young People's Societies every other month is to be carried out through the winter. The next one will be at the Congregational church.

Rev. George M. Bailey, A. B. Cassidy, Ray Cassidy, Walter Sutermeister, Fred Sutermeister, George Taylor, A. N. Muray and Joseph A. Sedgwick and Mrs. H. M. Willard were in attendance at the convention of Methodist Episcopal men and women held in Boston this week.

Rev. J. E. Matheson the pastor of the Water Street Presbyterian church has tendered his resignation to accept a call to Allentown, Penn. At a largely attended meeting of the congregation on Thursday evening commissioners were apointed to attend the Presbytery and arrange to dissolve the relationship of church and pastor. He has been in Quincy nearly six years. The resignation will take effect Dec. 1. Rev. and Mrs. Matheson are already packing their goods preparatory to their departure.

Mrs. Ellen Bush, who has been a guest of her niece, Mrs. Walter E. Piper, left this week for her winter home at Belleview, Florida.

PLAY TO BE REPEATED.

The play "The Time of His Life," will be repeated at Weymouth for the benefit of the "Belgium Relief Fund." Through the efforts of Mrs. J. G. Spear, Bates Opera House has been secured and the interest and co-operation of all the churches, clubs and charitable organizations of Weymouth and Braintree have been enlisted. This play under the direction of Mrs. J. C. Danforth with the following cast was most enthusiastically received by a large audience at its recent presentation in Cochato hall, Braintree.

Herbert F. Kneeland; Joseph G. Spear; Beatrice Borden Hathaway; Frederick D. Lamley; Genevieve Danforth; Wendell P. Battles; George L. Anderson; Rowena L. Hall and George S. Young.

The performance will be given at 8 P. M. Tuesday evening, November 17th tickets 50 and 35 cents. It is hoped that the house may be sold out.

SEEKS DIVORCE.

Isabella Smith of Quincy has filed a petition at Dedham for divorce from her husband George Ross Smith. She charges him with cruel and abusive treatment and gross and confirmed habits of intoxication. They were married Oct. 12, 1897 at Goran, Scotland. They have three children. Mrs. Smith asks for the custody of the children and alimony.

The alarm from Box 431 at 10.40 this morning was for a grass fire off Rogers street.

Forty hours devotion service commenced in St. Mary's church with a high mass on Friday morning, and will come to a close with a high mass on Sunday morning. Friday evening there was a short prayer service and confessions were heard. The repository, where the Blessed Sacrament is exposed, is beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and palms and brilliantly illuminated with lighted candles. After the mass there was a procession of the boys and girls of the Sunday School which preceded the clergy, who carried aloft the sacred host. This morning masses were said at 5.30 and 8 o'clock and the number of communicants was large.

St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. Society holds its annual meeting at its hall on Willard street, Sunday afternoon. Business of importance to the society will be discussed. A portion of the afternoon will be devoted to a talk on athletics at which time the reorganization of the bowling league will be considered. Last season the league held all but one of the inter-city records, having a 1500 total and 550 team single to its credit.

CLASS REUNIONS AT ALUMNI MEETING

Mass Meeting at High School Will Be an Old Home Week Gathering

Rooms Assigned in Building to Different Classes

Class reunion will be a pleasing part of the mass meeting Wednesday evening, for the purpose of organizing a Quincy High School Alumni Association, and already there is rivalry to see which class will have the largest percentage in attendance. Some of the oldest classes had less than ten graduates so they have almost as good an opportunity to get out 50 per cent as some of the more recent classes with an hundred or more graduates.

The number eligible to the High School Alumni Association is surprising to many, as it was in 1852 that the Quincy High was opened, over 60 years ago.

Who will be the oldest graduate in attendance?

Will any of the pupils of the entering class in 1852 be in attendance? All the members of this class, whether they were graduated or not, should be honorary members of the association

How many of the former teachers of the High school will be in attendance? Certainly they will be welcome, and will be given a hearty reception.

Which class will have the largest percentage of attendance?

Please extend the notice to all graduates that an Alumni Association will be organized on Wednesday evening at High School hall. A pleasing program has been arranged.

CLASS REUNIONS.

All classes previous to 1890 will please meet at 7.30 in Room 13 at the west of the northerly entrance to the building.

The classes from 1890 to 1899 inclusive will meet in Room 3.

The Class of 1900 in the Ante Room to the right of the platform in the hall.

Class of 1901 in Room 10.
Class of 1902 in Room 9.
Class of 1903 in Room 25.
Class of 1904 in Room 4.
Class of 1905 in Room 5.
Class of 1906 in Room 6.
Class of 1907 in Room 27.
Class of 1908 in Room 26.
Class of 1909 in Room 21.
Class of 1910 in Room 22.
Class of 1911 in Room 24.
Class of 1913 in Room 23.
Class of 1913 in Room 28.
Class of 1912 in Room 23.

Please take to the building your class banners, numerals, badges, programs, etc. etc., and have a little of the old time enthusiasm.

A list of the nominations for the different offices will be printed in the Daily Ledger tomorrow.

These war pictures bring you very near to the front. One of them shows Belgian infantry waiting behind a temporary shield of tables and brush for the advance of the Germans. They fought as long as they could from behind this scant shelter and then retreated to other temporary means of defense. The other shows French artillery in action near Arras, France, where the fighting has been so severe recently.

Two More Days to File Independent Nominations

CHESTER I. CAMPBELL.

EDWARD J. FEGAN.

Although the returns of the city primaries last Tuesday have been published in the Daily Ledger, there are a number of candidates who received nomination, by having their names written on the ballot, or by the use of stickers. At the time the official returns were given out these names were omitted as it was necessary for the Registrars to canvass these names to see if they were correct. This canvass has now been completed and the Daily Ledger is able to print the complete list of nominations for all offices as they stand today.

No independent nomination papers have been filed as yet, although there are rumors that some will be. Two such papers were taken out this morning. One by Edward J. Parker for Mayor and one by Andrew Johnson for Councilman from Ward One. It is also well known that there will probably be three other independent papers for Mayor filed before Wednesday when the time for filing nomination papers expires.

A glance at the list below will show that there are now but two candidates for Mayor, Chester I. Campbell and Edward J. Fegan. For Councilman at Large however there are twelve can-

GRANITE AVE. BRIDGE OPENED

Street Car Line from Milton to Adams Street Now Possible

The new bridge on Granite avenue over the Neponset river was thrown open to public travel for the first time Sunday. The bridge which was constructed under the direction of a board of trustees consisting of the Mayor of the City of Quincy, chairman of the Milton board of Selectmen and the Chairman of the County Commissioners, has been under construction for about a year.

During this time, teams and foot passengers have been obliged to use a temporary bridge built on the westerly side of the old structure.

It is believed that the opening of the new bridge will hasten the construction of a street car line from East Milton to connect with the Adams street line at Cedar Grove. This line has long been wanted but has always been turned down by the street railway company on account of the condition of the Granite avenue bridge.

The new bridge cost $75,000 and has a waterway fifty feet in the clear which will allow barges to pass through to Milton Lower Mills. It is forty feet wide and built of steel.

MISSING BOYS UNDER ARREST

Alleged They Stole $87 from Parents of One of the Boys

Arthur Shaves and Wilfred Lavoie, two West Quincy boys who left suddenly on Oct. 10, were discovered asleep in the barn of the Eaton Ice Co. on Sunday morning and turned over to the police. Warrants charging both with larceny of $87 from Shaves, father of one of them, were issued shortly after their disappearance.

The money is said to have been taken from a trunk.

The boys told the police they spent the money in New York where they had gone in search of experience. Nothing was heard from the Shaves boy until his return, but the Lavoie boy sent a postal from the big city telling his folks he intended to look for work.

Both will be held for the juvenile court.

It is thought that the boys got to West Quincy some time during the night and went directly to the barn where found. They were sound asleep when discovered by the night watchman. Because he did not recognize them he telephoned the police.

The sufferers by the European war seem to feel almost as badly as the college boys when they lose a football game.

It is surprising how many people will waste their money attending football games when they ought to spend it in taking courses in literary study.

The resignation of the Rev. James A. Matheson from the First Presbyterian Church to accept a call from Allentown, Pennsylvania, will be regretted not only by his own people, among whom he has worked hard and successfully, but also by many people of other churches. Mr. Matheson stood uncompromisingly for the evangelical faith, but was by no means narrow nor intolerant of other beliefs. He represents the type of minister to whom the Presbyterian church is largely indebted for its strength,—of liberal education, full of the co-operative spirit, yet never wavering in his loyalty to the creed and covenants of his own church. The Y. M. C. A. and the No-License cause both lose a valued friend in the going of Mr. Matheson. The departure of such a man is a distinct loss to any community.

MOVEMENT TO SAVE BABIES.

It is estimated that 250,000 babies under a year old die annually in the United States. To discuss methods of reducing this tragic loss, 31 states sent delegates to a convention held the past week at Boston, of the American Association for Prevention of Infant Mortality.

There is one excellent rule for baby saving, and that is, "Call the doctor." Unfortunately it is not as simple as it sounds. The majority of families can't afford the doctor's bill every time baby wheezes.

But, many people, even from the mere view-point of money, lose out by waiting until children become dangerously sick. A dollar or two spent for a call at the beginning may save a hundred later for physicians and nurses, not to speak of the undertaker's ghastly fee later on.

The children are the most priceless possession of the home. An undepleted bank account is poor consolation when balanced by a newly made grave in the cemetery.

THE HEALTH OF ANIMALS.

The widespread outbreak of foot and mouth disease in cattle fortunately comes at a period when people realize the necessity for care of domestic animals.

Crude ideas formerly prevailed regarding the treatment of animals suffering from sickness or accident. One man says he can remember when one of his father's calves or cows would occasionally get a potato or other obstruction stuck in its throat. The entire family would turn out and chase the calf around the barn, hoping to dislodge the obstacle by choking. If that did not work the next thing was for every one to ram his hand down the animal's throat, to grasp the obstruction. The final resort was to hold the calf's throat down on a rock, and smash the obstruction with a hammer.

In those days, trained veterinaries were very rare. Farmers would have a bottle of physic, arsenic, or other drugs, whose use was crudely understood. Some farmers would gain a rough skill in treating animals, and their services were called on for many miles around.

There was formerly a tendency to speak somewhat slightingly of veterinaries, as merely "horse doctors." Actually a fine type of men undertake this work, fellows with a lot of kindly feeling. The pains and effort they take to relieve pain for which the dumb sufferer can never thank them, indicates a gentle and sympathetic spirit.

Domestic animals are too valuable to receive careless treatment. Hundreds or thousands of dollars are locked up in a single beast, and it is good business to look after him. Farmers generally realize this, and inspectors who are seeking to root out the dreaded foot and mouth disease will get more cordial co-operation than would once have been possible. It is the duty of every cattle raiser to report at once the least symptom of this contagion.

ROBERTS DIES NEAR TRENCHES

Pneumonia Claims Great Soldier at Age of Eighty-Two

BELOVED BY GREAT BRITAIN

Civilians and Soldiers Alike Mourn Death of "Bobs," Hero of Many Famous Wars—Had For Years Preached Doctrine of Thorough preparedness—Praised by Kaiser

London, Nov. 16.—Field Marshal Lord Roberts, the idolized "Bobs" of England, died at the front in France, and all Great Britain is in mourning.

Lord Roberts died as he probably would have wished, close to the trenches where his fighting men of India were engaged with the enemy. The cold, wet weather hanging over flooded Flanders brought about his death, for at his age he was unable to stand the rigors of the climate and contracted pneumonia.

Lord Roberts was 82 years old. He had gone to France to see the Indian troops and had expected to remain only a short time. He was the colonel in chief of the native troops. On Thursday he was in the trenches with them and contracted a cold. Pneumonia developed and he quickly succumbed.

When Roberts' death was announced the words of the kaiser regarding him were recalled by many. "Roberts of Kandahar," the kaiser is recorded as saying, "has much of the subtlety and ability to perceive his opportunities which have distinguished the greatest military geniuses of the past. I hold him to be the ablest of the soldiers of today."

A veteran of Britain's wars in India and South Africa, when the great European war began, Roberts, who has, as he often remarked, lived a remarkably abstemious life that he might preserve his strength for the service of his country, was of too advanced age to lead the empire's troops in the field, but he threw himself into the work of raising Britain's army and arousing the nation to its peril.

For years Roberts has preached the doctrine of thorough preparedness, and had warned England of the dangers menacing her from the continent.

Roberts was covinced that Germany would make war on Great Britain when she believed the moment to be advantageous, and since the war began he has expressed the conviction that Germany's belief that civil war was imminent in Ireland was an important factor in starting the great European conflagration.

Roberts had no liking for society. His home at Ascot was a modest, unpretentious villa. Day and night since the war began the slight but soldierly figure of "Bobs" was to be seen at Lord Kitchener's office or at the training camps. His greatest interest lay with the Indian troops, and he issued an appeal, to which generous response was made for funds for their ill and wounded.

Another request which brought quick response was one for sportsmen to give their saddles to the army. Another was for the loan of field glasses during the war. To all contributors he wrote personal letters of thanks.

Scion of an Irish family, Roberts was born in 1832 in Cawnpore, India, where his father, General Sir Abraham Roberts, was serving. It was in the Indian service that the gallant and efficient soldier achieved his first and lasting fame. It was in South Africa, in his later years, that this was supplemented and magnified by his achievements in Great Britain's victorious campaign against the Boers.

But it was as field marshal and earl that Lord Roberts was formally known; it was as "Bobs" that the men of the ranks knew him, loved him and greeted him. In their estimation and in that of the admiring public which appreciated and applauded his gallant service for his country, no name could fit him better than this diminutive of his family name and a word meaning "hero" in Hindu.

Roberts had six children, of whom only two daughters survive him. His first child, a girl, died a year after birth, as did his second. His third, a son, died at birth. His next child was Lady Alleen Mary R., heiress to the earldom, who was born in 1870. The fifth child was the son who was killed in the Boer war after winning the Victoria Cross, and his sixth is Lady Ada, who was born in 1878, and was married a year ago to Major Henry F. Elliott.

His title contains a special provision that should he die without a male heir the line of succession would be with his daughters. This was because of the heroic death of his only son in South Africa.

Panama, Nov. 16.—Colonel Goethals, governor of the Panama zone, signed an order placing all persons engaged in canal transportation on a strict temperance basis.

The order provides that all persons employed on the canal, who have marine licenses, must abstain absolutely from liquor. This includes pilots taking ships through the canal, the captains of tugboats, mates and others.

CZAR'S BAN ON DRINK BECOMES EFFECTIVE

Thousands Lay in Supply Before Liquor Shops Close

Petrograd, Nov. 16.—Russia's ban on all alcoholic liquors in the parts of Russia under martial law went into effect today, but there will be many who will not go thirsty.

To prevent that contingency many pawned everything they owned so as to be able to put in a supply to last them over the time they believe the order will remain in effect. Despite the fact that a snowstorm was raging thousands stood in line before liquor shops from early morning until late Saturday night to get the beverages they wanted.

This final prohibition act is the last of three distinct liquor reforms, the first curtailing the sale of vodka and the second abolishing it absolutely. The third measure extends the prohibition to every form of alcoholic drink in all parts of the empire under martial law.

INDICTED MAN LYNCHED

Suspected of Intention to Betray Kentucky Night Riders

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 16.—Night riders have broken loose again in Muhlenberg county, this time lynching a man who was under indictment for alleged participation in their outrages.

It is believed they feared that their victim, Henry Allen, might reveal some of their secrets. The night riders, the pretext for their murders being the employment of non-union and negro labor in the mines, have murdered men and boys, beaten women and fired houses.

They call themselves the "'Possum Hunters," signing that title to all the warnings they issue to persons against whom their wrath is directed. The situation is now such that it is likely that federal troops will be asked for to deal with it.

No one was injured although a colored woman, known as Sister Theresa who was in the pastors car was shaken up. At the police station Rev. Mr. Tillman was unable to show a license and he will appear in court at Dedham today for operating an automobile without a license. The McGilvray car was uninjured.

TO HOLD NO LICENSE RALLY

Annual Meeting St. Mary's Temperance Society

Thomas F. O'Brien was reelected to the presidency of St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. Society at the annual meeting on Sunday afternoon and John J. Duane, because of his 21 years of consecutive membership, was made an honorary member.

The addition of Mr. Duane brings the honorary members up to 19. The membership at present, according to the report made by Frank L. McPherson, financial secretary is 178. On Nov. 1, 1913 there were 169 on the rolls and 29 were admitted the past year. One of these died and 19 were discharged leaving the present membership 178.

Remarks were made by the newly elected officers and one of the main topics was the monster no-license rally to be held under the auspices of the society on Nov. 27. It will be the first ever held by the society and is a direct result of the big license vote in the ward last year.

The Board of Trustees will make the arrangements, secure speakers and talent and all members are pledged to exert their efforts to changing the vote over to a large No majority.

Bowling was also generally discussed and a committee to foster it was appointed consisting of John F. Welch, Roderick Connelley, Joseph O'Rourke, George E. Reinhalter, Leo Garrity. It is probable that there will be a league organized to compete with others throughout the city.

The meeting throughout was enthusiastic. The officers chosen:

President—Thomas F. O'Brien.

Vice President—Joseph R. McGilvray.

Financial Secretary—Frank L. McPherson.

Treasurer—Paul J. Little.

Recording Secretary—John A. Duggan.

Corresponding Secretary— Henry Kennedy.

Directors — Thomas J. O'Brien, chairman; August Amet, James McLaughlin, Lawrence Kelley, John Sheehan.

Directors—Thomas J. O'Brien, man; Joseph H. McPherson, James Sweeney, George A. Sullivan, John J. Fitzgerald.

Entertainment committee — Lawrence Donovan, chairman.

PETITION REFUSED

Andrew Johnson who was defeated for the Republican nomination for Councilman in Ward One by Councilman William P. Thompson by nineteen votes, petitioned the Registrars of Voters for a recount. The Registrars however have turned the petition down for the reason that it was not in proper form. One of the vital informalities in the petition was that it asked for a recount of the votes cast at the primaries of Nov. 2.

There were no primaries held in Quincy on that date, the correct date being Nov. 10. This alone was sufficient for the Registrars to refuse the petition.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

Large Opportunities Are Now Offered

An advanced step in the development of vocational education in Massachusetts is the scheme which is being developed this fall for the training of teachers for the vocational schools. Under this plan an opportunity which has never been offered before in this country will be given to persons employed in the industries of this state who may desire to become vocational teachers.

During the last few years some instruction in this direction has been given by private institutions, notably the Pratt Institute, in New York, but Massachusetts is the first state in this country to really establish such training as a definitely organized state scheme.

This additional step in the development of vocational education in Massachusetts and the offering of the opportunity in this way, comes about through the establishment by the State through the Board of Education, of training classes for persons now employed in industry who may wish to fit themselves to teach in the vocational schools.

This plan is part of the scheme of vocational or trade education which has been in process of development during the last five years.

The necessity of providing means for the training of teachers has of course long been recognized. State and city normal schools have been maintained to train teachers for the public schools, and the establishment of these training courses is expected to serve a similar purpose for vocational education in the state since it represents the setting up of a definite scheme for the training of teachers for the vocational schools.

Since the first establishment of public vocational education in Massachusetts, the state and local authorities have held that in order to be efficient, the great majority of the teachers employed must have obtained by actual experience in the practice of their trades a thorough mastery of trade processes and thorough knowledge of the conditions under which the work is carried on.

Persons who have had this trade training have regular and permanent occupation, and are in general so situated that it is impossible for them to forego their employment and attend schools of the type of the normale school, where the pupil must give all his time to the work of the school, and must either depend upon others for support, or must rely on partially supporting himself by such accidental work as he may be able to secure. Evidently the individual who has spent seven or eight years in the mastery of a trade which he is now practising not very likely to be able to meet those conditions.

In order to secure the type of individual required for the manning of the vocational schools, it was therefore evident to the Board of Education that it would be necessary to bring the schools to the man, instead of expecting the man to come to the schools, and moreover it would be necessary to provide at least an opportunity for the desirable person to measure himself up against the requirements of a teaching position, and to see for himself if he could probably make good before he gave up his regular income on which he depended.

The scheme is therefore novel in that it proposes to offer this training opportunity under such conditions that at least a large portion can be secured without either loss of pay or loss of job, and that the opportunity can be offered to the individual at a place which he can reach readily outside of working hours. This of course is merely following the practice which has already been so satisfactorily carried out by the correspondence schools University extension services and evening trade extension work, which has been developed in all the states.

The State plan for trade education now in operation has been under development for five years. It consists in the establishment of day schools, both whole and part time, open to pupils between 14 and 25 who may wish to secure training for a definite line of industrial work, which they expect to enter later.

Evening schools or trade extension schools open to persons over seventeen who are employed, are intended to give further courses in the line of the pupil's employment. These schools are established by the various cities and towns, but if they are approved by the State Board of Education from year to year, the state pays back each year half the cost of maintaining them.

Some forty schools have been established, which last year received some four or five thousand men and boys who desired instruction in industrial lines.

One important aim which was held in mind in developing this sort of education was the necessity of substituting for the old apprenticeship training, some agency which would serve the same purpose in promoting the development of skill in Massachusetts industries. With this aim in mind these schools must of necessity be largely manned by trade-trained teachers, and the standards of efficiency must be extremely high. In order to assist the schools in reaching and maintaining the high standard of efficiency desirable, it has seemed wise to make definite provision for the training of persons who might later become teachers in those schools, and to assist those already employed as teachers to carry on their work more efficiently.

The instruction in these courses will be confined only to such subjects as will aid the person already thoroughly equipped in the line of his trade to take up the problem of teaching effectively. The subjects presented will deal with the various difficulties which have been experienced by men who have become teachers in these schools. No attempt will be made to deal with either the trade knowledge or the general education of the student, since it is expected that only persons qualified in these respects will be received into the course.

The scope of the work will confine itself strictly to the giving to these people the knowledge of how to teach what they already know. As it is well known, being able to do a thing oneself is not the same thing as being able to train another to do that thing, and it is in this latter field that this training course will do its work.

The normal schools, in their two, three and four-year courses, provide not only training in how to teach, but also devote a considerable portion of the time to thoroughly teaching their students what they are to teach. Since this scheme undertakes to deal only with the problems of teaching, it is expected that even in the comparatively short time given to the work, efficient results can be obtained.

There will be opened this year five centers in the state: New Bedford, Lowell, Boston, Worcester and Springfield, each having been selected as the center of a district.

The following minimum admission requirements will be established

(a) Not under 25, or over 35 years of age.

(b) A trade experience of not less than five years subsequent to apprenticeship, or the equivalent.

(c) Graduation from the grammar school or the equivalent.

(d) Applicant shall have reached a position calling for supervisory work, such as foreman in a small plant or assistant foreman in a large plant.

(e) Physical condition and a personality which indicates the probability of making a successful instructor.

In selecting from a group of applicants in any given line, preference shall be given to those persons possessing the following qualifications, in the most marked degree.

(a) Mastery of trade processes.

(b) Successful attempts at additional education, such as evening school work, correspondence school work, intentive work in the line of the trade, etc.

(c) Experience in handling and instructing apprentices.

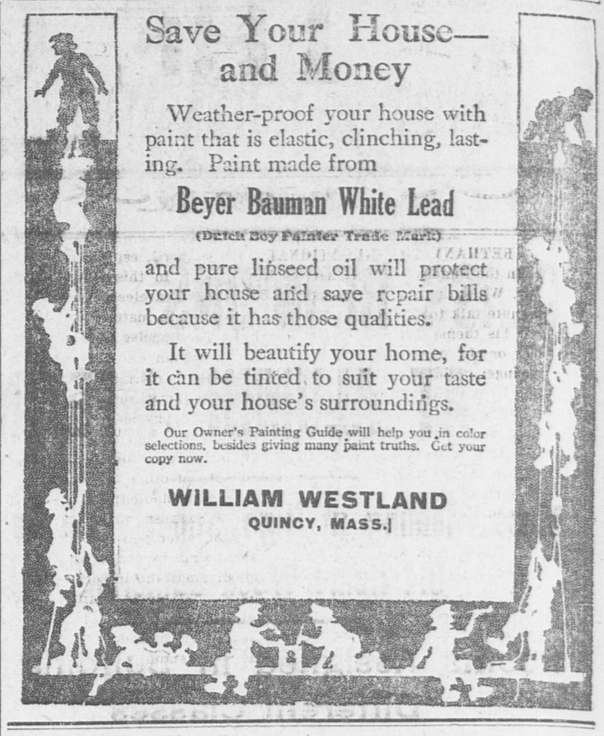

(d) Evidence of having successfully handled groups of young people, not necessarily in the factory.

On the basis of this method of selection it is expected to bring together in each class a group of not over fifteen persons, well equipped as to their trade experience, who may desire to become teachers in the vocational schools.

There is at present an opportunity for one person in Quincy who can meet the necessary requirements to enroll in either the electrical or machinist departments in the Boston class.

Further information may be had by consulting the director of the Quincy Industrial School at an early date as registration takes place Monday, November 16.

Among Our Churches

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL

In the Sunday morning service Rev. Mr. Willmott in his customary five minute talk to the boys and girls took for his theme "Growth." A growing boy or girl often feels contempt for younger children and instead of obeying father and mother, develops a disposition to argue as if he knew it all. But accompanying physical growth should be growth in the Christian life whose ideals include helpfulness and a spirit of chivalry toward the younger and weaker and also obedience to parents.

The sermon which followed was based upon the text "Thy kingdom come; Thy will be done," being the third in a series on the Lord's Prayer.

The first thought emphasized was the forward look of Christ. The burden of his preaching was the coming of the kingdom of Heaven. The kingdom is not identified with any church on earth but comprises God's true children in every faith and communion. The church is only the instrument by which God is trying to bring his kingdom to pass. When it fails He brings in other forces to do it, as when Gen. Booth was inspired to organize the Salvation Army for the outcasts of society.

Some people are better sectarians than Christians. Each church should co-operate with others, all working together for a common end. That end for Quincy churches is to bring the kingdom of God to Quincy.

The second point made was that individualistic work is more successful than collective. Men cannot be made good by legislation. Evils in the body politic should be eradicated, but it is a mistake to suppose that the regeneration of mankind can be thus accomplished. The kingdom of God must come first in the soul which is prevented oftentimes by the cherishing of some secret sin.

It will soon be a case of "be early to get a seat" in Bethany Bible school for so many attended the sessions of the school Sunday that some of the classes were very crowded. As it was a new class had to be formed in the Primary department where Miss Fannie F. French is superintendent, which had an attendance of 115. There were twelve in the first division of the Beginners department which meets at 10.30 o'clock, under the teaching of Miss Esther Beckford and 55 in the second division beginners, under the direction of Miss Park, meeting at 12 o'clock, in the ladies parlor, the attendance for the whole school being 529. Mr. Branch's class of boys are fixing up their class room in fine shape, and it will be the best room in the building when they are finished with their work.

The Christian Endeavor met at 6 with Miss Ida Thomas leader. "Magnify the pledge" was the topic. Eighteen took part in the half hour given to the members, after the talk by the leader. The meeting was so enthusiastic that several times two stood up at once to speak. William Ross sang as a solo "Somewhere," accompanied by Miss Edith Avery. Copies of the C. E. World were distributed by the good literature committee. A cordial greeting is always given to strangers in these meetings.

Extensive plans are being made for the Library Social which is to be held in Bethany chapel Wednesday evening.

FIRST PARISH.

Speaking on the subject, "Hypocrisy Flippancy and Reverence," Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson said that much of the light jesting and raillery one hears today concerning churches and religion does not spring from any lack of respect for real religion. To a certain extent it is a wholesome reaction from unctiousness and false piety.

At the same time there is a distinct peril, especially among young people, in this prevailing tendency toward carelessness and flippancy of speech in matters of religion.

The impulse to worship is universal in human nature. It is in fact the deepest instinct of the heart. But is requires cultivation quite as much as the physical system does.

If the spirit of reverence is neglected and forgotten amid the pressure of other interests, and especially if it is flouted and denied by habitual carlessness of speech—the effect is apt, after a little while, to be demoralizing to character both in the individual and in society.

Mr. Hudson commended the old New England custom of bringing the children to church. Even if they do not understand what they hear, or even if they do become somewhat restless it is a wholesome exercise for them to spend an hour each week in the atmosphere of worship as a means of developing that innate sense of reverence which enters so largely into the building of strong and noble character.

Special announcement was made of the all day meeting of the Fragment society in the church parlors on Wednesday of this week to sew and knit for the needy Belgians, in which all the women of the parish are invited to take part.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

There was a large audience at the morning service at the Wollaston Baptist church. It was a most interesting and helpful sermon, the pastor Rev. Joseph Walther preached. The subject, "The Real King" was taken from Isaiah 44:6. Some of the things the pastor mentioned were, the Scripture reveals who is the real king. There were several men at one time or another who sat upon the throne and reigned, but back of these men, and beside these men, and above these men was the omnipotent and supreme God. There are many Scripture passages that bear out this statement. We not only have the statement in Scripture that God is the real king, but also the statement that God appoints kings under him, and where they refuse to do his will the kingdoms are taken from them and given to others. Psalm 75: 7 "He putteth down one and setteth up another as king." God sets the right example for his people. This other kings have not always done. Mention was made of several Kings in the old testament. As King, God's laws are always right. Other kings have not always made right laws. For instance, King George IV and his tea tax and others. As king God selects the best men possible for his servants. This was not true of other Kings. Sometimes God selects men of inferior gifts, because they see what God wants and submit to his will, and his wisdom. A large part of God's empire is unsympathic and rebellious. It was so in the olden times. It was so in Christ's time. It is so today. The conditions of affairs of the present time are not due to Gods injustice. As King, God would make his people unconquerable. Oh? let us be true subjects of the "Real King," God.

The organist Mrs. George Drew, being away on account of the illness of her father, the choir was accompanied by the piano. Miss Field gave a violin solo accompanied by Mrs. Walther as pianist.

Sunday School followed the morning service, with an attendance of 345, new members were added to the school. The Junior Endeavor meeting was in charge of Mrs. Joseph Walther; the subject was "A bible memory meeting."—Josh. 1: 8. The Y. P. S. C. E. was in charge of C. Percy Foss; subject: "Magnify the Christian Endeavor pledge."

At the evening service the pastor took the subject; "Israel's indebtedness to God." The chorus choir sang morning and evening.

Wednesday evening at 6.30, a hot roast beef supper will be served in the chapel. An entertainment will follow.

Thursday evening the women's Foreign Mission Society will hold a public meeting in connection with the regular meeting for praise, prayer and testimony in the chapel. Mrs. Tuxbury of Japan will speak, and there will be an offering for missions.

Friday evening, the Christian Endeavor Society will have charge of the meeting at Merrimac Mission, Boston. Members of the society and those wishing to attend will leave Wollaston station at 7.10.

QUINCY A. A. LOSES.

A field goal from the 30 yard line, by Hutchinson, quarter back of the Vernons, gave them victory over the strong Quincy A. A. at Stoughton Saturday. Three of the local boys, Gerstel, Dennehey and Woods. were not in the game. Boyle appeared for the first time this season. Webb, McDonald nearly succeeded in his attempt to tie the score, his drop falling just under the bar in the last period. The Quincy boys returned rather smashed up, McDonald being the worst with torn ligaments in each shoulder.

VARIETY STORE BURNED OUT

The alarm from Box 173 at 8.48 this morning was for a lively blaze in the variety store of Samuel Tower at 114 Sumner street. When the department arrived the interior of the store was blazing fiercely and before it was extinguished about all of the stock was either burned or soaked with water. Tower claims that he had stock to the value of $600 in the store, and he was insured for that amount.

The cause of the fire is unknown but Chief Billings says it looks a little suspicious and he will call it to the attention of an inspector from the Fire Marshals office who is coming to Quincy today.

ELM HILLS ARE VANQUISHED

Quincy High Has Picnic With "Prep" School Eleven

A team representing the Elm Hill prep school had a most unpleasant experience Saturday afternoon while Quincy High rolled up 40 points to their nothing at the Merrymount oval but if the score had been twice as large, and it could have been, the sympathies of none of the rooters would have been exerted in their direction.

The school team represented is considered more or less of a myth by men in close touch with scholastic affairs in Boston and vicinity and so was the team which was composed of some "ringers," all older and in most cases heavier than the local combination.

Quincy was billed to play English High of Boston but that game was cancelled owing to the sudden death of Paul West, full back on the latter eleven and somehow the Elm Hills, a familiar name because it reminds one of a flourishing milk farm in Roxbury, was secured as the attraction. But sad to say, the attraction was a mighty poor one.

Of course it was no surprise for the fans to see Bill Dacey of St. Alphonsus A. A., a man who has played basket ball here the past seven years, back in the football line of a prep school. No one thought anything of that for Bill always had the reputation of being in search of knowledge and then again the possibility always exists that a man, even though he is about 25 years old, may enter a prep school attended by junior juveniles.

And big Saeger, said to have nearly won the amateur heavyweight championship at Chicago two years ago was a guard. He, to the surprise of the crowd, lost his nanny only once but then he threatened to kill a couple officials.

Whelan, captain of the visiting "fakers," was escorted to the side lines by orders of the referee because he started to indulge in a little slug fest. He threatened to "get" Hamlin after the latter had carried the ball through the paper defense of the visitors, and Hamlin overheard him. The next rush gave Whelan the opportunity for Sanborn sent Hamlin around Whelans end. Whelan doubled his fists and started something but the boys pulled him out of danger. He then dropped below the goal and sipped a couple of "blood warmers."

Several other former second rate players of Boston college and English high of two to four years ago were in the line and the rest were probably legitimate out and out students but nobody believed it. All could have played star individual games but the little glooms stalked through their combinations and blocked their attempts.

Quincy high players had the time of their life for they played with snap and vim the greater part of the game. Crosscup scored twice, once after a 60 yard run. Sanborn found a hole and went over, Di Senso recovered a fumble in back of Elm Hills goal line for another score, Hamlin carried the ball over on an end run and Larkin crashed through on another plunge.

Quincy lost the ball on Elm Hills two yard line in the second period, and at times played listless football.

None of the Quincy boys were injured in the scrimmage but the visitors continually changed positions hoping all of the time that other fellows who had agreed to play would get through work in time to reach the field and jump into the many holes in their defense.

No real attempt was made to allay the suspicion of the fans who readily believed the bunch to be "ringers" and before midnight all of great Boston coaches and managers had learned of the frightful exhibition the team representing that school put up. The summary:

RIVERBANK CLUB RAIDED

The Riverbank club at East Braintree, formerly known as Cedarcrest Inn, was raided Saturday night by Chief Horace Hunt of Braintree with Officers Gallivan, Shay and Krohn of Braintree and Chief Crooker and Officer Nason of Holbrook. The raid was made about midnight Saturday.

Neil F. Sullivan, the alleged proprietor of the premises was placed under arrest for violation of the liquor law. The police seized 200 bottles of beer, 40 quarts of whiskey, 25 pints of champagne, 40 quarts of assorted wines and 40 quarts of other liquors and cordials.

It is alleged that the place has become the resort for sporting men and undesirable characters from Boston, and Chief Hunt has received many complaints.

BIG ORDER FOR TUBULAR RIVET

Goods May Be for One of European Powers at War

The Tubular Rivet & Stud Co., commenced Saturday to fill an order for 150 million long brass tubular rivets and 29 machines to rivet saddles. The order is one of the largest ever received by the plant. No time will be lost in filling the order, one of the departments which has been working on a five day schedule will resume its normal condition.

The origin of the order is unknown and so is its ultimate destination, but it is generally believed in business circles that it will turn out to be for one of the belligerent European nations.

Owing to the business depression prevalent throughout the country affairs have not been as active at the factory as they might be and the 500 hands employed there believe they are on the verge of a new boom.

MANY USE THE READING ROOM

Upwards of fifty took advantage of the opportunity to use the reading room at the Thomas Crane Public Library Sunday afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock the hours on which they were open to the public. Most of the readers came between 3 and 5 o'clock and the largest number reading at any time was 19. About half of the male readers were High school pupils and one of the girls was a High school pupil.

Most of the readers were those that regularly patronize the room on week days and evenings. It is believed however as it becomes better known that the library reading room is open Sunday afternoons it will be more largely taken advantage of, and that it will prove popular.

Miss White the librarian and Miss Packard were in charge and the first visitor was Sydney Crane, a former employee at the library.

PARK AND DOWNS CHURCH.

Rev. William B. Ayers at the Sunday morning service gave an exceedingly beneficial sermon to his hearers taking his text from Matthew 25:25, "And I was afraid and went and hid thy talent in the earth."

The speaker said that this man's sin was not his inactivity so much as it was his doubt. He doubted himself and his ability. He doubted the honesty and purpose of the one who had bestowed his talent upon him. Men need confidence in themselves if they are to do the things required of them. It is impossible to have confidence in oneself; and to maintain it under all conditions unless one believes in the God who gave them their gifts and capacities, and who calls them to the great task. The average man is a one-talented person. And the work of the world is to be done by such.

The great leaders in any branch of human achievement is seldom a man who by his own strength does the great thing. He usually possesses in large measure the capacity to inspire the one talented hosts to do for his sake the thing that they have not sufficient confidence to do for their own. Most of the world leaders started with one talent and it grew by employment until they became five and ten talent men. If a man looks upon Christ as the type of what he can become he will no longer hestitate to use his energies and his capacities for the best and the highest.

The speaker brought out a new and different thought from ones usual conception of the one talent, which was most pleasing.

The evening sermon was the ninth lecture on "Great religious Lessons from the war." Belgium was the country dealt with. The lecture was crammed with interesting and useful information and many a strong religious lesson was drawn from the history and development of the Belgian people. These lectures are a liberal education in history to any one who follows them. An hour could not be better spent. They reveal also the practical working out of Christianity among the peoples of the earth, and show how simple and how human the fundamental gospel message really is. The singing of the choir was of its usual high character. The rendering of "The Lost Chord" being exceedingly fine, as also the solos by Arthur F. Capen.

The Thursday evening midweek meetings are noted for their exceeding great helpfulness. The short talk by the pastor is an inspiring, uplifting message and of vital interest to all who attend.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The members of the Wollaston Unitarian church are longing for the day when the parish house is completed, inasmuch as then for the first time in the history of the church there will be a place for everything—a supper room for social gatherings, a hall for lectures and entertainments, a Sunday School room for the moral and religious instruction of the young and a church auditorium to be used for worship only.

Sunday evening the Y. P. R. U. held a largely attended meeting. B. Morris Hooper conducted the devotional service and Miss Edith Randall of Quincy gave the address of the evening. The Y. P. R. U. has a large membership and is enjoying a prosperous season under the leadership of its president Leon D. Browne and his efficient co-workers.

Sunday morning the pastor preached a helpful sermon upon "Doing good" from the text—"As we have opportunity let us do good," Galations 6:10. After calling attention to the fact that life is full of opportunities, and that we must prepare ourselves to be able to enter whenever the door of opportunity opens to us, Rev. Mr. Horst proceeded to show that it is within the reach of every one to do good and laid special emphasis upon doing good by our speech and by our life and character, for it is as true today as ever.

Thomas Barstow and Arvin Page, representing the young men of the church, are the workers for this month.

A number of new scholars have been added to our Sunday school roll.

The west wall of the church has been removed and a temporary partition put in its place.

The Sunday school will make its annual Thanksgiving offering of fruit, vegetables, jellies, etc., next Sunday morning.

The November meeting of the Unitarian Sunday School Union of Greater Boston will be held in Arlington Street church, Wednesday, Nov. 18. Supper at 6. Speaker Prof. Henry W. Holmes, subject "Efficient Teaching."

Walter M. Hatch was the story teller at the opening exercises of the Sunday School and held the closest attention of even the youngest of scholars.

Will the friends of the Wollaston Unitarian church, who desire to have notices read from the pulpit, please remember that it is not the policy of this church to have notices read. They should be sent to the editor of "The Dial."

WOLLASTON M. E.

Rev. George M. Bailey of the Wollaston Methodist Episcopal church took for his theme for the morning service "Death in Life." The text was "She that liveth in pleasure is dead while she liveth."

He said in substance:—All things have a purpose in living. Creation was not a pastime with the Almighty but a serious business and none of those things which he has created are entirely self-centered. The grass, the birds, the beasts all conform to the law of God, namely that everything has a purpose.

Those who seek only their own pleasure are seeking to live the self-centered existance which is contrary to the law of life. Hence the text, "She that liveth in pleasure is dead while she liveth." The true end and aim of life is service. Someone has described sin as the failure to hit the bull's eye. Service is the bull's eye of life.

Alexander the Great and Cleopatra are historical examples of those who are dead while they live but for each examples that stand out in history there are thousands of people who are dead to the world's needs, its sorrows, its realities, its moral obligations. Man records the death of the body, God records the death of the ideal in man.

The business of life is service. Christ said "I came not to be ministered unto but to minister." Therefore the truest pleasure for the follower of Christ should be in serving. If this church is not a church which does that then the community does not need it and would be better without it.

ATLANTIC METHODIST.

The pastor preached in the morning from the text found in Matt. 3:11—"I indeed baptize you with water unto repentance: but He that cometh after me is mightier than I whose shoes I am not worthy to bear: He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire." The speakers theme was the Double Baptism. Two baptisms are mentioned—one of water, the other of the Holy Spirit. Two baptizers, John and Christ. Two elements used, water and the Holy spirit.

Water baptism is of man—the spirit's baptism is of God. One is preparatory to the other. Water baptism is the door into the visible church. There is a similarity in the modes of the two baptisms,—The Holy Spirit is poured out upon people, so may water baptism be ministered, sprinkling, pouring, or immersion of water may constitute water baptism. Who may be baptized? Surely children and believing adults, for only those who are in the kingdom may receive the gift of the Holy Spirit or the Spiritual Baptism, only those who meet the requirements and are born into the kingdom of grace. Water baptism is but preparatory for the spiritual. It is a confession of our need of the spiritual or if converted, a sign of an inward work of grace.

Jesus commands water baptism, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature, he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved. Water baptism is not a regenerating ordinance. It can not of itself save the soul. No rite that man may administer can do this. No church can give Holy Unctions. This is the prerogative of the Holy Ghost alone. Do not pin your faith to what man may do, what any church may profess to do. Only God himself can change the heart of man. The Holy spirit is one of the three persons of the Godhead; equal with the father and the son in creation and redemption. It is the Holy spirit that inspires, awakens, and quickens the dead. Our hope of a temporal and spiritual resurrection hinges upon it.

The evening sermon was on the fulfillment of the promises of a Holy Spirit as man's comforter, that the great need of today is more dependeace upon the Holy Spirit as our guide and comforter.

SPIRITUALIST CHURCH.

The Sunday meetings were well attended. Dr. H. L. Clough addressed the audience at 2.30 on "The time of trouble," and at 7.00 on "When the call comes." The lectures were characteristic of the present times and the personal judgment of God.

Tuesday Dr. Clough will hold circle meetings at 3.00 and 7.30 P. M. at the home of Mrs. S. V. Odiornes, 8 Mechanics street. All welcome.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by Charles F. Pettengill of said Quincy who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond; You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Dedham in said County of Norfolk, on the eighteenth day of November A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted. And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this second day of November in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

Allies Drive Germans From Both Banks of Yser Canal

CARNAGE HAS BEEN HEAVY

Part of Bank Previously Held by Enemy Completely Evacuated—Active Hostilities Prevented at Some Points Because of Terrible Weather, Which Causes Much Sickness—Russia's New Campaign Plans to Carry Czar's Army Into Heart of Germany—Indian Troops Defeat Turks—Turks Report Defeat of Russians

London, Nov. 16.—There are no more Germans left on either bank of the Yser canal, the little waterway which they have been vainly trying to cross in force for four weeks. Sunday, according to the French war ministry's official statement, the allies succeeded in driving the enemy back from the east bank of the stream, and at the same time it is announced that all the positions which the Germans had succeeded in gaining at awful loss on the opposite side have been evacuated by them.

This would seem to imply an official confirmation of the news to the effect that the enemy had retreated from hard-won Dixmude, inasmuch as this town was the chief position they had attained on the right bank of the canal.

No details of this important movement by the allies are yet available, but it is unofficially stated that the force of Germans driven back comprised 5000 men. This would indicate that, as before hinted, the Germans have been shifting large bodies of men from behind Dixmude in order to give greater strength to the smashing attacks now being made further south at Ypres.

Day of Furious Battling

There was furious battling all day Sunday in the wooded region around Ypres, and the German losses are reported as fearful. Attempt after attempt was made to storm the allies' lines, and in every instance the oncoming masses of Germans were first checked, then hurled back to their original lines, leaving hundreds of dead and wounded behind them. There can be little doubt that the allies also suffered severely.

It is at this point that the British and French touch shoulders in defending the cornerstone of their northern line, and it is here that Germany's finest troops, the Prussian Guard, have been driven furiously against them day after day.

A severe November rain, driven by gales of wind, swept over the trenches along all parts of the line, and not only added to the discomfort of the troops but prevented active hostilities at most points. The ditches are flooded and the men are forced constantly to stand in the water.

Troops Suffer From Colds

On the German side of the line it is reported that many soldiers suffer from severe colds, which frequently develop into pneumonia. There is no place in which those who are ill can be cared for immediately, since the villages in this vicinity have been destroyed, and the nearest hospitals, which are in Ghent and Bruges, are already overcrowded. The exhaustion of the troops fighting under these conditions is given as one reason for the temporary slackening of the German offensive.

That the Germans have full realization of the failure of their campaign to reach the coast opposite England is shown by extensive preparations they are making to spend the winter in over-run Belgium. Immense quantities of cold weather clothing and other supplies have been poured into Brussels, Antwerp and Ostend. The whole nation north of the immediate battle line has been turned into a fortress. The coast from Ostend to the Dutch border has been placed in a state of defense, and civilians are rigorously excluded from that area.

Little News From the East

There is a scarcity of news from the Russian fighting front, but it is recognized that a severe struggle is now impending as the first stage of a new campaign which is intended to carry the czar's armies into the heart of Germany. Dispatches received in London indicate that the Germans are now retiring on the southern part of the long front to the west bank of the river Ode, to hold a line running through Cracow, Oppeln and Breslau.

From Breslau the front will take a northeasterly direction as far as Thorn. The German armies in East Prussia will, in all likelihood, move westward to join forces with the troops in the vicinity of Thorn. Thus the Germans, if these tactics can be successfully executed, expect to present once more an unbroken front supported by powerful fortresses against the advancing Russians.

Indians Fighting Turks

The first indication that native Indian troops are being employed against the Turks is contained in a British admiralty statement. This announces that Indian troops have seized the Turkish forts at Turba at the strait of Bab-el-Mendeb, being assisted by the cruiser Duke of Edinburgh. It is presumed that a landing party from the warship aided the natives in carrying the place by assault after it had been bombarded by the cruiser's guns. The admiralty also announces the success of operations against the Turkish garrison of Sheikh-Said, also on the strait of Bal-el-Mendeb at the entrance of the Gulf of Aden.

In another section of the Turkish war advices from Constantinople it says that Turkish troops have occupied Kotur, a town of 8000 population in the Persian province of Azerbaijan, after a defeat of the Russian troops that had held the place. It is added, from the same source, that British troops have landed near Fao, on the coast of the province of Basra in the Persian gulf, losing sixty men during the movement. A battle of importance is now going on between Russians and Turks at Koprukeul, in the Caucasus.

From Vienna it is officially announced that Austrian troops which were invading Servia have met with severe resistance at Valjevo, which they have not yet succeeded in overcoming.

KAISER IN ALSACE

French Airship Near His Headquarters Cause Some Anxiety

Emperor William, accompanied by his staff, returned to Kolmar, forty miles southwest of Strassburg, his starting point at the commencement of the war, according to a dispatch from Basel. The dispatch says the emperor appeared to be anxious and taciturn.

As an indication that care is being exercised to ward off possible attacks from hostile aircraft, two powerful German aeroplanes are constantly in flight over the emperor's headquarters.

Three French aeroplanes flew across Alsace and returned to French territory, after having caused all the garrisons to remain alert with their machine guns throughout the day.

It is reported from Basel that private peace committees are being formed in southern Germany with the connivance of the authorities to start unofficially a peace propaganda.

FIGHT TO A FINISH

Czar Says War Will Not End Until German Resistance Is Crushed

The municipality of Moscow having expressed to the emperor sentiments of fidelity and devotion on the occasion of the war with Turkey, the emperor thanked the people of the ancient capital.

He declared they must believe that Russia would not terminate the war until the resistance of the enemy had been definitely crushed and the problems which had been left by their ancestors had been solved.

HITS AT FOOTBALL

British War Office Thinks Professionals Should Join Army

Followers of professional football in England, who are numbered by hundreds of thousands, are greatly agitated over a statement issued by Under Secretary of War Tennant relative to the attitude of the military authorities toward this sport.

"Asked whether football should be played in time of war," said the statement, "Tennant replied that the military authorities have no objection to the game as an occasional recreation, but professional football is not within that category, and it is more desirable that professional football players should find employment in his majesty's forces."

The secretary of the football association declared that the stopping of the game would mean a loss to Worcester of $10,000,000 yearly. About 2000 professional players make their living from the game.

TURKEY'S PART IN WAR

Constantinople Claims It Was Brought About by Great Britain

Great Britain is blamed by the Turkish government for forcing the Ottoman empire into the war. The government, in a statement issued through Rome, asserts that England tried in every way to wreck Turkey, and that in defense Turkey has been compelled to defend herself.

England, in protesting against the taking by Turkey of the German cruisers, the Goeben and the Breslau, fails to make mention of the fact that she herself siezed two Turkish battleships which were building in England at the outset of the war, the statement asserts.

It is the contention of the government that England had no right to seize these warships from a neutral power, such as Turkey was at the time.

COURT DENIES APPEAL

Frank Loses In Effort to Have His Death Sentence Annulled

Atlanta, Nov. 16.—Annulment of Leo M. Frank's death sentence for the murder of 14-year-old Mary Phagan was refused by the Georgia supreme court.

It was the sixth time legal efforts in Frank's behalf had failed and hope of saving the life of Frank now rests in a possible appeal to the supreme court of the United States, or on a plea for executive clemency. His counsel said a supreme court appeal would be filed immediately.

The motion to set aside the verdict was based on the ground that Frank's absence from the courtroom when it was returned was a violation of his constitutional rights. It was suggested by the trial judge, who said he feared a demonstration, that Frank absent himself.

Counsel for Frank, with one exception, and the state's attorneys agreed to the absence. The prisoner's attorneys, however, said Frank himself knew nothing of the plan.

MILDRED SULLIVAN DEATH PROBE TODAY

Jury Will Take Evidence of at Least Fifty Persons

Houlton, Me., Nov. 16.—The grand jury will begin its hearing into the death of Mildred Sullivan today. It is expected, according to the county authorities, that more arrests will be made.

There will be at least fifty witnesses heard by the jury, and among these will be Dr. Dudley, Kate Michaud and the Pelletier sisters. The attempt is to be made to make the case a prima facie one.

Great excitement prevails in Aroostook county as the investigation progresses. The death of "Aroostook's prettiest girl" is being discussed by all. It is rumored that the dictagraph placed in the home of the Pelletiers aided in bringing about the confession of Kate Michaud.

IN TEMPORARY GRAVE

Body of Preece Is Buried by Officials of Maine Town

South Paris, Me., Nov. 16.—Prayers were said by Rev. C. G. Miller, pastor of the Universalist church, at the undertaking rooms over the body of Thomas E. Preece, the victim of the murder at Sumner.

The body was buried here, pending the decision of the Sumner town officials whether to forward it to Mrs. John Brincombe of Taunton, Mass., one of Preece's sisters, or accept the offer of Mrs. Annie Frye, to whom Preece was to have been married, to bury it at Paris Hill.

Newlands' Close Shave

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

The Neighborhood Club gave their annual reception and dance Nov. 13, to their friends, at Ellsworth hall. About 200 people attended the party and about 60 couples were dancing. Music was rendered by the Hayes' orchestra of Dorchester. In the receiving line were Mrs. Carlton A. Rowe, Mrs. Benjamin Fuller, Mrs. William D. Parsons, Mrs. Samuel D. Kirkland, Mrs. Lewis Harlow and Mrs. Charles Hoxie. The ushers were Mrs. Howard P. Knox, Mrs. Walter M. Fish, Miss Elizabeth Hill, Miss Rachael Shapleigh, Mrs. Parker. Dance orders were distributed by the Misses Marion Hathaway and Edith Stocker. Dancing commenced about 9.30. The dances were the waltz German, two step, waltz, schottische, Portland fancy, duchess and Virginia reel. During the intermission ice cream and cake were served. The hall was artistically decorated with American flags and bunting. The great success of the affair was due to the untiring efforts of Mrs. Benjamin Fuller, who had full charge of the evening. The general committee included Mrs. Howard P. Knox and Mrs. George Williams. The decorations were arranged by Mrs. William Doherty, Mrs. Arthur W. Clark and Mrs. Walter M. Fish. The refreshment committee included Mrs. Henry H. Barnes, Miss Buck and Mrs. George Hathaway.

A large crowd attended the food sale given Saturday afternoon in the basement of the East Congregational church by the Kings Daughters circle. In all about $60 was netted from the sale. The basement was prettily decorated with purple decorations. Mrs. A. A. Brackett, president of the circle, had full charge of the sale.

The following had charge of the various tables:

Fancy and apron—Mrs. George Mayo, Mrs. Olaf Olsen, Mrs. David W. Bearse and Mrs. William Eaton.

Candy—Miss Alma Lowe, Miss Helen Jackson and Miss Flora Thrasher.

Food—Miss Jennie Farrel, Mrs. Ralph P. Preble, Mrs. C. E. Snow, and Mrs. Edmund Carlton.

Bread and pies—Mrs. W. Q. Baxter and Mrs. William D. Parsons.

Ice cream—Sumner Parsons and Miss Edna Mayo.

Cocoa was served by Miss Helen Jackson assisted by the Misses Elizabeth Eaton and Ethel Mayo.

The Men's Club of the East Congregational church are very fortunate in procuring Rev. Dr. Donald Mac Sayden of London to lecture next Wednesday evening at the church. His subject will be: "Belgian Relief—the finest expression of modern humanism."

Miss Eleanor Claire of Framingham Normal School spent the week end at her home on Huntington Road.

At the First Baptist church Sunday morning the postor Rev. J. Hamilton Woodsum preached on "Consecration." The Sunday School and Woodsum Class met at 12. M. The subject of the C. E. Society meeting was "Magnifying the C. E. pledge." In the evening the pastor preached on: "Great Provocation." At the morning and evening services music was rendered by a choir composed of Miss Alice Beattie, Miss Marion Nielson, Miss Marion C. Johnson, Miss Agnes Mac Andrews, James L. Lewis and James H. Leatherbee.

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Quincy readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. What other remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit?

Richard W. Smith, painter, 14 Blake St., Wollaston, Mass., says: "I suffered from a painful back and kidney trouble for a long time. I was so stiff on damp and rainy mornings that it was some time before I got limbered up enough to dress myself. I had a dull, heavy pain through the small of my back. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills fixed me up all right. I have used this remedy off and on since whenever I have needed a kidney tonic. Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to put me in good shape. In my present work, painting, I find Doan's Kidney Pills to be just the medicine I need for keeping my kidneys in good working order. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills before and am glad to do so again."

Allies Drive Germans From Both Banks of Yser Canal

CARNAGE HAS BEEN HEAVY

Part of Bank Previously Held by Enemy Completely Evacuated—Active Hostilities Prevented at Some Points Because of Terrible Weather, Which Causes Much Sickness—Russia's New Campaign Plans to Carry Czar's Army Into Heart of Germany—Indian Troops Defeat Turks—Turks Report Defeat of Russians

London, Nov. 16.—There are no more Germans left on either bank of the Yser canal, the little waterway which they have been vainly trying to cross in force for four weeks. Sunday, according to the French war ministry's official statement, the allies succeeded in driving the enemy back from the east bank of the stream, and at the same time it is announced that all the positions which the Germans had succeeded in gaining at awful loss on the opposite side have been evacuated by them.

This would seem to imply an official confirmation of the news to the effect that the enemy had retreated from hard-won Dixmude, inasmuch as this town was the chief position they had attained on the right bank of the canal.

No details of this important movement by the allies are yet available, but it is unofficially stated that the force of Germans driven back comprised 5000 men. This would indicate that, as before hinted, the Germans have been shifting large bodies of men from behind Dixmude in order to give greater strength to the smashing attacks now being made further south at Ypres.

Day of Furious Battling

There was furious battling all day Sunday in the wooded region around Ypres, and the German losses are reported as fearful. Attempt after attempt was made to storm the allies' lines, and in every instance the oncoming masses of Germans were first checked, then hurled back to their original lines, leaving hundreds of dead and wounded behind them. There can be little doubt that the allies also suffered severely.

It is at this point that the British and French touch shoulders in defending the cornerstone of their northern line, and it is here that Germany's finest troops, the Prussian Guard, have been driven furiously against them day after day.

A severe November rain, driven by gales of wind, swept over the trenches along all parts of the line, and not only added to the discomfort of the troops but prevented active hostilities at most points. The ditches are flooded and the men are forced constantly to stand in the water.

Troops Suffer From Colds

On the German side of the line it is reported that many soldiers suffer from severe colds, which frequently develop into pneumonia. There is no place in which those who are ill can be cared for immediately, since the villages in this vicinity have been destroyed, and the nearest hospitals, which are in Ghent and Bruges, are already overcrowded. The exhaustion of the troops fighting under these conditions is given as one reason for the temporary slackening of the German offensive.

That the Germans have full realization of the failure of their campaign to reach the coast opposite England is shown by extensive preparations they are making to spend the winter in over-run Belgium. Immense quantities of cold weather clothing and other supplies have been poured into Brussels, Antwerp and Ostend. The whole nation north of the immediate battle line has been turned into a fortress. The coast from Ostend to the Dutch border has been placed in a state of defense, and civilians are rigorously excluded from that area.

Little News From the East

There is a scarcity of news from the Russian fighting front, but it is recognized that a severe struggle is now impending as the first stage of a new campaign which is intended to carry the czar's armies into the heart of Germany. Dispatches received in London indicate that the Germans are now retiring on the southern part of the long front to the west bank of the river Ode, to hold a line running through Cracow, Oppeln and Breslau.

From Breslau the front will take a northeasterly direction as far as Thorn. The German armies in East Prussia will, in all likelihood, move westward to join forces with the troops in the vicinity of Thorn. Thus the Germans, if these tactics can be successfully executed, expect to present once more an unbroken front supported by powerful fortresses against the advancing Russians.

Indians Fighting Turks

The first indication that native Indian troops are being employed against the Turks is contained in a British admiralty statement. This announces that Indian troops have seized the Turkish forts at Turba at the strait of Bab-el-Mendeb, being assisted by the cruiser Duke of Edinburgh. It is presumed that a landing party from the warship aided the natives in carrying the place by assault after it had been bombarded by the cruiser's guns. The admiralty also announces the success of operations against the Turkish garrison of Sheikh-Said, also on the strait of Bal-el-Mendeb at the entrance of the Gulf of Aden.

In another section of the Turkish war advices from Constantinople it says that Turkish troops have occupied Kotur, a town of 8000 population in the Persian province of Azerbaijan, after a defeat of the Russian troops that had held the place. It is added, from the same source, that British troops have landed near Fao, on the coast of the province of Basra in the Persian gulf, losing sixty men during the movement. A battle of importance is now going on between Russians and Turks at Koprukeul, in the Caucasus.

From Vienna it is officially announced that Austrian troops which were invading Servia have met with severe resistance at Valjevo, which they have not yet succeeded in overcoming.

KAISER IN ALSACE

French Airship Near His Headquarters Cause Some Anxiety

Emperor William, accompanied by his staff, returned to Kolmar, forty miles southwest of Strassburg, his starting point at the commencement of the war, according to a dispatch from Basel. The dispatch says the emperor appeared to be anxious and taciturn.

As an indication that care is being exercised to ward off possible attacks from hostile aircraft, two powerful German aeroplanes are constantly in flight over the emperor's headquarters.

Three French aeroplanes flew across Alsace and returned to French territory, after having caused all the garrisons to remain alert with their machine guns throughout the day.

It is reported from Basel that private peace committees are being formed in southern Germany with the connivance of the authorities to start unofficially a peace propaganda.

FIGHT TO A FINISH

Czar Says War Will Not End Until German Resistance Is Crushed

The municipality of Moscow having expressed to the emperor sentiments of fidelity and devotion on the occasion of the war with Turkey, the emperor thanked the people of the ancient capital.

He declared they must believe that Russia would not terminate the war until the resistance of the enemy had been definitely crushed and the problems which had been left by their ancestors had been solved.

HITS AT FOOTBALL

British War Office Thinks Professionals Should Join Army

Followers of professional football in England, who are numbered by hundreds of thousands, are greatly agitated over a statement issued by Under Secretary of War Tennant relative to the attitude of the military authorities toward this sport.

"Asked whether football should be played in time of war," said the statement, "Tennant replied that the military authorities have no objection to the game as an occasional recreation, but professional football is not within that category, and it is more desirable that professional football players should find employment in his majesty's forces."

The secretary of the football association declared that the stopping of the game would mean a loss to Worcester of $10,000,000 yearly. About 2000 professional players make their living from the game.

TURKEY'S PART IN WAR

Constantinople Claims It Was Brought About by Great Britain

Great Britain is blamed by the Turkish government for forcing the Ottoman empire into the war. The government, in a statement issued through Rome, asserts that England tried in every way to wreck Turkey, and that in defense Turkey has been compelled to defend herself.

England, in protesting against the taking by Turkey of the German cruisers, the Goeben and the Breslau, fails to make mention of the fact that she herself siezed two Turkish battleships which were building in England at the outset of the war, the statement asserts.

It is the contention of the government that England had no right to seize these warships from a neutral power, such as Turkey was at the time.

COURT DENIES APPEAL

Frank Loses In Effort to Have His Death Sentence Annulled

Atlanta, Nov. 16.—Annulment of Leo M. Frank's death sentence for the murder of 14-year-old Mary Phagan was refused by the Georgia supreme court.

It was the sixth time legal efforts in Frank's behalf had failed and hope of saving the life of Frank now rests in a possible appeal to the supreme court of the United States, or on a plea for executive clemency. His counsel said a supreme court appeal would be filed immediately.

The motion to set aside the verdict was based on the ground that Frank's absence from the courtroom when it was returned was a violation of his constitutional rights. It was suggested by the trial judge, who said he feared a demonstration, that Frank absent himself.

Counsel for Frank, with one exception, and the state's attorneys agreed to the absence. The prisoner's attorneys, however, said Frank himself knew nothing of the plan.

MILDRED SULLIVAN DEATH PROBE TODAY

Jury Will Take Evidence of at Least Fifty Persons

Houlton, Me., Nov. 16.—The grand jury will begin its hearing into the death of Mildred Sullivan today. It is expected, according to the county authorities, that more arrests will be made.

There will be at least fifty witnesses heard by the jury, and among these will be Dr. Dudley, Kate Michaud and the Pelletier sisters. The attempt is to be made to make the case a prima facie one.

Great excitement prevails in Aroostook county as the investigation progresses. The death of "Aroostook's prettiest girl" is being discussed by all. It is rumored that the dictagraph placed in the home of the Pelletiers aided in bringing about the confession of Kate Michaud.

IN TEMPORARY GRAVE

Body of Preece Is Buried by Officials of Maine Town

South Paris, Me., Nov. 16.—Prayers were said by Rev. C. G. Miller, pastor of the Universalist church, at the undertaking rooms over the body of Thomas E. Preece, the victim of the murder at Sumner.

The body was buried here, pending the decision of the Sumner town officials whether to forward it to Mrs. John Brincombe of Taunton, Mass., one of Preece's sisters, or accept the offer of Mrs. Annie Frye, to whom Preece was to have been married, to bury it at Paris Hill.

Newlands' Close Shave

Carson City, Nev., Nov. 16.—Francis G. Newlands, Democrat, was re-elected United States senator on Nov. 3, over Samuel Platt, Republican, by a plurality of thirty-eight votes, according to the result of the official canvass.

Nine Thousand Pheasants Slain

Boston, Nov. 16.—More than 9000 pheasants were slaughtered in Massachusetts during the open season which began Oct. 12, according to the latest estimate of the fish and game commission.

To Fill Gaps In Canada's Army

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—The Princess Patricia light infantry of the Canadian force has suffered heavy casualties for it has been decided to send 500 men direct to this regiment to fill up gaps.

Five Sailors and Ship Lost

Halifax, Nov. 16.—The British schooner St. Anthony was dashed to pieces in a gale off the Nova Scotia coast. Captain Gates and four members of the crew perished.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

The Neighborhood Club gave their annual reception and dance Nov. 13, to their friends, at Ellsworth hall. About 200 people attended the party and about 60 couples were dancing. Music was rendered by the Hayes' orchestra of Dorchester. In the receiving line were Mrs. Carlton A. Rowe, Mrs. Benjamin Fuller, Mrs. William D. Parsons, Mrs. Samuel D. Kirkland, Mrs. Lewis Harlow and Mrs. Charles Hoxie. The ushers were Mrs. Howard P. Knox, Mrs. Walter M. Fish, Miss Elizabeth Hill, Miss Rachael Shapleigh, Mrs. Parker. Dance orders were distributed by the Misses Marion Hathaway and Edith Stocker. Dancing commenced about 9.30. The dances were the waltz German, two step, waltz, schottische, Portland fancy, duchess and Virginia reel. During the intermission ice cream and cake were served. The hall was artistically decorated with American flags and bunting. The great success of the affair was due to the untiring efforts of Mrs. Benjamin Fuller, who had full charge of the evening. The general committee included Mrs. Howard P. Knox and Mrs. George Williams. The decorations were arranged by Mrs. William Doherty, Mrs. Arthur W. Clark and Mrs. Walter M. Fish. The refreshment committee included Mrs. Henry H. Barnes, Miss Buck and Mrs. George Hathaway.

A large crowd attended the food sale given Saturday afternoon in the basement of the East Congregational church by the Kings Daughters circle. In all about $60 was netted from the sale. The basement was prettily decorated with purple decorations. Mrs. A. A. Brackett, president of the circle, had full charge of the sale.

The following had charge of the various tables:

Fancy and apron—Mrs. George Mayo, Mrs. Olaf Olsen, Mrs. David W. Bearse and Mrs. William Eaton.

Candy—Miss Alma Lowe, Miss Helen Jackson and Miss Flora Thrasher.

Food—Miss Jennie Farrel, Mrs. Ralph P. Preble, Mrs. C. E. Snow, and Mrs. Edmund Carlton.

Bread and pies—Mrs. W. Q. Baxter and Mrs. William D. Parsons.

Ice cream—Sumner Parsons and Miss Edna Mayo.

Cocoa was served by Miss Helen Jackson assisted by the Misses Elizabeth Eaton and Ethel Mayo.

The Men's Club of the East Congregational church are very fortunate in procuring Rev. Dr. Donald Mac Sayden of London to lecture next Wednesday evening at the church. His subject will be: "Belgian Relief—the finest expression of modern humanism."

Miss Eleanor Claire of Framingham Normal School spent the week end at her home on Huntington Road.

At the First Baptist church Sunday morning the postor Rev. J. Hamilton Woodsum preached on "Consecration." The Sunday School and Woodsum Class met at 12 M. The subject of the C. E. Society meeting was "Magnifying the C. E. pledge." In the evening the pastor preached on: "Great Provocation." At the morning and evening services music was rendered by a choir composed of Miss Alice Beattie, Miss Marion Nielson, Miss Marion C. Johnson, Miss Agnes Mac Andrews, James L. Lewis and James H. Leatherbee.

Tested and Proven

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Quincy readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. What other remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit?

Richard W. Smith, painter, 14 Blake St., Wollaston, Mass., says: "I suffered from a painful back and kidney trouble for a long time. I was so stiff on damp and rainy mornings that it was some time before I got limbered up enough to dress myself. I had a dull, heavy pain through the small of my back. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills fixed me up all right. I have used this remedy off and on since whenever I have needed a kidney tonic. Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to put me in good shape. In my present work, painting, I find Doan's Kidney Pills to be just the medicine I need for keeping my kidneys in good working order. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills before and am glad to do so again."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Smith had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

POWDER FOR RIVADAVIA

The fifteen carloads of powder, destined for the Argentine battleship, Rivadavia which has been lying at the Charlestown navy yard, will be stowed aboard the ship in a few days. The powder arrived by rail from New Jersey to the magazine at Hingham, and after inspection by Federal officers was taken aboard lighters for the Rivadavia.

It is expected that the Rivadavia will be ready for sea by the first of January at which time she will leave Boston for South America.

The Moreno, the sister ship of the Rivadavia has also arrived in Boston harbor from Rockland, Me., where she has been having her builders' trials.

REPUBLICANS ARE WANTED

Campbell Forces Move to Republican Headquarters

The Campbell Campaign Committee welcomed a delegation from the Republican City Committee at their headquarters on Saturday evening, and unanimously accepted their invitation to move the Campbell headquarters to the rooms of the Republican Committee on Temple street They immediately put the vote into execution, and marched to headquarters. Good feeling prevailed and all will co-operate.

MRS. BRIDGET KING.

The funeral of Bridget, widow of the late Patrick King, held Sunday afternoon, from her late home on California avenue was one of the largest ever held south of Boston and was an eloquent tribute to the deceased who was one of the most respected residents of the ward. The long line contained fully 600 and as the casket was carried into St. Mary's church where services were held, the last couple passed the West Quincy depot.

Services were conducted by Rev. Fr. Thomas R. McCoy and the musical portion was by the regular choir. This morning he celebrated a mass for the repose of her soul which was attended by members of the family and friends.

Among those present at the funeral were delegations from St. Francis court, M. C. O. F. and St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. Society with which her sons have been active members.

The burial was in St. Mary's cemetery where the floral remembrances completely hid the grave. The bearers were John C. Ballou, James McGilvray, Ernest Bizzozero, Michael Kelley, William Joyce, Michael Arnold.

The floral remembrances were from the Eastern Advertising Agency, of which John J. King, a son, is the New England manager; Ave Maria council Knights of Columbus, employees of G. F. Goodrich Co.; wreaths from Samoset Girls' Club, F. M. Tucker. J. H. Connor; Mr. and Mrs. James Knight and family, Arthur Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Moore and family; sprays from Mr. and Mrs. W. L. MYSTERY AS TO DREADNOUGHT

Audacious Reported Sunk Off North Coast of Ireland

STRUCK BY MINE OR TORPEDO

Stories Corroborated by Photographs Denied by Surgeon of Steamship Olympic, Which Is Said to Have Rescued Survivors—Others Under Obligation Not to Discuss Subject

New York, Nov. 16.—Flat contradiction of the sinking of the great British super-dreadnought Audacious off the north coast of Ireland is made by Dr. Beaumont, surgeon on the Olympic, which is reported to have rescued the survivors of the disaster.

On the other hand, two members of the orchestra of the Olympic, the only other persons aboard the steamship at the time of the reported rescue who have yet reached New York, decline either to confirm or deny the published stories.

"We are under solemn obligation to the British government not to discuss the subject," was all that could be obtained from the men. They are J. R. Beames and H. Griffiths.

Reports that a British dreadnought had been sunk off the north coast of Ireland Oct. 27, and that the Olympic was standing by to rescue survivors, reached America about a week ago. On Saturday, mail dispatches to news bureaus described the sinking of the Audacious in much detail.

With the dispatches came photographs showing the Audacious half submerged and the members of her crew awaiting rescue on the forward deck. Beaumont, however, asserts positively that the Olympic made no rescue of any kind on her voyage from New York to Lough Swilly, where her passengers were landed.

According to the press dispatches, the Audacious was struck by a mine or torpedo about twenty-five miles from the Irish coast and summoned aid by wireless. The Olympic rushed to the rescue and arrived in time to save all but one or two of the 800 men aboard the super-dreadnought.

The sinking of the ship is said to have taken place on the morning of Oct. 27, just before 9 o'clock. The Olympic was ten miles away at the time, but managed to get off all but 100 men before noon. The Audacious settled at the stern and remained afloat so long that the officers and the last few enlisted men did not decide to abandon her until the late afternoon.

Such is the version of the disaster that has come to American news bureaus from London. The only information as to the source of the dispatches is that they come from a correspondent in the north of Ireland.

It can readily be understood how it would be necessary to send the news by mail, for the British government exercises censorship over all cable messages. One explanation offered for the disinclination of the admiralty to make the sinking of the Audacious known was that it hoped to raise the vessel before the news leaked out; but latest dispatches indicate that it will not be possible to raise it.

The story told by Beaumont contradicts absolutely the reports received by mail. He was the first person to leave the Olympic at Lough Swilly, but he did not go ashore until Oct. 28. The other passengers were landed Nov. 2, except for Charles M. Schwab, who did not leave the Olympic until after Beaumont had done so.

Beaumont says that the Olympic put into Lough Swilly because it had received warnings that mines were laid along its course.

Newspaper men in London have been unable to gain any information from Olympic passengers who have landed there. Some of the passengers actually denied having been aboard the liner. Whenever the suggestion was made that the Olympic had rescued survivors from a battleship the passengers seemed decidedly shy.

BOER REVOLT BROKEN

Botha Reports Defeat of South African Rebels Under De Wet

London, Nov. 16.—The war office is confident that the revolt in South Africa led by General De Wet is practically broken.

The war bureau made public a report received from General Botha dealing with the fighting in which De Wet was defeated. The loyalist troops lost six killed and twenty wounded.

Of the rebels twenty-two were killed and many wounded. Botha reported that 200 prisoners were taken and two camps were surrounded and captured.

Scott Made Chief of Staff

Washington, Nov. 16.—Brigadier General Scott was selected by President Wilson to be chief of staff of the army upon the retirement today of Major General Wotherspoon. The vacancy of major general will be filled by Brigadier General Funston.

Princeton Beaten by Yale

Princeton, N. J. Nov. 16.—The Yale-Princeton game in the new Palmer Stadium was easily the most interesting of the more important games of the year. The score was Yale 19, Princeton 14.

WALL STILL A CANDIDATE

Editor Daily Ledger:

In your issue of Saturday, November 14, there appeared an article stating in substance that James E. Wall and Edward J. Fegan might consolidate forces in the coming City election. This statement is absolutely without foundation, as no such agreement has been made or contemplated. Mr. Wall will be a candidate for Mayor at the City election on December 1st, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. In justice to Mr. Wall and the Taxpayers Association, I request you to correct in your paper the statement previously published.

Yours very truly,
Arthur L. Thomas.

MRS. JAMES EDWARDS.

Mrs. Sarah E. N. Edwards, widow of James Edwards passed away Sunday morning at her home on School street after a brief illness, in her 79th year. Although able to be up and walk about her home Mrs. Edwards has not enjoyed the best of health for some months. It was last June when she accidentally fell fracturing her hip. She had however practically recovered from this accident and as noted was able to walk about her home, up to ten days ago since which time her health has failed rapidly.

She had long been identified with the First Parish church and had always taken a deep interest in its welfare. Although not often seen at social functions she enjoyed a large circle of friends, and took great delight in automobiling about the country.

She was a sister of the late Lewis Bass. She leaves four sons, Henry, James L., William and Warren. Funeral services will be private.

German Soldiers Resting on Way to Flanders Battle Front After the Capture of Antwerp.

This picture shows a company of German infantry resting by the road on the way from Antwerp to the Flanders battle front. They are taking their time because there was then no desperate need for re-enforcements at the front, as was the case later. Notice their company cook wagon. German soldiers do not often go hungry.

RALLIES MOST EVERY NIGHT

Republicans to Conduct Strenuous Campaign

Even though it is generally conceeded that Chester I. Campbell, the Republican candidate for Mayor, will be elected by a majority vote over Fegan, Powers and Wall, yet the Quincy Business Administration Committee and the Republican City committee who have joined forces will make a strenuous campaign from now until election day as they hope to sweep the entire municipal ticket in with the wave that will carry Mr. Campbell into the Mayor's chair.

The opening gun in the campaign will be fired tomorrow evening in Quincy Adams hall, Franklin street, South Quincy. Mr. Campbell will be one of the speakers. Every faction in the recent battle for the Republican Mayoralty nomination will be represented. The candidates for the City Council and School Committee in that district will also speak.

Tonight at the rooms of the Republican City Committee there will be a joint meeting of this organization and the Quincy Business Administration Committee to perfect arrangements for rallies and other campaign details.

The majority of both committees are satisfied that Candidate Campbell could rest on his oars and be elected, but Mr. Campbell insisted that a strenuous campaign be conducted, for he wants the complete ticket to be elected in order to carry on the plans of good government that have been outlined.

Miss Marion Orr of Montclair entertained eight of her friends at a luncheon recently. The table decorations were pink and the food served carried out the color scheme as far as possible. The menu consisted of creamed beef on toast, peaches and cream, cake and olives. Those present were Miss Gladys Parlee, Miss Nettie Parlee, Miss Rose Berlo, Miss Frances Berlo, George Parlee and Howard Maybury of Montclair. Palmer Oakman of Neponset, Harold London of Ashmont.

EASTERN STAR FLAG NIGHT

Chapter Presented With Handsome Silk Emblem

An open meeting of Quincy Chapter Order of the Eastern Star was held Monday evening, which took the form of a flag presentation and patriotic service. For some time a committee of ladies have been hard at work raising the necessary funds to purchase a flag and their work culminated at this meeting when Mrs. Edith Crocker in behalf of the Committee presented a handsome silk emblem to the chapter which was accepted in its behalf by Mrs. Margaret Gammon the Worthy Matron.

Following the presentation there were addresses of a patriotic nature by Commander C. M. Marston of Paul Revere Post G. A. R., Mrs. Eliza A. Penniman, patriotic instructor of Paul Revere Womans Relief Corps and Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson.

A patriotic service was also held by the officers of the chapter. During this service there was singing by Clement Nash, a brother of the chapter.

The flag presentation was not the only event of interest at the meeting for in addition to this the chapter was presented with a handsome polished Quincy granite gavel block. This gift was presented by Catherine McDonald in behalf of Misses Mary, Margaret and Mrs. Florence Milne. On the polished surface of the block were the gilt letters "O. E. S."

This gift was also accepted in behalf of the chapter by the Worthy Matron.

At the close of the session a social hour followed during which refreshments were served.

AN ELECTION PREDICTION

Ardent Wall Supporter Has it Figured Down Fine

Here is a prediction made Monday evening by an ardent supporter of James E. Wall one of the independent candidates for Mayor.

"There will be 6,000 votes cast at the municipal election," said the prophet. "Of this vote Mr. Campbell will receive 2,200. Mr. Fegan will receive 1,000 and Mr. Wall will get the balance, 2,800."

How about Mr. Powers was asked. You have not considered him at all.

"Oh, there will be a few votes over 6,000, possibly fifty or sixty, and these will go to Powers."

LIVELY DEBATE ON WARD 2 SCHOOL LOT

Majority Committee Favored Lowe Lot Minority the Swithin Lot

The Liveliest Session Council Has Held for Several Months

The debate at Monday nights meeting of the City Council, came as anticipated on the acceptance of the report of the Finance Committee, on the order to purchase land on the old Paul Wilde farm on Washington street for a site for a new school building. The Finance committee reported favorably on the lot. A minority report however was made that the order ought not to pass. The result was a prolonged debate which ended in the committee report being accepted.

One of the interested spectators of the evening was Chester I. Campbell, the Republican candidate for Mayor, who occupied a seat inside the rail.

The absent members were Councilmen Carlson, Gelotte, Gilliatt and Sodergren.

A communication was received from the Inspector of Buildings calling attention to the necessity of amending the Building ordinance. The ordinance now provides that wooden garages could be erected with 2 1-2 feet of the boundary line. This was a detriment to adjoining property. He recommended that the ordinance be amended in this respect. Referred to Committee on Ordinances.

The City Auditor in a communication called attention to the matter of an appropriation for election expenses. He stated that in making up the budget this amount had been omitted. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Bailey offered an order appropriating $2,000 for that purpose making a transfer from Miscellaneous Receipts. Referred to Finance Committee.

The Commissioner of Public Works in a communication requested that the miscellaneous receipts of the highway department be placed to the credit of the appropriation for Miscellaneous Highways. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Beeman offered the order making the transfer which was adopted.

A communication received from the Tax Collector recommended the refund of $67.50 to Annie M. Kelley for an invalid tax title. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Hadlock offered an order making the refund which was referred to the Finance Committee.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing John J. Gardner a constable. Confirmed.

Applications for minor licenses were referred to the License committee.

A petition of the Electric Light Co., for a location for poles on Hunt street was laid on the table until later when Councilman Beeman offerred an order for a public hearing Dec. 7. Adopted.

The Committee on Ordinances reported ought to pass on the order amending the License ordinance fixing the fee for billiard and pool tables and bowling alleys at $5 for each table and $5 for each bowling alley. Order passed.

The Finance Committee reported an amendment, adding the borrowing clause to the order appropriating $450 for a drain and tide gate to drain Babcock street. Report ac-

Not all of the hunters can get any game, but many of them are able to hit the farmer's cows.

The many war poems being printed by the newspapers is another sign of the number of people who are out of work.

Society women are knitting socks for the soldiers. It is suspected that some of them had to learn how.

It is felt by many sportsmen that care is not necessary with fires in the woods, as the farmers will be glad to take hold and put them out.

FALL CLEANING.

Clean-Up day is an established institution. Thousands of cities and towns are trying to scrub and comb streets and home grounds by general emulation. But all of these publicly appointed clean-up days seem to come in the spring. There is then a general feeling of dress parade. In the fall, ash-heaps, withered flower stalks, heaps of litter, accumulate day by day and few seem to care.

Womankind does not share this slovenliness in her dominions indoors. Fall housecleaning is as much a date of the calendar as the spring toilet. At any time now you may go home to find your favorite easy chair out on the lawn, and your living room a battle field of mops and brooms.

People of refinement, including many who lack wealth but have the gift of neatness, have had their clean-up days ever since they owned or rented a dwelling. But for many hard working people, orderly grounds seem almost impossible. Grass and weeds are allowed to grow untouched, coops and out-buildings become shabby, fences topple over. The toilsome breadwinner looks at the ugly disarray with weary discomfort, but philosophically reflects that it is about as good as the neighbor's.

If a place is unkempt and tumbledown, it declines in value. But a couple of hours a week will keep any small place looking neat and tidy, so that it will advance in value.

There is a tonic feeling in neatness. Keep your place trim and trig and you can hold your head up, as strangers pass along. You feel a sense of achievement in presenting to the inspecting eyes of your neighbors a self-respecting home. Many a hard working man might much better be in the fresh air raking his lawn in spare moments, rather than lolling in the house with a headache.

THEATRICAL VICISSITUDES.

Many theatrical companies have been cancelling their dates this fall owing to poor receipts. This is the age of moving pictures, and of the repertory companies that play for "ten, twent', thirt." The enormous patronage given this class of entertainment has led many people to believe that there is now but a very limited field for high grade companies.

Certainly there were never so many poor actors on the road as now. A player may come on the stage in a dress suit, undertaking to present the part of a finished society man. Very likely he wears his hat in the presence of ladies, and rips around the stage like a cow-boy. If the audience wants thrills, gun-play, moral shock, sexual looseness, it does not seem to care much whether the types seen on the stage have any likeness to real life or not.

Every press agent advertises his play as the greatest success of the season. The dictionary is exhausted to find adjectives to describe its sparkle, force, charm. The theatregoer pays down his good money, and may find that it is flashy, tawdry, and the acting poorly done. Next time he goes to the moving pictures or the cheap repertory company.

There is still, however, an enormous public of intelligent people who know a real actor when they see him. Many of them live away out in the country, and treasure a visit to some town or city theater as a choice memory for many months.

Many leading newspapers hand their theatrical criticism over to mere boys, who are susceptible to the seductions of a favorite actress, or to liberal distributions of passes. Every glowing notice for a half-baked or frothy play, is copied wherever a company goes. It leads thousands of people to throw away their good money. Also it hurts every company and every theater that is trying to present plays that are worth while.

FINANCIAL OUTLOOK.

(Special.)

Week by week important changes for the better are taking place in the financial position. These are reflected chiefly in easier money, a break in sterling exchange and improvement in the credit outlook. By far the most important current event was the opening of the Federal reserve banks Monday. Of course, these institutions will not be in full operation probably for several weeks to come and some temporary inconveniences may be caused by the transition from one banking system to another. These however will be trifling in comparison with the advantages of the new system. It is estimated that, as a result of lowering reserve requirements from 25 per cent to 18 per cent, including State banks and trust companies, the increase in the amount of loanable funds of the New York clearing house banks will be about $160,000,000; and possibly $300,000,000 in the entire United States. In all probability there will be further retirement of clearing house certificates and emergency currency after the new system becomes effective, so that the net increase in funds will not reach the figures just mentioned. Nevertheless, the increase will be large enough to insure a period of easy money for some time to come; because the requirements of legitimate business are very small owing to the continued contraction of trade and industry. Clearing house returns continue about 25 per cent below last year. The United States does not wish to prosper at the expense of other nations; but it is not in any sense responsible for the present destructive war and cannot be expected to do otherwise than gladly accept any advantages that may legitimately come its way as the result of a terrible catastrophe. This country is supplying horses, blankets, saddlery, boots and shoes, clothing, auto trucks and many other forms of war material in amounts that will run up into the hundreds of millions. At present these are the only bright spots in our industrial activity. Congress will reopen with the coming of December, but the session will be a short one, and President Wilson is expected to use his great influence in giving business a much needed rest from legislative interference. The railroad problem continues to be a most urgent one; and unless the Interstate Commerce Commission grants some substantial concessions it will appear to be a miscarriage of justice at this trying time, as with diminishing revenues and an accumulation of deferred improvements, their financial outlook is anything but encouraging. Sound public policy certainly suggests that the Commission use its great power for the purpose of strengthening rather than undermining American credit abroad.

Let us have an open stock market and supply and demand will prove, as is always the case, the true regulator of prices. It was wise to have closed the Exchange upon the commencement of hostilities, and it will be equally wise to open it again, without much further delay, after the new National Banking system starts, but under reasonable restrictions to be imposed at the start. It will be much better to resume business on the Exchange while prices are down as at present than to wait until general conditions are such that prices would naturally start buoyantly high, in which case the advance would be apt to be followed by a decline through foreign stocks being dumped upon us, as high prices would encourage foreign selling, while low prices would deter them from doing so.—Henry Clews, Banker, New York.

—It is said that the German invaders of Belgium, whatever else they may have destroyed, have been careful not to injure park trees. The cavalrymen, so a report goes, are forbidden to tie their horses to trees for fear that the animals will gnaw the bark. Germany was the first nation to apply forestry on a large scale., some of the crown forests having been under scientific management for over a hundred years.

LIST OF GRADUATES.

The first class graduated, of which the committees have any record, is that of 1864, although the High school was opened in 1852. The list of graduates which follows is very imperfect, but by its publication it is hoped that corrections will be made. Classmates will please send to the secretary-elect the following information:

Marriage name of all young ladies where same is missing.

Information of death if not marked with an (*) asterisk.

Addresses of all non-residents in fact all members not attending the reunion.

The list of graduates may be republished at an early date, and all this information will be of interest and value.

In the list below the married name is given when known and those deceased are marked with an asterisk:

The Range that Makes Cooking Easy

A Woman Can't Help
wanting a new Plain Cabinet Glenwood; it is so smooth and easy to clean, no filigree or fussy ornamentation, just the natural black iron finish.—"The Mission Idea" applied to a range.

The improved baking damper, heat indicator, revolving grate and roller bearing ash pan make it the most wonderful Cooking Machine ever devised to make housekeeping drudgless.

This Range is also made with Elevated Gas Oven instead of End Style as shown.

If gas is not desired, it can be had with large copper reservoir on the end opposite fire box. It can be furnished with fire box at either right or left of oven, as ordered.

NEW BUILDINGS AT FORE RIVER

That the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation has either secured a large amount of new business or that they expect to do so in the near future is indicated by the preparations that are being made to enlarge its plant.

The company has made application with the Inspector of Buildings for a permit to erect a first class storage building the estimated cost of which is $60,000 and it is said to be the first of similar buildings to be erected in the near future The proposed building is to be 200 feet long by 80 feet wide and four stories high. It is to be constructed of concrete.

FLOATING DEBT IS RAISED

Mrs. Anna R. Richard Gives Check for $500

A check for $500, and the payment of donations amounting to $200, has raised the floating debt of the First Church of Squantum, and a celebration of this event has been arranged for tomorrow night. The affair will be held in Community hall, and all those interested in the church are invited to attend.

Rev. T. W. Davison, the hustling pastor of the Atlantic Memorial church at Atlantic, and head of the church work in Squantum, received the $500 donation from Mrs. Ann R. Richards, widow of Calvin A. Richards, whose old homestead occupied the site of the present First church of Squantum. This generous donation from Mrs. Richards together with the $200 due on pledges already given, clears the church of its floating debt. There remains on the entire building and land but a $1,000 mortgage. Squantum now has a church that is worth $10,000 with but this small debt hanging over it. This has all been accomplished in six months through the hustling of Rev. Mr. Davison and those who have assisted him in Squantum.

Mrs. Richards owned one of the largest Squantum estates prior to the time it was opened up for development. A large mansion occupied the site of where the First church now stands. This mansion was ofr a number of years given over to the Women's Industrial Union in Boston, who used it as a vacation house for girls. The name of the place gradually became known as the Vacation House instead of the Richards mansion. About a year ago it passed into the hands of Carl E. Carlson and this spring took fire and was practically ruined. It was then purchased of Mr. Carlson by the First Church of Squantum and the present handsome church erected.

Mr. Richards was for years president of the Metropolitan street railway of Boston.

The affair Wednesday night in celebration of the raising of the church debt will be a general social affair. No tickets will be required and all interested in the church work are invited.

The affair comes on the night assigned for a New England costume social as one of a series of five entertainments aranged for the church, but the entertainment will be turned into a glorification of the raising of the church floating debt. Refreshments will be served.

MOTORS FOR BATTLESHIPS

Electric Power for the New California

The super-dreadnought California, one of the three huge new ships just ordered, will be driven by electric motors. Secretary Daniels authorized this type of power plant for the big fighter on Saturday, says a Washington dispatch to the Herald on recommendation of Rear Admiral R. S. Griffin, engineer-in-chief of the navy. If it proves as great success in the battleship as it has in the naval collier Jupiter, navy officers foresee the complete displacement of direct steam drive in future American warships.

The California, which will be built at the New York Navy Yard, will be the first electrically driven warship ever built, as the Jupiter was the first deep sea vessel of any type to be fitted with motors. The decision to install the new system aboard the battleship was arrived at only after exhaustive study of the performance of the Jupiter.

As in the Jupiter, the main power plant of the California will be steam turbines, driving dynamoes which will generate electricity to give the ship a speed of at least 21 knots. The Jupiter far exceeded her speed requirements.

The theory on which constructors worked is that turbine engines attain their greatest efficiency only at high speed. A ship's propellers cannot be driven at that speed without decreasing their efficiency and subjecting the vessel to enormous strain. The reduction in propeiler speed was first sought in the collier Neptune, in which a gear transmission system was used. This was not found entirely satisfactory and the electric equipment of the Jupiter followed. A big fuel saving has resulted, and also a reduction in weight, since it is unnecessary to carry the reverse, engine required aboard direct drive turbine steamers.

Reverse engines are far below the power of the forward engines, making turbine steamers hard to stop and difficult to handle. This also is overcome in the electrically propelled craft, as full power in reverse is available with the throwing of a switch.

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

In Miss Cecilia Freiberg, the noted swimmer, the management of the Kincaide theatre has secured a stellar attraction, inasmuch as the young lady has achieved a world-wide triumph in her success as one of the very few who have achieved the much sought-after triumph of a swim from Charlestown bridge to Boston light. But this is not all for Miss Freiberg is an exceptionally clever waterist in divers ways, such as fancy stroke swimming and diving, besides including a personality that is in itself most charming. Possessing a figure that is the embodiment of natural grace, she accents this in her marvelous stunts, of aquatic actions, always being the personification of female grace. In a word, every motion is a picture, a real living picture, not hindered by the enthralments of modern habilitude.

STEVENSON—SMITH.

Ben Bertram Stevenson of 41 Washington street and Kathaleen Sarah Smith of this city were quietly married Monday evening. The ceremony was performed by Arthur B. Hultman J. P., at his home on Hancock street. The groom is a salesman. They will live in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ward have returned from their wedding trip to Florida where they spent three weeks, and are now making their home at Appleton street.

No Good Teacher Receives Enough Salary; No Poor Teacher Too Small a One

By O. M. PLUMMER, Director Board of Education, North Portland, Ore.

ALL over the United States is proclaimed the fact that this is the "AGE OF THE CHILD." More and more are the educators and the boards of education of the country laying stress on the doing of things looking forward to the best interests of the child and PAYING LESS ATTENTION TO POLITICS, which at times past seemed to be their main object. Every city is now striving to build up a more efficient corps of teachers and to eliminate the deadwood.

IT IS TRULY SAID THAT NO GOOD TEACHER RECEIVES ENOUGH SALARY AND THAT NO POOR TEACHER TOO SMALL A ONE. FINE BUILDINGS AND SPLENDID EQUIPMENT ARE THINGS TO WHICH WE POINT WITH PRIDE, BUT IN NO WAY CAN SUCH A GOOD INVESTMENT BE MADE AS IN WELL PAID, EFFICIENT TEACHERS. WE ARE ALL GIVEN TO SPEAKING OF THE NOBLE CALLING OF THE TEACHING PROFESSION. AT THE SAME TIME WE HOLD UP OUR HANDS IN HORROR WHEN AN ADVANCE IN SALARY IS MENTIONED.

TURKEYS--THANKSGIVING--TURKEYS

This is the day of feasting and pleasure, but often, with the good housewife it is a day given to much worry and apprehension as to whether the dinner she is preparing for her family will be all that is expected. This is just where we can help. Consult us—we are specialists in our line. Let us make it a day of satisfied feelings all around, we can do so, and do it just right. George Bliss of this city and Neponset came within three of equaling the single string Fore River league record in the regular matches at the Coliseum alleys Monday evening His string was 122. Vose of the Machine Floor came within one of tieing the same record with 127. Both near record breakers were the only ones to triple.

The Government Draftsmen lost to the Machine Floor 3 to 1 in an easy contest. The former took the third string by three pins, nailing their single point.

POULTRY DECLARED SAFE

Neither Turkeys Nor Chickens Affected by Cattle Quarantine

Washington, Nov. 14.—Poultry dealers who take advantage of the hoof and mouth disease to boost the price of Thanksgiving turkeys and chickens will do so without warrant, the department of agriculture announced.

The cattle quarantines do not affect the poultry market, it is stated, and poultry from the uninfected areas in the quarantined states can be moved freely.

Fire Wrecks New High School

Waterville, Me., Nov. 14.—Fire originating in the basement badly damaged the city's new high school. The building with contents was valued at $100,000. Practically the whole interior is wrecked.

CITY COUNCIL

cepted. Order read and ordered to a second reading.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order appropriating $600 additional for the purchase of land for a playground for the Massachusetts Fields school. This sum is transferred from the Playground Fund. Report accepted and order passed.

The Committee on Licenses reported orders granting a number of minor licenses which were adopted.

The Finance Committee reported an order transferring the receipts for rental from the old house on the Mt. Wollaston cemetery lot to the appropriation for Burial Places. Adopted.

The Finance Committee reported an order transferring the receipts of the school department for rent of hall, etc., to the appropriation for schools. Adopted.

The Committee also reported an order transfrering the sum of $2,000 from unexpended estimated receipts to the appropriation for Instruction of the school department. Order adopted.

The Finance Committee reported a substitute order appropriating $5,585.46 for the purchase of 76,497 feet of land on the Paul Wilde estate for a school site.

Councilmen Ericson, Thompson and Ross presented a minority report that in their opinion the Swithin lot was the best suited for the site, and that this lot had been recommended by the School Committee. They therefore recommended that the order ought not to pass. Councilman Ericson then moved the substitution of the minority for the majority report.

He stated that in the early fall the order for the Lowe lot came in and that the Finance Committee referred the matter to the school board and they reported back in favor of the Swithin lot. Now we are trying to throw their opinion one side.

Councilman Griffin asked why the minority report was made and Councilman Ericson answered that the school board recommended the Swithin lot twice and in his opinion it is the best.

Councilman Griffin—Do you recall that you thought the Swithin lot too near the Adams school?

Councilman Ericson—I deny it.

Councilman Griffin——Didn't you point out a lot near the Lowe lot and say it was the centre of the district?

Councilman Ericson—I said no such thing. If you don't want to talk about the question don't talk about me.

President Whiton rapped loudly for order as both men became heated in their debate and Councilman Griffin when given the floor made his argument in defense of the committee report recommending the Lowe lot.

Mr. President, said Councilman Griffin while all sat almost breathless, at a meeting of the Public Buildings committee and the following Monday before the order had been presented and anyone knew what it was to be. I met Councilman Ericson in the hall and his first salute was that my lot in Ward Two was killed.

President Whiton suggested that personalities be avoided and Councilman Griffin proceeded. I cannot see, said he, why some gentlemen have taken such an extraordinary and intense interest in selecting a school lot in Ward Two. They seem to have selected one and then tell us we must have it, notwithstanding the fact that the ward two people representatives want another. They, instead of us, seem to represent the sentiment of the people.

If you are not willing to grant that some consideration should be given them in this matter, then I say the principles of the city charter are not right.

I would like to know why we should accept the Swithin lot. If we have the wrong lot that would be something but why the Swithin lot? It is not the centre of population and the centre of the district. It is not the cheapest lot. It is not the better lot. Now why, nothing but because of the recommendation of the school board.

Some members of this council who are taking that stand are not at all consistent, I know at other times some members did not hesitate to oppose the school board. They thought it right and proper to do so.

With reference to the school board, said Councilman Griffin, we followed them a year and a half and they requested an addition to the Washington school. Plans were prepared and they were referred to them and they unanimously approved them.

We later came along with an order and inside of four or five weeks the board changed their mind. In the meantime conditions had not changed It is fair to assume that they may make another error in four or five weeks. It goes to show they are not infallible. Another thing, you cannot dodge it on that point and it is entirely up to the council to secure a lot and anyone using any other argument is only bluffing.

We secured the best lot. We looked around and secured the best proposition for the city and we have the best the city ever was offered.

It is in the centre of the district. It is cheaper by some dollars and it is a good piece of land. If the gentleman can give us some consistent and logical reason why, we would know why they object to the Lowe lot. All are inconsistent and there is no reason for it. There are some reasons other than good reasons why they support their minority report.

Councilman Ross said he favored the Swithin lot. The member who last spoke will remember that the School Committee favored the Swithin lot. The Swithin lot was bounded by four streets, and had the sewer and water. He had consulted the City Engineer and had been informed that both lots were about 200 yards out of the centre. Dennis Ford lives in the geographical centre. The Lowe lot, or Griffin lot as some call it, is not on accepted streets leading to it. If streets are continued to the lot it will cost $5,000. We must expend money to accept streets and for water and sewer. The Lowe lot may be the cheaper at first but more expensive in the end. The School Committee recommend the Swithin lot and we should regard their wishes in the matter.

Councilman Craig was not in favor of the Lowe lot. It was not in the centre of the population. We should put it where the School Committee want. There are nine members on the committee three of whom are from Quincy Point and they believe the Swithin lot the best. He asked Chairman Mackay if the Lowe lot was selected how the school lines would have to be changed? Chairman Mackay replied that it was impossible to tell. It would be a question of population.

Councilman Little said that he had visited the three lots. The Swithin lot was too near the line of the Adams school. The price was too high. The Burke lot he considered an excellent lot, but the price was too high and there was not land enough. He had no axe to grind. It was simply a question of economy. Here was a chance to economize.

Councilman Ross was then called to the chair and President Whiton taking the floor spoke at length on the question.

While President Whiton was talking, a drunk in the rear of the hall kept interjecting remarks and interrupting and the City Messenger was called upon to put him out of the hall.

President Whiton in his argument said, the facts are, this lot can be purchased for $5,585.64 and the Swithin lot will cost over $9000. Newcomb place is a dead end and that is the only argument against it. We can extend it and it had to be done some time because children will have to walk around the streets if it is not.

The figures of Councilman Ross that it will cost $5000 to extend the street are absolutely ridiculous and the city can save $3000 with the street extended. The city owns tax titles on more than half the land at the present time.

All kinds of arguments have been advanced. People have been trying to be influenced. All kinds of games have been put up to get councilman to favor lots here and there and the ridiculous statement has been made that five autos a minute pass there.

President Whiton then discussed travel in the vicinity of the Lowe lot and in speaking of its location said no one with any common sense will say the Swithin lot is the centre. You must admit the Lowe lot is practically central and is so as far as population is concerned and the city saves $3000 actually and really more than that because tax titles are owing on the property.

Do you want to use your judgment or that of some committee? If you don't want to save money do that. The Swithin lot is on one edge of a school district and as for their being four streets there, what of it?

The other lot will be properly bounded. Only one street can be used at a time. As far as danger is concerned it does not compare with the Coddington school.

I hope the minority report will not be accepted. It will be a mistake gentlemen. You men that have been hollering economy, for gracious sake, practice it, and now is the time.

"Give me one good reason in favor of the Swithin lot and I will vote for it."

Councilman Thompson asked Chairman Mackay a number of questions relative to the letter written by the Board in which it expressed its preference for the Swithin lot, and he asked that the letter of the School Committee be read, which gave their reasons.

Continuing his argument he said that the Swithin lot was safer. More free from passing automobiles. From an aesthetic view point it was the best lot. He understood that there was a question on the saving to the city. As he figured it the amount would not be over $1,500. In a matter of this kind that should not stand in the way.

Councilman Griffin spoke again at length telling in detail the number of pupils on either side of the Swithin lot. He also spoke of its nearness to the Adams school. About 17 percent of the school population is on the side toward the Adams school and 87 percent on the other side.

Councilman Little again spoke of the different lots favoring the Lowe lot in the interest of economy.

Councilman Bailey said that all real estate men looked alike to him. He had viewed all of the lots with the committee and alone. He could not could not understand why the School Committee favored the Swithin lot. The Finance Committee did not ask the School Committee to recommend any lot. We simply asked them what they thought of the Lowe lot. The Swithin lot was on the edge of the Adams line, and if accepted a junk must be taken out of the Adams district. He ventured to say that 25 percent of the pupils that would attend the school lived to the east of the Swithin lot. As for price he did not think that should be considered in selecting a school lot. He hoped the minority report would not be accepted.

Councilman Hadlock was called to the chair at this point.

President Whiton spoke again in favor of the Lowe lot and he asked Chairman Mackay a number of questions about the school line in case the Swithin lot was purchased but got little satisfaction.

No sane man he said would for a minute think the Lowe lot dangerous. As for being dangerous, he considered the curve in front of the Siwthin lot one of the most dangerous in the city.

Councilman Ross then repeated his statement as to the cost of building a street to the Lowe lot.

Councilman Craig again spoke on the question saying that we Councilmen are here in the interest of the City of Quincy and we should look after its interest. He believed the Lowe lot would cost more to grade it.

As he concluded President Whiton said "why don't you practice some of the economy you are talking about all of the time."

Councilman Barnicoat asked about the cost of grading the two lots, to which the City Engineer replied that he had made no figures.

The Minority report was then rejected; the committee report was accepted and the order ordered to a second reading.

The vote on accepting the minority report was six in favor and twelve against. Those favoring the minority report were Councilmen Ericson, Corcoran, Craig, Ross, Thompson and Barnicoat.

SQUANTUM SCHOOL LOT.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported an order appropriating $6,000 for the purchase of 77,633 feet of land on Huckins avenue Squantum for a school lot. Referred to Finance Committee.

Councilman Ross offered an order refunding Monsati Barsanti $4.44 taxes illegally assessed. To Finance Committee.

Councilman Williams offered an order for a light on James street. To Executive.

PUBLIC HEARINGS.

Public hearings were held at 8 o'clock on petition of Nathan Ames to keep gasoline and at 8.10 on petition of the Telephone company for a location of poles.

There was no opposition and the orders were laid on the table until later when Councilman Beeman offered the necessary orders.

SCAVENGER ORDINANCE.

Councilman Beeman offered an amendment to the Scavenger ordinance. The amendment provided that on all orders for cleaning cesspools a deposit of $5 must be made with the City Treasurer and on orders for cleaning vaults a deposit of $2.86. It also provided that all bills not paid within thirty days 15 per cent should be added. Referred to Committee on Ordinances.

CALENDAR

The order widening Rogers street took its second reading, the rules were suspended and the order passed to be ordained.

POISON KILLED SULLIVAN GIRL

County Official Says Morphine Was Found In Stomach

NEW ARRESTS LOOKED FOR

Victim Said to Have Been Brutally Dealt With Previous to Hastening Death—Dudley Carefully Watched In Prison—Story of Dictagraphs to Spy on the Pelletiers

Houlton, Me., Nov. 17.—Following the discovery that Mildred Sullivan, supposed to have died the night of Sept. 4, and whose body was later found in a shallow grave in the woods of Presque Isle, clad only in a nightgown, was possibly killed by morphine poisoning, the authorities intimated that new arrests will be made and further sensations disclosed in this already famous tragedy.

Sheriff Bryson is believed to be searching now for another person implicated in the death of the Houlton girl. He is striving to make his arrest before the case is placed in the hands of the Aroostook county grand jury, which meets today.

The fact that the Sullivan girl probably was poisoned was revealed by the autopsy on her body. The medical examiners found, it is understood, enough morphine in the stomach to have caused her death, and also that she had been brutally dealt with before death released her from suffering.

The full details of the result of the autopsy have not yet been made public, and will not be announced before they are all given to the grand jury, and possibly not until the trial in December, but a county official let it be known that morphine was found in the stomach.

County Attorney Archibald announced that the presentation of evidence to the grand jury will begin today. He will probably be the rest of the week putting in his evidence, and it is not expected he will use all the fifty or more witnesses he has summoned.

Dr. Lionel E. Dudley, who is under arrest charged with the murder of the Sulivan girl, is being carefully watched to prevent his committing suicide, as it is claimed he has threatened he would do rather than go before a jury for trial. Fred Melville, an uncle of Mildred Sullivan, claims that Dudley stated several times that he would blow out his brains rather than face a jury.

Although a dictagraph placed in Dudley's cell was accidentally discovered by him, and possibly before it had recorded any important conversations, another startling turn has been given the case by the story that detectives representing the state had dictagraphs concealed in the home of Alice and Etta Pelletier and recorded conversations between the Pelletier girls and others interested in the case for a considerable period.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Two Armenians Alleged Slayers of Negro at Lawrence

Lawrence, Mass., Nov. 17.—A charge of murder was lodged against two Armenians, Moosac Kachadoorian and Zadoor Ajernian, after they had given their version of the shooting of Lawrence P. Blandin, a negro.

According to the police, they say that after spending Sunday night with Blandin and a few others they were awakened by somebody crawling through their window. Kachadoorian, the police say, then fired, three bullets taking effect.

Upon learning that the intruder was Blandin, the police say, the Armenians concealed the body in a closet and went to Boston, where a lawyer advised them to tell their story to the police.

COAL TIPPLE SET AFIRE

Night Riders Blamed For Loss of $35,000 In Kentucky Mine

Island, Ky., Nov. 17.—Night riders or "possum hunters" invaded McLean county and set fire to a coal tipple near here owned by Shelby Gish of Central City, Ky. The tipple was destroyed, entailing a loss of $35,000.

Heretofore the "possum hunters" have operated in Muhlenberg, Hopkins, Christian and Butler counties and are alleged to have killed two persons and whipped many others.

GIFT OF FOOTBALL CROWD

War Relief Fund Swelled by $3927.49 at Yale-Princeton Game

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 17.—Nearly $4000 was collected between the halves of the Yale-Princeton football game last Saturday for the benefit of the sufferers in the European war zone. The contributions ranged from 1 cent to $10 and almost filled a flour barrel, amounting exactly to $3927.49.

The counting of the money, which will be sent to the Red Cross headquarters at Washington, was completed last night.

Spy Had Lots of Clothing

Paris, Nov. 17.—A German spy, captured near Paris and shot, had on four sets of clothing—the British uniform, the French soldier's garb, his own and a woman's dress over all.

FOUR LIFE SENTENCES

Slayers Plead Guilty and Beg For Leniency In Court at Salem

Salem, Mass., Nov. 17.—Four murderers were sentenced to state prison for life by Judge Sanderson in the superior court here. All changed their plea of not guilty to guilty in second degree and begged for leniency. They are George LeFavre of Peabody, Bedros Takdarian, Garabed Barbarian and John Avdanian, all of Lawrence.

The four men were to have been tried in that present session on indictments for murder in the first degree.

LeFavre shot and killed his 20-year-old sweetheart, Pearl Frost, and her employer, Walter P. Hills. Takdarian, Barbarian and Avdanian murdered John Shamlian, a jewelry salesman, at Lawrence. They afterwards dismembered the body and hid it in the woods at Andover.

SAID TO BE IN EXILE

Mystery Surrounds Departure of Caillaux and His Wife

Paris, Nov. 17.—Much mystery is connected with the sudden departure for South America of Joseph Caillaux, former premier and minister of finance, who was accompanied by his wife, the central figure in a sensational murder case a few months ago.

It is hinted that the man whom Germany has called her greatest friend in France is going into enforced exile.

It is considered extraordinary that a man who held the rank of paymaster in the army, who was recently reelected a member of the chamber of deputies, and who, up until the trial of his wife for the murder of Gaston Calmette, was the most powerful politician in France, should leave France in time of war.

SNARED BY POSTMISTRESS

Sheriff Lands Suspect Who Tries to Cash Stolen Postal Order

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., Nov. 17.—Postoffice authorities believe a valuable catch was made in the arrest by Sheriff Hart of Harry Stewart while he was attempting to cash a money order for $17 at the Monument Beach postoffice.

Mrs. P. H. Phinney, postmistress at Monument Beach, was responsible for the arrest. She noticed that the order Stewart presented was one of a number she had been instructed to watch for as having been stolen from the Waquoit postoffice. Word was sent to Sheriff Hart while she detained Stewart by various pretences.

Massachusetts Woman Chosen as Recording Secretary

Nashville, Nov. 17.—The election committee of the National American Woman Suffrage association announced the election of the Shaw ticket as follows:

President, Dr. Shaw, New York; first vice president, Mrs. McCormick, New York; second vice president, Mrs. Breckenridge, Kentucky; third vice president, Mrs. Davis, New York; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Clark, Michigan; recording secretary, Mrs. FitzGerald, Massachusetts; treasurer, Mrs. Rogers, Connecticut; first auditor, Mrs. Miller, Missouri; second auditor, Mrs. McCormick, Illinois.

ROUTED WITH HOT WATER

Striking Women Indulge In Riotous Acts at Sugar Refinery

Yonkers, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Two hundred women engaged in making sugar bags went on strike at the Federal sugar refinery here, hurled stones and bottles through windows and were dispersed only when a stream of hot water was turned their way through a hose. Cold water turned on them through the hose had failed to rout them.

The women had been paid $1 a day. They went on strike because they were notified that in future they would be paid at the rate of 1 cent a bag. They said this would reduce their pay one-fourth.

RUSSIANS GET SEVERE CHECKS

Reported to Have Been Defeated at Two Points

23,000 ARE MADE PRISONERS

Victory Reported From Berlin May Halt Movement on Danzig—Venice Hears That Capital of Galicia Is Burning—Bad Weather Causes Suffering on Eastern Battle Ground—German Regiment of Three Thousand Men Reported Drowned In Inundation of Land—Untrained Men and Youths In German Army Do Not Hesitate In Battle—Khedive to Head Turkish Army of Invasion

London, Nov. 17.—Russian arms have sustained two severe checks, according to dispatches from Berlin, which relate that the Germans have taken 23,000 prisoners at Wloclawek, Russian Poland, and that the Turks have given the invaders of Armenia a drubbing.

Petrograd appears less optimistic than usual, and has called upon the British to put every man in the field to oppose the Germans on the western frontier. The taking of Berlin, it is conceded, will be a matter of months, in any event.

The Russian movements at present seem to be a drive through Thorn and Soldau, directed at Danzig, and a concentration about Cracow, with the object of breaking down Austrian resistance to an advance into Silesia and Posen. The German victory at Wloclawek may halt the attack on Danzig.

Cracow Reported Burning

There comes an interesting report from the east that Cracow is burning and that the citizens are fleeing. This must be taken with considerable allowance, as it comes from Venice by way of Rome, a channel of information that has so often during the war proven to be widely misleading.

There is nobody at Cracow but the residents of the ancient city, and a section of the Austrian army left behind by the retreating Germans to defend it, and why either of these should set the place on fire is a thing not to be comprehended.

The Russians are nowhere near Cracow yet, although they are reported to be advancing slowly through Galicia, cleaning up such isolated bands of Austrians as have not already been driven up to the passes of the Carpathians. From other sources comes word that the Cracowians had decided to abandon their city without defense rather than submit it to bombardment by the Russians.

Blizzards Retard Fighting

Blizzards have swept the trenches in Belgium and northern France and brought great suffering to the wounded as well as to the men in the fields. A large area of West Flanders around Dixmude has been flooded by the heavy rains and is no-man's land for fighting.

The French and German reports of Monday are contradictory as regards the progress of their armies in the west. Berlin says there was only slight activity because of the snowstorm. Paris announces that the Germans, in attempting to cross the canal near Dixmude, were thrust back, that the allies recaptured several strategic points and repulsed two German attacks southeast of Ypres and "entirely destroyed" a German regiment of 3000 men in an inundation of the land south of Bixschoote.

Bravery of New Fighters

An observer with the British army, who furnishes the newspaper reports from the front, announces that the German attempts to batter a wedge through the British lines have greatly decreased in force during the past few days and that they bear no resemblance to the attacks in great force launched against Ypres at the end of October.

They are, he adds, more in the nature of demonstrations in force than serious assaults.

The writer pays high tribute to the bravery of raw German youths and untrained men of middle age who, he says, do not hesitate to march against the trained British troops.

If the Germans have abandoned their repeated furious battering-ram efforts, ther failure to thrust back the allies' lines and reach Calais will, from the allies' point of view, constitute a distinct victory for the allies since, it is asserted, they have not tried, nor were they expected to accomplish, anything more than to hold their own on the defensive.

Concerning "Holy War"

Constantinople hailed the proclamation of a "holy war" with a great demonstration, according to Berlin. Reports from various sources say that the Khedive of Egypt, who is now in Constantinople, will return to his own country at the head of the Turkish army of invasion.

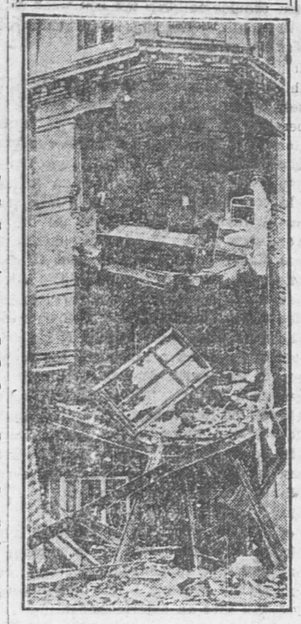

London is becoming apprehensive of the "holy war" danger even though nothing new has come from Afghanistan. The Bedouins of Arabia are reported on the point of an uprising against Great Britain.

In the Balkans, Greek and Bulgarian soldiers are reported to have clashed on the frontier. Similar stories were told some weeks ago. The Greeks appear to retain their hold on Epirus.

Vienna claims a victory over the Servians at Valjevo and expresses the hope that the Servians will soon be disposed of, so that troops may be set free to fight the Russians.

HIGH COST OF WAR

England Alone Spending Between $4,500,000 and $5,000,000 Daily

The vast cost of the European war was realized in England for the first time when Premier Asquith stated in the house of commons that Great Britain alone was expending between $4,500,000 and $5,000,000 daily.

The premier moved a vote of credit of $1,125,000,000, which, added to the $500,000,000 voted in August, brings England's war appropriations up to $1,625,000,000.

The premier also requested another million soldiers. The house granted both requests without a dissenting voice. The condition and morale of the soldiers, the inevitable spy system and the press censorship were discussed freely.

First Lord of the Admiralty Churchill came in for a grilling because of British naval losses. The feeling in London is that thus far the honors of the sea have been with the Germans.

LOSS OF THE AUDACIOUS

United States Had News of Disaster to Warship Two Weeks Ago

The United States government was known officially for two weeks of the destruction of the British dreadnought Audacious by a mine off the Irish coast, but has kept the matter secret at the request of the British government.

Ambassador Page cabled the American government of the sinking of the Audacious within a day or two after she went down. He said he had been officially informed of the sinking as well as of the delay to the liner Olympic.

He gave no details, however, and merely stated that the British government wanted the loss kept secret for the present. Officials at washington scrupulously guarded the news.

With the mail advices from Ireland and statements of eye-witnesses, however, the fact that Page had reported on the incident leaked out.

MORE MEN ARE NEEDED

Task of Subduing Germany Remains a Formidable One

The London Daily Mail's Petrograd correspondent warns the British people of the enormous task still facing the allies and declares that England will need all the troops that it is possible for her to raise.

The correspondent points out that it will take months for the Russians to reach Berlin, saying that even if the Germans are driven from the positions they now are holding they can fall back on equally strong lines of defenses they have prepared.

He says he hears that the Germans are setting the Russians a formidable task to break through and that before this is accomplished the Germans still may be able to send troops to France and Belgium.

PEACE URGED BY POPE

Pontiff's Encyclical Names Four Chief Causes Leading Up to War

Four of the chief causes leading up to the great war in Europe are held by Pope Benedict XV. to be these:

Lack of mutual and sincere love among men; contempt of authority; injustice on the part of one class of people against another, and the consideration of material welfare as the sole object of human activity in defiance of spiritual obligations.

These are contained in the annual papal encyclical which was published by the pope. The pope urges in the most sincere phrases that peace be restored among the warring nations of Europe without any further delay.

DICTATORSHIP ENDS IN MEXICO

Military Factions Will No Longer Control Nation's Affairs

GUARANTEES GIVEN WILSON

New Administration Will Protect Lives of All Foreigners—United States Delays Approval of Action of Peace Conference—Religious Refugees From Vera Cruz Provided For

Washington, Nov. 17.—Positive guarantees that the lives and properties of all foreigners in Mexico will be protected by the administration of Provisional President Gutierrez have been received by President Wilson.

In addition Gutierrez emphatically declares the dictatorship has ended in Mexico for all time and that the military factions now in control realize that only a government directly commissioned by the Mexican people themselves can hope to reorganize Mexico and place the republic on a stable basis.

This guarantee, sent direct by Gutierrez to President Wilson, following the report that both Generals Carranza and Villa have agreed to eliminate themselves from the situation, increased the belief in administration circles that the era of bloodshed is at an end and that there will be no further fighting.

In his letter sent to Wilson, Gutierrez makes an indirect request for recognition by suggesting that the United States approve the action of the recent peace conference. There will be no action taken in this connection for the present. Gutierrez also asked for the removal of the troops from Vera Cruz, but this already had been ordered.

The Catholic Church Extension society of Chicago has assumed the task of bringing Mexican priests and nuns from Vera Cruz to the United States on commercial liners. Brigadier General Funston reported that those religious refugees numbered about 100. Funston had previously been authorized to bring them away on the liner San Marcos.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Redfield Says Gloom and Depression Are Giving Way to Prosperity

Washington, Nov. 17.—While the forces of the government are being mobilized in ever-increasing strength in the warring countries of Europe, constructive agencies, public and private, are at work on this side of the Atlantic, and resources of peace are being concentrated to overcome the effects of the old world war.

All information reaching governmental departments here indicates that the gloom and depression which overtook business enterprises in the United States when the war storm burst is slowly drawing aside and glimpses of present and coming prosperity are visible.

The hopeful outlook for American ventures was summarized by Secretary Redfield in a letter to the chamber of commerce of the United States.

Adventist Policeman at Boston Finds Himself Out of a Job

Boston, Nov. 17.—Edson T. Miner, the patrolman who refused to work on Saturdays because, he claimed, it was against the tenets of his religious faith as a Seventh Day Adventist, was dismissed from the police service.

Miner was charged with being absent without leave. Although he had served on the Boston police force for twelve years, it has only been during the past few months that he has failed to answer roll call from sundown Friday to sundown Saturday.

TRAMP ARMY JAILED

Took Forcible Possession of Freight Train on Mojave Desert

San Bernardino, Cal., Nov. 17.—Ninety-three tramps, on their annual winter tour westward, are in jail here, charged with having stolen and operated for their own benefit a freight train on the Mojave desert.

The tramps were hiking across the desert bound for Los Angeles when the freight train entered Otis, a station east of here. They overpowered the crew, broke the seals of freight cars, and, after making themselves comfortable, ordered the engineer to pull out for Los Angeles.

Convicted of Fatal Operation

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 17.—Mrs. Josephine Brousseau of Everett was found guilty by a jury of performing an illegal operation upon Mrs. Dora O. Mahee, 28, of Whitman, which resulted in the latter's death. Mrs. Brousseau was sentenced to five years and one month in prison.

Flogged For Cutting Prices

Ardmore, Okla., Nov. 17.—Because he is said to have sold cotton for less than 10 cents a pound, Joshua Samuels, a cotton grower, was flogged by masked men.

Sinking Steamer Beached

Blenheim, Ont., Nov. 14.—The steamship Colonial, leaking and sinking, was beached at Pardos, seven miles from here. The crew took to the lifeboats and landed safely.

SIEGEL BOOKS IN CODE

Proprietor and Cashier Alone Knew How to Use the Cipher

Geneseo, N. Y., Nov. 17.—The methods by which large sums of money were taken from the Siegel private bank just before its failure in connection with the crash of the Siegel Stores corporation were told by Frank L. Champion, former cashier of the bank, at the continuation of the trial of Henry Siegel on a grand-larceny charge.

A few days before the failure, Champion testified, Henry Vogel, Siegel's partner, gave him an envelope containing about $4,000,000 worth (full value) of shares in the Siegel Stores corporation and the Henry Siegel company of Boston as security for loans. The stock, he said, he knew to be virtually worthless.

Champion declared that the true books of the Fourteenth street store bank were kept in cipher, or code, known only to Henry Siegel, proprietor of the store, and the cashier.

Champion said he kept a "key," and when making out statement sheets the "key" would indicate certain "line numbers" to show the bank's real standing.

SACRIFICED HIS LIFE TO KEEP A PROMISE

Roberts Responded to Invitation of Indian Troops

London, Nov. 17.—All that is mortal of Earl Roberts, the military hero of modern England, will be laid to rest in the little cemetery of All Saints' church at Ascot, according to plans announced here.

It has become known that Roberts sacrificed his life to keep a promise. When the Indian troops reached France their commander telegraphed "Bobs" that his men would appreciate a visit from him. Roberts replied with a message of appreciation, at the same time telling when he would come.

SHIP POUNDS TO PIECES

Crew of Six Completely Exhausted When Rescue Is Effected

Eastport, Me., Nov. 17.—The Rockland, Me., schooner M. K. Rawley struck on Spruce island near the northern end of Campobello island, N. B., during a fifty-mile gale and pounded to pieces in less than an hour, according to word which reached here.

The six men comprising her crew were completely exhausted when taken off Spruce island by rescuers from Deer island. They had been unable to save anything from the wreck.

QUARANTINE EXTENDED

Foot and Mouth Disease Now Affects Sixteen States

Washington, Nov. 17.—Connecticut and Montana have been placed under federal quarantine because of outbreaks of foot and mouth disease.

Field inspectors reported development of the disease in the vicinity of Hartford and at Glendale, Mont. The addition of Montana and Connecticut brings the number of quarantined states up to sixteen.

Held For Killing Boy

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 17.—George M. Stacy, keeper of the state rifle range, who shot and killed 19-year-old Harry Meloon on the range, was arraigned at Raymond and held without bail on the charge of manslaughter.

Increase In Deaths In Mines

Washington, Nov. 17.—There were 195 men killed in and about coal mines in the United States during the last September against 173 a year ago. Virtually all of the accidents occurred underground.

MORE TRAINS ARE WANTED

Mayor Whiton has taken up the matter of better train service between Quincy and Boston with the New Haven railroad. What His Honor particularly complained of was that there was no inward train leaving Quincy between 12.11 and 1.13 P. M. That the train due to leave Quincy at 1.13 was more often late than on time, and that it was a source of great inconvenience to Quincy patrons of the road.

In reply to his complaint the Mayor this morning received a letter from the railroad officials promising to take the matter up immediately with Supt. Hobbs.

HOWARD SPENT $645.

What a Single German Shell From A "Busy Bertha" Did to a Home

This picture shows most graphically the destruction wrought by a single German shell from a 42 centimeter gun, the great sixteen and a half inch engine of horror that the kaiser has won most his battles in Belgium with and nicknamed by the French "Busy Bertha." The shell tore the whole front of the residence out and ripped up the floors inside. When one looks at this picture he can readily understand why Liege, Louvain, Termonde, Malines, Antwerp and other places in Belgium were conquered by the Germans.

QUINCY WOLLASTON

There is to be an extra session of the Pilgrim Union Circuit of the Boston District Epworth League in St. John's church, Broadway, South Boston, on Monday evening, November 23. HOUSE RALLIES BY FEGAN

Says Government Is too Far from the People

The first gun in the final battle for Mayoralty honors was fired Monday evening at a series of house rallies held in the interests of Edward J. Fegan the Democratic nominee. Voters of all parties turned out in large numbers at the rallies and the candidate was given a great ovation.

A number of local speakers accompanied candidate Fegan all of whom declared Mr. Fegan to be one of the strongest candidates in the history of the party and predicted that his popularity had gathered great headway all over the city especially since his flattering nomination.

Mr. Fegan waxed warm with eloquence as he expounded the issues of the campaign and staked that never before in its history, had Quincy faced such grave problems as confront the incoming administration.

He said he was not going to make any pledges or promises that could not be fulfilled and confined his talk in the main to a discussion of the city government.

"The government of the city has been getting too far away from the people," said Mr. Fegan. "We must deprecate a condition where efficient officials can be removed from public service at the whim or caprice of an executive officer.

"The necessity of selecting one who is trained in matters of municipal government is apparent when one considers some of the mistakes of past administrations," be continued.

"No man who has not made a study of these matters can expect to avoid the mistakes which others have made."

TRAIN LOAD OF SHEET METAL

A score of cars, loaded with sheet metal to be used in ship construction, was sidetracked at the Fore River shipyard Monday and is now being unloaded. The metal came all rail, direct from the Bethlehem Steel Co., and is the first special freight to Quincy in many months.

Although scenes of the greatest activity will be daily witnessed in the yard within three months the time has hardly arrived for the company to engage the force of men necessary to complete prospective contracts and every morning hundreds who seek employment are turned away.

There is however a dearth of angle iron workers and it is understood that all such craftsmen are readily obtain employment. The contract for the two torpedo boats has not yet been awarded but it is an accepted fact that two will be built here.

CANDIDATES WITHDRAW

Some Defeated Men to Take Out Nomination Papers

Several withdrawals have been recorded at the office of City Clerk Crane since Monday and as a result but three Democratic candidates for councilman-at-large will be in the field.

Joseph H. Fitzgerald and Michael A. Kelly of West Quincy who received that nomination through their names having been written on the ballot at Ward Four on primary day will not continue candidates.

Andrew Johnson who was given the Progressive nomination for councilman from Ward One has also withdrawn but it is understood that he will file independent papers for that office under the designation of Independent Republican.

William H. Flynn of Ward two, a former councilman, who failed of nomination, has announced that he intends to enter the fight as an independent. Mr. Flynn served three years but has not been really active in ward affairs since that time.

Just who he will direct his forces against is not known but it will either be Councilman Thomas Griffin, candidate for re-election, or Timothy J. tSack. who holds the Democratic nomination.

Thomas J. McGrath, according to report may enter the councilman-at-large fight as an independent but definite information is not available.

The independent mayoralty papers taken out by Edward J. Parker, chairman of the Democratic City Committee are said to be circulating in interest of Edward J. Fegan, the party nominee. It was stated this morning from authentic sources that Mr. Fegan would not withdraw as per rumors in circulation the past few days.

It is further said that Joseph H. McPherson, school committee man from Ward Four, who is a candidate for re-election, will have another man pitted against him in the person of Matthew J. Sheahan, a Wall supporter.

MASONIC VISITATION.

James G. Brown of Wollaston, worshipful master of Massachusetts lodge A. F. & A. M., invited a large number of Quincy and Wollaston Masons to the Masonic Temple, Boston, Monday evening, the occasion being the annual visitation of David T. Montague, district deputy grand master of the first Masonic district. The deputy was accompanied by a suite of fifty or more. Worshipful Brown and the regular officers of the lodge gave an excellent exhibition of the Master Mason's degree which won the plaudits of the deputy and suite. Rev. Pro. Edward A. Chase, formerly of Wollaston, gave the charge, which has seldom been equalled. The Pilgrim Quartet assisted. During the evening a past masters' diploma was presented to Worshipful Brown, and a fifty-year diploma to one of the veteran members. Salads and ices were served at the close of the meeting. James C. Bates of Wollaston is the veteran secretary of this lodge and very popular with the members. The lodge is in a flourishing condition.

—The torpedo boats K-5 and K-6 passed through the Cape Cod canal on Monday en route from Boston to Newport.

QUINCY ATLANTIC

A direct mail from Atlantic to Quincy closes at 8.15. Letters for this mail should not be dropped in the street boxes after the last collection in the evening. Morning collections are too late. Letter correspondents will please drop letters at the Atlantic post office before 8 A. M.

The annual fair of the Methodist church opens Wednesday evening.

The November entertainment by the Ladies Benevolent Society of Memorial church Monday evening brought out a large number, and the entertainment was one of the best ever given in the church. The program began with a baritone solo by William A. McDevitt of Boston, who was enthusiastically encored. Among the songs received most heartily was the popular war song of the British now in the war zone—"It is a Long Way to Tipperary." The singer entered into the sentiment and history of the song that the large audience felt the enthusiasm of the soloist and gave the third encore to Mr. McDevitt. John Thomas, the humorist, won the audience at once with his genial smile, and kept the audience in a roar of laughter in every selection. Mr. Thomas has the rare ability to say the most ludicrous things, and put on the funniest facial expressions, yet all through the entertainment was dignified and refined. Miss Lora Churchill and Miss Jordine Davison of Atlantic were among the soloists of the evening. Miss Margaret Read and Miss Hazel Davison were accompanists. Mrs. T. W. Davison and Mrs. George W. Hight were the committee in charge, and the ushers were the Misses Marjorie and Gretchen Young, and Miss Winnie Cole.

GRADING NOT SATISFACTORY

The grading of the Adams school lot, according to rumors circulating throughout the South Quincy district is not satisfactory to members prominent in the Parent-Teachers Association of the school, and it is possible that there will be a warm discussion on the subject at the regular meeting tonight.

There is also a possibility that a resolution will be introduced, to be forwarded to the school committee, asking that the children attending the school be allowed half a session each term to pick up the stones on the lot, owing to the many that work through the surface.

Whether or not the Adams school is out of the forum of debate is not known but the indications point strongly towards the former. This morning Mayor Whiton and Commissioner Brown viewed the premises.

Mrs. Coy of the Woman's Home Missionary Society will speak at the evening service, Hall Place M. E. church, Sunday Nov. 22.

Miss Monica Ash, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John H. Ash, is at her home after a slight operation performed at the Des Brisay hospital, Boston. She is doing well.

The regular business meeting of the Epworth League was held in the vestry of the Hall Place M. E. church, Monday. After the usual devotional service led by the president reports were received from the various officers and placed on file. Miss Mary Williams was elected to fill the vacancy in the fourth department. Miss Mabel Phillips and Arthur Williams were elected to membership. A committee of two were appointed to have charge of furnishing the entertainment at the next Pilgrim Union meeting, December 10, as per the request of the fourth department of the Pilgrim Union. The invitation was accepted to attend a social given by the Pilgrim Union in St. John's church, South Boston. After the business session, cocoa and cake were served by the fourth department.

The Ladies Aid of the Hall Place M. E. church will serve another of their fine suppers in the vestry Wednesday evening. The young people will give an entertainment.

J. E. Ost, the great Swedish voilinist give a concert at the Swedish Congregational church on Garfield street tonight. He will be assisted by Mrs. Victoria Ellstrom-Bedel, pianist and Miss Hildur Ellstrom, singer.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.

The present engagement of Cyril Maude and his English company at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston is undoubtedly the most notable theatrical event of the season. At every performance this cosy theatre has been filled with fashionable audiences with standing room selling at a premium.

"Grumpy," is the play in which Mr. Maude and his capable company have scored in so heavily, not only here, but last season, Mr. Maude's first American tour the piece was presented at Wallack's Theatre, New York, for over 200 performances, running up to the date of his sailing for London. On his return to London, the piece was presented at Mr. Maude's playhouse for 200 performances. Both in New York and London, "Grumpy" was the theatrical sensation. "Grumpy" can possibly be best described by quoting from the criticism in the Boston Daily Advertiser of Nov. 10th. It says: "Grumpy" stirs your laughter, puts an extra beat into your heart, draws your breath a shade faster, and, which is best of all, warms up your precious heart and makes the world seem like a very nice place to be in, after all." The engagement of Mr. Maude is limited and seats are selling three weeks in advance. The matinees at the Plymouth are Thursdays and Saturdays.

QUINCY POINT

T. Frank Drake of 170 Washington street, well known in this city and a former member of the Board of Assessors, is critically ill at his home.

NORTH WEYMOUTH

The condition of Mrs. H. F. Thomas who has been ill for some time, remains about the same.

Several North Weymouth residents attended the funeral at South Weymouth Sunday of Charles Morrill, a G. A. R. veteran. A delegation from W. R. C. 102 were present, Mrs. Morrill being a prominent member of that order.

The two year old son of Thomas DeCoste of Neck street is ill with typhoid fever.

Mrs. John Wilder of Norwell spent the week end with North Weymouth relatives.

Ernest Trussell and Miss Louise Hersey of South Weymouth were married Sunday.

Mrs. E. J. Jordan has returned from a visit to relatives in New York. Her sister, Mrs. Ella Haskell, returned with her for a short stay.

Addison Dingwall has returned to his studies at the Athens school after an absence of two months with typhoid fever. His brother John is convalescing slowly, being able to be about his home this week.

Past President Walter Winward of the Hooker Association and daughter Mrs. Alice Heibeck attended the celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the birth of Maj. Gen. Joseph Hooker at Tremont Temple Nov. 13th, Ex-Gov. Curtis Guild presiding.

John Heibeck sailed from Liverpool Saturday on the American Liner Philadelphia, due to arrive in New York the latter part of the week.

Stanton H. King with "Sea Tales" was the speaker at the Sunday night Forum. The soloist was Miss Ruth Jean Maca Tammany.

The funeral of Ex-Selectman J. Clarence Howe, who died in California was held Sunday at his late residence, Rev. W. W. Rose officiating. Wildey Lodge attended and the Odd Fellow's service was read by N. G. Roy Sherman and Chaplain Rev. W. W. Rose.

QUICK WORK.

The quick work of the South Braintree fire department doubtless prevented sesrisous loss this morning when a lively blaze was discovered in the tailor shop in the large building owned by the Schraut estate on Pearl street. The building contains the bakery of Joseph H. Schraut, a store rented for tailoring purposes by a Greek and on the second and third floors, apartments occupied by families. The alarm was sounded at 4.10 A. M. by neighbors who had been aroused by the crackling of flames. The blaze evidently started in a closet under the stairs and had gained great headway, burning through the stairway into the main hallway.

The principle loss was caused by smoke to the stock in the two stores and is estimated at about $500. The prompt response of Chief F. A. Tenney with the automobile chemical and the good work of himself and his men no doubt prevented a fire which would have destroyed much valuable property and possibly several lives.

MAYOR'S NIGHT AT FIRST PARISH CLUB

Mayor Whiton and Republican Mayoralty Candidates at Head Table

Schollarly Address on "The Breakdown of Civilization"

The dinner and meeting of the First Parish club Tuesday night might well be called Mayor's night. First because the present Mayor of the City of Quincy, the regular Republican nominee for Mayor at the coming municipal election, and two of the candidates who were seeking the Republican nomination at the recent primaries, were seated at the head table and lastly because the address of the evening was one of vital interest to all communities, that is "The breakdown of civilization."

Rev. Mr. Hudson the president sat near the centre of the head table while at his left were Mayor Whiton, Chester I. Campbell, the Republican candidate, Henry F. Tilden and Charles H. Johnson, two of Mr. Campbells opponents at the city primaries, and at his right were the speakers of the evening Rev. Edward Cummings, Col. Anderson and John L. Hamilton one of the managers of the Campbell campaign and Nathan Ames one of the managers of the Tilden campaign.

Col. Anderson said grace at the opening, and the dinner included roast beef, mashed potatoes, string beans, rolls, coffee, and ice cream, and as usual was pronounced excellent.

In introducing the speaker of the evening President Hudson said it was important that we did a little serious thinking about good government. Good government means duty and self sacrifice. Ready to die if necessary for our country. While no political issues are to be furthered we are largely interested in that which stands for the uplifting of our community. We want men with a clear comprehension of its needs. Men who will make the sacrifice and have the strength to do it without favor. A man with a stiff backbone. He felt sure that we all could express our appreciation and admiration and could give our support to one of the club members who is at present acting as Mayor and is trying to do his duty.

As President Hudson concluded these words all rose and expressed their appreciation of the work of Mayor Whiton with spontaneous applause.

In reply President Whiton thanked the members. It had been hard at

In This Way Thousands of War Victims Are Buried In Common Graves In French Cemeteries.

Soldiers who die of their wounds in hospitals in France are buried in common graves in cemeteries purchased for the purpose. The picture shows one of these sad interments at Rheims, France. A score of French soldiers who died in the hospital there are being buried in a long trench while sympathizers, mostly women, throw a handful of dirt on each rough wooden box as it is lowered. Notice that another trench is already dug for the next batch of victims.

IMPORTANCE OF GOOD GOVERNMENT

Stimulates the Republicans to Present a United Front for Chester I. Campbell

Joint Meeting of City Committee and Campbell Committee

The headquarters of the Republican City Committee on Temple street were crowded Tuesday evening when the Business Men's Administration Committee met with the Republican City Committee and enthused over the prospects of a big majority for Chester I. Campbell and all the regular Republican nominees for the City Council and the School Committee.

President John R. Richards presided and George Westland was secretary pro tem.

At the outset the Republican City Committee voted unanimously to cooperate with the Campbell Committee which has arranged rallies for all wards of the city. Candidate Campbell and the Republican candidates at large for the City Council and School Committee will be invited to address the voters in all wards of the city, and the candidates from wards will appear in their own wards. There will be other speakers and music.

Candidate Campbell was unable to attend the meeting, but most of the other candidates were present, and spoke, including Frank F. Prescott Charles L. Gilliatt, Robert B. Craig Herbert G. Beeman and George A. Bolster, at large for the City Council; Arthur W. Newcomb at large for the School Committee; and the candidates from the different wards. Other speakers were Charles H. Johnson, a recent candidate; President Richards, Vice President A. L. Whitman, Mayor Whiton, John L. Hamilton, representing Candidate Campbell; John F. Mahoney, the publicity man; Ira M. Whittemore, Isadore Abrams, Alexander Cowe, Representative E. J. Sandberg, ex-Mayor John O. Hall, ex-Representative Walter E. Piper and others.

The remarks of Charles H. Johnson a recent rival of Mr. Campbell were particularly pleasing. He promised to do everything possible for the election of the nominee and the regular Republican ticket, and said there was no foundation for any of the rumors to be contrary.

Mayor Whiton said that in the short time that he had been the Acting Mayor he had come to realize the need of a man with the courage of of his convictions in the executive chair, and a strong City Council. He shuddered to think what would happen if some men were elected. I think I have opened the door for Mr. Campbell to give the city a good busi-

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

To Organize Alumni Association This Evening

Indications point to a large attendance at the organization of the Quincy High School Alumni Association this evening. Many of the older graduates as well as those in recent years are interested, particularly in the class reunions to be held in the different class rooms between 7.30 and 8 o'clock.

The program for the alumni meeting includes addresses and music, action on the reports of committees on constitution and by-laws, committee on nominations, committee on entertainment, and committee on publicity. Permanent officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

Tuesday, the Daily Ledger began the publication of the list of graduates since the school was established in 1852,. There is no record of the first 12 years, but in 1864 the custom of presenting diplomas was established, and the list by classes for the 50 years since is nearly complete.

Classmates are requested to make corrections, and also to forward to the secretary elect information relative to marriage or death, and also the street and post office addresses of all graduates. The publication of the list of graduates is continued today:

STRATEGY OF EUROPEAN WAR

Interesting Talk Before Congregational Men's Club

"If Germany succeeds in breaking through and getting across the river into France before winter sets in, then Germany will win, but if the Allies succeed in keeping the Germans from crossing the river then the Allies win."

This was the summing up of the address of T. Lathrop Stoddard, before the Congregational club at Wollaston Tuesday night on the great strategy of the European war with a sketch of the campaign up to date.

As usual the club met at 6.30 B. H. Bain, the vice president presiding in the absence of President Chester I. Campbell who was attending the dinner of the First Parish club at Quincy. An appetizing dinner was served which was followed by singing by the Campbell chorus and members of the club fully 110 of whom were present at the dinner.

President Campbell arrived a little after 7.30 and was given an enthusiastic welcome.

At 7.45 an adjournment was made to the main church where a large audience of ladies and gentlemen had assembled to hear the address.

The speaker described minutely the campaign up to date and said that he did not think there would be any holy war. There would be trouble however in Africa but not in India. The first English troops sent to the front were the best fighting and the best drilled but Germany have the largest and strongest men soldiers.

The talk was an intensely interesting one and the speaker was closely followed.

WILL QUINCY GRANITE BE USED?

The contract for the new breakwater to be built off the fish pier, South Boston, has been awarded by the Port Directors to W. H. Ellis & Sons of East Boston. Work will be commenced within a few days. The sea wall will start at a point on Northern avenue, just beyond the end of the administration building of the Boston Fish Market Corporation and about 500 feet south of the fish pier. For 1100 feet it will parallel the pier and at that point curve for about 200 feet to the north and end there, making its total length about 1300 feet. The approximate cost will be $20,000. A time limit of four months is given for its construction.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Dillon of 34 Field street are happy parents, a daughter being born to them on Monday.

It is evidently time for wide skirts to come in fashion, or the women might get their money's worth out of the narrow ones.

This talk about lower salaries for ball players seems to ignore the fact that they are supplying one of the basic necessities of life.

Every one claims to be happy over the election, but some of the politicians look as if they knew more.

Not merely is an automobile as cheap as a horse and wagon this fall, but when you have a collision, it is the horse and wagon that gets smashed up.

In spite of the fact that women's short skirts make their shoes so conspicuous, the Old Man hasn't even hinted that he would be glad to blacken them.

As it would be the common-sense thing for Europe to stop fighting and treat for peace on a business basis, there seems to be no chance that they will do it.

If the Republican City Committee believe that in Chester I. Campbell they have a worthy candidate for Mayor, it behooves them to get busy without further delay and proceed to make his election sure and emphatic. There is no time to lose. The same suggestion might well be taken to heart by every voter regardless of his political affiliations. It is claimed on behalf of Mr. Campbell that he has the capacity and ability to manage the affairs of the city wisely, efficiently and economically ;and no one questions his integrity.

Quincy needs just such administration of her public affairs as it seems Mr. Campbell is willing and able to give her. There should be no sulking on the part of any member of the Republican City committee and there should be no stay-at-homes on election day. If Chester I. Campbell is to be elected he should be given such a large plurality as will give him a deep sense of public confidence when he assumes the duties of the mayoralty. Such a feeling helps any mayor and makes it easier for him to make good.

THE GOLDEN CORN CROP.

The final government report on corn shows that the American farmer will get a greater total of money for his crop than ever before. Production is a trifle under the average, but the price is high.

Corn is the universal American product. It is produced in more counties than any other one staple. Many people think of it as a lazy man's crop. They point to the indolent Indians, who grew and thrived on it for centuries before the paleface invaded their slackly tilled fields.

Yet the fact that the bulk of the crop is raised on moderate sized farms is significant. The shifting and more or less ignorant gang of farm help on which the big wheat farm or cotton plantation must depend, do not usually get the best results on corn. It is a crop that requires close and thoughtful attention.

Corn is a great democratic food product and back-yard staple for the poor man. Countless families lived through the earlier days, when white flour was a luxury, on johnny cake, hoe cake, hasty pudding, and other cookery from corn flour.

There is an old rustic yarn about a father and mother who were called away by illness of a relative, leaving a family of children at home. They had left little food and less money in the house, but had a field of corn. When the old people came back, there was no money in the house, but there was a heap of corncobs in the back-yard, and the children were as fat and rosy as pigs.

Experts on corn culture are not yet satisfied with the present corn raising methods. They feel that growers are too sure that the soil is not being exhausted. In rich corn country, farmers sometimes take stable manure and dump it into holes in the roads, or anything to get rid of it. Even the richest corn field is not a gold mine. Something ought to be put back.

MAYOR'S NIGHT

times to do it, but he felt that so far he had conducted the affairs of the city without fear or favor. There had been many trying times, but he believed that he had the strength of purpose to carry out these things he had started. Every man, rich or poor, class creed or race, will get the same treatment. He would see that all did what the law and ordinances of the city compel them to do, so far as God gave him strength to carry it out. Further applause greeted Mayor Whiton as he resumed his seat.

In introducing the speaker of the evening President Hudson told of his first meeting with Mr. Cummings and the hospitality which he had extended to him. How he had carried out his purpose to help men carry out their ideas now as he did when occupying the chair of economics at Harvard.

In opening Mr. Cummings said that all he had met at the World's fair at Chicago were not so well informed as was your president. He also spoke of his long friendship with Mr. Hudson. After telling an anecdote of Dr. Hale, whose successor he was at the South Congregational church. Mr. Cummings launched into his subject with a vim, and for over an hour he held the closest attention of his hearers. Frequent interruptions by applause told only too well that he had struck a sympathetic chord. It was one of the most interesting addresses which the club has been privileged to hear for a long tiem.

"This is a dying world in an historic sense." said the speaker, "An educated person knows something about civilization and what proceeds it and man has found the way of life and walked in it. The nearest to civilization is that of the Chinese. What will happen if we insist that they go to war, that was given up years ago and insist that they again learn to fight, he did not know.

We have got to remember that the great problem of civilization is to find the way of life so that we shall not repeat the endless process of failure. Our civilization today is an ominous suggestion of what might overtake it. As a matter of fact if we judge by the past it is inevitable. While luxury has played its part in killing off civilization, what has killed off civilization in the past has been war, military glory and the like. It has been the greatest curse of the decline of civilization .

When we get through this war and count up the hundreds of thousands of young men who went to war before they became fathers you will realize what war is doing to destroy civilization. The speaker said that he liked peace and was willing to fight for it

He then told of two men who had been sent from the planet Mars to the earth. One was to seek what had been the greatest hindrance in its growth of the earth and the other the greatest help to its growth. They divided one going from east to west and the other from west to east. When they returned to Mars and reported both had the same story. The greatest help to growth had been religion and patriotism and the greatest hindrance to growth had been religion and patriotism.

The one said that instead of being a sense of unity religion had split them all up. That each in going to war prayed to the same God to help them and he that won a victory thanked God for helping him. The other said, that although religion had split them up it was gradually working so that all might become a more united and fraternal organization.

War is costing England $5,000,000 a day. Just think what could be done if all this energy was devoted to one common good. He would only say his that if we of the nineteenth century had only been preaching the gospel of the Prince of Peace, a religion which says blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called the children of God, and the present conditions existed he should say our condition was hopeless. But we have been preaching something else.

The great problem is the fundamental understanding of the law of life as it affects nations and industries. The speaker then spoke of the law of evolution and how 99 out of 100 believe it is the killing off of the weak by the strong.

The speaker then spoke of the true law of evolution. The growth of the family to the clan, the clan to the tribe, the tribe to the state and the state to the nation. This was a master piece, in the way of description, as the speaker brought the man up to his standard of civilization.

In conclusion he said that true patriotism today was that of God for the country as a stepping stone for something higher. We have not seen the things that God has prepared for his great family. It was our duty even at a sacrifice to show our loyalty and protest to the warring nations that this war must cease.

As the speaker concluded his hearers arose as one man and applauded.

OVER 7000 NOW ON VOTING LIST

Increase of 91 Over Number on Lists in Dec. 1913

Registration for the municipal election of Dec. 1, has now closed and unless one has seen to it that his name is on the voting lists he can not have a word to say as to who shall govern the city next year.

The voting lists as they now stand contain the names of 7,089 male voters and 56 female voters, an increase of 91 male voters and six female voters over December 1913.

The largest precinct in the city is precinct one of Ward One which has 881 voters, and the time is not far distant when it must be divided. Next in line are precincts one and two of Ward Five, the former having 694 voters and the latter 674. Then comes precinct one of Ward Three with 670 voters, and precinct two of Ward One with 627.

The smallest precinct in the city at the present time is precinct one of Ward Two which had but 327 voters.

As for female voters Ward Five leads with 25 an increase of 2 over a year ago. Ward One shows a loss of one over a year ago, now having but eight female voters. Ward Six also shows a loss in female voters from 18 a year ago to 13 at the present time. The net increase over last year is six voters. Wards Three and Four have no female voters and Ward Two but one.

The following table gives the number of registered voters this year compared with a year ago.

	Dec. 1914	Dec. 1913
Ward One, Pre. 1,	637	680
Ward One, Pre. 2,	881	813
Ward Two, Pre. 1,	327	342
Ward Two, Pre. 2,	605	568
Ward Three, Pre. 1,	670	645
Ward Three, Pre. 2,	517	519
Ward Four, Pre. 1,	509	480
Ward Four, Pre. 2,	480	473
Ward Five, Pre. 1,	694	677
Ward Five, Pre. 2,	674	599
Ward Six, Pre. 1,	607	567

—Springfield's City Charter Commission of one hundred is still wrestling with the problem of a fundamental law that shall produce the best results in municipal government. Last week a lively session was held and two plans were discussed, the city manager plan and the Federal plan. There was no suggestion favoring the commission form. No conclusions were reached and other meetings will be held at which not only home talent will be called upon, but speakers from other States, especially Henry M. Waite, the city manager of Dayton, O. The place of which he is the representative has many advocates in the commission, though it would mean a wider departure from present methods than even a commission form. The government of Springfield has been quite creditable in the past, especially that part of it that deals with educational interests, and there does not seem to be any crisis at the present time that would warrant extremely radical experiments.

City Treasurer Curtis has sold a temporary loan of $50,000 maturing Feb. 12, 1915 to Curtis & Sanger at 4.73 percent discount.

Let's figure it out and see

How much would you charge to go to the grocer's or the provision dealer's ?

How much would you give, on a stormy day, to be able to visit a distant friend ?

How much would it be worth, in case your child were taken suddenly ill at night, to be able to summon the doctor at once, and, perhaps, by special instructions from him by wire, to be able to give temporary relief pending his arrival or even to save its life ?

The expense of a telephone is not figured by what it costs for a whole year, but by how much it saves each time it is used. Therefore, with all these things in mind, ask yourself

AN EDUCATOR ON ADVERTISING.

The University of Wisconsin now has a chair of business with a professor occupying it. He is Ralph Starr Butler. What he said the other day about the necessity of advertising was no more than the truth. He defined advertising as the merchant's greatest need. He also said, in part: "The merchant who is looking toward the largest success can no more do without newspaper advertising than he can do without his sign, his store windows, his display of goods, his service his courteous clerks, his reputation, and the thousand and one other things that go to make up advertising. Newspaper advertising is a modern necessity, and the merchant who refuses to limit his business horizon does not try to fool himself by thinking that he can get along without it."

Times may be a little dull sometimes even for the advertiser. They will be duller for him if he doesn't advertise. They are pretty sure to be dull with him all the time, regardless of good or bad economic conditions in the land, if he hides his light under a bushel all the while. People have no time in these days to go hunting for the fellow who has something to sell—there are too many other dealers who are hunting for the customer People sit down and look for advertised suggestions and prices when they are in their homes. They can't take days to go from place to place asking clerks all over the city about goods and prices in order to see where they want to trade and what there is worth buying.—Brockton Enterprise.

THE WOLLASTON WOMAN'S CLUB.

Tuesday the Wollaston Woman's club held its regular meeting in the Unitarian church with the president Mrs. Ropes in the chair. Announcement was made of the Education Conference to be held in Jamaica Plain by the State Federation Thursday at which a club member, Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney is to read, and a very excellent programme is promised.

The social and Industrial Association of Boston is producing a play "The Yellow Bird," at the Wilbur Theater Friday afternoon and Saturday morning, Nov, 27 and 28th which will be of great interest to children. Every Saturday morning at 10.30 there is to be an entertainment consisting of motion pictures etc., for children at Tremont Temple to which they may go unaccompanied.

Announcement was made of the opera "Priscilla" to be given by the club, Jan. 22 in Quincy Music hall, the proceeds of which are to be devoted to the philanthropic work of the club.

Mrs. Homer announced that the exchange had received a large number of articles suitable for holiday gifts.

Attention was called to the opera talks to be given in the vestry of the Methodist church by Havrah Hubbard. The first one on Nov. 23, subject La Boheme.

Communications were read from J. O. Hall of the Quincy Board of Trade and from Mrs. Lars Anderson asking the clubs assistance in the Belgian Relief work. A committee of three was appointed with Miss Hattie E. Turner as chairman.

There were so many requests for invitations to the dancing party to be given Friday evening in Alpha hall that Mrs. Short announced that she had a few tickets.

The afternoon was in charge of the programme committee and Mrs. Chas. R. Safford introduced the club's president, Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes, as the lecturer and Mrs. Ropes' very clever response provoked a good deal of merriment.

In a most charming and delightful manner with beautiful illustration the speaker carried her listeners on a trip "Under Italian Skies," first stopping at the Azores where a day was spent in sightseeing Gibraltar was next. The wonderful fortress and signal station was a most imposing sight. The morning after arrival the party was taken ashore and found vast interest in the people and customs and saw tiny donkeys carrying the produce, so heavily loaded that only their heads and tails were visible. The neutral ground was of great interest, it being necessary to procure passes to enter beyond the boundary lines. Hundreds of people pass here each day, but all must be on their respective sides at night as the gates are always closed at nightfall.

Mrs. Ropes gave a most interesting account of the Arabs of Algiers, their customs, the narrow streets, with still narrower sidewalks and peculiar houses closely built together, the Arabs themselves looking for all the world like spirits with their loose garments.

Club members will not soon forget the beautiful Bay of Naples with its blue waters; the city where children sell flowers and postcards on the street and the Italian boy has a wonderful knowledge of American slang. Pompeii was next and the picture of that mountain with its smoking crater enveloped with fleecy clouds will linger long in the minds of the listeners. Many pictures were shown illustrating the city buried nineteen centuries ago by that awful river of lava. The beautiful trip to Capri and the blue Grotto, and on to Sorento and the wonderful drive to Amalfi, were bits of paradise. One night was spent in La Cava, then on to Rome, thence to Venice.

There was much of interest in this city of islands. St. Marks cathedral, the jewel-box of Italy was shown with Mrs. Ropes feeding the pigeons in the square. The Doges Palace, Bridge of Sighs and prison were visited, and the Rialto and home of Shylock. The gondoliers singing on the ground canal and the wonderful array of washing hung in true Italian fashion as well as the little curio and lace shops made Venice a city long to be remembered.

The personal experiences and anecdotes made the lecture of unusual interest and very real to all the club members and friends privileged to enjoy it.

GENERAL FEDERATION BIENNIAL

Mrs. Jennie B. Worster and Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop delegates from the Quincy Women's Club to the Biennial meeting of the General Federation of Women's Clubs held in Chicago last June, made their reports at the opening of the club Oct. 13. They were too long to incorporate in the regular club news the following day so with their permission they are published in full in this edition believing our readers will find them of much interest.

MRS. WORSTER'S REPORT.

On June 8th between 60 and 70 ladies left Boston at 2 o'clock for Chicago to attend the twelfth Biennial of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. We arrived in Chicago at 3 o'clock Tuesday, June 9th, going immediately to Congress Hotel where rooms had been engaged for us. The metings were held in the Auditorium theatre which seats 5000 people. It adjoins Congress hotel and is connected with it by a subway which was very convenient. In the evening a complimentary concert was given by the National Symphony orchestra of 75 pieces with solo by Miss Jennie Dufau and David Bispham of the Opera Company.

Wednesday morning a council was held where many things pertaining to the good of the Federation were discussed. In the afternoon there was a conference in which Mrs. Robert Burdette of California spoke on dress. She said clothes should be an expression of our inward life. The immoral hobble, the injurious heels, ostrich plumes which are often bought by virtue should go. Suitability should be the key-note. She was plainly scowled.

Mrs. Blankenburg first vice president who followed her said: "We are going to vote some day, let us have skirts wide enough to vote in. Styles should be simple We want American fashions for American women. One speaker spoke of the fact that our clothes are planned by men. We are competent to plan our own clothes. What would happen if women were to attempt to plan clothes for men."

In the evening was the formal opening of the Biennial. The Auditorium was filled. After a beautiful invocation by Dr. Rowena Mann of Chicago, Mrs. George Bass chairman of the Federation committee welcomed us to Chicago. Mrs. Dow president of Illinois State Federation followed her. Mrs. Bass said at all Biennials the Mayor and Governor had welcomed us, but now women were citizens in Illinois and for the first time had the honor of welcoming the Biennial. Mrs. Dow said the women's clubs had taught women to study and observe, to follow life and understand it as a vital problem.

Mrs. Pennybacker president of the General Federation responded to the two ladies in a masterful manner and closed with the following toast: "Here is to our hostess Illinois typified by her daughter Chicago. May she be the spirit of perpetual youth, revering but not hampered by tradition, may she grow into the ideal city that ministers not alone to the physical needs of the people but to the minds and hearts as well."

There was beautiful music and among the speakers was Miss Jane Addams. Her subject was Women's Clubs and Public Policies.

Thursday's meeting opened at 9.30. We listened to reports of work done by officers and chairmen of committees during the last two years, 3000 delegates were reported at the meeting. The Bureau of Information reported 25,000 letters sent out. Chairman of Endowment Committee reported $78,000 paid in.

Mrs. Pennybacker the president in her address said she had visited 37 states, had spoken at peace, social hygiene, conservation and educational congresses and had spent more than two-thirds of the time from her home. She is a remarkable woman. Every meeting began on time. Every speaker was given a certain time for their address and when time was up Mrs. Pennybacker pleasantly arose and the speaker was obliged to stop. She also closed every meeting on time. She said the Federation really needed three presidents one to stay at home and answer correspondence, one to go out, and one to be known as a social president. She paid a beautiful tribute to the late Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker. In fact the spirit of Mrs. Decker seemed to pervade all the meetings so many times and in connection with so many things she was spoken of.

In the afternoon foreign delegates spoke from Lahore India; Isle of Pines, West Indies; London, Montreal, Havana, Cuba; Calgary, Canada; and Tokio, Japan. In the evening there was a brilliant reception at the Art Museum.

Friday morning more reports, very interesting all. Among the speakers who followed was Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools in Chicago. In the afternoon a conference was held with addresses by Miss Jane Addams and others. In the evening the Chicago Madrigal Club sang several numbers and later Mrs Carrie Chapman Catt gave an address, subject "The World Progress of Women."

The meeting closed with a hymn "America the Beautiful" which was printed and passed through that vast audience, all singing led by the mammoth organ.

Saturday, reports on Art, Music and Literature with addresses by noted artists. Universal Suffrage was given the stamp of approval by the General Federation. At San Francisco this subject was avoided but the time seemed to have come for it to be brought up.

The following resolution was read: Whereas the question of the political equality of men and women today is the vital problem under discussion in the civilized world therefore be it resolved that the General Federation of Women's Clubs give the cause of political equality for men and women its moral support by recording its earnest belief in the principle of political equality regardless of sex.

It was almost a solemn occasion. Although it was known there were some in that vast audience opposed to the resolution not a voice was raised against it; two spoke for it; the previous question was moved and carried and the resolution was endorsed unanimously. Cheers followed, handkerchiefs were waved and the Federated Clubs had spoken their thought. One woman said "It was a wonderful sight when the resolution was passed by the united womanhood of the nation standing for a great principle; standing for truth, the truth that makes us free."

In the afternoon there was a conference. The evening was open for social engagements and many banquets were served in the several hotels. Sunday afternoon memorial services were held in the Auditorium for those who had passed on since the last Biennial; perhaps the best known to all was our Mrs. Decker whom all knew and loved.

Monday morning brought with other reports that of the nominating committee for officers for the next two years. Mrs. Blankenburg first vice president having resigned that position, Mrs. Sneath formerly second vice was chosen as first vice and Miss Georgia Bacon who was formerly director was chosen as second vice president which was very pleasing to Massachusetts delegates. Monday evening was the representation of States. All but three states of the forty-eight were represented by its state president and each answered the question "What is your state's greatest need?" Our president, Mrs. Perkins, said she had talked it over with her board of directors and they seemed to feel that more money was needed perhaps an endowment fund in the near future to carry on the work.

There were many bright answers given among them the following from the president of the Oklahoma clubs, Mrs. Charles R. Hume:

"For emphasis my outline is alliterative using the letters of Oklahoma.

"O, K, L, A—Spells our greatest needs.

"O—Stands for oneness of general federation obligating our observance of its efficiency and objects with obedience to official orders.

"K—Stands for friendship; knowledge of our kindred causes would knit and keep us in kindliest contact knowing our kind-hearted kinsfolk would kindle in us kindness, knowledge and keener interest.

"L—Loyalty; loving, lasting and limitless, linking us with our leaders in their lofty labors.

"A—Stands for acquaintance with the activities, administration and aspiration of the general federation, would augment our admiration and assistance attuned in accord with the administration.

"O, K, L, A—Auxiliaries would advance along all approved authorized avenues of achievement.

"H, O, M, A—Spells the aid you can give us.

"H—Hearty, helpfulness sending to us experts, heralds of health, harmony and higher ideals.

"O—Orators, open-hearted offering the broader outlook, outlining our obligations to other, obviously to your officiary.

"M—Messengers of mentality, masterly methods and meritorious missionaries.

"A—Adepts; advocating altruism and allegiance appealing to our affection and appreciation allying with us the administration in activities and aspirations.

"These spell for Oklahoma oneness, kinship, loyalty, acquaintance, with your helpfulness, open-heartedness, mentality and altruism."

In introducing Mrs. Ellen N. Henrotin, Mrs. Pennybacker called her "The Mother of the General Federation," and spoke of the joy and gratitude she must have felt at the consummation of her hopes as these daughters passed in review before her. Mrs. Henrotin's adress was a resume of the foundation and growth of the General Federation.

Tuesday the delegates were invited to visit the stock yards, by the owners. Special cars on the elevated were sent for us and a large number accepted the invitation. On our arrival we were received by a number of gentlemen who conducted us through that wonderful place. Many souvenirs were given us and later we were conducted to the Stock Yard Inn a lovely hotel a short distance from the yards where a very nice lunch was served. We arrived at our hotel about 4 o'clock having seen sights that we can never forget. In the evening a meeting was held in the Auditorium. Prof. Roth of University of Michigan made a strong plea for the women with their influence to help save the forests of the country. He was followed by George H. Maxwell who spoke of the value of waterways. Rivers were shown by him to be ungoverned streams. He urged the passage of the Newlands bill now before the Legislature at Washington for the conservation of waterways.

Wednesday morning the endowment fund came up for action. Mrs. James chairman reported $80,000 had been raised. Mrs. Pennybacker made a strong plea for the other $20,000. Miss Boswell, that bright little woman who went to Panama and started the club movement at the time the canal was built and Miss Mary G. Hay both of New York, came forward and amid much fun and wit the $20,000 was pledged, most of it by clubs some by individuals. The Massachusetts delegation present raised another $100, which with what has already been given gives Massachusetts the lead of all the States the amount given with this last $100. making the sum of $11,800. Later the election of officers of the General Federation for the next two years was announced and our Miss Georgia Bacon was elected second vice president.

Wednesday evening was held the closing meeting of the Biennial. A large audience with about 400 on the stage filled the Auditorium. This was the President's night and she had invited five young ladies daughters of visiting club women to speak. First we listened to two groups of songs then an address by Mrs. Philip Carpenter, subject: "What youth can bring to the Federation;" then each of the young ladies in turn were introduced and answered the question "The greatest service the General Federation can render the young women of America." Bright answers were given. Miss Margaret Wilson was the last speaker and spoke at length on her pet theme 'Social Centers.' She thought so many were absorbed in their own affairs that no time was given for the great problems of life. Everything must be done not in a sense of philanthropy but in love and democracy. Then came the introduction of the officers for the next two years; Mrs. Blankenburg the retiring first vice president presented them.

Each state delegation sits in a body at the Biennials. Massachusetts was represented by 65 delegates so we made quite a showing. For this even-

STORY HOUR AT THE LIBRARY

A very successful Story Hour was given at the Children's room of the Thomas Crane Public Library last Saturday morning and was fully appreciated by boys and girls from the 5th and 6th grades of the Massachusetts Fields, Wollaston and Montclair schools. Miss Ella Packard of the library told in a most interesting and happy manner stories from "Pinocchio." "King of the Golden River" and others. That the children enjoyed the stories was evideneed by their delighted faces and shining eyes. At the close of the hour a number of children who had never visited the library before made application for books for home reading.

A COLD DAY.

Coming so soon after a few days of mild weather the sudden drop in temperature makes one feel that the weather is colder than it really is. However the noon temperature today registered but 35 degrees, or three degrees above the freezing point making today the coldest at noon this fall. It is not a record breaker for November however for the noon temperature on Nov. 15 a year ago fell to the same mark while in Nov. 1912 it fell to 33 on Nov. 28. It is the coldest noon temperature for Nov. 18, however for nineteen years.

TURKEYS--THANKSGIVING--TURKEYS

ON TO WALTHAM IS THE SLOGAN

High Believe They Will Pull off Victory This Year

"On to Waltham" is the slogan at Quincy High School this week. An unusual burst of confidence seems to have struck the school after the trouncings its football team has administered to the heavy Brockton and Elm Hill teams during the past two weeks. Instead of feeling that Waltham is unbeatable, as has usually been the case, the feeling is that the local team has a chance to pull out a victory. To be sure, Waltham has yet to lose this year, but that fact isn't phazing the local rooters a bit, and a cheering section of about two hundred will accompany the team. Manager Barstow has had a section in the stands reserved for them. Tickets to this section can be purchased from the box office at the field.

The Quincy team is in the best of physical condition, and is better fortified with good substitutes that at any time during the past three years. Bogan, at quarter back, has straightened out the difficulties which kept him out of the Elm Hill game and will be in Saturday's line-up. Sanborn, who took his place last Saturday makes a very acceptable substitute, however, for he runs the team with a snap and uses good judgment. His greatest weakness is in the forward pass. His improvement during the season is more marked than that of any other player on the squad.

Quincy's game as shown so far this year has been built around Hamlin and Larkin, and the coaches feel that Waltham will have to put up its best football to offset the charges of these men. The Quincy line seems solid, and no team yet has been able to gain consistently through it. Waltham's attack in earlier games has been directed against the tackles, with frequent long forward passes. It is against this play that the local team must be particularly alert.

That Waltham is taking the game seriously is shown by the fact that eight Waltham players were among the spectators at the Quincy-Brockton game. Certainly what they saw there was not of a nature to ease their worries.

Bring your old shoes to us, we will make them young again at a very reasonable price.

SEVERAL PASS CENTURY MARK

Thompson and Mitchell Tie for Three String Total

A record number of bowlers passed the century mark in the Clan MacGregor matches at the Coliseum alleys Tuesday evening but Thompson secured the only triple total.

He and Mitchell led the bunch with 115 and Mavers and Birnie followed with 114. Thompson fell in again with 110 and McLean was next with 109. Stewart and Mitchell tied with 108. J. Troupe got 103 and A. Neil, the last man to pass the mark had 102.

The Mavers copped a 1400 total and beat the McKenzies 3 to 1. The latter's point was taken by only one pin.

CHURCH LEAGUE.

Rev. Stephen B. Lang of the Washington street Congregational church made a league record in the church league at the Wardwell alleys Tuesday night. His single of 113 is high to date and he is the first to triple since the league organized.

His team, Rocky Point, took three out of four from Beach Point and the Stage Points beat the Cedar Points 3 to 1.

AMONG THE CLUBS

ing we made up a little fund which enabled us to present Miss Bacon with a beautiful bouquet of roses and each delegate carried one with a very long stem. After Miss Bacon was introduced and had acknowledged the courtesy shown her, the Massachusetts delegates arose in a body and waved their long stem roses which was a very pretty sight and sang the following words to the music of "Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord:"

A band of Eastern women we
Of sixty thousand strong
To this great Federation
We would bring our greeting song
We pledge our best endeavors now
To help to right all wrong
As we are moving on
CHORUS
Glory, glory, glory Massachusetts
Our work is moving on.

We aim to be the daughters
Of our old Bay State
That love for service full and free
May every heart inflate
To bring some joy and sunshine
Into burdened lives that wait
As we are moving on.
CHORUS
Glory, glory, glory Massachusetts
Our State is moving on.

The meeting closed at 11 o'clock after which the delegates met in the room of Mrs. Perkins our state president and spent a short time in social enjoyment.

Thursday by the courtesy of the Chicago Woman's Club we were given an automobile ride to Evanston about ten miles from Chicago. The Woman's club there have completed and nearly paid for a $90,000 clubhouse in which they served the visiting club women a delicious lunch. On our way we visited all the beautiful parks and boulevards making a perfect finish to a beautiful and much enjoyed trip.

It was a wonderful Biennial. I feel that a gathering never could be quite like that one. The women were so alive and ready for work. I wish I could bring to you some of the enthusiasm of those meetings. The reports all show such a wonderful work done, women all alive from all over the world. Mrs. Catt told of the trials of the women in foreign countries trying to gain a little independence but under such tremendous difficulties, and they are looking to us to help them after we get where we can help ourselves. Let us be thankful that we live in America.

MRS. BISHOP'S REPORT.

Few moments in life are more trying than the one in which she who has travelled, seen, suffered and enjoyed, brings out her kodak pictures for the inspection of her friend and attempts to take her to unfamiliar places and make her enjoy and appreciate the experience. To one, the struggle to obtain the illustration and the delight at even the disappointing developed picture and the delicious thrill of memory as all that was disagreeable is forgotten and the wonderful delight remains, is given. To the other, the effort to understand, the patient waiting for the experience that does not come and the unbidden thought that competent writers have presented the story so much better and the moving picture man had shown the places with such vividness that only tolerance permits polite attention is known. After such a moment life is never the same again. One must have the genuine experience in order to appreciate it.

The one value of a delegate's report is to infuse the listeners with inspiration so that each member will be eager to have a similar opportunity and if not privileged as delegate to resolve to go as a member, denying herself luxuries or comforts if need be, to get into touch and genuine sympathy with the world. I could take the afternoon with kodak views and talk but would fail even then to give the inspiration.

For illustration, there was the evening at the Art Institute. Chicago can be hotter than any place that I know and it was at its hottest that evening. In the peace and quiet of a comfortable room on the lakeside, at the Congress hotel, it was easy, comparatively, to decide whether or not one would enjoy the concert or only the pageant, or try to take both and a few extra little affairs that are tempting and not so impossible to put on the best gown and start out, but then to find so soon as the elevator stops, dazzlingly attired women by scores, hundreds and thousands massed in the hotel, the streets and everywhere and a broiling atmosphere with no breeze. Forward is the word however and the Institute is almost at the door, diagonally across the street.

We met many returning, who said that there was no room, but this is the frequent cry, so we went on. A charming Southern lady, one of the first officers of the General Federation asked sweetly if she might join our party as she had been separated from her group. The honor was ours and while we met many a returning party, we found ourselves soon within the walls. It did not take long to abandon all thought of the concert, which was a rare treat and attempt only to place ourselves somewhere within sightseeing distance of the pageant, that formed early and passed on and on for hours, pausing to give illustrative dances and tableaux now and then and here and there all over the building.

It was wonderful, but beyond kodak pictures to reveal. Room after room was decorated beautifully and given up to the dainty serving of refreshments to continuous streams of elegantly gowned women, who were pressed in the crowd and failed to arrive anywhere or to depart when once on the spot. Everywhere the untiring courtesy, cordiality and good nature. It was a remarkable experience. Always the next neighbor proved to be a Texan, Californian or a charming lady from another distant state, whom it was such a privilege to meet and whose point of view was so good to get, yet whose voice would be heard for this little while and then never again in the life-stay of the individual.

Perhaps fifty of us from everywhere were seated on steps, awaiting the pageant, when a most attractive young lady advanced with a paper. She made each feel that it would be a privilege to put her name to the resolution. "Do we sign as club delegates or individuals," I asked. "As individuals only," she replied and I signed the suffrage resolution and Rosalie Jones, with a bit of a cheery story had gone on.

The next day, I thought the matter over very seriously. When the real contest was on, how should I vote? It seemed absurd not to favor Equal Rights. Any individual claims equality of right with all others, but this right to vote. After this consideration, I decided not to vote until several ballots had been taken and the time came when each individual vote would count and then vote for suffrage as my own choice because both the New England Woman's Press Association and the Quincy Women's club are divided in the matter. However the next day it was not mentioned and it was a surprise when on Saturday morning the chairman of the committee on resolutions read "Whereas, the question of political equality of men and women is today a vital problem under discussion throughout the civilized world, therefore:

"Resolved. That the General Federation of Women's Clubs gives the cause of political equality for men and women its moral support by recording the earnest belief in the principle of political equality regardless of sex."

It was a wonderful moment. The attempt of Illinois to sing "Glory, glory Hallelujah" was checked by the president's gavel and Mrs. Pennybacker said very slowly and calmly "We will be perfectly fair." Mrs. Joseph A. Leach of Kentucky with wonderful eloquence spoke to the question. To me, it seemed an argument against almost until the final words, "Therefore, I ask you all to vote for the resolution."

Mrs. Stearns of Wisconsin followed ably and all over the house eager speakers were ready to speak for and none against the resolution.

Then came the vote. Such volume as the "Yes," in reply cannot be conveyed to those not present. There were too few noes to be considered. There would be no second ballot and unopposed rang out the stirring battle hymn, "Glory, Glory Halleujah." And this delegate from Massachusetts had given conscientious consideration to her vote and dreaded the result lest it split the Federation.

As I sat apart in silence, it seemed that our dear sweet Lucy Stone, whose trust in God and faith in humanity never wavered stood by the gentle Southerner in the chair, and said so very quietly, "I knew that it would come, in God's good time. His time is now. My work is justified."

The lesson that it gave me that morning was that it does not matter greatly to the West what decision we take. Let them decide a question and they care nothing for precedent and are fearless in regard to the opinion of others. They recognize themselves as the advance guard of civilization and accept the responsibility. We are hearing about National prohibition. They know that it is to be. Of course they care about us. They love dear old New England as we love our grandmother's homestead and as we search in its attic for treasures and ancestral traces, so they are delighted to come to us. Much as we go to Europe to comprehend from what source our present day life has sprung and better to understand our interitance of impulses and ambitions, to spend a holiday, to rejoice with us, to honor us, they will turn to New England but in the World's work they will not consider us. They will not feel the need of us greatly. They face the farthest west and move forward. Our doubts and fears, our knowledge from experience means little to them. And we gain new life as we look at them, even as we rejoice year after year, when the young alumni burst forth from the college gates to save the world.

Looking back to the glorious June through the golden haze of these mid-October days, there appear only delightful events, making the delegate endeavor to be at conference, convention, congress, concert, luncheon or other ceremony at one and the same time and at the last, when the real Federation was over six sociological pilgrimages were planned, and each seemed more enjoyable than all others. Our party had the North Side trip. Out through the business section along the Lake Shore drive, which to us, dwellers by the ocean seemed very homelike as the great waves rushed on to break upon the beach. The parks of Chicago and the boulevards are numerous, extensive and very fine. The Zoo and conservatories lured us to the limit of our time. The Garfield Park conservatory is one of the largest of its kind in the world. No where else has an attempt ever been made for the exhibition of exotic plants in a public park with public funds on such a large scale."

At noon we were entertained by Sears, Roebuck & Co., with a fine luncheon, served in the dining room of their administration building. The gigantic work of this firm may be hinted at in a word, when we say that 120 at 125 car loads of freight are handled in their yards each day. We were conducted over this establishment and shown every courtesy and enjoyed rest in their beautiful park near by.

The afternoon drive included visits to settlement houses and a glimpse at the splendid work done there. The melting pot, in its seething reality was before our eyes and we were made glad that competent brains and busy hands were working out our problems, the unsolved problems of a very new civilization.

The stay in Chicago closed for me with the reception at the Lake Shore drive residence of Mrs. Potter Palmer. Only 1200 cards had been issued and when the boy brought one to my room unsolicited and addressed to me, I felt certain that there must have been a mistake and am not quite sure about it now. The butler at the entrance might have been made of stone, if judged by his unbending attitude. It mattered nothing who was left out and what her plea for entering, "I do not know you" was his one answer to all who came unless the correct card, properly made out, could be given to him. Having passed this obstacle, the cordiality of the hostessess and the abundance of refreshment could not be surpassed, while the unique art collection, which was the real reason why we were there had interpreters ever ready and nothing was lacking but time to enjoy. The splendor of the residence with its abundance of wonderful objects suggests a museum rather than a home, as all such palatial residences must and while we were very glad to have crossed the threshold and enjoyed the rare privilege, it made dearer the old song when we were back East again, "Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home."

REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

QUINCY SQUARE

This seems to be a popular week for church fairs.

Quincy will be represented this evening at Youngs hotel at the Massachusetts Waterways dinner under the auspices of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, by Frank Fessenden Crane, Joseph L. Whiton, J. S. Swingle and others.

The Library Social in Bethany chapel at 7.45 this evening promises to be an enjoyable affair. The committee have made extensive plans and hope to make this second in a series of Bethany social evenings a happy one.

The police auto is out of commission today owing to the breaking of the rear axle but men at the repair shop say the damage will be repaired before night. The axle snapped shortly after the machine left headquarters for the court house.

Independent papers are being circulated today in behalf of Thomas J. McGrath, a candidate for councilman at large, and are being readily signed.

FINE PROGRAM AT CONCERT

J. E. Ost, the great Swedish violinist gave a concert at the Swedish Mission Congregational church on Garfield street, Tuesday evening which was attended by many of the Swedish residents of the city. His program included folk and national songs. Mrs. Victoria Ellstrom-Bedel was the pianist of the evening and Miss Hildur Ellstrom the singer. The audience was warm in its welcome and all numbers were heartily applauded.

CLAIMS QUINCY AS HIS HOME

A man who said he was Alexander Weinhouse, 18 years, of this city, was arrested in Boston Tuesday by mounted officer Daley and Sergt. Anderson of the LaGrange street station after a long chase in which about 200 people joined.

It is charge that he snatched a handbag from a woman in a Washington street department store and ran. The act is said to have been witnessed by a store detective who notified Sergt. Anderson who happened to be outside. Anderson chased him down Washington street and as he turned into Boylston street mounted officer Daley joined the crowd and headed him off at Tremont street.

BUSY TIME AT FORE RIVER

Nearly 100 car loads of plate metal will be delivered to the Fore River shipyard before the company completes the contracts on which they are now engaged. There are 35 on the siding at present and 11 more are expected Monday and 41 on Tuesday. The metal comes direct from the Bethlehem Steel Co.

Scenes of great activity are being witnessed in some sections of the shipyard and, workmen have commenced to construct the building to be used for store house purposes. It is said that permits for at least two more buildings for similar use will be applied for within a short time.

The yard will soon be running at its normal condition and in some departments the men are now working in three shifts.

Authentic information as to whether or not the company is to construct 20 submarines for a foreign power is not available.

It is generally agreed by men in this country that the shipment of parts of ships would not be a violation of the United States, neutrality but that the parts would have to be shipped at the owners risk, like all other contraband.

Whether or not the State Department at Washington will accept this construction is not known but it is considered probable. If they do they may not prevent such shipments on the ground that there is no violation of neutrality.

ANNUAL ASSEMBLY.

The Annual Assembly which is held the evening after Thanksgiving, at Music hall, is the event which is now the absorbing topic. This has always been one of the most delightful parties of the season. It is the outcome of the old Home Science ball, which Miss Elizabeth Johnson started. It attracts the young and the older set as well. This year the Civics committee of the Quincy Women's Club is trying to see to it that every guest shall be happy and able to take part. The order of dancing is varied and will, the committee feels, be acceptable to all the guests. The members of the Civic Committee and the following named, well-known ladies are to be the patronesses which assures the success of the affair:—

Mrs. Herbert S. Barker, Mrs. E. B. Bird, Mrs. Paul R. Blackmur, Mrs. Frederick H. Breslyn, Mrs. George H. Brown, Mrs. Walter E. Burke, Mrs. Emery L. Crane, Mrs. Edwin E. Davis Mrs. Horace Drinkwater, Mrs. Samuel W. Ellsworth, Mrs. Henry M. Faxon, Mrs. Thomas Fenno, Mrs. George C. Fuller, Mrs. Henry R. Holden, Mrs. Arthur P. Homer, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Mrs. Frederick E. Jones, Mrs. John H. Johnson, Mrs. Henry L. Kincaide, Miss Georgiana C. Lane, Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield, Miss Maude Macfarlane, Mrs. Albert M. Murray, Miss Minnie Packard, Mrs. Frank A. Page, Mrs. Robert E. Park, Mrs. W. G. A. Pattee, Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann, Mrs. Charles A. Price, Mrs. Charles Sampson, Mrs. Russell A. Sears, Mrs. Joseph M. Sheahan, Mrs. Carl R. Sheppard, Mrs. John O. Short, Mrs. James H. Slade, Mrs. James H. Stetson, Mrs. H. A. Stevens, Mrs. Edmond G. Thayer, Mrs. Joseph L. Whiton, Miss Emily C. Wilde.

Civics committee—Mrs. H. H. Kitson, chairman, Mrs. George E. Adams, Mrs. Albert E. Avery, Mrs. George S. Bass, Mrs. W. H. Doble, Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick, Mrs. Herbert Lawton, Mrs. John D. Mackay, Mrs. Frank J. Moore, Miss Harriet B. Pierce, Miss Annie L. Prescott, Mrs. Charles R. Safford, Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard, Mrs. Jennie B. Worster.

Admission cards may be had of any of the above ladies.

BRAMHALL—WASHBURN.

Arthur W. Bramhall of this city and Della Elizabeth Washburn of Waltham were married here on Monday. The ceremony was performed in their new home on Merrymount road by C. F. Andrews of Plymouth.

Friends were present from Worcester Waltham, Plymouth, Cohasset, Boston and Portland, Me. The groom is a member of the sales force at the store conducted by George W. Jones on Granite street and is well known here. They will live in this city.

COLLAPSED IN COURT.

Mrs. Mary Southwick of South Braintree suffered a physical collapse in the District court Tuesday and was revived through the efforts of Dr. W. L. Sargent.

Mrs. Southwick was a witness in a civil case on trial before Judge Avery. When she collapsed she was removed to the consultation room where attaches at the building administered to her, and Dr. Sargent was summoned. She was taken to her home later.

IMPROVEMENTS ARE WANTED

Meeting Adams Parents-Teachers Association

The Parent Teachers Asscciation of the Adams school discussed the improvement of the grading in the rear of that building, the proper lighting of its approaches, and heard two important announcements at a meeting in the school hall on Tuesday evening which was largely attended.

The first announcement by Alfred L. Townsend, principal, was to the effect that the Adams family would in the near future present a bronze tablet in memory of the three members of that family in whose honor the school was named. The tablet will be set in the lower corridor.

The second announcement was that the National Federation of Parent-Teachers Associations had accepted the invitation of Albert L. Barbour, superintendent of school, and would hold its annual convention in this city next fall.

The special guest of the evening was Mrs. Higgins, national president of the Massachusetts Federation of Parent-Teachers Associations ,who spoke on the advantages of joining the national association. At the close of her talk the members voted to affiliate.

The grading of the school playground came in for its share of criticism principally because of the many stones on the land to the rear of the building. It was generally agreed that its present condition was dangerous to "limb if not life" and during the warm discussion it was stated that the stones apparently grew in the night and that bumper crops were the rule and not the exception.

That the wishes of the association in this respect would be complied with a committee of five will be appointed to serve until the back yard is in a condition acceptable to the association

Interesting facts as to the number of children injured since the school was built were given. Before the grading was done one boy fell and sustained a fractured leg. another had his collarbone fractured, another was internally injured and was a patient at the Quincy City Hospital for several weeks, another received a severe gash on his head as the result of a fall and others received minor injuries.

Since the grading was finished one boy fell and sustained a Barton fracture of the wrist.

It was suggested by some of the speakers that boys fall anyway and are injured but others said the pupils of no school in the city had as many accidents in the short time and because of the long list all felt the best of grading was none too good for the children. Candidates Wall, Fegan and Campbell will be invited to view the premises.

The lighting of the approaches to the school, Abigail Adams and Madison avenue, was generally debated and although it was conceeded that but little could be accomplished in the way of improvement at this season of the year, it was voted that everything possible to better present conditions would be done.

President Pinel presided and after he said there were 133 members on the roll, several took the floor in the interests of increased membership and were heartily applauded.

The entertainment committee voted to give a concert under the auspices of the association in the school hall on Dec. 15 at which time the artists will be the John Thomas Concert Co.

During the evening a musical program was rendered which included duets by Adelaide Spencer and William Baun, vocal solos by Mrs. Lawrence E. Pratt and two songs by the pupils of the first grade under the direction of Miss Hernan. All were heartily applauded.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening under the direction of Miss Ruth Kemp, assisted by members of the association.

DISTRICT COURT.

Herbert Caldwell of Braintree was in court this morning on a charge of neglecting to send children to school He was fined $20 and sentence was suspended to June 25, 1915.

Amos Buker and William Buker entered pleas of not guilty to similar charges and their cases were continued to March 24, 1915.

Peter St. Cyr of 11 Bowdoin street, Boston, was fined $20 for violation of auto laws at Milton. Sentence was suspended to March 20, 1915.

Alex Ruby of Stoughton was fined $15 for auto violation at Milton.

CANARY YELLOW DECORATIONS

Pop Concert of Catholic Club a Brilliant Affair

The annual pop concert of the Quincy Catholic Club, the proceeds of which are devoted to charity, held in Music hall Tuesday evening was one of the most brilliant affairs held under the club auspices and among those in attendance were members and their friends from this city, Boston and vicinity.

The hall was prettily decorated with streamers of canary yellow, set off with blue and red rosettes, plants and palms, the whole forming a barrier for the score of tables arranged about the sides of the hall where refreshments were served.

The evening program opned with the march of the young ladies who presided over the tables, and to a lively air by Milo Burke's orchestra they gave an exhibition forming the letters "Q. C. C." and other evolutions ending by all going to the tables where they ministered to the wants of the guests.

The young ladies were under the direction of Miss Margaret Heaney and included the Misses Carmel and Helen Brogan, Margaret Sullivan, Corrine LaBrecque, Helen Cahill, Annie Heaney, Josephine and Margaret McCarthy, Eva Rice, Catherine Brown Evelyn Kelly, Mary Foy, Miss Hart, Louise and Lillian McDonnell, Augusta and Odelle LaBrecque.

Sandwiched in between the dances were quartette selections by the Orpheus male quartette, cornet solos by Milo Burke, solo, "Bedowin Love Song" by Mr. Halverson and solo, "When It's Night time in Burgundy" by Mr. Clark, assisted by the quartette. This part of the program was well rendered and was given enthusiastic encores.

The affair was under the direction of President Mrs. Agnes T. Reardon, Vice President Mrs. R. E. Foy, Recording Secretary, Miss Gertrude Carroll, Financial Secretary, Miss Emma Biganess and Treasurer, Miss Helen Hamilton Gavin; the board of directors, Mrs. J. D. Griffin, Mrs. D. J. Deasey, Mrs. J. H. Dinegan, Miss Marion Jackson, Miss Nellie Mundy and Miss Mary Lyons, past president and chairman of the entertainment committee.

COLLAPSED UNDER WATER

Very few people who witnessed the performance of Miss Freiberg, the talented narrator now appearing at Kincaide's theatre realized how even an expert swimmer may be seized with cramps while under water. This is what happened to Miss Friedberg Tuesday night, when after eating a banana, while under the water she suddenly collapsed and for a time was in danger of being drowned. Miss Friedberg is a true sport however and showed her grit by smiling in response to the outburst of approval, and even bowing her respects to the audience. Miss Freiberg in her act is accustomed to eat something while under water and Tuesday night she carried out the same idea but evidently the fruit did what the water never did, and hence her attack of indigestion. Today she is as well as usual and will give her regular performance tonight.

QUINCY WEST

Cards have been issued by Mrs. James Nightingale announcing the marriage of her daughter Miss Ada M. Nightingale to Frederick E. Tupper, for Wednesday, Dec. 9. The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride on Granite street.

Matthew J. Sheahan whose name was mentioned as a possible candidate for the position of member of the School Committee from Ward Four, wishes the Daily Ledger to deny the rumor. He says that he has no idea of taking out papers for that office.

Tuesday night opened the series of rivival meetings that are being held at the Swedish Baptist church every evening this week excepting Saturday. Dr. Willard E. Waterbury, Field Secretary of the Massachusetts Home Missionary society, and the well known evangelist is in charge of the meetings, and judging by the opening meeting they will be of great benefit and spiritual uplift to those attending. As Dr. Waterbury's hearers last evening were largely young people, his remarks were directed mostly to them His text, taken from John 1: 43 was clearly explained and well delivered. These meetings commence at 7 P. M. with a half hour's song service preceding the sermon. An invitation is extended to all to come and hear Dr. Waterbury and especially to members of the Calvary Baptist church who are well acquainted with the evangelist.

MATINEE WHIST.

The ladies who are to have charge of the confectionery table at the coming fair of the Fragment society of the First Parish church held a whist party Tuesday afternoon at the Miller Stile Inn with Mrs. Tisdale as chairman. Ten tables were in play and souvenirs were presented to the eight ladies having the best scores. Frappe and cake were served during the afternoon, which proved to be quite a social success.

DISCREPANCIES SHOWN

Admission of Testimony to Which Siegel's Counsel Objected

Geneseo, N. Y. Nov. 18.—A hard fight by the defense to exclude from the records of the case of Henry Siegel, indicted bank merchant, the testimony of John Flint, an expert accountant, as to the actual condition of the Fourteenth street store, resulted in a victory for the people.

The testimony, it was said, showed discrepancies in the statement offered to the National Bank of Commerce of New York, upon which a loan of $100,000 was obtained. Only four out of the sixty departments of the New York Fourteenth street store made a profit in the year 1912, Flint testified.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL, 1894 to 1907

ABOUT FORTY CLASSES WERE REPRESENTED

At Organization of Quincy High School Alumni Association

Class Reunions Were Enjoyed by Old Classmates

Among the 500 graduates, of the Quincy High School who assembled at High School hall Wednesday evening to organize an Alumni Association were five graduates previous to 1880. It was in 1873, over 41 years ago, that Mrs. Walter E. Piper (Miss Alice M. Brooks) and Miss Annie S. Marsh, were graduated from the "Old High" on High School avenue. In 1876, over 38 years ago Miss Alice G. White, the present librarian of the Thomas Crane Public Library, was graduated; and in 1877, Frank Fisher Prescott, editor of the Daily Ledger, and Mrs. Luke J. Coyle (Miss Julia F. Cahill) were graduated.

Among other old graduates previous to 1899 who were present were Wilson Marsh, Edward E. Marsh, Mrs. Mabel (Shaw) Pfaffman, Miss Lillie F. Marsh, Mrs. Minnie (Rogers) Burgin, Miss Sarah Malone, Mrs. Clara (Venzie) Penley, Mrs. Lucy (Howard) O'Connell, Mrs. Lucy (Early) Martin, Mrs. Annie (Hayes) Watson, Mrs. Margaret (Haley) O'Brien, Daniel J. Deasy, Michael Cook, Arthur W. Newcomb, Dr. Fred E. Jones, Mrs. Ida (Paine) Humphrey and others.

There were also representatives of all the classes since 1890 with possibly one exception. All the classes since 1900 had large delegations, especially the classes since 1905, the classes of 1913 and 1914 having about 50 each. The total attendance was about 500.

Such a large attendance ensures the success of the new association, and many pleasant reunions and good times are anticipated.

That an active interest is to be taken in the affair was evidenced by the warm discussion that developed on the acceptance of a constitution when over a score of the wittiest of the graduates took the floor either for or against the constitution as reported by a committee. It was accepted in its entirety and will probably be later revised.

Incidentally John D. Mackay, chairman of the School Committee, took a fling at the City Council in one of the most interesting speeches of the evening. Officers were elected and the 237 graduates who remained throughout the entire evening passed in applications for membership. Others who left earlier will be given application this week.

J. Harry Hooper of Wollaston served as chairman pro tem, and his resources were taxed to their fullest extent during the debates of the evening. Preceding the meeting reunions of the various classes were held in different rooms in the building.

The speakers were Arthur W. Newcomb, '81, of the School Committee; Dr. Fred E. Jones, '88, Joseph H. McPherson, '06, of the School Committee; Ernest L. Collins, head master of High school; Albert L. Barbour, superintendent of schools; Arthur B. Foster, 1900, of the School Committee; and John D. Mackay, chairman of the School Committee, while seated on the platform were Dr. E. H. Bushnell of the School Committee, Miss Annie Marsh, '73, and Mrs. Walter E. Piper, '73.

THE SPEAKERS.

All talked along general lines, some of them in humorous vein, but all toward a vigorous organization.

Headmaster Collins said that nothing was of more benefit than an alumni which retains an interest. A good word from a graduate has a good effect on present scholars, for if they hear that what is offered is worth while they will seek to accomplish the purpose of the High school education. Unless you have had opportunity you have no idea of the rapid strides in education, and it is worth impressing on the mind of the pupils that their chance is golden. The right association can do this.

Supt. Barbour said it was a curious thing but nevertheless a fact that High school associations are often more unsuccessful than those of private schools. It all revolves around the question of loyalty. Too infrequently is a school given credit for what it has done for us. The successful associations are those which make service valuable. The point should be "what can be done to help High school." If the committees can find the way to give the service, and then give it, there will be no danger of this association not developing to unusual extents.

Chairman Mackay, after a plea for greater interest in the classics on the part of the alumni said Macaulay once declared that the literature of Britain exercised a greater influence than her army and navy, and that we were joint heirs of that literature and should enjoy it to the utmost. Mr. Mackay paid his respects to the recommendation accorded the school by the present City Council during the debate for a school lot in Ward Two on Monday night. He said Dr. Jones has stated that while other departments are criticised, he has never heard the School Committee criticised. He ought to attend the meeting of the City Council and of its Finance committee, said Mr. Mackay. Inasmuch as this is a family affair, let me relate to you an experience through which we passed lately, not merely to entertain you, but to the end that you may understand what we have to contend with. Were it not for our knowledge that people like you are in friendly sympathy with us in our work we would be disposed at times to resent the criticisms of the misinformed and the uninformed.

WARD TWO SCHOOL LOT.

A few weeks ago the School Committee was requested to view three parcels of land which were being considered for a schoolhouse site and report its recommendations to a co-ordinate body of the city government. We attended to the matter, and after viewing the lots unanimously agreed upon a certain lot, and I was authorized by the board to send not only our recommendation to the Council but also our reasons. German Cruiser Scharnhorst, a Fast and Formidable Fighter, Expected to Give Good Account of Herself.

Among the German cruisers that participated in the battle off the coast of Chile, in which the British cruisers Good Hope and Monmouth were sunk, was the Scharnhorst, a fast and formidable warship. A picture of her is here shown. After the German victory a fleet of English and Japanese battleships started to locate the fleet to which the Scharnhorst belonged with the purpose of destroying her and her companions. It seemed certain that the Pacific would be the scene of the first really big sea battle.

It is suggested that the religious character of Thanksgiving Day be maintained by having the church bells ring for the football game.

The public would probably be willing to buy Christmas gifts early and save the clerks from nervous prostration, if it could get the goods a few cents cheaper.

How can a presidential candidate be considered a statesman unless he lives in a doubtful state?

The boys who are home from school for Thanksgiving to see the old folks can be found any time by hunting up their best girls.

The other day a man wrote a letter urging the public to be economical during the war, and then telephoned for an automobile to take him down to the newspaper office to get it printed.

After seeing the fox trot as it is danced by many people, one wonders why they didn't call it the ox trot.

FUNNY BUSINESS.

A business man said the other day, that he would like to spend some money advertising, if he could write the bright copy that is put out by some "Ad" writers. He seemed to think one must be a professional funny man.

On the contrary, the whole trend of thought among advertising experts is against funny business, freak and startling ideas. Here and there some genius, by the pure whimsicality of his fun, may be able to attract special attention to his space. But for every one man who wins on that game, there are fifty who do not get satisfactory results.

Experts today emphasize the idea that advertising should go to the very heart of a proposition, and should use only arguments appealing to the economic desires of the reading public. The consuming public simply wants to know what merchants have the best goods, show the most enterprise, and are willing to sell for the lowest prices. Facts like these are so simple, that any man who can speak the English language can write an effective advertisement.

STOPPING THE ROAD HOGS.

The wife of an automobile owner said a few days ago, that she did not enjoy driving behind her husband as well as she used to when machines were less numerous. He is a careful, prudent man, who runs at moderate speed.

"If you turn out and give the other machine a good wide berth," the lady went on, "the other fellow usually keeps right along in the middle of the road."

This is so irritating that many men will not turn until the last possible moment. Then a slight miscalculation, and all hands are in the ditch.

Automobiles have this year reached the point where if handled with some judgment, they are as inexpensive as a horse and carriage. The isolation of the farm is broken, a source of pleasure, health, and profit, a wider horizon, is opened up.

But for careful people, much of this pleasure is offset by the hogs of the road. In many cases, the trouble is liquor. To many persons, the swift panorama of nature, the thrill of the flying car, are nothing, unless they can stop and swap a set of highballs.

Well travelled roads are infested with a tribe of daredevils, who ought not to steer any more dangerous vehicle than a plough. They think of a county highway as a race track, where they can show off their spectacular driving before the eyes of admiring rustics.

If a man escapes accident by a narrow shave, he considers it a closed incident, and rarely makes complaint. Motorists should join for their own self-protection, to give information against chronic speeders.

Will it not be necessary, as motors keep increasing, to have special road police, who shall obtain information about speeders, and file complaints? They could initiate proceedings without incurring ill-will, where the ordinary citizen dislikes to make a formal charge.

CITY ELECTIONS FOR MANY YEARS

In 15 Years Republicans Were Successful; and Democrats 9 Times, Independents 2

Largest Plurality Was Given to Eugene R. Stone

By request the Daily Ledger publishes a summary of the Municipal elections since the City Government was adopted in 1888. The Republican candidates are given in one column and the Democratic in the other, the successful ones being marked with an asterisk. The vote for each, and the plurality for the victor is also given year by year in December.

It will observed that the Republicans were successful in 15 of the 26 years; the Democrats in 9 years; and Independents the other 2 years.

In 1901 Charles M. Bryant failed to receive the Republican nomination and became an Independent candidate, defeating both the Republican and the Democratic candidates.

In 1912 there were three candidates in the field, John L. Miller running as a Progressive; although defeated then he was successful in a three cornered fight in 1913.

The largest vote was given to Eugene R. Stone who was elected in 1911. William T. Shea held the record up to that time having received 3,076 in 1908. In 1905 James Thompson received 2,822. William T. Shea also received 2,785 in 1909; 2,620 in 1907; and 2,613 in 1910; being the only Democrat who ever received over 2,000 votes.

The largest plurality was given in 1911 to Eugene R. Stone who had but one rival, James E. Wall. Mr. Wall's vote was the smallest received by any Democrat since 1901 when there was a three cornered fight. Omitting that year it would be necessary to go back to the first three years of the city when Quincy did not have more than half as many voters as today.

The December vote each year was as follows:

In 1913 John L. Miller ran as a Taxpayers' candidate and was elected by 609 plurality.

Danger of Special Education Is That Broadening Education Will Cease

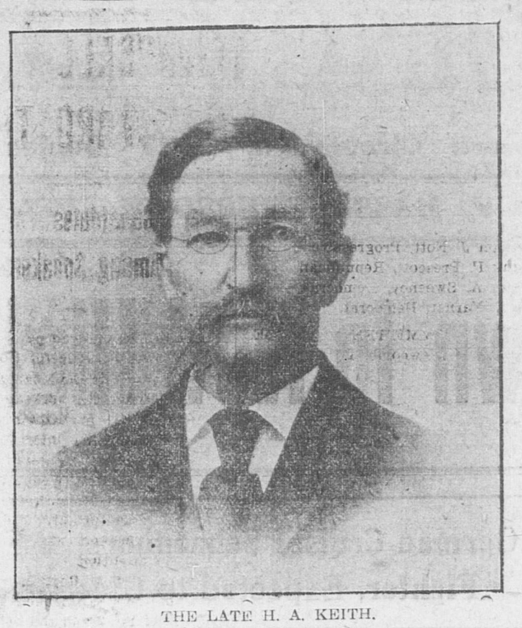

By President CHARLES R. VAN HISE In Address to University of Wisconsin Graduates

I HAVE held that specialized education may be begun comparatively early, provided it be COUPLED WITH BROADENING EDUCATION. Specialized education will of necessity continue so long as you are in active life. There is DANGER THAT YOUR BROADENING EDUCATION WILL CEASE.

WHATEVER YOUR WORK, YOU WILL FIND YOURSELVES AMONG OTHERS WHO ARE EQUALLY ABLE AND ACTIVE. THERE WILL BE PURSUING YOU A GROUP OF STRENUOUS YOUTHS, STARTING LATER THAN YOURSELVES, WITH BETTER EQUIPMENT, WITH GREATER ENERGY, AND THE TIME WILL COME WHEN ONE OF THESE YOUTHS WILL PRESS YOU CLOSE AND FINALLY THRUST YOU ASIDE.

I urge upon each of you that a PART OF EVERY DAY BE RESERVED FOR THINGS OTHER THAN YOUR VOCATION; that at the same time you perform efficient service in the world you live the life of one whose head rises above the incidents of the day.

I AM WELL AWARE THAT TO TALK OF THE ZENITH AND NADIR OF LIFE TO THOSE WHO ARE JUST ENTERING INTO ITS FULL LIGHT WILL PROBABLY BE WITHOUT AVAIL, FOR IT IS CERTAIN THAT INEXPERIENCE SELDOM LISTENS TO THE VOICE OF EXPERIENCE. BUT IF PERCHANCE ONE AMONG YOU LIVE A RICHER LIFE BECAUSE OF THESE WORDS I SHALL BE MORE THAN REWARDED.

six reasons for our recommendation. I really felt proud of that letter when I signed it, and sent it on its way to City Hall, for it contained the collective judgment and wisdom of all nine members of the board and also the judgment of Albert L. Barbour, A. M., who agreed with our choice.

Last Monday evening the question came up for decision in the Council. One of the most prominent members of that body took the floor, and said that he would vote in favor of the lot n question if "one reason" could be urged in its favor. I thought with pride and confidence of that letter which I knew lay in the archives of the Council. Presently the clerk of the Council, Mr. Magee, read the letter in a sonorous voice and it was listened to with apparent respect. Thereupon the member who had stated he wanted only one solitary reason, speaking with the deliberation which follows careful thought, the deliberation which is supposed to characterize the utterances of public men, made this statement. I quote not only from memory, but from the report which appeared in a local paper. Here is what he said: "No sane man will say that the Swithin lot is the best."

In that assertion my friends, and what it implied, you will find all the elements of a perfectly good syllogism. Major proposition—"No sane man will say that the Swithin lot is the best." Minor proposition— "The School Committee say that Swithin lot is the best." There you have the premises. Now for the conclusion. The School Committee is not sane.

So you see the stigma of insanity was by implication placed upon the School Committee, all of us, and Supt. Barbour as well. I left the Council Chamber and staggered home in the darkness of the night wondering where we were at. I think you will admit that we are not "non compos mentis." We will continue to do our duty and we expect that you will in the future, as in the past, stand ready to disarm any unfair criticism.

THE CONSTITUTION.

The constitution, read by Paul Blackmur of the committee which drew it up, came in for its share of discussion as soon as it was agreed that the name would be the Quincy High School Alumni Association.

Several took the floor and argued against the distinction drawn between an active and associate member. Some contended all should be active members and eligible to office, while others said fundamentally it should be a graduates association, and while a large membership was desired it was the purpose to have the directing forces chosen from holders of diplomas.

The part of the constitution which was debated at length was article two, as follows:—

FRANK FISHER PRESCOTT '77.

"Section 1. Any graduate of the school shall be eligible to active membership. Any person who has completed two or more years shall be eligible to associate membership, as well as any teacher of the school, past or present.

"Section 2. The Superintendent of Schools in Quincy, and the Head Master of the High school, shall be elected to honorary membership.

"Section 3. Associate members shall have all privileges of the association excepting the right to hold office.

"Section 4. Applications for membership shall be made to the secretary of the Association, and the candidate may become a member on payment of dues. The honorary members shall be exempt from all dues."

ARTHUR W. NEWCOMB

The constitution was accepted as presented and then the balloting for the officers provided for commenced. With the ballots were distributed applications for membership.

Several amended the nominating committee report by placing William R. Thomas in line for the presidency, in place of Charles J. McGilvray who declined. Others nominated were Arthur W. Newcomb, Frank Fisher Prescott, Frederick D. Williams and finally when the list was closed after being reopened twice, Lucien H. Thayer and William R. Thomas were the only candidates.

Several withdrawals were made previous to the taking of the vote, principally Miss Mildred Gray Huston who had been nominated for recording secretary. This left a clear field for Miss Margaret Lennon, secretary at Quincy High school, and a most popular young lady.

It was stated after the meeting that an effort would be made to enlarge the athletic and entertainment committees. At least one vacancy exists on the entertainment committee, for Miss Marjorie Fay, '04, who was elected is now in California and will be unable to serve.

THE ELECTION.

As the result of the ballot Lucien H. Thayer, '06, was elected president, with Frank F. Prescott, '77; J. Harry Hooper, '06, and Miss Dorothy Fay, 06, as vice presidents.

INDEPENDENTS FILE NOMINATION PAPERS

Now Four Candidates For Mayor and Eleven for Councilmen at Large

Several Withdrawals--Complete List of Candidates Up to Date

The time for filing nomination papers for candidates to be voted for at coming municipal election expired at 5 o'clock Wednesday evening and as was anticipated there were a number of papers filed, both for Mayor, Councilmen at Large and Councilmen from the Ward.

For Mayor, papers were filed by James E. Wall, as an Independent Citizens Candidate by Edward P. Powers as an Independent and by Edward J. Fegan, the regular Democratic nominee as Citizens Candidate.

Daniel M. Twohey, about whom so much has been heard did not get his papers in. Mr. Twohey was about City Square all of the afternoon, and was running in and out of the City Clerk's office asking questions, etc., but when the last hour was approaching he came in for a final call to deposit his papers. Under the law it was necessary for some one of the signers to swear to his signature. This had not been done and he was informed that the papers could not be received until the law had been complied with. Mr. Twohey did not succeed in getting his papers sworn to and therefore they were not filed. There was considerable question even if filed, if they could have been accepted for according to all reports there were some peculiar names on the papers.

Among the signatures reported as being signed to the papers were: Morris Chair, Charles River, Jesse Pomeroy, Morrow's Tuesday, Grover Cleveland, Hugh Ray" and the like. The name Grover Cleveland appeared three times.

For Councilman at Large, but one paper was filed. That was for Thomas J. McGrath as Republican Independent.

Joseph Fitzgerald and Michael A. Kelley two of the Democratic candidates for Councilmen at Large have withdrawn, but it is understood that the Democratic City Committee will fill the vacancies. They have until Monday night at 5 o'clock to do so.

For Ward Councilmen there were several papers filed. In Ward One, Andrew Johnson filed papers as Republican Independent and withdrew as a Progressive.

In Ward Two, ex-Councilman William H. Flynn filed papers as Democratic Independent.

In Ward Four Councilman Stephen B. Little who was nominated as a Republican candidate for Ward Councilman has withdrawn.

In Ward Four there was a tie between William A. Beattie and James O'Dowd for the third Republican candidate for Councilman from the Ward. This tie has been settled by the Republican City Committee who have given the nomination to William A. Beattie.

In Ward Five Rodney P. Gallagher, the Progressive candidate has filed papers as an "Independent" for Ward Councilman.

The time for withdrawals will expire Saturday night at 5 o'clock and the time for filling vacancies at 5 o'clock Monday night.

The complete list of candidates as they will appear on the ballot at the municipal election as they now stand is as follows and it will be seen that a voter to express his preference on every office will have to make ten times in Wards One, Two, Three, and Five and Six times in Wards Four and Six, where a member of the School Committee from the Ward is to be elected.

In addition to this, voters should not neglect to express their say on the question of the granting of licenses in the city.

FOR MAYOR.

Chester I. Campbell, Progressive, Republican.
Edward J. Fegan, Democrat, Citizens Candidate.
Edward P. Powers, Independent.
James E. Wall, Independent Citizens Candidate.

EXASPERATING --- ISN'T IT?

If there is any one thing that tries a man's patience and makes him irritable, it is to get a tie under a collar and then find that the tie sticks and can't be slipped or adjusted without yanking the collar, and consequently the upper part of the shirt bosom entirely out of shape.

By our new process we so launder a collar that its top edge, where it is turned over, is not sharp, but slightly rounded and more space is given all along between the inside and the outside of the collar.

There is plenty of room for the free movement of the tie backward and forward and it is easy to adjust it to the proper position.

Why not try having a few of your collars done by our new process and note the result?

Telephone and our driver will call.

You are cordially invited to visit and inspect our sanitary plant and see this machine in operation.

WINTHROP ST. WORK HELD UP

On Account of Objections of of J. T. Cava agh

The residents of Rock Island are much disappointed because the work building Winthrop street has been held up. The holdup is due to the objection of John T. Cavanagh to the concrete bridge over the river of water that makes up through the land from Quincy bay.

The street as laid out contemplated a concrete bridge over this river. Work surfacing the street between the river and Sea street was well under way and plans had been made and the contract let for the building the concrete bridge, work upon which about to commence when Mr. Cavanagh came forward with his objections (The result was that work had to be stopped and it will now be necessary for the city to obtain permission from the directors of the Port of Boston, before the work can progress.

Application for this permit has already been made and it is expected that a hearing will be held sometime this week.

In the meantime the residents of Rock Island who have long been inconvenienced by the lack of a suitable road leading to this section of the city will have to curb their impatience a while longer.

CAMPBELL IN WARD THREE

Other Candidates at Large Among Speakers

That the Republican party in Quincy is waging a battle for Good Government in its present campaign was the keynote of the addresses by the speakers who participated in the opening rally in the interest of Chester I. Campbell, at Quincy Adams hall, South Quincy, Wednesday evening. It was a thoughtful, practical crowd that comfortably filled the hall and every speaker was listened to with rapt attention.

Several of the Republican candidates for the City Council at large made brief talks and the businesslike tone of their remarks demonstrated that the party had made wise selections at the primaries.

Alexander Clark was the chairman of the meeting. Seated on the speakers platform were Chester I. Campbell, Frank F. Prescott, Councilmen Bailey, Gilliatt, Ross, Craig and Beeman, John R. Richards, president of the Republican City Committee, Col. Whitman of Ward Two, William Prime, A. L. Stinson and Alexander Falconer.

Candidate Campbell, who was the last speaker, was given a rousing reception when he was introduced. Every person in the hall stood up and cheered. He said in part:

"It is with great pleasure that I have come back to this building to begin the second chapter of my contest for the high office of Mayor. Your vote on primary day was a flattering testimonial of your belief in me, and for what I stand for, and I thank you and assure you that when I am elected and after my term of office is over, that you will be able to review it and simply say "That is business."

After all is said and done the one issue that we are fighting for in this contest is "good government." There isn't a single man who has been honored by the Republican voters last week, whose every thought isn't directed towards good government They realize that Quincy is in need of it, and I feel mighty proud of the selection that the voters made on primary day.

You probably have observed from the remarks of the several speakers here tonight, that the one thing above all others that we are striving for is Good Government. You probably have noticed that there has been an entire absence of wild-eyed political promises. These men realize that they have some serious times ahead to bring Quincy back to that state of financial health which will permit a reduction of the tax rate. They realize that they will have to cast aside their petty differences, and co-operate with the chief executive, and that if I am elected that I will have the wisdom to appreciate the opportunity of being guided and advised by the members of the City Council, the taxpayers and the voters.

We are on our way towards an elaborate plan of co-operation for the great common good of Quincy. The success of the administration of Quincy's government depends largely upon the amount of co-operation between its chief executive and the members of the Council.

One of the speakers here tonight has told you of the losses in our Water department. This is an example of the lack of co-operation in that department of the city. Under a business administration the trouble would be hunted down and the remedy applied quickly, as business methods require everybody to put their shoulder to the wheel and work and pull together.

One of the candidates who is opposing me is driven to desperation and apparently in the want of real issues to discuss has begun a campaign of personal abuse and falsehoods. In a circular that has been sent throughout the city I have been pictured as being unfair to labor and to have employed at one of my recent expositions persons at a low wage scale.

For the first and last time I am going to reply to these criticisms. I am going to say that my statement that I am opposed to labor is absolutely false, and the statement that I employ men at a ridiculously low wage is absurd and false. If there is in the city of Quincy a more loyal and more satisfied staff of men employed than mine I would like to find them. It is your privilege to enquire of any of them and you will find what I have stated is correct. My opponent is grasping at a dying man's straw. He realizes he is lost and is driven to falsehood.

This same candidate is telling that if I am elected I will represent only Wollaston to the neglect of the rest of the city. I assure you that if I am honored with the office of Mayor that I will be the representative of every citizen no matter what section he comes from, and that I will give to the city every hour of service that is needed to conduct the city on business lines.

Another example of the ridiculous statement that this same candidate is making, is in his promise that he will build a street under the railroad. He isn't fair with the voters when he makes any such statement for no Mayor could order such a project. That is a matter for the entire City Council to decide, and they alone can put the measure through.

These glittering pre-election promises and a campaign of falsehoods will not bear fruit with voters who ask nothing more than clean, decent government. They will realize this when they awake the morning after election, and find that decency has again won by an overwhelming vote and made me chief executive of your city, and elected the entire Republican ticket.

Councilman Charles A. Ross of Ward Three was the first speaker introduced. He told of Mr. Campbell's business life in Boston and Providence, and defied any man to find a single dishonorable or unfair thing that he had ever done. He said that in this time when there was such great need of a business expert as chief executive, that Quincy was very fortunate in having the opportunity of securing Mr. Campbell's services.

Councilman Craig said he believed that the voters of Quincy were alert enough to realize that they had an exceptional opportunity and that they would surely grasp it and vote Chester I. Campbell as Mayor. He said that he had always served his constituents with the best that was in him, and he had no promises to make, except to favor every good government measure that came before the council. Councilman Craig espoused the cause of the "girls" in City Hall, stating that if it wasn't for them that matters would be a great deal worse in the conduct of our government.

Councilman Gilliatt, who is a candidate at large, briefly told of the reasons that would compel the intelligent, public spirited citizens to vote for Mr. Campbell. As far as his own fate was concerned he believed that if the citizens valued his services in the Council during the past few years that they would re-elect him.

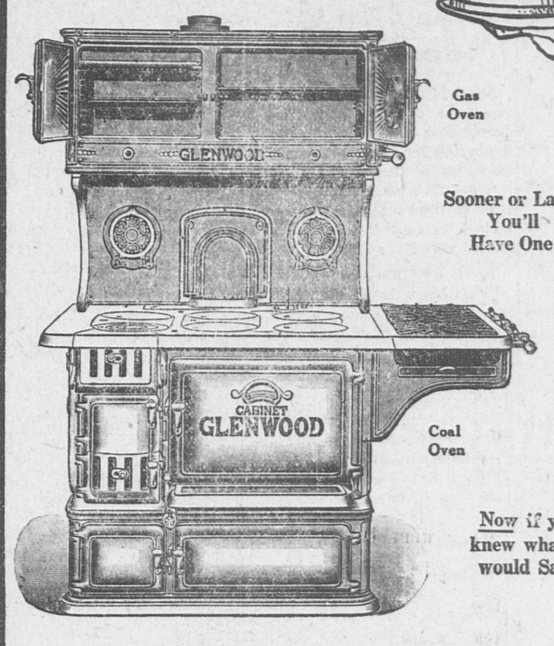

Frank F. Prescott, who is a candidate at large for the Council arrived late, having attended the High School alumni meeting. Mr. Prescott in a few words told of the growth of the tax levy and urged a business administration as the remedy. He graciously appealed to the audience to be sure and roll up a big vote for Councilman Gilliatt whom he characterized as one of the most able men in the council.

Councilman Bailey, John Richards, William Prime, Councilman Beeman and A. L. Stinson also spoke.

The keynote of Councilman Bailey's remarks was that Quincy was ready for the administration of her affairs by Chester I. Campbell and that the courage and backbone displayed by Mayor Whiton has opened up a door that would help the incoming administration.

One of the results of the reunion of the class of '84 is that before a short time a large photo of Harrison A. Keith, late city clerk, and for many years master at High school, will be added to the fine collection now hanging in the corridors of the school.

It has been suggested that graduates of the "first" High School building on High School avenue open subscriptions for a large framed picture of the old building, and present it to the present High school to be hung in the School hall.

The tellers who counted the ballots were unable to complete the canvass of the vote in time to announce it to the majority who attended.

The publication of the list of High school graduates, class by class, in the Daily Ledger of Tuesday and continued on Wednesday will be resumed tomorrow and continued daily. Former residents who were graduates of Quincy High would be glad to get the copies of the Daily Ledger.

MEN'S CLUB.

The first meeting of the Men's club of the Congregational church, South Braintree for the season of 1914-15 was held in the chapel Wednesday evening. Supper was served at 7.45 o'clock, the bill of fare comprising roast beef, baked potatoes, celery, rolls, and coffee, pies of various kinds and sweet cider.

After supper, cigars were lighted and all adjourned to the auditorium where an address, interesting, instructive and witty on the subject of "Mormons and Mormonism" was given by Rev. A. L. Hudson, D. D. pastor of the First Parish church of Quincy. This church by the way, is the oldest church in what was then a part of Braintree and its 275th anniversary was recently celebrated.

Dr. Hudson lived for some years in Salt Lake City and all his information is authoritative. He describes the Mormons as honest, frugal, industrious and strictly truthful and honorable in business transactions. They consider it perfectly proper however to deceive outsiders concerning their religion which notwithstanding its fantastic and curious origin has many good points. The term gin has many good ponts. The term "Mormons" is somewhat of a nickname and they prefer to be known by the correct term, "The Latter Day Saints of Jesus Christ."

Contrary to general opinion, polygamy was never very generally practiced and is now, since the agitation against it by the Government, rapidly dying out.

Although sworn to be a fact by practically all the ministers but one in Salt Lake City because they based their assertion on hasty judgment it is nevertheless true that U. S. Senator Reed Smoot of Utah never had but one wife and was always opposed to polygamy.

Dr. Hudson called polygamy a living tragedy and described the Mormon leaders as great diplomats with almost despotic control over their followers. Se said that the Mormon church is a powerful Hierarchy and as such is obnoxious to true American deals as is any religious organization which seeks its own aggrandizement and desires to stifle individual liberty or gain political ascendancy.

Dr. Hudson described the wonderful organization of the Mormon church which is so perfect that the merest whisper for or against political candidates may be transmitted from one end of the country to the other without a single newspaper being the wiser. He was vigorously applauded by the members and accorded a rising vote of thanks for his very able discourse.

An important business session followed in which matters of vital importance to the club were discussed, after which the meeting was adjourned.

RING FOR ITS PATRONESS

The Heather Circle held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening and were entertained by Miss Sarah Howes and Miss Ruth Eldridge at the home of Mrs. C. Hobart on Bennington street. The guest of the evening was Rev. James A. Matheson, who is soon to leave this city for Allentown Penn.

After the regular business was transacted the president Henrietta Rennie in behalf of the circle, presented the patroness, Mrs. Matheson with a beautiful amethyst ring (the circle emblem.) Mrs. Matheson was much pleased and thanked the young ladies heartily and said she would always be loyal and true to the Heather circle.

Many pleasing games were enjoyed and the evening passed all too quickly. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses.

After a few college songs the young ladies gathered in a circle about Mr. and Mrs. Matheson and sang "Auld Lang Syne."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Matheson have grown very dear to these young ladies and will be sorely missed by all the young people of the First Presbyterian church. The Heather Circle wish them success and much happiness in their new home.

Three loud cheers were given Miss Howe and Miss Eldridge for the jolly good time enjoyed by all.

SEVERAL HIGH SCORES.

A quiet but earnest enthusiasm pervaded the Coliseum alleys Wednesday evening during the rolloffs of the Wollaston Tennis Club teams. The quintettes of Geddes and Hoxie are tied for first place with the Jenner crew in third section. Twelve men secured or equaled a century single, Hutton taking the honors with 112.

GEDDES—GREEN.

The Geddes boys beat the Green men 3 to 1 in a snappy contest, few pins separating the second team singles and spoiling a division.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

Any who are interested in the woman question should see the Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science for November. The subject of this number is Women in Public Life. The three subjects considered are: Feminist movement; Public activities of women; Woman and the suffrage. The name of Jane Addams appears among the writers in this number. There are also articles by professors of colleges, and others holding public positions of prominence.

The Library has an exhibit of pictures of educational value on Cattle and dairy products. People wishing to see these pictures should come to the Library before, Monday, November 23.

The first Story Hour of the winter in the Children's Room last Saturday morning, was attended by upwards of fifty children who listened with rapt attention to Miss Ella Packard's interesting telling of old stories.

We hope that the Library Reading Room privilege of Sunday afternoon opening will be appreciated as well by those who can find no other time to come to the Library for reading or study as by the week day users.

MAY HAVE BEEN "FRIENDLY ACT"

Turkey Must Explain Insult to the American Flag

WASHINGTON IS IN THE DARK

Belief That Incident Will Be Promptly Adjusted Through Diplomatic Channels—American Cruisers Await Specific Instructions—Will Take No Action to Embarrass Government

Washington, Nov. 19.—The United States government has directed Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople to ask the Ottoman government for an explanation of the firing by Turkish land forces at a launch from the American cruiser Tennessee, which was proceeding from Vourlah to the American consulate at Smyrna, Asia Minor.

Secretary Daniels, with the approval of President Wilson, simultaneously cabled the commanders of the Tennessee and the North Carolina, also in the Mediterranean, to take no action which might embarrass the American government and to await specific instructions from Washington concerning the general situation.

These steps followed the receipt of a message from Captain Decker, commander of the Tennessee, which was paraphrased in this statement from the navy department:

"Captain B. C. Decker, in command of the Tennessee, wired Secretary Daniels that while proceeding from Vourlah to Smyrna to make official calls, boat was fired on. Consuls anxious for safety of consulates. Tennessee proceeded to and left Vourlah at request of ambassador, and is now anchored in the harbor of Scio (Chios), Greece, from which Captain Decker's telegram was sent. Secretary Daniels wired for fuller information."

Although without definite details as to just what occurred, high officials of the Washington government had no doubt that the incident, no matter where the responsibility lay, would be promptly adjusted through diplomatic channels.

President Wilson is determined that under no circumstances shall the United States be involved in war with Turkey. If the Turkish officers acted without authority of the Ottoman government and the firing was not justified by naval procedure in a closed port, it is confidently believed the Ottoman government will render apology.

On account of the slow cable communication from Constantinople through the only available route—Bulgaria, Roumania, Austria and Italy—no message concerning the incident came from Morgenthau. The last dispatches received from the ambassador were dated Nov. 14 and were of a routine character.

With the navy's message as the only basis for judgment, President Wilson, and administration officials were puzzled. Two suggestions were vouchsafed by high officials, although they admitted that their views were purely speculative.

The firing, they thought, probably was a friendly act, giving the customary warning by a single shot, signifying to the Tennessee's launch that the port of Smyrna was mined and closed, or else the boat was turned back because it attempted to enter without previous arrangements having been made with the Turkish authorities.

Officials of the government decline to believe that the firing was an unfriendly act. Assurances given by the porte have repeatedly pledged protection and the closest friendship for American citizens.

However, when the American warships first went to Turkey to protect American interests and deliver gold for the relief of missionaries Turkey was at peace. Since then the United States has taken over the diplomatic interests of Great Britain and France, with whom the porte is at war—a circumstance which is fraught with delicate responsibilities.

$2,500,000 MORE NEEDED

Congress Will Be Asked to Help Stamp Out Cattle Disease

Washington, Nov. 19.—To date the federal and state governments have spent approximately $750,000 in the campaign against the live stock foot and mouth disease epidemic.

Of this about $400,000 has been borne by the federal government, almost exhausting the appropriation funds of the department of agriculture. An emergency appropriation of probably $2,500,000 will be asked of congress when it meets to complete the work of stamping out the disease. The last outbreak of the disease—that of 1908—cost the federal government alone $300,000.

FROZEN IN GULLY

Groom-to-Be Found Dead While Wedding Party Waits In Church

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 19.—Timothy F. Cronin, a young business man, who was to have been married yesterday to Miss Amelia Schultz, lay frozen to death at his wedding hour in gully near his home in West Manchester, while his bride-to-be and the bridal party waited for him at St. Joseph's cathedral.

Not until hours after the bride and other members of the party had gone home did the reason become known for the groom's failure to appear. Miss Schultz is prostrated with grief.

It is not known exactly how Cronin met his death, but the theory is that he missed his footing in the dark Tuesday night, rolled from the street down the embankment, was knocked unconscious, and froze to death before morning.

He had a bunch of keys in his hand, as though he were getting ready to unlock the door of his home when he fell.

VILLA ON WAY TO CAPITAL OF MEXICO

Carranza Forces Are Awaiting the Inevitable Conflict

Washington, Nov. 19.—General Villa, in command of the troops under the control of the Mexican convention at Aguascalientes, is marching on Mexico City. His army took Leon, the first important railroad centre south of Aguascalientes, without firing a shot.

The forces of General Gonzales, loyal to General Carranza, are gathered at Queretaro and Irapuato, where the first important clash in the hostilities between Carranza and the convention will probably occur.

These facts were reported in official messages from George C. Carothers, American consular agent, accompanying Villa, who is well equipped for the march.

From American Consul Silliman came a dispatch saying conditions were far more serious in Mexico City than they had been since the parleys for peace began. He regards actual hostilities as inevitable.

SIMPLE SERVICE OVER BODY

Remains of Lord Roberts Brought to His Home at Ascot

Ascot, Eng., Nov. 19.—Covered with the Union Jack, and with his khaki hat and sword upon it, the coffin containing the body of Lord Roberts now lies in the small room in his residence here, in which the great soldier was wont to conduct family prayers, and in which there is a small altar and a crucifix.

The coffin arrived from Folkstone by special train. The ceremony which followed was simple. The coffin was borne by employes of the late field marshal's estate to his house, where a brief service, attended by Lady Roberts and her daughters and a few privileged friends, was conducted by the rector of Ascot.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

John H. Corcoran of Cambridge was elected president of the Massachusetts State Board of Trade.

The lumber mills of C. J. Treworgy & Co., and Whitcomb, Haynes & Co., at Ellsworth, Me., were destroyed by fire. The loss is $25,000.

Mrs. Anna Pedder, 66, of Fall River, Mass., was so badly burned while lighting a fire that she died before reaching a hospital.

Dr. Rudolf Emmerich, 67, professor of hygiene and bacteriology in the University of Munich, is dead.

Arnold Johnson, 30, a painter, died at Somerville, Mass., from injuries received when a staging on which he was at work broke.

AIDS THE PROSECUTION

Woman Testifies Against Husband Who Is Charged With Murder

Salem, Mass., Nov. 19.—Helping the government prosecute her husband, Gaetano Devaio, who is on trial for his life with Mrs. Virginia Barbato, both charged with murder in the first degree, Mrs. Devaio was on the witness stand in the superior criminal court. The accused pair are alleged to have lured Gaetano Barbato to a berry pasture in Beverly on July 4 last and killed him.

Mrs. Devaio declared she was anxious to have her husband convicted of the crime because he had deserted her and his four children to run away with the wife of the murdered man. She said she was a voluntary witness and aware of the death penalty which the law exacts for murder, yet she has determined to aid the prosecution.

Since her husband disappeared from home, Mrs. Devaio and her four children have been dependent for aid on the city of Beverly.

NEW ARREST LIKELY

Rich Man Said to Be Suspect In Mildred Sullivan Case

Houlton, Me., Nov. 19.—The arrest of a new suspect, more prominent than any that have gone before, was threatened in the case of Mildred Sullivan when the grand jury began its hearings here.

That it will probably come within a day or two seems certain from the fact that both the prosecution and the defense of the present prisoners suggested it.

The suggestion throws an added veil of mystery about the person of Ambrose Bridge, who so far has appeared in the case solely as the sweetheart of Mildred Sullivan.

Now it is reported that Bridge is nothing but a blind for a man so rich and influential that his arrest, if it takes place, will put the crowning stroke of notoriety on the death of Miss Sullivan.

FIND MARKET FOR "ROTS AND SPOTS"

Officials Start Campaign In Illinois Against Bad Eggs

Washington, Nov. 19.—Federal, state and local officials have begun a campaign in Illinois, the department of agriculture announced, to stop what it declares is illegal traffic in impure eggs.

"From evidence gathered," the department states, "there seems to be a definite market in Chicago for 'rots and spots' at $2 a case of thirty dozen. In consequence rots and spots from all over the surrounding country have been coming into Chicago in large numbers.

"Although there is a certain demand for inedible eggs for technical purposes, such as tanning leather, most of the rots and spots that reach Chicago are first broken and frozen, and then sold to bakers for use in cakes and other forms of food."

GOTHAM BARREL MYSTERY

Police Think Victim Slain by Members of Rival Gang

New York, Nov. 19.—A man murdered and stuffed into a barrel, carried to a lonely street and left there, to be found before the warmth had left his body, was identified as Luigi Macaluso, 22, a tailor, who lived in that section of Manhattan's East Side best known to the police as the home of gangsters and gunmen.

He himself had served a sentence for carrying a pistol, and detectives seeking to unravel the mystery of his death think it due to a feud between rival gangs.

Michael Macaluso, the slain man's father, made the identification. He did not appear to be surprised and was unwilling to give the police any information upon which to continue their quest for the murderer.

SIEGEL ENTERED ITEMS

Boston Manager's Evidence Regarded as Damaging to Merchant

Geneseo, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Joseph E. Pridday, a former bookkeeper and later manager of the Siegel company store in Boston, gave what the prosecution regarded as damaging testimony against Henry Siegel, the former merchant-banker, charged with grand larceny.

Pridday testified that Siegel in his own handwriting had entered fourteen items in the books of the Simpson-Crawford store, which increased the apparent value of the stock thereby $20,000.

Siegel signed the credit statement presented to the National Bank of Commerce of New York, which, it is alleged, was untruthful to the amount of $110,000, in addition to the $20,000, Pridday said.

ANNIHILATED BY GERMAN MINES

Victory of French Detachment Is Turned Into Disaster

TOOK AN IMPORTANT POSITION

Blown Up Before They Had Thoroughly Settled Down to Occupancy of Village—Invaders Continue Heavy Cannonading All Along Western Battle Line—French Zouaves Figure In Notable Incident—Rheims Still Under Bombardment—French Holding Their Own In Alsace—Libau Bombarded by German Fleet—Turkish City Attacked by Czar's Ships In Black Sea

London, Nov. 19.—A detachment of French troops was annihilated by the explosion of German mines in the village of Chauvincourt on the western bank of the river Meuse, across the river from St. Mihiel.

This position was captured by the French on Tuesday, and was noted in the official statement from Paris as an important advance, inasmuch as the houses of Chauvincourt had been occupied as a barracks for the German troops occupying St. Mihiel. When the French entered the town, driving out the Germans, there was apparently no thought of subterranean danger, but the fact is the place had been thoroughly mined.

The explosives were touched off by the retiring Germans before the French had thoroughly settled down to occupancy. A large part of the village is believed to have been destroyed, and there is little doubt that the bulk of the French soldiers who poured into the place were blown to pieces.

The fact of the explosion is tersely stated in the Paris official communique without mentioning loss of life, while the German statement sardonically recounts that the first success of the French in capturing Chauvincourt was afterwards turned into defeat.

Vigorous Firing Continues

Further north Wednesday was marked by the continuous booming of the Germans' big guns along that part of the battle line extending from the coast down to the river Lys. The cannonading is reported to have been the heaviest since the Teutonic hosts were balked by the flooding of the Yser valley.

Time and again both British and French military observers have cast ridicule upon this incessant wastefulness of the German artillery, pointing out that it has absolutely no effect upon the allies' line, and only looked for as a probable forerunner of an infantry advance. If the latter happens, to the joy of the benumbed occupants of the allies' trenches, it is met with a storm of rifle fire that has never yet failed to send the Germans back to their lines minus a large proportion of their number.

The German guns have been especially noisy in the vicinity of Dixschoote and Ypres, and it seems apparent that many of the heavy shooters used in the reduction of Brussels and Antwerp have been laboriously moved down to the rear of the kaiser's wearied fighting line. The artillery alone has made no impression upon the allies' "dug-in" lines, and such few half-hearted infantry advances as have been attempted have been driven back at the point of the bayonet.

Feat of French Zouaves

One of the notable incidents of Wednesday is laid to the credit of the French Zouaves, the corps so notable in France's Algerian campaigns, and whose methods were copied with such effective results by the union troops in America's Civil war.

In the vicinity of Dixschoote, the much fought over town on the road between Dixmude and Ypres, the bone of contention between the opposing forces for three days was a piece of woodland, in the dispute for which hundreds of lives have been lost.

In a valiant charge, using the bayonet, the weapon that has become peculiarly their own by right of long warfare, the Zouaves in a terrific charge cleared the woods of the Germans and opened the way for other French forces to move up and make the possession sure. It is by such short advances that the French army staff justifies its daily claim that it is "progressing all along the line."

German shells are still falling in the desolated city of Rheims, according to the French official report. This appears to be simply part of the general German plan all along the line to keep up the use of artillery with a view to scaring back the opposing lines. Far from being scared, the opposing lines are utilizing every effort to draw this artillery fire in the hope that, with its exhaustion, will come more of the desired hand-to-hand fighting which is looked upon as more decisive.

Landwehr Recalled

At the extreme right of the allies' line, in Alsace, there has been no immediate fighting, but there comes the report that the members of the German landwehr, the last line of available troops, which had been thrown into the province near Ste. Marie-Aux-Mines, have had to be recalled, owing to the fact that they have lost one-half of their effective strength in various encounters with the French troops. Ste. Marie-Aux-Mines is at the entrance to one of the passes of the Vosges mountains which the French took possession of early in the war, and which they have continued to hold.

Two interesting naval incidents are reported from Petrograd. A German squadron in the Baltic appeared off Libau, on the Russian coast, bombarded the town and the port and set several houses on fire. Such is the succinct recital of the Russian staff. No mention is made of the affair in the Berlin dispatches, which would seem to be an indication that no notable German success had been obtained.

The second incident is an attack by Russia's Black sea fleet upon the Turkish city of Trebizond on the southern shore of the great inland water. The results were about the same as in the German attack on Libau, and there is no statement of definite results. The Petrograd report adds that the Black sea fleet was unable to find any trace of Turkish warships.

Turkey's part in the war remains problematical, all events in the near east being overshadowed by the puzzling situation at Smyrna caused by the Turkish forts firing upon a launch of the United States cruiser Tennessee.

MANY HUNGRY IN BELGIUM

Cardinal Mercier Makes Appeal For Food For the Famished

Cardinal Mercier, primate of Belgium, who has just returned to his own country after a visit to England, sent a stirring appeal through the American commission for relief in Belgium for assistance for his starving parishioners of Malines and the surrounding neighborhood.

In the city of Malines alone, the cardinal says, 12,000 have to be fed daily.

"Every stranger who comes to the city or goes into the country is surrounded by a great number of women and children begging him for something to eat. There is hardly a single laborer who can find any work to gain his daily bread," says the primate."

AMERICANS WARNED

Advised by State Department to Keep Out of Europe

Another warning to American citizens against unnecessary visits to foreign countries involved in war was issued by the state department at Washington, with a particular caution to naturalized citizens that they should stay away from their native countries or countries with which they are at war.

Those Americans who expect to travel abroad are advised by the department to provide themselves with letters and documents of identification in addition to their passports, and to be careful to inquire of the proper diplomatic officers in foreign lands about having their passports vised.

Finally the department once more cautioned all citizens not to violate neutrality, either by conduct or utterance.

LIGHTHOUSES CLOSED

War Precaution Adopted by Canadian Marine Department

The marine department of Canada, which last week closed to navigation certain passes of Vancouver Island, as a war precaution, has issued the following additional notice to mariners:

"It may become necessary to extinguish all or certain lights on the coast of British Columbia without further notice. Masters of vessels within territorial waters on the coast of British Columbia must obey all instructions issued by the naval department authorities regarding the movements of their vessels.

"The lights of Pultenoy Spit and Haddington Reef have been discontinued. Mariners will be advised when these lights are again put in operation."

"NEW DAY FOR RAILROADS"

Politicians Interpret Wilson Letter as a Campaign Gun

Washington, Nov. 19.—Politicians accept generally as the opening gun in an anticipated lively political campaign President Wilson's letter to Secretary McAdoo, in which reference was made to the "new day for railroads."

It is tacitly admitted that the president's letter was written, after consultation with his political advisers, to forestall Republican minority agitation against the Wilson program immediately after congress reconvenes next month.

FOR DEFENSE OF UNITED STATES

Wotherspoon Recommends Army of a Million Men

NEED OF TRAINED TROOPS

Country at Present Unprepared to Resist Invasion by First-Class Power—Our Outlying Districts Inadequately Protected—Lauds German System In His Report

Washington, Nov. 19.—America needs more soldiers. General Wotherspoon, who has just retired as United States army chief of staff, makes this assertion in positive terms in his annual report.

Not only is the country unprepared to resist invasion by a first-class power, he holds, but it is likewise in no position to defend the Philippines, the Panama canal, Alaska or Hawaii from hostile attack. Moreover, he contends, the probable value of our coast defenses is questionable.

To relieve these alarming situations, Wotherspoon counsels that the country's standing army be raised from 100,000 men to 205,000, and that in addition there be a mobile army of 500,000 men of the first line and 300,000 of the second line. That America would do well to draw from Germany's military training system is his broad hint.

In clean-cut language this recognized military expert holds that this nation, with its present military strength, cannot possibly assemble rapidly enough a sufficient force, equipped for field operations, to cope with an enemy debarking on our shores. Distribution of forces on a wide front is advised, because of the wide choice of landing places open to the enemy.

For the first line mobile force of 500,000 Wotherspoon would have thoroughly trained men, equipped with provisions and supplies for six months. These would be reinforced by a second line of 300,000 drawn from the organized militia and similarly provisioned.

Troops now distributed in foreign possessions, or to be distributed under the present organization plans, are totally inadequate for the needs of these outlying districts, Wotherspoon says.

Effective defense of the Philippines is "manifestly impossible" with the present forces. Likewise the Panama canal cannot be protected against foreign invasion by the present garrison or by proposed additions thereto, unless the army is so equipped that these troops could be rapidly reinforced from the United States.

Of Alaska, he says that the garrison of 500 men there "verges on the ridiculous," unless it could be reinforced at the "very earliest stages of an impending conflict" by forces from the States. The same criticism, he feels, is applicable to Hawaii.

Germany's system of training soldiers is hinted at as the best means of providing the mobile forces that he recommends.

"In any scheme to create such a force of mobile troops as contemplated above," the report says, "we cannot do better than to follow the example of the master minds in military organization for national defense. The policies developed in this direction all include, among others, the primary plan of using the standing army as a school for the training of men who, on graduation from that school, pass into the reserve and constitute the real national military strength.

"Experience has shown that two or three years is the lowest possible limit of time within which the average man can be converted into a disciplined, trained and effective soldier."

STRIKE IN HIGH SCHOOL

Pupils Claim Principal Insulted One of Their Number

Eau Claire, Wis., Nov. 19.—The 600 pupils in the city's high school struck because of an alleged insult by the principal, F. M. Jack, to Florence Blood, 15 years old.

They returned to the school under a compromise by which the principal absented himself from the building, but they say they will leave permanently unless Jack makes a public apology to the girl.

The principal, it is alleged, charged Miss Blood with wearing her hair down her back as a lure to boys, and ordered her to go home and arrange her hair differently.

A Nestor Of Criticism

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

The woman's club of Medbury was divided into departments of art, sciences, music and other subjects, and for each department a night was set apart. One evening when the department of literature met for chat on literary subjects it was announced beforehand that Miss Emma Alden Hinckley, a celebrated litterateur, would be present. Miss Hinckley had not written very much herself, but her opinion on books was looked upon as final.

During the evening a girl of nineteen, sitting in a corner where she would run no risk of being run down by the intelligent autos that were flashing their lights hither and thither, seemed to take a juvenile pleasure in observing them.

"Nellie," said a lady, stepping up to her, "what are you doing in this corner? You should be making hay while the sun shines. I know you are scribbling, and there are persons here who can give you points that will doubtless help you. Come; I wish to introduce you to Miss Hinckley."

The girl looked as though she would rather miss the opportunity than leave her corner, but was, nevertheless, dragged out of it and presented to the lioness of the evening.

"This is Miss Ellen Acton," said the introducer. "She is beginning to scribble a little, and I am quite sure you can give her a few valuable points on how to proceed."

Miss Hinckley looked a bit frightened. She could be very decided with young authors in her office as editor in chief of the —— Magazine, but she didn't like to tackle one of them in a social way. However, she resigned herself to an ordeal.

"I should like to ask you one or two questions, Miss Hinckley," said Miss Acton, "after which I will not trespass on your good nature further. Do you think I'm old enough to write a novel? I'm nineteen."

"No, you are not. There has been but one successful novel ever written by a young girl."

"Have you read a novel recently published called 'An Unfortunate Blunder?'"

"I have skimmed it in order to make mention of it in our book notices."

"What do you think of it?"

"It is worthless."

"Thank you. I'll not trouble you any further."

Miss Acton slunk back to her corner, giving place to several ladies who advanced to do honor to the literary light.

* * * * * * * *

A reception is in progress at the Women's club of Medbury. It is given for the authoress of a novel which appeared a year ago and has slowly been making its way into public favor. It was published under an assumed name. There were many faults in its construction, but there was something in it that held the reader's attention and produced a peculiar effect. It was not written for any particular class. Persons of acknowledged literary taste approved and condemned it. It was read by both the old and the young. Those who liked it could not see why others did not like it. Those who condemned it said that those who approved it were devoid of literary taste.

When Miss Hinckley received an invitation to be present to do honor to the new literary light she threw the invitation into the wastebasket. Then she fished it out and noted the date. She was curious to see the authoress who had fooled persons of good literary taste with a worthless book. She would attend the reception.

When Miss Hinckley entered the club she saw a promiscuous gathering of men and women. She looked about for a group within which would be the lioness of the evening. Not seeing her, she applied to a member of the club to learn where she was.

"Oh, we can't do anything with her. It was intended that she should receive the guests with the reception committee, but she's gone into obscurity, and we can't get her out. I will be pleased to take you to her."

Miss Hinckley was led to the very corner from which a year before little Miss Acton had been dragged to be introduced to her, and there sat Miss Acton between two large women, whom she was using for screen purposes.

"Great heavens!" exclaimed Miss Hinckley.

At the same moment an old gentleman with fine white hair advanced to greet the young authoress.

"Mr. Barrows," said Miss Hinckley, "a year ago I told this young lady that she was too young to write a novel. She had already written one. I had criticised it unfavorably. I supposed I knew something about literary work."

"So did I, madam, twenty years ago, and I do know something about it for myself, but for no one else. This young lady in writing her story wrote to me, but not to you. At another time she may write to you and not to me. I used to criticise books on what I supposed was their merit. In my old age I realize that a book is like a bell. There can be no sound on an uninhabited island, for there is no ear there to hear. So with a book. Each intellect receives it for itself and not another."

"Oh, Mr. Barrows! You to say that, who in your day was considered a prince among critics!" exclaimed Miss Hinckley.

Miss Acton looked up at the old man like a child who had found a father.

A WINNING NAVY AND WHY IT WINS

Interesting Address Before Wollaston Methodist Club

There was a good attendance Wednesday evening at the monthly supper of the Men's club of the Wollaston Methodist church. At 6.45 an oyster supper was served, and among those present at the supper was Chester I. Campbell, the Republican candidate for Mayor who was present in his capacity as president of the Congregational men's club.

Mr. Campbell spoke briefly before leaving to attend a rally but avoided saying anything of a political nature.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. George A. Crawford, Chaplain of the United States Navy, retired, whose subject was "A winning navy and why it wins." The address was a most interesting one.

QUINCY WOLLASTON

The music committee of the Wollaston Congregational church announce the engagement of Miss Ruth Jean MacaTammany of Boston, as soprano and Miss Blanche Greenaway of Roslindale, as contralto, of the quartette at this church for the season of 1914-15. Miss MacaTammany has returned to the Baker Concert Co. of Boston, after a successful tour of Italy and Germany, and Wollaston is fortunate in securing the services of this lyric soprano, who possesses a remarkably sweet rich voice, of rare quality. In Miss Greenaway, too, this church has a contralto, whose clear sweet voice admirably completes; with Harry R. Rogers, tenor, and Chas. H. Everett, bass, a quartette the Wollaston church and Quincy may well be proud of. Miss MacaTammany, will sing Sunday, Nov. 22, at a vesper at 4. P. M., Gounod's Gallia, assisted by a double quartette. The public are cordially invited.

The Wollaston Progressive club will hold a meeting Friday evening in Progressive hall. Plans will be made for the winter.

QUINCY WELL REPRESENTED

At Waterways Dinner of Mass. Real Estate Exchange

President Powell of the Fore River Corp., addressing the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, Waterway's dinner at Young's hotel, Boston, Wednesday evening said the fact that England has been able to keep control of the sea, proves that the submarine is not making the battleship useless. He asked the assistance of the exchange for the improvement of the waterway leading to the Fore River.

A number from Quincy were present at the dinner who included Mayor Joseph L. Whiton, City Clerk Emery L. Crane, Dock Commissioner Frank F. Crane, President Joseph W. Powell Vice-president Joseph A. Sedgwick and Purchasing Agent J. F. Kemp of the Fore River Corp., ex-Mayor E. R. Stone, Representative Edward J. Sandberg, and John L. Hamilton.

SERVE ROAST BEEF SUPPER

Fully 300 ladies and gentlemen partook of the monthly supper given at the Wollaston Baptist church, Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Benevolent society. At 6.30 a hot roast beef supper with all the fixings was served and was pronounced by all to have been most excellent.

Following the supper there was an interesting entertainment which included solos by Howard Walther, a duet by Mrs. Moses Brown and Mrs. Estes, and humorous readings by Vernon Field. The young ladies of the church also held a sale of home made candies.

WHIST TOURNAMENT.

The weekly whist tournament of the Granite City Club was held Wednesday evening with ten tables in play. The best score was made by Nathan Ellis. There was a tie for the second prize which was later awarded to Moses Brown. As usual refreshments were served after the tournament.

ANNUAL FAIR CHRIST CHURCH

Harvest Supper One of Features of Opening Day

The two days fair of the ladies of Christ church opened Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance and will continue through this afternoon and evening. The parish house where the fair was held was very attractively decorated. Around the sides of the room were flags of all nations while above this was some pretty decorations composed of autumn leaves.

Tables for the sale of useful and fancy articles were arranged about the sides of the room, the whole making a very pretty effect.

The Junior Auxiliary had a table devoted to infants' wear and articles usually found in the children's shops. They were assisted by Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Haskins and Mrs. Tylee.

The Gardner Club had the upper rooms of the Parish House converted into a shooting gallery and bowling alley, also other amusements. The committee in charge were Chester Moyle, Sam May, John Dickie, Ellis Young and Russell Westland.

The Reapers had as usual an attractive table in charge of Mrs. C. H. Wilson, Mrs. Hector, Miss Bown, Miss Fannie Cannon, Miss Pollock, Mrs. Robertson and Miss Lillie Dunbar.

St. Maragret's Guild made one corner seem transported from Japan with all the dainty articles from that country for sale. The committee Miss Ford, Miss Flora Deacon, Miss Clara Pierce, Miss Emily Moyle and Miss Ethel Schools.

A large committee under the direction of Mrs. Jenness at the fancy table showed beautiful hand work of all kinds.

The Household Table had the usual display of necessities such as aprons towels, etc. The ladies on the committee are Mrs. Emery, Mrs. Oxford, Mrs. Macleod, Mrs. Deacon, Mrs. Higgins, Mrs. McConnell and Mrs. Sexton.

Especially attractive to the children and older devotees of Isaac Walton is the Fish Pond with real water where for 5 cents one is always sure of a "bite." Ice cream in cones and orangeade were on sale. Composing the committee are Mrs. Griswold, Mrs. Leighton and Mrs. Barbara Milligan.

The candy table attractive to old and young, men, women and children with its enticing array of goodies is in charge of Mrs. Burke, Mrs. Austin, Mrs. Lyndon Hardwick, Mrs. Lydia Wood and Mrs. Macomber.

At 6 o'clock Wednesday evening a harvest supper was served in the Rectory, as the large number who attended were better accommodated there than at the Parish House. The menu included cold meats, etc., and was pronounced excellent.

Each afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock Mrs. Torrey, Mrs. Tutton, Mrs. Hewson, Mrs. Sylvester and Mrs. Clements served tea.

This afternoon will be known as children's afternoon and a special entertainment for their benefit is to be given.

After refreshments had been served the party dispursed, all having spent a very pleasant evening.

NOW RICHARDS MEMORIAL HALL

Floating Debt of Squantum Church Is Lifted

The dedication of Richards Memorial hall in Squantum was celebrated Wednesday night and over 100 residents joined in the happy event. The hall is part of the First Church of Squantum and the residents also celebrated the lifting of the floating debt from the structure through the generous gift of $700 by Mrs. Anna R. Richards, widow of Calvin A. Richards for whom Richards Memorial hall is named.

Rev. T. W. Davison spoke of the great generosity of Mrs. Richards and explained that while he had been promised a gift of $500 he was happily surprised to receive a check for $700 from Mrs. Richards which clears every indebtedness now outstanding against the handsome First Church of Squantum.

He referred to the fact that the church now stands upon the site of the Richards homestead where for many years Mr. and Mrs. Richards passed their summers in the great mansion that formerly occupied the church site. It was Mrs. Richards' aim, Mr. Davison said, to perpetuate the pleasant memories Mrs. Richards had of Squantum that she made the generous donation to the church.

Probably no gift ever received by a community was greater appreciated and no money more needed. To erect the handsome church structure the people of the community had donated about $2000 and two Boston societies $2500. There still remained a debt of $700. Mrs. Richards' general benefaction clears the floating church debt.

Loud applause greeted Rev. Mr. Davision's announcement. Herbert A. Smith, of the church committee, made the motion, that in view of Mrs. Richard's great benefaction the community show itss appreciation by naming the hall Richards Memorial Hall. This suggestion was eagerly adopted and a unanimous vote to this effect was carried amid applause.

The evening was passed in a very happy social way. Games were played under the direction of Rev. Mr. Davison and Mrs. William Spargo. Refreshments were served under the direction of James H. Sumner, Chas. Bostwick, Mrs. Herman Berghaus, Mrs. John Holmes and Mrs. C. E. Carlson. Those who assisted in serving were:—Mrs. Joseph Gregory, Mrs. Ella Perkins, Mrs. Hackenson, Mrs. Roger Mason, Mrs. John Marden and Mrs. Herbert A. Smith.

SUPPER AND ENTERTAINMENT

The Ladies Aid society of the Calvary Baptist church held their first supper and entertainment of the season at the church Wednesday evening Supper was served at 6.30, the menu consisting of salads, cold meats, rolls, coffee and pastry.

Following the supper there was an interesting program which included prayer by the pastor and remarks by the president Mrs. Williams, recitations by Esther Smith, Sadie Smith, Henry Kidder, Mrs. Butler and Audrey Butler, duet by Mrs. Kidder and Mr. Farquhar and singing by the choir. Mrs. Newman Savage was the accompanist. The program closed with prayer.

There was a large attendance and the several numbers on the program were greatly enjoyed.

TWO DAYS FAIR AT ATLANTIC

A two days fair under the auspices of the ladies of the Atlantic M. E. church was successfully opened Wednesday evening, with tables containing many useful and fancy articles, and Thanksgiving goods which were on sale, and were presided over by the young ladies of the church.

There was also a musical entertainment by the Misses Pollards of the New England Conservatory of Music on the piano and violin. This evening music will be furnished by the Hall orchestra.

The proceeds are to be used towards putting a fire proof roof on the church.

QUINCY WEST

A fine supper was served by the Ladies Aid in the Hall Place M. E. vestry, Wednesday evening and was well attended. After supper the young people furnished an entertainment of singing with a duet by Harold and Arthur Williams, and readings by Warren Jordan. A social hour was enjoyed. Both young and old participated with ready spirit in the games. A hat trimming contest by the men created amusement for the women, and perhaps gave the men a little deeper insight into the mysteries of inexpensive yet artistic millinery. It resulted in the following award of prizes: First, Mr. Butterfield; second Mr. Burke; third, Mr. Stewart; booby prize Rev. P. S. Nelson.

PATRONIZE YOUR HOME NEWSPAPER!

The functions of a newspaper are many. Among its principal ones is to see that the municipality in which it is published is well governed.

It is AN INSPIRATION, AN INCENTIVE, to the man who regards public office as a public trust.

If one wants to know what the officials are doing, if he wants to know how the municipality is being run, he must read the columns of the home newspaper. If he doesn't care enough about his home town to know what is going on he is LACKING IN THE FIRST QUALITY THAT MAKES FOR CITIZENSHIP.

THERE ISN'T A NEWSPAPER IN THE COUNTRY TODAY, FROM THE HUMBLEST COUNTRY WEEKLY TO THE MOST POWERFUL METROPOLITAN DAILY, THAT DOESN'T DEVOTE A GREAT DEAL OF ITS SPACE TO MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS. EDITORS, BIG AND LITTLE, REALIZE THAT MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS ARE THE VERY LIFE OF THE NATION. IF YOU WANT TO KEEP POSTED ON MUNICIPAL DOINGS YOU MUST PATRONIZE THE HOME NEWSPAPER.

The HOME NEWSPAPER HAS BEEN THE GREATEST FACTOR IN REAL REFORM. The people are growing more intelligent. They closely read the newspapers. They are observing more keenly.

Take this newspaper, for instance—your own home publication. We constantly devote columns to municipal news. We fully record the meetings of our town officials. We give space to everything that is doing in political circles. We keep you fully informed on town government affairs.

This paper fulfills this PUBLIC DUTY with FAIRNESS to ALL.

RIVADAVIA TO SAIL DEC. 15.

Goes to Dry Dock at Brooklyn, Thanksgiving Day

It is expected that the battleship Rivadavia which is now at the Charlestown Navy Yard will steam from Massachusetts water on Thanksgiving day, her destination being Brooklyn, N. Y. where she will go into dry dock. When the big fighting ship leaves Boston harbor it will probably be her goodbye trip for it is expected that she will leave Brooklyn about Dec. 15, for Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Many of the Argentine naval officers who have been stationed in Quincy during the building of the battleship have already left the city, where they have spent so many days, taking with them pleasant memories of the hospitable manner in which they have been received by her citizens in general.

Wireless messages received from the battleship Moreno, a sister ship to the Rivadavia, who is holding her official trials off the Rockland, Me., coast are that in her eight hour run she maintained an average speed of 22.525 knots an hour. No attempt was made to force her to a higher speed as the contract speed was but 22 1-2 knots. Capt. Kemp however said that a 23 knot speed could have readily been obtained, if necessary. The Moreno is now on her way to the yards where she was built at Camden, N. J. The Curtis turbine engines with which she is equipped were built at the Fore River yard.

DR. CLARENCE B. UNDERWOOD.

Dr. Clarence B. Underwood a long and well known residents of Quincy died at his home on Cherry avenue, early this morning after a lingering illness.

Dr. Underwood was a son of the late Dr. Joseph Underwood, for many years a well known Quincy physician whose office was located in the house now occupied by Dr. Sargent on the corner of Hancock street and Dimmock street.

Dr. Underwood in his younger years conducted a restaurant but later took up dentistry, which he practiced for many years in Quincy and Boston. He has been suffered from tuberculosis for some years and although able to be about most of the time his health has been gradually failing.

He leaves a widow and two daughters, Alice Josephine, and Mrs. Louis B. Bradford who resides in the South. He also leaves a sister Miss Mary Flora Underwood of Fairmount way.

Peter M. Sullivan Installed Over Quincy Council K. C.

Grand Knight Peter M. Sullivan and the officers of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, were installed in Colonial hall, on Thursday evening in the presence of one of the largest gatherings that ever attended a similar occasion, although weather conditions have not been worse this year.

The officers were inducted into office by District Deputy Supreme Knight William H. Burns of Boston and comprising his suite were members of the Elm Hill council of Roxbury, commonly called the newspaper men's council. John V. Healey was warden, Thomas H. Dacey was banner bearer, the guides were H. F. Bailey and A. D. Murphy and the acolytes were W. E. Dacey, J. A. Sullivan E. W. DesLauriers, L. F. McCarthy, C. J. Leary, F. J. Donahue, J. J. Donovan, C. P. Flanagan. The organist was J. O. Jordon, and the music during the ceremony was also by the choir from Elm Hill council and included B. P. Dennis, D. W. Sullivan, James J. Kenealy, F. E. Lawless, J. C. Stratton, with Martin J. Frane soloist.

Among the guests present were District Deputy Supreme Knight Edward D. Barrett of this city who arrived late after installing the new officers of Cohasset council, past grand knights and past officers of the coun-

THE LEDGER APPRECIATED

Plays Important Part in Civic Development

Editor Quincy Daily Ledger:

As chairman of the temporary organization I feel that we should be very grateful for the wide publicity given, in the Daily Ledger, to the formation of a Quincy High School Alumni Association; and for the generous space granted us in spreading news of the mass meeting.

It is only at such a time we fully realize the important part played by local newspapers in civic development, and in the success or failure of projects for the public good.

I have always found the Ledger working for the best interests of the city and am sure that, in this instance, the stand taken by your publication has the deep appreciation of everyone having the welfare of Quincy High School at heart.

Yours very truly,
J. Harry Hooper.

DISTRICT COURT.

Michael F. Dooley was fined $25 on a charge of larceny at Braintree.

Michael Metro, Peter Gasborovich, Peter Kijoy, John Senskvianna, were fined $5 each for digging more clams than allowed by permit of Quincy.

The case of Neil Sullivan, held in connection with a recent Braintree raid was continued to Nov. 28.

Forbes H. Craig of this city was fined $15 for violation of the auto laws at Milton.

MUST WAIT FOR A HEARING

The Mayor's telephone has been kept good and warm by residents of Rock Island, in regard to the stoppage of work on the bridge over the rivulet at Winthrop street. As stated Thursday, the people are very much wrought over the matter, but the Mayor informed them that the city was not to blame for the delay.

He stated this morning that a formal objection had been made to the Port of Boston Directors by John T. Cavanagh, through his attorney J. J. McAnarney, who stated that his client requested to be heard in regard to the matter. A letter on file in the office of the Mayor from the Port Direcors also states that Mr. Cavanaugh had personally appeared at their office in regard to the matter.

The Mayor said this morning that he hoped that the delay would be but temporary and that he was doing all that he could to hurry the settlement of the question; that a hearing would probably be held by the Port Directors or Harbor and Land Commissioners at an early date.

It was reported at Houghs Neck this morning that there was a possibility that the two present small bridges crossing the brook to Rock Island might be ordered removed by land owners, in which event it would oblige residents of that section of the city to travel three miles by a round about way to get to Houghs Neck or the Atherton Hough school.

SUES STATE FOR WAGES

Lemuel Pitts of Quincy Claims That $940 Is Due Him

Lemuel Pitts of Quincy, an employee by the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board, and a civil war veteran, has brought suit against the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for $940 which he claims is due him from the state for wages in arreas.

In 1902 Pitts went to work for the board as an attendant at $60 per month. He says he got $65 a month from 1907, and never another raise in pay, but he alleges the board raised laborers' wages from $1.75 to $2 a day in 1910, and the Legislature on June 12, 1911, and May 19, 1913, raised their wages from $2 to $2.50.

Pitts says, being a veteran, he has had to work Sundays and has not been given weekly half-holidays, and, though classified as an attendant under the civil service, has really done police, foreman and other special work at the pumping station in Wollaston, without getting extra pay for the same, and without getting any of the increases in wages he says have been authorized during the past four years.

DR. C. S. MINOT.

Dr. C. S. Minot, an authority on embryology and pathology, well known as an author and lecturer, died at his home in Milton Thursday in his 62nd year. His reputation as a physician was international and during his lifetime he was honored by many societies. He was born in West Roxbury and in 1889 married Miss Luey Fosdick of Groton.

CLOSING NIGHT CHURCH FAIR

Although the weather Thursday evening was against a large attendance at any public function, yet a goodly number braved the elements to attend the closing night of the fair being held at the Parish House of Christ church. In the afternoon, which was known as childrens afternoon, there was a large number of children in attendance and a special entertainment was given for their benefit.

The various booths at which articles were on sale, were well patronized during the two days and most of the articles were disposed of.

THE TAX LEVIES.

Many taxpayers are inclined to blame the Assessors for big tax bills, but they do not stop to consider that the tax levy of Quincy has more than doubled since Charles M. Bryant was Mayor. And that was not many years ago—just ten years.

In 1900 the total tax levy, including State and county taxes, Metropolitan assessments, maturing debt and interest, etc., was only $379,919.61. Mayor Hall increased it less than $20,000 the next year.

During the first year of Mayor Bryant in 1902 it increased less than $5,000; the next year less than $14,000 and in 1904 less than $35,000.

Under Mayor Thompson it increased from $30,000 to $40,000 each year.

In Mayor Shea's first year it increased over $50,000, but in 1909 he kept it down to an increase of $22,000 and in 1901 it went a little over $40,000 increase.

In the last year of Mayor Shea the increase was but $313.63, but undoubtedly it should have been larger, to meet all demands, for the next year under Mayor Stone an increase of over $130,000 was made.

Another big increase came in Mayor Stone's second year when the tax levy jumped over $90,000.

This year under Mayor Miller the increase in levy dropped down to $36,000.

Here are the levies for the fifteen years:

Levy of 1900	Hall	$379,919.61
Levy of 1901	Hall	396,462.10
Levy of 1902	Bryant	400,997.23
Levy of 1903	Bryant	414,780.02
Levy of 1904	Bryant	449,192.66
Levy of 1905	Thompson	485,546.39
Levy of 1906	Thompson	516,714.06
Levy of 1907	Thompson	553,548.38
Levy of 1908	Shea	605,669.43
Levy of 1909	Shea	627,159.23
Levy of 1910	Shea	668,323.13
Levy of 1911	Shea	668,636.76
Levy of 1912	Stone	799,691.73
Levy of 1913	Stone	892,933.36
Levy of 1914	Miller	928,512.71

Do the taxpayers want the levy of 1915 to exceed a million dollars?

NOON TRAIN.

If Mayor Whiton succeeds in getting a noon train between 12.11 and 1.13 he will merit the thanks of the ladies to say nothing of the men who would find another train a great convenience. For several years this train has been asked for and long desired. Several months ago the Quincy Women's Club voted to confer with the Quincy Board of Trade to see if it were not possible to get another train at noon but could make no headway. Here's hoping Mayor Whiton succeeds where others have failed.

Then he should tackle the step question. The steps on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. trains are outrageously high for men, women and children. Either an additional step or a raise in the platforms at the depots. A change is demanded.

TO EASE HARD TIMES.

That was good advice Rev. Austin Rice of Wakefield gave his congregation recently when he said: "Pay your small bills to ease the pinch of hard times."

"Not long ago, said Mr. Rice, "a grocer in a neighboring town was put to serious worry and business distress because one of his wealthiest customers was exceedingly slow to pay. He could scarcely afford to carry the customer's account along, yet he feared to lose his patronage and good will. Any artisan or merchant will make allowances for slowness in payment to those who are themselves crippled by scarcity of work. But as a sheer act of justice and as a matter of Christian good will and encouragement, every one who possibly can should pay every obligation, and most of all his small debts, with unusual promptness in these hard times."

The idea is equally good, whether in Wakefield or Quincy. It is worth a trial anyway. Pay up gentlemen, and ladies.

Thanksgiving comes next Thursday and already the housekeeper knows that she will need certain extra groceries for this holiday. She may aid the local grocers in a very material and timely fashion by placing orders several days in advance. In this way, orders may be filled accurately, promptly and satisfactorily and yet without overwork for employer or employees. Such foresight before Thanksgiving, Christmas and other holidays as well as before each Saturday would make it unnecessary for delivery boys to work until late in the evening without supper, possibly without lunch, or for girls to toil weary hours of overtime packing candy or other perishable products which carry pleasure to others.

WINTHROP ST. HOLD-UP

Mr. Cavanagh Says It Was By Port Directors

Editors of Daily Ledger:

By your issue of Nov. 19 you accuse me of holding up the work of building a bridge over the river of water that makes up through the land from Quincy bay. Let me state that I have nothing whatever to do with any of the waterways of Boston harbor; they are under the direct charge of the Port Directors of the port of Boston, and if the city officials have stopped work on this bridge it is by their own accord, after being informed as to their rights by the Port Directors of the port of Boston.

It is a strange thing that our city officials should undertake to stop up one of the rivers of our harbor without first consulting with the Port Directors, and not wait until the work was nearly completed before they inform themselves as to their rights.

John T. Cavanagh.

FIREMEN'S BALL TONIGHT

The twenty-third annual concert and ball of the Quincy Firemen's Relief association will be held this evening at Music hall and as usual promises to bring together a large number of the many friends of the association, not only from Quincy but from near by towns and cities. These annual events are always looked forward to by the firemen, and tonight's affair will doubtless be as successful as have the gatherings of other years. When it is understood that the object of the ball is to increase its funds, so that it may be in a position to render assistance to its members in case of illness, and again when it is understood that these men, without a murmur of complaint, are ready to turn out at the call to duty, no matter what the hour may be or how severe the weather, it is no wonder that hundreds purchase tickets in order to help along the good cause, although finding it impossible to actively participate in the evenings pleasure.

From the number of tickets already disposed of there will be a large attendance this evening. Wilson's orchestra will furnish the music for the promenade concert and for the dancing which will follow, while at intermission Seiler will cater.

Dr. L. P. Hallquist, one of the leading minister of the Swedish Lutheran faith, and for many years president of the New York conference has been in this city the past few days as the guest of his sister, Mrs. B. S. Wallin and Rev. Leander K. Hokenson, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church of this city. This morning he left for his home at Wilcox, Pa.

FAIRBANKS IS THE SECRETARY

A meeting of the Massachusetts Municipal Auditors and Comptrollers Association was held Nov. 19, at which meeting C. F. Gettemy, Director of the Bureau of Statistics was elected President, D. W. Kenny, Auditor of Holyoke, Vice President, and H. O. Fairbanks, Auditor of Quincy, Secretary.

The above named officers and H. W. Clark, Auditor of Fall River, and Daniel O. Marshall, Auditor of Gloucester, comprise the Executive Committee.

The object of the Association is to discuss matters that are of importance to the cities, especially those relating to financial questions.

The discussion at the meeting was on the preparation of the budget and departments exceeding their appropriations.

HEBERT—FITZPATRICK.

Charles E. Hebert, the well known base and basket ball player of this city and Miss Agnes Gertrude Fitzpatrick of Randolph were married on Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed at 6.30 at St. Mary's church, that town, by Rev. Fr. F. T. Hannawan, pastor, and was somewhat of a surprise in West Quincy, the home of the groom.

The bride was dressed in a becoming suit of blue broadcloth and wore a large picture hat trimmed with willow plumes. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary O'Rourke of Somerville and M. F. Jennings of South Boston was best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride on Aklen street, Randolph where the couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Long.

Many attended and Mr. and Mrs. Hebert were the recipients of many gifts. They are now on a wedding trip and on their return will reside in Randolph.

The groom, Charles E. Hebert, is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Noel Hebert and very few of his many friends knew of his approaching marriage. He has been a participant in athletics in this city and gained considerable reputation as a pitcher, for some of the fastest of the semi-professional teams in the state. His bride is a very popular young lady and has a large circle of friends here.

MRS. SARAH J. BROWN.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah J. widow of Charles F. Brown, was held from the First Universalist church Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock and aside from being attended by a large number of her many friends, was also attended by a delegation from Enterprise lodge N. E. O. P. of which she was a member. The services were conducted by Rev. Merrill C. Ward, pastor of the church. During the services John E. Greene sang "Abide with me" "O paradise" and "Face to face." There was a profusion of beautiful flowers. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

cil, and Grand Knight James E. Gearey of Ave Maria council of West Quincy.

The officers installed were:

Grand Knight—Peter M. Sullivan.

Deputy Grand Knight—Michael M. Barrett.

Chancellor—Thomas F. Griffin.

Financial Secretary —Richard A. Cole.

Recording Secretary—Dennis S. Sweeney.

Treasurer—Michael T. Sullivan.

Warden—Frank Driscoll.

Lecturer—A. M. Driscoll.

Trustee—Marcus Mahon.

Advocate—Edward J. Fegan.

Inside Guard—Charles F. Hagerty.

Outside Guard—Frank A. Ferguson.

At the conclusion of the installation ceremonies a vaudeville entertainment was given by professional talent from Boston and vicinity, among whom was the peerless Harry McGowan. The bill comprised the South City quartette of South Boston, William Ryan, John O'Brien, William Bagley, William Dennis, with William Heffernan, monologues and songs by Fred Irwin, John McElroy and Larry McCabe and Russell Clark and Neil Sullivan in a sketch with a touch from the old sod in it.

Refreshments were served under the direction of Burleigh and Martin, caterers, of West Quincy and Boston, and included salads, ices, cakes and coffee.

Grand Knight Peter M. Sullivan is one of the best known young men in the city. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Sullivan of 58 Edison park and nephew of Miss Sarah Malone a teacher at the Washington school. He graduated from Adams academy and Boston college and since then has engaged in newspaper work in Quincy, Brockton and Boston and is now on the city staff of the Boston Herald.

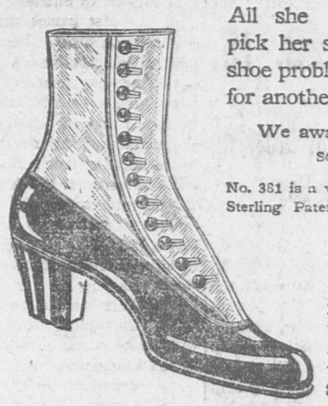

MORE CLAMS THAN ALLOWED

Patrolman Michael Donovan, whose regularity in covering the Houghs Neck beat during the day has gained him a reputation equal to that of a well oiled clock, during his customary stroll along the Merrymount shores Tuesday came across four Italians with a large quantity of clams in their possession.

As he approached the group all flashed permits which had been issued at the office of the Board of Health. That is all right said Patrolman Donovan, but you have got more than you should have, so he trotted out his little red book and jotted down the names on the permits. The next day summons were issued and this morning the four men were arraigned in the District Court under the names of Nick Metro, Peter Gasborocich, Peter Kijoy and John Senskviana. They were fined $5 each.

EXASPERATING --- ISN'T IT?

If there is any one thing that tries a man's patience and makes him irritable, it is to get a tie under a collar and then find that the tie sticks and can't be slipped or adjusted without yanking the collar, and consequently the upper part of the shirt bosom entirely out of shape.

By our new process we so launder a collar that its top edge, where it is turned over, is not sharp, but slightly rounded and more space is given all along between the inside and the outside of the collar.

Thus, here is plenty of room for the free movement of the tie backward and forward and it is easy to adjust it to the proper position.

Why not try having a few of your collars done by our new process and note the result?

Telephone and our driver will call.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Allen S. Williams gave a very interesting lecture on snakes at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening of this week to a large number of boys and adults. After being introduced by Mr. Humphrey, the Boys' Work secretary, Mr. Williams told briefly some of the ideas people had regarding snakes stinging and some of the peculiarities of different kinds of snakes and in a few brief sentences told those present some true things about snakes which were just the opposite from the general belief.

Mr. Williams had with him a number of live specimens and a good collection of lantern slides showing some things of the home life of snakes.

At the close of the lecture, Mr. Williams called Norman Dodge of Wollaston to the stage and had him handle some of the specimen showing how harmless they were and how easy to handle. Norman showed his love for animals by the manner in which he handled the snakes and won the admiration of both Mr. Williams and those present for the confidence he had in Mr. Williams when it came to letting him rap a large snake around his neck. Those who heard Mr. Williams will long remember some of the interesting things he said and it is hoped that he may come again for the benefit of those unable to hear him.

Friday evening in the Association hall will be served the first Bible class supper for the boys. The Ladies' Auxiliary have been working hard to make this first dinner a big success and through the effort of Joe Beal, Chairman of the Bible class committee in the Boys' division a large number of boys are expected to be present. The speakers of the evening will be Mr. Burgess, President of the Association, Mr. Conlon, County secretary, Mr. Sedgwick, chairman of the Boys' work committee, Mr. Humphrey, the Boys' work secretary, and others. These suppers will be given monthly for those interested in Bible study in the Boys' division.

Saturday morning meeting this week at nine sharp in the Association hall with stereopticon pictures Part one of Pilgrim's Progress. All boys over ten are invited to this meeting.

Monday evening in the Gym will be held the second monthly meet for the Employed boys, and as they have been training hard for this event it should be very interesting. The small sum of ten cents is charged to these meets and the public is cordially invited to come in and see what the boys are doing along this line. This invitation includes also any ladies or girls who would be interested.

Prospects look bright for two of the best Basket-Ball teams that ever represented the Association. On Tuesday night 27 men responded to the call for candidates and some fine practice work was indulged in after the regular class work was finished. The most promising candidates are H. Trask, E. Brown, R. Kenn, M. Chapman, J. Jenkins, S. Dineen, C. Bishop, L. Andrews, A. Robertson, P. Foss E. Rich, A. Thomas, W. Kemp, D. Gearwar, G. Shirley.

The first games will be played on Saturday night, Nov. 28, when the crack Braintree A. A. will line up against our teams.

In the regular Tuesday night Senior class contest James Jenkins surprised the "dopesters" by taking first place in the Standing-hop-jump by leaping 24 feet 10 inches; 2d place was won by H. Trask and 3d by E. Brown. Up to date Henry Trask has 11 points, Fred Oleson has 7 and James Jenkins has 5 points.

The contests in the Junior class group games are bringing out some "dark horses" in the various teams and as a result the teams are pretty well bunched. Princeton, Herbert Hendry Capt., is in first place: 17 4-10 points. Michigan, T. Brown, Capt., is in 2d place with 15 4-10 points. Harvard, Eric Nelson, Capt., is 3d with 13 1-2 points, and Penn. State is 4th, Everett Robbie, Capt., with 7 4-10 points.

The examination for the Junior class leaders is now finished and the following boys have the highest marks and have qualified for the coveted positions: R. Hall, H. Hendry, E. Nelson, E. Robbie, R. Ahlstrom, J. Beal, and S. Maxwell. There are about 10 boys who took part in only one-half of the tests and they will be given a chance to finish up on Saturday morning.

The Employed boys group games standing is as follows: 1st, Dartmouth, 24 8-10; 2d, Syracuse, 19 1-2; 3d, Harvard, 19; 4th, Yale, 12 1-2 points.

MURPHY—RYAN.

John J. Murphy, a popular conductor in the employ of the Bay State St. Ry. Co., and Miss Elizabeth Josephine Ryan of 33 Myrtle street, Atlantic were married Wednesday evening at the Sacred Heart Parish house, Rev. Fr. J. P. Cuffe, pastor, officiated.

Miss Mary Ryan, sister of the bride was bridesmaid and Thomas J. Walsh was best man. A reception followed the ceremony. Both are popular in this city. They will live in Quincy.

FLEXIBILITY.

Great strides are being made in the shoe industry by making footwear with flexible soles. Flexible soles and shanks are working wonders in such shoes as the Ground Grippers for the cure of foot troubles. The makers of La France shoes for ladies are making flexible welt shoes with style, and durable yet very flexible soles. The Granite Shoe Store is showing a mechanical device in their windows that shows that La France shoes are "pliable as the willow." See this display, and see these good shoes.

THE HOUSE OF DIGNIFIED CREDIT

Where You Can Have a Year or More To Pay

He had been worried for months and did not dare to pop the question to the sweetest girl in all the world. He wanted to give her a home such as she had been used to, but his salary did not permit him to save enough to pay the cash to furnish the home like he would want his intended to live in. For days and days he worried until he met his dearest friend and stated his troubles to him; he had been married only a short time and had such a pretty furnished home.

"Nothing easier," was the advice. "Go to Summerfield's, the House of Dignified Credit; they furnished my home and gave me over a year to pay for it. They allow me to pay weekly or monthly, and put the goods in my home on 30 DAYS' FREE TRIAL to see how I would like them. I had the privilege to exchange any article that did not meet with our approval, and must say the delivery by their Packard trucks was such that I did not have to exchange a single article. Could anything be fairer? Consult with Summerfield and your troubles will soon be over."

He brought her in yesterday and picked out a pretty 4-room outfit.—Moral, come and do likewise.

HOWARD NOT A CANDIDATE

Editor Ledger

I have decided not to enter the race for the Mayoralty this year, as the time is too short to make an effective campaign, and I do not believe that enough of the workers are alive to their class interests to elect a purely working class candidate.

When, at the present time, a candidate is presented to the public who does not possess much of worldly goods, and is a member of the proletariat, through the newspapers and otherwise, the shafts of ridicule are pointed at him. The majority of people at the present time measure a man's ability by the dollars he has back of him, regardless of how that wealth may have been attained, but history shows that in any great crisis men have arisen from the so-called lower class, who have been found the best fitted to handle the great problems before the people.

As Ingersoll said in his great oration on Lincoln, "if you want to know what a man is give him power." When this republic was first founded and one of the greatest problems ever presented to the human race called for a solution, the first Congress was made up entirely of working people with one exception. The record of this Congress has not been excelled by any we have had since. However, we have to make the best of conditions as they are, and as there is only one platform and one kind of a candidate, I could honestly and consistently support, before the campaign is over the workers of Quincy will hear further from me as to the best line of action I think they should follow to further their class interests.

BETHANY LIBRARY SOCIAL.

A large number attended the "Library social" at Bethany church Wednesday evening. It was a very enjoyable affair and all seemed to have a good time. The social was arranged by Miss Agnes Fisher, assisted by Miss Gertrude Shaw, Miss Mary Stewart, Melville P. Hayward, Charles Gragg, and Thomas Sandison. When the people arrived each was given a slip with the name of a book or its author. Then each tried to find the corresponding slip. This was followed by a march after which the men passed into the ladies parlor and became the magazines. Rules of the library were posted and also the list of the magazines. The ladies applied for the magazines and had to pay a fine of two cents a minute if they kept the magazine out over ten minutes. Enjoyable games followed. Charles Avery sang a solo "Home, Sweet Home." Coffee, crackers and doughnuts were served in charge of Miss Mary Stewart. The social closed with the singing of a hymn and the benediction by the pastor, Rev. B. A. Willmott.

A JOB FOR GUY.

Councillor Charles W. Guy of this city, defeated for re-election by Guy Andrews Ham, is a candidate for the vacancy on the parole board left by the retirement of Benjamin Young.

Councillor Guy is a humanitarian, and during his service at the State House has taken great interest in the problem of the reformation of convicts and the work of the Pardon Committee of the Council.

The salary for the position is $15 per diem while the board is in session.

QUINCY HIGH WALTHAM GAME

The open plays to be used in the Waltham-Quincy High game at Waltham Saturday will suffer as a result of the wet gridiron and even the kicking contests which undoubtedly would have developed may not be as spectacular as under ordinary conditions.

But the players of Quincy High school are ready to defend the school valiantly and the remarkable improvement in their recent games has caused the sporting writers of metropolitan papers to say at almost the last minute that the local team has a chance against Waltham.

All of the players and rooters have been preparing to avail themselves of it. The student body has given its spare moments up to a discussion of plays that they know Quincy will use to advantage.

The muddy field will interfere a great deal with those which depend on quick work but the old solid line to line contest can be brought into action. It is probably here that Quincy will give the best account of itself.

Just how many will see the game is unknown but if all who are planning to accompany the squad to Waltham go the proper thing to do will be to hire a band to escort the long parade from the stations to the football grounds.

Headmaster Ernest L. Collins invited the alumni of the school at the meeting Wednesday evening and a mass meeting of students Thursday indicated the intense interest that is being taken in the coming contests.

Larkins and Hansons Win in Elks League Bowling

LARKIN—MALONEY.

The Elks held a league bowling session at the Wardwell alleys Thursday evening but the gallery was small on account of poor weather conditions. Even the scores ran low, J. W. Sweeney capturing high total with 282. His best string was 99.

The Larkins beat the Maloneys 4 to 0. They started on a career in the first single and held to the mark through the total.

BOWLING GOSSIP.

The Franklin Associates of South Quincy want to meet bowling teams in the city.

The Quincy Adams quintette has issued a similar challenge.

The St. Mary's league will undoubtedly be reorganized, at least to defend the record team single and total established last winter and which remains unbroken.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

The Wide-a-wake club of the First Baptist church is to hold an important meeting Friday evening in the church parlor.

The regular meeting of the Neighborhood club will be held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Ingersoll on Bates road.

Mr. and Mrs. William Frances Moers of Bates road have as their guest this week, Miss Abbey F. Meyers of Gardiner, Maine.

Mrs. Zell who has been the guest of Mrs. Lothian of Bates road the last two weeks returned to her home in Baltimore, Maryland on Tuesday.

The third in the series of cottage prayer meetings being held by members of the First Baptist church was held Tuesday evening at the home of Gustav Carlson on Squantum street.

The football team of the High school ends the season Friday afternoon when it meets the Weymouth High team at Cunningham park.

A dancing class has been organized by members of the senior class of the High school. Carl Hall, director of physical training in the public schools is the teacher. There are about 35 in the class. The matrons at Monday's lesson were Mrs. Arthur Tucker and Mrs. Fred Farrington.

About 200 people attended the regular meeting of the Men's Club of the East Congregational church, held Wednesday evening at the church. President Olaf Olsen introduced the speaker of the evening Rev. Dr. Donald MacFadyen of London, England. Dr. MacFadyen has been lecturing in this country for the last month and the club was very fortunate to get him to speak here. His subject was "Belgian relief—The finest example of modern humanism," with stereopticon pictures. The speaker said that in coming years, when the history of the war will be written, a debt of gratitude must be paid to the Americans in Paris, who have done such splendid relief in this war. Dr. MacFadyen explained in detail England's technical relations with Belgium but he said that if England had been prepared she would have been able to protect Belgium in time. He extolled the German emperor highly but said that the German people as a whole had gone mad over "force," and believed that they must show to the world, even by brutality that they were and must be the leaders. He said that England was fighting a war of humanitarianism. Among the slides were pictures of Brussels before the war, ruins of Welle and Termonds. The last two slides shown were photographs of King George of England and King Albert of Belgium. At the suggestion of the president a rising vote of thanks was given to the speaker.

The honor roll for the first report period at the High school has been posted. One must get B or above in each subject to be eligible for this roll As usual the freshman class has the most on it with eight, the second and fourth year are second with seven and the third year only has four. The list is as follows:—

First year—Louise Barton, Doris Hersey, Jessie Mullen, Mary Thayer, Ruth Murray, Marguerite Cunningham, Annie Dempsey and Evelyn Hastings.

Second year—Marvel Fabian, Mary Farrington, Violet Hammons, Dorothy Holmes, Gladys Kaufman, Doris Pearce and Alice Reagan.

Third year—Alma Jardine, Esther Johnson, Mary Kaufman and Florence Wall.

Fourth year—Alice Damon, Rachael Farrington, Mary Joe, Mary Monahan Josephine Rice, Alice Thompson and Milton Tucker.

Hugh Robertson of the senior class has been elected captain of the hockey team for this winter.

Dr. Gould of Quincy is a member of the Boston Quintette which will give a concert under the auspices of the Wollaston Parents-Teachers Association next Monday evening. The proceeds go to charity.

Bring your old shoes to us, we will make them young again at a very reasonable price.

AMUSEMENTS

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

Full houses have been the rule at Castle Square Theatre all the past week, with Eubene Walter's "million dollar" drama "Paid in Full "as the attraction. Press and public agree that Miss Mary Young has done nothing better than her impersonation of the brave and pure young wife who visits the terrible Captain Williams in his lonely apartment at night in order to obtain pardon for her worthless husband and who compels his admiration and respect. Mr. Carleton's rendering of the role of Williams also brought loud and deserved applause. Next week sees Cartle Square the home of rollicking farce, with "Too Much Johnson" as the bill. Described at different times as a "hurricane of hilarity" and a "Landslide of laughter" Mr. Gillette's farce comes near being the funniest play written for the American stage. There is a husband who makes his wife believe he is owner of a Cuban ranch ,a terrible planter named Johnson with a long whip and a short temper, a fire eating Frenchman looking for a rival and numberless funny situations Mr. John Craig will play his old part of the prevaricating Billings with Miss Young as the confiding wife.

WILBUR THEATRE.

The best play of American home life on the stage today is "The Road to Happiness," in which Wm. Hodge has scored such a pronounced triumph at the Wilbur Theatre in Boston. He is now finishing his third month at that playhouse and his success is without doubt the biggest of all the Boston hits of the year. Hodge himself is thoroughly American in his unique personality and humor and his drama, with its cheerfulnes and optimism, is also just as native to our soil. The scenes are laid in a typical small town, which might be either Down East, Upper New York State or Hoosier—so universal are its village characters and atmosphere. In young Jim Whitman, the struggling carpenter and jack-of-all trades, with his ambition to be a lawyer, and Jim's invalid mother, there is presented a beautiful family household, full of all that homespun virtue and happiness which is our national ideal. Jim's chivalrous action in defending an innocent girl against the village squire causes the dramatic action of the piece, but in the end he brings happiness even to the Squire himself and shows him the true way of sunshine along "The Road to Happiness." It is this wholesome, bright and inspiring nature of the play and its chief character that makes it so worthy of the immense popularity which it has gained. The special Thanksgiving Day and Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

The only man on the American stage who has made the wearing of women's clothes an artistic achievement in the best sense of the word is Julian Eltinge who is now appearing at the Colonial Theatre, Boston, in his newest and greatest success "The Crinoline Girl." This piece, the successor of "The Fascinating Widow" and the product of the same author's facile pen, was first produced at the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York, early last spring, and enjoyed a run which lasted well into the summer and which was terminated only by the first prolonged spell of torrid weather. It affords Mr. Eltinge the opportunity of gracefuly and logically shifting from the role of an agreeable young man into that of a much more agreeable young woman and back again. It is described as a "farcical melo-dramatic comedy" which is most assuredly an entirely new type of play and there are moments when the graceful and clever star is given the chance of breaking into melodious song without disrupting either the plot or the logical sequence of events. The new songs which Mr. Eltinge will sing, wearing a bewildering succession of gowns include "The Tempting Tango," "In My Dreams of You" and "When Martha Was a Girl." During the rendition of at least one of these Mr. Eltinge offers a dance in which his simulation of feminine ways is said to be fascinating and amazing. Evenings at 8.15. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday at 2.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

One of the most notable events of the theatrical season will be the engagement of Margaret Anglin at the Hollis Street Theatre beginning Nov. 23, when she will present Oscar Wilde's most brilliant play "Lady Windermere's Fan." Previous to Miss Anglin's revival of the play in New York last season where it ran for three months at the Hudson and Liberty theatres, it had not been seen in this country since the heydey of its success, more than twenty years ago. "Lady Windermere's Fan" was the first of the society comedies by Oscar Wilde, and now after a score of years, it has amply demonstrated that "age cannot wither nor custom stale its infinite variety." It is overlaid with a brilliance of dialogue that makes its revival worth while. The smart talk of the late Victorian drawing rooms, polished up for the theatre, the nonchalant satire, the languid cynicism, the flashing epigrams—these are the attractions of "Lady Windermere's Fan." "Lady Windermere's Fan," is a drama of the upper social register with scenes laid in London, and relates to a domestic skeleton in the closet: It is admirably constructed and plentifully supplied with tense situations, and moves steadily, surely and rapidly to its splendid climax in the third act. The dialogue is fluent and pungent. In the chief character, Miss Anglin has a role which lends itself to her splendid talents as an emotional actress. As this wayward but fascinating woman, she has from all accounts, added another triumph to her long list of successes which stand out resplendent in American theatrical history.

SHUBERT THEATRE.

"The Passing Show of 1914" enters upon its fifth and last week at the Shubert Theatre, Nov. 23. The taking success of the Winter Garden revues, a combination of farce, travesty, musical comedy and extravaganza, is unmistakable. The burlesques of dramatic successes are immensely entertaining in themselves, and do not necessitate, for their complete enjoyment, that the auditor should have seen the original. This is particularly true of the "Help Wanted," travesty, which is quite the most amusing skit that has been seen on the local stage in many a day. In this scene, George Monroe and Harry Fisher, assisted by Frances Demarest, are immensely amusing. Scenicly, "The Passing Show of 1914" is a marvel in its way, for there are so many novel settings; thirteen in all, that the auditor is well nigh bewildered by their swift succession. Nothing finer in the way of a panoramic view has been seen than the exterior of the Panama Pacific Exposition, at San Francisco. Others of particular novelty is the Sloping Path, the flight of a transatlantic airship, a Persian Garden and Buldeen's Eugenic Gymnasium. In the way of dancing, this show is most musical. The best singing, dancing and looking chorus in the world, is as active as a cow's tail in fly time.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

Sam Bernard in "The Belle of Bond Street" enters upon its second and last week at the Majestic Theatre Monday evening. Mr. Bernard under the direction of the Shuberts comes here direct from a successful engagement at the Adelphi theatre in London, where "The Belle" made a great hit. This vehicle, which continues him in his well known character of Piggy Hoggenheimer, the rich Jewish bounder, has been rewritten by Owen Hall and Howard Atteridge who furnished the book, Adrian Ross and Claude Aveling, who contributed the lyrics and Ivan Caryl and Lionel Monckton, who composed the music. The supporting company includes Mollie King, of last season's "Passing Show," Minerva Coverdale of "The Red Widow," Sammy Lee, seen here with "The Fire Fly," Florence Nugent Jerome, daughter of Billy and Maude Nugent, who is making her first road tour though she appeared with the Follies in New York, Harold Crane, Cyril Chadwick, Jere McAuliffee, Lillian Hale and others. The song hits are Mr. Bernard's "Who Paid the Rent for Mrs. Rip Van Winkle," "Prunella" by Sammy Lee, "Gypsy Land" by Miss Goverdale. Another is "Hoggenheimer of Park Lane" sung by Mr. Bernard and Miss King, in which they introduc a burlesque tango. The farce might be called "All On Account of a Kiss," as the little kiss in the first act causes all the trouble.

GAIETY THEATRE.

Monday, Nov. 23 "The Gaiety" will celebrate its sixth anniversary. It goes without saying that many friends and patrons will be on hand to congratulate the management and partake of the good things offered. For this occasion the attraction will be Ed Lee Wrothe, as the Janitor, and his Ginger Girls Company. The present edition of Janitor Higgins contains only the best scenes, songs and dances of its predecessors, with many new ones added to bring the piece up to date. Wrothe is quite at home in the part of the apartment house tyrant and gives it with real zest. Jan Le Beau, Augusta Lang, Fritzi Leyton, Max Fehrman and several other principals, are worthy aiders and abettors of the Janitor Higgins amusement enterprise. This year the chorus has been given other tasks besides those of song, dance and posing. Among those who have made the present edition to Janitor Higgins a big improvement on its former self are June McCree, Frank Wakefield, Will Vodery, Henry Creamer and Dan Dody. The new dialogue of the extravaganza has been brought up to date.

HOW FRENCH PEOPLE CURE STOMACH TROUBLE

A household remedy of the French peasantry, consisting of pure vegetable oil, and said to possess wonderful merit in the treatment of stomach, liver and intestinal troubles, has been introduced in this country by George H. Mayr, who for twenty years has been one of the leading down town druggists of Chicago and who himself was cured by its use. So quick and effective is its action that a single dose is usually enough to bring pronounced relief in the most stubborn cases, and many people who have tried it declare they never heard of anything to produce such remarkable results in so short a time. It is known as Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy and can now be had at almost any drug store. It is now sold here by

Clyde T. Cox and druggists everywhere.

MILTON BOWLING.

The bowling match in progress at Cunningham Gymnasium is beginning to attract more interest. Teams 4 and 6 are now in the lead and teams 8, 7 and 9 are tied for second place. The standing of the teams is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pinfall
Team 4	6	2	2332
Team 6	6	2	2460
Team 8	5	3	2596
Team 7	5	3	2404

The high three string average was gained by T. Gordon, his score being 303. J. Cockery has the high single string at 116.

TO CELEBRATE NEW YEARS EVE

While some weeks must yet elapse before New Year, the members of the Granite City club and their ladies are looking forward to that date, for the club is now arranging for one of the most unique entertainments ever held in this city. It is fast becoming the custom for many on New Years eve to gather about the festive board at some of the many Boston hotels where special festivities are held, as the old year passes into history and the New Year is born.

The difficulty is that while very many would like to observe the advent of the New Year, it is difficult to arrive home from Boston, unless one uses an automobile.

The Granite City Club however have engaged Alpha and Union halls for New Years eve, and will have a celebration. Individual tables will be arranged in Alpha hall, and Union hall will be used as a sort of kitchen. During the evening refreshments will be served at the different tables while the party is being entertained by a cabaret show, that will surpass anything in this line ever before attempted in Quincy.

At the hour of midnight special exercises will be held and the hall will be darkened for a minute. These exercises will be followed by general dancing until 2 o'clock.

School Notes

All the Parents-Teachers Associations of the city have organized and commenced their programme for the year with good attendance and an evident interest on the part of those present. Next year, the coming of the Massachusetts Federation to Quincy, to hold its annual convention will stimulate an unusual interest in the work which is being carried on.

EVENING SCHOOLS.

The close of the second month of the evening school term finds the attendance being maintained in a very satisfactory way. The appropriation for evening school is so small that it has been impossible to engage enough teachers to do the work to the best advantage but there has been no discouragement on the part of those in attendance and excellent work has been accomplished.

HIGH SCHOOL LUNCH COUNTER.

Occasionally in the Boston papers will be seen descriptions of the work carried on in the high school lunch rooms of the high schools about Boston. It has never been the policy of the Quincy department to seek for advertising of that type, but the suggestion is made that if any of our citizens are interested in seeing how a school lunch system can be carried out, in an efficient, economical way, with a wise selection of foods, and without expense to the city, the local high school lunch room is worth visiting. The visitor will feel impressed with the thoroughly satisfactory method of management.

ADAMS SCHOOL GROUNDS.

The complaints made at the meeting of the Adams Parents Association as to the dangerous condition of the school grounds because of inadequate grading, are thoroughly justified and the long record of accidents bids fair to increase unless the situation is remedied. This is a matter, of course, over which the School Committee has no control.

At a Probate Court holden at Quincy in and for said County of Norfolk, on the eleventh day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

On the petition of William Henry Yapp of Quincy in said County, praying that his name may be changed to that of William Henry Hastings public notice having been given, according to the order of Court, that all persons might appear and show cause, if any they had, why the same should not be granted, and it appearing that the reason given therefor is sufficient, and consistent with the public interest and being satisfactory to the Court, and no objection being made.

It is decreed that his name be changed, as prayed for, to that of William Henry Hastings which name he shall hereafter bear, and which shall be his legal name, and that he give public notice of said change by publishing this decree once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy and make return to this Court under oath that such notice has been given

JAMES H. FLINT,
Judge of Probate Court.

SPECIAL TO CITY COUNCIL

Mayor Whiton has called a special meeting of the City Council for next Monday evening. There are four matters in the call as follows:

To draw jurors.

To see if the Council will authorize the Mayor to petition the legislature to appropriate the sum of $75,000 for dredging the channel of the Weymouth Fore River.

To see if the Council will authorize the Mayor to petition the legislature to authorize the city to raise the sum of $10,000 by taxation and appropriate the same for the purpose of dredging the channel of the Weymouth Fore River.

To receive and act on a communication from the Overseer of the Poor.

KINCAIDE THEATRE, QUINCY.

There's a splendid show now on at Quincy's pretty playhouse. Bobby Leach, who in 1911 went over Niagara Falls in a barrel, heads the program and his illustrated talk is closely followed by all. The other vaudeville acts and picture features are also excellent.

Coming Monday an all new program will be presented. Attractions to appear include the 5 Hursleys, European novelty troupe; Hobart & Allen, singing and talking funmakers; Hanson and his magical maids, singing and magic; Daniel Froham presents Carlyle Blackwell in "The Spitfire" in 4 reels of thrilling interest. "The Beloved Adventurer," Pathe Daily News and lots of good music by the regular orchestra complete the program.

REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

QUINCY SQUARE

The leading editorial today shows how the tax levies of Quincy are increasing by leaps and bounds.

The winners of souvenirs at the weekly whist party of the George L. Gill Associates in Odd Fellows hall, Thursday afternoon were Mrs. Adeline Jones, Mrs. S. Hughes, Mrs. Annie Pratt, Mrs. William Thomas, Mrs. G. Sargent, Mrs. T. Berman, Mrs. Mary Thomas. There was a good attendance.

Alexander Weinhouse of this city, was held in $1,000 for trial Dec. 1, by Judge Wentworth in the first session of the Municipal Court, Boston, Thursday. It is charged he stole a purse from a woman in a department store. He was arrested after a long chase.

Even Hoboken, N. J., looks good to a traveller returning from Europe nowadays.

QUINCY WOLLASTON

Em. Commander John Morgan of Quincy Commandery K. T. was one of the dozen or more Massachusetts Commanders who attended the reception tendered to Walter F. Medding, Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of Massachusetts and Rhode Island by Beauseant Commandery of Malden, his home commandery Thursday evening.

Pupils of the Wollaston school have contributed generously to the Christmas shop, forwarding many articles to Miss Wainwright of Adams street.

Not one dollar of the city funds, have gone to the Kindergarten school at Wollaston, which is free to all children of Wollaston, so that the attack of a certain Mayoralty candidate on Wollaston may prove a boomerang. Wollaston has no fight against the rest of the city. Further, any candidate who tries to divide the city against itself is a dangerous candidate.

At the Wollaston Unitarian church on Sunday the members of the Sunday School will bring their annual Thanksgiving offering of fruit, vegetables, jellies, meats, etc., for the needy in Quincy, when they come to the Sunday School session.

The union Thanksgiving service in Wollaston will be held Thanksgiving day, at 5 P. M. in the Wollaston Unitarian church. A collection will be taken for the benefit of the Quincy Associated Charities. The preacher this year is the Rev. Samuel R. Maxwell of the Second church in Boston.

SERVANT GIRL ASSAULTED

Held Up By Stranger Near Home of Mayor Whiton

Miss Julia Vanderbilt, a servant at the home of Mayor Joseph L. Whiton was the victim of a midnight assault on Whitney road Thursday night and is considerably upset as a result of her experiences.

The young lady left City Square about midnight, followed by an unknown man wearing a felt hat and a long coat. She broke into a run after turning Whitney road so as to get out of the storm as quickly as possible and as she passed the home of Arthur Harris the man ran up behind her and clapped his hat over her face, choking her at the same time.

She ran onto the lawn at the Harris home and up the steps with the man hanging on. His foot slipped on the wet steps and to save himself from falling he released his hold.

The girl, thoroughly frightened shrieked for assistance and one of the first to arrive was Mayor Whiton. He summoned the police but the man had disappeared.

A few weeks ago Europe looked like an insane asylum, but now it is fast becoming a cemetery.

QUINCY ATLANTIC

The annual fair held by the ladies of the Atlantic Methodist church Wednesday and Thursday was well attended. The tables were well loaded. A neat sum was realized. The instrumental music given by the Pollard sisters of the New England Conservatory was highly appreciated. Much credit was due the ladies for the success of this greatest social event of the season.

The trustees of the Atlantic Methodist church have let the contract for roofing the church and other improvement at a cost of $400.

Russell Dicy, who has been in the Quincy Hospital, and who had a severe operation, is at home now and in a fair way of total recovery.

Earl Hersey entertained sixteen of his young friends at his home on Faxon road, Monday, the anniversary of his tenth birthday and a merry time was had from 4 until 6.30.

Games were played one being a peanut race. Miss Constance Stecher won the girls prize and Robert Mellet the boys. After the games the young people enjoyed dancing for an hour and then took partners for the march to the dinig room where the table was spread with a most tempting collation.

Each boy received a large paper rose boutonier the stem being a whistle which blew a long streamer from the center. The girls favors were similar and attached to a long wand. The paper bon bons created much fun. When fortunes were read and caps put on refreshments were passed consisting of fancy crackers, candy, cake, ice cream and punch. Master Earl cut the birthday cake and gave the first piece to Laura Rodgers much to the amusement of the others.

Mrs. A. H. Hall, Mrs. R. C. Clark and Mrs. A. T. Beede assisted Mrs. Hersey in making it pleasant for the young folks, and it was a tired and happy lot of children that wished Master Earl many happy returns of the day when they started for home.

Those present were Barbara Wells, Laura Rodgers, Gladys and Laura Mellett, Constance Stecher. May Stevens, Dorothy Hall, Malcolm Kennedy, Carlton Marble, Allan Cummings, George Hoodgencamp, Murray Hamilton, Joe Stevens, Robert Mellett and Earl Hersey.

Master Earl was the recipient of a number of useful presents.

QUINCY WEST

Despite the heavy downpour of rain, Edward J. Fegan, candidate for Mayor canvassed Ward Four, the Democratic stronghold of the city, at house rallies in that section Thursday evening. He was accompanied by members of his campaign committee and candidates for Council.

Who says the High schools are not doing practical work, when the boys who can't go to college are getting such good training in football?

Congress will soon go back to Washington and resume its work of capturing the offices in the 1916 election.

PAUL W. COSTAIN.

Paul W. Costain, an 84 year old resident of Atlantic is dead at his home at 66 Hancock street. He was well known in this city and a member of Paul Revere post, G. A. R. During the Civil War he was a member of Co. 1, 4th Massachusetts Heavy Artillery.

ROLL CALL OF THE REBEKAHS

Members Answer Roll With Poems and Speeches

Original poems, recitations and short speeches was the method by which many answered to their names at the annual roll call of the George L. Gill Rebekah lodge in Odd Fellows hall Thursday evening.

Some poems were filled with jolly banter, the one of Miss M. Lizzie Furnald, for many years treasurer of the organization, being aimed at the board of officers to the enjoyment of those present.

District Deputy Grand Master Mrs. Estella Adams and suite, speciti Estella Adams and suite, special panied by Mrs. Ellen M. Birt, vice president of the Rebekah Assembly.

Four letters were received and 83 responded to the roll while upwards of 100 attended the supper which preceded the ceremonies.

During the past year there has been a substantial gain in membership and the initiation of 10 candidates at the next meeting will bring it up to 202.

The supper served consisted of ham, cabbage salad, hot potatoes, coffee and cake and was a fine success.

The affair was under the direction of Mrs. Grace Walsh, chairman, assisted by Noble Grand Miss Sadie Wood, Vice Grand Mrs. Sadie Walker, Financial Secretary Miss Abbie Feltis, Treasurer, Miss Lizzie Furnald, Mrs. Annie Pushee, Mrs. Maude Richardson, Mrs. Marie Hall, Mrs. Lillian Baker, Mrs. Mary A. Jones and Mrs. Addie Dewhurst.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

POSTPONEMENT

Owing to unavoidable conditions the lecture-recital by Mrs. Edith Cary Page to have been given at Colonial hall Friday, Nov. 20th will be given at Alpha Hall, Thursday, Dec. 3rd.

ANNUAL BALL RELIEF ASSO.

Twenty-third Annual Event of Quincy Firemen

The twenty-third annual concert and ball of the Quincy Firemen's Relief association was held Friday evening at Music hall, and it proved to be a most enjoyable occasion by the large number who participated. While the number of active participants was not as large as in some years, yet there was enough to make the floor somewhat crowded during the first part of the evening.

There were several notable changes in the affair from other years, tending to show that modern ideas are fast taking the place of things that were in style a few years ago. Take for instance the grand march and circle which usually opens affairs of this kind. The active participants have tired of marching about the hall for half an hour before the dance program was started, thus at the start getting somewhat weary. For this reason there was less than fifty couples in the opening march although the balcony and sides and end of the hall was crowded with people.

Then again take the dance order itself. Usually it has been the custom at affairs of this kind to have every second number a square dance. Friday evening however the dance program of twenty numbers contained but two quadrilles, and these were but slimly patronized. The other num-

CITY AND STATE CO-OPERATION

Needed to Secure Dredging of Fore River Channel

Many who read the call for the special meeting of the City Council Monday evening have been asking why the city should petition the legislature to appropriate $75,000 for widening the Fore River channel and for authority for the city to raise $10,000 for the same purpose.

It appears that Col. Craighill, the United States District officer at Boston is obliged to make his report to Washington on the matter of widening Fore River channel to a width of 300 feet and dredge it to a depth of 24 feet in ten days. It is most desirable that the authorities at Washington should be given to understand that the city, state and Fore River Corp., are willing to co-operate in the work of widening and deepening the channel.

The appropriations above mentioned together, with an appropriation of $15,000 to be made by the Fore River Corp., are continegnt upon the United States making an appropriation for this work and if the government refuses to make such an appropriation then the appropriations referred to by the city state and Fore River will not be expended.

It is perhaps not generally understood that the Fore River Corp. was unable to get one of the big battleships just awarded by the government for the reason that the company was obliged to add to its bid the sum of $200,000 which it would have to expend in dredging the channel in order that the vessel could be taken out. The company therefore lost a contract of $7,000,000 fully fifty percent of which would have been paid out in wages to employees at the plant.

The original estimate for the work of widening and deepening the channel was $385,000. This was on a width of 400 feet. The plan now however is for a width of 300 feet which would make the expense some less.

The Boston Maritime association, the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange and the Maritime Committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce are ready to further the matter, when it reaches the legislature.

It is well understood that the Fore River Corp. is not now in position to undertake extensive repairs on any of the large battleships for the reason that they must be lighted before they can be taken to the plant. With a wide and deep channel, as proposed, it would be possible for the company to get much of this large repair work.

FEGAN AT HOUGHS NECK

Accompanied by the Candidates for Council

Edward J Fegan, candidate for Mayor, visited Houghs' Neck, last evening where he held house parties. He was accompanied by members of his campaign committee and candidates for the Council.

Mr. Fegan said he preferred to discass the matters of vital concern to the voters, rather than attempt to inject anything along pension lines, as seems to be the case with other aspirants.

He said that the man to be elected Mayor of Quincy should be one who is well versed in the problems that now confront the electorate. He decried any methods that were directed to divert the attention of the public from the pertinent question of the times and waxed warm in outlining his position regarding his stand in favor of having assessors elected by the people. He reviewed each plank in his platform.

CRUSHED BY TRIP HAMMER

Arthur Winquist is Killed at Fore River Yard

Arthur Winquist, 33 years, met a horrible death in the blacksmith shop at the Fore River shipyard this morning when an 11 ton steam hammer dropped from its fastenings and crushed him into an unrecognizable mass.

Both his legs were amputated and it required the combined assistance of a large gang of men to lift the weight so the remains could be removed.

Winquist was a carpenter and has been a trusted employee of the company for some years. His address as given on the books of the company is Cushing street, Hingham. He is thought however to have lived in West Quincy. He is said to be survived by his wife and four children.

The Woman's Guild of the Park and Downs Congregational church is sending out invitations to the wedding of Jack and Jill on Monday and Tuesday evenings Nov. 23 and 24 at 8 o'clock. Tickets may be obtained from members of the Guild or at the door.

TEN BURNED BY OIL BURNER FLAREBACK

Painters Caught in Flames in Boiler Room of Fulton at Fore River

Fortunately None of Workmen Were Seriously Injured

Ten employees at the Fore River shipyard were burned about the face and arms Friday afternoon, while at work in the engine room of the submarine tender Fulton by a sheet of flame and combustible gases following a flareback on an oil burner. All fortunately escaped without serious injury although several will be unable to work for a week or two. Two other men who assisted in getting the injured workmen out of the hole were also treated at the Red Cross hospital on the grounds by Dr. W. H. Blanchard, and Dr. Fred E. Jones and Dr. Willis J. Middleton both of whom had been called. As the men were taken from the ship one by one and carried across the yards on stretchers many of the other workmen were led to believe that the accident was much more serious than it turned out to be.

The injured men were:

Edward Martin, 1143 Washington street, Roxbury, both hands burned.

Clarence Hoag, 285 Warren street, Roxbury, both hands burned.

John J. Smith, 21 Valley Falls avenue, Dorchester, both hands burned and knee sprained.

William Craig, 5 Norfolk street, Neponset, face and hands burned.

Borso Bartgan, 27 Elm street, Quincy, face burned.

Clifford A. Crocker, 35 Haughton street, Dorchester, face and hands burned.

John Curran, 336 Washington street Quincy, both hands burned.

Christopher Bishner, 61 Goffe street, East Cambridge, bruises on the shins.

The three latter men were injured

TIME FOR CHARITY.

People interested in charitable work say there will be many appeals for help during the coming winter. Business has been very spotty. It is feverish in towns that supply anything usuable by soldiers, flat in others. The fact that men working on army blankets are getting time and a half for overtime, does not help the worker who is thrown out of a job because of the shutting up of German trade.

The hunger abroad, lavish expenditures for luxuries appear more than ever heartless. It is true that hundreds of dollars spent on flowers or fancy ices for some Groesus banquet may put money in circulation and give employment. Also they would put just as much money in circulation, if they were devoted to buying flour and fuel for destitute people. And the thought of the gift would be a lasting satisfaction.

The inconceivable suffering of the people of Belgium and other European countries ought not to be overlooked. It is difficult to realize the conditions that there prevail. In the silent peace of our rural autumn scenes, in the busy murmur of industrial cities, it is hard to realize that anything exceptional or tragic is happening elsewhere.

Yet only a few days journey from our shores, thousands of men are daily screaming in death travail. Their wives and children are homeless, and in the words of the Good Book, "destitute, afflicted, tormented."

A strong tie still binds the United States to Europe. They have given us their most active young men. Beginning by digging our ditches and reaping our harvests they are climbing up to positions of substantial achievement. The prosperity they have helped bring us has drained the vitality of the old country. In Europe's hour of agony, it is but fitting that some generous return should flow back.

NEXT PRESIDENT REPUBLICAN.

Now that the election returns are all in, the magnitude of the Republican victory of Nov. 3 indicates that in 1916 the Republican party will send a President to Washington. The Republicans carried enough states this year to have elected a President had it been a Presidential year. Already the leaders are looking around for the most available man. Governor-elect Whitman of New York appears to be the most commanding figure at the present time for the Presidential nomination in 1916. This is not only because he carried the great empire state by the overwhelming majority of 134,000 but because Whitman has shown himself to be a masterful leader and a most relentless prosecutor of political grafters and otherwise appears to be an unusually strong and able man. As a result of the great republican victory and the confidence which it inspires indicated the intention of the country to return to the republican principles, business is already improving in nearly every section of the country. This victory restores confidence which together with enormous orders for manufactured goods from the European countries, clearly indicates that in a short while the entire country will enjoy a large wave of national prosperity.

Baseball players' salaries are likely to be reduced next year, and the poor fellows may not be able to get any more than college presidents.

The Congressmen are now at home preparing for their winter's work by getting acquainted with the candidates for the various offices.

The women have evidently convinced Montana and Nevada that suffrage would not imperil the quality of apple pie.

Considering the high cost of gasoline, rubber tires, and teachers of modern dancing, there are widespread complaints of a hard winter coming.

Inquiry is made as to what has become of the thrifty woman who used to roll paper lamp-lighters in order to save matches. Well, just now she is economizing by buying one of those fancy china lamps offered at a sacrifice sale for only $11.98.

REPORT IS NOT MADE PUBLIC

Grand Jury Indicts Six Persons In Sullivan Death

FURTHER ARRESTS EXPECTED

Two More Persons Under Suspicion of Having Been Implicated In Case—One a Wealthy Man Who Took Girl Riding—Miss Michaud Expects to Be Released From Custody

Houlton, Me., Nov. 21.—It is reported that six indictments have been returned by the grand jury in the case of 17-year-old Mildred Sullivan, whose body was recovered from a shallow grave in the woods two weeks ago after a two months' search.

The grand jury has finished its investigation of the case but the county officials stated that a report would not be made until the jurors had disposed of all other matters before them, which will probably be some time next week.

Present indications are that two more arrests will be made as the result of the grand jury's action. It is said that a wealthy Houlton man is among those who may finally have to answer for Miss Sullivan's death. This man is said to be the one really responsible for the condition which made it necessary for her to consult a physician.

According to the reports about town this man supplied Kate Michaud and Ambrose Bridge with the money which is said to have been used in paying for Miss Sullivan's medical or surgical treatment. It is declared that Miss Sullivan went to Presque Isle knowing that certain arrangements had been made to assist her. The wealthy suspect is said to have met Miss Sullivan at dances during the summer at Nickerson's lake and to have taken her home in his automobile on several occasions.

Miss Michaud was before the grand jury for two hours and it is believed this will free her. It is said she told the grand jurors all she knew about the case from the time she met Miss Sullivan until the girl died. She made a clean breast of her part in the affair, realizing that her freedom depended on the assistance she gave the state.

Miss Michaud has openly declared to her friends that she expects to be freed, and says it is no more than she deserves, as without her "confession" the girl's body would probably never have been recovered.

Detective Sergeant Irwin of the Boston police department and Miss Ruth Devenney, a Cambridge stenographer, have left here for home. They will return for the trial.

Dr. Lionel E. Dudley, Miss Alice Pelletier, who fled with him to Boston and was to be his second bride, and her "kid brother," Perley, alleged to be the off-hand undertaker of the murdered girl, are already lodged in the local jail.

With the intimation from both the prosecution and defense that not Ambrose Bridge, but the "real" sweetheart of the Houlton belle is due to be arrested, this town has been thrown into a furore. Everyone seems to suspect everyone else, and the admitted presence of a score of detectives has wrought up the citizens to the highest pitch.

Bridge claims he is not worried over the outcome of the trial. "Most everybody knows more about the case than I do," he said. Bridge says he is anxious to have the trial over in order that he may settle down and get to work again.

WILL AVOID CRITICISM

President Wilson Will Not Attend Thanksgiving Mass

Washington, Nov. 21.—President Wilson will not attend the annual Pan-American mass at St. Patrick's church on Thanksgiving day, thereby avoiding the criticism which developed last year among Protestant organizations. He is planning to spend Thanksgiving with his daughter, Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, at Williamstown, Mass.

Old-timers at the White House say it will be the first time in many years that the president had been absent from Washington on Thanksgiving day.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Fifty years is a long time to look ahead but doubtless Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Fisher of South Braintree, who observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary on Tuesday evening would say that the time had passed all too quickly so happy have they been in well doing and right living.

Nov. 17, 1864 Edward A. Fisher and Mercy Carolyn Pratt, daughter of Asa Thomas and Mercy Clapp Pratt were married in East Braintree by Rev. Jonas Perkins, pastor of the Union Congregational church. Previous to that time Mr. Fisher had served his country as a soldier enlisting in the 42nd regiment and again in the 43rd regiment of Massachusetts Volunteers.

After his return from the war he took up railroading and entered the employ of the Old Colony Railroad, the young couple living in Boston for about fifteen years. He followed the same line of business until about two years ago, when he retired from active service. For thirty-six years he was engaged in car inspection for the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. having charge of a large number of men.

The last thirty-five years Mr. and Mrs. Fisher have made their home in the Braintrees and have been associated with the M. E. church here in all its good works. Mrs. Fisher has been before the public as a reader and singer and there are few in this section who have not enjoyed hearing her. Her father was a teacher of elocution and gave his daughter the best of instruction. She also attended and graduated from Miss Rachel Faxon's private school. Mrs. Fisher has always been a lover of music and sang in a Boston quartet for a term of years. She is a member of the Woman's Relief Corps and a past president of that association and also served five years as president of the Ladies' aid of the M. E. Church.

Mr. Fisher is a member of Post 58 G. A. R. of East Weymouth and a member of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. Beneficial association. Eight children were born to them, five of whom are living—Minnie Curtis, wife of Mr. B. F. Wilson of East Braintree, Harry Warren Fisher of Stedman avenue, an engineer on the New Haven railroad, Albert Eugene Fisher of Campello, a bookkeeper for the firm Hollingsworth & Whitney, Arthur Increase Fisher of Jefferson City, Missouri, manager of the S. H. Kress Co., of that city and Alfred Wallace Fisher, vice-president of the Hercules Welding and Machine company of Philadelphia, Penn.

Tuesday evening from 8 to 11 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Wilson received their many friends in the vestry at the M. E. church. The vestry was attractively trimmed with flags by Joseph E. Hayden while gold decorations and chrysanthemums lent the correct color scheme to the refreshment tables in the banquet hall. Refreshments of ices, cake and punch were served under the direction of Mrs. Alice Fisher and Mrs. Mabel Fisher assisted by the Misses Arlene and Hazel Stevenson, Miss Ethel Fisher and Henry and Hunting Fisher.

French's orchestra of Campello furnished music during the evening and there were vocal duets by Miss Mary Heath and Miss Alice Johnson, violin solos and readings by Mrs. Willis Loring. Rev. Mr. Reynolds, pastor of the M. E. church made suitable remarks and read a congratulatory telegram from their son Arthur of Jefferson city and an original poem contributed by their son Alfred of Philadelphia. This was followed by a piano duet by Mrs. Albert Fisher and her brother Leon French.

There were many gifts of linen, china and gold. The members of the Woman's Relief Corps and the Ladies Aid of the South M. E. church presented purses of gold. The evening was an entire success. There were many guests present from Brockton, Quincy, Melrose, Weymouth, Holbrook, Randolph and the Braintrees who enjoyed the informality of the occasion and wished Mr. and Mrs. Fisher continuous years of wedded felicity.

B. A. A.

The members of the Braintree Athletic Association elected the following officers Monday evening:

President, Elmer E. Abercrombie.
Vice President, Seth Catlin, Jr.
Secretary, Stillman F. Pratt.
Treasurer, Willard M. Davenport.
Executive board, Frank E. M. South, J. Winsor Davy, Oscar A. Hubbard, Ralph L. Wiggin, Robert Tonner, Frank McKenney and Albert F. Hollis.

A sub-committee was appointed to arrange for a minstrel show.

It is the intention of the executive board to run a series of athletic events in the gymnasium. The basket ball events every Thursday evening promise to be fully as interesting as those of last season.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

ANNUAL BALL

bers included the waltz, two-step, schottische, galop, polka, etc.

It was also noticed that while the participants danced the modern steps, there was no extreme dancing. Lastly it was also noticed that the hydrant and leading hose with which usually form part of the decoration of the platform were missing and that the only thing to remind one that it was a fireman's ball was the large fire alarm gong on the wall at the side of the stage. This was not used however as in former years to start the dances but was for business only. That is to warn the merrymakers in case of a fire alarm, and the sounding of a box on this gong would have sent the firemen hurrying to the scene.

Just across the street on Cottage avenue, the Auto chemical of the Central station and the Chief's car were stationed, in charge of some firemen, and in case the services of the firemen had been needed in any part of the city, these pieces of apparatus would have hurried them to the scene. Fortunately there were no fire alarms during the night.

A smaller number than usual of city officials were noticed among the guests, probably for the reason that they were out campaigning. Mayor Whiton came early but only remained for a short time. Others noticed were Representative Edward J. Sandberg, Councilman and Representative-elect Charles A. Ericson, Councilmen Barnicoat and Barrows. Then there were Chief Frank E. Burrell and Inspector A. W. Goodhue of the Police Department, ex-Chief Amos L. Litchfield, Registrar of Voters, Joseph B. Grossman, and ex-Councilman John R. S. Ross. Among the others present was the veteran fireman James E. Maxim who entered into the spirit of the evening with a vim.

From 8 to 9 o'clock Wilson's orchestra of eight pieces gave a promenade concert, their numbers including March American Girl, overture, Romantic, concert waltz, selection from High Jinks, a duet for the flute and clarinet and closing with "The Belle of Dixie."

The march was started promptly at 9 o'clock and was led by the president of the association Herbert Griffin and Mrs. Griffin. They were followed by Chief Faxon Billings, and Mrs. Billings, Capt. A. L. Mead and Miss Lillian M. Mead, and about thirty couples. Leo J. McMaster was the director of the march and at its conclusion he received many compliments for the able manner in which he had performed his part of the program.

The march closed with a waltz and the ball was on and continued until 2 o'clock without interruption save for a short intermission at midnight during which supper was served by a caterer in the annex.

Herbert Griffin, president of the association was the floor director with M. C. McDonald as assistant and James F. Malone, S. P. Hanson, William Gerry, Chris Oliver, Arthur G. Pinel, Fred L. Bent, John L. O'Neil, Charles Anderson, William Leahy and Edward Barry as aids.

Chief Billings headed the reception committee and associated with him were Asst. Chiefs Frank C. Packard, Louis K. Badger, and Albert E. Stephenson, Capt. Alfred L. Mead, Lieut. John J. Faircloth, Amos L. Litchfield, Michael P. Barry, Edmund G. Hayden and James C. Gallagher.

The committee of arrangements included Chief Billings, Capt. Mead, Edmund G. Hayden, Michael P. Barry, Herbert Griffin and Amos L. Litchfield.

MATINEE WHIST.

Mrs. W. F. Hodgkinson of Curtis avenue welcomed about 50 people to her home Friday evening at a whist party in aid of the new mission station of St. John's parish at Quincy Point which is rapidly nearing completion. The evening was one of the most enjoyable held in Quincy Point this season.

Souvenirs were awarded to Mrs. Herbert Hayden, Mrs. John Bruton, Miss Angelina McCarthy and Mrs. Gamble. A short concert program followed during which there were vocal solos by John Green, Miss Josephine McCarthy and Mrs. W. F. Hodgkinson. Refreshments were served. Previous to adjournment all joined in singing the old favorites.

EVERYTHING TO INSPIRE

Confidence in the Monumental Trade

J. S. Swingle, a wide-awake Quincy granite manufacturer is doing his part to inspire confidence in trade circles. He has issued the following letter to the trade, thereby setting a good example to other manufacturers and merchants, and the Daily Ledger gladly gives Mr. Swingle a free "Ad." The letter follows:

"Conditions here at home are gradually adjusting themselves to prevailing situations, in spite of the unfortunate European war.

"The cotton exchanges have opened and the stock exchanges will open shortly, which will tend to stimulate activity, and the new reserve banking system is now in operation, of which great things are expected.

"Our crops throughout the country have on the whole been abundant, so there should be no place for the alarmist in our midst.

"With all the conditions fundamentally sound, there is everything to inspire confidence in the monumental trade, and just ahead of us should be an era of prosperity for those prepared to participate in it.

"For some time back retrenchment has been the policy, until many show yards are depleted of their stock of finished work, and the supply of rough stock is in like condition.

"Let's get together and prepare for good times. Your part will be to send me your orders for one or more carloads of Quincy granite in the rough to be worked into finished memorials during the winter, and my part in the plan to co-operation will be to furnish you promptly the best monumental stock which Mother Earth furnishes to mankind.

"This is an appeal to your patriotism as well as to your personal interests, for prosperity is simply each individual going ahead and doing business in the usual manner, and when each has done his part, the whole people prosper.

"As much as we deplore the relentless warfar abroad, it is our duty to maintain normal conditions at home."

INVESTIGATING FIRE HAZARDS

William Murphy, assistant to John O'Keefe, of the Fire Hazard Commission and a former chief of the Boston Fire Department commenced his investigation of the fire risks of the city today. During his two weeks tour of duty he will be accompanied by Chief Billings.

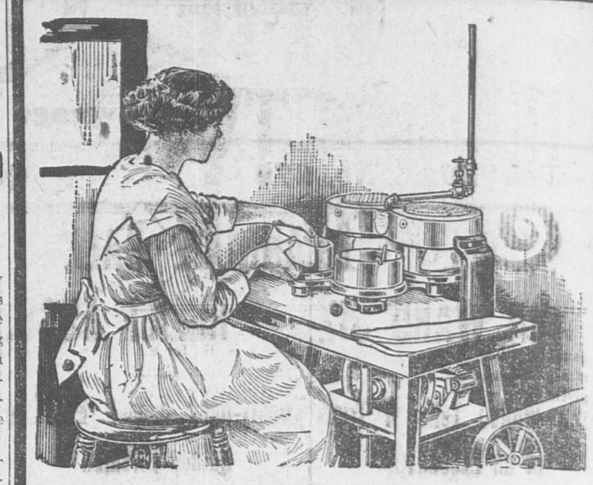

Mr. Murphy is empowered by virtue of his appointment to issue recommendations which must be lived up to. Fire traps, garages and all stores where paints and oils are stored or sold will be visited, and the danger of gasoline tanks to surrounding property in the event of fire will be studied.

Chief Billings said this morning that a large percentage of the people of the city had neglected to comply with the recent laws for fire prevention.

EXASPERATING --- ISN'T IT?

If there is any one thing that tries a man's patience and makes him irritable, it is to get a tie under a collar and then find that the tie sticks and can't be slipped or adjusted without yanking the collar, and consequently the upper part of the shirt bosom entirely out of shape.

By our new process we so launder a collar that its top edge, where it is turned over, is not sharp, but slightly rounded and more space is given all along between the inside and the outside of the collar.

Thus, here is plenty of room for the free movement of the tie backward and forward and it is easy to adjust it to the proper position.

Why not try having a few of your collars done by our new process and note the result?

Telephone and our driver will call.

You are cordially invited to visit and inspect our sanitary plant and see this machine in operation.

PASS THE PLATE.

Editor Ledger:

Christmas approaches and countless unhappy Belgians, despite governmental relief, the Rockefeller Foundation and other valuable agencies, are confronted with starvation. I therefore beg the favor of your columns to say that the Dollar Christmas Fund for Homeless Belgians, of which I am treasurer, is working for the special purpose of preventing starvation amongst hundreds of thousands of Belgians this winter. For this purpose we are cooperating with the London "Shilling Fund" a much older fund which has collected nearly $400,000 and which is expressly organized to see that no Belgian man, woman or child spend Christmastide devoid of food and shelter.

There will be no duplicating, no overlapping and every penny subscribed will go directly to the victims in whose behalf I appeal. I believe this great work of mercy commands the sympathy of us all and more especially in this month when Americans doubly blessed with peace and plenty are preparing to celebrate the day of Thanksgiving. Inspired by this thought I suggest various ways in which you can help to avert the agony of suffering which must otherwise confront the refugees during the coming winter. You can send a donation to our fund addressed to myself as treasurer, Messrs. Henry Clews & Co., Bankers, Broad street, New York, or you can apply to our secretary, Percy Bullen, 66 Broadway, New York for a collecting card. He will be glad to issue same to any person enclosing references. Churches chapels, clubs, societies and Sunday schools can assist by a collection. Entertainment committees may render great help by sending us the proceeds of benefit performances. In all these ways friends everywhere are assisting nobly. All the money received will be cabled to Europe before Dec. 20.

Many heads of families and boarding houses have promised to "pass the plate" for the homeless Belgians before the turkey on Thanksgiving day.

The needs are immeasurable. Let us remember that no little nation in the world's long history has been more grievously stricken yet no people can raise their heads more proudly from the dust. The Crown of Thorns is Still A Crown! Help us as best you can. Your gift will surely be remembered long after the war has ceased and no man's Thanksgiving or Christmas day will be the less happy because in some cases the gift may entail some measure of personal sacrifice.

Yours very truly,
Henry Clews.

MRS. EDWARD P. HISTON.

Margaret, the beloved wife of ex-Councilman Edward P. Histon died at the Quincy City Hospital this morning where she has been a patient the past month. The news of her death came as a shock to her many friends. Mrs. Histon was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Costello of South street and one of the most popular young ladies of this city. About a year and a half ago she became the bride of Mr. Histon. She was stricken with illness some time ago and when removed to the hospital there was some hopes of recovery but despite the efforts of physicians she passed away.

As the mercury in the thermometer goes down the price of turkey goes up.

MRS. CHARLES F. BROWN.

Mrs. Sarah J. Brown, widow of Charles F. and daughter of the late Albert Holt, passed away very peacefully Sunday evening at the home of her daughter Mrs. I. I. McNeil 767 Washington street.

She had been quite well, up to the first of September, when she tried to fight off her trouble, finally gave up, and was confined to her bed eight weeks, a great sufferer, but so patient through it all. Her loving disposition endeared her to all, and her many friends, will miss her, especially in her home surroundings, with her daughters, whom so willingly and lovingly did every thing to make her comfortable. Much sympathy is extended to them, to comfort them, in this most trying hour, of their sorrow and affliction.

The remains rested in a beautiful pearl broadcloth casket, and services were held from the Universalist church, of which she was a member. The Rev. Merrill C. Ward officiated, and spoke very feelingly. Three beautiful selections were rendered by John Green, accompanied by the organist, Mrs. Culter. "Abide With Me," "Oh Paradise, oh Paradise," and "Face to Face."

Enterprise lodge No. 22 of Boston, of the New England Order of Protection, of which she was a charter member, conducted their services at the church. Rev. Merrill C. Ward, read a poem at the close of the service.

The floral offerings included:

Beautiful wreath of smilax and roses with "Dear Mamma." from the children.

Six pointed star, from Enterprise lodge.

Spray of roses from grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Woodworth.

Spray of yellow chrysanthemums, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Brown.

Ivy wreath, from niece, Miss M. A. Souther.

Spray pinks and white chrysanthemums, nieces Mrs. G. A. Loring and Mrs. P. Hall.

Flowered mound, from sister-in-law Mrs. I. M. Holt.

Spray of roses, from W. R. C. No. 3 of East Boston.

Spray of chrysanthemums, from Mr. and Mrs. William Cain.

Wreath, from Mr. J. Edgar Moore.

Spray of pinks from Mr. and Mrs. D. C. McNeil.

Spray of pinks from Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McNeil.

Spray of pinks from Mr. and Mrs. Frank McNeil.

Spray of pinks from Mr. and Mrs. John Burns.

Spray of pinks from a friend.

Wreath of roses from Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Cannell.

Spray of pinks from Mr. and Mrs. James Conrad.

The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery, in the family lot.

The pall bearers, were friends of the family.

TEN BURNED BY OIL

by being caught in the crush when the men made a dash for the small door to escape.

All of the men were painters and were engaged in putting on the final touches preparatory to the delivery of the vessel to the United States government within a few days. The Fulton was built at the shipyard and is known as the mother ship of the submarine flotilla of the U. S. N. and is fitted with oil burning engines.

The flareback came at the lighting of one of the oil burners and is thought to have been directly due to dampness settling in the tubes, thereby creating a vacuum.

As the oil is fed into the boilers it comes from the pipes in the form of spray, being forced by compressed air supplied from a pipe joined to the oil pipe. These two pipes and burners were in perfect condition as far as known.

The men were working near the boiler when the flareback came and before they had an opportunity to escape they were enveloped in flame, clouds of smoke and gases. Two men nearest the boiler were badly burned about the hands.

Not knowing at what minute another explosion or flareback might occur all of the men made a bolt for the small door of the boiler room, fighting desperately to get through. The first to reach the deck of the vessel sounded the alarm and hundreds of workmen ran to the assistance of the injured men.

All were rushed to the Red Cross hospital where Dr. Blanchard found two of the men nearly asphyxiated from the escaping gases and it was necessary to give them oxygen from the tanks. In the meantime Dr. Jones and Dr. Middleton had been called and they were soon on hand and assisted in relieving the sufferings of the other men.

Fortunately none of the men were seriously burned although the burns will cause them some pain and it will be necessary for some of them to wear face masks for a few days, simply as a precautionary measure. Some of the least burned were able to return to work after receiving first aid treatment.

FORE RIVER BOWLING

Blacksmiths and U. S. N. Teams Have Battle Royal

The Fore River league bowlers tumbled the thin pins at the Coliseum alleys Friday evening with good results. Although the league records were not broken several good totals were made. Markham got 318. Smith 307 and Tirrell 304. High single went to Markham with 118.

BLACKSMITHS—U. S. N.

The Blacksmiths and the U. S. N. department quintette had a battle royal. The former with a submarine attack captured the first string and sent in a torpedo boat to hold the second. Close fighting resulted in the smithies steaming aside and firing a broadside effective enough to take the third string and carry off the total.

WALTHAM GAME POSTPONED

Coach Harry L. Dame of Waltham telephoned Frank L. Mansur this morning that owing to the condition of the gridiron he was obliged to cancel the annual game between Waltham and Quincy High schools to be played at Waltham today and half an hour later Capt. Paul Larkin received a call assuring him the game would be played. All kinds of complications followed.

Mr. Mansur as soon as he received his message advised the local papers and a bulletin was promptly flashed from the Daily Ledger office. Players and rooters saw it while on their way to the station and went no further.

In the meantime Capt. Larkin gathered his squad in the event of his message being genuine and when the cancellation was verified at noon most of the players were ready.

An effort will be made to trace the origin of the fake call. The party at the other end of the line stated the only reason Waltham cancelled was because Quincy was using ringers from the Quincy A. A. He represented himself as a person in authority and when assured by Capt. Larkin that such was not the case said arrangements would be carried out as originally planned.

Several hundred fans, mostly students, were keenly disappointed with the "no game" news. Definite arrangements for a postponed game have not been made.

MILTON 19, WEYMOUTH 6.

The Milton High football team ended their season splendidly Friday afternoon on the Cunningham Park gridiron when they defeated the Weymouth High aggregation by the score of 19 to 6. The Milton boys were stronger to the man during the whole game and Coach "Reggie" Nash, whose home is in Weymouth, was very pleased that his team defeated the team of his home town. In the very first period Driscoll, the fast back of the winning team, rushed for a touchdown. Reiser threw a beautiful forward to White in the second period, and the latter made the second touchdown. Sprague followed this by a kick.

The big feature of the game was the wonderful 80 yard run of Driscolls in the third period for his second touchdown.

In the last period Weymouth showed a slight improvement and two drop kicks were made in rapid succession. Both teams played a hard game but the Milton team was superior throughout. Driscoll was the big hero of the day while Luce and Sprague played very well.

FOOT BALL.

The Quincy A. A. football team invades Rhode Island Sunday and will attempt to again defeat the Pawtuxets, champions of the baby state and Connecticut. The Pawtuxets are made up of former Brown University stars and until the Quincys visit a year ago hadn't tasted defeat for three seasons. This year has been a most successful one for them, a clean slate resulting in each game.

Quincys line may be somewhat tired out by their afternoon's game at Merrymount oval with the Neponset Wanderers but the boys are in good condition.

The trip will be made by auto, leaving City Square at 11.30 and reaching the Pawtuxet Clubhouse on the river of that name about 1.30. The game will be at the Palace Garden. Quincy fans are planning to take in the trip.

GAME POSTPONED.

Because of the condition of the gridiron at Waltham, the Quincy High-Waltham High game scheduled for this afternoon has been postponed. It is said Waltham feared it might lose the game with Quincy.

MORE VOTES BUT DEFEATED.

The official canvass of the votes for Councillor in the Quincy district, shows that Charles W. Guy of Quincy received 25,645 votes. This was a gain of 2415 over 1913 when 23,635 were enough to elect him. Guy Adams Ham, Republican was the successful nominee.

MRS. POLLARD CONVICTED

She Admits Being the Writer of Poisoned Pen Letters

Elizabeth, N. J., Nov. 21.—Mrs. Anna J. Pollard, acquitted last spring of having written "poisoned pen" letters, pleaded guilty to two indictments charging her with sending "obscene and indecent missives" to prominent Elizabeth women when arraigned before Judge Connolly. She will be sentenced Nov. 27.

Following her acquittal last March, the letters which had stirred society of this city ceased for a time and when they were renewed Mrs. Pollard was trapped by means of decoy letters. After several hours' grilling she confessed to Prosecutor Stein.

The prsoner's attorney, Samuel Schleimer, offered her plea, which was non-vult. Regardless of her willingness to let the court dispose of her case as its sees fit, and despite her announced confession, she still denies for publication that she wrote the letters. "Social dementia" is the trouble with his client, according to Schleimer.

OSBORNE WILL BE SING SING WARDEN

Expects to Be of Service to the Cause of Prison Reform

New York, Nov. 21.—Thomas M. Osborne, retired manufacturer, traveler, lecturer, writer and prison reformer, has accepted the offer of State Superintendent of Prisons Riley of the post of warden of Sing Sing prison.

Osborne will take office on Dec. 1, and will relieve George S. Weed, who was temporarily assigned to Sing Sing when Warden McCormick was ousted as the result of the Sullivan scandal. As warden, Osborne will get a salary of $3500. The selection of Osborne has the approval of Governor Glynn, and also of Governor-elect Whitman.

It was only after long consideration that Osborne consented to take the job. He made it clear in his letter of acceptance that he was accepting the post for the simple reason that he was convinced he could be of service to the cause of prison reform in Sing Sing.

GIVEN FOR $100,000 LOAN

Evidence Concerning Siegel Notes at Trial of Gotham Merchant

Geneseo, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Testimony as to how Henry Siegel, the New York merchant, obtained a loan of $100,000 from the National Bank of Commerce of New York featured the Siegel trial.

Oscar A. Prall, former confidential secretary to Siegel, declared his employer obtained the money on the renewal of four notes. He said he had arranged for the renewal of the notes four months before they fell due.

Attorneys for Siegel declare that if the money was obtained on renewed notes the charge of larceny against their client will not stand. It has been the contention of the prosecution that the notes were originals and that Siegel misrepresented the condition of some of his stores in order to obtain the money.

CAMPBELL IN WARD SIX

to be elected," declared Mr. Stinson. Mr. Stinson referred to Daniel Driscoll.

That the Campbell forces have plenty of spell binders was evident at this meeting. There were over two dozen men well known in the civic and political life of the city on the platform, including Charles H. Johnson. John D. Mackay and Mayor Whiton. Henry F. Mosses of Ward Six was the presiding officer.

Charles H. Johnson, who was one of Mr. Campbells opponents for the Republican mayoralty nomination, said that he was glad of the opportunity to speak a few words in the favor of the Campbell candidacy. He said that there wasn't any doubt in his mind that Mr. Campbell was eminently fitted for the position, and at this time, when Quincy needs an alert business expert to guide her affairs the opportunity of voting him the next Mayor of the city ought not be neglected by the public spirited citizens.

Mayor Whiton arrived some time after the meeting got underway and as he entered the entire audience arose and cheered him. He frankly told the story of the troubles that come to a chief executive, especially in the matter of collecting taxes. It requires a man with plenty of backbone but he must temper it with plenty of mercy, said the Mayor "I have come in for a great deal of criticism simply because I have done my duty, as I saw it, but I feel confident that there are enough thoughtful citizens in this city in whose judgment I am sustained.

My brief experience as chief executive of Quincy dmonstrates to me that a man of the type of Chester I. Campbell is the only candidate in the field that I could honestly vote for. He has had the broad business experience that is necessary. Inefficiency is the cause of all of our municipal trouble.

There isn't anything the matter with City Charter if it is followed in the strict sense, except that it should allow for the election of a Mayor for five years intsead of one. A Mayor just gets things started in one year.

Lawyer John D. Mackay, a member of the Republican City Committee declared his faith in Mr. Campbell and advised the people of Ward Six to leave good enough alone by re-electing to the School Committee Dr. D. A. Bruce whom he described as a graduate of a leading university and a man of sound judgment and three years experience.

Senator Langelier urged the voters of Ward Six to roll up a big vote for Mr. Campbell as an object lesson to that element seeking to get into City Hall to continue the same inefficient methods that have brought the city into such financial ill health.

Chester I. Campbell said that he was simply seeking good government for Quincy and provided this was attained it didn't matter whether or not he was elected. There is nothing fundamentally wrong with our conduct of the affairs of the city government, said Mr. Campbell we have grown careless and there has been great economic waste because of the inefficiency in the various departments.

Good government means the conduct of the government upon business lines. The chief executive has got to be a man who has had a wide business experience and courage enough to administer affairs for the best interest of the whole people. This brings to my mind the statement of one of my opponents, who charges that if I am elected that Wollaston will get all of my attention. I want to assure you that if I am honored with being elected chief executive of this city, that I will give the best that is in me for every section, and no man or class of men will get any privileges from me.

This statement is as false as the one in which he charges that Wollaston has been specially favored by the city, and has the only kindergarten in the city. This shows lack of knowledge of the institutions of his own city. The kindergarten in Wollaston is maintained and supported by the good women of Wollaston and is in no way benefited by municipal funds.

You have heard the several candidates for the City Council who spoke here this evening and you have heard all of them tell that they were ready to co-operate with any executive who favored good government. That is the keynote of the whole situation. We must have co operation. Mayor Whiton has told you how necessary it is.

When I am elected Mayor, and I have occasion to veto a measure I am going to call in the members of the Council and give them my business reason for the same. My dealings will be frank and open and I will endeavor to show that I am in no way antagonizing them. This policy I will bring to every department of the city. It will bring results that in the long run will lower the city debt and ultimately bring down the tax rate."

Candidates Gilliatt, Beeman, Bolster and Editor Frank F. Prescott for the Council at large, talked briefly. Mr. Prescott predicted that Mr. Campbell would get more votes than all other candidates combined. Josiah C. Fuller, John R. Nelson, Fred Kessler, the Republican candidates for Council in Ward Six also spoke.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic, all Teething Troubles and Diarrhœa. It regulates the Stomach and Bowels, assimilates the Food, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

BRAINTREE

The teachers of the Pond school are making preparations to hold a candy sale on Monday afternoon.

Frederick L. Hayden of Washington street, returned Saturday from a successful hunting trip in the vicinity of Roach River, Maine. Mr. Hayden secured two deers.

Mrs. I. Wendell Gammons of Franklin street has been visiting with her sister at Orleans for a few days. Mrs. C. S. Newcomb, Mrs. Gammons mother returned with her on Friday.

Michael O'Connell, a member of the South Braintree Heights Gun club bagged his fourth fox of the season Wednesday morning. They were all shot in this vicinity.

The regular collection of ashes by the agents of the Braintree Improvement Association will begin next Wednesday. If the service is desired and the team does not stop at your house kindly telephone James O. Sypher—124-1.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Peterson of Hancock street returned Tuesday from Kings Park, Long Island, where they were called by the sudden death of the formers' father, Mr. Christian Peterson who was in his 83rd year. Although elderly, his healtn was remarkably good and the peaceful end came without the usual long illness. Sympathy of friends is extended to Mr. Peterson at this time..

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Herring of Medford are building a new home on Standish avenue on a lot of land recently purchased from A. B. Hayward. Mr. Hayward is making arrangements to put granolithic sidewalks to extend the entire length of Standish avenue. He has recently completed two new cellars so it can easily be seen that this part of the town is growing rapidly.

Mrs. Russell Dexheimer returned from the Boothbay hospital, Boston, Thursday, with her little son, Russell Dexheimer, Jr.

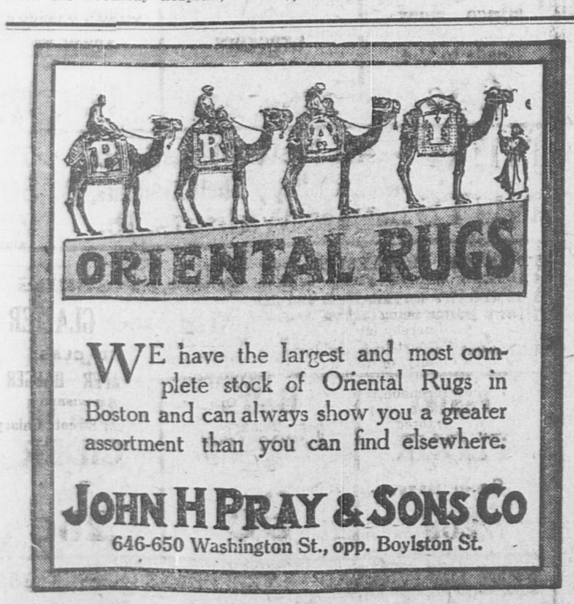

Charles Crathern Jr., formerly of South Braintree son of Rev. C. F. Hill Crathern was elected captain of the Worcester Academy cross-country team by the members of the team that ran in the dual meet with Williston last Saturday. Crathern was first in this meet besides winning all the interclass and school runs this fall. He failed to make last year's team because of scholarship duties. The team will go to Andover Friday to participate in the Andover invitation meet. Coach Blanchard has not definitely decided upon the team, but among those likely to go are Capt. Crathern, Carl Brandt, Walter Thoms, Roderic Best, Amor, Cashman and Greene or Head.

CONDITION IS SERIOUS

Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, the beloved pastor of St. John's church is at his home on Gay street, suffering from the effects of injuries sustained in an auto accident last Saturday and his condition is uncertain. During the week he did well but his condition today is not as bright as yesterday.

The accident which caused his injuries occurred on Sea street, near the Willows, and resulted in Father Coan being thrown from his machine. He struck on his head. A trained nurse is in attendance and he is under the observation of specialists.

Owing to a typographical error in Foy's Grocery Advertisement, the price of nuts, (all new mixed) was 28c a lb. instead of 18c a lb. Foy's advertisement is brimming full with Thanksgiving suggestions.

REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

QUINCY SQUARE

Mrs. Louis B. Bradford who was telegraphed for because of the serious illness of her father Dr. Underwood, arrived Thursday night a few hours before his death.

Mrs. N. Norton Gurney of Brook Hill road, Milton Lower Mills, who died in this city at the home of her niece Mrs. Jesse F. Curtis and from whose home the funeral was held Saturday afternoon, was the sister of Mrs. Laura Tirrell. Mrs. Gurney was the second of Mrs. Tirrell's sisters to pass away this year and she has the sympathy of many friends.

Another rehearsal was held last evening for the play entitled "Sally Lund" which is to be given by the Bethany Girls choir, the middle of December and promises to be one of the best ever given.

Donations for Quincy Day Nursery have been received from the Ladies' Aid Society of Christ church. Mrs. Taylor of Newport avenue, the Associated Charities of Quincy and Mrs. Hardwick.

The services on Sunday at Bethany Congregational church will have in them the spirit of Thanksgiving both in song and in the message by the pastor. At the morning service the pastor will preach the fifth sermon on the "Lord's Prayer"—"Give us this day our daily bread." At the pleasant Sunday evening service the lecture topic will be "A young man's Thanksgiving." The girls' vested choir of 35 voices will sing.

The publication of the list of High school graduates will be continued on Monday.

Many interesting advertisements will be found in today's Ledger and they are large enough to be seen.

Rev. M. C. Ward will speak at the Universalist church Sunday at 3 P. M. on "Thanksgiving—individual, national and international."

"Democracy and duty" will be Rev. A. L. Hudson's text at the First Parish church Sunday at 10.30 A. M. He says it is time the good government people of Quincy awake.

The reading room of the Thomas Crane Library will be open again to the public Sunday afternoon. There was a good attendance last Sunday, the first day of the Sunday opening and it is expected many more will enjoy the privilege tomorrow.

QUINCY WOLLASTON

Miss Beatrice Costello Q. H. S. '13 of Wollaston avenue is a member of the Mandolin club of Radcliffe college, playing first violin.

The Walther Men's Class will meet Sunday at 12.15 in the Wollaston Baptist church. Rev. Joseph Walther. will conduct the class. Lesson subject, "Jesus and Pilate." Large chorus of men's voices, earnest discussions and a hearty welcome. Men invited.

Miss Maca Tammany is to sing Gounod's "Gallia" at the vesper service at four o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Wollaston Congregational church, assisted by a double quartet.

Owing to Thanksgiving the Guild of St. Chrysostoms church is to postpone its next meeting from Nov. 25 to Nov. 30, when it will meet with Miss Cook and Mrs. Parker.

St. Chrysostoms Girls Friendly Society meets Tuesday evening at eight o'clock with Miss Gertrude Allen of 13 Hamilton street.

Twenty-one men from the Wollaston Methodist club went to the Quincy Y. M. C. A. Monday night to bowl and enjoyed the fun, and are planning to go again next Monday evening.

"The world's greatest cause at Thanksgiving" will be Rev. Joseph Walther's subject on Sunday evening at the Wollaston Baptist church.

Vesper services will be held at 4 o'clock Sunday at the Wollaston Congregational church, with Miss Ruth Jean Maca Tammany as soprano, Miss Blanche Greenaway as contralto, Harry R. Rogers as tenor and Charles H. Everett as bass. Gounod's Gallia will be sung.

A very successful fair of the Ladies Aid Alliance of the Wollaston Unitarian church was held Thursday and Friday evenings. The tables and the chairmen were: Delicatessen, Mrs. A. C. Armstrong; fancy table, Mrs. Henry T. Bates; candy, Mrs. Harry A. Stevens; Household, Mrs. George Weston; Handkerchiefs and Neckwear, Mrs. Arthur Loud; Aprons, Miss Bliss; Grabs, Mrs. H. C. Seymour; and Remembrance, Mrs. Frank A. Page.

QUINCY ATLANTIC

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Holt of Billings street are planning to move into their new home at East Milton the first of December.

Clifton W. Whitney of Atlantic street is attending a poultry show at New Jersey this week in the interest of Profitable Poultry.

Mrs. John A. Lilley of Newbury avenue entertained the ladies of the fancy table of Memorial church fair at an all day sew at her home on Thursday.

Memorial church is to have its Thanksgiving service Thursday morning at 8 o'clock. This service has been well attended for four years.

Alexander D. MacDonald is a candidate on the Progressive ticket for Councilman from Ward Six.

Candidate James E. Wall had an unusually large attendance at his reception in Music hall, Atlantic, Wednesday evening. Music by the Sullivan Sisters of the New England Conservatory was of the highest order, and William A. McDevitt who is so well known that he is always a drawing card. Mr. Wall was guarded in his statements and assured the audience that he would go into the office of Mayor entirely free from political promises and aim to reduce the taxes and bring the city government up to business efficiency. Some of Mr. Wall's lieutenants were not so guarded and attacked the opposing candidate.

GENERAL VON HINDENBERG

German Commander On Russian Frontier, Who Scores Big Victory.

German official reports declare the Russians have been repulsed in East Prussia. The great battle in Russian Poland, on the Vistula, thirty miles northwest of Plock, has ended in a great German victory, it is said, the Russians being driven back with a loss of 23,000 prisoners, twenty machine guns and some cannon.

FORE RIVER WINS APPEAL

Circuit Court Sets Aside Verdict in Creole Case

The United States Circuit court of Appeals has set aside the verdict of the United States District court in the suit of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation, to recover the final payment of $100,000 under its contract with the Southern Pacific Seamship Co., and has demanded the case to the lower court for further proceedings, and the plaintiff recovers costs of appeal. Judges Morton and Bingham assent to the opinion.

DANCING PARTY ALPHA HALL

Well known club people of this city were guests of the Hallowe'en dance committee of the Wollaston Women's Club at a brilliant dancing party in Alpha hall, Friday evening. The dancing was complimentary on the part of the committee which conducted the Hallowe'en party last month. which was a decided success although through a misunderstanding the orchestra engaged for the occasion failed to appear, making it necessary to martial one from the musicians of the city.

The music for the evening was by Poole's nine piece orchestra under the personal direction of Louis R. Poole and was a big factor in the success of the evening.

The matrons were Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes, Mrs. C. M. Bryant and Mrs. Eugene H. Sprague. Delcevare King, was head usher and was assisted by J Harry Slade, J. O. Short, Edward Avery, Jesse Litchfield, George B. Daman, Maurice Blackmur, William C. Edwards.

The committee in charge was Mrs. J. O. Short, chairman, Mrs. Herbert H. Albee, Mrs. Wyman H. Streeter, Mrs. John L. Burke, Mrs. Charles Alden, Mrs. Thomas Fenno, Mrs. Fred L. Cheever, Mrs. William H. F. Browne, Mrs. George B. Damon, Mrs. George A. Rust, Miss Helen Foster.

ROLL OFFS.

The competitive rolloffs for the men who qualified through getting high single each day took place at the Wardwell alleys Friday evening. Money prizes were given for this event. On Wednesday night the rolloffs will be for turkeys. The rolloffs score:

Hennessy	109	101	108	318
Mr. Gallagher	103	95	103	301
Wm. DeLucca	104	97	97	298

Some of the Wardwell alleys have been reserved for the members of Quincy council Knights of Columbus on Monday evening when the candidates for the teams will compete for high average and captainancys previous to the re-organization of the league.

QUINCY SOUTH

The union Thanksgiving services in Quincy South on Thanksgiving night will be held in the Calvary Baptist church and Rev. J. A. Matheson of the Water street Presbyterian church will preach the sermon.

Italian services are held every Sunday morning at 9.30 at the Water Street Presbyterian church, Rev. J. Pomoln, is the minister.

The young people of the First Presbyterian church tendered their pastor, Rev. J. A. Matheson, a surprise on Friday evening, when about forty of them paid him a social call and presented him with a beautiful loving cup. Mr. Matheson was much surprised and thanked them most heartily. He said he had enjoyed working among them and appreciated their help and co-operation during his stay in Quincy. An enjoyable evening was spent with Mr. and Mrs. Matheson and their young friends wished them many more happy years of service together. Refreshments were served.

SURPRISED IN THEIR NEW HOME

Friends Present Mr. and Mrs. Cunniff With Dinner Set

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Cunniff were pleasantly surprised by fifty or more of their many friends Friday evening at their new home on Butler road. The surprise was somewhat in the nature of a house warming and as a token of the high regard in which Mr. and Mrs. Cunniff are held the surprisers presented them with a handsome dinner set. Although considerably taken aback by the gathering of his friends and their handsome gift. Mr. Cunniff thanked them most heartily and said that the house was theirs for the evening.

During the remainder of the evening there was music by Keating's orchestra, vocal music, cards and refreshments. It was late before the surprisers took their departure, and although it was an exciting evening for John, he was out bright and early this morning delivering the message of love and sympathy that had arrived by Uncle Sams route during the night and early morning.

QUINCY WEST

Next Thursday night Thanksgiving day there will be a Thanksgiving program at the Swedish Congregational church. Refreshments will be served. On Tuesday evening the young men will meet in the church parlors.

An afternoon and evening moving picture show was given in St. Joseph's hall, West Quincy, under the auspices of St. Mary's Guild and the attendance was large. The majority of those witnessing the afternoon performance were children.

A concert program included vocal solos by Miss Celina Belliveau, Miss Nora Reardon and Miss Annie Sullivan. Leo Kenny was the accompanist. The proceeds will be devoted to charity.

The only Galen is getting all dolled up to celebrate his 78th birthday which occurs next wek.

QUINCY POINT

A stereopticon lecture on "Mayflower heroes and their successors," will be given at the Washington Street church Sunday evening at 7.30. At the morning service Rev. W. L. Lockwood of Boston will preach.

Henry Faxon of Quincy was unanimously elected captain of the Milton Academy football team Friday evening and was one of the squad awarded the school letter. Faxon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Faxon of Adams street and although a young man, has given much promise as an athlete. It is the general impression by those who have seen him in action that he will equal the record of "tacks" Harwick.

Leslie Willis Sprague of Chicago is to speak on "The Social Message of Tolstoi" at the meeting of the New England Women's Club, Monday afternoon at their club rooms, Copley square, Boston. Dr. Walter E. Fernald will be the speaker Nov. 30.

DEATH REV. FR. COAN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

Due to Meningitis Resulting from Injuries Received in Auto Accident

Body to Lie in State at Church this Evening--Funeral Tuesday

Rev. Fr. John J. Coan pastor of St. John's church, whose serious illness was announced in the Daily Ledger of Saturday, passed away Saturday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock. Although it was realized Saturday that his condition was of a serious nature his sudden demise was not expected. When meningitis set in, it developed rapidly and although specialists were called in as soon as symptoms indicated this, it was without avail.

Rev. Fr. Coan received the injuries which resulted in his death a week ago Saturday, when he was thrown from his automobile near what is known as the Willows, Houghs Neck, when his car skidded. He struck on his head and was unconscious when found a few minutes later by John Morrissey, who was driving a taxi cab a short distance ahead. Fr. Coan received two long deep scalp wounds, but apparently there was no fracture, and it was expected that he would speedily recover. Although aware of the accident, the Daily Ledger at the request of the clergymen at the parochial residence refrained from mentioning the accident, as it was not desired to unduly alarm his parishioners.

He was apparently getting on all right and it was expected that he would be able to get out by Friday. Thursday night however his temperature began to rise, and Dr. Daniel B. Reardon who was in attendance had reason to believe that meningitis was setting in and specialists from Boston were called, who confirmed his diagnosis

From this time on he failed rapidly, although it was not until announced in the Daily Ledger of Saturday that many were aware of the accident or of the seriousness of his condition. He died about 4.30.

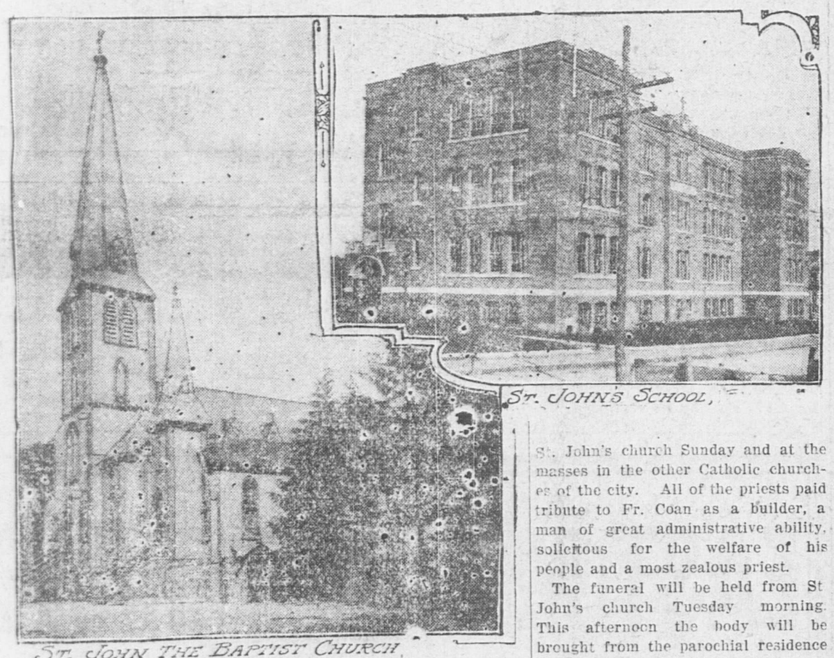

Brief eulogistic remarks were made by the priests at all of the masses a St. John's church Sunday and at the masses in the other Catholic churches of the city. All of the priests paid tribute to Fr. Coan as a builder, a man of great administrative ability, solicitous for the welfare of his people and a most zealous priest.

The funeral will be held from St John's church Tuesday morning. This afternoon the body will be brought from the parochial residence to the church where it will lie in

LOSES LAST NEW ENGLAND GAME

The hitherto undefeated soccer football of the Rivadavia lost its last game in New England to the Fore Rivers at Quincy Point Saturday afternoon by a score of 5 to 2. The ship leaves Thursday for New York and on Dec. 13 for Buenos Aires.

The first game on Columbus Day, when that team beat Fore River 5 to 4 in the greatest exhibition ever given here, established a standard of play it failed to come up to Saturday, mainly because its two fast forwards

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

That employees of the Daily Ledger may give praise and enjoy their turkeys, no paper will be issued on Thursday, Thanksgiving Day. On Friday and Saturday expect some municipal hot shots.

Somehow when the Mexicans get to shooting around, the bullets always accidentally go into our border towns.

After studying the results of election, it is easy to understand why few political prophets ever get a job in the weather bureau.

Although bribery is eliminated by the Australian ballot, many citizens were duly compensated for taking their vluable time to go and vote.

There is a growing dissatisfaction among the politicians that they can no longer tell a man's politics by finding out how his father voted.

The foot and mouth disease is reported very prevalent. Many symptoms of it were displayed by the politicians during the fall campaign.

Having recently paid a gasoline bill for a hundred, many wealthy citizens feel that they should not be expected to chip in a dollar for the Red Cross work.

Some men will light a cigar and throw the burning match into the waste basket, preparatory to reading in comfort an article on the observance of Fire Prevention day.

REV. FATHER COAN.

In the death of the Rev. Father John J. Coan there is lost to the community a man whose influence was great for harmony and good-will; and his own people lose an able administrator of church business and an indefatigable promoter of the Catholic faith. Father Coan will be remembered as a man whose words were few and well chosen and never employed to set one faith against another. All right-minded people of other creeds will unite with co-religionists in wishing, "peace to his soul."

TWO YEARS' COLLEGE COURSE.

President Lowell of Harvard University, in a paper given the past week to the Association of American Universities, argued for a two years' college course for business men.

It is often said that it takes a college graduate a year or two to unlearn things. By the time he is fairly going in business, he is thirty, a late start. The college society life, with its sparkle and glitter, the glamor of athletic success, the jolly comradeship of the campus and the commons, all these things seem far removed from the great cold world of struggle and strife outside. Even in the class-room, in daily communion with brilliant men, the student may think too much that he has climbed in knowledge and experience far above the common herd.

Unless a college boy earns his own way, life seems too easy to him. He has no sense of the mountainous obstacles that fence the path to success. Once on the outside with his diploma in his pocket, he finds that he must start even with the street gamin, and probably with less knowledge of human nature than the latter possesses.

Of course two years is an all too brief period for what is called a liberal education. The vast range of human experience can be touched upon in four years only in a sketchy way. But tens of thousands of young men who now quit in the High school, would feel like taking a two years' college course, if such could be arranged with special reference to their needs. It would add to the breadth, liberality, and intelligence of the business community. Young men then would not start their life work with such a handicap of age. And the subtile enervation that so often follows from the pleasure-seeking side of college life would have had less effect on the habits and point of view of the two year men.

GOOD TIMES FOR QUINCY

Big Contracts Will Cause Activity at Shipyard

The statement credited to Charles M. Schwab, who has just returned from Europe, that the real news he has brought back is of such a surprising character that he cannot make it public at present, has started everybody in the financial district guessing, says the financial editor of the Sunday Globe, and good times are promised for Quincy.

Mr. Schwab has the reputation of being willing to talk on any subject except his own business. He is credited with being one of the shrewdest men connected with the steel industry of this country. Just what Mr. Schwab did in Europe will not be known, but one thing is certain however, he did not start home until he had secured business.

This assertion is confirmed by the present activity noted at the Fore River Shipbuilding property, in which Mr. Schwab has recently become interested. Nobody connected with this company has any real information concerning Mr. Schwab's plans, but there is a persistent rumor going the rounds of the yard that he has orders for at least $50,000,000 of submarines. It is reported that one submarine boat has already been started, and it is certain that this was not ordered by the United States Government.

Then, too, new buildings are being constructed at the yard, and old buildings and offices which have not been in use for some years, are occupied with men all extremely busy with setting up and getting machinery into place or figuring on costs. Old employes at the Fore River yard say these improvements would not be made unless a vast amount of new business had been booked.

mendation of revolutionary wars for redress or wrongs inflicted by despotic rulers, but advocated resorting to constitutional means, if there are any before taking up arms.

A resolution pledging the support of the federation in bringing about a disarmament of all nations, was also adopted.

BRAINTREE LIQUOR RAIDS.

The local police were busy Saturday and Sunday in the campaign against the illegal sale of liquor and were successful in their efforts. On Saturday Chief of Police, Horace F. Hunt with officers Shay, Gallivan Johnson and Krohn raided the premises of Antonio De George of Pond street and seized a half barrel of beer and a gallon of whiskey. At the house of Louis Di Bandiano on the same street they secured a half barrel of ale. At Stella Ciccolo's place on Fairview avenue they confiscated two 8 gallon kegs of ale and at the home of Leo Di Bastinano a half barrel of ale and a gallon of wine.

Sunday afternoon the same officers raided the premises of Pasquale Ricardi on Granite street getting a keg of ale. Theresa Pescistore of Hall avenue also received a call. Twelve bottles of beer and two pints of whiskey were surrendered.

PRIZE ESSAYS

Much interest has been manifested in the announcement made at the community service dinner, by Arthur S. Johnson, chairman of the Student department. This was to the effect that the generosity of a friend of the Immigration department has made possible two State-wide prize essay contests, one to be limited to the colleges of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, and the other to the theological schools of these states.

The following men were awarded "M's" Faxon, Humphrey, Apthorp, Liscty, Florence, Clark, Trainer, Cabot, Felton, Whitcomb, Hutchinson, Johnson and Captain Brewer.

The Neighborhood club held a dancing party Saturday afternoon in Ellsworth hall for the children of the community. There was a very large crowd there and all had a fine time. Mrs. William D. Parker had charge of the party.

The Girls' Friendly Society of the Church of Our Saviour (Episcopal) held a very successful sale of candy, cake, ice cream and fancy articles Friday evening, Nov. 20, in the basement of the church.

The caddies at the Wollaston Golf Club went on a strike Saturday for an increase in pay. They get fifteen cents an hour and are striking for twenty. "Billy" Lewis, the strike leader, says that all the boys will strike until they get the increase asked and that there are no "scabs" among the caddies.

A large group of loyal rooters of Milton went to the Dartmouth-Syracuse game Saturday afternoon to give their support to "Dannie" O'Connel, full back for Syracuse and a former high school star.

John Mullen of Church street is confined to his home with typhoid fever.

At the First Baptist church Sunday morning, the pastor Rev. J. Hamilton Woodsum, preached on "Christian Zeal." A choir consisting of James Lewis, Miss Alice Beattie, Miss Olive Bishop, Miss Clara Rehn, Mrs Marion Johnson, Miss Annie Johnstone and James H. Leatherbee gave several selections. The Sunday school and Woodsum class met at 12 M. A Thanksgiving service was held at the C. E. meeting, the subject being, "A Joyous Life," led by Mrs. Madison Clements. At the evening service the pastor preached on: "The Way of Escape."

The regular meeting of the Ladies Aid Society of the First Baptist church has been postponed from Wednesday of this week to Wednesday, Dec. 2.

The Forum, the debating society of the High School held its regular meeting Friday. The society will hold its first debate of the year Dec. 4, between the members. The question will be: Resolved, that immigration should be further restricted in the United States. The affirmative is taken by Kenneth D. Johnson and Charles L. Parsons; the negative by Russell Phipps and Maurice Pierce The society is making preparations for the debate with Brockton this winter.

Remick Bros., through A. L. Remick, issued their annual Thanksgiving proclamation this morning. It calls particular attention to the need of proper protection from the elements of the season. Shoes, hats, suits and all the requisites of a well dressed person are on sale at prices within a pocketbook's reach. All departments are offering special values and an extra ten per cent discount will be given on all hats, including the famous "No Name" hat on sale at $3, one dollar less than Boston prices. are in the hospital and combination play was somewhat affected.

The Rivadavias both goals were from penalty kicks while the Fore Rivers was the result of hard shooting. Both teams lost a goal apiece through the ball striking the bar on the posts and bounding over instead of under.

Delaney made three goals and Daley and Harrison one each. More could have been secured but the local boys played big time football without trying to score.

A luncheon was served the visitors after the game at the Fore River clubhouse where each team cheered its opponents and sang Auld Lang Syne in farewell.

DEATH REV. FR. COAN

state until 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, the hour of the funeral.

Sunday afternoon a meeting of the various men's societies of the parish was held to make plans for guarding the body tonight and also for attending the funeral. Rev. Fr. Walter A Quinlan presided and delegations were present from Quincy council, K. C. Division 5, A. O. H., the Holy Name society, Quincy court, M. C. O. F., The Houghs Neck Catholic Lyceum, and Quincy Branch of the Irish National League.

Delegations from these organizations will guard the body tonight as follows; Houghs Neck Catholic Lyceum from 7 to 9 o'clock; Irish National League 9 to 11 o'clock; Knights of Columbus, 11 to 1 o'clock; Division 5, A. O. H., 1 to 3 o'clock; Holy Name society 3 to 5 o'clock; Catholic Order of Foresters 5 to 7 o'clock.

It was also arranged that these organizations should escort the body on the day of the funeral from the church to the boundary line of the parish, Beale and Hancock streets, where two lines will be formed through which the hearse will pass on its way to Holy Cross cemetery at Malden where the burial will take place. Delegations from the various societies will also accompany the body to its final resting place.

At the funeral services Tuesday morning Cardinal O'Connell will be present and will probably give the final blessing. The celebrant will be Rev. Dr. Patrick Coleman of Swampscott, a classmate of Fr. Coan, Rev. John P. Cuffe of the Sacred Heart church, Atlantic as deacon, Rev. John B. Holand of Weymouth, sub-deacon, and Rev. Thomas R. McCoy of St. Mary's church, West Quincy as Master of ceremonies. The acolytes will be Rev. William T. Deasy of Randolph, Rev. Walter Fegan of Woburn. The thurifer, Rev. Dennis Crimmings of North Weymouth. Rev. Hugh F. Blunt of South Braintree will deliver the eulogy.

Rev. Fr. Coan was born in Malden and was educated in the public schools there. After graduating from Boston College in 1884 he entered St. John's Seminary, Brighton, and was ordained in 1888. He was assigned as a curate to St. Paul's Church in Cambridge and remained there for nine years. For seven years he was treasurer of St. John's Seminary.

On the death of Rev. Francis A. Frizaletti in 1903, Fr. Coan was appointed pastor of St. John's parish in this city and came here in September of that year. Within four years he had cleared from debt St. John's church and the Church of St. Francis-by-the-Sea, a mission station at Houghs Neck. He also erected a parish school, a splendid brick structure, on Phipps street, a few years ago and late in the Summer of this year he began the erection of a church in the Fore River District at Quincy Point. He hoped to celebrate mass in it on Christmas.

In connection with the Houghs Neck church Rev. Fr. Coan bought the famous Red Lion cottages a few years ago as a Summer residence for the priests of the parish. In June, 1913, he arranged for the golden jubilee of St. John's parish, which was a memorable event. At the same time he celebrated the 25th anniversary of his ordination and the 10th anniversary of his appointment as pastor of the parish. In anticipation of the jubilee service the church was entirely refrescoed and memorial colored windows were installed.

Rev. Fr. Coan was chaplain of Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus. He is survived by his mother, who made her home with him.

FIRST PARISH.

The sermon at the First Parish was a strong presentation of the possibility of developing out of present conditions a world democracy. In order to realize such a possibility, however, the preacher urged the necessity for those people who now live under a democratic form of government to demonstrate its efficiency by their own loyalty to the working ideals of democracy—Service, Self-sacrifice and Duty.

In reading the governor's Thanksgiving proclamation, Mr. Hudson called attention to the omission of the usual request that "upon that day the people assemble in their customary places of worship to return thanks to Almighty God for all His blessings. After reading, by way of supplement, the corresponding clause from the president's message, which contained the omitted recommendation, he remarked that this of course is the entire significance of the setting apart of the day. To make the day one of feasting and sport, with all idea of religious observance left out, would be to make of our New England inheritance a vulgar travesty.

In this connection he announced that upon Thursday, Nov. 26, at 10.30 A. M., a union Thanksgiving service would be held in the First Parish church in which the Bethany Congregational, Washington Street Congregational and First Universalist churches would join with the First Parish in an old fashioned celebration of the day, the sermon to be by the Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of the Bethany Congregational church.

The session of the Sunday school at 12 o'clock took the form of a Thanksgiving service. A general invitation had been extended to the parishioners at the morning church service to attend the Sunday school session and many availed themselves of the opportunity. Fruit and vegetables in great variety had been contributed and these were arranged in an attractive manner on the front of the platform. Today these will be distributed among the worthy poor, that they may have some of the good cheer that prevails on Thanksgiving day.

The regular meeting of the Young People's Religious Union Sunday afternoon was devoted to a Thanksgiving program in charge of Miss Ethel Hersey. It included: "The President's Proclamation", Willard Crocker; "Thanksgiving Poem" Miss Beatrice Morrison; Song—The 23rd Psalm Mrs. Slade; "An Old Fashioned Thanksgiving," Miss Margaret Atwood; "A Thanksgiving Sermon," Richard Allen; Song, "The Breaking Waves Dashed High," "History of Thanksgiving," Miss Ethel Hersey.

After the meeting refreshments of chocolate, sandwiches and cake were served in the social rooms of the chapel by a committee composed of Miss Dorothy Edwards and Miss Marjorie Brooks.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

Rev. Mr. Willmott preached the fifth sermon Sunday morning in his series on the Lord's Prayer from the text, "Give us this day our daily bread."

In the Mosaic law six days were devoted to secular ends and one only to sacred use, making seven, the mystic number which to the Hebrew mind was the symbol of completeness. The Lord's Prayer also consists of seven petitions, but Christ neutralizes the proportion of the Decalogue by making six of them spiritual and only one material.

This secular petition in the middle of the prayer seemed to Erasmus a drop from its high level and he thought it could not mean what the words appeared to imply, but we should remember that to the Oriental mind bread stood for all material blessings. When we pray for daily bread it is as if we asked God for all the necessities of life.

Jesus expounds this petition in Matthew's gospel where he acknowledges the necessity for material things, but charges us not to be over anxious for their attainment. Instead of a drop this request is a jewel teaching us that our heavenly Father cares for even mundane wants. Sometimes we are tempted to write law with a large L, and God with a small "g", forgetting that all law is subordinate to divine control. Nothing is too small to be of interest to Him.

And if He supplies temporal needs, so will He also those which are spiritual. The soul sometimes feels an elemental hunger which this world cannot satisfy. Only God can give it adequate sustenance.

In times of religious doubt and depression hold fast to the Lord's Prayer. It is the essence of the gospel of Jesus. Its teachings will lead to the heights where visions are seen without the clouds of doubt.

New records are being made about every Sunday in the Bethany Bible School, for the increasing numbers who attend from week to week shows that those who gather in the several classes find that the hour spent is one both of pleasure and profit to themselves as well as others. The fourteen classes in the Primary department had an attendance of 123, and the Junior and Intermediate departments with a combined enrollment of 236 had 213 present in 23 classes. The following classes in this department had every member present: No. 18, Carle Hayward teacher, 22 boys; No. 26, Miss Frances Murray teacher, 7 girls; No. 27 Wesley Williams teacher, 7 boys; No. 31, Miss Annie Jones teacher, 9 girls; No. 34 William Ross teacher, 7 boys; No. 36 Warren Crane teacher, 6 boys; No. 37, Thomas Sandison teacher, 6 boys. There were also many visitors who attended the school for the first time. The regular monthly teachers meeting will be held Tuesday evening at 7.45 o'clock.

At the pleasant Sunday evening service there was a crowded house, and all were interested in the pastors topic—"A young man's thanksgiving." The girls vested choir shows improvement each Sunday.

The Bethany Christian Endeavor met at 6 with Malcolm McKenzie leader. The topic was "A Joyful Life," it being a Thanksgiving service. Topic cards for meetings from December to June were distributed by Miss Williamina Laing, the prayer meeting chairman.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The thanksgiving spirit pervade the session of the Unitarian Sunday School from beginning to end on Sunday. The superintendent, Mrs. H. C Needham, conducted a special thanksgiving service, and the teachers and pupils brought their annual thanksgiving offering of fruit, vegetables, preserves and canned goods for the needy in Quincy. The response this year, as in former years, was most generous.

In the morning our minister preached a helpful sermon from the text "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee the crown of life." Romans 2:10. "Our text teaches us that faithfulness will be rewarded," said Rev. Carl G. Horst. And the highest reward of faithfulness is more faithfulness; the best reward of keeping one's temper is the increased power of self control; the best reward of being punctual is getting the habit of punctuality; the best reward of learning one's lessons today is the ability to learn other lessons tomorrow. Therefore be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee not a crown of laurel or of gold, but one of infinitely greater value, the crown of life—the crown of a fuller, larger life.

All who wish to use the vestry for conference or committee meetings, whether in the interest of the church or some organization or club outside of the church must get permission from the chairman of the house committee, G. Ernest Carr, 311 Safford street.

The crowded condition of the vestry at the biennial fair of the Ladies Aid Alliance last week made everybody realize the great need of the parish house.

The Wollaston Unitarian church has received as a gift a beautiful announcement board of excellent workmanship, to be placed on the outside of the church. The board is made of teak wood.

The fall meeting of the Boston Federation of Young People's Societies will be held Sunday afternoon and evening, Nov. 29, at the First Parish, West Roxbury. The speakers are Rev. Lyman V. Rutledge and Mr. Frederick M. Eliot of Cambridge.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

The pastor, Rev. Dr. Sneath, preached upon the topic, "The Grateful Attitude" Sunday morning. He urged the need of the cultivation of such an attitude in the time of prosperity and also in the hour of adversity. In justice to God who daily loadeth us with benefits and for our own self-good we should have the grateful spirit and make it manifest. We can do this in words and by kindly deeds, ever remembering that a grateful heart for the blessings of life is the greatest blessing of all.

At the Thanksgiving vesper service in the afternoon Dr. Sneath referred in a kindly spirit to the Pope's encyclical, but took issue with the Five Thousand Persons Witness Heroic Rescue of Three Men Who Planned to Escape In Dory When Schooner Dashed on Rocks—Parting Rope Causes Thrills

Gloucester, Mass., Nov. 23.—A rescue of three men from a shipwreck before a moving picture camera was so realistic that the men narrowly escaped losing their lives, giving the camera man one of the most thrilling films ever made.

Five thousand persons, drawn to the shore to watch the picture making, witnessed the rescue of the men, but many in the crowd went to their homes before they were saved because they felt certain that the men would be drowned, and did not want to see the fatal outcome.

The rescue, as planned for the picture scenario, was to be the feature of a five-reel production. An old fishing schooner, the "Island Home," was driven on the rocks at Brace's cove, with four men aboard, in a wild sea, where the waves were tossed violently by a heavy southwest gale.

A dory, attached by a rope to the schooner and also to a life boat some distance away, was supposed to take the four men of the crew to safety. Theoretically all they had to do was to get into the dory and be pulled to the life boat.

In practice, however, the plan did not work out, for when the first man, Salvator Paglasi, jumped from the schooner into the dory, the rope attached to the schooner gave way. Paglasi was pulled to the life boat safely, and the dory was allowed to drift to the schooner.

Cornelius Linnehan was the next man to enter the dory. He had a difficult task to enter it, because of the absence of the rope to the schooner, and no sooner had he made the leap than a big wave struck the little craft, turning it around a dozen times and finally throwing it on a rock, knocking out its side and a part of the bottom. Linnehan, however, held tightly to the rope and was pulled in by the life boat.

The two men who remained on the schooner, however, were in a position of extreme peril, for the old ship was being rapidly torn to pieces by the heavy waves. They were William Sawyer and Charles Martin.

Both men removed their outer clothing and made preparations to swim. Meanwhile Policeman Bickford, who was in the life boat, tried to swim out to a rock near them and to throw a line to them, but the waves drove him back.

A life boat that put out from shore, in command of Policeman Mehlman, reached the other life boat after some trouble and took its crew aboard. The empty life boat was then sent drifting out to the schooner on a line, and the two men clinging to the bow of the wrecked craft were taken aboard.

BECKER PLEA FOR PARDON

May Have to Be Decided by Man Who Twice Convicted Him

New Nork, Nov. 23.—Unless all signs fail Charles S. Becker, now in the death house at Sing Sing, will have to appeal to Governor Whitman for commutation of his death sentence, or for a pardon, in case the court of appeals sustains his conviction.

There seems to be no possibility that the court will reach the Becker case before Jan. 1, and on that date Whitman, who as district attorney conducted the two Becker trials and twice obtained convictions, will take the cath of office as governor.

As a result of Whitman's efforts the four gunmen convicted as aides of Becker were electrocuted last spring. As governor, Whitman has the final word that shall determine whether Becker shall go the same way as the gunmen.

VICTIM LIVED IN QUINCY

Arthur Winquist, who was crushed to death at the Fore River shipyard Saturday was a resident of Carlson street, this city although the books of the company gave his address as Cushing street, Hingham. Friends were responsible for his indentification. He leaves a wife and four small children.

Winquist was a trusted employee at the shipyard and one of its most responsible carpenters. He was working on the supports of the 11 ton steam hammer in the blacksmith shop, when the fastenings parted and he was caught beneath the mass of solid iron. Fully an hour passed before workmen rolled the heavy weight off the remains. His funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon at the Swedish Lutheran church.

DUAL TRACK MEET.

This evening there will be a dual track between the students and Employed Boy's classes. The meet is handicap and each fellow will have to go hard to win. Livingston Wright of the Student class is entered in the high jump, and can do 5 feet, 2 inches; Alton Hall of the Employed Boys doing 5 feet 4 inches; John McNeil in the potato race and "Bob" Davis, both go fast and will make the others travel some to win. James Sullivan in the 300 and he is running very good. Fred Kingsbury in the 1000, although he is not in good shape he will make all go some to beat him to the tape. The admission is ten cents and the public is invited to come. This means ladies and girls as well as men and boys. Come everyone.

SUNDAY AT LIBRARY.

The Sunday opening of the Thomas Crane Public Library is meeting a need in the city. On Sunday 62 visited the library, of whom 43 were readers. There were more High school girls than boys in proportion among the readers than last Sunday. The increase was among visitors rather than readers. The librarian and Miss Clark were in attendance.

Yales Comments on Hardwicks Last Game

Hardwick, the Quincy man on the Harvard foot ball team covered himself with glory in the game with Yale on Saturday, and the press was quick to acknowledge it

The Sunday Herald says: "The Harvard backs were lightning fast, crossed the line at greatest speed with their feet under them and whipped in through an opening just disclosed to go to and often by the secondary. The fundamental seemed to be to cut back across the tackles' weakest point, and they slammed, whirled, spun and ploughed on time after time when one thought them stopped dead. Hardwick's end around was superbly done, as is everything that Hardwick does. A committee of Yale men ought to hand Tack his sheepskin at Sanders Theatre next June. Thank heavens, he's through."

The Globe says: "Three men deserve especial mention; the first is Hardwick, playing his last game at end for Harvard. Too much cannot be said of the value of this man to the Harvard team. He is perhaps the greatest all-round football player the United States has ever developed. He has played in the backfield, and in the line equally well. He has received forward passes with the same skill that he exhibited as a passer and a kicker. He has been most unselfish in playing wherever the Harvard coaches felt he could be of the most value to the Harvard team, and has adapted himself to his position with a willingness that has marked his whole service to the university. Both of the forward passes, which he received and carried over Yale's goal line for touchdowns were of the sensational variety. That he has been able to shine in his quiet way for three years reflects greatly to his credit, for he has been a marked man by the opponents in almost every game."

HARVARD SWAMPS YALE

Crimson Trims Blue, 36-0, Before Crowd of Seventy Thousand

New Haven, Nov. 23.—They said they were going to have 70,000 spectators in that new Yale bowl here and they put them there, but no one intimated that Harvard was going to give Yale a licking in the presence of the 70,000 by a score of 36 to 0.

Yale has a gloomy satisfaction of knowing that even though her football eleven was all mussed up she swamped all paid attendance records in this country by pouring that bowl full of people to the very brim.

Harvard again holds an undisputed claim to the eastern football championship. Yale has been completely vanquished, winding up the season with the worst defeat the Blue has ever suffered. Princeton has been out of the race for the championship for a full week. Cornell and Dartmouth have been denied the crown because of earlier reverses. Penn never has been a factor.

ELEVEN HANGINGS TO OCCUR IN ONE DAY

Governor of Arizona Says He Cannot Commute Sentences

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 23.—With a statement that his heart had been saddened by the verdict of the people in refusing at the recent election to abolish capital punishment, Governor Hunt declared he would let condemned prisoners die on the gallows on the dates originally set.

"As Dec. 19 has been set as the execution date for eleven of them, there will be eleven hangings in Florence penitentiary on that day," said the governor. "I do not have the power to commute sentences because I put the question to the people and they have given the verdict."

HUNT FOR LOST WOMAN

Search by Two Thousand People Proves Barren of Results

Marlboro, Mass., Nov. 23.—Two thousand men, women and children searched this city and its environs within a radius of ten miles for Mrs. Walter C. Springer, wife of the superintendent of a shoe factory, who mysteriously disappeared last Tuesday.

Never was such a search made before in Middlesex county. Persons from all walks of life joined in it—judges, lawyers, physicians, factory operatives, militiamen, school teachers and their pupils—while sixty automobiles were pressed into service.

And when the last searcher, the woman's husband, reported late last night, no trace of the woman had been unearthed.

BROKEN AXLE FIVE BLOWOUTS

Visit Quincy A. A. to Pawtuxet Full of Incidents

A broken axle and five blowouts featured the auto invasion of Rhode Island Sunday by the football team of the Quincy A. A. and resulted in players reaching Pawtuxet late, two wives, two sweethearts and one sister of the players not getting beyond Rehoboth, and the loss of the game to the Pawtuxets by a score of 7 to 0.

The party of 30 players and rooters in charge of Manager William H. Flynn, left City Square at noon in four machines, flaunting the banners which followed a most successful team through three seasons the party in high glee little expecting the trouble in store for them. At Rehoboth a rear axle broke and players were transferred to another machine and the young lady passengers were left in charge of a young man. The chauffeur neglected to return for them as ordered, Providence being his limit, and after a two hours wait on the State road they walked four miles to Taunton from where they took a trolley to Brockton and from there to Quincy arriving about 10.45.

In the meantime three machines continued toward the gridiron until Patsy Dugan, driving the pilot car, had a blowout. An inner tube was substituted and the party had gone another short distance when Dugan's tire repeated the performance. The others went ahead and started the game, while Capt. Cummings and two others were left behind in hopes.

The game was started with three substitutes and was scoreless until the last four minutes of play Boyle, the star performer of the champion Pawtuxets plugged the line for a touchdown and kicked the goal.

Capt. Cummings and the two players reached the field just after this and in time to get one tackle apiece. Quincy's chance to score passed when they had the ball on the champs five yard line and lost it on a fumble.

The defeated localites returned to the clubhouse of the winners where they were banqueted and then came the start for home. Cheers sped their journey but before the East Providence line was crossed Duggan had two more blowouts and had to scout up his fifth inner tube. Capt. Cummings took the train from Providence and reached here at 9.45, an hour earlier than the young lady rooters. He waited impatiently and offered some encouragement when they reached the Thompson Cafe for their having missed the game and suffering the inconvenience. The balance of the party got in at 12.35 tired and weary from their experience.

Manager Flynn furnished transportation for the wives of two players who live in Everett and for Bernie Boyle and his sister who live in Cliftondale. Another game will be arranged and it is the hope of those planning to make it that tire trouble and broken axles will have no section of the program.

Webb McDonald, quarter back of the Quincy's pulled a tendon in his left leg and left shoulder and was obliged to seek professional treatment while "Monkey" Woods is suffering from a twisted neck and knee. Otherwise the squad is in good condition.

EX-MAYOR STONE

by mayors and school superintendents of the smaller cities and towns, and the state commissioner of education, Dr. David Snedden. The meeting was held in Social hall of the Ford building, Boston, says the Monitor. Those present have organized with Edward E. Willard, mayor of Chelsea, chairman and Eugene R. Stone, former mayor of Quincy, secretary.

At present each community apportions its own school tax, in consequence of which the large cities and wealthier communities have a decided advantage over the smaller communities. Many of these latter always have found it difficult to keep up their schools in any adequate manner and are particularly burdened now with the modern demands for higher salaries, industrial education, equal opportunities and expert service.

WHAT BILL WILL PROVIDE.

As the cities draw a large part of their workers from those who have secured their schooling elsewhere, it is the contention of the committee that it is only fair that the cities should bear a part of the burden. Accordingly it proposes a bill to have school funds raised by a tax of, perhaps, one mill on the dollar, and to be apportioned back to the communities on a basis of school membership.

Such an arrangement would take something from the cities but would give much in comparison to what they now have to smaller and poor districts. While giving these advantages they do not now possess and putting them in the way of greater prosperity through increased intelligence, the measure would not prevent any community from raising for its own use any additional sum it pleased.

LARGER CITIES TO HELP.

Chelsea, which has a large number of school children in proportion to its population and whose wealth is not proportionately high, would be a beneficiary of the new law. Boston, Brookline and Newton would contribute to the benefits of less favored communities, but with their proportionately few number of school children and greater wealth, Mayor Willard contends, they can afford to do so and should, for it is from the smaller places that they draw large numbers of its workers.

A bill drawn on much these same lines was defeated in the Legislature last year through opposition of such cities as Boston, Newton, Brookline and others which would find their income lowered. The conference of this morning was held in the hope of formulating for this year a bill that will be more acceptable to the cities and which will be more liable to pass. Dr. Snedden and the state board will give the matter consideration.

A publicity bureau for the education of the public thought is to be organized by the special committee of which Mayor Willard is the head.

YOUNG LADIES THE HOSTS.

Miss Ada M. Nightingale, recently in the office of the Commissioner of Public Works at City Hall, whose marriage to Frederick E. Tupper is announced for Dec. 9, was the guest Saturday evening, together with her mother, Mrs. James Nightingale and her sisters, of the young ladies of City Hall, at the home of Miss Mary L. Gavin at 29 Irving place, and one grand good time it was.

The decorations were potted plants and cut flowers, and the rooms were arranged to represent a theatre. Miss Mary Ford was the chief usher, and the program of the evening included selections by an orchestra composed of Mrs. Lela O. Pierce, Miss Marion Bolster, Miss Irma C. Tilton, Miss Marguerite S. Lyons, Miss Helen M. Gavin, Miss Pearl Hayden and Miss Marguerite Gavin as accompanist.

Other interesting numbers on the program were readings by Miss Annie Allen; original poem by Miss Marguerite S. Lyons; piano selections by Miss Emily A. Gassett; vocal selections by Miss Hattiemay Mitchell; humorous sketch by Mrs. Clara A. Penley the program closing with a travesty on Romeo and Juliet with Miss Helen M. Gavin as Romeo and Miss Marion Bolster as Juliet.

At the close of this most interesting program each of the young ladies presented Miss Nightingale with a household article, each gift being accompanied with an appropriate rhyme.

Dainty refreshments were served during the evening, which was one of rare enjoyment to all.

IN WOLLASTON

Statements of Wollaston Citizens Are Always of Interest to Our Readers.

To many of our readers the streets of Wollaston are almost as familiar as those of our own town, and we are naturally interested to read of happenings there. The following report from a well-known and respected resident will be helpful to numbers of men and women here in Quincy.

P. J. Garrity, National Sailors' Home, Wollaston, Mass., says: "I was so badly troubled by kidney disease that I could hardly work. My back was very lame. It hurt me to stoop over or straighten. The pains never left me, even at night. I could find no position in bed that gave me any ease. I had to get up during the night as often as ten times to pass the kidney secretions. I could see that my health and strength were declining and was at a loss to know what to do, as the various remedies and different treatments I had tried had been useless. Doan's Kidney Pills were strongly recommended to me one day and I began using them. Before I had finished the fourth box, my old-time strength and health had returned."

suggestion that there is less manifestation of brotherhood today than ever before in the history of the world. He also assured his hearers that Protestantism is also making its appeals for peace and urged them to pray for peace, and believe that it will come and with it a larger manifestation of the spirit of Christ. In his prayer reference was made to the death of the pastor of St. John's church.

At the vesper service the church quartet assisted by Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Embleton, Miss Chapman, Mrs. Bates, Miss Taylor, Mrs. Weston, and Messrs Mann, Price and Weston, rendered very effectively Gounod's "Gallia." Recently Miss Ruth Maca Tammany soprano, and Miss Blanche Greenaway contralto, became a permanent part of the church quartet. With Harry Rogers tenor and Charles Everett basso the quartet is now complete.

This church will join in a union Thanksgiving service in the Wollaston Unitarian church on Thursday at 3 P. M. In consequence there will be no midweek service.

The Sunday School provided a very generous offering for the Little Wanderers Home at its session Sunday. The number of members in the Home department now numbers eighty.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

Sunday morning a large audience listened to a very helpful and inspiring sermon by the pastor, Rev. Joseph Walther. Subject, "What we have to be thankful for this year." The text, 1 Thess. 5:18—"In everything give thanks for this is the will of God concerning you." Some of the things brought to our minds were: The apostle was speaking of the second coming of Christ, and was giving a word of comfort and also a word of warning and practical advice. He said among other things, "In everything give thanks." Not for everything give thanks, there are a good many things for which we might not naturally give thanks, such as sickness, suffering and disaster, and other things; but we can give thanks in everything. There is always something for which we can give thanks even in the direst straits. There are some splendid illustrations given in the Bible of men who praised God under adverse circumstances; men like Joseph, and Daniel and Paul; and when there was a complete failure of crops, Habakkuk said "Yet will I rejoice in the Lord, and in the God of my salvation."

Some of the things for which we should be thankful this year, are that we as a Nation have not been plunged into terrible war, for this is an awful year of war and bloodshed, and distress bordering on panic in many places. We should be thankful for the new spirit that has come upon many of the warring nations, such as religious freedom in Russia and also the fate of alcoholism in that country. We should be thankful for the hopeful spirit which is increasing in our own country. When the war began, gloom and depression were over the country, but now the clouds are lifting somewhat. It looks now as if the United States was the only great manufacturing country open to the world. Many orders of various kinds are coming in large quantities and it seems as if a large number of our factories would soon be busy.

We should be thankful for the prosperity of our Nation. We are told that the warm September weather perfectly ripened the crops, thus giving plenty of corn and wheat. We should be thankful that being so blessed we may give succor to the needy across the sea. We should be thankful for the heroic giving, and heroic sacrifice apparent in the world, and also for the prospect of a saloonless Nation in the near future, and for those working to this end; the W. C. T. U. and the Anti Saloon League and others.

The quartet sang "Hark, Hark, my Soul" by Shelley and "Praise Ye the Lord" by Gounod. Miss Marguerite Louise Holbrook sang "I will Praise Thee O God" by Lansing.

The Sunday School followed the morning service with 325 present, the membership is steadily growing.

The Junior Endeavor meeting was in charge of Mrs. Joseph Walther; subject, "Showing gratitude to God and men," Ps. 136:1-9.

The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting was in charge of Miss May Critchley; subject: "A Joyous Life." Joel 2 21-27.

The pastor preached in the evening from the subject, "The world's greatest cause for Thanksgiving." The chorus choir sang morning and evening.

Thursday afternoon, at 5 o'clock a union Thanksgiving service will be held in the Wollaston Unitarian church Rev. Samuel R. Maxwell of Boston will preach.

Friday evening at 7.45, November meeting of the Walther class, the Rand class invited. Speaker the distinguished lecturer and dramatist, Paul W. Herbert L. L. D. on "How history repeats itself."

PARK AND DOWNS.

Rapt attention was given Rev. Wm. B. Ayers at the Sunday morning service. Text, Galatians, 5:16—"Walk in the spirit and ye shall not fulfill the lusts of the flesh." The preacher said that the great difficulty which many people experience is to be natural to be oneself and yet conform to the requirements of culture and courtesy. And the reason many persons fail in religious experience is because religion and morality is for them a series of repressions, a perpetual self denial. They exclude so many things from their characters, so many desires and tastes and tendencies, that they cease to be themselves. Some peoples' own natures are the greatest enemies they have against spontaneity. Perpetual self denial leaves but the shadow of a life. Jesus was the most natural, unaffected, spontaneous character that ever lived. And the reason for this is because His life was so filled with the life and spirit of the Father that He simply opened the doors of his own nature and the divine nature rushed forth. He could afford to be spontaneous, for he had no denials.

There is nothing happy or joyous about a character of negative morality, but a life filled with the Christ character is too busy in service and self expression to leave any room for sadness or for sin. A positive Christian is everywhere and always a happy one.

In the evening the pastor gave the eleventh in the series of lectures on "Great religious lessons from the war." This lecture contained the review of the history and development of the Belgian people. The pastor has traced the roots of the Belgian character back to the time of Christ.

These lectures are attended by large and attentive audiences who find them very instructive. A very pleasing part of the musical program was a duet by Mrs. Hazzard and Mr. Capen.

WOLLASTON METHODIST

The subject of the Sunday morning sermon at the Wollaston Methodist Episcopal church was "Thanksgiving" A visitor to the mouth of a Welsh mine at the hour when the miners' finish their work for the day and come up the shaft will hear them singing, "Nearer My God to Thee" and on emerging with uncovered heads they sing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." Just as these Welsh miners give praise each day so the loving kindness of God involves a constant recognition from us for his kindness.

Thanksgiving is a habit and in order to cultivate this habit there are certain rules we should make. First, we should practice the thanksgiving spirit at all times. Second, we should live in the sunshine. Third, we should think about our friends instead of our enemies. Fourth, we should talk about our good rather than our bad luck.

The reasons for expressing our appreciation of God's loving kindness are that it is a duty although a pleasant one. The effect is good on ourselves. The Psalmist says "It is good to give thanks unto the Lord." The records show that during December of last year, thousands of letters addressed to Santa Claus were sent to the dead letter office. During January only one letter to Santa Claus was received. Are we like the children ready to ask but after the need is past forgetful of thanks. Then again the effect upon others is good. Smiles beget smiles. The pessimist is a menace to ociety. We should be thankful for an awakening public conscience and for the sense of an obligation towards society. Men vote with their conscience rather than with a party. Christians should be especially thankful for the blessings of the Christian religion. The truest way to express our thankfulness is by giving ourselves to the service of God.

HALL PLACE M. E.

Rev. P. S. Neldon of the Hall Place M. E. church preached a Thanksgiving sermon at the Sunday morning service on the text taken from Luke 17:17—"And Jesus answering said, 'Were there not ten cleansed? But where are the nine?" The sermon was based on the story of the ten lepers who were healed by Jesus and only one of them returned to give thanks to Him. Our Puritan forefathers had but little for which to be thankful, yet they set aside Thanksgiving day as a day on which to give thanks to God for what they did have. We of today who are supposed to have advanced nearly five hundred years still set aside Thanksgiving day as a day on which to return thanks to God for His bounteous blessings but there are many who never think of thanking God. Will it be true of us on Thanksgiving day that only one in ten return thanks to God for His blessings?

Sunday school followed the morning service. Miss Edna Miller led the Epworth League devotional meeting on the subject "A song of Thanksgiving."

At the evening service Mrs. Coy, secretary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society gave a splendid address on the work of the society among the immigrants, the Southern mountaineers, the Negroes of our Southland, and the Alaskans, showing the great need of help for these people along all lines, as well teaching them about Jesus Christ. Mrs. Coy Recently organized a "Queen Esther circle" in the Hall Place, M. E. church and already the girls are hard at work doing their share in this great work. It is expected that practically all of the "Queen Esther" girls will attend the rally to be held in First Church, Temple street, Boston, Nov. 30th.

A "called" meeting of the Sunday School board will be held in the vestry Tuesday evening.

A Thanksgiving prayer service will be held Thursday evening at 7.30.

The Junior League will be ommitted Friday afternoon of this week.

ATLANTIC METHODIST.

At the Atlantic Methodist church, the pastor took for his text, Heb. 4:9—"There remaineth therefore a rest for the people of God." His theme "Soul rest." The speaker said the possibility of obtaining soul rest should be the all absorbing theme of all reasonable people. The question "What must I do to be saved?" should be paramount to all others. Man's rejection of the Redemption scheme in no way affects the scheme itself. The infidelity of the antideluvian world, the licentiousness of the Babylonians, the rejection of the worlds Redeemer by the Jew in no way affected the Redemption plan. The river of Salvation rolls onward in spite of friend or foe. In this text is seen God's stock of salvation for a sinful world. A bank unbreakable. Its strength is seen in studying the heights to which redemption lifts us or the depths to which sin has plunged us.

The evening service was along evangelistic lines.

SPIRITUALIST MEETING.

First Spiritualist church meeting at 2.45 Sunday afternoon opened with scripture reading and praise service. Dr. Clough's subject, "When we meet again," was a beautiful reminder of the life beyond which we all enter into. The evening service at 7.30 was a reply to Cardinal O'Connells newspaper article in regard to Free Masonry.

Dr. Clough's address was well worth hearing and on his next visit the hall should be filled by an appreciative audience. Mrs. S. V. Odiorne and Dr. Clough have many messages which were well received and recognized.

Circle meetings tomorrow at 3 and 8 P. M., 8 Mechanic street.

MRS. MARY PURPURA.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Purpura widow of the late Joseph Purpura, one of the first of the Italian residents to settle in Quincy and the oldest in point of age, was held this morning from the home of her son, Augustine Purpura at 4 Baxter place where she died Saturday. She was 92 years old

A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. John's church at ten o'clock by Rev. Fr. Florence McCarthy. Music was by the regular choir under the direction of John Mahon, organist. The soloists were Mrs. Mary Burns King and Miss Eva Rice.

The funeral was largely attended and sixteen carriages were in the procession from the church to St. Mary's cemetery where the interment took place. There was a wealth of floral remembrances.

Some of these editors that are trying to explain the meaning of election would make excellent writers of bulletins for the European government press reports.

REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

QUINCY SQUARE

The seventeenth annual masquerade ball of the Loyal ladies of Clan McGregor will be held this week. These annual events have always been successful, but this year promises to surpass all others on account of special prizes that are to be given.

Miss Katherine Hannun of Ashmont is convalescing from typhoid fever.

Mrs. Arthur Innis of Bigelow street has returned from an extended visit with relatives in Nova Scotia.

The Republican candidates will be at St. Mary's hall this evening.

Please forward to the Daily Ledger for publication a list of your Thanksgiving guests.

MRS. MARGARET HISTON.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Histon, wife of ex-councilman Edward P. Histon, whose death at the Quincy City Hospital followed a short illness, was held this morning from her home at 22 Dysart street and those present included sorrowing relatives and friends of childhood.

Rev. Fr. John J. Casey was the celebrant of the solemn high mass of requiem at St. John's church at nine o'clock. Rev. Fr. Walter A. Quinlan was deacon and Rev. Fr. Florence McCarthy was subdeacon.

The choir, under the direction of John Mahon, organist sung the Gregorian chant and the soloists were Mrs. Mary Burns King, Miss Eva Rice and Dennis S. Sweeney. The floral tributes were many and attested to the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

The bearers were Charles F. Costello, Thoams F. Costello, Walter E Reed, William J Histon, Simon J. Kelly and Frank W. Costello. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, Randolph.

QUINCY WOLLASTON

Mrs. W. E. Robinson of Wollaston entertained the laides of the Methodist church at a thimble party at her home, 113 Highland avenue on Thursday. Mrs. G. S. Douglass of Boston spoke of the Deaconess Aid work, especially that part of it which has to do with the training of the girls. One of the greatest reasons why men, go to the saloon and for poverty is that their wives are not home-makers. The women ,for the most part, come from the factories and shops and so have never been taught to sew and cook nor to make an attractive home therefore they do not understandhaw to utilize things to the best advantage, hence there is waste. The saloon is warm, brightly lighted and there are no crying babies or slaternly wife,e so after a hard days work the men get in the habit of going there. The Deaconess Aid organizes classes in sewing and cooking for the children and in that way interest the members in a better way of living. Mrs. Douglass told the story of a little girl who had been taught in one of theses cooking classes to wash her hands, comb her hair and put on a high-necked, long-sleeved apron before beginning to cook. A deaconess was calling in that home and found the little pupil cooking, but not having the necessary long white apron she had put on a long nightgown so well had she been taught the lesson of cleanliness. For such work as this sthe Aid raises $800 or $900 a year.

Mrs. Douglass then told of her trip through Russit. She said that Russia is the poorest country and the richest country in the world. The diamonds, pearls, rubbies, and emeralds which belong to the church are the most beautiful in the world, while the diseased poor that oftenest beg in the doorways of the churches are the most miserable in the world. The church of Russia is the Greek Catholic church of which the Czar is the head. The management of the church is vested in four men who are called Metropolitans. Most of the priests are allowed to marry. There are no statues in the Greek church but their place is taken by pictures. The Hermitage is the treasure house of the church. In it are deposited the robes in which the Metropolitans have been ordained. The robes are made of cloth of gold with the figures often outlined in seed pearls, sometimes there is a clasp of priceless pearls and diamonds at the neck. There are pictures of the Madonna in which the dress is of pure sheet gold and where the garment is open there will be a vest of seed pearls. Besides these things thre are many jewels which have been dedicated to the church by wealthy families.

Mrs. Douglass showed a sample of the Ikons which are hung in railway station an dat street corners. She also showed passports, credit books, Rusian lace, a model of a Russian stove and numerous pictures of her trip.

On account of the bad weather there were not many ladies present, those however who did attend were: Mrs. George Crothers, Mrs. L. C. Merrill, Mrs. Henderson, Mrs. Higgins, Mrs. Dimmock, Mrs. Newell Lane, Mrs. James Bent, Miss Aurellia Merrill, Mrs. O. A. Holbrook and Mrs. A. R. Poquett. Cake and tea were served at the end of the afternoon.

The union Thanksgiving service at Wollaston will be held in the Unitarian church Thursday, Nov. 26 at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The Rev. Samuel R. Maxwell of the Second church, Boston, will deliver the sermon. The collection will be given to the Quincy Assosciated Charites. A mixed quartet will render the musical part of the service.

Remember the concert by the Boston Quintette in the Wollaston school hall this evening at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the benevolent committee of the Wollaston Parents' and Teachers' Association. The proceeds are for the poor in Quincy.

For encouragement of those, whose names have been on the waiting list of the Wollaston Unitarian club it will be good news to learn that the club has enlarged its membership already and on the completion of the parish house will still further enlarge it. Now is the time to send in your application to the minister. All men are invited.

The biennial fair of the Ladies' Aid Alliance last week was financially and socially a great success. The decorations were most beautiful and the entertainment both evenings in charge of Mrs. William E. Rowe, one of the most efficient organizers and managers in this commonwealth, were greatly enjoyed. To all the workers and they are many, who helped to make the poinsettia fair a success, and the many friends who patronized the various booths, the ladies of the church tender their sincere thanks.

QUINCY POINT

The squad of the auto combination extinguished a grass fire on the Edwards estate on School street at 12.20 today. There was no property damage.

QUINCY ATLANTIC

Mr. and Mrs. William Coulson and daughter Madeline of the Boulevard, and Charles Kendall, of Atlantic street, Harvard 1916, were among the Harvard rooters at the Harvard-Yale football game on Saturday.

Miss Jessie French of Hollis avenue spent the week end with Miss Gladys Willey, of Newton Centre, formerly of Atlantic.

The men's table for the fall fair have an especially well arranged program for the box social to be held in the vestry of the church tonight.

The Atlantic friends of Chester I. Campbell, are urging the voters to vote the straight Republican ticket for councilmen so that if Mr. Campbell is elected he will have a council that will work in perfect harmony with him.

POSTPONED INDEFINITELY

building of the club house on account of the European war.

Plans for this building were completed some time ago and bids were asked for. The first bids were too high and after the plans had been modified somewhat new bids were asked and it was understood that they were within the limit, and it was expected that the contract would be let and work on the building commenced this fall.

The building was to be located on the corner of Hancock and Beale streets, adjoining the site of the new Masonic Temple. Although the land had not been purchased an option had been secured and everything was about ready to commence operations.

The building however was to cost considerably more than at first anticipated and at the meeting Saturday evening some were in favor of going ahead immediately and calling in subscriptions for stock that work might be started. Others however believe that the cost was excessive and that it would be unwise to erect now. One of the arguments against beginning work was that the Masonic Temple was an assured fact and that the Temple would contain a large public hall. Then again several of the churches of Wollaston were now building additions to their edifices which would contain halls, which will be used for church gatherings which would naturally mean that revenue which it was anticipated might be received from these sources would not be forthcoming.

For these reasons there was not a very favorable sentiment toward building, and it was finally voted that the matter of erecting a clubhouse be indefinitely postponed on account of the war.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis S. Sweeney of Quincy are receiving the congratulations of their many friends on the birth of a daughter Saturday. Both mother and child are doing well.

QUINCY SOUTH

David M. Warner, who was nominated as one of the Democratic candidates for Councilman at large, has withdrawn.

AN EMPTY VICTORY.

The Neponset Wanderers, with the score of 7 to 0 in their favor, left Merrymount oval in the possession of the Quincy A. A. and a crowd of rooters Saturday afternoon because they were dissatisfied with a decision of the referee who ruled that Hunter would have received a forward pass but for interference.

Quincy had the ball on their 35 yard line and it was apparent that the only way to prevent a tie score was to break up the game and the close decision afforded the opportunity. Whether or not another game will be played is not known, but the rooters give the Wanderers little credit for their victory.

QUINCY WEST

A rally in the interests of good government will be held this evening at St. Mary's hall. Chester I. Campbell and the Republican candidates for the City Council will speak.

The Democratic City Committee meets tonight in Wilson hall with the candidates for all offices in the city on the speaking list.

MANY PRIESTS AT FUNERAL OF FR. COAN

City Officials and Sorrowing Parishioners Throng St. John's Church

Eulogy By Rev. Hugh F. Blunt, Blessing by Cardinal O'Connell

His Eminence, William Cardinal O'Connell, attended by Monsignor Ambrose F. Roche of Watertown, Monsignor Patterson of South Boston, Monsignor Peter F. Ronan of Dorchester, Monsignor John Peterson of St. John's Theological seminary of Brighton, Monsignor John J. Coan, chancellor of the diocese of New York, Fr. Joseph Coppinger of Boston, a hundred priests, and thousands of Catholics attended the funeral of Fr. John J. Coan held in his parish church, St. John's at ten o'clock this morning, where his remains had lain on a catafalque, in state since Monday afternoon.

At nine o'clock the casket bearing the remains of the beloved pastor was closed, and shortly after Cardinal O'Connell entered the church, escorted by 12 members of Bishop Cheverus Assembly of Fourth Degree Knights to the altar where he mounted the throne draped with cardinal red.

Throughout the solemn high mass of requiem he remained on the throne and at the conclusion of the mass, attended by the officers of the mass he pronounced the final absolution over Father Coan.

Rev. Dr. Patrick Coleman of Swampscott, a classmate of the deceased, was celebrant of the mass. Fr. John P. Cuffe of the Sacred Heart parish, Atlantic, was deacon and Fr. John B. Holland of the Immaculate Conception parish of Weymouth was sub-deacon. Fr. Thomas R. McCoy pastor of St. Mary's parish, West

REV. JOHN J. COAN

Quincy was master of ceremonies and the acolytes were Fr. William T. Deasey of Randolph ,Fr. Walter Fegan of Woburn. Fr. Dennis Cremins of North Weymouth was thurifer. The eulogy was delivered by Fr. Hugh Blunt, recently appointed pastor of St. Francis parish, South Braintree.

The musical portion of the mass the Gregorian chant, was sung by a priest's choir under the direction of Fr. Michael Scanlon of the Cathedral. J. Frank Driscoll was organist.

FR. BLUNT'S EULOGY.

The Rev. Fr. Blunt in his eulogy said:

"The Good Shepherd giveth His life for His sheep."

Your Eminence: Right Reverend Clergy, Reverend Fathers Brethren:

"The death of any priest is an irreparable loss. It is a loss to your Eminence upon whom as the head of the diocese devolves the task of raising up worthy ministers to serve the altar of God. It is a loss to you, the priests of the diocese, to have one less in the priestly ranks that can ill afford to be depleted even to the strength of one good priest. It is a loss to you, the people of this parish to be left a flock without that good Shepherd who so long and so well kept his watch over you.

"it is so of every priest. It is doubly so of him for whom this morning you tell the Rosary of your tears and your prayers. For as you were blessed in the coming of this good shepherd so are you afflicted in his passing.

"As we review the quarter of a century of Father Coan's priesthood it is not to find anything novel or startling.

SPECIAL OF CITY COUNCIL

Mayor Authorized to Petition Legislature

The special meeting of the City Council Monday night was not a long one. There were four matters on the call, none of which called for any debate.

The absent members were Councilmen Bailey, Carlson and Richards. The latter however came in just as the meeting closed.

President Whiton read the call.

The first business was the drawing of six traverse jurors. Mayor Whiton, City Clerk Crane and Councilman Griffin drew the following jurors: Percival A. Hall, Walter Deacon, John B. Kalson, Anthony J. Thompson, Robert Findlay and Stephen B. Little.

The second matter on the call was to authorize the Mayor to petition the legislature to appropriate the sum of $75,000 to dredge the channel of the Weymouth Fore River.

Councilman Craig offered the necessary order. Councilman Thompson asked the Dock Commissioner to explain.

Commissioner Crane explained why the state was asked to make the appropriation. It was intimated at Washington he said that appropriations for this kind of work would only be made in localities which showed a disposition to co-operate with the government. Col. Craighil' the United States District officer would report to Washington in a few days and he desired that he might report at the same time that the localities were willing to co-operate. It was desired that the state appropriate $75,000 the city of Quincy $10,000 and the Fore River Corp. $15,000.

The order was then adopted.

Councilman Craig offered an order authorizing the Mayor to petition the legislature for authority for the city to appropriate the sum of $10,000 to dredge the channel of the Weymouth Fore River.

This order was adopted.

The last matter on the call was a communication from the Overseer of the Poor asking for an appropriation of $100 to provide Thanksgiving dinners for the deserving poor of the city, as in other years.

Councilman Little offered an order authorizing the Overseer to expend the sum of $100 in addition to the income from the Johnson fund to provide Thanksgiving dinners for the deserving poor of the city. Order adopted.

Adjourned at 8.05.

HOUGHS NECK FEGAN RALLY

Candidate Discusses Municipal Problems

Declaring that the Mayoralty fight now lies between the Republican and Democratic nominees, Edward J. Fegan, Democratic nominee and Citizens' candidate for Mayor, aroused an overflow meeting of Houghs Neck citizens at Pandora Hotel Monday evening in a most eloquent speech.

He devoted the major portion of his masterly address to a discussion of municipal problems, and challenged his opponents to come forward and discuss issues and maters affecting the welfare of the rank and file of the voters, rather than indulging in platitudes and pleasing plausibilities.

"My Republican opponent," said Mr. Fegan, "has promised nothing of a remedial nature for the distressing conditions under which we are laboring, other than an assurance that there will be co-operation.

"In the history of Quincy we find that the Republican party has been in power the greater part of the time. On all sides we now hear charges of inefficiency coming from none but Republican sources. My Republican opponent claims that Quincy needs a 'Business Man's Administration.'

"A scrutiny of all the Mayors we have had will show that our chief executives, the late Hon. Harrison Keith, a school teacher and Hon. Russell A. Sears, a lawyer; were all business men. Can we say, from the past, that business men's administrations have coped successfully with the situation?

At the close of the rally, the candidate was introduced to the large gathering, and was given assurance of great support.

Other speakers were Peter Cusick, candidate for Council from Ward Six; Henry F. McGee, candidate for council from Ward One, and Leo P. Noonan, who presided.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER.

NEW BLOCK ON HANCOCK STREET

Stores on Street Floor--Offices and Lodge Room Above

The "For Sale" sign has disappeared from the Packard lot on Hancock street, at the corner of Cottage avenue, and there is a well-founded rumor that a four-story brick building is to be erected on the lot in the near future.

It is understood that the lot has been purchased by Jacob Dryfus, the well-known Boston wholesale small wares firm, and that he contemplates erecting, as stated above a four story building on the site.

The street floor is to be devoted to business purposes, and will contain a number of stores, among which will probably be a store for small wares.

The upper floors will be cut up into offices, and it is among the possibilities that the top floor may be fitted up for lodge room purposes.

CHIEF BURRELL SERIOUSLY ILL

Chief Frank E. Burrell of the police department was suddenly stricken with an attack of heart trouble about one o'clock this morning at his home and for several hours was in a critical condition. Today however his condition is not so uncertain, a decided improvement being noted.

Dr. Willis J. Middleton, family physician, was called and through his efforts succeeded in helping Chief Burrell over the crisis. He was later joined by Dr. Hunting.

Chief Burrell had attended to active duty in connection with his department up to midnight and had been home but a short time when stricken. As far as is known he had not complained of feeling unwell throughout the evening.

Capt. Daniel R. McKay will be acting chief until Chief Burrell resumes duty.

There is occasionally a day when the Culebra cut doesn't slide into the Panama canal.

The city boarding houses are now preparing a lavish Thanksgiving dinner of cold storage turkey and prunes.

The stock markets are opening up and again offering to the American people the needed facilities for losing their money.

Credit men in convention at Philadelphia predict an avalanche of prosperity, but they did not help it along by offering to lend some one some money.

It seems inherently appropriate that Mr. Cannon should go gunning for the Democrats.

If this foot and mouth disease gets going, it might be well to put some chunks of beefsteak in the museums as historical specimens.

Phonographs are being purchased for many schools, but vaudeville is not yet provided.

Steel men are quietly slipping over to the countries at war. Of course they are observing neutrality, and taking orders for baby carriages or toys.

Johnny Poe, the famous Princeton football player, has gone to the front with the British forces. It is not supposed that war will seem alarming after football.

Deer hunters in some localities this fall have pursued their game with automobiles, which is much better than pursuing pedestrians.

According to some people, the warring power would quit infringing on Belgium's neutrality if President Wilson would go out and tack up a notice on some public billboard down in Washington.

Having been exhorted to pay their bills and relieve hard times, some people are generously signing checks against their exhausted bank balances.

THE THANKSGIVING FEAST.

The old-time Thanksgiving dinner was a kind of cookery tournament. In many large families, it was the custom for the different households to take turns in entertaining the entire clan. The housewife who had the dinner to give felt that she must equal if not surpass all previous records. Consequently there was an array of fleshly delicacies fit to feed a king. It was far in excess of the wants of even the large company assembled.

Persons of weak digestion viewed the onslaught with apprehension. If they did not partake generously of all the dishes, the hostess might take offence. It might seem a reflection on her culinary triumph.

There was not merely turkey, but often other fowl or meat or game. Several kinds of vegetables were heaped on your plate. After the rotund bird had disappeared in the kitchen, the battle was but half done. A phalanx of pies and puddings was yet to be attacked. After it was all over, there was but little to do but crawl out to some quiet spot, and hope for the best.

Thanksgiving in many country households was a time for display of your winter stock of provisions. The rural homestead might likely have a hundred mince pies stocked away. Jellies and preserves were displayed to the admiring eyes of the guests. It was an exhibition day of all the traditional housewifely arts of the older American home.

The modern idea of going to some hotel for dinner seems comparatively a return to simple life. In money it is apt to be cheaper. It dissipates almost the last remnant of the original home-coming sentiment of Thanksgiving day. But it enables the housekeeper to skip a hard day, with some bad moments.

But even a home Thanksgiving feast need not necessarily be elaborate or very costly. If turkey roosts too high, the chicken is still a noble bird, and properly done, worthy of any gastronomic critic.

MANY PRIESTS

Nor do we expect it. In the lives of some whom God raises up for the special service of the Church there is necessarily much that is heroic, much that is striking. But it was not the will of God that circumstances of such a nature should come into the life of this good priest. His was a priesthood fashioned after the same old model which in every age, in every land, has been the glory of the Catholic Church, a priesthood which the world may call ordinary, but which God calls Kingly. No greater eulogy could be pronounced over any priest than this that he was true to the type to the priestly ideal which is nothing less than a second Christhood.

"And all during the life of Father Coan we find this fidelity to his priestly office. If there were one feature that could be called more prominent than another in his life it was devotion to duty. That character was developed in him in his youth and the passing of the years but made it more virile. When he heard the call of God summoning him to the altar, it was his own strength of will, his own hard work that, after the grace of God brought the fruition of his hopes to be a priest of the Most High.

"The sacrifices that he made in order to purchase this pearl of great price colored the rest of his life. As a young priest he inherited strength of character, spiritualized by the grace of ordination made him noted for his untiring devotion to the duties of his ministry. Naturally reserved and retiring, it was his zeal for souls that won for him in the hearts of those of the faithful who had been blessed by that most wonderful thing, the touch of the young priestly hands still moist with the sacred oils of ordination, a place which even after the lapse of years they still keep for him.

"It was the same in his work as procurator at the Diocesan Seminary It was no easy task. That he did his work well is evidenced by his long tenure of office. And yet in those years at the seminary he accomplished far more than the material procuratorship which was his first duty. He was more than this a procurator of souls, for the young clerics so many of whom he had as his penitents directing them to an efficient priesthood out of the rich store of practical experience in the ministry.

"To you, the people of Quincy, these phases of his priesthood before he came to you as your pastor are little known. But it is enough that you have the whole story of his life from his labors among you. All about you is the evidence of his careful stewardship in the material upbuilding of this parish, in loosing it from the bonds of debt; in the magnificent parish school and convent which his quiet energy and untrumpeted toil made accomplished facts; in the new mission church in the building of which he took such simple delight, as must every priest who has the honor to fashion on earth a tabernacle for the living God. The new church was almost finished, ready to be signed with the Cross of ownership for Christ when he who was raising it was called to place that cross of his love and devotion at the very pinnacle of his own eternal temple.

"All about you, indeed, are evidences of what this one man's devotion to duty accomplished for you. But there are greater things done nobler temples erected than these material ones, and like the building of the temple of Jerusalem, no sound of hammer and axe is heard. It is the upbuilding of the spiritual Kingdom of Christ, manly faith, the maidenly purity, which he by word and example has called forth in your souls, the graces which by his ministering hands came from God to you and to your children.

"It was fitting that such a life of zeal as this should end in the forefront of battle. Father Coan was the ministering priest to the end. It was while coming from the Church at Hough's Neck where he had gone to do His Master's work that the accident occurred which resulted in his death. To be called when one is at the Master's work, going the way of the good Shepherd seeking the straying sheep is a reward, indeed. The good shepherd giveth his life for his sheep.

"So Brethren, we have reason to lament the passing of this good shepherd. To her especially his good old mother to whom he attributed the inspiration of his priesthood, and who now experiences something akin to the sorrow of that other Mother who was made to endure the pain of exile after her own Priest-Son had gone before her, our sympathy, and our prayers that even in the bitterness of her cup she may find that joy of heart that must be the eternal possession of every mother who has once seen her son offering up the Sacrifice of the Mass.

"And while we lament this great loss to us and to the Church, we pray that Christ this day may be the Good Shepherd to him who was so long our good shepherd. May he rest in peace."

Seated outside the altar railing were the visiting priests and directly behind were delegations of the Catholic societies of the parish, who occupied the two centre sections of the church. To the right and left were the parish members and in the vestibule and on the steps were many who were unable to gain admittance.

Fr. Charles P. Lyons, S. J., president of Boston college expected to be present but was suddenly called to New York, Monday.

Among those present were many men prominent in the public life of the city. Mayor Joseph L. Whiton, City Clerk Emery L. Crane and City Messenger Harry W. Tirrell, represented the city. The school board was represented by Chairman John D Mackay, Dr. E. H. Bushnell and Superintendent of Schools Albert L. Barbour, while President John R Hamilton, Secretary John O. Hall and William H. Teasdale represented the Board of Trade.

The ushers at the church, under the direction of Frank L. Avery, sexton were Marcus Mahan and Frank Foy of the Holy Name Society, James M Cantfill and Thomas Welch of Div. 5, A. O. H., John J. Avery of Quincy court, M. C. O. F., Lawrence W. Lyons and Alexander Thompson of Quincy council, Knights of Columbus, John Heaney and Andrew Driscoll, representing the regular corps of church ushers.

After Cardinal O'Connell monsignori and priests left the altar the remains were borne from the church by the bearers, Marcus Mahon of the Holy Name Society, Edward J. Parker of Quincy council, K. C., Edward Powers of Div. 5, A. O. H., Charles T. Shaey of the Houghs Neck Catholic Lyceum, Michael T. Sweeney of Quincy court, M. C. O. F., Peter M. McConarty of Quincy Branch of the Irish Land League, John H. Corcoran, president of the State Board of Trade and Dr. Francis J. Barnes, a classmate of Father Coan.

All in the immense throng uncovered as the body of Father Coan was carried from the church and placed in the hearse under the direction of Edward D. Barrett the funeral director, and then the long procession formed and started on its way to Holy Cross cemetery, Malden, where interment took place.

Preceeding the hearse were delegations of the Catholic Societies of the parish with approximately 500 men in line, and marching around the hearse were the bearers and the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus members When the parish line, Hancock and Beach street, was reached, the delegations divided and the hearse and carriages passed between while all with bared heads, bowed in mute tribute to the man whose constructive ideas had much to do with the extension of the parish.

Prayers for the dead were recited at the cemetery by priests who also intoned the commitment service.

THRONGS VIEW BODY.

The body of Rev. Fr. John J. Coan was taken from the parish house to St John's church at four o'clock Monday afternoon and placed in state on a catafalque outside the altar rail where it remained all night and throughout the mass this morning.

Hundreds witnessed the procession of priests, sisters of St. Joseph, altar boys and Junior Holy Name members escort of the body, and throughout the early evening throngs passed before the catafalque for a last view of their beloved pastor.

Guards of honor from the various Catholic societies of the parish stood on both sides while four large candles shed a flickering light over the face of the deceased father. They remained the entire night and until mass.

The body was carried from the house to the church by Edward Lennon, John J. Avery, Representative Michael T. Sullivan, John W. Walsh, Patrick W. Driscoll.

A dozen priests accompanied the body and reciting the office for the dead. Rev. Fr. Thomas R. McCoy, pastor of St. Mary's church was chantor and those who joined in the responses were Fr. J. P. Cuffe of the Sacred Heart parish, Fr. Hugh Blunt of South Braintree, Fr. William J. Deasey of Randolph, Fr. Henry F. Madden of Houghs Neck, Fr. Francis P. Hannawin of Randolph, Fr. P. J. Lyons, chaplain of Carney hospital, Fr. F. X. Dolan, D. D., of Milton, Fr. J. P. McNiff of Atlantic, Fr. William O'Brien and Fr. Alexander J. Hamilton, both of Brockton.

The body is clothed in purple vestments and in the clasped hands was placed a gold chalice, covered by a gold paten, and the heavy drapery of the altar was a deep black.

The Boston Advertiser says:—Harvard had the punch, and the way Mahan and Hardwick and Coolidge played was simply marvelous. Never has Mahan shown to greater advantage.

Coolidge at one end and Hardwick at the other showed that they are both of All-American calibre.

And Tacks Hardwick! He was here there, and everywhere. He played a most wonderful game all through the contest, both in offensive and defensive work. He stopped the Elis at will when they had the ball and he was one of Harvard's most consistent ground gainers when the Crimson was advancing the ball.

Music Hall Block

CAMPBELL IN WARD FOUR

Not Unfriendly to Union Musicians or Carpenters

Chester I. Campbell, the Republican candidate for Mayor, Monday evening in St. Mary's hall, West Quincy, charged that the Wall campaign talkers used a forged letter in which his attitude towards union musicians was attacked. Mr. Campbell offered to give any local charity, named by Mr. Wall or his lieutenants, $100 if they could produce the original letter in question with the signature of any official of the Boston Musicians Union signed to it. A H. Handley, who for twenty years has been a member of the Boston Union Musicians Union, also offered $100 to charity for the letter in question.

It has been charged in speeches by one of the Wall supporters that Chester I. Campbell has employed non-union labor on houses he is alleged to have built in Quincy or Milton. Mr. Campbell first of all denied that he ever built any houses in Quincy or Milton and then he produced a letter written in the large, bold hand writing of the Business Agent Lord of the Allied Trades Council of Quincy, in which it set forth that that body never had done any business with Chster I. Campbell and therefore could not have expressed any views as to his position on union labor in Quincy.

William H. Teasdale, chairman of the Republican Ward committee in West Quincy, was the presiding officer. George A. Bolster, Frank F. Prescott and Robert B. Craig candidates at large for the City Council, Alexander Cowe and A. H. Handley were the other speakers.

In introducing Mr. Handley, Chairman Teasdale stated that he had come as a member of the Boston Musicians union to refute the statement attributed to an official of that union.

Mr. Handley said in part: A statement purporting to have come from the Boston Musicians union has been read and given much publicity by the opponents of Mr. Campbell. Now, as a member of the Boston Musicians Union for over twenty years, I stand here and offer $100 in cash to any charity you may name in Quincy to anyone who will hand me a statement signed by any officer of the Boston Musician's Union charging Mr. Campbell with being unfriendly towards union music and musicians.

The statement, as read, states Mr. Campbell will not engage union musicians. This is not true for I personally furnished over fifty musicians for the Rockingham fair last September and he paid more than the regular union scale for this music. This music was given to Boston musicians at a price netting over 20 per cent more than Mr. Campbell could have securer union musicians for from Lowell, Lawrence or Haverhill, and the cost of transportation would have been much less. But Mr. Campbell wanted Boston musicians which he rightfully considered the best.

Since Rockingham fair, to the best of my knowledge and belief and I think that I know, Mr. Campbell has not had any exhibitions either in Mechanics building or any other building, so the statement that Mr. Campbell has refused to engage union music since Rockingham Fair is also untrue.

The statement has also been made that Mr. Campbell, when he desired music for nothing, asked the union to furnish him with it. This is also incorrect. The conductor of one of our prominent bands went to Mr. Campbell and offered, of his own free will, if he could secure the permission of the union, to furnish music for the outing of the crippled children. The union did decide to allow this conductor to do it, and no strings were attached to the work. Mr. Campbell did give credit for the music to the man who secured it for him, credit which brought him later business to which I can personally testify. I am not telling you this story second hand. It is first hand, as the conductor I refer to explained the situation to me personally.

Mr. Campbell was greeted with considerable enthusiasm, when Chairman Teasdale announced that he had some statements to deny regarding the anonymous letters that were being circulated by the Wall forces. Mr. Campbell began by stating that he had originally intended not to reply to any charges made by his opponents but he felt he should nail the falsehoods that were so frequently made from the Wall platform.

Night after night from the same platform upon which Mr. Wall is speaking, his lieutenants are flashing a letter attacking my attitude towards the Boston Musicians union. They claim that his letter has been signed by an official of this union. If they have a signature purporting to be that of any official of the union in question, I publicly charge them with forgery of it, and if they will produce it to me I will give any Quincy charity $100, provided that the official of the union comes forth and admits it is his signature. I have positive evidence that no official ever signed such a statement or any document regarding my attitude, fair or unfair, towards union musicians.

Mr. Wall also charges that if I am elected that no section other than Wollaston will get my attention. That is ridiculous. If you want to honw how inconsistent he is, just go down to Wollaston and read the huge banner on the Brasee Hall building which is inscribed "vote for Edward J. Wall and boom Wollaston." I defy any body to find any such sign of mine in Wollaston.

Alexander Cowe also spoke on labor questions. He reviewed the struggle of the Granite cutters of Quincy for the eight hour day. How that John L. Miller and James Thompson originally opposed the movement, but later became good friends of union labor. Organized labor is not an issue in this campaign. What we want is strong men in City Hall. He asked all to be fair with themselves and the city. Some speakers take the voters for fools and promise everything, but they cannot fulfil their promises.

Ex-Councilman Bolster thought his experience in the City Council would be of value to city. He stood for good government, and would co-operate with the Mayor and others.

Candidate Frank F. Prescott emphasized the point that when the Independent Republicans wanted good government a few years ago they voted for Hon. William T. Shea, not only one year but four years; now the Independent Democrats have an opportunity to say whether they desire good government at City Hall or Tammany Hall methods.

Candidate Craig thought the city was getting 100 cents for a dollar's work by laborers, but that department officials were not giving dollar for dollar. For efficiency vote for Chester I. Campbell.

WALL AT WARD TWO RALLY

Many Fore River Men in the Audience

A largely attended and enthusiastic rally of workingmen interested in the candidacy of James E. Wall for Mayor was held Monday evening in Bett's hall, Ward Two Most of the speakers were indentified with the laboring interests of the city, and the merits of the candidates from a business and labor standpoint were dwelt upon.

The meeting was presided over by Perry Green of Ward Two, who introduced Candidate Wall to the audience. Mr. Wall said he was glad to meet so many of the workingmen from one of the largest shipbuilding concerns in the world. He dwelt upon the fact of the rumors of better and more prosperous times at the Fore river, and said if elected Mayor he would work to his limit to obtain other large manufacturing plants to select Quincy as their home city.

He believed that in all our public work, citizens of Quincy should be preferred and that whenever a citizen and property holder applied for work he should have first call. The man with the small home should, in dull business times, have an opportunity if he so requested, to labor for the city, that he might earn the necessary money to prevent his home being sold for unpaid taxes.

Mr. Wall also dwelt upon the needs of better streets, more permanent sidewalks, equalization of expenditures among the different Wards, and the water front development.,

At the conclusion of Mr. Walls remarks, another Mayoralty candidate who was in attendance advised that if those present could not vote for him they should vote for Mr. Wall.

Just before the meeting adjourned those present who intended voting for Mr. Wall were requested to stand and none were seen to remain seated.

BRYAN PLANS TO RETIRE

Secretary of State May Leave Wilson Cabinet Next March

Washington, Nov. 24.—From a well informed Democratic source it is declared William J. Bryan will retire from the cabinet on or about March 4 next.

Though there is no official confirmation of the report, it came from a source of information, so far as can be determined, where no ill wish to Bryan could be parent to thought.

The suggestion was that Bryan will leave the cabinet "to gird up the loins of Democracy" for the battle of 1916.

With a policy of detachment from internal Mexican affairs becoming more marked, with the field of treaty making and for practical peace work definitey postponed by Europe's conflict, the work of the state department is now concentrated upon the legal tangles raised by ship seizures, export embargoes and detentions of cargoes.

It is well known that Bryan has no liking for such minutiae, and the president is said also to realize that a less gifted but more technically trained mind might at this time fit snugly in the portfolio of foreign affairs.

CHICAGO EXCHANGE OPENS

Trade In Big Market Is Resumed Where It Stopped July 30

Chicago, Nov. 24.—The Chicago stock exchange opened its doors and trading resumed where it stopped July 30, when with other trading centres the exchange closed because of the European war.

The Chicago exchange is the first of the broad official markets in securities throughout the world to resume operations. Business began with the closing figures of July 30 as a basis for transactions.

Since Aug. 14 deals have been transacted through the medium of a trading committee which authorized transfers of stocks at figures higher than the July 30 prices.

PRIZE ECCENTRIC'S BODY IS CREMATED

Binney's Stunts Brought Him Often In Public Eye

New York, Nov. 24.—Having survived thirty-three arrests for automobile joy rides, innumerable aerial sprints and a trip replete with adventure around the world in his yacht Mist, Harold O. Binney, New York's prize eccentric, finally succumbed to the laws of nature through the medium of an overdose of headache powders.

Binney's body was cremated in accordance with his expressed belief that if his mortal remains were incinerated his "immortal remains wouldn't be."

The last twenty-five years of Binney's forty-seven years teemed with the spectacular. He was a sculptor, painter, chemist, civil and electrical engineer, pychicist, lawyer, aviator, yachtsman, cosmopolite and believer in ideas.

MOVE TO CHECK CRIME

Gotham Police to Arrest All Boy Smokers and Suspicious Characters

New York, Nov. 24.—Police Commissioner Woods has ordered a roundup of all juvenile cigaret smokers and suspicious characters who may may be attracted to the city by the lack of work in other places. The new orders were read to all the patrolmen.

In effect they were told that because of the large number of persons out of employment and the influx of unemployed from other cities, there was grave danger of a large increase of crime. For that reason all policemen are urged to keep a strict lookout for suspicious acting persons.

BAN ON SOCIAL SEASON

Washington Society Disappointed at President's Decision

Washington, Nov. 24.—There will be no social program whatever at the White House this winter. Not a single one of the regular receptions will be held by President Wilson.

While it was known that, because of the death of Mrs. Wilson, the program was in doubt, Washington society had hoped that at least some of the formal dinners and two or three of the receptions would be given.

The president, however, has decided that while he is mourning he will not take any part whatever in social functions.

Nitro Explosion Creates Havoc

Titusville, Pa., Nov. 24.—Ralph Tubbs was instantly killed, his team and wagon were blown to bits and nearly every window in this town was broken when nitro-glycerine blew up as Tubbs loaded it on his wagon.

Engineer Scalded to Death

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 24.—Timothy D. Harrington, 68, engineer at Union mill No. 2, was scalded to death while at work in the engine room when the cylinder head on the engine blew out.

Car Kills Young Coaster

Old Town, Me., Nov. 24.—Joseph Skiffington, 5 years old, was killed while coasting here. The lad's sled carried him beneath the wheels of a trolley car.

WALTHAM GAME IN DOUBT.

It is doubtful if a game between Waltham and Quincy High can be arranged in place of the game postponed on Saturday for Waltham closes with Newton on Thanksgiving day. Quincy's season, under these conditions, is practically closed.

Quincy expected to give Waltham its first set back of the year but now its preparations have gone to nought.

Although it was commonly understood that the choice of Capt. Paul Larkin as interscholastic end depended on his showing in this game, sporting writers of metropolitan dailies now practically agree that his fine work entitles him to that consideration.

Unless a sensational end of the calibre of our own Tacks Hardwick appears this week it will be "Capt Paul Larkin of Quincy High school, Interscholastic end."

Albert Akerstrom of this city and Miss Katherine Conaty, an East Weymouth young lady were quietly married here Saturday evening and it is doubtful if the parents of either party are yet aware of it.

The groom is the 22 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Akerstrom of Whitwell street and his bride is the 22 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Conaty. The ceremony was performed by Arthur B. Hultman, J. P. and will be solemnized within a few days by a Catholic priest. The best man was John Bennett and Miss Catherine Gorman of Somerville was bridesmaid.

After a honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Akerstrom will live in Quincy. The groom is employed at the Market of J. Peterson at Quincy Point.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

The three churches of East Milton, the East Congregational, First Baptist and Church of Our Saviour will hold their annual Thanksgiving union service Wednesday evening in the Congregational church. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. J. Hamilton Woodsum, pastor of the First Baptist church.

The Cunningham Gym basket ball team will open its season on the night of Thanksgiving Day when it plays the fast team from the U. S. S. Brooklyn. The second team will also play. Coach "Bill" Eaton has not quite completed the schedule for this season but he says it will be a hard one, and every game will be worth seeing. Some of the men on the team are former players and old High school stars. "Sid" Duggan is captain of the team and the other men are: "Jack" and "Dick" Reid, "Stan" Hern, "Mac" Maguire, "Chet" Carder and "Joe" Duggan.

A club for amateur wireless operators has been recently organized in Milton. The purpose of the club is to give a more practical training to the operators and a better chance to procure licenses. The officers are: president, Ralph Bezanson; vice president Benjamin Coleman; secretary and treasurer, Malcolm Howe. The members of the club are: Ralph Bezanson, Benjamin Coleman, Malcolm Howe, Howard Innis, Howard Crossman, Charles Doe, Albert Martin and Raymond Phipps.

CLUB TO KEEP OPEN HOUSE

In accordance with its usual custom the Granite City club will keep open house Wednesday evening, and the members and their friends will be accorded the usual welcome by the officers of the club. As this is the night before Thanksgiving when many of the business men who usually participate in the weekly whist tournaments will be busy during the first part of the evening, the whist tournament will be omitted.

An orchestra will be present during the evening to enliven the occasion and a buffet lunch will be served in the dining room.

FARMS ILLUSTRATED.

An unique feature of the annual public winter meeting of the State Board of Agriculture at Worcester, on December 1, 2 and 3 will be the moving pictures of farm operations, which have been especially prepared as a part of the State Exhibit at the Panama Pacific Exposition in San Francisco next year. Especially strong speakers have been secured.

DEMURRERS FILED

New Haven Directors Ask That Indictments Be Dismissed

New York, Nov. 24.—William Rockefeller petitioned the federal court to dismiss the indictment charging him and twenty other former New Haven railroad directors with criminal violation of the Sherman law. The clerk who drew the grand jury panel, Rockefeller charges, is a resident of New Jersey, which is not in this federal district.

This and "other reasons" are given by Rockefeller as reasons why the indictment should be dismissed. Other directors and former directors filed demurrers.

MISS SULLIVAN'S DEATH HASTENED

Kate Michaud Said to Have Made Startling Disclosures

Houlton, Me., Nov. 24.—The grand jury that has been investigating the Mildred Sullivan murder is expected to report with at least five indictments in the case, and possibly six.

As the jurors are anxious to spend Thanksgiving at home, it is believed they will finish their work by this evening in order to be able to submit their report tomorrow.

The story of Kate Michaud, the nurse, who, it is said, will be the state's chief witness, as she told it to the authorities, is gradually becoming known.

According to the rumored story of the confession, on the fatal Friday night Dr. Dudley resorted to heavy injections of morphine. They were so certain of Mildred's death, it is said, that Perley Pelletier was sent out to find a suitable spot for the grave three hours before the girl died. It is rumored, even, that she was buried before she was quite dead.

POLICEWOMAN FOR HUB

Backs Up Mayor's Assertion That Conditions Are Deplorable

Boston, Nov. 24.—Mrs. Anna T. Steinauer, the first woman in Boston's history proposed for appointment as a police officer, says Mayor Curley was absolutely correct when he characterized conditions in a local factory as "disgraceful and deplorable."

"I know something about the conditions in that factory, and while it's a bit premature to say much about it, inasmuch as my appointment has not been officially confirmed, I will say that the mayor has sized up conditions just right," she declared.

TELLS OF SUICIDE PACT

Man Who Shot Sweetheart to Death Gets Twelve Years

Providence, Nov. 24.—The story of a suicide pact gained leniency for Camille Placente, who was allowed to plead nolo contendere to a charge of manslaughter. He received a sentece of twelve years.

Placente said he shot and killed Antonetta di Cecco, his sweetheart, after they had agreed to die together because they did not have enough money to elope. He then attempted to commit suicide.

Decrease In Deer Slaughter

Boston, Nov. 24.—At the close of the open season for deer, by the returns received by the fish and game commission, there had been shot and killed in the commonwealth 1006 deer, as against 1564 killed in the hunting season of 1913.

Boy Found Frozen to Death

Berwick, Me., Nov. 24.—The body of Fred Brown, 11, who had been missing since last Friday, was found frozen in a swamp six miles from here. It is supposed he lost his way during a snowstorm and fell exhausted.

JURY DECLARES SIEGEL GUILTY

Banker Given $1000 Fine and Ten Months In Prison

CONVICTED OF MISDEMEANOR

Defense Closes Abruptly In Trial of Man Charged With Grand Larceny In Connection With His Chain of Department Stores and Private Banks In Many Cities

Geneseo, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Henry Siegel, the New York merchant-banker, was adjudged guilty of a misdemeanor in connection with the failure of his chain of department stores and private banks by the verdict of the jury returned shortly before midnight last night. The case had been given to the jury at 7:30.

A fine of $1000 and ten months' imprisonment was the sentence imposed by Justice Clark.

The abrupt closing of the defense came as a surprise when John B. Stanchfield, Siegel's chief counsel, announced that two witnesses from Pittsburg and Kansas City had failed to appear, and that his client would stand on the testimony of the eight character witnesses already heard.

Stanchfield renewed motions previously made for dismissal of the indictments, to strike out all testimony as to joint acts of Siegel and Vogel, and for a ruling that the alleged crime of the defendant was a misdemeanor and not a felony.

Arthur C. Train, the prosecuting attorney, bitterly scored Siegel in his summing up for the people.

"If Siegel had been an honorable man," said Train, turning toward the defendant, "he would have gone into bankruptcy long ago. But he didn't. Instead, with his dirty enterprises in mind, he allowed 'the middle class people,' as Stanchfield called them, to put their money into his bank that he might flood it into his stores. Within eight days of the failure there wasn't a penny of a shop girl too insignificant to be placed in his hands."

In his charge Clark said that considerable latitude had been allowed in the taking of testimony, so that every phase of the case might have light, for it was only in this way that a decision could be reached.

Clark then read the statute covering grand larceny and that defining a misdemeanor, stating that a conviction for misdemeanor could be returned if the jury believed that the greater charge had not been established by the evidence.

Regarding the alleged act of conspiracy so often referred to in the trial, Clark charged that should there be a doubt in their minds that such consipiracy had been entered into between Vogel and Siegel, all testimony in regard to it should be thrown out. But, he added, above all else the jury must remember that no sympathy for Siegel or for the bank depositors should prejudice their minds in reaching a verdict.

SISTERS CARRY GUNS

Persecutions Reach Climax in Demand of Woman Blackmailer

Hackensack, N. J., Nov. 24.—Sheriff Heath and a number of deputies patrolled Broadway and Carroll street in the hope that "a woman in black" might appear and demand $1000 from Misses Florette and Constance Kopp, who complain that for months they have been annoyed by unknown persons firing off guns under the windows of their home and sending abusive and threatening letters through the mails.

The last of these letters demanded that $1000 be paid to a "woman in black" under penalty of having their home burned.

Recently the girls have been given permission to carry revolvers, and guards have been stationed about the house, though at first the authorities were inclined to take little stock in the complaint made by them.

Carpenter Owes Over $200,000

Boston, Nov. 24.—Norman F. Tucker of Worcester, a carpenter, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, listing liabilities at $220,289.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

Gladiola bulbs valued at $12,000 were destroyed and four horses and a number of cows were burned to death in a fire at Wenham, Mass., which destroyed the property of B. H. Kersey.

In the office of the Kosmos Supply company at Boston, of which he was the manager, George A. Hermanice, 50, committed suicide by shooting.

While crossing a pond on thin ice in quest of laurel and evergreen, David Erickson, 22, of Norwell, Mass., was drowned.

The Haverhill Herald company, publishers of the Haverhill Herald, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy at Boston. The liabilities are fixed at $46,293.74.

Escaping gas in a Boston lodging house killed Christos Mangelat of Duluth, Wis., who was on his way to Greece to wed.

Fire that caused a damage of close to $30,000 destroyed thirteen autos and wrecked the Renzi garage at Peabody, Mass.

For Your Comfort

BEECHAM'S PILLS

For your health's sake—to get rid of the headaches, low spirits, and sufferings caused by indigestion or biliousness, you should take promptly the one remedy specially adapted to relieve these troubles. Experience,—the safest of guides—proves that Beecham's Pills deserve their unequaled and world-wide fame.

As well as for comfort's sake, you should seek relief from indigestion and biliousness for your safety's sake. Modern authorities agree that most serious sicknesses begin in disorders of the digestive organs, and Beecham's Pills are universally recognized as the best corrective. Gentle, their action is tonic, cleansing, effective and reliable.

SOLDIERS GIVE UP VERA CRUZ

American Troops and Marines Are Withdrawn

OCCUPIED CITY SEVEN MONTHS

Constitutionalists Advance Into Territory Vacated—Refugee Priests and Nuns Given Places on Transports—Added Evidence of United States' Friendly Policy Toward Republic

Washington, Nov. 24.—American troops which have held Vera Cruz have evacuated the city and sailed home, and the Mexican flag is floating again over the ancient fortress of San Juan and the American troopers are on their way homeward.

Occupation of the Mexican port, in reprisal for Huerta's insult to the flag at Tampico, has cost the United States more than a score of lives, some in battle and some from disease, and, according to estimates, as much as $10,000,000. But Mexico will be asked to pay no indemnity. Administration officials want the fact to stand out as an added evidence of the disinterested friendship of the United States for her southern neighbor.

General Funston had instructions to turn the city over to none of the Mexican factions and thereby avoid what might be construed as a recognition of one of them. His orders simply were to bring his troops away and leave the city to whichever faction takes possession.

All those Mexicans who feared to remain when the Americans left sailed away with Funston. The refugee priests and nuns were given places on the transports and the Americans who remain depend for their safety upon guarantees given to the United States by all the Mexican factions and those American warships which remain in the harbor.

With the departure of the American troops a critical period in the relations between the United States and Mexico comes to an end and, in the view of officials in Washington, the Mexican people are left to work out their own destiny.

Funston established his headquarters on board the transport Cristobal and all the organizations of his command began at daylight the work of moving out their equipment preparatory to final evacuation.

Everything progressed smoothly and in accordance with previous arrangement. Beyond the American outposts there had been mobilized during the night a force of constitutionalists. As the Americans withdrew first from the outlying districts and then from the city itself, the constitutionalists followed them along and occupied the territory vacated.

The city is quiet, but the inhabitants are nervous and apprehensive concerning the final outcome of this transfer of authority.

The American army officials took with them the moneys collected for customs and from other sources of revenue. This ultimately will go to some Mexican government which the United States deems a proper one to receive them.

The American quartermaster's department arranged to take away from Vera Cruz something like 300 Mexicans, who did not care to be in the city when their countrymen again came into possession.

Approximately 6000 infantrymen and marines boarded transports and chartered steamers. Five United States warships now in Mexican waters, however, will remain there indefinitely to protect American citizens, and to meet any emergencies that may arise.

It is believed in Washington that the action of the government in withdrawing its military forces from the Mexican port will remove from that country a possible cause for international friction as well as an important factor that might raise a domestic issue between factions in Mexico.

American occupation of Vera Cruz began last April, when military forces under Admiral Fletcher seized that port by orders of the Washington government as an act of reprisal in retaliation for affronts to the Stars and Stripes at Tampico, where American bluejackets were arrested. General Huerta, who controlled the forces at Tampico, had refused to comply with Admiral Mayo's demand that a salute of twenty-one guns be fired.

General Aguilar personally raised the Mexican flag over the municipal palace at Vera Cruz at 6 o'clock Monday night. A company of infantry was drawn up in front of the building during the ceremony. A large crowd in the plaza gave prolonged cheers as the national colors were unfurled.

Aguilar, in a statement relative to the evacuation, said:

"I am well satisfied that this day has ended so peacefully. The Mexicans are pleased to have shown the whole civilized world that Mexico is a cultured nation, and are well satisfied with the whole affair. I appreciate the efforts of the American people and the government which made it possible for the occupation to end this way."

AMONG MISSING SINCE OCT. 10

John Morris, a carpenter employed a Atlantic has been missing since Oct. 10 and friends and relatives are worried over his continued absence. He was working for Maurice E. Kilpatrick of Newbury avenue, Atlantic, and on leaving promised to return after Columbus Day.

Nothing has been heard from him since then by his wife, who is now living with friends in Auburndale, by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Morris of Gynsboro County, N. S. or by Mr. Kilpatrick. He is described as of medium height, stocky with brown eyes.

There is much complaint that pumpkin pie isn't what it used to be, chiefly because you can't get Mother back for the hired girl's $4 per.

QUINCY SQUANTUM

Mrs. Mathew McGrain entertained the ladies of the Squantum Women's club at her home Friday evening, Nov. 20. The regular meeting was postponed from Wednesday evening to Friday because of a social at the church. Mrs. Hiram Morse presided. Plans were perfected for the fair and supper to be held Dec. 12 at Richard's Memorial hall. Mrs. James Foster was made chairman of the supper committee. All members are on a general committee and are requested to do all they can to help. In January a musicale will be given in some hotel in Boston with Mrs. Ethel Frank Brigham as soloist. After business had been taken care of a social hour followed. Mrs. McGrain served a delightful lunch, and the readings given by Miss Young made a most enjoyable evening.

DR. CLARENCE B. UNDERWOOD.

Funeral services for Dr. Clarence B. Underwood of 37 Cherry avenue were held Monday afternoon from his late residence. John Hall was the director, and Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of Bethany Congregational church the officiating clergyman, read the Scriptures and took them as a basis for his words of sympathy and consolation. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. The burial was in the family lot at Mount Wollaston.

UNUSUAL FINE PROGRAM

Boston Quintet Concert at Wollaston School Hall

The Boston Quintet gave an excellent program Monday evening in Wollaston school hall and fully sustained the reputation that has been given this unusual combination of singers who occupy a unique place in the realm of music for male voices. The concert was under the auspices of the Benevolent committee of the Wollaston Parent-Teachers' association, Miss Clara E. G. Thayer, chairman. Not the least attractive feature was the refreshing touch of informality in presentation of a most interesting and unusual programme—unusual in that it included special arrangements of the favorite classics as the quartet from "Rigoletto" and the trio from "Faust."

Dr. Arthur Gould so well known here possesses a baritone voice of extraordinary range and rich quality. His work as director of music in several churches is known beyond musical circles. His singing of the Serenade from "The Jewels of the Madonna" gave special pleasure.

Walter E. Anderton is probably without a peer in the world. His voice has a range higher than the majority of lyric sopranos a tone of rare purity and exquisite sweetness. His rendering of "My heart at Thy Dear Voice" from Samson et Delilah was pure pleasure. John E. Daniels recognized as one of the foremost concert singers in New England is a lyric tener who possesses much musical feeling and a certainty of method which delighted the audience in Clough-Leighter "Possession" which he sang with much delicacy of feeling.

We do not often hear a bass so deep and smooth as Augustus T. Beateys. He sang "Who treads the path of duty" from the Magic Flute and the quintet parts in a vigorous style taking the low D with a round full tone that was admirable. Robert Nichols has been tenor soloist at the Church of the Advent, Boston for a number of years. He is the accompanist of the quintet, is a musician of tested merit and did masterly work as pianist, playing spirited accompaniments for all the selections. His arrangement of "The Rosary" for the quintet has much spirit the essential character of the melody being unmarred by any variation while the harmonic support of the accompaniment was discreetly emphasized.

A pleasing variation were some Scotch jokes told by Mr. Daniels in his inimitable style Every selection was heartily applauded and the encores which included gems of current popular songs doubled the length of the program.

The ushers were Miss Catherine Brown, Miss Evelyn Farrington, Miss Marion Thomas, Miss Helen Howard and Miss Charlotte Nash.

Miss Clara E. G. Thayer, Mrs. Herbert Y. Follett and Mrs. David H. Goodspeed received at the head of the stairs.

Caught! Now Let the Great Army of the Thankful Advance on the Table of Peace With Grateful Hearts

How typical this picture is for the holiday we now celebrate! On hundreds of thousands of farms all over this broad and peaceful land the turkey has been selected for the Thanksgiving day feast—usually a happy family reunion—just as this old gentleman has selected and is holding up his own prize. As Americans face their ladened tables they will give thanks that this country, among all the big nations of the world, is the one upon which peace most securely rests in this trying and critical time.

HAD UNLAWFUL RADIO STATION

Wollaston Boy Breaks into Nation Wide Prominence

Lyman Sawyard, 17, of 253 Belmont street, broke into nation wide prominence Tuesday when Federal officers arrested him on complaint of Inspector Gawler on a charge of unlawfully operating a wireless apparatus and station without having a federal license.

"But," declared Mr. Gawler, who is the United States radio inspector, "this information about the Wollaston plant working in connection with a belligerent nation is utter rot."

Sayward attended High school but did not complete his course. His station is a high powered one and was installed and equipped by himself. He is alleged to have broken into communications between commercial companies and ships at sea the past month and that he invariably signed messages "M. S. F.," the same letters assigned the British merchant marine by the Berne International Bureau.

Sailing masters getting that call became suspicious that the station was one operated in the interests of Germany and that the operator was securing information regarding the British.

Inspector Gawler was sent out on the quest and before many days located the station. Sayward was taken into custody by Deputy United States Marshal James C. Ruhl. He was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes and was held in $100 bail, personal recognizance, for a hearing on Dec. 1.

Reporters learned Tuesday that Sayward had no intention of creating excitement through the letters "M. S. F.", but that he had simply chosen that combination at random not knowing the importance of it at the time. If a violation of the law exists in the case it is the general belief that no serious outcome will follow the hearing since Federal officers believe the interruptions were made in the spirit of fun.

PELLETIER TO BE CHAIRMAN

Dist. Attorney Pelletier has been selected as chairman of the arbitration board who will take up the wage question of the Employes of the Bay State Street Railway Co. The hearings will start Dec. 17, and will probably be held somewhere in Boston. Henry E. Reynolds will represent the street railway company at the hearings and James H. Vahey the employes.

The employes asked for a substantial increase in wages and in return the company offered an increase of one-half a cent which was refused by the 26 locals.

SOCIETY FOLKS OF FAIRYLAND

At the Marriage of Jack and Jill Last Night

A brilliant fairy wedding made a pretty scene Tuesday evening at the Park and Downs church. All the best society folks of Fairyland were present, as well as a large gathering of people belonging to his terrestrial sphere. It was the second night and the large audience was thrilled and entertained at the appearance of the well known characters of their childhood, Jack and Jill, Mother Goose, Old King Cole and all the rest of them. Dressed in costume of fairy filmy splendor, and an object of surpassing beauty to the eye.

The occasion was the marriage of Jack and Jill and all the little folks took part. The entire performance was given by children. The boys were in full evening dress, and the girls in evening gowns with the exception of those who took character parts, and these were made up to represent the characters portrayed.

It was a delightful performance, and doubtless represented many long hours of patient training. The church looked like a Fairyland with its flower girls and pages. The lines were spoken exceptionally well. The entertainment was under the direction of Mrs. H. M. Fowler and under the auspices of the Womans Guild. The committee assisting included Mrs. Charles E. Decker, Mrs. William Payne Mrs. C. A. Richardson, Mrs. Alonzo Bissett, Mrs. William Wallace, Mrs. Charles L. Gilliatt and Mrs. Charles Houghton.

Sydney Maxwell who was to have taken the minister's part was suddenly taken ill and the part was taken by Malcolm Anthony who did exceedingly well without any rehearsal.

The wedding party included:

RENDERS AID TO RANDOLPH

Quincy Firemen Respond to Call for Assistance

Chief Billings with the Tractor Steamer and Auto Combination No. 1, rendered valuable assistance early this morning at a fire, which for a time threatened to wipe out a large section of Randolph. As it was two dwellings, two large barns and a hennery were destroyed. The call for aid came by telephone about 3.30. As there is no out-of-town call for Randolph, the out-of-town call for Braintree, Box 132, was sounded.

Chief Billings and the Auto combination made the run to the scene in 14 minutes while the tractor steamer reached the fire in 17 minutes. The time made on this run is remarkable and shows the superiority of auto drawn apparatus over horse drawn.

When the Quincy department arrived the local firemen were playing on the outside of the building Chief Billings mustered his men and was the first to enter the burning structure with a line of hose. The steamer furnished the water for the Quincy line and was at work for two hours and ten minutes. Help was also received from Campello and from Brockton but Quincy did the trick.

During the fire two Quincy firemen received injuries, William Leahy was struck in the eye by a live spark and

There are quite a number of people who would be willing to do their Christmas shopping now, provided the merchants would give the credit until after Christmas.

The young folks can hardly wait until Thanksgiving dinner shall give them their chance for their annual grand stomachache.

President Wilson succeeded in wandering around New York streets for some time without being recognized, had been a prominent football player, but he couldn't have done that if he

It is possible to feel the true thanksgiving spirit, even if you don't get indigestion.

The pronunciation of Przemysl is causing much discussion. The only possible chance of getting it right is to pronounce it differently from the way it is written.

The Reserve banks are now open, and they justify their name by showing considerable reserve when any one asks for a loan.

FOR THANKSGIVING DAY.

In a material age, it is hard to realize the presence of immaterial forces around us. One naturally takes the good things of life that come, as the outcome of chance or our own skill and labor. Perhaps the majority of people entertain no conscious sentiment of thankfulness to any one or any thing on Thanksgiving day.

Yet no chance assemblage of atoms could ever make the tiniest flower. Every object in life shows adaptation to surroundings, planning, superior knowledge and power. All must somehow fit in with some higher end.

In the main, people are happy as they gather around their Thanksgiving day tables. Three-quarters of the suffering is of our own causing. The rest is essential to life. But were life all joy-fed, there would be an end to manhood and womanhood.

Thanksgiving day then answers to a real function of the human heart. Some power above has given us these good gifts. Let us then return gratitude with a full heart!

CAMPAIGN ARGUMENTS.

In the interests of truth and fairness it should be said in answer to one of the statements contained in the Wall circular that the kindergarten at Wollaston does not cost the city any money, it being maintained by public-spirited ladies of Ward Five. All the School Committee have to do with it is to let the use of a room in the Wollaston school for the purpose, a thing they would gladly do at Houghs Neck or any other part of the city if requested. Just why Mr. Wall should use that matter in his campaign it is hard to understand. It is also hard to understand why he advocates a full day at school for first year pupils in the grammar schools, for the Mayor has nothing to do with that and he wouldn't have if elected Mayor. The School Committee, with the advice and consent of the superintendent, are allowing only a half day's attendance, and while there is some difference of opinion it seems to be the consensus of intelligent opinion, that it is better for children of six to attend school at first for only a half a day. If Mr. Wall can convince the School Committee that their views are wrong, he doesn't have to wait. The School Mayor to effect a chanbe. The School Board has a meeting Tuesday night and no doubt they would give Mr. Wall a respectful hearing on the question and consider carefully whatever arguments he might make.

Another thing in Mr. Wall's circular letter which deserves disapproval is his attempt to set Wollaston and the rest of the city at variance. If it so happens that the late Mr. Miller made too many appointments from Wollaston, which we neither admit nor deny, what has Chester I. Campbell to do with that? There is no more reason to expect that Mr. Campbell when elected Mayor will appoint all his department heads from Ward Five than there is to believe that Mr. Wall, if elected, would make all his appointments from Houghs Neck. Let the campaign proceed on the lines of fair argument.

DALEY WOKE UP IN STRANGE BED

When William Daley woke up Tuesday morning, he found himself in strange surroundings and for a few minutes, was at loss to know why there should be iron bars at the window of his bed room. He rubbed his eyes and pinched himself to see if he was nearly awake. He found that he was in and that his bed room was a cell in the police station. He thought, and thought hard trying to reason out how he came there. Then he gave it up.

Officer Olson explained why it was. Daley said that he worked for the Whiting Milk Co., and Monday night left his peaceful home in Charlestown for Boston to see the sights, and he saw them through glass. The next thing he knew was when he woke up in the morning.

When he came into court he was confronted by a taxi cab driver who was looking for $7. The taxi man said that he met Daley on Summer street Boston early Monday evening and that he was engaged to bring him to Quincy. When City Square was reached the man did not appear to know where he lived, or wanted to go and the taxi driver hailed Officer Olson, who settled the disputed point by sending Daley to the police station for the night, and the taxi back to Boston. Tuesday morning the taxi man wanted his money, but 60 cents was all that Daley could muster. He however promised that he would pay the bill although he only earned but $12 a week. The court gave him time to pay.

RENDERS AID

badly burned. William Carroll was also burned by a live spark alighting on his neck. First aid treatment was rendered by the firemen whose skill in this line showed the good results of the lectures in first aid treatment which they have been receiving.

The Quincy apparatus arrived back to quarters about 6.45 at which time the recall was sounded.

The residents of Randolph were very enthusiastic over the good work of the Quincy firemen and as they left for home, came forward and shook them by the hand. This morning Chairman James H. Dunphy of the Selectmen called on Mayor Whiton and expressed his gratefulness for the valuable assistance rendered by the Quincy firemen.

Speaking of the quick run to Randolph Chief Billings said this morning that it was on account of the good streets. That there was a state road all of the way and it was in prime condition.

The fire broke out in the big barn attached to the house on the Richard Stevens estate on South Main street and occupied by Richard Branbury and wife.

The wind carried the sparks across to the buildings on the Wales estate and a few minutes after the fire broke out both places were doomed.

Richard Banbury who lives on the Stevens property discovered the fire and succeeded in escorting his wife to safety. He made an unsuccessful effort to rescue a horse and three pigs.

The roofs of homes in the immediate vicinity took fire from the sparks but because of the augmented fire force no serious damage was done. The burning property was situated on the highest point in Randolph and the reflection in the sky was visible for miles.

SALVATION ARMY APPEAL.

Ensign Linus Fritz, who is in charge of the Salvation Army work at 150 Granite street, has already commenced work for Christmas. He hopes the generous public will assist with contributions of cash, supplies, clothing, etc. The cash may be deposited in the street boxes or in the little red stockings in different stores. The supplies may be sent to headquarters at 150 Granite street. The Army is co-operating with the Associated Charities and other local organizations.

FIRE AT WEYMOUTH.

A grass fire was responsible for the fire which destroyed a building and contents valued at $15,000 at the Bradley Fertilizer Works at North Weymouth Tuesday afternoon. It required six hours work by firemen before the flames were extinguished.

ON FULL TIME.

Beginning Monday there will be full time work for all employees of the General Electric works at Lynn.

Mrs. Jewell B. Knight of Belchertown is visiting Mrs. A. W. Barber of Belmont street over the holidays.

CAMPBELL IN WARD TWO

Mayor Whiton and Ex-Mayor Stone Speak

Well attended rallies by the Campbell supporters were held in Ward Two Tuesday evening at Yule hall and the Town River Yacht Club house. Only a few of the candidates were at the former place, but at the latter there was a long array of speakers, including Candidate Campbell, for Mayor; Candidates at large for the Council, Charles L. Gilliatt, Frank F. Prescott and Robert B. Craig; candidates from Ward Two, William E. Lee and Charles B. Yule; Mayor Whiton, Senator Langelier, Councilman Bailey, A. H. Handley of the Boston Musicians Union; John W. Hendry and Thomas J. McGrath. Ex-Mayor Stone presided.

The Mayoralty candidate repeated that he stood for a strictly business administration, the proper organization of all city departments, and co-operation between all departments, and also with the City Council and the School Committee. He again charged as false the circular relative to union music, and the circular relative to carpenters. Mayor Whiton has performed an heroic duty which will help the new administration. If elected I am going to be Mayor of the whole city, notwithstanding rumors that I will work only for Ward Five. And I shall give all the time necessary.

Mayor Whiton in his address said when he assumed the office he found the city $236,000 behind in tax collections. The situation was appalling. To date $786,216 has been collected. Again the water-receipts were at low ebb but today they are at high water mark. The collection of poll taxes which had been dragging is now being pushed.

When a candidate promises you he is going to accomplish this and that, he don't know what he is talking about. Ie reguires at least 16 Councilmen to make appropriations. Mayor Whiton reviewed several departments. He said changes in officials were not advisable at this time, but I am collecting data which will be at hand for Mr. Campbell immediately after his election.

Relative to Winthrop street, which had been held up by a Houghs Neck citizen, he said he would give that man an opportunity in the next 48 hours to decide whether he was favorable to the improvement as he claims. He will be asked to sign a release.

Someone with a firm hand must take hold of the affairs of Quincy, and no candidate outside of Mr. Campbell will do it.

Senator Langelier advocated the election of Chester I. Campbell. His backers had no strings on him, and will not ask for appointment. After Mr. Campbell has served two, three or four years, you will be glad you voted for him this year.

Councilman Bailey was introduced as one of the best Councilmen Quincy has produced. He spoke of some of the good things accomplished, and complimented ex-Mayor Stone on wiping out the floating debt. Mayor Whiton and the present Council have continued the good work, and we need a man like Mr. Campbell to accomplish more.

A. H. Handley refuted the charges that Mr. Campbell was unfair to union musicians. The reverse was true, and he cited many instances.

The other speakers were all for good government and election of a good Council.

ORGANIZER ENTERTAINED

Quincy Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers entertained the members of the Hingham local in Protection hall Monday evening when the special guest was J. McLavin, New England organizer.

He particularly pointed out the benefits of organization. Another speaker was Fred Lord, business agent of the local.

An entertainment program, was furnished by the members, including songs and dances by James McArdle and Hugh Higgins. The music for the evening was by Johnsens augmented orchestra. A buffet luncheon was served.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

A large appreciative audience attended the first in the series of three of the Dickens recitals to be given by Frank Speaight under the auspices of the Public School Teachers' Association, held Monday evening in Milton Town Hall. The first recital was on: "Pickwick Papers," and Mr. Speaight certainly gave a fine rendering of this humorous book. The second recital will take place on Dec. 9, on: "David Copperfield" and the last one on Dec. 17 an "Christmas Carol."

Mrs. William B. Batchelder of Huntington road is now able to be about again after an illness of four weeks.

Coach "Bill" Eaton of Cunningham Gym is planning to organize a fast hockey team this winter. The gym has not been represented in this sport for years although there is a great interest in it in this town.

FINE CONCERT IS PROMISED

Dr. Minor C. Baldwin, a distinguished concert organist will give a concert at the Swedish Lutheran church on Thanksgiving evening. He is a man of international reputation and has been the solo organist at the world's fair and expositions since 1892.

During his tour of the United States his success has been as far reaching as his success in Europe. He has officially dedicated most of the new organs in churches all over the world.

Dr. Baldwin is masterful in his technique and possesses a magnetic touch. His program will include excerpts from the compositions of the famous masters.

THANKSGIVING FOOTBALL GAME

Boston University Law School's football team, composed of former college stars, plays Quincy A. A. at Merrymount oval on Thanksgiving Day Included in their lineup will be Freddy Burns, the B. A. A. sprinter and Burke, the famous left half back of Boston a few years ago.

The visitors' lineup will be: Green, Burgin, Bates and Bloomfield, ends; Ross and Flanders, tackles; Sullivan and De Rocco, guards; Scinella, centre! Epstein and Prout, quarter backs; Burke, Cowan, Engle and Hannagan in the backfield.

Qiuncy will play Hunter and Danahy ends; Bennet and Gerstel, tackles, Hannon and Harrington, guards, Moberg, centre; McDonald, Boyle, Cummings, Carlson in the back field, with Lovell and Harkins as subs.

The game should draw a good crowd inasmuch as four of the law students are local boys.

MARIA F. WILLIAMS.

Maria F. Williams, wife of William J. Williams, a very well known and respected resident of this city, passed away at her home on Granite street this morning after a short illness. Death was probably due to the effects of a shock suffered early on the morning of Nov. 4.

Although Mrs. Williams apparently passed over the crisis a few days after and showed slight response to treatment, she never fully recovered.

Mrs. Williams has made her home here for a number of years and was the mother of Fred D. Williams, a popular pharmacist of City Square and Miss Grace Williams. She was in her 62nd year.

LA BOHEME SUNG AT WOLLASTON

Havrah W. L. Hubbard of the Boston Opera house gave an interpretation of La Boheme at Wollaston Monday afternoon in the vestry of the Methodist church. It was the first in a series of opera talks to be given by Mr. Hubbard under the auspices of the Wollaston Woman's Club. The chapel was crowded and the ladies were delightfully entertained. Floyd Baxter played the music of the opera upon the piano while Mr. Hubbard told the story.

Mr. Hubbard made a few introductory remarks about the absence of grand opera in Boston this winter. He told of the effect of the war upon the world and said that the suffering and sorrow caused by the war is being felt in all countries and as a result there is a spiritual awakening to be felt everywhere.

He told of the story of La Boheme with wonderful vividness. He drew word pictures of the opera with its setting in the Latin Quarter of Paris amidst Bohemian life, its artists, poets, musicians and philosophers. He portrayed the characters and scenes in the opera with exactness until visions of a Christmas festival, with gay, happy, jostling crowds thronging the streets and filling the cafes, passed before his audience. He carried them on through the scenes where it was "all for love and the world well lost," until the last sad parting, which was relieved by the generosity of those who showed their comrade's grief.

Listening to Mr. Hubbard's lecture upon this opera gives one a splendid idea of the opera as a whole without the breaks which come from failing to catch all of the sense of the opera when sung in a foreign tongue. Mr. Baxter accompanied Mr. Hubbard with sympathy and added to the afternoon's pleasure by his part in the entertainment.

W. R. C. INSPECTION.

The ritualistic work of Corps 103 was inspected Tuesday evening by Mrs. Annie R. Leighton. The work, with Mrs. Idella I. Savage, presiding officer, was well done. Mrs. Leighton congratulated corps on the same. After meeting refreshments were served. Mrs. Agnes G. Fletcher, chairman of executive committee was in charge. A turkey dinner was awarded T. Hanneberg of 21 Hillside avenue, East Braintree. Visitors were present from Worcester, Somerville, Middleboro and Braintree. Next regular meeting will be held Tuesday afternoon Dec. 8. Whist in the evening.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CLUB.

Every Wednesday evening with the exception of the first Wednesday in the month which is reserved entirely for a social and business meeting, the Quincy Young Women's Club holds the following classes in the High School. Dramatic class under the direction of Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, a well known dramatic coach is held in room 2. Dressmaking is taught by Mrs. Woods in room 1. A basket ball team is coached from 7.30—8, following which a gymnasium class is held under the direction of Miss Mary Ferguson of Atlantic.

From 9 to 10 a social hour is enjoyed under the direction of Miss Clara Goodwin, chairman of the entertainment committee for the month. Any girl over 16 years of age, not a member of Quincy High or Woodward Institute, is cordially invited to join. Any girl wishing information as to the club requirements may write to Edith Mullin, 190 Everett street, Wollaston, who will be glad to forward any such information desired.

An Executive Board Meeting of the Quincy Young Women's Club was held November 21st at the home of Miss Minnie Packard. Announcement was made that December 2 would be reserved for the social evening. Mrs. Mabel Adams of Boston has consented to speak. Her topic will be "Education of the Deaf." The remainder of the evening will be in charge of Miss Buckley of Atlantic.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

There was little business to occupy the attention of club members Tuesday afternoon at the meeting of the Quincy Women's Club at the clubhouse. The president Mrs. Chandler W. Smith presided and made several announcements among them an art conference at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts on Dec. 3 beginning at 10.30 to which club members would be admitted on the presentation of their card with name of club and address. The Education and music committees of the State Federation are to hold a conference at Saugus Dec. 1 which club members were invited to attend. Red Cross Christmas seals would be ready this week to go on sale for the benefit of tuberculosis work in Quincy and the sale was in charge of Mrs. Herbert W. Pinkham at Wollaston and Mrs. N. S. Hunting in Quincy. An invitation was received from the Council of Jewish Women to attend an entertainment at Jordan hall, Boston, Dec. 20 for the benefit of settlement work in Boston.

The following timely appeal was read: Thanksgiving will soon be here. Already the housekeeper knows that she will need certain extra groceries for this holiday. The Consumers' League of Massachusetts urges her to help the grocer to fill his orders promptly and satisfactorily, and yet without over-work on the part of himself and his employees, by placing her orders several days in advance, delivery to be made at her convenience. Such foresight before Thanksgiving, Christmas and other holidays, as well as before each Saturday, would make it unnecessary for delivery boys to work until late in the evening without supper—possibly without lunch—or for girls to work weary hours of overtime packing the candy which is to carry pleasure to others.

A letter was read from Miss Elizabeth Johnson one of the founders of the Quincy Women's Club, who is in London but expects to return to this country the first of February. We quote part of the letter thinking that the views on the war of a lover and believer in peace would be interesting at this time.

"I suppose you hear much of the war. All countries feel the effects indirectly if not directly in so many ways. How good it is to hear of the fine work of U. S. A. Red Cross, of private and public contributions, and now this plan of the Rockefeller foundation. The struggle is a terrific one, their numbers and military efficiency gained through long preparations have given the Germans the advantage in these first months, The Allies seem now however, to be more than holding their own, and there is reason to hope for continued good news from them. But the loss of life on both sides is heart-rending—one prays for peace—yet peace lovers (of whom I am one) have this to keep in mind: —that peace must not, ought not to be declared until the Germans are forever incapacitated for further such wars of aggression. There can be no real or lasting peace, no safety for smaller and less militant nations until some sort of international control is established for the restraint of nations which blindly endorse and follow unscrupulous leaders whose declared creed is to ignore civilized conventions and international obligations in methods of warfare, when for their convenience.

Upon observance among nations of codes of international law and civilized conventions, the safety of individuals and of nations depends, and war against the nation which now willfully disregards these is more righteous than peace—because making for a peace lasting, rather than a temporary cessation of hostilities.

Thoughtful people here both American and English, are most anxious that neutral America, especially those of her people committed to this very important cause of international peace work, shall see and emphasize this aspect of the present situations.

Mrs. T. Ray Blanchard for the art committee asked members to bring their handiwork to the clubhouse to be sold at the meetings before Christmas.

Mrs. Arthur S. Townsend for the philanthropy committee asked members to buy post cards of the clubhouse as funds were needed to help an Italian girl in her attendance at the Art school.

Mrs. N. S. Hunting of the visiting nurse committee spoke of a holiday dance to be given Dec. 29 by the Katharyn Crane Memorial Club to raise funds for its charitable work. She also asked members to attend and urge their family physician to attend the next meeting of the club when Miss Mary Beard director of the Instructive District Nursing Association of Boston would be the speaker.

The president read William Pierson Merrill's "American Thanksgiving Hymn" after which an enjoyable musical program was given by Everett Clark of Quincy, tenor and Mrs. John F. Hunt, accompanist. Mr. Clark sang "Irish Love Song" by Lang and "Who Knows" by Ball both giving much pleasure in their interpretation and receiving appreciative applause.

Mrs. Frank J. Moore of the home economics committee had the afternoon's program in charge and introduced as the first speaker Mrs. Schuyler Herron of Winchester, chairman of Home Economics committee of the State Federation and a member of the General Federation Home Economics committee, who spoke informally of the work. She told of various books on the subject, especially those that could be obtained free of charge by writing to the Agricultural department at Washington. She urged greater interest in home economics among club members, the forming of clubs and regular study, believing a woman's first duty was to be a home-maker.

The speaker of the afternoon was Miss Frances Stern. Her subject "The Woman Who Spends" was treated in a broad way rather than in dollars and cents. She paid tribute to Ellen Richards, late of the faculty of the Institute of Technology, whose work and teachings were still a living presence to untold numbers.

Miss Stern believed there was no more sacred duty than knowing how to bring to perfection a human being, to know how to feed, clothe and rear a child, to get the best results at the least expense of time, energy and money. Women should know how to buy and how to prepare food not in theory for some one else but in their own home. Should bring up their children to know values and how to spend.

Particularly should know where their supplies come from, how handled, and the sanitary conditions. If they put their laundry out, know under what conditions it is done, if the employees are neat and receive proper compensation and right hours of labor. In buying yet your money's worth, buy in bulk rather than by package.

Miss Stern believed it to be a woman's duty to be beautiful as to personality and dress and urged reasonableness and moderation. Women have to dress in the prevailing mode or be odd, which was not advisable. She advised selecting a becoming color and keeping to it regardless of fashion's dictates as to orange and vivid colors and to have good outlines and artistic conception in dressing while keeping to the prevailing styles.

She urged more reading of home economic literature; a study of the subject. She had no use for the woman's page in newspapers or for most of the women's magazines, their tendency was lowering rather than elevating. What man would take an engineering magazine if a greater part of it was filled with sentimental fiction?

The same was true of advertising. Most of the advertising was written for women and was sensational and should be read understandingly by the buyer.

Miss Stern's pleasing personality and earnest purpose make her talk a pleasure to her hearers as well as giving food for future thought and many expressed their enjoyment and appreciation to her after the lecture.

THE YELLOW BIRD.

Boston school children invaded the Wilbur Theatre to its capacity Saturday noon, when a special performance of "The Yellow Bird," a tale of old Salem, by Pauline Bradford Mackie, was given for them by the Women's Educational and Industrial Union.

When the curtain arose on the prologue, everything was forgotten but the play. It showed a mother in the attic unpacking an old, old trunk. Her little daughter asked about the relics. A faded yellow dress comes to light, and the child wanted to know its history. The three acts which followed told it.

Deliverance Wentworth, a young Puritan girl of Salem, is wearing her mother's wedding dress of yellow. In those days any incident which smacked of the mysterious was laid to witchcraft. Thus the event of a yellow bird singing at the window of Deliverance, while she is unexplainably absent, sets gossiping tongues to wagging.

Deliverance is given the name "Yellow Bird." Furthermore, she refuses to explain how she came by a blue sword-knot. She is seen talking to the "devil." A neighbor's child falls ill and its mother accuses the girl of witchcraft.

The law ordains the arrest and trial of the young witch in the meeting house at Salem. Witnesses against her are heard. She is condemned and led away to prison.

While awaiting her death she sends her chum Abigail to Boston to find the man who gave her the sword knot and pledged to secrecy about his movements in town and his identity. She begs her to find him and then go to the Governor to get a pardon.

Abigail walks to Boston and finds both the unknown man and the Governor. The individual who clinched the case against Deliverance proves to be an officer of His Majesty's who was searching for a criminal, one of Deliverance's principal accusers, too.

The party returns to Salem just in time to save Deliverance, who is already standing on the trap of the gallows when her rescuers arrive.

The play will be repeated Friday afternoon and Saturday morning for the public.

"MOVIES" FOR CHILDREN.

The Women's Educational and Industrial Union, of Boston, which, through its Children's Players, has entertained many thousand children with annual plays, is planning another kind of diversion for the winter and will supervise the presentation Saturday forenoons of moving-picture shows, particularly for youngsters between seven and fifteen years of age.

A committee of school teachers has made the suggestion: and Miss Bertha E. Mahoney, assistant secretary of the union, and Miss Florence Lincoln, author of "The End of the Bridge," ask that the films shown to the children be not "too educational." Miss Lincoln's idea is to have a programme of five or six reels, one educational but interesting, another a "story," an animal picture, a fairy tale, etc., with "specialties" between the acts.

Tremont Temple is the probable place for the children's picture shows, the time from 10.30 to noon or a little later, and the date of the first show, Dec. 12. College undergraduates will act as ushers and chaperons, and there will be approximately one college girl to every eight or ten children; thus as far as care is concerned, it will be as thorough as in a day-nursery.

It is expected that at intervals prizes will be offered for the best compositions on "Which Film I Liked Best, and Why." A fund to pay for the shows has been promised.

The Children's Players will give two performances this season: "The Yellow Bird" and "The Moving House," by Pauline Bradford Mackie of New York. The first will be given late in November and the second in the spring. "The Moving House" was considered worthy of a prize in a contest with fifty-four entrants. Each play will be performed four times. "The Yellow Bird" is a story of Salem witchcraft days.

CURE FLAT FOOT BY EXERCISE

The old method of using plates for flat foot or fallen arch is fastly being discarded.

Plates and stiff shoes are made because of the belief that the foot has a fixed arch whereas the truth is the foot has the power of arching.

Doctors now recommend a flexible shank shoe which by allowing freedom to all joints has cured many severe cases of flat foot.

Such a shoe is called the

"GROUND GRIPPER"

This shoe allows the arch to flex itself, throw the weight of the body on the fleshy or outside part of the foot and strengthen the muscles by exercise.

CHRISTMAS SEALS.

Red Cross Christmas seals are to be sold in Quincy this season as usual. Although under different auspices the proceeds will go for tuberculosis work in the city. The campaign has been given up but much is being done to help those suffering from this disease. The philanthropy and visiting nurse committees of the Quincy Women's Club will have charge of the sale of Christmas seals and the funds will be disbursed through the Associated Charities of Quincy.

TURKEY ROLLOFFS.

Turkey rolloffs will be held in all bowling alleys in the city tonight and the rolloff for the weekly prizes of the Wardwell alleys is scheduled for Friday night. Commencing next week this event will be held Wednesday evenings.

JOHN E. GILMA N AT WEST QUINCY

The principal speaker at the grand No-License rally to be held under the auspices of the St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. Society Friday evening at St. Mary's hall, West Quincy, will be John E. Gilman, Past National Commander of the Grand Army. Mr. Gilman is well known throughout the country, having been prominent in G. A. R. affairs since the close of the Civil war. He has a wonderful war record, having had his right arm shot off by a shell at the Battle of Gettysburg. The St. Mary's Society were very fortunate in securing such a notable man to make the principal address.

Commander Gilman is a brilliant speaker and has been a strong advocate for temperance all his life. All who can should take advantage of this opportunity of hearing Mr. Gilman who makes no little sacrifice to come here out of friendship to one of the members of the St. Mary's Society. Besides being a speaker Commander Gilman has quite a reputation as a singer and during the evening he will without doubt be called upon in that capacity. He has also written a poem entitled "My Comrade and I" which is very touching and he may favor the audience with a recitation of it.

Addresses will also be made by Hon. John J. Attridge, Charles J. McGilvray Dr. John H. Ash and others. Local talent will furnish an enjoyable musical programme.

Bring your old shoes to us, we will make them young again at a very reasonable price.

MARTIN HIGH ON SINGLES

Results in MacGregor Bowling League Game

The losing teams in the Clan MacGregor league matches at the Coliseum alleys Tuesday night secured one pin, no clean sweeps or splits being in order. Russell and Dell both tripled. Martin secured high single, 119, three more than Russell's highest string, Dell was third with 112 and Nicoll next with 109.

The McKenzies defeat of the McLeans came in an interesting match, for they lost the first one, took the second by margin enough to recover lead and plastered the pins on it the last.

WOMEN BOWLERS.

Mrs. Florence Moran's record single of 118 was threatened for a while at the Coliseum alleys Tuesday evening by Mrs. G. Blake who got 112. Mrs. Blake had 97 in her eighth box and with a ten percent break in luck would have had a spare in the ninth. However she got nine which brought her to 106. In the last box her ball cut through the pins instead of smashing their interference. Mrs. Blake is a strong bowler and with Mrs. Florance Moran, Mrs. Gretchen Elcock, Miss Helen Gagan and Miss Ellen Olsen, are members of the Quincy Girls team.

THE EDUCATIONAL FIELD

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY
HIGH SCHOOL PUBLIC SCHOOLS
WOODWARD INSTITUTE PAROCHIAL SCHOOL

One of the most important steps toward relieving the crowded condition of the High school, as well as to provide so that it will not be necessary to erect an additional High school building for several years, was outlined in a report made to the School Committee on Tuesday evening by Supt. Barbour.

The step proposed while being new to Quincy, has been tried in a number of cities throughout the United States and has proved to be a wise move. In brief, it proposes that in any new buildings erected to provide accommodations so that the first year pupils at the High school, known as the ninth grade shall have a year's instruction at the grammar schools so that when they enter the High school, they will be the same as the present second year pupils. In other words it will relieve the High school of what is known as its freshman class. In his report Supt. Barbour says:

"The High school has reached its utmost limit so far as accommodating more pupils is concerned. There is every prospect, judging from recent experience, that the number of pupils seeking entrance to the High school will increase each year from 25 to 75 pupils over the preceding year. There is every prospect moreover, that in another two years the city, in order to take off its elementary school growth, will find it necessary to build two new buildings, one at the Bigelow Park and the other at Norfolk Downs, each being fairly central to several other buildings.

"I would recommend that such buildings be of a size sufficiently large so that in each school there may be organized a junior High school, so called, which will carry pupils through the ninth grade of school life, leaving the other three years work to be done in the present central High school.

"The material effect of this procedure will be to relieve the High school situation, so that no additional High school building will be needed for a number of years.

"The educational effect will be as follows: To provide a greater degree of differential studies. To provide for certain vocational and pre-vocational subjects. To provide earlier, subjects especially needed by those who are unlikely to complete a full High school course. To retain pupils longer in school. To provide better, both for the dull and for the bright pupils.

"I would further advise in each building there be provided one or two open air-rooms for pupils who will profit by being instructed under such treatment. Also that in each building there be one or two small rooms in which may be organized classes for sub-normal or backward children."

Supt. Barbour further recommended that only such building plans be approved hereafter as might be readily enlarged without injury to the appearance of the building.

No definite action was taken on the report, as the committee requested that as much publicity as possible might be given the matter.

Mr. McPherson and Dr. Curtis were the only absent members.

HEARINGS.

Hearings were given three different parents, who urged the transfer of their children from the Montclair school, because they lived in other districts, namely, the Massachusetts Fields, but had to be sent to the Montclair school on account of the crowded condition of this school. The request could not be granted for the above reason.

TEACHERS RESIGN.

The resignations of Bertha Kirmayer of the High school and Eula Faxon of the Coddington school were accepted.

Elizabeth G. Anderson was transferred from the Washington to the High school, and Helen M. Meyer was elected to the Coddington school.

ROCK ISLAND FUND.

It was voted to expend the income of the Rock Island fund in the purchase of reference books for the High school library.

SCHOOL CENSUS.

Census Taker Johnson made his report of the recent census. This showed the number of children of school age to be as follows.

Between 5 and 16 years,	10,287
Between 7 and 14 years,	6,716
Between 5 and 15 years,	9,323
Illiterates	285

The change in the different wards from last year were:

Ward One, gains 28.
Ward Two, gains 100.
Ward Three, gains 106.
Ward Four, loses 9.
Ward Five gains 107.
Ward Six gains 34.

The total number of children of school age by wards is as follows:

Ward One, Quincy Square,	1688
Ward Two, Quincy Point	1503
Ward Three, Quincy South,	2587
Ward Four, Quincy West,	1822
Ward Five, Quincy Wollaston	1288
Ward Six, Quincy Atlantic,	1399

ADAMS SCHOOL GROUNDS.

It was voted to send a letter to the Commissioner of Public Works asking if the dangerous condition at the Adams school could not be remedied.

TRANSPORTATION.

It was voted, that on account of the bad condition of the street leading to Rock Island, to engage a man to carry the children to and from this section to school.

SCHOOL NURSE.

A letter was received from the Quincy Women's Club asking the School Committee to engage a school nurse and home visitor, the club offering to pay a share of the expense.

The matter was referred to a committee who will report later.

TRANSFER WANTED.

A petition of parents of children residing near the corner of Beal and Adams street, asking that their children be transferred from the Gridley Bryant to the Wollaston school. Referred to the sub-committees of those schools.

SCHOOL FINANCES.

The financial statement to date was reported as follows the total appropriation for all the schools being $197,865.00:

	Expended	Balance
Administration	$5,601.46	$298.54
Instruction	132,655.03	12,929.97

HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI.

The committee appointed to revise the new constitution of the Quincy High School Alumni Association has had a meeting at which time it was able to make a few of the changes, that obviously were necessary to make that constitution cover all the issues that have been raised, and now a copy will be sent to all members of the association.

The president has called for a meeting of executive committee for next week. It is the wish of the officers of the association to have another large meeting, with a program that will appeal to all, about the middle of December for all the members of the association.

Many have asked for the address or how they can reach the new treasurer Joseph H. McPherson. His address is 91 Common street, West Quincy, or care of School Committee 8 Washington street, Quincy. And it might be added that the prompt payment of dues of all the members will greatly assist the Treasurer in his new work, and secondly be greatly appreciated by the new association.

Did you ever start to dress in a hurry, put on your collar, start to tie your four-in-hand and have your tie stick?

What did you do? Give the collar a yank, have it come unbuttoned or buckle up and crack at the joints? If after the struggle you succeeded with the tie did you whistle merrily or did you — —

COMMANDERY ENTERTAINED

Em-Commander, John Morgan, intends to make the conclaves of Quincy Commandery K. T. this winter, interesting ones for the Sir Knights. With this in view special committees on entertainment are appointed for each conclave. That for the regular conclave Monday night were Sir Knights L. H. Rhodes, William M. Burrell and William Couch. There was a good attendance of Sir Knights. The work of the evening was the Illustrious Order of the Red Cross, and it was exceptionally well rendered. At the conclusion of the business of the evening an adjournment was made to the banquet hall where Henry P. Furnald served escalloped oysters, rolls, butter and hot coffee.

During the banquet a victrola entertained with a number of popular selections. After the banquet and cigars lighted, there was a victrola concert which included solos from several of the grand opera stars, orchestra and band music, etc

Sir Knight J. Francis Merrill, the adjutant announced that Col. Leroy Sweetster of the regular army had been engaged to drill the Sir Knights.

ASSAILANT IS STILL UNKNOWN

Definite clue to the identity of the man who held up Julia Vanderberg in sight of the home of her employer, Mayor Joseph L. Whiton, during the height of the storm on Thursday night has not been secured but the police of Quincy and Boston are quietly working on the case.

The unknown assailant of Miss Vanderberg appeared in City Square about 11.30, it is thought, and followed her from there to Whitney road where he assaulted her. He became frightened and ran after she broke away from his hold and shrieked. The police were immediately summoned but failed to secure any trace of him.

Mayor Whiton learned Tuesday through correspondence which requested the name of the writer be withheld, that an Atlantic young lady had a similar experience shortly after ten o'clock and that the man answered the same description.

HOW CONTRASTS ALTER CUSTOMS

Young men and their fathers should read the advertisement in today's Daily Ledger pertaining to the remarkable low price of Thanksgiving overcoats on sale at the "Wide Awake" store of A. H. Remick and then sympathize with their Boston trading friends who have to include a share of a high rent and large overhead expense in their purchasing prices.

The Remick prices point our your folly in buying clothing in Boston at prices $2 and $3 higher than those of the Wide Awake store. The reason is obvious.

Isn't a sincere advertisement worth reading and isn't a carefully read ad but a step to earnest consideration? Have you noticed the Remick Bros. proclamation on overcoats on Thanksgiving?

TWO RALLIES IN WARD THREE

Candidate Wall at Malnati Block and Headquarters

James E. Wall, Independent Citizen's candidate for Mayor, held two largely attended and enthusiastic rallies in Ward Three Tuesday evening. The first was in Malnati's block at which about 250 workingmen were present. Mr. Wall was ably assisted by a number of other speakers who talked at some length on various problems confronting the city government. One speaker was armed with numerous letters from Trades Unions which were read to the audience, and at the close of his remarks invited all to inspect the letters with regard to the signatures and seals.

The second meeting was at the Ward Three headquarters at which about 200 were present.

At both rallies Mr. Wall was greeted with enthusiastic applause. He spoke of the lack of mprovements in Ward Three, calling particular attention to the poor condition of the streets, the lack of proper street lighting in the Adams School district, and the lack of proper attention to the needs of the numerous granite firms in the district. Mr. Wall said that he was surprised to see the large amount of stone chips piled up around the different sheds, hindering business and being a continual source of annoyance to the manufacturers, when the city was paying large sums for a much poorer grade of road material. He believed that the city should use these chips wherever possible for sub-grading.

DELINQUENTS MUST PAY UP

Delinquent poll tax payers were awakened from their slumbers and the departure of others for trains was delayed by Deputy Tax Collector Francis M. Curtis, who armed with warrants, unexpectedly invaded Wards Two, Five and Six before six o'clock this morning. His tour of duty ended shortly after eight o'clock and in his two active hours he had obtained immediate settlements in all cases.

On Friday morning he will continue the work, Wards One, Three and Four being his field of operation. Wherever he finds it necessary to do so, arrests will be made for non payment of poll taxes previous to 1914.

JOINT BENEFIT.

A gala performance of unusual merit and distinction will be given at the Boston Opera House on the afternoon of Tuesday, Dec. 8 for the joint benefit of the South End Kusiv School and Denison House, two of Boston's most worthy and influential settlement institutions. Cyril Maud, the eminent English actor, and Miss Elsie Mackay of his company will present a one act play by James M. Barrie, "A Platonic Friendship," given for the first time in America. "Pan and the Star," a one act pantomime by Edward Burlingham Hill and Joseph Lindon Smith will be given as presented at the MacDowell Festival at Peterboro, N. H., last year, with "Lada," the famous New York danseuse in the caste. The Boston Festival orchestra will furnish the music being conducted by Chalmers Clifton. Mme. Fontenay Coudert, soprano of the Opera Comique, Paris, will sing operatic arias and interpretative dances will be given by Mlle. Lada.

REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

QUINCY SQUARE

Rev. Merrill C. Ward of the Universalist church is spending Thanksgiving in Maine, sailing from Boston Monday night on the Gov. Dingley and having a smooth passage.

Herbert Johnson of Granite street, was pleasantly surprised Tuesday evening, when he was greeted by a large gathering of friends, upon returning to his home. Carl Leander, in behalf of those present, presented him with a pair of gold cuff links and a tie clasp. The evening was enjoyably spent in playing games, singing, etc. Miss Esther Bergfors presiding at the piano. Refreshments were served. The committee in charge included Hilda Ekstrand, Ellen Bergfors, Hendry Larson and Carl Leander.

A large protrait of the late Mayor, John L. Miller has been received at City Hall, and will be hung on the wall of the Mayors office.

Paul Poehler of this city, champion candle pin roller, beat Glenn Riddell of New York in the series of matches which closed in Boston Tuesday night. Poehler took all 12 points Tuesday night and 11 of the 15 Monday night. The defeat of Riddell was most pronounced and left no doubt in the minds of the fans as to whom is the champion.

Chief of Police Burrell, who is ill at his home on Washington street, passed a comfortable night and is doing well today.

☞The date for closing entries to the Massachusetts Corn and Apple Show at Worcester, Dec. 1, 2, and 3 has been extended to Nov. 28. Entry blanks and premium lists may still be obtained from the Board of Agriculture, 136 State House, Boston.

Mr. W. J. Voss of Marshall street has moved to Botolph street, Atlantic.

Mrs. Alfred Cole of New York was the guest of Mrs. Herbert Robbins of Arnold road, this week.

H. J. Landry of Warwick street has returned from a trip to New York.

Mrs. George Pock of Montclair entertained the juniors of St. Chrysostoms church on Tuesday afternoon owing to the unfinished condition of the new parish house and hot chocolate and cake were served and a social time given the little girls who have worked so industriously making candy bags for the Xmas tree.

J. W. Hallett and H. K. Ellis have returned from the Barnstable Gunning club with a good share of black ducks.

Miss Mabel Kappler of Beach street entertained twenty of her little friends last week in honor of her birthday.

The Wollaston Union Thanksgiving Service, in which the Baptist, Congregational, Methodist and Unitarian churches unite, will be held Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Wollaston Unitarian church. A double mixed quartet will render thanksgiving anthems. The collection at this service will be given to the Quincy Associated Charities. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Samuel R. Maxwell, pastor of the Second church in Boston. The public is cordially invited.

PLANT TREES.

One hundred shade trees will be planted by the Massachusetts Forestry Association in each of the four cities or towns in the state which win the prize in their respective groups under the rules of the second annual tree planting contest just announced by the association.

The cities and towns of the state have been divided into four groups according to the census of 1910. Group one includes all towns with less than 1000 population; group two, all between 1000 and 3000; group three, those between 3000 and 10,000; group four, all over 10,000.

The association must be notified in writing before July 1, 1915, by the mayor, the chairman of selectmen, the tree warden, or a committee of one or more organizations that the town or city proposes to enter the contest. A city or town must also have planted at least 100 shade trees and the city or town planting the greatest number of trees and best meeting all the requirements will be awarded the prize for its group.

At least one fourth of the cities and towns of each group must have entered the contest before the prize will be awarded in that group. The planting must be done between Oct. 1, 1914, and July 1, 1915. One species only should be planted on each street and when possible the trees should be planted on private property within 20 feet of the highway limits.

The prizes will be awarded on the number of living trees on Sept. 15, 1915. This will properly planted.

Trees must be eight feet or over in height and the branches of all trees should be properly pruned at the time of planting, but the leaders should not be cut.

The prize trees will be planted either in the fall of 1915 or not later than the following spring.

QUINCY WEST

The St. Marys Catholic Total Abstinence and Mutual Relief Society have arranged for a monster temperance rally in favor of No-License to be held in St. Marys hall, West Quincy, Friday evening at 8 o'clock. They have as chief speakers John P. Gilman, past National commander of the G. A. R., and Hon. John J. Attridge, ex-president of the Boston City Council. There will also be short addresses by Robert H. Magwood, secretary of the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon league, Dr. John H. Ash, Charles J. McGilvray and Joseph A. Sedgwick.

Last year the West Quincy Ward went for license by a small majority. It was the only ward in the city that was carried for license. This year it is expected that the ward will vote "No," and the temperance people of the Ward are making every effort to stem the growth in the license vote. It is expected that St. Marys hall will be filled to overflowing on Friday evening.

At the union Thanksgiving services of the Swedish churches to be held at the Swedish M. E. church, Fort street, the Rev. Paul Hallin will preach the sermon. He will also extend the welcome. The Scripture reading and invocation will be by Rev. A. G. Sporrong, who will also contribute a solo. The choirs of the Baptists and Methodist churches will sing.

FIRE AT BRAINTREE.

The house of James Thayer corner of Liberty and Middle street, Braintree was destroyed by fire Tuesday morning at 5.30.

QUINCY ATLANTIC

The trustees of the Atlantic Methodist church have invited the carpenters of Atlantic and Norfolk Downs to give Saturday to putting the new fire proof roof on the church. The ladies are to furnish a free dinner in the vestry. The after dinner speaker will be Rev. Dr. Parkinson of Newton Center. The carpenters are to start work at 8 A. M.

A Thanksgiving sermon will be given by the pastor Thursday evening at 7.30 at the Atlantic Methodist church to which the public is invited.

HIBERNIAN LEAGUE.

The opening matches in the Hibernian league were rolled at the Coliseum alleys Tuesday evening and resulted in a clean sweep for the team of Capt. Brennan over Capt. Flynn's Malley, rolling with the winners as anchor man got 114 for high single.

QUINCY POINT

Friends of Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Hopkins, (Miss Theo Crane) of Gloversville, N. Y., will rejoice to know, that they have just completed and dedicated their new $15,000 church home, the Church of Christ Disciples free of debt. Mrs. Hopkins is a daughter of Mrs. Carrie J. and the late Cliff R. Crane of Quincy.

David Silverman, Philip Marr and Ralph W. Thibodeau of this city were given a verdict in the Superior Court of Plymouth County, held at Brockton Tuesday, in their suit against Frederick E. Blanchard of Boston, whose automobile wrecked a wagon at Hingham on which all three were passengers, and injured as a result of the accident. Silverman was awarded $328, Thibodeau $1099 and Marr $100.

SPROUL—EDWARDS.

Cards were received in this city, from Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Edwards of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., announcing the marriage in that city, Tuesday, of their daughter, Elsie, to Avard C. Sproul, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Elliot Sproul of New York city.

The ceremony took place in the Memorial Presbyterian church, the bride's pastor, Rev. A. J. Kerr, D. D. officiating. After a brief journey the young couple will make their home in Wilkes-Barre, where Mr. Sproul is engaged in business.

The groom is a native of Quincy, his parents having resided here for twenty-five years prior to their removal to New York, somewhat more than five years ago. The good wishes of a great many Quincy friends will go out to the young couple.

QUINCY SOUTH

Two Atlantic men, generally unknown to their hosts, made a house-to-house canvass in the vicinity of Franklin street last night in the interests of Candidate Wall.

Mrs. Charles L. Orne, formerly of Quincy, is visiting Mrs. W. A. Savage of 181 Franklin street. Mrs. Grace Lanson and husband, who are also guests of Mrs. Savage for the day, are to take Mrs. Orne home with them tonight in their automobile.

UNION SERVICE FIRST CHURCH

Rev. Mr. Willmott Delivers a Masterly Address

While there was a large attendance at the union service Thanksgiving morning at the First church, it is to be regretted that every citizen of the city could not have heard the masterly address given by Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of the Bethany church. Rev. Mr. Willmott spoke for about thirty minutes, and during this time he held the closest attention of his hearers.

His text was taken from the 27th psalm, 13th verse, "I had fainted, unless I had believed to see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living."

The Bethany church, Universalist church and the Washington street Congregational church united in the service which was held at 10.30.

The service opened with the singing of the Doxology by the church quartette, assisted by the Young People's chorus of the First church, some of the soloists of the Bethany church and the congregation. The Service of Thanksgiving was then read by Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson minister of the First church followed by singing by the quartette.

Rev. Stephen C. Lang of the Washington street Congregational church read the scripture lesson from the 27th Psalm and offered the morning prayer. This was followed by the address of Rev. Mr. Willmott the service closing with the congregation uniting in singing "America." Rev. Mr. Willmott in his address spoke in part as follows:

Rev. B. A. Willmotts text was: "I had fainted, unless I had believed to see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living."—Psalm 27: 13. He said in part:

The Christian is conscious that he lives in God's universe, and is heir of two worlds. The God he worships is the God who was, who is, and is to be. He is in all, over all, and through all. The influence of the spiritual over the material none can compute. The hopes that thrill the high soul of man and bid him seek an immortality, have moulded and shaped with delicate touch the finer and richer traits of his mortality.

The two worlds ever interplay and reinforce each other.

One world at a time, is a saying we often hear, and if it means, that in this world man must express in action the convictions of faith; here must he demonstrate his worth of another world, we are in agreement; but if it means that this world is to be every where a dull drab untouched by the rich and beautiful rays of the eternal world; if the checkered years of our pilgrimage are not to be inspired by the dearest and purest longings for immortality, that "the hope of the world is a lie," then we most emphatically say we are "children of immemorial yesterdays" and that immemorial tomorrows await our pilgrim souls. But we are as equally emphatic in the text," I had fainted. unless I had believed to see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living."

A religion that deals only in past and future tenses, that knows what God did and will do hereafter, has little place in our modern world, we seek for a city that has real foundations, we speak of God in the present tense, we long and labor that His kingdom may come, and His will may be done on earth, we wish to see the goodness of God in the land of the living.

We have come to this Thanksgiving season with much of the feeling of our text, tired of hate, bloodshed and slaughter; our minds are full of horrors and every contradiction of the goodness of the Lord. So bitter has this feeling of disappointment become that many have said that religion has failed. No doubt religion has failed, but Christianity has not failed. No state has ever tried the religion of

This picture of the German cruiser Karlsruhe was taken at sea from one of the ships she captured, the South American liner Vandyck. After capturing this vessel over 200 passengers were transferred to another boat and taken to Para, Brazil, where 114 of them, mostly Americans, later sailed for New York. The Karlsruhe has sunk or captured nearly a score of ships, mostly English, since the war began. She has raided the Atlantic in the same way the late Emden raided the Pacific and Indian oceans. Many warships belonging to the allies long ago started a hunt for the Karlsruhe

THANKSGIVING AT OUR INSTITUTIONS

Thanksgiving at the various institutions of the city was passed in the usual manner.

CITY HOSPITAL.

To the unfortunates at the City Hospital who by illness were unable to enjoy the many good things that abound on Thanksgiving day, everything possible was done to make them forget their ills. Those whose condition would permit were allowed to have some of the good things.. Then the friends of those at the Hospital called during the visiting hours bringing dainties and flowers making everything as cheerful as was possible.

QUINCY HOME.

Those who have seen better days but are now in the care of the city were at the Quincy Home, supplied with a genuine New England Thanksgiving dinner. Only such work as was absolutely necessary was required of the inmates and at noon they gathered in the big dining room and had their fill of turkey, vegetables, puddings and pies.

SAILORS SNUG HARBOR.

At the Snug Harbor at Germantown the old salts as usual enjoyed a good Thanksgiving dinner. Only such work as was absolutely necessary was performed and after dinner the sailors gathered in the recreation room, played games, smoked their pipe and recounted incidents of years ago when they sailed before the mast on the briny deep.

SAILORS HOME.

At the National Sailors Home at Wollaston the day was observed as in other years. The pensioners were only called upon to do such work as was absolutely necessary, the remainder of the day being given up to enjoyment. After dinner the sailors, who in the stirring times of the sixties, manned Uncle Sams ships of war, gathered in the smoking room and talked over the events that are now daily taking place among the vessels of the warring nations of Europe.

Samuel P. Sears of this city, and son of Ex-Mayor Sears, has composed a popular song which will go on sale in local stores and all over the country the latter part of next week. The name of the song is "When I am dancing with you." The song has already met with great success in the Boston theatres.

QUINCY'S POOR REMEMBERED

The Overseer of the Poor, the Associated Charities the Elks, Quincy Catholic club, Salvation Army and other charitable organizations of the city saw to it that no Quincy family went without the dinner that makes Thanksgiving Day one that is always looked forward to. The Overseer of the poor expended $180 in providing dinners for the worthy poor of the city and the other organizations cooperated with him so that everybody deserving was supplied, and none received a supply from two or three different sources as was the case some years ago.

For several years past it has been the custom for the various charitable organizations of the city to get together and compare notes, and in this way everybody is taken care of.

The Associated Charities supplied 45 dinners, and the Salvation Army 30. In addition to these there were many cases of dinners that were given by private individuals, one city official who refused to have his name divulged supplying ten dinners.

HOLIDAY BUSY ONE FOR FIRE DEPT.

Grass, brush and forest fires in the afternoon and evening kept the local firemen busy on Thanksgiving. No bell alarms were sounded and there was no property damage.

At 12.20 Hose 3 and Ladder 3 extinguished a grass fire on Rogers street, West Quincy. At 3.05 Auto Combination 2 extinguished a fire in the woods near the Montclair railroad station and the Wollaston golf links. At 3:08 Hose 2 and ladder were called to a grass fire on North Central avenue, Wollaston .

At 3.45 Auto Combination 1 extinguished an extensive grass fire off Adams street near Third Hill. At 4.15 Combination 1 was called to a woods fire off Verchild street. At 5.20 auto Combination 1, Hose 2 and Ladder 2 were summoned to a grass fire off Old Colony avenue. At 7.25 this evening Auto Combination 1 extinguished a grass fire on Adams street, near Presidents Bridge.

The alarm from Box 552 at 3.55 Wednesday afternoon was for a grass fire in the dump off Farrington street.

OFFICER FIRES AT HEN THIEF

Two revolver shots, fired to stop an escaping hen thief by patrolman John Duffy at 12.35 this morning aroused a section of Atlantic but failed to scare the fleeing thief.

The man when suddenly confronted by patrolman Duffy dropped his bag and ran. The officer took up the chase but the man, evidently a resident of the community knew the short cuts and in the darkness got away.

Patrolman Duffy recovered the two hens and rooster which were stolen and is making an effort to locate the owner.

RIVADAVIA SAYS GOODBYE

The Argentine dreadnought Rivadavia, built at the Fore River shipyard left Boston harbor on Thanksgiving day for the Brooklyn navy yard to have her bottom scraped and painted before sailing for the home port, Buenos Aires, where an elaborate reception is being planned for her arrival.

The ship was in command of Capt. Jose Moneta and officers who were members of the commission in charge of its construction and was manned by a crew of 800 who came north in transports from the southern country.

It is rumored however that there will be somewhat of a shift in the ship officers because of the pending resignations of several whom it is said are planning to make their home in this country, devoting their time to a development of trade relations between the north and the south.

The ship, which was placed in commission on Aug. 27, was towed out into the stream from the pier at Charlestown Navy Yard by two tugs, after which she went under her own steam.

While steaming along the national salute of 21 guns were fired on the Rivadavia and they were responded to by Fort Warren.

Several tests remain before the ship sails from New York, the principal one being the testing of her torpedo net. The contract calls for an average speed of about eight knots an hour while the net is spread .

The Rivadavia is practically the one ship afloat today that it is impossible to sink. This is because of its triple bottom construction. With the outbreak of the war offers of fabulous sums were made for the Rivadavia and her sister ship the Moreno, now having her trials, but because a sale would interfere with the naval program of Argentina the offers were not accepted.

NEW SPIRIT OF THANKFULNESS

Theme of Rev. Mr. Maxwell at Wollaston Union Service

The Wollaston Baptist, Methodist, Congregational, and Unitarian churches united in a union Thanksgiving service Thanksgiving afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Unitarian church, the service being very largely attended. The several pastors of the different churches took part in the service the music being by a double mixed quartette. The address was by Rev. Samuel R. Maxwell, pastor of the Second church of Boston. A collection was also taken for the Associated Charities.

The Rev. Mr. Maxwell declared that there was a new spirit in the industry of the present day that was saving many working people from hardship Employees today, he said, are beginning to believe that they are the guardians of their employers and, instead of giving them alms, are keeping them at work up to the very latest moment possible. This is something that the American people should be thankful for, he said.

He pointed out the many things that Americans have been able to thank God for since the Puritans settled here in new England. There has always been something real for the minister to preach about on Thanksgiving day, he said. Today was no perfunctory celebration in the early times, he said, and should not be now.

The fact that you may be physically able to saw and split your own wood does not mean that you could safely do the modern dances.

Over in Europe they propose to celebrate Thanksgiving day by making about 10,000 more widows.

A poultry raiser asks what he shall do with hens that won't lay in winter. Our advice would be to convert them into Sunday dinner.

The stock market lambs are feeling blue over Thanksgiving with the continued stoppage of their facilities for losing money.

When Father Time comes to gather in Gen. Carranza, the latter will probably remark that he is willing to go at once on only 17 conditions.

How can they expect the new currency system to be a success, when there are several thousand ambitious and growing towns that have not been provided with a federal reserve bank?

The Congressmen are getting ready to resume their duties in December by sending their secretaries down to Washington.

Perhaps Superintendent Barbour's recommendation to the School Committee, which the Ledger published Wednesday, contains the solution of the school congestion problem. It certainly points to economy in schoolhouse building. It is to be hoped that the recommendation will be considered fully before any move is made to build a school either in Ward Two or at Norfolk Downs.

Chester I. Campbell's statement regarding his relations and dealings with labor and the positive assertion of a prominent labor leader that Mr. Campbell has always been fair ought to put the charge of "unfairness" where it belongs,—in the same class with the allegation that Lawyer Stinson is a registered voter in Somerville. Those who know Mr. Campbell say that he would be much more likely to pay a workman more than he asked than to try to cut him down.

KNOWLEDGE OF PRICES.

The Mayor of the city of New York recently appointed a committee to investigate questions of food supply, and its executive committee has just made a report. One of the principal points made was that a great lack of knowledge has been found among housekeepers, as to the proper prices to be paid for food. It was also stated that the daughters of well-to-do families are apt to be brought up without any knowledge of housekeeping.

It used to be said that the farmer was the best informed business man of the community, as he had to know the price of everything. The old time housewife was invariably aware if eggs were up two cents a dozen. If she felt a price was unreasonable, she didn't buy.

Much of the neighborly discussion some of us used to hear as children related to the question of prices of ordinary household commodities, whether beef had risen or butter fallen. No man could operate a business unless he knew what his raw materal cost or ought to cost. Similarly the home is a business proposition, and will be costly unless the buyer has a keen idea of normal prices.

Some people consider too much mention of money to be sordid. But this is a practical world of realities, and the home manager needs to know what she is up against.

A woman once remarked that her butcher always gave her only the lump price for the piece. When she asked how much per pound it was, his arithmetic was either too faulty, or was reluctant to tell her the figure. A purchase and asle can hardly be considered to be well made for both parties, unless each understands exactly the price.

This is why newspaper advertisers always do well to state exact prices in their notices. Thereby they not merely interest many more readers, but they assist in educating the public in a vital matter of home economies.

UNION SERVICE

Jesus. It is true that formalism, ritualism and all forms of brute force, vencered by a thin coat of Christian teaching, have ignominiously failed to hold in check the greed and the baser passions of Europe. Who could for one moment think that the cry to a tribal diety for his blessing upon such barbarism can for one moment be called Christian prayer. A religion that can allow any monarch to think, or any people to believe, that the God and Father of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ can be called upon to bless the selfish and conscienceless plans of those who plunged Europe into war. To read of men, who seem to think they have in the God of the human race a tribal deity of whom they have exclusive monopoly is either the reversion to a paganism from which they had never fully evolved, or it is horrible blasphemy.

When men say that Christianity is on trial, they lack discrimination or sincerity; it is militarism that is on trial, it is reign of the mailed fist and brutal arrogant power that is on trial. It is the philosophy of Neitzsche, Bernhardi with their will to power and contempt for the weak; it is the brutal materialistic philosophy that has turned the prosperous peoples of Europe into madmen; it is not the great and holy teaching of the Son of God that has changed the smiling valleys of Europe into vales of blood; not the pierced hand of the man of Galilee, but the mailed fist of godless militarism that has turned fair fields and happy homes into cemeteries and charnal houses.

If men persist in calling God to bless such horrors, then they know not the God whom Jesus Christ revealed. If we are not seeing the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living, it is because man is using that awful volition to darken this earth with sorrow, and fill the air with groans.

The goodness of the Lord has been seen in the land of the living. He has said "Blessed is the peacemaker," but the German scholar answered, "Blessed are the war makers." The goodness of God is laughed out of court as an iridescent dream fit for Utopia. But behold what the warmaker has done for man! Which ever side wins, the best and strongest men of the progressive nations of Europe will have either died or have been wounded. And the deeds of hate and the practices of lust will leave behind them a bequest most terrible.

* * * * *

This war will destroy formal religion which is a buttress to the state; nothing less than the brotherhood of the race under the leadership of Jesus Christ will be adequate for the future, for out of this struggle will emerge a greater democracy, for never again shall men feel that the destiny of millions of men and the future of civilization built through the toil and sacrifice of many shall be jeopodized by one man or several.

And our churches which are democratic in life and government will face a great responsibility and magnificent opportunity. We have seen the house built upon the changing sands of hate and class privilege fall; we shall now build on the solid rock of Christian democracy as never before.

I have not said anything as to the responsibility for this awful war that is making faint the strongest hearts. This is not because I have no convictions concerning the matter. Whoever is immediately responsible will bear before the throne of God an awful self condemnation; he must also answer at the bar of human judgment. But no nation can show pure hands, all have been contributors to this appaling catastrophe. As a people we have been asked to be neutral, and we shall be as a nation, but American people have positive opinions as they had during the Boer war, and it would stultify our manhood and weaken our conscience did we not speak.

* * * * *

We believe in neutrality, the old world hates have no place in America, but there is a neutrality that is sheer cowardice, which watches a wrong and utters no protest. If our neutrality is based on the old materialism that counsels us to reap the harvest of trade from cripple Europe, that bids us smile on all that we may enrich ourselves from all, then such neutrality is unworthy of a great nation, who in the birth throes of her national life found comfort from France. We have no reason to involve ourselves in this war, but neither have we right to be speechless in the presence of great wrongs, surely the conscience of America is not dead.

* * * * *

War obliterates much, it has corrupted the conscience of Europe, and we, refusing to enter the merits of the case, or discuss who is to blame, may still speak to remind all nations that commercialism and craven fear has not silenced our tongue nor destroyed our conscience.

CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Poole of Hall avenue, Braintree celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday evening. Mr. Poole was born in Holbrook and early in life learned the shoemaker trade and was prominent in the Knights of St. Crispin. Mrs. Poole was born in Braintree and for many years has been a prominent worker in the South M. E. church. She is also a member of Sylvanus Thayer W. R. C. and the Pond cemetery association.

They were married at the South Congregational church by Rev. J. E. Eastman. They have two daughters, Mrs. James Glover and Mrs. Susan Peterson.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

On Wednesday afternoon between 5.30 and 6.30 a most succesful story hour was held at the Atlantic Reading Room. There were 130 little girls present, having arrived anywhere from 2.30 to 5.30.

Miss Ella Packard of the Thomas Crane Public Library was the story teller and a most delightful story teller she certainly is. The children perched in the window seats, on the tables and two or three in a chair presented a most inspiring picture.

Miss Packard told three Thanksgiving stories; "Jericles Bob," "Polly's Thanksgiving" and then, asking the children if they knew about the coming of the Pilgrims, she told them the story of "The First Thanksgiving."

The next story was an original one called, "The Rescue of Princess Forchette." Then she told the story of "Pandora's Box" and the hour closed with Riley's "Bear Story" which was accepted with as much enthusiasm as any of the others.

ORGAN RECITAL.

Dr. Minot Baldwin, the world renowned organist gave a brilliant recital Thanksgiving evening at the Swedish Lutheran church. Dr. Baldwin has given recitals in the largest European cities and also at the American expositions at Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Charlestown, Pan American and Omaha.

Dr. Baldwin was greeted by a large audience who thoroughly enjoyed his recital. He is certainly a master of the organ and it is not often that an opportunity is given a Quincy audience to hear such an accomplished musician.

LITTLE MARY AND BACHELORS

The Most Intelligent Animal But Nobody Loves Him

In the recent issue of the Kings Daughters Ledger there was an article on "Old Maids." It advised girls to marry. An old maid sends to the Daily Ledger as a sequel the following review of the genus bachelor. It is from the pen of Dorothy Dix in the St. Johns Globe, but is supposed to be written by "Little Mary."

Bachelors are men who haven't got any wives and troubles, and everybody hates them for it, although they speak to them nice and polite.

When a man is a bachelor he wears fine clothes, and he looks gay and cheerful when he walks on the street, and he holds his shoulders up, and has a proud air. Also he has an automobile. But when a man is married, he quits brushing his coat, and he has fringe on his trousers, and he walks hump-shouldered. Also he has a baby carriage which he pushes when he takes a stroll on Sunday.

Married ladies do not like bachelors. I know, because I heard my mother say so. She says they are mean, hateful, selfish old things to spend all their money on themselves, and on fine cigars when they might be paying a wife's bills as well as not, and spending their money usefully in buying her real imported hats.

Married men do not like bachelors either. I asked my father why this was, and he said: "Can it, child, no man likes a man that is smarter than he is."

But ladies like bachelors when they are going to give a dinner party, because they can invite a bachelor without having to ask his wife, and that is nice, for as my mother says, goodness knows, what makes all the nice men marry frumps and fools.

Bachelors are also very popular with ladies who are looking out for a nice husband.

Bachelors have many curious peculiarities. They mostly live in clubs, and are very particular about what they have to eat, and they always get sick when anybody who lives in the suburbs asks them out to spend the week end. My father says an old bachelor keeps a gouty foot on tap, just like a lady does nervous prostration.

Bachelors generally have bald heads and look as if they were cut after the pattern of a bay window, and you would not think that they could run fast, but they are some sprinters, for if they had not been able to outrun the ladies they would have been caught and married.

Bachelors are also very timid animals, and they are so afraid of women, especially of mothers with daughters, that they take to their heels when they see one coming.

My papa was reading in the paper that they are going to put a tax on bachelors, and my mamma said, why were they going to do it, and my papa said they were going to do it because it was the principle of this government to tax luxuries.

Bachelors have no wives and children, but they have more poor relations than anybody else, and everybody feels free to ask a bachelor to give them money, and if they don't they all hope some woman will wish herself on them.

The chief disadvantage of being a rich old bachelor is breach of promise suits, which they have frequent and bad.

A bachelor is about the most intelligent animal there is, but nobody loves him.

When I get grown up I hope I will be able to catch a bachelor with lots of money. I am going to take up the athletic course when I go to Vassar.

BELLIGERANTS REPRESENTED

At Seventeenth Annual Masque Ball of Loyal Ladies

The belligerent nations and other sections of the world were represented in the hundreds of costumed people of Quincy and surrounding towns who attended the seventeenth annual masquerade of the Loyal Ladies of Clan MacGregor on the night before Thanksgiving.

The judges were Mayor Joseph L. Whiton, City Clerk Emery L. Crane, Representative Michael T. Sullivan, Mrs. John D. Mackay and Mrs. Horace G. Crocker.

First prizes were awarded to Miss Mary and Robert Summers and second to Mr. and Mrs. James Robbie. Miss Grossman and William Walker were given third prize.

The floor was in charge of Florence L. Robbie with Bessie R. Dunham as assistant. The aids were Jennie Steinbrenner, Margaret Gammon, Mary E. Joss, Katherine Gordon, Mary Summers, Mamie Barnicoat.

The reception committee included President Margaret Ross and Vice President Bella Grassick. They also served on the committee of arrangements together with Alice Joss secretary of committee, Margaret Stronach treasurer of committee, Julia Dawson, Margaret Mundie, Jennie McKay, Effie Scarborough, Johann Norrie, Belle Ross, Henrietta Marr, Christina McLennan.

A promenade concert was given from eight to nine o'clock by Provost's orchestra and dancing enjoyed until 2.30. Supper was served from 11 o'clock.

DALEY—PICARD.

Miss Harriet Daley, considered the prettiest young lady in this city and Adolard Picard, a well known South Quincy man were married on Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed at the St. Johns parish house by Rev. Fr. John Casey.

Arthur Daley, brother of the bride was best man and Miss Caroline Picard, sister of the groom was bridesmaid. The bride and her attendant both wore travelling suits with picture hats to match.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride, on Franklin street. Mr. and Mrs. Picard are now on their honeymoon and on their return will live at Elliot and Bradford streets.

SWANSON—ATKINSON.

Carl V. Swanson of 96 Farrington street and Gwendolyn N. Atkinson of Newton were married Wednesday evening by Rev. W. G. Read at Brighton They will make their home in this city.

was well down in the list of candidates at the City Primaries, but 1923 voters found it.

On the Election Day Ballot next Tuesday it is also next to the bottom, but Frank F. Prescott is the only candidate at large on the Republican Ticket from Ward One for the City Council, and will make a good Councilman.

The Republican candidates are printed in BOLD TYPE in the official list below:

MR. FEGAN IN WARD SIX

Says Issue Is Between Democrats and Republicans

In a whirlwind tour of Ward Six Wednesday evening, Edward J. Fegan the Democratic and Citizens' candidate for Mayor, electrified the voters of Ward Six by two of the most masterful speeches in his campaign.

In the course of his speeches last night, in which he covered every issue in this campaign, he said:

"In this campaign there are just two candidates, because there are only two candidates with a party behind them—the Democratic nominee and Citizens' Candidate, and the Republican nominee—and this is the order in which these two candidates are to be returned on Tuesday next. This prediction is born of a conviction gleaned and gathered from a month's continual contact with the great rank and file of the populace of Quincy—the great mass of the wage-earners, who are satisfied that the much-heralded nominee of the Republican Party in this contest is not in sympathy with the hopes and aspirations, the needs and desires of the great masses of our population—that his alleged unfair and unfriendly attitude to organized labor and to the principle of unionism among the classes which earn a living with hands or brain, unfit him to be the executive head of an essentially wage-earners' community.

"For Quincy is essentially the home of those who have to work for a living and the idle wealthy are an almost unknown quantity in our midst. And because this is so, and because the great army of the employed are doing their own thinking and some very deep and searching inquiry in this campaign, the star of democratic success is in the ascendency. And daily and hourly men are coming more and more to realize that their only hope of bettering their financial condition and of lifting their municipality out of the slough of political despond in which we are floundering, lies in the great party of democracy and in the selection of one of their own number, one of the people, for the executive head of our fair, but much-abused City.

"If as our Republican opponent tells us, there exists today in our city, conditions which cry to Heaven for abatement, which are a menace and a snare to proper development and growth, and which jeopardize efficient government in our community, then the censure and blame are to be placed upon the heads and shoulders of his own political party, which has administered our city government for sixteen out of the twenty-five years we have been a city, and which has been in powoer all those twenty-five years thro' a Republican Council.

"No positive relief, is assured in the Republican party today—and as for the delusive catch-phrase, "a business-man's administration" what have we had in this city for the past twenty-five years— with two exceptions—but business men's administrations, and how wofully have they failed to solve the legal problems and perplexities of an essentially legal corporation, and how often have their unfamiliarity with the laws and legal technicalities involved the body politic in unnecessary expense and embarrassment.

What Quincy needs today rather than another business experimenter is an expert, trained in the laws and in matters of civil government. Not till Quincy places in charge of the diversified and complex agencies of our city government such a legal expert can she ever hope to avoid the honest blunders of the past or the possible incompetency of the future.

"And what assurance has my republican opponent given the people of Quincy, hungry for relief, of what he intends to do for us municipally? What has he advocated since the beginning of the ante-primary fight down to tonight? We are on the eve of election, and not yet has Mr. Campbell assured the distraught citizens of Quincy of relief from our present unjust and unequal property valuations.

"Will you answer this question, Mr. Campbell, what do you propose to do about a revision of property valuations in Quincy? The people of Quincy demand to know if you have any platform on this issue—outside of your delusive and evasive panacea of "co-operation" and "efficiency." What the tax-payers have a right to know is what are you going to do about the present board of assessors? Are you going to approve and endorse their valuation of properties here by retaining them in office? Will you support and advocate an amendment to our City Charter placing the power of electing our City Assessors in the hands of the people, where it wisely belongs, and taking the pernicious power and patronage of appointment and removal at will of these most important of all officials, so far as the home owners and tax-payers are concerned, out of the hands of the chief Executive? What do you say to this democratic, remedial act of legislation? Do you favor it, because it will bring greater security and stability to property values in the future, and relief and fair, just treatment to the tax-payers, by making the assessors answerable to them rather than to one man-power? These are the issues you should discuss and on which you should be recorded. And because you refuse to answer them, the voters of Quincy are repudiating you daily and suporting the one candidate pledged to their best interests and to their financial welfare.

"Again, the people of Quincy, Mr. Campbell, are clamoring to know how much time, if you were elected, you would take from our municipal affairs, to devote to the 1915 Exposition in California? Is it right for you to aspire to the office of Mayor, if you are not going to be in a position to assume all the obligations and duties personally? Quincy does not propose that your lieutenants shall administer her activities, notwithstanding you have been reported to have stated that they would faithfully administer in your absence in California next year! How about this, Mr. Campbell? If it's so, shouldn't the citizens be apprised now of this situation next year, rather than being regaled by glowing pictures of your enterprises in the past, about the real success of which financially and materially to those most concerned, all of us are by no means agreed.

"Citizens of Quincy, if you believe in fair treatment and recognition for organized labor, if you believe a candidate should be in sympathy with the great masses of the people and devoted to their greater welfare, happiness and prosperity, rather than to the fortunes and affairs of the favored few, if you believe your Mayor for the next twelve months should be specially qualified and fitted for the arduous duties of the office by special education and training along those lines, you can't vote for Mr. Campbell.

"And remember, in a four-cornered fight, a vote for either of the independent candidates is a vote for Mr. Campbell, because it is a vote which otherwise, as between the Republican nominee and the Democratic nominee, would go to the Democratic nominee. Hence the absolute necessity if you desire to have your vote registered affirmatively in the cause of good government by an advocate of the entire people's rights and best interests, you can only do so by voting solidly for the standard bearer of Democracy; the hope of the oppressed tax-payer; the security and the safety of the wage-earner.

MOVIE ACTORS BALL.

Go to the movie ball. It's the biggest thing yet, and thousands of motion picture lovers are anxiously awaiting for Dec. 2, the date for the second annual ball of the Motion Picture Exhibitors League of Massachusetts which will be given at the Boston Arena. The occasion will be graced by the presence of more than a score of the most prominent movie actors including Pearl White, Margaret Snow, Florence La Badie, Clara Kimball Young, Edith Storey, Viola Dana, Gladys Hulette, Vivian Martin, Paul Panzer, Francis Bushman, James Cruze, Harry Benham, Andy Clark, Arthur Housman, William Wadsworth Hughie Mack, Gene Gauntier, Jack Clark, Sidney Olcott and Valentine Grant. These the committee has received positive confirmation that they will attend. In addition it is expected that Elsie Janis, Mary Pickford, Edna Goodrich, Lillian Russell, Dorothy Donnelly, Mary Fuller, Frances Nelson and King Baggot will attend. Here is a chance to meet and dance with a favorite movie star. Other features include a mammoth dancing contest for cups donated by well known picture stars.

SINGING STARTS ROW.

A concert by a crowd of six Italians on a Randolph-Milton trolley car on Thanksgiving resulted in the arrest of Pasquale Sebbin on a charge of assault and battery on William O'Brien the conductor. In court this morning it was testified that Sebbin kicked O'Brien. He pleaded not guilty but was fined $25.

UNION SERVICE SOUTH QUINCY

Many members of the Calvary Baptist, First Presbyterian and United Presbyterian churches gathered at a union service in the Calvary Baptist church on Thanksgiving evening.

Rev. C. C. Tilley, pastor of that church presided and read the scriptures and Rev. J. A. Matheson, who preaches his farewell at the First Presbyterian church on Sunday, delivered the sermon. His text was "Be ye thankful." Rev. A. M. Thompson of St. Andrews church, formerly of the United Presbyterian church was present with Rev. D. N. McLeod his successor. Music was by the choir of the Calvary Baptist church.

LINDFIELD—FULLER.

Rowland Lindfield of 37 Chestnut street, and one of the instructors at the Quincy industrial school was united in marriage Wednesday afternoon to Miss Beulah R. Fuller of Somerville a teacher at the Somerville High school the ceremony taking place at 45 Merrymount road, Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott officiating.

The bride was attended by Miss Madrine Wood of Concord, N. H. and the best man was Walter L. Hanscom of Huntley road.

The bride wore a white crepe de chine gown and carried a bouquet of brides roses. Miss Wood wore a yellow crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Miss Hilda Lindfield presided at the piano and played the wedding march as the bridal party entered. Miss Lindfield wore a blue chiffon and carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion.

A reception followed the ceremony after which Mr. and Mrs. Lindfield left for a brief wedding trip, returning from which they will reside at 65 Merrymount road, where they will be at home after January 1.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. T. Danglemayer, Miss Theodora and Master Winter Danglemayer, of Waltham, Mr. and Mrs. T. Lindfield Miss Anna and Master Lindfield of Revere.

ELECTED CAPTAIN.

Gilbert S. Hamlin, whose playing on the football team of the Quincy High school was second only to Captain Paul Larkin, has been unanimously chosen captain. Capt-elect Hamlin is the youngest man that ever received that honor at High school. He is a junior and has been in athletics three years. Previous to that he was the star at the Wollaston Grammar school. Hamlin is a backfield man and next season will be closely watched by the sporting writers of Boston papers because he is already a candidate for the interscholastic eleven.

OF INTEREST TO MEN.

Cold weather is to be expected from now on and it would be advisable to get that overcoat while the opportunity prevents itself. Remick Bros. are offering the opportunity right now, and such good clothes as Kuppenheimer Suits and Overcoats are real bargains at any price. In their advertisement in today's Ledger, suits that are valued at $18 are now on sale at the very sensational price of $13.50. There are also many other money saving opportunities in every department of this Wide-Awake Store.

WASECA—PASTIMES.

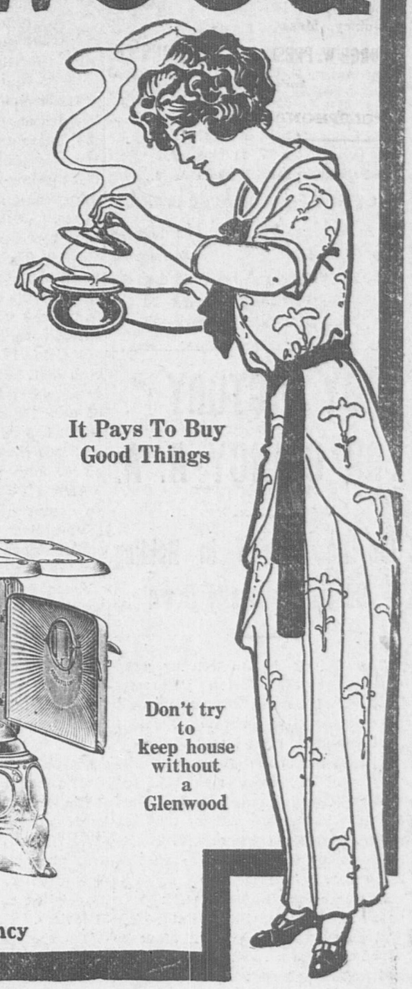

The Waseca and the Pastimes had their annual contest at the Ward Two playground on Thanksgiving and it resulted in a 20 to 0 victory for the Wasecas. The play was fast and furious and slowed up only when the damp spots caused runners to slip. Several were hit hard and called for time out but nothing of a serious nature occurred.

DISTRICT COURT.

Pasquale Sebbin was fined $25 on a charge of assault and battery at Milton, on complaint of William O'Brien a street car conductor.

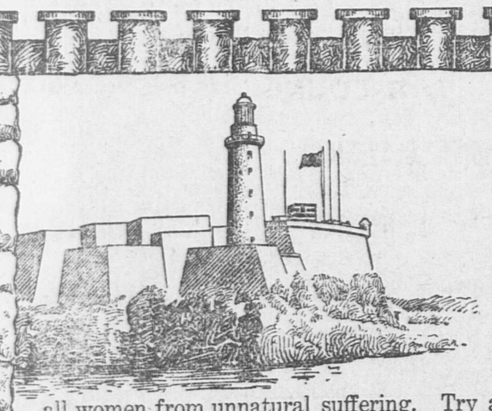

John Slattery of South Weymouth was fined $15 for creating a disturbance on a trolley car at Weymouth.

EASY VICTORY FOR QUINCY A. A.

Had No Trouble in Holding Boston University Down

The Quincy A. A. won an easy victory over the Boston University Law school team at Merrymount oval on Thanksgiving morning. Fumbles held the score down 7 to 0.

The feature of the game was the playing of Di Senso, right end of Quincy High team and Young Beaton, a second string man of that aggregation, both of whom, with Thomas Veale substituted in the absence of three Law school men.

Di Senso and Beaton's work was spectacular from two points:—the first because of the weight of their opponents, and secondly because they had just completed four hard periods in a junior game, played before the big contest.

Both excelled in breaking up interference and tackling the man, and Hunter, considered one of the fastest backfield men in the state was thrown back for material losses by Beaton on three different occasions.

Di Senso's prominent play came in the last period when he received a long forward and ran it 15 yards before he was downed by three of his townsmen.

Cummings did most of the ground gaining for the winners through his ability in picking holes and cutting in. He scored the winning touchdown and would have carried it over again if Quincy hadn't fumbled on the Law schools two yard line.

The oval was damp and in spots was very muddy. The swamp in front of the northerly goal nearly cost Epstein of the visitors a sprained ankle. Harold Prout, the well known local athlete, was at quarter for the visitors and played a good game.

His efforts to cop a victory over Quincy were fruitless on account of the poor offensive work of his team mates, and which resulted on one occasion in Lovell intercepting a forward and getting a 25 yard run.

ASSOCIATIONS TO AMALGAMATE

Will Be Known as Yacht Racing Union of Mass.

The consolidation of the Yacht Racing Association of Massachusetts and the Interclub Yacht Racing Association was practically assured at a special meeting of the Y. R. A. M. Tuesday evening at the Boston Yacht clubhouse. Delegates were in attendance representing all of the active clubs in the two associations and they voted to amalgamate and also adopted amendments to the by-laws which will fit the new union. The most important of these are as follows:

Article IV—Representation; Each club shall be represented by one delegate, and clubs having a membership of over 300 active members shall be entitled to one additional delegate for each 300 members or fraction thereof of 300 members.

Article V—Officers: There shall be an executive committee consisting of the president, vice president, secretary and chairman of the judges, ex-officio, and three other delegates or members.

Associate Judges—There shall be a board of five association judges to be appointed by the executive committee, who shall rank as associate members: their duty shall be to act with the club judges, to see that the racing rules are enforced, that protests are promptly decided, and that a report of the race is sent to the secretary of the union. At least one member of the board shall attend each scheduled race.

The racing rules were also amended by dropping Class T, 15-footers, and Class H. Hull one-design 15 footers. In their place seven classes were added: A B. C. H. S. and K. of the Interclub Association and Class E, Bar Harbor 31-footers.

The championship percentages are hereafter to be figured on the Interclub basis of one point for a start, one point for a finish and one point for each yacht defeated in each race.

Rule 11, on the management of races was amended by inserting: "They shall appoint a board of judges, of which this union's chairman of judges or one of the associated judges designated by the chairman shall be a member ex-officio.

The delegates also voted to have the present executive committee of the Y. R. A. of M., meet the executive committee of the Interclub Y. R. A. to perfect plans for the amalgamation of the two associations. This committee is to report back to the association not later than Dec. 15, when the first annual meeting and election of officers of the Yacht Racing Union of Massachusetts is to be held.

MT. PLEASANT—SOUTH QUINCY.

Two sensational runs by Beaton for touchdowns, one 60 and the second 40 yards thrilled the spectators at Merrymount oval on Thanksgiving morning and contributed greatly to the 18 to 0 victory of the Mount Pleasants over the strong Redmen A. C. of South Quincy.

Both runs followed Beaton's perfect handling of forward passes thrown by Swain. The game was fast and hard fought throughout the four periods. The summary:

FIREMEN'S BALL INTERRUPTED

The annual ball of the Braintree fire department Wednesday evening, which was held at the new Town hall was interrupted by an alarm from East Braintree which called the firemen from the dance to extinguish a fire in the old Ambler & Hobart shed now owned by the railroad. The fire was evidently an incendiary and was the fourth time that it has been set on fire.

The firemen kept several pieces of apparatus in commission outside the Town Hall and when the alarm sounded the department made the three mile run in remarkably quick time.

UNCLE A FEATURE OF THE EVENING

As usual the night before a holiday the Granite City club kept open house Wednesday evening and the officers of the club welcomed a large number of the members and their guests. Morris orchestra, which was in attendance furnished music during the entire evening.

Along about 10 o'clock, Uncle George Hilburn, a native of Bristol, Eng. who has been making his home in Quincy for the past few years came in, his ever present pipe, fixed firmly between his teeth and sat down in the corner to enjoy the music. It was not many minutes before the musical veins in his body began to vibrate, at first giving vent in a musical voice, which although soft, filled every nick and crevice of the rooms. Then his feet began to move, and it was not long before he dropped his cane and pipe and was stepping it out as lively as though sixty or more years had not passed over his head. It was a stunt not down on the program and furnished a pleasing variation.

A buffet lunch was served the entire evening in the dining room and all the billiard, pool and card tables were in use until near midnight.

GIVEN CHANCE TO SIGN RELEASE

Mayor Whiton stated this morning that he had given Mr. Cavanagh an opportunity to show whether or not he was opposed to the building of a bridge on Winthrop street over the river, so that the street may be completed to Rock Island. Work on the street has been hung up on account of alleged objections made by Mr. Cavanagh. This morning Mayor Whiton stated that he had sent Mr. Cavanagh a release to sign. If he signed the release it would show that he did not object. The Mayor said that he expected to hear from Mr. Cavanagh sometime today.

DANCING PARTY WEST QUINCY

The Italian American Social club held its first grand dance in St. Mary's hall on Thanksgiving eve and the attendance marked it one of the most successful affairs of the season. Many young Americans attended from all parts of the city.

Dancing was enjoyed until one o'clock and there were exhibition dances by Miss Virginia Van Derstreet of Brockton and Paul Franzi of Quincy.

Music was furnished by Mazzola's orchestra.

Joseph Coletti was floor director and Domenico Marini was the assistant. Antonio DiBona, Amerigo Coletti, and Parfelo DiBona were aids.

Here Is Good News for Stomach Victims

Some very remarkable results are being obtained by treating stomach, liver and intestinal troubles with pure vegetable oils, which exert a cleansing, soothing and purifying action upon the lower bowels, removing the obstructions of poisonous fecal matter and gases and preventing their absorption by the blood. This done, the food is allowed free passage from the stomach, fermentation ceases and stomach troubles quickly disappear.

George H. Mayr, for twenty years a leading Chicago druggist, cured himself and many of his friends of stomach, liver and intestinal troubles of years' standing by this treatment, and so successful was the remedy he devised that it has since been placed in the hands of druggists all over the country, who have sold thousands of bottles.

Though absolutely harmless, the effect of the medicine is sufficient to convince any one of its remarkable effectiveness, and within 24 hours the sufferer feels like a new person. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy is now sold here by

Clyde T. Cox and druggists everywhere.

AMUSEMENTS

COLONIAL THEATRE.

The last week of Julian Eltinge, past master of character acting, agreeable comedian and distinctive stage personality, in his newest successful play, "The Crinoline Girl," is announced. This play described as funnier than "Charley's Aunt" and more mysterious than "Sherlock Holmes" is by Otto Hauerbach, author of Mr. Eltinge's previous success "The Fascinating Widow." It is also called a "farcical melodramatic comedy with songs," which would seem to place it in a class by itself as far as theatrical classifications go and which would seem to embrace every field of the drama. The songs in the new offering are all sung by Mr. Eltinge who wears for each number dazzling ultra-Parisian gowns with the grace and charm of manner that certainly ought to make the feminine contingent present envious to the extreme. He sings "The Tempting Tango," "In My Dream of You," "When Martha Was a Girl." Mr. Eltinge is surrounded by a cast that has already received the mark of approval from capacity audiences of the long Boston run.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

"Too Much Johnson" William Gillette's screamingly funny farce, has been the attraction at Castle Square Theatre all through Thanksgiving week, and no better choice of dramatic fare for audiences in holiday mood could have been made. There is no time during which our thoughts turn so naturally to old New England country days and ways as in the late fall, and a typically New England drama is to be the offering for next week. "A Midnight Bell," has for its plot a robbery in a small country town of which the "squire" is wrongly suspected. To save him, a young nephew takes the blame on his own shoulders, but is saved largely through the loyalty of a village school mistress whom he loves, and also by a sensational incident in which the village belfry figures. Mr. Hoyt's play is full of country atmosphere. We see the busy bodies of the sewing circle, the rivals in the village choir, the merry boys and girls tobogganing and sliding. And the plot of "A Midnight Bell" is as clean and wholesome and true as the atmosphere. Miss Mary Young will play the part of Norah Fairford, the pretty school mistress, with all the favorites of the Craig Players in support.

WILBUR THEATRE.

The best play of American home life on the stage today is "The Road to Happiness" in which William Hodge has scored such a pronounced triumph at the Wilbur Theatre in Boston. He is now finishing his third month there and his success is without doubt the biggest of all the Boston hits of the year. Hodge himself is thoroughly American in his unique personality and humor and his drama, with its cheerfulness and optimism, is also just as native to our soil. The scenes are laid in a typical small town, which might be either Down East, Upper New York State or Hoosier—so universal are its village characters and atmosphere. In young Jim Whitman, the struggling carpenter and Jack-of-all trades, with his ambition to be a lawyer, and Jim's invalid mother, there is presented a beautiful family household, full of all that homespun virtue and happiness which is our national ideal. Jim's chivalrous action in defending an innocent girl against the village Squire causes the dramatic action of the piece, but in the end he brings happiness even to the Squire himself and shows him the true way of sunshine along "The Road to Happiness." It is this wholesome, bright and inspiring nature of the play and its chief character that makes it so worthy of the immense popularity which it has gained.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

Not in many seasons has our stage been graced with so attractive and successful romantic drama as "Omar, the Tentmaker," the spectacular Persian love play in which Guy Bates Post will inaugurate a limited engagement at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, beginning Monday evening, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. The play relates the engrossing love-life of one of the most engaging characters in the world's history Omar Khayyam, the merry-souled Persian poet and mystic of the eleventh century. In the title role Mr. Post has endeared himself in the affections of New York theatre-goers during the past season to a degree unrivalled by an actor since the passing of the late Richard Mansfield. It is rare indeed that an actor so completely visualizes heroic figure. "Omar, the Tentmaker" is from the gifted pen of Richard Walton Tully, and has scored a much more popular success than did his preceding works, "The Bird of Paradise" and "The Rose of the Rancho." Mr. Tully succeeded in bringing to the fore all the captivating and lovable qualities in Omar's nature without in the least slighting his humanity, and the tale he has woven around the poet is swift-moving and constantly enthralling. Pictorially the production establishes a new standard in scenic embellishment, the many elaborate scenes having been designed by Mr. Tully himself, in association with Wilfred Buckland. Especially beautiful is the rose-bowered garden shimmering in silver moonlight that opens the play, while the realistic detail and picturesque adornment it is doubtful if the scene representing the huddled bazaars in the ancient city of Nishapur has ever been excelled.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.

Cyril Maude and "Grumpy" have captured Boston. The distinguished English actor is repeating his great New York and London successes and judging from present indications, "Grumpy" is due for a long stay at the Eliot street playhouse. Monday the piece enters upon its fourth week and the only noticeable change is that it has increased in popularity. There is a distinct fascination to the play that makes an emphatic appeal to all classes of playgoers. "Grumpy" is not the so called "high brow" play. In fact it is purely of the melodramatic type with many thrills, throbs and laughs. To quote a prominent critic: " 'Grumpy' stirs your laughter, puts an extra beat into your heart draws your breath a shade faster, and best of all warms up your precious heart and makes the world seem like a very nice place to be in, after all." Mr. Maude appears as Andrew Bullevant, a role that enables him to present one of his best character studies. He is a crabbed old criminal lawyer, who has retired for many years. He is of that peculiar type that one minute scorns your apparent disregard for his comfort and the next minutes upholds you for your keen interest in looking after some trivial matter. The old man is suddenly forced to turn detective by the mysterious theft of a precious jewel that takes place in his home. The piece moves with pronounced rapidity and never lags for a single moment. Mr. Maude is supported by an excellent English company that includes Elsie MacKay, a very talented and beautiful actress. The regular Thursday and Saturday matinees prevail.

SHUBERT THEATRE.

Harry Lauder, the great Scotch Comedian, comes to the Shubert Theatre, Boston, for a week's engagement, beginning Monday afternoon, Nov. 30. During Mr. Lauder's engagement he will give matinees daily. The comedian is now engaged in his seventh American tour in the United States, and will remain in this country nine weeks only, going from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast. The interest in Lauder's tour so far, has surpassed all of his former engagements. He will present a new song repertoire all of them typically Lauderesque and at the same time they are numbers that have gained him greater popularity in England than he has ever enjoyed before. His new repertoire will include "Its Nice to get up in the Mornin' But Nicer to Lie in Bed," "Ta! Ta! My Bonnie Maggie Darlin'," "The Sodger", "It's Nice When You Love a Wee Lassie", "Same as His Faither Did Before Him", "I'm the Saftest o' the Family", "Roaming in the Gloamin", "She's the Lass for Me", " A Wee Deoch-An-Doris", "I Love a Lassie", "She's Ma Daisy", and "The Kilty Lads."

Appearing in Mr. Lauder's company are a number of noted artists secured by William Morris for the forthcoming tour, including Alfred Latell & Elsa Vokes in "A Dog of Fantasy," Irene Bercsehy, a Hungarian Gypsy Cimbalist; Albert Donnelly, the Silent Humorist; Erno Rapee, a noted Hungarian Pianist; Martinetti & Sylvester and Jed and Ethel Dooley.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

The noted actress, Margaret Anglin, presented an artistic revival of Oscar Wilde's brilliant play, "Lady Windermere's Fan" at the Hollis Street Theatre Monday night, before an audience that packed the spacious playhouse to its capacity. Miss Anglin has a great opportunity in the Wilde play to exercise her remarkable talents, and artistic skill in blending the serious with the frivolous. In the role of Mrs. Erlynne she runs the gamut of emotions from grave to gay, from laughter to tears and from comedy to the powerful and emotional. Her supporting company is an organization of splendid talent, and each part in the long list of characters is played with finish and authority. There is not one dissenting voice to the opinion that the engagement is one of the most worthy and interesting dramatic attractions of the current season. The play itself sparkles with epigrams, which abound in every scene. It is more than a comedy, it is a drama as well that pictures a remarkable story of domestic jealousy, admirably constructed and garnished with the brilliance of Wilde's wonderful pen. Wilde's genius at words, and Margaret Anglin's genius at acting and staging the play and vivifying the production make the combination at the Hollis Street Theatre an attraction which any person interested in the theatre, should not miss. Miss Anglin in the sphere of emotional acting stands without a peer and in a single gesture is able to convey all that in an ordinary artist would be lost. The engagement terminates Dec. 5.

Norfolk, ss.

At a Probate Court holden at Quincy in and for said County of Norfolk, on the eleventh day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

On the petition of William Henry Yapp of Quincy in said County, praying that his name may be changed to that of William Henry Hastings public notice having been given, according to the order of Court, that all persons might appear and show cause, if any they had, why the same should not be granted, and it appearing that the reason given therefor is sufficient, and consistent with the public interest and being satisfactory to the Court, and no objection being made.

It is decreed that his name be changed, as prayed for, to that of William Henry Hastings which name he shall hereafter bear, and which shall be his legal name, and that he give public notice of said change by publishing this decree once in each week for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger a newspaper published in said Quincy and make return to this Court under oath that such notice has been given

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

A large number of boys sat down last Friday evening to the first Bible Class feed for the members of the Boys' Division who are interested in Bible study. The feed was served by the ladies of the Ladies Auxiliary with Mrs. George Beal, of Braintree, as Chairman of the Boys' Work Committee of the Auxiliary in charge. After the feed which was one of the best the boys have ever eaten in the Y. M. C. A. short talks were given regarding the value of Bible study. The speakers were Mr. Sedgwick, chairman of Boys Work Committee, C. W. Pierce, Chairman of Finance Committee, Frank Burgess, President of the Association, E. P. Conlon County Secretary, Mr. Bromley General Secretary, L. La Rose, Physical Director, C. H. Humphrey, Boys' Work Secretary, and Sturgis Hunt, President of the Boys' Cabinet. The Class work started Sunday afternoon when Mr. Humphrey had a class of the Juniors meeting at three o'clock. Frank Burgess had a class of the Employed Boys meeting at 7.30 Tuesday evening and the other classes will meet Friday P. M. at 4.15. The Cadet class will be taught by Joe Beal, the chairman of the Bible Study committee and the Juniors will be under Mr. Humphrey. The Student class will meet with Mr. Samuel Melville as teacher Friday evening at 7.30.

Stereopticon pictures Saturday morning at nine o'clock, Pilgrims Progress. About eighty boys saw the first of this last Saturday. Come and make it a hundred this week.

A bunch of the Juniors and Cadets spent the day at Cambridge Mass., Y. M. C. A. where they played a game of basket-ball with a picked team from the Juniors there. After enjoying a swim in the pool and eating their lunch there they visited the Harvard Museum getting home late in the afternoon. The team which played was composed of the following fellows Eric Nelson, Herbert Hendry, Everett Robbie, James Le Cain, Rodger Ahlstrom, Charles Williams and William Torrey.

The standing of the clubs in the Juniors is as follows, Michigan 19.6 Penn State 12.3, Princeton 23.3, Harvard 18.1.

The point scores for the Employed Boys clubs remains the same as last week, as no games were played this Monday. The athletic meet held on that evening resulted in some surprises regarding the winners in some of the events. The results were as follows: 15 yd. dash, first, J. Sullivan, second, J. Robertson, third, J. McNeal. 6 Potato Race, first, A. Hall; second, J. Robertson; J. McNeal. 300 Yard run brought out a new winner in J. Sullivan with A. Connor second and A Hall third. Fred Kingsbury running scratch in the 1000 yard Race was beaten to the tape by A. Connors whose time was 2.52 for the distance. Kingsbury was second, J. McNeil, third. The Running High Jump showed R. Osgood in first place due to a liberal handicap. J. Robertson won second place with Bob Davis of the Sudent Class and Fred Kingsbury tie for third, Kingsbury won it on the toss up.

A dark horse was uncovered in William Webber, a new member of the class in the Running Broad Jump who came in winner with his handicap, with a jump of over eighteen feet, R. Osgood was second and A. Hall, third. The points won by the fellows are as follows: Sullivan 10, Connor 8, Hall 7, Osgood 8, Robertson 5 1-2, McNeill 5, Webber 5, Kingsbury 3 1-2.

OPENING GAMES.

Tomorrow night the first games of the season will be played on the local Y. M. C. A. floor, with the crack Braintree A. A. teams as the attraction. The local boys have been practicing twice a week and while results are beginning to show it will be impossible to pick the best teams for tomorrow nights games so there will probably be quite a few changes in the line-up during the progress of the games

The first team will in all probability line up as follows at the start; Rich and E. Brown as forwards, Trask at center, Chapman and Kenn in the back positions. Jim Jenkins will also get a chance to show what he can do as a goal-getter.

The second team is a harder proposition than the first, for Dineen, Robertson, Kemp, Andrews and Foss are all putting up a great fight for forward positions. Bishop will play center and Shirley is sure of his place as a back.

The first game will commence at 8:00 o'clock.

BOCK—GUPTILL.

William H. Bock of 18 Carruth street, a conductor on the Quincy division of the Bay State St. Ry. and Susan Adelaide Guptill of 61 Walnut avenue, Atlantic surprised their many friends by being married on Nov. 24. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Joseph Walther.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

About 150 people attended the union Thanksgiving service of the three churches of East Milton, the East Congregational, First Baptist and Church of Our Saviour, held Wednesday evening in the Congregational church. The service was opened with the doxology followed by prayer by Rev. J. Hamilton Woodsum of the Baptist church. Then the choir consisting of Mrs. J. H. Macquire, Miss Orrissa Beales, Miss Irving Graham, Miss Irene Kelley, Miss Lois Bridgoe, Miss Eleanor Bridgoe, Miss Helen Wheelock, Miss Alice Wheelock, Miss Madeline Addison, Benjamin Graham, Henry Brierley James Burbank and Lawrence Abbot, sang "Unto thee oh God do we give thanks." The responsive reading from the 145th psalm was led by Rev. Boyd Edwards of the Church of Our Saviour. Following this the audience sang "God the Father Almighty." Rev. Edwards then gave a greeting and read the proclamation of the governor. Rev. Woodsum read the scripture. The choir sang the "Hymn of Peace." A collection of $10 was taken up for the Red Cross Society. Rev. Edwards led in prayer. The audience sang "God the Father Almighty." The sermon was delivered by Rev. Woodsum, whose subject was "The Goodness of God" and his text was found in the 31st Psalm, 19; "Oh how great is thy goodness, which thou hast laid up for them that fear thee; which thou hast wrought for them that trust in thee before the sons of men." Rev. Woodsum called God the absolute good, and said that God's goodness is more valuable to us than His external actions. The Bible and Jesus Christ are two evidences of God's Goodness. He urged the audience, to thank God for peace, and said their thanksgiving must come from the heart and express itself in their actions. After the audience sang three verses of "Harvest and Thanksgiving" Rev. M. Edwards gave the benediction.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Nogler of Pierce street had as their guest this week Rev. Ira B. Hardy of Gloucester formerly pastor of the First Baptist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Orin A. Andrews of Washington street spent the holiday with Mr. Andrew's parents in Leominster, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Harlow and son Lewis of Belcher circle enjoyed the holiday at Ragged Mountains, N. H.

GOOD SPEAKERS.

The No-License rally in Kincaide's theatre this year promises to be one of the most interesting held for years. Prof. Nichols, one of the speakers, is a well known lecturer and orator who has made a life study of temperance matters in this country and abroad, and should be able to handle the subject of No-License in a masterful manner. The Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of Bethany church will be the chief local speaker, and no one in our city can present the matter to the people any better than will be done by Mr. Willmott, and no doubt all of the attendants of Bethany church will be on hand to hear their pastor on this important matter. H. A. Moir, one of the leading mechanics of Quincy Point is going to handle the subject from the view-point of a workingman. Last year the theatre was filled to overflowing, and it looks as though there will be a large crowd waiting to get in this year when the doors open at 7 o'clock. Be early to secure a seat.

PRATT'S BREAD is liked by the most discriminating people. Grocers sell it.

HELP THE KIDNEYS

Quincy Readers Are Learning The Way.

It's the little kidney ills—
The lame, weak or aching back—
The unnoticed urinary disorders—

No school today.

Election next Tuesday.

Basket ball practice starts at High school next week.

A large flock of geese flew over Merrymount park Thursday night about nine o'clock going south. They were flying low and could be plainly seen in the moonlight. Their honk, honk attracted many persons out doors to look at them.

Ten rallies are announced for this evening by the supporters of James E. Wall for Mayor. whirlwind tour of the city will be made. The spellbinders will be accompanied by the Wollaston Brass Band and the chorus will be led by Mr. McDevitt.

Sample ballots for the municipal election next Tuesday have been posted by the City Clerk today. To vote the entire ticket ten crosses will be necessary in Wards One, Two, Three and Five and 11 crosses in Wards Four and Six, the two latter wards voting for member of the School Committee from the ward. The full list of the candidates appears in today's Daily Ledger, also the warrant for the election.

This year there will be no meeting of the City Council the night before the city election. Usually there has been a Council meeting the night before which has interfered somewhat with those members who desired to attend political rallies.

Family gatherings were the rule throughout the city Thanksgiving day Many such gatherings were held in Quincy homes, while in other cases Quincy people passed the day with family gatherings in other cities and towns. It was a beautiful day, and good cheer reigned supreme.

The auto chemical of the central station responded on a still alarm shortly before 1 o'clock this noon for a bad grass fire off Adams street.

Quincy High schools football team which suffered keen disappointment through the concelling of the Waltham game by the latter were the guests of that team at the annual Waltham-Newton game at Waltham on Thanksgiving day. According to papers Newton outplayed them in every department of the game and many Quincy players believe they could have defeated Waltham. The game ended in a 6 to 6 tie and was played on a muddy field.

There were 24 men in the turkey rolloffs at the Coliseum alleys Wednesday evening and Mitchell was high with a total of 315. Peter Morton was second with 311 and Bergfors third with 303, one more than the total of Dubois.

The Walther class of the Wollaston Baptist church extend a general invitation to men to an illustrated lecture this evening at the church by Paul W. Herbert, L L D., who lectures on "How history repeats itself."

CHINESE MISSIONARIES AND MISSIONS.

By Mrs. William Chase.

On our trip to China it was our good fortune to cross the Pacific ocean in the company of four missionaries, a man and his wife who had spent eight years in China, and were now returning after a year's visit to their homeland; a young minister, and a young lady, both of whom were on their way to enter the mission field. We became much interested in these people and were invited by them to visit the Baptist compound in Canton.

This compound is enclosed by a wall inside of which is the missionary's home, the chapel where religious services are held, the schools for boys and girls, and the athletic field. We visited the schools where we heard the pupils recite in the Chinese language. Each room was in charge of an American teacher assisted by a Chinese girl, a graduate of the school.

The teacher told us that the boys and girls are very bright and interesting and soon become companionable and friendly. The work of such a school is easy when compared with that of the missionary who goes out into the rural districts to call, teach and hold services.

One lady, sixty years old, who had served the people for twenty years, often walked ten miles into the country to visit them. Another went for a week at a time to interest the natives in Bible study. She rides her donkey, takes her food and blankets and depends on the natives for shelter. While warming the donkey's food she places in it a can of beans or soup for her own use. When all is hot she takes out the can, opens it and her meal is ready. I could tell of many such cases as this.

The Chinese are a very honorable people, and loyal to each other. If one is in financial trouble others are ready and willing to help him, saying, "Chinaman must not lose his face" meaning his reputation.

The missionaries become very fond of their people, and, as one lady said, "I never saw a missionary who was willing to leave the field." Not only does the missionary train the natives in religious matters, but in orderliness and cleanliness as well. As one missionary writes to me, "The Chinese bathe often and are personally clean, but they have no conception of cleanliness in the home."

Another missionary, who visited me at my home last August, told many interesting tales of her sixteen years' work among the natives of Korea. The work cannot all be done in a moment. It is a year before a missionary becomes useful, for it takes that length of time to learn the language.

We left the missionary field for a short trip through Canton. The streets here are very narrow and the shops mere holes in the wall, though very attractive. They make a specialty of carved ivory. The sedan chair is the only means of travel, for, except on the water front, called the Bund, the streets are too narrow to allow the use of horses or 'rikishas.

Returning to Hong Kong, we took chairs for the boat. The path to the boat led us through a public square, where, by the crowd of people, we supposed some game or athletic sport was the attraction, and of which we tried in vain to get a glimpse. We had no regret later on when we learned that it was a public execution, which any one who wished might see.

If time and space permitted many interesting tales could be told, but I am sure you will agree with me that, under existing circumstances, missionaries are much needed in China.

QUINCY SOUTH

The Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church met Tuesday evening with Mrs. Matheson, the wife of the retiring pastor. A very pleasing incident of the occasion was the presentation to Mrs. Matheson of a beautiful mahogany clock. Mrs. Thomas Bishop well expressed the sentiments of the ladies when she said: "Dear Mrs. Matheson—It is with pleasure, yet mixed with a little regret I think, that we all come together here tonight Perhaps it may be the last time we will all be together again, but nevertheless we all feel it a pleasure to present to Mrs. Matheson this time piece. First to remind her of the good feeling we, as a missionary society hold toward her; secondly, we hope it may remind her when she looks at it, of the pleasant times we have had together; for I feel, and I think all the ladies here do, that Mrs. Matheson has done a great deal for us. We hope wherever she and her good husband, Rev. Mr. Matheson may go, they will do a great and good work. We certainly feel much regret at parting with them, but as those things must be, we wish them both every success in their new home. I think this is the wish of all her missionary friends." Mrs. Matheson responded with feeling and Mrs. George Shirley also spoke. Refreshments and a social hour followed.

Well attended rallies in the interests of James E. Wall were held Wednesday evening at Dobles hall, South Quincy and St. James hall, West Quincy. The speakers were Neil McDonald, Andrew Morrison, David McIntosh T. A. Winsloe, James A. Hagen and Councilman Carlson.

Ward Three will have plenty of chances to hear Edward J. Fegan, the Democratic candidate for Mayor, tonight, for he will make a whirlwind tour of the ward, speaking in every section—at Malnati's hall, Finnish hall at the Italian Citizens' club on Water street and in Hibernian hall. On this tour he will be accompanied by a staff of distinguished orators, among whom will be Hon. Joseph Santosuosso, the most eloquent Italian lawyer of Boston, Representative Michael T. Sullivan, Edward J. Parker, chairman of the city committee, Leo P. Noonan Peter M. Sullivan, James P. Powers, and the councilmanic candidates. On Saturday evening, Mr. Fegan will be accompanied by the same corps of speakers in open air rallies through Ward One. On Monday evening there will be a meeting in St. Marys hall, Ward Four and a parade through every part of the city.

Mrs. C. H. Field of 43 Pleasant street has as guests her brother Charles F. Emerson of West Dighton and Mrs. Hill and daughter.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones (nee Elsie Lawrence) are congratulating them upon the arrival of a bouncing boy on Tuesday Mother and baby are doing well.

Yale has to have a 69,000 stadium to accommodate its football crowds, but that amount of seating capacity will not be needed for the intercollegiate debating contests.

Mother celebrates Thanksgiving like other holidays, by getting dinner.

If you ask your wife to carve the turkey, the bird will not probably be deposited in some one's lap.

QUINCY ATLANTIC

The ladies of the Atlantic Methodist church took in $109 at their sale last week. The inclement weather prevented a greater success.

The carpenters of Atlantic showed their friendliness to the Methodists by volunteering to work in putting on the fireproof roof last Saturday. The ladies prepared dinner for them in the vestry. Rev. Dr. Parkinson of Newton made an interesting after-dinner talk.

At the Atlantic Methodist church Sunday morning a sermon will be preached by the pastor on "Divine protection." Revival service at 7 P. M. The congregation will join in the union No-License meeting at the school hall at 8 P. M.

Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Titus of Lakewood, R. I., spent the holiday with Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Davidson of Newbury avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Ashland and family of Atlantic spent Thanksgiving with friends in Roxbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rogers of Clive street entertained over Thanksgiving, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Allen and son, Irving of Campbello and Horace B. Rogers of Worcester.

George Sherwin of Clive street entertained his brother and niece from Cambridge over the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Smith of Faxon road spent the holiday with relatives in Somerville.

Chamberlain and His Monocle.

While the late Joseph Chamberlain was crossing Palace yard one day some years ago he was accosted by an American girl with the cool request, "Mr. Chamberlain, please do give me your eyeglass for my cabinet at home."

It was at once handed to her, guard and all, so promptly that the curio hunter apparently felt some remorse and stammered, "Most likely I'm inconveniencing you." "Not at all," replied Mr. Chamberlain as he produced from his pocket a morocco case and took from it a spare monocle, which he screwed in position, and then went on his way, smiling.—London Express.

A Spade and an Acre.

I believe in a spade and an acre of ground. Whoso cuts a straight path to his own living by the help of God, in the sun and rain and sprouting grain, seems to me to be a universal workingman. He solves the problem of life, not for one, but for all men of sound body.—Emerson.

Pocket Mirrors.

From the twelfth to the fifteenth century small mirrors, carried in the pocket or attached to the girdle, were regarded as indispensable adjuncts to ladies' toilets. The pocket mirror was a circular plaque of polished metal fixed in a shallow box and covered with a lid.

QUINCY POINT

John Smith of Quincy Point, said to be without a peer in local hunting circles, bagged the fox on Thanksgiving day which has been giving the residents of East Braintree all kinds of trouble.

The depradations of the fox commenced about two weeks ago and extended over an area of a square mile. All efforts to trap the animal failed. Smith learned that the fox was about and Thursday morning left at daybreak to run him down. His quest took several hours and shortly before noon he scared Reynard out of the Wendells ledge woods. All that was required was one shot and the prize was his. When he came through City Square at noon he was the centre of an admiring throng.

QUINCY WEST

Among the holiday weddings was that of Miss Katherine H. Brady of 33 Groveland street, Dorchester, and Joseph H. Ford of 16 Grove street, West Quincy, On Wednesday, Nov. 25, at St. Gregory's rectory, Dorchester, by Rev. Fr. Charles Heaney. The couple were attended by Mrs. George Webbleton of Dorchester and John O'Rourke of West Quincy. A wedding reception followed at the Copley Square Hotel, Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Ford will reside in Quincy. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Reginald Randall.

Edwin Buskala, 24 years, of 34 West street, ate his Thanksgiving dinner and then fell downstairs at his home and sustained a broken leg. He was in the Quincy City Hospital for a short time and is now at home.

ANNIE R. GILES.

Annie R. Giles, widow of James Giles, and a respected South Quincy resident, is dead at her home at 60 Trafford street after a six years illness. She was the mother of Mrs. Mary McLeod, Mrs. Marion Wynott and Mrs. Anna Greenough, all of Braintree, Miss Minnie Giles and James, William and John Giles of this city. She was a member of Loyal Ladies of Clan MacGregor and at her funeral Saturday there will be a delegation from that society.

COMM. GILMAN AT WEST QUINCY

Rousing Meeting in Interest of No-License Movement

John E. Gilman, past national commander of the G. A. R., who left his right arm on the field of Gettesburg was the principle speaker at the No-License rally o fthe St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. Society, in its hall on Willard street Friday night and according to the statements made by the four score and ten years old veteran the main reason he was able to now urge the cause of total abstinence was that he discontinued using intoxicating liquors 40 years ago.

Nobody knows said Mr. Gilman the curse of liquor. Not a single man can know the curse of it, can know of the misery and suffering it causes in this world.

More deaths follow the use of liquor than will result from all the battles in the greatest war in civilization, now waging in Europe. Remember the destruction in homes by liquor. Let your no vote be the watchword which will carry you through the rest of your life.

Mr. Gilman was given a hearty applause when presented by President Thomas F. O'Brien of the society, the presiding officer, but the loudest kind of applause broke at the conclusion of his speech. The crowd comfortably filled the hall and in the balcony were many young ladies who have interested themselves in the great question to be voted on Tuesday.

Ward Four went license last year and it was because of that the rally was held. Charles J. McGilvray, speaking for the society said it would be false to its principles if it did not

THE ANNUAL ASSEMBLY

Under Auspices of Committee of Women's Club

The society people of Quincy were largely represented at Music hall last evening at the annual assembly given under the auspices of the Civics Committee of the Quincy Women's Club, of which Mrs. H. H. Kitson is chairman. The occasion was graced by the presence of Acting Mayor Joseph L. Whiton and Mrs. Whiton, City Solicitor Walter S. Pinkham and Mrs. Pinkham, and most of the officers of the club and other well known residents and non-residents.

The three matrons—Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, the president, Mrs. James H. Stetson and Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick, were located in a cozy corner at the left of the stage, amid ferns and hot house plants. They were assisted during the evening by Mrs. H. H. Kitson, Mrs. Henry M. Faxon and others.

The guests on their arrival were presented by the following ushers: Delcevare King, Edward Avery, Carroll M. Bill, Paul Blackmur, Walter E. Burke, William C. Edwards, Henry Hardwick Faxon, Henry Munroe Faxon, Charles L. Hardwick, Henry R. Holden, Charles L. Homer, Gordon R. Jameson, Carleton C. Lane, N. Gorham Nickerson Jr., Warren G. Ogden, George E. Pfaffmann, C. Eaton Pierce, Charles A. Price, Winslow Sears, Carl R. Sheppard, John O. Short, James H. Slade and F. Morton Smith.

Entrancing and lively music by Poole's orchestra added greatly to the success of the occasion. Many novelties were introduced. Frappe was served in the corner at the right of the stage. It was one of the most enjoyable dances of the season.

AT THE LAST HOUR

An unscrupulous politician is flooding the city with unfair and false statements, attacking the record of Chester I. Campbell, Republican candidate for Mayor. During the last few days Mr. Campbell has nailed several of these campaign untruths and proven beyond a shadow of doubt that they were vicious, false statements, invented for the purpose of deceiving the voters.

He Asks You, Mr. Voter

To CAREFULLY CONSIDER these Last Hour statements which are being sent broadcast at a time when it is impossible for him to answer them.

GIVING TO THE NEEDY.

Suggestions have been made in many quarters that this year Christmas presents be given merely to children and dependents, and that the money saved be devoted to helping the needy and suffering, either at home or in Europe.

It is hardly likely that the customary offerings of love and intimacy can be checked even under present circumstances. At the same time, this is a year when embroidered handkerchief holders and plush photograph albums will go hard. Also it is a time when overcoats and sweaters and barrels of flour and apples ought to be in unusual demand as gifts.

There is always too much swapping and trading at Christmas, too many lavish offerings to people already living in superfluity, too little of that thoughtful generosity that seeks out in their isolation, the hungry, who are usually too self-respecting to reveal their own need.

NO LICENSE VOTE.

Meetings in the interest of No-License are to be held in all parts of Quincy on Sunday. These meetings are not held because of any fear that Quincy will return to the License column after so many years of No-License, but that the young man, who on Tuesday will cast his first vote, and that the new residents who will for the first time vote in Quincy, may be informed of the benefits which have been derived during the many years that the saloon has been banished from the city, and that they may use their vote in help swelling the majority for "No."

Every year there are many voters, who doubtless, for thoughtlessness only, neglect to register their vote in the interest of keeping the city free from the element that is sure to result from the open saloon.

West Quincy, which a year ago gave the largest vote of any ward in the city in favor of the saloon, is thoroughly aroused this year and through its well known society, the St. Marry's C. T. A. & M. R., is doing a noble work that this ward may on Tuesday roll up a large "No" vote.

Most of all however, the men whom the No-License League desire to reach, aside from the new voters, are those men who have not taken interest enough in the question to record themselves. It requires but a moment's additional time to mark a cross against "No" at the bottom of the ballot and it is hoped that when the vote is counted next Tuesday evening that the largest majority for No-License in the history of the city will have been recorded.

TWO RALLIES BY CAMPBELL

And on Monday Night a Big Auto Parade

After three days of quiet, personal campaigning the Chester I. Campbell bandwagon, with its pipers, red fire and spell binders, will appear above the horizon in Quincy this evening to spread the "Campbell gospel of Good Government and a Business Administration." At Union hall, Hancock street, and in the Wollaston School hall, the big guns of the campaign will be discharged.

At Union hall Charles H. Johnson and Henry F. Tilden, both of whom opposed Mr. Campbell at the primaries, will be among the speakers. Former Mayor Eugene Stone will preside. Mayor Whiton, Alexander Falconer and Candidate Chester I. Campbell, will also speak.

Former Mayor Charles M. Bryan will be the chairman of the meeting in the Wollaston School hall. Besides the mayoralty candidate there will be talks by Mayor Whiton, Alexander Cowe, candidate for the City Council Senator Langelier, Councilman Charles W. Bailey and others.

There will also be a number of small meetings and receptions to be attended by Mr. Campbell tonight.

The Campbell "night-before" on Monday promises to eclipse anything that has ever been pulled off in Quincy. There will be automobiles, red fire, music galore, and it will not be the fault of the Campbell supporters if they fail to impress the name of their candidate upon every citizen of the city before he goes to the polls.

THOMAS JOYCE.

Thomas Joyce, a well known musician and a popular West Quincy resident died at his home at 335 Copeland street Friday afternoon after a short illness. He is survived by his wife and two children.

Thomas Joyce was born in West Quincy, the son of Mary and the late John Joyce. With the exception of several years spent in Milford, Mass., he always made his home here. Mr. Joyce was a natural musician and was the leader of the orchestra bearing his name. He had considerable of a reputation as an entertainer having taking part in many minstrel shows in and about Boston. He also conducted dancing classes here for several winters and was a very clever buck and wing performer.

An electric heater is being installed in the office of the City Auditor at City Hall, to provide heat during the early morning and evenings.

CASES AGAIN CONTINUED

Officer Contradicts Testimony of Chief Hunt

Neil Sullivan, held in connection with the recent raid of the Riverbank Club at East Braintree was arraigned in court this morning on two charges of violation of the liquor laws. Charles Mellen, counsel of the town of Braintree represented the government and John P. Feeney, former mayor of Woburn represented the defendant.

Interest in the case quickened somewhat when patrolman Gallivan of Braintree contradicted in part the testimony of Chief of Police Hunt of that town, complainant in the case.

Chief Hunt testified that all the bottles of liquor on a shelf had tags on them reading "this is the property of" Patrolman Gallivan said not all the bottles were thus labelled, fully one-third less than the number mentioned by Chief Hunt.

The case was going ahead rapidly until Judge Avery suspended hearing evidence to dispose of important other matters. It will be continued next Saturday.

Those who testified this morning were Chief Hunt, patrolmen Shay, Galvan, Johnson of Braintree, Chief Crooker of Holbrook, all of whom comprised the raiding party, John Lawrence of the Electric Light Co. of that town who said the bills for electricity were always paid through an unknown third party, John Skinner of East Weymouth who said Neil Sullivan directed him where to locate a stove a few weeks ago and William R. Drake who told of the amount of fuel furnished by him.

At the time of the raid the police seized almost 100 gallons of intoxicants, a great part of it bottled beer. This morning high priced liquors were introduced as evidence.

OLINDY HIGH MAN.

James Olindy was high man in the rolloff at the Wardwell alleys Friday evening. His total was 353 and his high single was 152. one pin-less than the alley record of Chester Moyle. Harry Paine was second with a total of 311 and Matthew Nicoll third with 303. S. Kelley was fourth with 297. There were 24 men who qualified. The rolloff will take place every Wednesday night hereafter.

Mitchell got the high total, 315 in the turkey rolloffs Wednesday evening. Morton was second with 311 and Bergfors third with 303.

UNANIMOUS IN WARD FIVE

Only Two Strangers in Favor of Mr. Wall

There is trouble brewing in the Campbell forces in Ward Five, as the result of the Wall rally in Brasee hall Friday evening. It seems that when Mr. Wall reached this stage of his whirlwind tour that there were twenty-four men in the audience. According to A. N. Murray, the former councilman, 22 of these were loyal Campbell men.

The trouble is not due to the fact that there were twenty-two Campbell men in the audience. It arose over the difficulty that the twenty-two had in their efforts to identify the other two in the audience. It was the concensus of opinion that they (the two strangers) had motored to the hall with the candidate and were enjoying the thrill of being whirled through the city and mixing with the great, cheering Wall enthusiasts.

As the matter was not adjusted last night, today George Taylor and A. R. McDonald, the Campbell ward committeemen, were informed to get on their gum shoes and discover who the two voters were that might spoil an unanimous vote for their candidate in Ward Five on election day.

GROUP PICTURE TO BE DELIVERED

The group picture of the members of the City Council of 1913, for which the members posed a year ago at the Pierce studio is about ready for delivery. It is expected that next week will see the picture adorning the walls of the Council Chamber, at City Hall. The delay in the delivery of the picture was due to the fact that the photographer was unable to obtain a sitting from ex-Councilman Cunningham. Mr. Cunningham was written to several times and promised to come to Quincy and sit for a picture, but never fulfilled the promise. Tired of waiting it was decided to finish up the group without him. In the space in the frame reserved for Mr. Cunningham will be a picture of City Hall. The pictures are now being marked and as noted will probably be delivered in a few days.

Margaret Foley the well known expounder of Woman's suffrage was in town Friday evening speaking for the cause which she represents.

THE UNEXPECTED . THAT HAPPENS

At 165 Granite street, Quincy lives a gentleman by the name of Peter A. Nilson andw his wife Ida Maria. Peter and Ida are both Swedes, that is to say they are of the Scandinavian race and can trace the descendants back to Noah's Mayflower. They have four children, all Americans as far as that applies to those with a fair skin.

On Wednesday evening, November 25, or Thanksgiving eve., Ida and Peter were busy, each in their own way, to prepare for the day on which the whole nation is called upon to give thanks to the higher ruler of the Universe for all the blessings and miseries received during the past year. About 8.15 o'clock a squad was heard like the roaring of the great ocean and in went all the doors of the Nilson house, and a crowd of men and women poured in from all directions shouting at the top of their voices "Ida—Peter—you have been married for ten years do you remember what a grand time we had then! Now we will see what we can do to-night!" In the meantime Peter and Ida began to breath in a more normal way, so no doctor or smelling salts were needed. At this time a great readjustment had started all through the house, every one was accused of standing on his neighbor's corns, and you had ought to have seen the faces; they had all the varities of expressions that a comedian could possibly wish to produce. Finally everybody found enough floor space to stand on and everything for a moment was attention. Into the center of the parlor walked a man who was neither very big nor very small, he was presented as the toastmaster for the evening. This gentleman was Otto E. Gelotte, a councilman from Ward Three. Of course you who know Otto, know that he hardly ever runs short of something to say. He got through his job to the satisfaction of all, ending his remarks by presenting to Mr. and Mrs. Nilson a fine morris rocker, which was a present from the friends assembled.

of South Quincy. Jack is a fellow of South Quncy. Jack is a fellow everybody likes, because he is a man that can adjust himself to all conditions, and as I understand it, Jack is the seventh son of a seventh son of a Highlander, and stands six feet three inches in the air, and built in proportions so wherever Jack goes he can not help but being noticed. He doesn't wear his kilt except on special occasions, and that is when he celebrates the memories of his ancestors, who under William Wallace fought for the freedom and liberty of Scotland. Jack is a good speaker and a good singer and was called upon several times during the evening.

Tony Isaackson was the next entertainer. Tony is neither Italian nor Swede, neither has he got any Irish, Scotch or English blood in his veins so he is a Norwegian, but Tony is a great singer, he can handle any key from the highest to the lowest, and do it as easy as rolling off a log.

There were many entertainers, among them Otto Backman, Miss Svea Johnson, Miss Esther Nilson and others. The committee of arrangements were Mr. and Mrs. Gustaf Pearson and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Funke, to whom all credit is due for the efficient way in which refreshments were served several time during the evening. When the roosters started to crow everybody went home thoroughly convinced in their heart that if we live in peace and harmony with our neighbor this world is not a bad place after all.

WHIRLWIND TOUR BY WALL

Candidate Speaks in Seventeen Places

James E. Wall and his band of "Royal Rooters" toured the city last evening, speaking in seventeen places. The speakers travelled in ten automobiles and made stops at halls in each ward and also had several open air rallies.

Miss Margaret Foley was prominent among the speakers for Mr. Wall and in the course of her remarks she told of her experiences in the Nevada gold mines which proved highly interesting.

Mr. Wall opened the tour in Atlantic speaking at some length about the conditions in that part of the city as regards homes and buildings. He compared Atlantic, the nearest suburb of Boston, to some of the other outlying parts such as Dorchester, Roxbury, Forest Hills and such places

After several stops in Squantum, Montclair, Atlantic and Wollaston, Mr. Wall arrived in City Square. Then he spoke in two rallies in Quincy Point, two in West Quincy, and closed the evening in South Quincy. In all it was a very successful evening, both from attendance and enthusiasm.

Mr. Wall was greeted with rounds of applause when he stated that, owing to the general business depression throughout the country, he was opposed to selling the homes at this time for unpaid taxes. He promised that, when elected, he would so equalize assessments that the burden of taxaton would not fall on the owners of small homes, and that in any event no home should be sold until the owner had been given all possible chance to pay his taxes.

At the close of the rallies all the speakers and lieutenants assembled at the home of John Casey, West Quincy where plans were laid for the monster automobile parade to-night ending with a rally in St. Mary's hall and another whirlwind tour on Monday evening.

At some of the rallies Councilman Carlson offered to give $1000 to charity, if Mr. Campbell would bring proof that the statement of the Musicians Union in writing was not true.

try to stem the increasing license vote. Those who love West Quincy best and love her deeply regret the increase i nthe yes vote.

Other speakers were Hon. John J. Attridge, formerly of the Boston common council of Boston, Robert H. Magwood, secretary of the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon Society, Joseph A. Sedgwick President of the Quincy No-License League, and between the speaking there were vocal solos by Miss Annie Sullivan and Miss Nora Reardon, accompanied by Miss Rose Du Temple and Joseph Caravaglio, accompanied by Miss Gertrude Shevlin. Miss Reardon as an encore number sung "It's a long way to Tipperary" and received such tremendous applause she sang it again and all joined in the chorus.

And none sang with clearer voice the well known words than Commander Gilman. The song followed his speech in which he said you come on the stage long years after I and my playmates were young men. We, he said, have played our part well and I am sure you will play your part well in the battle of life, as strongly and bravely as we did ours. Mr. Gilman for many years connected with the state and city institutions said his experience through associations taught him the wide evil effects of the drinking habit.

Mr. Magwood said facts are that kitchen bar rooms exist in greater number where license exists than without it. He declared they were floated by the saloon keeper who supported the family of the man convicted and sent to jail because of them and set him up in business again when his term expires. Lawrence went bankrupt because its government was dictated to by the saloon keeper and 67 per cent of the arrests in the state and 63 per cent of the committments to jail are for drunkenness.

The most effective part of a strong anti-saloon argument of Mr. Sedgwick was that the man who votes for license is the man who deserves to have the saloon next door to his home if the city went "yes."

Mr. Attridge said he attended at the request of Fr. Thomas R. McCoy, pastor of St. Mary's parish. He spoke of the work done to increase the temperance ranks in Boston by Father McCoy and how his Holy Name Society of 900 members at the Cathedral presented a strong front against the saloon. He spoke of his experience as a member of the bar and common council, how men of rare ability sacrificed their opportunity through drink and closed by asking the sisters and the good old fashioned mothers of the community to work for an increase "no" vote. All sang "My Country 'Tis of Thee" before the adjournment.

DEATH COMRADE WARREN DUNBAR

For Many Years Officer of Day of Paul Revere

Warren Dunbar, one of the charter members of Paul Revere Post 88. G. A. R. as well as one of the most active members of the post, passed away this morning at the residence of Mrs. Frank McNeil at North Weymouth, where he has been making his home, after an illness of some weeks.

For years Comrade Dunbar has held the office of Officer of the Day in the Post. One of the duties of this officer is to lead the command whenever it makes a public appearance. either to bury the body of a dead comrade or to decorate the graves of comrades who have answered to last roll call.

Proudly did he carry his sword on such occasions, and although well along in years his step was light, and he carried himself as erect as he did during those trying times in the sixties when he with his comrades faced the bullets of the rebels.

In his younger days he was a bootmaker but when the call came for troops he answered the call and served his country faithfully. He was a member of Co. E, 12th Mass. infantry. This was the Fletcher Webster company of which Past Commander George L. Phillips, and Past Department Commander John E. Gilman also served.

Comrade Dunbar's wife died some years ago, but he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Frank J. Elkins.

During his younger days in Quincy he was a member of the old Tiger engine company.

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bullock Receive at Wollaston

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Bullock observed the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage Wednesday evening at their home on Willow street, Wollaston. Mr. and Mrs. Bullock were assisted in receiving by their four children, William E., Arthur W., Edward C. and Miss Gertrude E. Bullock.

The house was prettily decorated with chrysanthemums roses and potted plants. During the evening there was a fine musical program which included selections by Mr. and Mrs. Bullock, both of whom are well known vocalists. Mrs. Foster Clark of Hyde Park and Miss Bullock who is an accomplished pianist.

There were many beautiful gifts. presented to Mr. and Mrs. Bullock in expression of their good will and well wishes. A dainty lunch was served during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bullock were married in Jamaica Plain and resided in Malden for about a year, after which they came to Wollaston where they have since made their home.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

By virtue and in pursuance of the power of sale contained in a mortgage given by Murray Smith of Boston, in the County of Suffolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to Charles H. Lutton of said Boston, dated April 15th 1909 and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Book 1107, page 283, said mortgage having been assigned to the undersigned by an assignment dated August 19, 1914, and to be recorded in Norfolk Deeds, and for the purpose of foreclosing the same for breach of the conditions thereof, the undersigned will sell at public auction at the Squantum Inn, on the mortgaged premises on MONDAY the 21st day of December, 1914, at three o'clock P. M. the premises described in said mortgage namely:—

A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situated in that part of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk in said Commonwealth called Squantum, as shown on a plan made by H. T. Whitman dated April 1898 and recorded with Norfolk Deeds Lib. 814 page 298, bounded and described as follows:—Beginning at the intersection of ground of the City of Boston and a proposed Boulevard formerly known as the road to Squantum House, thence running Southeasterly by said ground of the City of Boston five hundred and thirty-two and 4-10 feet, thence southwesterly by a private way called Standish Road four hundred thirty-six and 44-100 feet, thence northwesterly by a private way called Titus Road six hundred thirty-three and 36-100 feet, and thence northeasterly by said Boulevard three hundred and twenty-nine feet to the point of beginning; containing two hundred and fourteen thousand five hundred and forty-six square feet more or less; subject to the right to construct and maintain a sewer given to the City of Quincy by an instrument dated July 12th, 1897, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, libro 793, page 81, and to the restrictions, contained in deed given by Lillie B. Titus to John McKnight dated September 14th, 1897, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, libro 796, page 361. The premises will be sold subject to unpaid taxes, assessments or municipal liens if any there be, and to a taking by Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board on or about March 26, 1901, recorded with Norfolk Deeds Book 892, page 507, believed to be substantially indentical with that given to the City of Quincy as above mentioned.

Terms, $1.000 in cash at the time and place of sale, balance on delivery of deed within ten days.

The Name Of PRESCOTT

was well down in the list of candidates at the City Primaries, but 1923 voters found it.

On the Election Day Ballot next Tuesday it is also next to the bottom, but Frank F. Prescott is the only candidate at large on the Republican Ticket from Ward One for the City Council, and will make a good Councilman.

The Republican candidates are printed in BOLD TYPE in the official list below:

FEGAN AT THREE RALLIES

Speaks in Ward Three and Also Ward Two

One of the arguments advanced by Edward J. Fegan, candidate for Mayor, at the Democratic rallies Friday night, as to why he should be elected, was that it cannot be expected that the Republicans can relieve in one year conditions for which they are responsible after their 25 years of government in this city. Mr. Fegan met with a good reception from large and enthusiastic crowds.

At Malnati hall other speakers were Hon. Joseph Santosuosso of Boston and Councilman James O'Dowd of West Quincy. At Franklin hall, Representative Michael T. Sullivan, James J. Powers, former councilman John J. Reardon and Edward J. Parker were the speakers; Michael Donahue presided.

Andrew Fahey presided at the Quincy Point Social Club rally where the speakers were the Democratic councilmanic candidates and ex-Councilman Frank J. Duffy.

WAR AND DEMOCRACY.

"The War and Democracy" will be the subject of discussion at a mass meeting to be held at Tremont Temple Boston, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock This is the last of a series of meetings under the auspices of the Massachusetts Peace Society, which was inaugurated in Faneuil hall four weeks ago.

Professor Jay William Hudson of the department of philosophy of the University of Missouri will be the principal speaker. Professor Hudson received his degree of Doctor of Philosophy at Harvard, and has achieved a national reputation through his utterances on public issues and movements, especially through his thoughtful and forceful lectures on international relations. Samuel J. Elder, who was counsel for the United States before the Hague Tribunal in the Fisheries Arbitration of 1910, will preside.

The meeting will be preceded by an organ recital beginning at 2.30.

PIERSON—THORNE.

Sadie Thorne, oldest daughter of patrolman Henry Thorne and Harvey Pierson who conducts a bakery at Houghs Neck were married quietly a week ago and are now making their home at the beach. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. G. Sayre of the Peoples Union Chapel. The marriage did not become known to the Houghs Neck residents for several days.

MRS. MARIA WILLIAMS.

The funeral services for Mrs. Maria Williams, wife of William J. Williams and mother of Fred D. and Miss Grace Williams, held Friday afternoon at the home at 228 Granite street were private. Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of the Bethany Congregational church officiated. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery. The death of Mrs. Williams followed a short illness and came as a shock to many friends.

Mrs. C. T. Kelley of 14 Standish avenue is to entertain the Junior Auxiliary Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock at her home.

MILTON SPORTS.

The Cunningham Gym basket ball team opened its season the night of Thanksgiving when it defeated the U. S. S. Brooklyn team by the score of 42 to 26. The second team also played and was defeated by the Redmen of Quincy by the score of 19 to 18. The game of the second team was a very interesting and hard fought one. At the end of the second half it looked as if a fight was eminent but Coach Eaton averted it. Trask of the Redmen made six baskets. The score was 11 to 9 in favor of the Gym at the end of the first half, but the Redmen gained during the second half and the winning score was procured from a foul. "Bart" Duggan and "Wes" Stuart were the stars for Milton.

The first team game was an excellent one. The home team started the game in fine form. The score at the end of the first half was 30 to 8 in favor of the home team. "Sid" and "Dan" Duggan both played. "Sid" geting ten goals. "Dick" Reid and "Jack" Reid played a very fast game. Stone of the visitors was their best and most efficient player. and he procured about ten baskets. The losers played a better game the second half but were unable to stop the swift attack of the winners.

Some big surprises took place in the bowling match at Cunningham Gym the past week. Team 4 which was tying for first place last week slumped away down to fifth this week. First place is now held by team 6 while teams 9 and 7 tieing by team 6 while standing of the teams is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pinfall
Team 6	10	2	3821
Team 9	9	3	3229
Team 7	9	3	3504
Team 3	7	5	3825
Team 4	6	6	3327
Team 8	5	7	3855
Team 10	5	7	383b
Team 2	4	8	3614
Team 5	4	8	3507
Team 1	1	11	2372

A few of the high single averages are: J. F. Reid, Jobling 95; Jones 94; Duggan, Gordon 91; J. A. Swift, Wood. Bishop, Sim. J. Cummings 90; "Sal" Bshops holds the high three string at 305 and the high single string at 117.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic, all Teething Troubles and Diarrhœa. It regulates the Stomach and Bowels, assimilates the Food, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

QUINCY SQUARE

John B. Smith a local gunner shot a fox in Quincy Thanksgiving morning.

There will be no meeting of the City Council Monday evening. The next meeting will be the Monday following the Municipal election and will save the calling of a special meeting to canvass and declare the vote at the election.

The battleship Michigan which was in Quincy waters for the July Fourth celebration a year ago was reported Friday as being aground on a sand bar just inside of Cape Henry. She was floated late Friday by tugs apparently unharmed. The Michigan was proceeding to the southern drill grounds with other battleships and was stranded during a heavy fog. On leaving Quincy July 5, 1913 she went to Vera Cruz where she remained through the summer.

Every one connected with the First Parish church is interested in the fair to be held in the chapel Wednesday afternoon and evening of next week. There will be every thing usually found at fairs as well as many novelties. A supper, home made candy, and a children's table are among the attractions announced as well as beautiful decorations.

QUINCY SQUANTUM

Mrs. Helen McGowan spent Thanksgiving at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Redmond, Roxbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Morse, Bellevue road had as their guests Thanksgiving day, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson of Boston and Mrs. Florence Morse.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bostwick entertained Perley Bostwick and Seymour Bostwick of Roxbury at Thanksgiving.

Misses Elizabeth and Alice Young of Boston were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew McGrain over the holiday.

The Squantum Improvement association entertained the members of the Montclair Improvement association in Richards Memorial hall at its regular meeting this week. About 20 members of the Montclair association attended. Whist was played and refreshments served. An enjoyable social evening was spent.

Squantum has had a busy week politically. Candidate James E. Wall made a visit to Richards Memorial hall last night and spoke to a good sized crowd. He aroused considerable enthusiasm by his advocacy of street improvement and other suburban improvement. Squantum is one of the leading sufferers in Quincy in regard to street and other local improvements. Other speakers at the rally included Councilman C. E. Carlson and James E. Hagan, two loyal Squantum supporters of Mr. Wall's candidacy. On Wednesday night Edward J. Fegan, the Democratic candidate, spoke in Richards Memorial hall. He was late in arriving owing to a breakdown of his automobile, but the crowd waited patiently for his coming and he was warmly greeted.

QUINCY ATLANTIC

The Atlantic Methodist church regrets the removal of I. C. Thom and family from their midst. They go to Lexington, where Mr. Thom has obtained a much better position.

Substantial improvements will be made on the Atlantic Methodist church by order of the trustees. About $400 will be expended.

The annual Christmas fair of the Ladies Benevolent Society of Memorial church takes place Tuesday and Wednesday with Mrs. B. F. Thomas in charge.

The box social given by the Men's table of the fair, in the Memorial church vestry Monday evening was greatly enjoyed by a large number. Games were played during the first part of the evening, after which Harry W. Read auctioned off the boxes.

Arthur Highley of Lowell, the boy soprano, and Ray Cassidy of Wollaston will sing at the Atlantic Memorial church at the morning service.

QUINCY WEST

A union No-License meeting for Swedish Americans will be held Sunday evening at 7.30 at the Swedish Congregational church. The principal address will be by Rev. C. V. Bowman of Boston, who will be assisted by Rev. A. E. Hillman, Rev. Leander Hokenson Rev. Paul Hallin and Rev. A. G. Sporrong. The sextette of the M. E. church and choir of the Congregational church will lead the musical program.

QUINCY SOUTH

Rev. J. A. Matheson, retiring pastor of the First Presbyterian church preaches his farewell sermon on Sunday evening.

Rev. J. E. Matheson preaches his farewell sermon tomorrow at the Water Street Presbyterian church at 7 P. M. At the morning service at 10.30 children will be baptized.

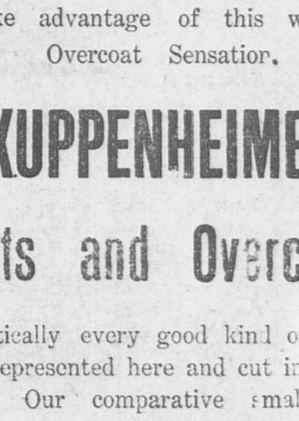

There is to be a meeting of the Junior Auxiliary of Christ church Tuesday afternoon at quarter of four.

RALLIES FOR NO-LICENSE

Rousing Meetings Sunday in Several Wards

Although the seating capacity at the Kincaide theatre is fourteen hundred there were no vacant seats Sunday evening at the rally in the interest of No-License, which was held under the auspices of the No-License League. It was a rousing good meeting full to the brim with enthusiasm and left no doubt but what the citizens are fully aroused to the need of rolling up tomorrow a still larger majority for No-License than a year ago.

Joseph A. Sedgwick, president of the No-License League presided, and on the platform aside from the speakers and officers of the league were Mayor Whiton, all of the candidates seeking the Mayoralty, and many of the candidates seeking the election to the office of Councilmen, President Thomas F. O'Brien of the St. Mary's temperance society and others. Music during the evening was furnished by the Bay State male quartette.

Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott pastor of the Bethany church was the first speaker and in opening he said that he presumed that many believed that the best way to regulate the saloon was by license. Twenty years ago he thought so. That idea however had been smashed. He felt that many men who could not vote for prohibition will vote No, feeling that the saloon was a bad thing for the country. The saloon was a foe to all social, religious and political life.

Another faction may say, see what an income we get from it. But on a business basis where the saloon was there was an increase in our poorhouses, and prisons. He felt that the

Fifth Anniversary Rebuilding of Boston Gear Works

Frank Burgess of the Boston Gear Works entertained his employees at the Wollaston Yacht Club on Saturday evening and awarded efficiency bonuses to foremen who had qualified for that recognition. The affair was in honor of the fifth anniversary of the rebuilding of the plant which was totally destroyed by fire in 1911.

A musical program was given during the evening and there were speeches by Mr. Burgess who said he believed he had the highest class of workmen obtainable and the model shop of the state and J. Spottsford who spoke on industrial education.

Practically every employee attended and participated in the luncheon served and the dancing which continued until midnight.

Mr Burgess is one of the best known of the progressive men of the city. Aside from conducting a model gear cutting shop he is interested in Y. M. C. A. work and industrial education for the employee.

CAN BE NO QUESTION.

Tomorrow the voters of Quincy will go to the polls, and by their votes say who shall administer the duties of the office of Mayor during the year 1915, and who shall represent them in the City Council. Never has there been a year when it was more important that every registered voter of the city should exercise his right of franchise, than this year.

During the campaign just closing, much has been said about the city being on the verge of bankruptcy, and of the unfair valuation that has been placed on many of the estates of the city by this years Board of Assessors. That the city is on the verge of bankruptcy is fiction pure and simple. As for fictitious valuations there can be but little doubt. The Mayor whoever he may be, cannot say what the tax rate shall be or what this or that estate shall be valued at. He can say however who the Assessors shall be, decide these two important questions, and see to it that men thoroughly qualified to place valuations are appointed to the positions.

There are four candidates seeking the election of Mayor. Voters should consider them well. Consider if the man they vote for is the man they would select, should occasion require, to conduct their own private business. If the only qualification a man has is that he is a good politician, do not give him your vote. Consider if the man of your choice is one who will fill the offices at his disposal with competent men, or will make berths for men whose main qualification is that they are good political healers.

It can be truly said that but once in the history of Quincy as a city has there been a breath of suspicion that any department official was receiving graft. That year public charge of graft was not made, although there was much talk in the city about it. Proof was lacking, but the following year the voters thoroughly aroused, saw that a man was elected to the office of Mayor who would and did retire that official to private life.

Personally, we have nothing to say against any of the four gentlemen seeking the election. Considering them, however, in the light which a successful business man would consider a man he intended to place as manager of his own private business, there can be no question but the one man the citizens should elect tomorrow is Chester I. Campbell.

Mr. Campbell has been a successful business man all his life. He has conducted the enterprises with which he has been connected in a business way, and it is fair to presume that if elected as Mayor he will conduct the business of the city along the same lines.

Quincy certainly needs at this time a man of Mr. Campbells calibre to administer the affairs of the city. A man who will be impartial and whose main question in considering men for the department officials, will be, are they competent to administer the affairs of that department in a business manner. If ever the City of Quincy needed a business administration now is the time. Mayor Whiton during the few brief weeks he has been in office has shown what a Mayor with backbone can do. He is the kind of an executive that Quincy wants next year, and we believe that if Mr. Campbell is elected that he will continue the policy that has been inaugurated by Mayor Whiton. The voters of Quincy will make no mistake on Tuesday in voting for Chester I. Campbell.

The Turks may explain what they meant by firing on the United States flag by discharging another shot in the same direction.

Mr. Taft urges lawyers to accept political office, but he failed to cite any instances of lawyers who had refused same.

Mr. Taft says he is having a good time up in an apple tree watching things, but he can't expect to arouse popular enthusiasm until he gets into the plum tree.

Although the president is again to give up the New Year's reception this year, Washington society has not yet moved to have him impeached.

CAMPBELL GETS BACK AT WALL

Charges Him With Being Unfair to Labor

"James E. Wall has been shouting from the housetops that he is the friend of union labor, but gentlemen he is not friend enough of organized labor to have the union stamp on his printing" declared Chester I. Campbell, the Republican candidate for Mayor at a meeting in Union hall Saturday evening. "He has made union labor and the workingman his great cry, but I have here in my hand four circulars issued by the Wall campaign managers and not one of them bear the union stamp. If any person in this hall cares to examine the same and he finds the official mark of the typographical union on them, I will present the charity he names with $100."

This dramatic scene at the climax of the campaign was greeted with prolonged cheering by the crowd that jammed into Union hall and filled it beyond its seating capacity. It was obviously a Campbell crowd for every one of the speakers were greeted enthusiastically. Former Mayor Eugene Stone was the chairman of the meeting. Mayor Whiton, Charles H. Johnson, Henry F. Tilden and A. L. Stinson were the speakers. All declared that it would be a deplorable state of affairs if James E. Wall and his Tammany political cohorts got hold of the reins of government in City Hall.

Mayor Whiton in his speech declared that Wall's campaign manager in Wollaston had for some days been telephoning to the various heads of departments in City Hall, warning them that unless they called on him and declared for James E. Wall that they would be out of a position if Wall was elected.

"Wall isn't going to be elected my friends, for there are too many lovers of good government in Quincy, who at a crisis will go to the polls and snow under this undesirable element.

"Chester I. Campbell is the only man in the field who is qualified to hold this important office. He has the courage and the ability to give Quincy one of the best administrations it ever had. Our city needs a business expert at its head and when the polls close on Tuesday it will be shown that the citizens have made a wise choice, for Chester I. Campbell will be elected by an overwhelming vote."

Charles H. Johnson said in part: "After a campaign which was waged in the spirit of earnest, but good natured rivalry, between Mr. Campbell, Mr. Tilden and myself. I lost the Republican nomination to Mr. Campbell, and so did Mr. Tilden. While I naturally regretted losing the fight, I had the consolation of knowing that I lost it to a man of sterling qualities, a man who may be depended upon not to let the Republican banner trail in the dust. And I am here tonight to show my faith in Mr. Campbell and the Republican cause of good government; for I am one of those men, Mr. Chairman, who believe that the success of the party and the success of good government must be given first place. Had I won the nomination, I should expect Mr. Campbell to come out boldly for me as I am doing for him this evening. It is one of the cardinal principles of the Grand Old Party that we can close up ranks on caucus day and stand by the nominee. And whatever others may do, Mr. Chairman, it can never be said of Charles H. Johnson, that he sulked or retired to his tent when the battle was on."

Mr. Campbell also spoke at a citizens meeting in the Wollaston school hall. It was crowded to the doors, and when he made his appearance the whole audience stood up and cheered. Former Mayor Charles M. Bryant was the chairman. The speakers were Alexander Cowe, Senator Langelier, Frank F. Prescott, Councilmen Beeman, Gillatt, Craig, Bailey, and Richards, H. A. Stevens, A. P. McDonald, Rodney Gallagher and Mayor Whiton.

The meeting was closed with a stirring speech by Candidate Campbell, who urged the voters to consider that what was most needed in Quincy was good government along business lines. He refuted the attacks that were made by Candidate Wall and his lieutenant, and roundly scored him for not having a union stamp upon his literature.

At the close of the meeting former Mayor Bryant opened a small package that had been sent to the platform. In opening it he declared that it might contain a bomb but he guessed he would take a chance. It was a tiny whisk broom in a leather case, a gift from Mrs. Louie P. Bird, of 222 Arlington street, Wollaston, to Candidate Campbell. An accompanying card read "For the hat of Quincy's next Mayor, Chester I. Campbell. Put this in your vest pocket, to be sure it has a clean sweep such as we believe you will have in the coming contest."

MRS. SPEAR IS NINETY-TWO

Quincy's Grand Old Lady Younger Than Many

It was not generally known that Mrs. Caroline A. Spear of 166 Washington street was passing another milestone on Saturday, but nevertheless many relatives and friends called to extend congratulations, and others will avail themselves of the opportunity during this week. The home was fragrant on Saturday with numerous floral offerings, and greetings were received from friends at a distance as well as nearby, including Maine, Connecticut and California.

Few at 70 enjoy as good health as our estimable friend, who recalls incidents of Quincy that happened between 1830 and 1860 as well as during the Civil war and since. Many, many years ago she resided in the Adams house on Franklin street where President John Adams was born. Then the Adams farm, or Spear farm, included all the land in the rear of the house as far as the railroad, and most of that in the vicinity of Independence avenue. She almost inherited from her surroundings the Adams spirit, a patriotism and independence which have made her noble and charitable.

For years she was prominent in the Quincy Charitable Society and other good work for the town and city. Years ago she was an active worker in the First Universalist church, which was organized in 1831 when she was but nine years of age. In recent years she has been connected with the First Parish church and is today a very regular attendant. On Thanksgiving day she greatly enjoyed the union services held in the old historic church. She recalls the old wooden church which stood on the site of this church which was razed when she was but six years old, the Stone Temple being erected in 1828.

Mrs. Spear has been greatly interested lately in the metings of the Alliance, also in the W. C. T. U. and everything for the good of dear old Quincy, which at her birth had a population of less than 2,000. Mrs Spear is one of the active members of Unity circle of King's Daughters and no one is more loyal.

The first issue of the Quincy Patriot established when she was 15 years of age found its way into the home of her parents, and has been a welcome visitor to her every week since, but she is up-to-date and watches anxiously every afternoon for the arrival of the Daily Ledger, and numbers the editor among her friends.

Mrs. Spear and her daughter, Mrs. John W. Sanborn, make their home at 166 Washington street, next to the Universalist church, and are very pleasantly located. It is always a pleasure to Mrs. Spear to have friends call, and she is able to return many.

THOMAS F. JOYCE.

The funeral of Thomas F. Joyce, a well known musician of this city held from his home at 335 Copeland street Sunday afternoon was the largest ever held in Quincy, outnumbering by far several large funerals recently in West Quincy.

Six cousins, William Joyce of California avenue, William Joyce of Hall Place, John F. Joyce, James Falvey and James and George McDonnell, were the bearers.

Services were held in St. Mary's church by Fr. Thomas R. McCoy, pastor, who this morning celebrated a solemn high mass for the repose of the soul.

There were many floral remembrances including pieces from the Only Club of Milford, Mass., Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus and St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. Society. Burial was in St Mary's cemetery.

LIBRARY VISITORS.

There were 62 visitors at the Thomas Crane Public Library Sunday afternoon of whom 43 were readers, or exactly the same proportion as on the previous Sunday. A group of eight young men wandered in, apparently not familiar with the library. They soon settled down to reading the Scientific American.

POPULAR COUNCILMEN

The Candidates Who Have Received Largest Votes

Ex-Mayor Charles M. Bryant holds the record as the biggest vote getter when a candidate for the City Council; in fact he is the only candidate who ever received more than 3,000 votes. He also holds second place with 2,901. In both those years there were only six candidates for Councilman at large.

In the last 21 years, only 13 men have taken the honors of first place, as Lewis Bass and William E. Badger led three successive years, and Charles M. Bryant five times.

Previous to 1898, none of the leaders received 2,000 votes, and only in 1908 was it necessary to get over 2,000 to win.

In 1912 a candidate won with 1761 votes; in 1907 with 1788; in 1902 with 1764; in 1900 with 1721; in 1899 with 1656, and in 1893 with 1481.

Last year one of the present Council was elected by 1926. In the recent city primaries two of the nominees received over 1900, and promise to make a record next Tuesday.

With four exceptions it will be seen that men whose name began with "A" or "B" won first place, so it will be seen that the top of the list counts. There were exceptions in the cases of Jonas Shackley, Elisha Packard Arthur W. Newcomb and Leonard J. Ferguson.

Here is the vote for 21 years, year by year. The name of the candidate receiving the largest vote is printed and in the "A" column his vote. In the "B" column is the vote of the lowest winner of the five, and in the "C" column the vote of the highest loser for Councilman at large:

POTTED PLANTS.

Washington, D. C.—Many lovers of flowers who have not the time to bother with an indoor window-box enjoy keeping a number of potted plants in the living room during the winter. Some, in fact, have turned a bay window into a small conservatory or winter garden merely by an attractive arrangement of plants in separate pots. When a window-box is filled, the plants must be of the same general character to be successful, but if one's winter garden is made up of plants in separate pots a greater variety may be kept, as each plant may receive different treatment in the matter of light, watering, soil, etc. and palms, rubber plants, and cacti which call for special handling, may be added.

Those who do not have gardens would do better to get potting soil of the nearest florist for their potted plants. Good potting soil may be prepared at home but it usually takes considerable care and forethought. Those willing to take the trouble may prepare it by using one part compost, one part good loam and one part sand. The compost should be cow manure and good turf rotted together for a year and turned two or three times in the interim. Well decomposed leaf mould would answer as a partial substitute for the compost. One-twentieth part bone meal is a good addition to the mixture. If the loam is very heavy, containing much clay, its proportion should be somewhat diminished. If the loam is light and sandy, reduce the amount of sand, or in some localities omit it altogether.

Potted plants should be examined occasionally to see whether or not the plant requires repotting. This is done by holding the hands over the top of the pot, inverting plant and all, tapping the edge of the pot so as to loosen it, then lifting the pot off. This cannot be done unless the soil is moderately moist. If the ball of earth is completely covered with roots the plant should be put in a slightly larger pot with new potting soil "firmed" about the old ball of earth by "firming" with the fingers. Then wet thoroughly.

Geraniums.—If geraniums are potted so that the root growth is restricted, and if they are kept fairly dry, they may be forced to bloom during the winter. Geraniums are attractive in the ordinary window-box because of their foliage alone. They should not be placed in a window-box with the expectation that they will bear flowers.

Ferns.—Ferns as they come from the florists prepared for indoor culture should be placed in a strong light, though they grow well without sunlight. They should be watered sparingly but should be kept moist at all times. Improper watering, especially keeping the plant soaked or permitting it to get dry, is the foundation of most fern difficulties. It is especially difficult not to overwater when the fern is in a jardiniere, where drainage is necessarily poor. In spring and summer they will require three times the water necessary in fall and winter.

It is well occasionally to put them in the bath tub nd give them a bath with weak soap suds made from a good grade of soap. The soap must be thoroughly rinsed off immediately. Great care must be exercised not to injure the fronds as they are very tender. Mealy bug is one of the worst enemies in house culture. This is a white wooly insect that works close to the bottom of the fronds. If found, the plant should be examined every day and all insects removed by a splint or tooth pick. If the pest is very bad, cut off all the top of the fern within an inch of the ground, treat thoroughly each day till all insects are exterminated when a new top can be grown.

Red spider is a minute sucking insect that thrives in a dry atmosphere. It can be kept in check by spraying the top with clear water. In living rooms this is frequently impracticable The next best thing is repeated baths. The aphis or green fly is also eradicated by washing.

Ferns should be fed once in two or four weeks in the place of ordinary watering with dilute nitrate of soda, (a heaping teaspoonful to a quart of water) ammonia water (a teaspoonful of ammonia to a quart) or manure leachings. Prepared plant food or a little sprinkling of ground bone and wood ashes also gives satisfaction.

Among Our Churches

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Rev. James A. Matheson, beloved pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who goes to Allentown, Penn., preached his farewell sermon at the church on Sunday evening. The edifice was thronged and extra seats had to be provided.

Rev. Mr. Matheson chose for the topic of his sermon the first three words inscribed on the loving cup presented to him, a week ago by the younger members of the congregation "Love never faileth." The sermon was by far the most eloquent ever delivered by him and contained many kindly references to the pleasantness of his pastorate.

In closing he spoke of the fine work of the congregation and of the unusual loyalty of its younger members. After the service he was tendered a personal farewell at a reception. Music was by the regular choir and a duet rendered by Mrs. Warren Bates and Everett Clark.

The last Sunday of Rev. Mr. Matheson was a busy one. In the morning he baptised Marion Gertrude Rennie, Edward William Tinney, Charles Everett Clark, John David, Morris, David Blanding McIntosh, Phyllis Margaret Mitchell, Dorothy Elizabeth Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rennie and Mary J. Gould were united to membership.

Rev. Mr. Matheson expects to leave Wednesday of this week for his new pastorate.

During his pastorate there has been a substantial increase in membership, the church has been enlarged and freed from debt. Mr. Matheson carries the well wishes of a great many residents of the city to his new field.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

"Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors" was the text of the morning sermon preached by Rev. B. A. Willmott, the pastor. The New Testament, he said, speaks of sin as debt. To sin puts us in debt to God. It is maintained by some that the consciousness of sin is waning; that the pulpit no longer preaches against it, and that novelists and dramatists are the only ones who deal with it. If this allegation is true it shows we are living on the surface of things.

The most of us make no difficulty in acknowledging ourselves as sinners and in need of forgiveness. It is easy enough to say, "Forgive us our debts." It is the latter part of the petition,—"As we forgive our debtors," which human nature finds hard.

Christ put emphasis on this in precept and parable as if he considered it of prime importance. First, because he came to save us from hate which makes man a beast. It is not the hated that is hurt most, but the hater himself, whose whole outlook of life is embittered thereby. We cannot afford to have our lives thus cursed. Forgiveness is divine but hate is Satanic. Hate should be flooded out of our lives with something greater. Christ is a great forgiver, and it is only through his forgiveness that we can hope to enter the kingdom of Heaven. He solemnly enjoins upon us what he practised himself. When he says, If ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Heavenly Father forgive you. It is no arbitrary dictum; it is impossible for the Kingdom of Heaven to enter a heart that cherishes hate.

Forgiveness hinges upon a condition. Ye have sinned against one another. He tells us. Forgive them and I will forgive you

The several departments of Bethany Bible School were well attended, and much interest shown in the study of the Lessons of the day. A new system of records for the Cradle Roll department was also started to note those who attend the regular sessions of the school.

The Bethany C. E. met at 6. The topic was "Missions" and John Willmott, the missionary chairman, was the leader.

HALL PLACE M. E.

"And the Lord said unto him, what is that in thine hand? And he said a rod"—Ex. 4:2. Rev. P. S. Neldon used this text as the basis of his sermon Sunday morning at the Hall Place M. E. church in speaking of the great privilege, man has of voting and he urged every man to go to the polls on Tuesday and vote conscientiously, and especially to vote so that right and the forces of righteousness might prevail.

The time of commencing Sunday School has been changed to 11.45 and Sunday School will meet hereafter at that time.

Leslie McCormick led the Epworth League devotional service on the subject "Builders of Methodism—Bishop Taylor." The league service closed early in order to allow those who so desired to attend the "No-License rally" at Kincaide's Theatre. There was no evening service.

On Monday evening the "Queen Esther Circle" will attend the rally of the Woman's Home Missionary Society to be held in the Temple Street church. Boston. Supper will be served at 6.30. Dean L. J. Berney will be one of the speakers.

A meeting of the Ladies' Aid society will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the vestry.

Prayer meeting Thursday evening at 7.30.

Teacher training class and the Bible Study class will meet at the parsonage Friday evening at 7.30 and 8.15 as usual.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

There was a large audience that attended the Sunday morning service. The pastor, Rev. Joseph Walther took for his subject, "The unchanging Christ." Hebrews 13-8. The sermon was a very impressive one. Some of the thoughts expressed are, that Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever. There are mighty changes going on upon the earth; communities change, churches change, conditions under which we live change our feelings and options change. These bodies of ours change; civilization changes. But thank God there is one who never changes, Jesus Christ. He is unchanging in His personal presence with His people, He promises He will never leave nor forsake those who turn unto Him.

He is unchanging in His attitude toward sin. He hated sin in the olden time, but He hates it as much today. In as far as we are like Him, we also will hate sin. Romans 12:9. "Abhor that which is evil, cleave to that which is good." He is unchanging in His love for the sinner. Christ loves the sinner, but hates his sin. He is unchanging in His determination to win the world and also in using the church in making known His riches of grace. Christ is the same in His terms of discipleship. What are they? If any man will come after me let him deny himself and take up his cross daily and follow me.

Jesus Christ is the same in His provision of grace for human sorrow, sickness and need. Then what courage and hope we ought to possess, what life and power we ought to enjoy and manifest. How constant and steadfast we should be in His love and service.

The Sunday School followed the morning service with over 330 present.

The Junior Endeavor meeting was in charge of Mrs. Joseph Walther; subject, "The most helpful poem I know."

The Y. P. S. C. E. meeting was in charge of William E. Bullock, subject, "Missionary heroes and heroines."

Tuesday evening at 7.45, a cottage prayer meeting will be held at the home of William P. Arthur, 137 Hollis avenue.

Wednesday, beginning at 10.00 A. M. an all day sewing meeting will be held in the chapel.

Wednesday at 3.00, the regular monthly business meeting of the Social and Benevolent Society will be held in the chapel.

Thursday evening, at 7.45, the monthly covenant meeting of the church will be held in the chapel; every member of the church is urged to attend the covenant meetings.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

This church accepts the religion of Jesus, holding, in accordance with his teachings, that practical religion is summed up in love to God and love to man.

At the Sunday morning service the congregation greatly enjoyed the solo "Ave Maria" by Santley, which was feelingly rendered by Mrs. L. J. Child the contralto of Boston, and the beautiful duet "The Lord is my Shepherd" by Mrs. Frank A. Page and Mrs. Child.

"Who is my Neighbor?" was the text and the theme of Rev. Mr. Horst's sermon which was both instructive and helpful. "Jesus did not answer the lawyer's question 'who is my neighbor'?, but showed him in a beautiful story what it was to be a neighbor. Love is the keynote of the religion of Jesus. 'We only live, says Fichte, 'when we love.' The soldiers on the battlefield were the neighbors of Florence Nightingale; the insane the neighbors of Dorothea L. Dix; the prisoners the neighbors of John Howard; the lepers on the island of Molokai the neighbors of Father Damien. Doing nothing for others is the undoing of ourselves. Love, like charity, "is twice blessed; it blesses him that gives and him that takes." We always do ourselves good, doing something for others. As we have opportunity, then, let us do good. He that loveth his neighbor hath fulfilled the law. For all the commandments are summed up in this word, namely, 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. Love worketh no ill to his neighbor: love, therefore, is the fulfilment of the law. If ye know these things, blessed are ye if ye do them."

Unitarian activities is to be the subject of the Ladies' Aid Alliance at their meeting in the vestry Wednesday, at 2.30 o'clock. Mrs. Chandler W. Smith is in charge of the program and many of the Alliance members will take part.

Now that the Sachem Club has given up building a clubhouse, we trust that our friends will transfer the subscription intended for the clubhouse, that was to be, to our parish house, which now is in process of erection.

Sunday, Dec. 20, will be observed as Christmas Sunday in the Wollaston Unitarian church with a joint service of Sunday School and church.

The annual Christmas party of the Sunday School will be held in the vestry Wednesday evening, Dec. 23.

The Rev. William H. Parker, minister of the First Parish in Dedham, will exchange pulpits with the Rev. Carl G. Horst next Sunday morning, Dec. 6.

The Rev. Thomas Van Ness has accepted a call to be the minister of the Second Unitarian Society of Brookline and will be installed next Sunday evening, Dec. 6, at 7.45 o'clock. The services will be held in Sears Chapel, Longwood.

The beautiful azalia on the communion table Sunday was in memory of Mrs. Frances Dalrymple from Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop.

The Y. P. R. U. meeting Sunday evening, Dec. 6, at 7 o'clock will be led by Miss Margaret Magee.

ATLANTIC METHODIST.

At the Atlantic Methodist church, the pastor took for his theme—"Being hid in Christ." Text Exodus 33: 22. "I will put thee in the clift of the rock and cover thee with my hand. The preacher said in the text—we see God's promise of divine protection. God's providences are His promises fulfilled. The touch of His fingers to the strings of the World's Harp. It is the church in the nations of the earth that is to Him as the apple of His eye."

FIRST SPIRITUALIST.

The meeting at 7 P. M. opened with song service. Bible reading and prayer. Mrs. Lottie Brooks spoke on temperance and gave a vivid illustration of the evils attendant to the use of liquor, requesting every one present to help carry Quincy for No. She also spoke on the pronounced truths presented in many ways of the spirit life and guidance. S. V. Odiorne gave many good messages which were well received and acknowledged. J. J. Black gave a brief temperance talk asking all who had a vote to keep the city free from liquor and its attendant evils. It being a good clean city now, be sure to keep it so. Meetings at S. V. Odiorne's home, 8 Mechanic street will be held Tuesday at 3 and 8 P. M.

PARK AND DOWNS.

At the Sunday morning service, the pastor Rev.. Wm. B. Ayers announced that the Park and Downs church had provided sixteen Thanksgiving baskets. He expressed his appreciation of the ready and generous response of the people to this cause.

The morning sermon was a plea for a No-License vote at the municipal election. The text was taken from the 18th chapter of Matthew:—"Woe unto him who causes one of these little ones to offend,"—He said he was neutral in local politics, but that when any man entered this community with the proposal to establish the saloon his neutrality was straightway violated. He said that the saloon was an offense against every boy and girly, and every form of human life within the Community. He said that the city absolutely had no right whatsoever to sanction any form of evil. and that if the people were to endorse and license wrong with one hand they had no right to try to suppress it with the other. Jails are ridiculous where Saloons are permitted. When we open the door to a man to poison his good sense and his conscience we have no right to punish him for the mistakes he makes after his brain and his blood have become poisoned. Nor have we a right to say that the saloon shall not exist in our end of the town and force it upon the man in West Quincy or Quincy Point. His rights are our rights.

The evening sermon was the twelfth in the series; "Great religious lessons from the war." The subject was: "What neutrality means to Belgium."

CLASS INITIATION.

The Foresters of America are making preparations for a class initiation to be held at Hibernian hall, Franklin street on Sunday, January 17, 1915.

Membership committees from the three Quincy courts are looking up eligible candidates.

The degree work will be performed by degree staff of Court John Adams

Much interest is being taken in the formation of a conclave of Knights of Sherwood Forest in Quincy. This organization is the Foresters' uniformed rank.

About fifty Quincy Foresters met in Court John Ericsson hall. School street, on Sunday at which time the final plans for formation of conclave were discussed. Members of Supreme Conclave were present.

Rev. Carl G. Horst officiated this afternoon in Ashland at the funeral of the Rev. Andrew Jackson Abbott a well known Unitarian clergyman.

RELEASES ON WINTHROP ST.

Mrs. Baker Succeeds in Getting all but One to Sign

To Mrs. Cushing Baker of Rock Island, one of those vitally interested in having the street to that section, known as Winthrop street built, who was delegated to get abutters to sign releases that the city might go ahead and build the bridge over the brook has not been idle and up to Saturday afternoon had been successful in obtaining signatures to the release from all except Mr. Cavanagh. She however was unable to find this gentleman at home although she made several calls for that purpose.

Saturday night however she camped on his trail and determined to see him if it took all night. Knowing that he was likely to be in attendance at some of the Wall rallies she followed them up and at last succeeded in reaching him. She put the paper up to him but was unsuccessful in getting his signature at that time. Mr. Cavanagh however promised to see her and talk the matter over Sunday morning at his home and at 10 o'clock Saturday night when Mrs. Baker left City Square for her home at Rock Island she said that she would be on hand at the appointed hour.

Mr. Cavanagh did not sign the release Sunday but promised Mrs. Baker that he would do so tonight.

SEVENTEEN WILL BE GIVEN Q'S

Those who will be given first team Q's are Captain Larkin, F. Rasmussen, Arthur DiSenso, R. Reynolds, G. Arthur, Ivah Anderson, R. Foy, E. Simmons, D Brundage, J. Reardon, H. Bogan, R. Sanborn G. Hamlin, L. Crosscup, J. Jepson, W. Browne and Manager T. Barstow.

The second team letters will go to W. Crocker who was prevented from playing a full season on account of an injured knee, H. Nixon, H. Atkins and G. McDonald.

DOMESTIC WAS DISHONEST

Jewels Stolen from Home of Col. Kincaide Recovered

The mystery surrounding the theft of jewels valued at $1250 from the home of Col. Henry L. Kincaide several months ago was partially cleared up this morning when Viola Cornell, as she was known during her employment as governess at the Kincaide home, pleaded guilty in the District Court to a charge of larceny. She was sentenced to a term at Sherburne but entered an appeal. Bail was set at $500.

The theft, second only to the Stetson burglary of two summers ago was not discovered until several days after the disappearance of the girl. The matter was taken up with several detective agencies and the goods were recovered here and there, but all efforts to locate the girl were balked until Saturday when she was arrested in Boston.

When she came to work in Quincy she gave her name as Viola Cornell, when booked at police headquarters she said her name was Elizabeth O'Connell and this morning she said her correct name was Collins.

She was attractively dressed when arraigned and gave no indications that she was aware of the gravity of the charge on which she was held. Neither did she lose her self possession when she entered her appeal.

The complainant in the case is Grace W. Kincaide, wife of Col. Kincaide, and she with her husband were in court as witnesses.

The girl was employed at the Kincaide home as the result of an advertisement which they published and practically little was known of her antecedents. It was noted that her hair was cut short.

After her disappearance people were located it is said who had seen her in cafes wearing the Kincaide jewels during late night revels. Clues were secured and the jewels recovered but the girl had vanished. She was located Saturday and promptly arrested.

IS IN CLASS BY HIMSELF

Larkin Chosen Right End in Interscholastic Team

Captain Paul Larkin of the Quincy High school football team has been chosen right end of the interscholastic team and the student body at the school are this morning jubilant over his selection. Captain Larkin, the past two years has been the ideal football player of the city and through his punch the squad this season buckled down to work, and directed by Coaches Mansur and French, a tip-top team was fashioned out of what at the beginning of the season appeared to be but fair material at the best.

Larkin was first mentioned as the interscholastic end in mid season when his opponents got to talking about him to their coaches. Football Boston watched him and agreed that his choice all depended on his showing in the annual Waltham-Quincy game.

When that was cancelled of course he lost his opportunity, so everyone thought, but the sporting writers of the metropolitan papers had followed the progress too closely all season to overlook him in the last analysis.

Bert Woodlock of the Boston Globe states; "Paul Larkin has football sense, showing ability as an offensive and defensive player. Besides Harris and Pryson of Newton, Blakeslee of Cambridge Latin and Ernest Metivier and Creelman of Rindge, few ends can compare with him in the handling of the forward pass."

The Boston Post, through Eddie O'Brien states: "The choice of ends this year was comparatively simple, for two men stood out over all others. They were E. Leslie Hansen of Everett High and Paul Larkin of Quincy. They are both men of the aggressive type. It is generally accepted in football that you want a husky at end because of the style of play that is in vogue. However, both these ends have driven that proportion to earth as far as they are concerned, for they are in a class by themselves."

The Boston Herald, through George Carens, states: "This year there are a number of good players for a particular position, and in some instances the margin of merit is slight. It is not so, however, with the end players on the first team, as the work of Leslie Hansen of Everett and Paul Larkin of Quincy stands out far in advance of any other end players. Backs know the feeling circling either of these players ends, and their strength in receiving forward passes. They are a fast pair and cover punts well. Larkin could be easily shifted to the backfield and make good, as he is a dangerous man carrying the ball, as he has proved on his ends round plays. Hansen is a hard tackler and usually leaves an impression when he attacks an opponent.

The Boston Journal, through Stuart Rogers, states. "Now to pick the other man. Hansen is one end, Paul Larkin is the other. No boy in local football circles can handle a ball better in the air than Larkin and on end round plays he is the best in the game. His tackling is fierce and his playing earnest at all times."

The Boston American published its choice over a week ago and in it Larkin appeared at end.

RALLYING TO MAYOR WHITON

Rumors of Underhand Methods to Work His Defeat

If rumors are to be believed, the same underhand methods that were used the day before the city primaries to defeat Mayor Joseph L. Whiton, for the nomination as Councilman from Ward One, are being used today in an effort to defeat him at the polls on Tuesday. One admires any man who comes out boldly for or against any candidate, but has nothing but contempt for one who goes about in the dark, evidently ashamed of his work and doing it solely from personal spite.

Such methods do not usually meet with much support and will probably not in this case. It is well however that the voters of Ward One should be informed of what is going on for being forewarned is being forearmed The effort made to defeat Mayor Whiton at the city primaries met with a crushing defeat as it will tomorrow, for the voters of Ward One will rally to his support, and give him such a vote as will leave no doubt in his mind that his long service as a member of the City Council, as well as his service during the past few weeks in the office of Mayor are appreciated.

JOSEPH L. WHITON.

Much has been said of late of the necessity of having a strong man as Mayor, but there is much more need of having a strong City Council. It is the City Council that makes the appropriations, and not the Mayor. If the City Council does not make any appropriations then for the city departments will have none to expend. The City Council needs more such men as Councilman Whiton. Men with the backbone and courage to say just what they think, and vote as they honestly think is best for the city at large.

Councilman Whiton has been a member of the City Council for many years taking it all in all, first as a representative from Ward Two, then as a Councilman-at-large and lastly as a Councilman from Ward One. During the past two years he has been the president of the Council, and while the business of the council has not lagged, every matter of importance has received honest consideration. It has often happened that President Whiton has not agreed with many on different matters and on such occasions he has not hesitated to leave the chair and taking the floor express his views in a forcible manner.

However the voters of Ward One, irrespective of party affiliation are urged to rally to the support of Mayor Whiton tomorrow and show him by an overwhelming vote that his efforts in the past are appreciated.

Y. M. C. A. WIN.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball teams had an easy time in defeating the Braintree A. A. teams on Saturday night. The first team score was 49 to 17, while the second team romped away with their game by the tune of 60 to 23. For the first team, Trask was high scorer man getting 9 goals from the floor, several of them being from the middle of the floor. Rich and Eddie Brown played the forward positions in the first half, Rich getting five goals; Brown had hard luck for several of his shots rolled around the edge of the basket and then rolled off. Kemp and Jimmy Jenkins went in the last half and each showed good form Jenkins got 4 goals while Kemp made 3. Mel Chapman held Billy Manning to one backet and also scored one himself, while Kenn had a hard time with O'Rourke who got five from the floor. O'Rourke and Hanson did most of the scoring for their team. Manning also did some fine dribbling and passing.

WALL TOURS ALL WARDS

Big Auto Parade and Rally at West Quincy

James E. Wall and his "Royal Rooters" turned out in force Saturday night and showed their enthusiasm with a monster automobile parade. All the machines were furnished by friends of Mr. Wall. The cars were decorated with flags and bunting, some with huge signs inscribed "Be with a winner; Vote for James E. Wall Placards and transparencies galore were carried in all the cars. Some were inscribed "Atlantic is for Wall," "West Quincy is for Wall," "A part of Wollaston is for Wall. "Driscoll vs Stinson," and many others.

Tremendous enthusiasm greeted Mr. Wall and the Royal Rooters in all parts of the city. Houses were illuminated, flags displayed, red fire was burned, and in many parts house parties were held and crowds lined the streets to cheer as he passed.

The parade was headed by the Wollaston Brass Band, and moved over all the principal streets of the city. A second division of the parade was headed by the Quincy Fife and Drum Corps, and a third by "Billy" McDevitt surrounded by the Atlantic Royal Rooters, who furnished vocal selections, a decided innovation in political campaigns.

Open air rallies were held in City Square, where the attitude of Chester I. Campbell towards organized labor was scored to the limit by the labor leaders.

The finish of the parade was at St. Mary's hall in West Quincy, where a crowded house greeted the speakers of the evening. John Mahoney presided and introduced as the first speaker a member of the Painters' and Decorators' Union who stated that he did not come out to speak for money or any other recompense, but simply to represent his organization. He charged Mr. Campbell with being unfriendly with organized labor and cited many instances to prove his statements.

The next speaker was a delegate from the Electrical Workers' Union of Boston. He said that he had never seen Mr. Wall before that evening, and might never see him again, but he knew his record with organized labor to be one of the best, and that all his dealings with labor had been fair. He could not say the same for Mr. Campbell. He denounced him in no uncertain terms, relating many experiences he had with Mr. Campbell in the past.

Daniel Driscoll confined his remarks to an editorial in Wednesday's Ledger. He asked, if Mr. Campbell were elected, which of his Wollaston friends would he remove. Would he remove Commissioner Brown, Superintendent of Water Works Whitman, City Solicitor Pinkham, or, in fact, any of the present Wollaston officials. In conclusion he paid his respects to Mr. Stinson, one of Mr. Campbell's spellbinders.

Other speakers dwelt upon the tax values, sales of property for taxes, and conditions in general. Particular stress was laid on the order that all taxes must be paid by December first or the property would be advertised for sale, when there was no need for such proceeding.

Mr. Wall was greeted with cheers that fairly shook the building when called upon to speak. Every person in the hall rose to his feet and the enthusiasm was at fever heat. Mr. Wall shot his remarks right from the shoulder and stated his platform so clearly that there was no room for doubt. He said that he was very much opposed to sales of homes for unpaid taxes. The city can borrow money for less than four per cent., while the home owner was charged six per cent on his unpaid taxes, so that there is no chance for the city to lose money through failure to collect taxes promptly. He promised that, if elected, no homes would be sold until every possible means had failed. He believed that workmen, especially, should be given a chance to work for the city and earn the money to pay their taxes. Mr. Wall also promised equal expenditures in all the wards for improvements, and called particular attention to the deplorable condition of many of the principal streets in some wards. At the close of Mr. Wall's remarks he was again greeted with rounds of applause.

Tonight Mr. Wall will hold open air rallies in all parts of the city, including Quincy Square, Quincy Point, Doble's Corner, Brewers Corner, West Quincy Depot, Wollaston and Atlantic.

RALLIES FOR NO-LICENSE

men of America were competent to place the question on a higher plane. What do I care for the income if my brother has to be cursed? No matter how low a man may fall he is somebody's son. If it is a man or boy against the saloon there is no place except on the side of No.

He appealed to the young men, who perhaps were voting on Tuesday for the first time, to look upon the question from a higher standard. There was no question but that the saloon was a curse to our political life. No city so degrades women as that in which there is the licensed saloon No-License makes a better America, and a better city. We can not have a better city while at the root is the blasting influence of the saloon. God save us from the damnable business known as the saloon.

Harry Marr speaking from the workingmen's side of the question said that while not an absolute teetotaler he was against licensing the saloon in our city. He spoke of a city where he had once resided where in a street a mile and a quarter long there were 135 licenses saloons. He also spoke of the debauching scenes in that town and believed that the author of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" must have obtained his material from that town.

We find the saloon not in the residential sections, but in the places where men are employed. We want to keep them out of our city. He believed that it would be money well invested if the city would provide amusement for three months of a year for the men who live in boarding houses and who have no place to go after their days work but to places where there are rum shops. Provide amusement for these men and keep them away from temptation.

Prof. John A. Nichols was the last speaker who said that he was glad to come to Quincy which for thirty years had been against the saloon. He had travelled for twenty years all over the world in the interest of No-License. You are to decide on Tuesday if you will go into partnership with the saloon. You want to consider well, if it is a good business proposition. To consider what benefit is to be derived from such partnership. If it will benefit the homes and the kind of business it does. Consider that it makes millionaires at one end of the chain and paupers at the other end. Men begin at the top and go to the bottom where the saloon is. You who have boys and girls, do you want any business that will pull them down? Such a business ought to die and we should vote to bury it. The saloon has no place in any community where there is childhood. It is impossible to have a saloon and not hurt somebody. It has always been a nuisance, and not a good business proposition.

It is a dangerous destructive force. From the report of the Secretary of state we find that the income from licensed saloons last year was $3,000,000 and from the report of the special commission that the expense was $10,000,000. Wherever you find a dramshop there you will find poverty. It makes it easy to do wrong. In closing he appealed to the young men to vote to keep the city clean from the saloon.

In closing the meeting President Sedgwick presented a few statistics why the City of Quincy should remain in the No-License column and why the No vote on Tuesday should be increased, making an appeal to those who were silent a year ago to go to the polls and vote.

ATLANTIC MEETING.

The citizens No-License rally in Quincy school hall, Atlantic Sunday night had an unusually large number in attendance. The audience had a larger number of voters than have usually attended the No-License meetings.

William F. Cummings acted as chairman and stated the reason for keeping up these annual rallies the Sunday before election. He extended an invitation to those present to join the No-License League of Quincy in order to be a part of the movement that has helped keep the city in the No-License column for over a quarter of a century.

Music was furnished by the Memorial church choir, and a special solo, was sung by Arthur Hiley of Lowell, the boy soprano.

Rev. John F. Cuffe was the first speaker of the evening and told of the improvement and growth he had seen in Atlantic in the last thirty years under No-License. Father Cuffe also spoke of the faithful work of the men of his parish and said that the men of the Catholic church today are temperate as never before and would vote no on the license question.

Rev. T. W. Davison said that Saturday was the close of his six years work in Atlantic and that church life had changed very much in those years. That at first men were in the minority at church, but now the congregations had a large percentage of men. Mr. Davison made the plea for the sake of the boys and the home men ought to vote No License.

Rev. E. E. Pollard of the Atlantic Methodist church related incidents he had seen in Ohio and Kansas, where men had been ruined by drink, and stated that he was right at home in talking no license.

Delcevare King of Quincy gave the principal address of the evening. He gave facts and figures of License and No-License cities in the state in the most convincing way showing the death rate, the arrests, and the general condition of the cities in a period of twenty-five years. He differed from many temperance advocates in that he was entirely frank in regard to the cost of taxation under the license system. Mr. King showed that in the same cities under license and No-License the taxation did not vary, but remained about the same but that much more was spent for schools in the No-License cities.

SWEDISH MEETING.

The Swedish Congregational church was crowded to the limit Sunday evening at the union meeting of the four Swedish churches for No-License, all being much interested in the campaign. The address of Rev. C. V. Bowman of Boston was a strong and encouraging one. The four local pastors took part, also the chorus of the different churches.

WOLLASTON MEETING.

The Wollaston No-License meeting was held at the school hall and was presided over by Charles P. Hutchins. and the speakers were Warren J. Landers, of the Total Abstinence society, and Arthur G. Davis of the Anti-Saloon League. Music during the evening was by the Shuman male quartette.

On the platform aside from the speakers were the local clergy, members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and others. The attendance was very large.

STRAIGHTFORWARD TESTIMONY

Many Quincy Citizens Have Profited By It.

If you have backache, urinary troubles, days of dizziness, headaches or nervousness, strike at the seat of the trouble. These are often the symptons of weak kidneys and there is grave danger in delay. Doan's Kidney Pills are especially prepared for kidney ailments — are endorsed by over 30,000 people. Your neighbors recommend this remedy—have proved its merit in many tests. Quincy readers should take fresh courage in the straightforward testimony of a Quincy citizen.

George R. Williams, supt. city work, 32 Chestnut street, Quincy, says: "In my work I have considerable heavy lifting and I also get on and off a wagon a great deal. My back and kidneys were affected and I suffered from severe pains in my back. I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for two years. They have always fixed me up in good shape. I keep them in the house and am glad to recommend them."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kedney Pills—the same that Mr. Williams had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

BIG PARADE IS SCHEDULED

Campbell Supporters to Wake Up Entire City

This old town will have some life injected tonight. It is the "night before election" and there will be noise and music aplenty, with red fire, fireworks and a parade of automobiles. That is at least the program of the campaign managers of Chester I. Campbell the Republican candidate for Mayor at the polls tomorrow.

The Campbell forces say that their mammoth parade the night before the primaries will be insignificant compared with the one that is due tonight. The plans are more elaborate and Fred Rollins, chairman of the committee, states that almost 150 automobile owners have volunteered to have their cars in line and filled with loyal supporters of Chester I. Campbell.

The parade will organize in City Square at 7 o'clock and will move down Washington street to Quincy Point, to South and West Quincy, and then back to City Square, thence to Wollaston, Norfolk Downs, Atlantic, Montclair, Wollaston and disband in City Square.

There will be no Campbell meetings tonight unless they are impromptu affairs along the line of the parade. The parade with its accompanying noise and red fire will be the big feature of the campaign and will show Campbell strength.

THE MAN YOU WILL EVENTUALLY SEE

— 10 Years in Boston —

EATON WALDO

World Renowned for Marvelous Psychical Predictions, Startling Powers, Displayed by This Weird Psychic Marvel.

DO YOU WISH TO KNOW

How can I have good luck? How can I conquer my rival? How make distant ones think of me?
How can I succeed in business? How can I make anyone love me? How can I settle my quarrel?
How can I make my home happy? How soon will my lover propose? How can I hold my husband's love?
How can I conquer my enemies? How can I get a good position? How can I control my husband?
How can I marry the one I choose? How can I remove bad influences? How can I hold my wife's love?
How soon can I marry? How can I control anyone? How can I hold my wife's love?

What WALDO Does

HE CALLS YOU BY NAME---Without asking one question---Before you utter a word.

Tells you the names of your friends, enemies or rivals---whether your husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. How to gain the love of the one you most desire, even though miles away---how to marry the one of your choice.

Tells all about your business affairs, what to do, when and how to do it for the best results. He gives the names of people, the time and under what circumstances you will meet or deal with them, whether in a business or social way, etc. He tells who is true or false, whom and when you will marry, and if the one you love is true or false. Removes evil influences—reunites separated.

You may consult him on business affairs, expectations under wills, reversionary interests, old estates, sales, investments, lawsuits, moneys, journeys, family troubles, etc. He gives dates, facts, figures; tells you of the living or dead.

YOUR SECRET TROUBLES the cause and remedy. No matter whom you have seen, or what they may have told you, see this gifted man. He can, and will, help you.

Well and favorably known, Prof. Waldo has, during the twenty years of his practice, established a reputation which is accorded to but few in his profession.

DAILY LEDGER IS QUOTED

Election of Campbell and Prescott Advocated

The reading of a Daily Ledger editorial in Clan MacGregor hall Saturday evening before a large number of Scotsmen and Canadians who had assembled to get better acquainted with him was the reply of Chester I. Campbell, the Republican nominee for the Mayoralty, to the references to the public schools contained in the circular letter of James E. Wall.

Another Ledger editorial referring to Mr. Campbell's dealings with workingmen was read by another speaker, who took occasion to say that the editor was a candidate for Councilman at large, and deserved to be supported, not only because he was a fit man for the office, but also because of the stand his paper had taken in this campaign in favor of efficient government. The remark was greeted with applause.

After disposing of Mr. Wall's statements about the schools by reading the editorial above referred to, Mr. Campbell proceeded to nail some of the false satements circulated about him. He said the story that he was building a house with non-union labor was simply false, as he had bought his house ready built, some years ago and wasn't even thinking of building another.

As to the report that he would go to manage the California Exposition in 1915 he said he wasn't going to California for that purpose or any other purpose; he hadn't been asked to go and wouldn't think of such a thing. He would be at Quincy City Hall in 1915 looking after the affairs of the city.

He branded as false the statement that he had trouble with the musicians union, or any other union, and said there were two hundred dollars awaiting the man who could prove the statement. He called attention to the fact that the circulars attacking his labor record did not themselves bear the union label, as showing inconsistency on the part of Mr. Wall. He claimed he was always fair with the man who worked with his hands, and with everybody else, in proof of which he said the lowest priced man he had employed at his fairs was given two dollars a day and three meals for picking up papers off the grounds. Even his office boy was receiving twelve dollars a week.

After brief speeches were made by others present, the meeting was adjourned, as Mr. Campbell had to meet some citizens of Ward Two at the residence of Freeman W. Grant on Washington street. From there the candidate went to the rally at Union Hall.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

Coach "Bill" Eaton of the Cunningham Gym has announced the basketball schedule for this season. The games are all hard ones and will be worth seeing. There are four open dates but these are practically spoken for. On the night of Christmas day a team from Portland, Maine, will play the last game of the season and perhaps one of the best is with the Quincy Y. M. C. A. on March 13. All these games will be played on the home floor. The schedule is as follows:

Nov. 26—U. S. S. Brooklyn, Redmen of Quincy.
Nov. 23—Dorchester A. A.
Nov. 28—Dorchester A. A.
Dec. 12—Winthrop.
Dec. 19—Hudson Students' basket ball team.
Dec. 25—Portland, Maine.
Dec. 26—Braintree A. A.
Jan. 2—Boston Y. M. C. A.
Jan. 9—Sargent Club of New Bedford.
Jan. 16—Needham Young Peoples' Club.
Jan. 23—Naval Training team of Newport.
Jan. 30—Open.
Feb. 6—Open.
Feb. 13—Open.
Feb. 20—Open.
Feb. 22—Springfield Turners' Association.
Feb. 27—Newton Y. M. C. A.
Mar. 6—Knights of King Arthur of Annisquam.
Mar. 13—Quincy Y. M. C. A.

Perhaps Congress will proceed to prepare for war by putting fresh paint and paper on the officers' houses at the army posts.

WITH BAND AND AUTOS

Fegan to Tour the City and Hold Rallies

With red fire, a full band and a flying squadron of automobiles, Edward J. Fegan, the Democratic candidate for Mayor in tomorrow's city election, will wind up his campaign tonight in a blaze of glory. Candidate Fegan and his spell-binders, including Leo P. Noonan and former Senator Joseph J. McDevitt, will make a whirlwind tour of the entire city, in what promises to be one of the most sensational "night before" tours that Quincy has ever seen.

The automobile parade will start from Atlantic shortly after 6 o'clock and the first stop will be made at the Atlantic railroad station, where Mr. Fegan will hold the first of a series of open-air rallies. The Feganites will then proceed through the principal streets of the Atlantic district and into Wollaston by way of Farrington street. An open-air meeting will be held at Wollaston Heights, whence the parade will proceed to the corner of Billings road and Hancock street for another open-air rally. The campaigners will sweep through Norfolk Downs and Wollaston Park, and then dash toward Quincy Square, where an open-air rally will be held in Depot street, in the shadow of City Hall.

From the Square the campaigners will go down Hancock sreet to School to Water and thence to West Quincy, arriving at St. Mary's Hall about 8 o'clock. There an oldtime night-before Democratic rally will be held, which promises to uphold all the old traditions of Ward Four. Councilman O'Dowd will preside and the speakers will include Candidate Fegan, Mr. Noonan, ex-Senator McDevitt, former Councilman John D. Smith and Joseph Barry, Ex-Councilman John Reardon, Edward J. Parker and other well-known Boston and Quincy orators.

Ex-Senator McDevitt has returned from New York for the special purpose of supporting the Democratic candidates in the city contests. He promises to indulge in one of his oldtime stump speeches, which have made him famous throughout this section. He will be ably backed by Mr. Noonan, and Candidate Fegan.

From Ward Four, Mr. Fegan and his parade will head back towards Quincy and will have open-air rallies at Brewers corner, Dobles corner and Granite street. Mr. Fegan will also be the guest of the Pastime club, which is holding a rally in his interest, and will then go to the Point district, where rallies will be held at Waseca and Quincy Point Social clubs, with an open-air rally at Chubbuck and Washington streets.

ADAMS SCHOOL LOT IS MADE SAFE

Commissioner Brown has had a gang of men at work on the Adams school lot and it is now believed that the unsafe condition in which the lot was reported to be has been remedied The Commissioner has had the lot thoroughly rolled down and on top of this he had placed a coat of tarvia, which keeps the surface hard and free from dust. There has been much complaint about the dangerous condition of the school lot and the attention of the Mayor was called to it by the Parents-Teachers association at its meeting last week.

HOT FIGHT IN WARD TWO

The eyes of the city are centered on the result of the Ward Two councilmanic fight where William H. Flynn, candidate on an independent ticket, is putting up one of the liveliest campaigns ever seen in Quincy.

Mr. Flynn through over-confidence and for other reasons failed to secure the nomination at the primaries and when his friends requested he remain in the fight he harkened and filed his papers.

He goes before the voters with a record of accomplishments to his credit as the result of former terms as councilman and seated behind his champion pony "Skibo" he was seen in every section of the ward Sunday making a personal canvass. indications are that he is making his opponent hustle.

WAKEFIELD—LINCOLN.

George H. Wakefield, the optician at the jewelry store of C. F. Pettengill and Grace E. Lincoln, a well known proprietor of millinery stores in Boston and Waltham were married in this city at noon today.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edward Norton, pastor emeritus of the Bethany Congregational church at his home on Greenleaf street. The couple were unattended.

The marriage will be of interest to residents of Waltham where both are well known. Mr. Wakefield has been in this city but a short time. His bride has a large circle of friends here. They will live in Quincy.

REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

QUINCY SQUARE

Although the weather looks rather dubious today, the weather man promises pleasant weather for election day. A pleasant day means a large vote and a full expression on the part of the voters, many of whom will neglect their duty should the day prove stormy.

Trade opportunities in South America is the title of a pamphlet recently issued by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad for free distribution. It is a pamphlet brim full of useful information.

Assistant Court Officer Arthur B. Hultman is laid up with a sprained ankle which will confine him to his home for a few days. He was moving a barrel of coal ashes from the cellar when he turned his ankle.

The staging in front of the entrance to the court house which was erected that the granite might be cleaned has been removed. The cleaning process by J. C. Murray has removed all of the rust stains and the building now presents a fine appearance.

Election of new members and the appointing of a committee to nominate officers for the new year are the two important matters in the call for the meeting of the Board of Trade Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Sarah C. Williams is to hold a whist party in Electa hall, Tuesday afternoon for the benefit of Maple Lodge K and L. of H.

Several members of George L. Gill Rebekah Lodge are to accompany Mrs. Sadie M. Wood, D. D. G. M., to Amana Rebekah Lodge of South Braintree, this evening and witness the work.

Maple Lodge K and L. of H. is to elect officers for the ensuing year and receive application at its regular meeting in Protection hall, Wednesday evening.

Several Council Committees will meet Thursday evening. The Finance Committee, Committee on Ordinances and Committee on Fire Department.

At the meeting of the Boston Federation of Young People's Religious Unions at the First church, Roxbury, Sunday afternoon, Miss Alice Arnold of Coddington street, was awarded a very handsome silver cup which she won for receiving the highest number of points in the girls' field sports at the Y. P. R. U. picnic at Houghtons Pond last June. As Miss Arnold is teaching at Columbia, Missouri, friends took charge of the cup for her.

A number of young people from Quincy and Wollaston attended the semi-annual meeting of the Boston Federation of Young People's Religious Unions at the First Church, West Roxbury Sunday. There was a business meeting at 4 o'clock, after which supper was served through the hospitality of the Unity Club. At the evening service at 7.30 o'clock there was special music and addresses by the Rev. Lyman V. Rutledge and Frederick M. Eliot.

Miss Edna Smith of Ingleside, New Milford, Conn., has been spending a few days with friends in Quincy.

QUINCY POINT

The wedding of Miss Ethel M. Joy daughter of Charles U. Joy to John McArdle is announced for this evening.

The modern family economizes after Thanksgiving, by throwing the turkey leavings away, and thus saving the time of the cook who formerly made them up into hash and soup.

Many charitably disposed persons are giving to the poor by deferring the payment of the grocery bill.

QUINCY WEST

The Thanksgiving offering at the Swedish Congregational church amounted to about $200, showing a healthy interest in the church.

A smoker for candidates was held in West Quincy Saturday evening under the auspices of Div. 22, A. O. H., and was well attended. Councilman James O'Dowd presided. The speakers were David McIntosh, Peter T. Fallon and James E. Wall, of the Wall campaign, Edward J. Parker, John J. McDevitt and Edward J. Fegan of the Fegan campaign, and John D. Smith, candidate for the council from Ward four. Musical numbers were contributed by Peter Quinn, William McDevitt.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

The residence of Senator and Mrs. Langelier was the scene of a happy gathering on Saturday evening when their daughter Miss Muriel celebrated her twelfth anniversary. The feast in the dining room was a prominent feature. The decorations were of pink and green and sunbonnets. Of course there was a birthday cake with twelve candles, and also a pie with prizes for all. Ethel and Annie Thomas served. Little Herbert Brivogel in full dress greeted all at the door. Among those present were Louise Brivogel, Anna Haugh, Doris Bissett, Dora Harrigan, May Kappler, Susanna Sweeny, Phyllis Williams, Dorothea Joyce, Ella Axberg, Olive Holland, Delores Bradshaw, Helen Bigelow and Rachael McTear. Muriel received several presents including one of Tom Lawson's Dreamwold spaniels three months old.

Incidentally it was also the birthday of Senator Langelier, who does not tell us whether he is 30 or 50.

QUINCY SOUTH

Oscar Frisk is building a street off Kendrick avenue toward the Braintree line to develop property. It is nearly an extension of Richie road.

BASKET BALL AT MILTON.

The Cunningham Gym basketball teams played their second game Saturday evening against two teams of the Dorchester A. A. The second teams played first, and the Cunningham Gym second won by the score of 47 to 4. The visitors procured their two baskets in the first half and after that were unable even to get a shot at their opponent's basket. "Bart" Duggan was the hero of the game. He made fourteen baskets in all. In the second half certain members of both teams showed very poor spirit and umpire "Dan" Duggan was forced to put "Bill" Hyslop out of the game. George Keith played the second half and showed he has the "makings of an excellent player. He played like chain lightning and made four baskets. "Luce" Luid also played his first game and made one basket.

The game between the first teams was much more interesting. At the beginning of the game the visitors made two baskets in succession but they made no more until the second half when two were procured. The score at the end of the first half was 22 to 4 in favor of the home team. "Dick" and "Jack" Reid kept up their splendid playing. "Chet" Carder did some very good defensive work and also made two baskets. The final score was 38 to 8 in favor of the Cunningham team.

Quincy Lodge N. E. O. P. entertains its charter members and past wardens association at its regular meeting in Protection hall, Friday evening. President John W. Publicover, will speak.
